Hood's Sarsaparilla is prepared with the greatest skill and care, by pharmacists of education and long experience. Hence it is a medicine worthy of entire confidence. If you suffer from scrofula, salt rheum, or any disease of the blood, dyspepsia, biliousness, sick headache, or kidney and liver complaints, catarrh or rheumatism, do not fail to try

Hood's Sarsaparilla

"I recommend Hood's Sarsaparilla to all my friends as the best blood purifier on earth." WM. GAFF, druggist, Hamilton, O.

"Hood's Sarsaparilla has cured me of scrofulous humor, and done me worlds of good otherwise." C. A. ARNOLD, Arnold, Me.

A book containing many additional statements of cures will be sent to all who desire.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Sold by all druggists. $1; six for $5. Made only by C. I. HOOD & CO., Lowell, Mass.

100 Doses One Dollar.

HYGEIA

FERRATED HYGIENIC WINE

Compound of Columbo, Gentian, Chinchona Augustura, Cascarilla, Cocoa, Iron and Sherry Wine.

PURIFIES THE BLOOD

Of all Poisonous Humor.

INVIGORATING,
STRENGTHENING
The whole body. Prepared by

C. H. & J. PRICE,

226 ESSEX ST.

SALEM.

BURDETT Business COLLEGE

167 TREMONT ST., BOSTON.

Day and Evening Sessions.

Book-keeping, Business Arithmetic, Penmanship, Commercial Law, Business Correspondence, etc.

For complete information call at the College Office, or send for Journal.

y 15—2m

Waumbek Hotel.

JEFFERSON, N. H.,

In full view of Mount Washington, Adams, Jefferson and Lafayette; drainage perfect; pleasant drives; good livery; no mosquitoes, malaria or hay fever; elevation 1550 feet.

For nformation or Circulars inquire at this Office.

WAUMBEK HOTEL CO.

WANTED.

A few boarders on a farm in Sanbornton, N. H., healthy location, splendid view, piaz, a and shade trees, large rooms newly furnished, pleasant drives, horse to let if desired-terms reasonable. Address,
S. B. MILLS,
Gaza, N. H.
Or inquire at this office.

Hay.

2 CARS choice English; 1 car Bedding Hay Arrived to-day.
CHAS. A. ROPES & SON.
41 to 47 Central street.

STATE NORMAL SCHOOL, SALEM, MASS,

Examination for candidates for admission, TUESDAY, September 1. Tuition and textbooks free. Pecuniary aid given to needy pupils. For further information, apply to DANIEL B. HAGAR, Principal.
jy 29

Tub Lard.

JUST received, a lot of choice Lard, in small tubs for family use.
CHAS. A. ROPES & SON.
41 to 47 Central street.

Now is the time to rid the system of humors and all Blood Impurities. Ferrated Hygienic Wine is a most effective remedy. tf

MUSICAL NOTES.

Miss Bessie Hamlin sang at the American Concert given in London in June, and was the first one to be recalled. She and her cousin, Miss Emma Rice, both of whom are studying in London, will return to America in the fall.

Miss Annie L. Orr, soprano at the Universalist church in this town, has issued through Geo. A. Jones & Co's. Musical Bureau a neat circular offering her services as soloist to Committees of Lyceums, etc. We wish Miss Orr success.

The Harvard College Quartette, with Elmore Allen Pierce, reader, are giving concerts through the mountains and sea shore resorts. They appeared at Jefferson, N. H., last week and were well received.

Miss Lizzie Webb Cary will spend the remainder of the season at Richfield Springs, New York, by invitation of Uriah Welch, Esq., the proprietor of the New American Hotel there.

Great things are expected of Adolph Neuendorff's management of the Bijou next season. He will have a very strong company, which will be announced later, and promises to give Boston a round of first class light opera presented in an artistic manner.

The promenade concerts in Music Hall, Mr. Adolph Neuendorff conductor, are more flourishing than ever. These concerts have become one of the most popular institutions of the season, and their success is undeniably due to the praise worthy enterprise of Messrs. Neuendorff and C. E. Ellis.

The following-named singers are engaged for solo parts in the musical festival at Worcester, next month: Fursch Madi and Emma Juch, sopranos; Hattie Clapper and Belle Cole, contraltos; Whitney Mockridge, George J. Parker, George W. Want, C. F. Webber and Carl Pflueger, tenors; A. E. Stoddard and James A Metcalf, bassos. E. B. Perry, the blind pianist, just returned from a two years' residence abroad, is also engaged.

Mr. William J. Winch sails for Europe on the Pavonia, Saturday, August 15th, to be absent a year. Mr. Winch will devote a greater portion of his time to concert engagements in London.

W. H. Fessenden, who has been engaged by Neuendorff for his company at the Bijou next season, received an offer from Theodore Thomas' representative just after he had signed with the Bijou. Mr. Fessenden will sing the comedy-tenor role in Stradello—"Barberino," one of the bandits, at the opening performance.

The manager of the Boston Home Journal proposes a new departure in his enterprising sheet—the publication of a musical directory, classifying the artists of Boston and vicinity, as vocalists, violinists or in other departments to which they belong. Teachers in all branches, conductors, composers etc., will also be included, so that the paper will be a very valuable one to musical people, as well as Committees of Lyceums, or Managers of Entertainments. The Home Journal is the best Society paper hereabouts, and deserves the increasing success which it is having.

Miss Emma Dean, the only daughter of William F. and Georgie Dean Spaulding, the well known Bell Ringers, died at Neponset, Sunday, Aug. 2d, of heart disease. She was commonly known as Kitty Spaulding.

In the absence of Mrs. S. P. Chase, of the South Church choir, her place is being filled by Mrs. F. C. Sanborn, of Malden.

The Salem Cadet Band will participate in the Grand Jubilee at the Point of Pines next week.

The first half hour of the concert at the Point of Pines, Saturday afternoon was devoted to the memory of General Grant. Cornetist Henry gave a fine solo, "Nearer, my God to thee," and the band closed with Luther's grand choral, "A Mighty Fortress is our God."

The Seventh Musical Festival of the Southeastern Mass. Musical Association will be held in Taunton, Oct. 21st. 22d., 23d. Blaisdell's Orchestra will furnish the Instrumental music.

Mr. Frank W. Taggard, of this town, was one of the double quartette at the service in Mechanic Hall, Salem, Saturday.

In addition to the soloists already announced, Miss. Sopha C. Hall, formerly of the Thalia Concert Co., has been engaged at the Worcester festival.

◆

BETTER THAN VACATION.—This is preeminently the vacation month, when thousands seek rest and recreation. But to those who suffer the depressing effects of summer debility, the disagreeable symptoms of scrofula, the tortures of biliousness, dyspepsia or sick headache, there is more pain than pleasure in leaving home. To such we say, give Hood's Sarsaparilla a trial. It will purify your blood, tone up and strengthen your body, expel every trace of scrofula, correct biliousness, and positively cure dyspepsia or sick headache. Take it before you go, and you will enjoy your vacation a thousand fold.

THE DRAMA.

Barlow, Wilson and Rankin's minstrels will open the preliminary season at the Boston Theatre, Monday evening, 10th inst. This organization includes many favorites, and the entertainments are of the highest order. Murray and Murphy, "Our Irish Visitors," under the management of J. M. Hill, will appear the week of the 17th, and the renowned Thatcher, Primrose and West minstrels are looked for the 24th. The preliminary season will end with performances by the Big Specialty Troupe, who will introduce themselves on the 31st.

The full list of the Boston Museum company for the season of 1885-86 is as follows: Messrs. Charles Barron, J. B. Mason, (reappearance), Alfred Hudson, W. F. Owen, (first appearance), William Seymour (reappearance), Chas. Kent, Louis Atkins (first appearance), James Nolan, A. R. Whytal, James Burrows, Albert Lang, C. S. Abbe, C. E. Boardman, George H. Cohill, J. M. Eaton, J. Bates, H. P. Whittemore, C. M. Krueger, Miss Annie Clarke, Mrs. J. R. Vincent, Miss Blanche Thompson, Miss May Davenport (reappearance), Miss Nora Desmond (first appearance), Miss Kate Ryan, Miss Helen Dayne, Miss Helen Standish (first appearance), Miss Louise Jordan, Miss May Russell, Miss Etta Glenn, Miss Rose Putnam. The stage manager will be Mr. William Seymour; assistant stage manager, Mr. J. R. Pitman; musical director, Mr. Geo. Purdy; scenic artist, Mr. E. LaMess, master machinist, Mr. Matt Graham; property maker, Mr. Frank Goodwin; gas and calcium effects, Mr. John Witherell; wardrobe, Miss Sarah Ormond and assistants.

The New York theatrical managers have concluded that hereafter they will do their advertising exclusively in the newspapers, instead of by disgusting, glaring illustrations on handbills and posters. The managers recognize the power of the press to bring their business before the public. This is a reform which ought to leaven the whole lump throughout the country. The mammoth poster business has come to be a disgusting as well as expensive nuisance.—Milford Journal.

◆

The labor of convicts at the Salem jail and house of correction was let on Monday, at 13 cents; and that is all it is worth. The labor of 300 men in our county prisons is not worth more than 30 good smart men willing to do a full day's work.—Valley Visitor.

The above comes from Brother Colby, a man who has always stood up and been counted for the working-men, and one whom we believe is a member of the Knights of Labor, who are sworn to resist the competition of free with prison labor. Can it be that he really belives this, or being one of those who had the letting of that labor offers this only as an excuse? Does he not believe that if the labor of those convicts are only equal to "thirty good smart men" that those thirty come in direct competition with thirty honest hard working men, who will have so much less work to do? So strongly has the efforts of the Knights of Labor on this subject been felt that it has shaped legislation in several states, and they have abandoned the contract system for supplying employment to convicts. A recent number of Bradstreet's says: "So far as selling the time of convicts to contractors is concerned, the best penologists of the country and of the civilized world are in accord with the demands of the Knights of Labor. How ever different their motives, their economical conclusion is the same. While the workman objects that he does not wish his own toil to be put in competition with a system by which a few conveniently located employers can place their savings in wages to the account of the State, the penologist objects because the contract creates interests wholly inconsistent with the reformatory discipline of the prison.

◆

MORE THAN A MILLION.—New Orleans, La.—A reporter of the Times-Democrat, who recently completed a tour of this and neighboring States, visiting every city, town and hamlet, states that he interviewed all the wholesale and retail druggists and storekeepers, as well as transportation companies, with a view of learning the volume of trade in certain articles. The statistics thus gathered show that during the past two years over one million two hundred thousand bottles of St. Jacobs Oil were sold in this section alone, and that this quantity largely exceeds the total combined sales of all other similar remedies during that period. He adds that dealers, as well as the public, continue unanimous in their praise of the wonderful pain-curing powers of this unapproached remedial agent.

◆

A Philadelphian claims to have discovered a compound which will remove hair from the face, and wants to organize a company for the manufacture and sale of the article, so that every man may be his own barber. Newspapers should encourage the scheme. When every man shaves himself, thousands of persons who now depend upon the barber for their local news will be obliged to subscribe for a newspaper.—Norristown Herald.

BOSTON AND MAINE.—The policy of the Boston and Maine Company, as outlined by President Lord, is as follows: "When the lease went into operation the notion prevailed that the Eastern road would be made subordinate to our own. We had no such intention, and to convince the public of their mistake we have meant to give the people on that division a little better service than they had before. The interests of the region traversed by the Eastern Division are of just as much concern to us as those of the country served by the Western Division, and money earned by the consolidated company on one is worth as much as on the other. For these reasons we have purposely refrained from taking off certain trains which seem unnecessary, and from abandoning one of certain duplicate stations; that is to say, the policy of economizing has not been pushed to the utmost. The consequence is that whatever distrust existed has disappeared, and cordial relations have been established all around to the advantage of the community and the road." With respect to the passenger service in the enlarged territory of the Boston and Maine it may be added that it was never so satisfactory in the days of competition as it is now, nor has there been any retrogression in the handling of freight. The earnings of the united roads since October 1 have not been equal to last year's but the best quarter of the year is the present one, and there is reason to expect that it will show a comparative gain.

◆

Hosts of people will recall with pleasure the great midsummer musical festival which produced such a marked success last August at the Point of Pines. In the varied programmes of the five days' festival—popular day, opera day, international day, and the occasion especially set apart for peace jubilee memories—no less than 250 skilled musicians took part. It was a veritable feast for the lovers of harmony, who attended in throngs. Manager Thayer has arranged for a second and a greater midsummer musical festival at the Point of Pines. Six days, from August 18 to 23, inclusive, are to be set apart for this grand affair, which it is hoped will eclipse any event of the kind that Boston has seen since Peace Jubilee days. A great array of talent has been engaged; the best features of last year's festival will be retained and novel attractions provided. The success of the festival last year, great as it was, will no doubt be surpassed a fortnight hence at the popular Point of Pines.

◆

We can cordially recommend th climate of Jefferson, N. H., for diseases of the throat and lungs. The air is dry and pure, the water excellent, and the sanitary arrangements good. It will be seen by an advertisement that the Maple House, kept by Mrs. M. H. Bowles & Son, will reduce its rates for September and October to seven and eight dollars per week. This house will accommodate but forty guests, bnt it is kept in first class style, and it is Mr. Bowles ambition to satisfy his guests in every way. We can say to our readers who are looking for a quiet place at moderate rates that they will be pleased with the Maple House.

The Boston & Lowell R. R., advertise to run an excursion to Plymouth, N. H., and return, every Saturday, for eight dollars. This will include board at the famous Pemigiwasset House from Saturday night till Monday morning, and tickets will be limited to the capacity of the house.

◆

Dr. Loring has not explained the reported shortage of $20,800 in his accounts as commissioner of agriculture yet, and Conptroller Durham proposes to bring a suit against him to recover the amount. It is intimated that an investigation would bring to light many irregularities, and also corruption in the expenditure of the funds of the agricultural department. If this is so, there should be an investigation by all means, whoever it may hit.—Palmer Journal.

◆

July has been a fatal month for presidents and ex-presidents. John Adams and Thomas Jefferson died July 4, 1826; Monroe, July 4, 1831; Taylor, July 9, 1850, while in office, and Grant July 23, 1885, while Garfield received his death wound upon the 2d of the same month, 1881. It was not strange that Gen. Grant felt that July would be a fateful month for him.

◆

Mr. Geo. Arvedson has disposed of his stock of boots and shoes to Mr. Geo. E. Pearson, and will hereafter be found at Mr. Pearson's store, 206 Essex street. The Telegram states that Mr. Arvedson's store will be occupied by Messrs. Merrill & Mackintire.

◆

WE ARE glad that after the family of Gen. Grant have listened to the funeral oration of Parson Newman the country are to be spared the further affliction of him upon them. It is right and proper that he should officiate at the private ceremony at Mt. McGregor, and that ought to end it. The country has had enough of Parson Newman.

ROYAL

FULL WEIGHT
ROYAL BAKING POWDER
ABSOLUTELY PURE
ROYAL
BAKING POWDER

BAKING POWDER

Absolutely Pure.

This powder never varies. A marvel of purity, strength and wholesomeness. More economical than the ordinary kinds, and cannot be sold in competition with the multituds of low test, short weight, alum or phosphate powders. Sold only in cans. ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO., 106 Wall street, N. Y.
2ds

AGENT
— FOR —

CHICKERING & SONS' PIANOS.

Four fine New Pianos for sale very low for Cash.

A large stock of Organs and Musical Merchandise.

E. V. EMILIO'S,

MUSIC STORE.

287 ESSEX ST.,

SALEM.

B. F. STEVENS,

JEWELER & STATIONER.

Watches, Clocks and Jewelry cleaned and repaired.

Just received a fine stock of musical instruments. The best

Violin, Banjo and Guitar Strings.
Accordions, Banjos,
Violins, Harmonicas,
Harps, Clappers, Bows,
Drums, Fifes, Flutes, Piccolos
etc., etc.

Agent for E. V. Emilio, also agent for Merriam & Co., wood and coal.
nov 19—tf PR

NOW FOR

Base Ball,

and the place to get

BASE BALLS
AND BATS

at the lowest prices is of

DANIEL J. SWEENEY

Next to the Old Hotel on the Square.

Here can also be found a good assortment of

Fruit,
Confectionery,
Cigars and
Tobacco.
Principee, Electric,
Serenader, Leader,

5 CENTS.

Harvard and Boat Club,

10 CENTS.

DANIEL J. SWEENEY.

N. W. EDSON & CO.

LARGE INVOICE OF

MASON'S

IMPROVED FRUIT JARS.

Three sizes—Pints, Quarts, one-half gallons.

N. W. Edson & Co.,

58 & 60 MAIN ST.,

PEABODY.

8 PER CENT. INVESTMENTS!

SCHOOL BONDS AND CAREFULLY SELECTED FARM MORTGAGES

in the "corn belt" of Dakota—the best and most fertile part of the Territory. Interest paid semi-annually at your home. Safest, best and most prompt paying investments obtainable. Satisfaction Guaranteed. Write us for copy School Bond Law and full particulats. First-class references THE CITIZENS' BANK, Grand View, Dakota, aug 5—1m

LIBERALITY PAYS!

Any successful business man will tell you that Judicious Liberality in the treatment of customers has been one of his best paying investments. This has certainly been the experience of

NUGENT BROS.,

who have invariably found that their customers are more than glad to direct their friends to the

Bargain Shoe Store,

4 LOWELL STREET,

PEABODY SQUARE.

Before taking our semi-annual account of stock, we intend to reduce it one half, and in pursuance of our policy of liberality, we continue to offer to the citizens of Peabody unparalleled Inducements to secure the greatest value for their money. Astounding Bargains may be obtained by simply calling on us and making known your wants.

We can Fit you, also fit your pocket-book. All we ask is the chance, and we will guarantee to give you satisfaction in every respect.

NUGENT BROS.

The Peabody Press.

JOHN P. FERNALD ALBERT VITTUM.

Editors and Publishers.

THE HEARTY expressions of good will towards Gen. Grant are coming from every part of the country—South as well as North. They are mostly in recognition of his services to the country in the time of war. They come as cordially from the South—against whom he was the hardest fighter.

There is a disposition to cavil at the administration of Grant, and to forget the former services of the great General. We are glad this is not the case everywhere, and we regret that it is more noticeable in Massachusetts than elsewhere. While it may be true that Grant's second term was not free from many blunders—the country can never forget his service in the war. This debt the nation can never repay. And, again, while we were in sympathy with Massachusetts, in her successful rebuttal of the "third term," it is also true that she was in the main responsible for the nomination of a dark horse at that convention. It may or may not be true that the nomination of Grant, at that time, would have carried several Southern States for the Republicans. We never shall know. We do know that a Republican president was not elected by the people. And this feeling against Grant in this State has not entirely passed away.

It may be the outgrowth of this feeling, in some measure, that has caused the apathy existing in some quarters, now that he is dead. It is well to go back to the time of the war—to recall the condition of the army when Grant was called to the leadership, and to remember the patriotism which is inspired in the hearts of those who fought with him on memorable battle fields.

The scenes at the Grand Army encampment at Portland when the message of their old commander was given to them will not readily be forgotten by the Boys in Blue. The readiness with which a response has been made by private citizens, to defray the expenses of Col. Wellington's command to New York, shows that Massachusetts is not wholly devoid of patriotism at this hour. Gov. Robinson's action does not appear in a very enviable light. While it may be legal, it is not what should have been expected of him, particularly when it is found that he was not so scrupulous regarding the expenses of himself and staff to participate in the ceremonies. What the action of the State would have been were Gen. Butler or John A. Andrew governor it is not difficult to see.

The same lack of patriotism—for so we must regard it—has prevailed in our own town. While other towns and cities took early and appropriate action on the death of Grant, Peabody, as usual, did nothing. The small amount necessary for a proper observance of the day of the funeral would never have been refused by the citizens, even if the Selectmen did exceed their legal rights in appropriating the money. The Town Hall and monument should have been draped and memorial services held.

It is fortunate that Gov. Robinson and his adherents—and the Town Officials of Peabody—do not represent the people of the State, or of our Town. By the efforts of the Ladies' Relief Corps of the Grand Army our Soldier's Monument was appropriately draped—and no thanks to the Selectmen—although at the eleventh hour they decided to defray the expense. The regiment of Col. Wellington participated in the services at New York—and no thanks to Gov. Robinson. It shows in an emphatic manner that in some way Massachusetts has not forgotten Gen. Grant.

THE ATTEMPT made by the proprietor of the roller coaster at Salem Willows, after being arrested for violation of the Sunday law, to turn the tables on other violators, is the usual method of revenge. After all, there is some reason in it. Violators of the Sunday law are numerous, as it now stands on the statute books. By it, the man who rides for pleasure anywhere on the Lord's day, or does anything, in fact, which is not covered by the phrase "beneficence and charity," is liable as much as the proprietor of the roller coaster.

Everybody knows that this law can not be enforced literally. All attempts in that direction recoil with greater force upon the instigators of the prosecutions, resulting, usually, in a larger license in the direction of non-observance of the Lord's day. At the same time we believe there are some things carried on which ought to be suppressed on that day, and the roller coaster is one of them. The attempt to class it with the street railway, because it is itself a small railroad, is too transparent, and shows to how great straits men will resort to. The horse cars run on the Sabbath for the benefit of the public,—the coaster for the benefit of the proprietor solely.

Public opinion, without much exception, allows the law to wink at sales of eatables on that day. And it ought to. People who travel on Sunday can seek refreshment at any inn. The booths and restaurants at the Willows, at our beaches, at the termini of railroads between different places, are inns on a small scale. As long as eatables are sold, and that only, it is usually allowed. But of course the strict construction of the law would close every one of them save the licensed hotel. Included in eatables are small fruits, soda, cigars, and the like. When it comes to intoxicants, the liquor law steps in and it is a different matter. The maintainance of these places of refreshment is a public convenience. Else a man who goes any where for a day's outing on the Sabbath must carry his own lunch in his basket. But amusements, like flying horses, roller coasters, tournaments, games, and the like are a different matter, and public opinion will uphold the officers in suppressing them.

We should be glad to see a common sense law on our Statute books with regard to the observance of the Lord's day. There is made the objection that the moment the bars are let down all sorts of excesses will be committed, and the law evaded. It may be true that it is better to leave the enforcement of the law, as it exists, to the bar of public opinion. One thing is certain, any attempt to close places of refreshment meets with instant indignation. In this line are the horse car stations here and elsewhere a restriction of which, however, may be entirely proper. We think it is a mistake to have so many stations in Peabody—all open on Sunday. Mr. Geo. Stevens has given the public a convenience since the opening of the Lynn road, which they appreciate. There is plenty of room; it is quiet and orderly, and all in all, is the best place for the station for all the roads. If a union station were established where nothing could be sold in the way of refreshment, some place conveniently near should be allowed to serve the public with the light food which they desire. In a town like this there should be no objection to the combination of the two. Mr. Stevens had his store enlarged for the benefit of the public; he pays a larger rent that the horse car station might be established there, and now that the rails are extended and new rails laid down, it should continue. Despite the inconveniences sometimes arising from unwillingness of the drivers to stop in front of his door, a few months experience has shown that the people of Peabody, and a large share of strangers, prefer to wait at his store. The public are the ones whom the railroads serve, and the voice of the public in this case is so plainly perceived that "he who runs may read."

* * *

WE ARE in receipt of a circular, sent out by the Richmond Medical Company, of St. Joseph, Mo., claiming to be extracts from the St. Joseph papers They bear down with terrible force on advertising agents in general, and H. P. Hubbard, of New Haven, Conn., in particular. They claim that the Company was ruined by the extravagant charges of Hubbard, while at the same time he placed the advertisements at very low rates with the papers. After giving instances of this with figures supporting, the St. Joseph Daily Herald, thus speaks. The words are true, and every publisher of a country weekly can endorse them:

"We have a few honest and reputable advertising agents in the United States who deal fairly with both the advertiser and the newspaper, but they are exceptional. The majority of them are sharks who rob all with whom they deal; they beat the newspaper and swindle the advertiser. Many good men have been wrecked and ruined in this way. And it ought to be a lesson to advertisers as well as to publishers. It used to be, before the interposition of advertising agents, that extensive advertisers made their contracts direct with the publishers. Then the newspapers received reasonable prices for their work, and the advertisers received their money's worth, and were not swindled. But these middle men cut both ways. They contract with A., B. or C. to insert an advertisement in a list of certain papers, specifying how much the charge will be in each. In the Bugle, in the Sun and in the Star he represents that the rate will be $200. He writes to the country paper that he can give him this "ad," but he had to take it at a very low rate. "I can only afford to pay yon $60, but I will throw off my commission and make it $80. And now I do hope you will accept it, for this was the best I could do, and besides it will probably lead to some further advertising at better rates.". Thus it is that the advertising agents are fleecing the newspapers continually. The best thing is for the advertiser and the publisher to come together, to dispense with the middle man, who lives and grows fat by swindling both of them."

We have done little or no advertising with Hubbard. But low as are his offers—ridiculous in many cases, we want to apologize to him after receiving such a one as came to the office the other day. It takes the wind all out of Hubbard's sails. After the usual taffy about placing the advertisement in papers only which give exceptionally low prices, it proceeds to thus describe the "ad·"

A Reading Notice containing six lines of Brevier type. It must be set in the type used by you for reading or news matter; and must be the first notice following pure reading matter, with no paid matter preceding it in same column. It is to be inserted nine months, and is to be changed every issue. Counting this at double, to put it on the basis of display matter, each Notice would equal 1 inch of advertising.

A Three-inch Advertisement, electrotyped(there will be several different advertisements to alternate, but all will be similar in style and size)to be inserted six months, wholly alongside of Reading matter.

A Ten-inch Advertisement, electrotyped(several to alternate), to be inserted three months, top of column and wholly alongside of Reading matter.

The 10-inch Advertisements will be inserted six weeks in the Fall and seven weeks in the Spring; and during the insertion of the ten inch advertisement the 3-inch advertisement will be omitted.

To recapitulate—We wish to run

6 line Reader nine months, equal to one inch display.

3 inch display electrotyped, six months.

10 inch display, electrotyped, three months.

We consider it all equivalent to four and three quarter inches, one year, and in every way a most desirable contract. For the insertion of these Ad vertisements and Notices, as above, we can pay you $13 33 less usual commission of 25 per cent.

As we must decide promptly what papers can be used, please favor us with immediate reply.

* * *

THE LATEST arrangement of the Telephone Exchange, to call parties by number instead of the name, may be a satisfactory one to the company but it is far from being so to the subscribers. This method is adopted in the large cities, but we don't believe the service hereabouts is so extensive as to call for it. It is very gratifying to be called up and informed that 1791 wants to talk with us. Who is 1791, is the first question we want to ask, but we must be supposed to know who everybody is by number.

It is claimed, we believe, that it is more convenient for the operator at the Central Station to have the calls by number. That's just it. The convenience or wishes of the subscribers are of no account whatever. We haven't found, yet, that we get any better service than we did under the old system. And it takes longer to do the business. For no man can talk intelligently through the telephone until he finds out with whom he is talking. This takes time. A message hurled at one without any thought of where it is coming from, is often unintelligible. The old method of the Central operator, giving the name of the party calling, often brought to mind the business of the message, and the call could be answered and the business completed in half the time that is required now. But, as we said, what do the company care, so long as they themselves are suited? The subscribers are of secondary importance. We have no idea that anything we can say—or anybody can say—will make any difference. The Company is a monopoly of gigantic proportions, and no power save the Legislature, can bring it to any kind of terms. But we can have the satisfaction of freeing our mind, and that is worth something.

A Boston lady who has always spent a few weeks of every summer for twelve years at the Grand Union Hotel, Saratoga, where the price of her two rooms for herself and companion has gradually gone from $60 per week to $98, read in their advertisement early this season that the rates were to be reduced. She accordingly wrote to the proprietors for their terms for this year for the rooms she had so often occupied, and the price they fixed was $112 per week. The reduction (?) in prices was of course a genuine surprise to the regular patron of the Grand Union.—Boston Home Journal.

That's about the way the reductions are made in the popular resorts doing a good business, which is the case, probably, at Saratoga. But the mountain hotels have not been faring so well, and with many of them there is a generous and genuine reduction to meet the times. The Twin Mountain House issued not long since a circular reducing their rates, the Pavilion Hotel at Wolfboro has followed, and there are doubtless others. It has been done since the opening of this season, showing that it is a bid for patronage. The month of September is the pleasantest one at the mountains, and in our judgment people will be able to make nearly their own terms with the landlords. The hostelries in New Hampshire and Vermont are exceptionally well kept everywhere; good wholesome cooking and plenty of dairy products being the rule. There may be less style at many of them than at Saratoga, but there is full as much satisfaction to be had from their bill of fare, and a good deal more satisfaction to the pocket book when the bills are settled.

* * *

OVERWORKED.—There is a flagrant evil in our midst, which, though it has been overlooked by the press, has not escaped the notice of thousands among the people. I refer to the overworked employes in our large, or rather in our mammoth, overgrown, retail dry-goods houses. But this is the least of the evil which culminates in disease and premature death. I allude to the ill ventilated sales rooms. We have societies for prevention of cruelty to children and animals, and we have boards of health who now and then raid upon the tenement houses and publish startling revelations. But go with me for an hour into such an establishment as Houghton & Dutton's, with its seven acres of flooring, its low studded rooms and still lower studded entresols. These rooms are filled with counters and shelves packed with every nameable article of manufactured goods, the mass throwing out everything that is obnoxious in the chemical compound entering into their manufacture, and in this close, stifled and deadly atmosphere there are thousands confined during most of the hours of the day without change or relief. Not only young women from 16 years and upwards, but children from 7 years and upwards, with no rest, no change, while the lynx eyes of the floor walker or fore-woman of a department or a superintendent takes notes of every dereliction. Faintness or fatigue find no charity or excuse. Why, the noise and grim and dust of a cotton or woolen manufactory is paradise to this. And yet the labor reform league has never noticed this. If eight hours are enough in a manufacturing establishment in Fall River or Lowell or Lawrence, where light and air are plenty, why confine children for a longer time within the walls of ill ventilated and overheated buildings in the heart of a great city? Let the radical philanthropists and radical reformers take hold of the subject and see that legislation is extended so as to meet this evil.—Hingham Journal.

* * *

Let me say here and now that there is now no man who dares to raise the cry of corruption against Grant. The idea of taking public money to himself, or allowing his friends to do it, never entered his mind, and, from a very intimate knowledge for some years of his character, I am ready and willing, as I ever have been, to bear this testimony.

* * * * * * * *

For more than ten years I knew Grant the general and Grant the president, well and intimately. There was once a very strong personal difficulty between us, brought about by lying statements to each of the acts, motives and opinions of the other. He first learned of their untruthfulness, and at his request, conveyed through a friend, we met, and a few words explained all, apologized for all, and healed all; and that friendship thus renewed has ever continued. — Gen. Butler at Lowell, Aug. 8th.

* * *

Minneapolis has a peculiar ordinance regulating the liquor traffic. Besides charging a license fee of $500, the ordinance marks out certain patrol limits, including the business portion of the city, within which all the saloons there are must be established, and where they can be kept under close police inspection. As to the rest of the city, including all the main residence portions of the city, where probably nine-tenths of the inhabitants have their homes, absolute saloon prohibition prevails, and is rigidly enforced.—Toledo Blade.

The original Gravenstein apple tree is standing and has this year an abundant crop of fruit. It is on the place owned by Ariel Peabody and its history is remarkable. The late Gorham Parsons of Byfield brought home from Belgium a lot of scions. Of course after a long ocean voyage they were shriveled, dry and appeared worthless. Mr. Parsons gave them to Mr. Herman D. Rogers a successful grafter of that time, forty years ago. Few wanted to take the risk of poor grafts and perhaps poor fruit on thrifty trees, as Mr. Rogers learned by offering to set them in the orchards of several farmers of the neighborhood. At last he approached the late James Peabody, a stirring, progressive farmer with an offer to set his Parsons grafts. He was authorized to put them in, and the result was the finest fall apple for all purposes, ever raised in America. From this tree proceeded all the Gravenstein fruit in the country.—Georgetown Advocate.

* * *

Contaminated drinking water is the cause of so much sickness that every man and woman grown should know good water when they see it, and have the means of testing it. Water may to all appearance be clear and sparkling and yet contain the germs of foul diseases. The presence of chlorine tells the story. This substance is never found in the soil, and when discovered in water must have come from the human system. In our daily food we use salt—the chloride of sodium. After passing from the human body it becomes separated, and the chlorine makes its appearance in the contaminated water. As much as thirty or forty grains to the gallon is often found in water drawn from wells near where people live. Let it be understood—the more chlorine in the water the more danger, and, also, that no water is really fit to drink which has any of this foreign substance. This is not a pleasant subject to discuss, but people who are too dainty to pay attention to it endanger their health and that of the community they live in.

* * *

The hot-weather fiend was in to see us the other day. He came in with a languid, weary look, softly closed the door behind him and dropped into the nearest chair. A feeling of dread suspense came over the entire force as they waited for his words. He wiped the perspiration from his alabaster brow, a faint smile crept over his mobile (Ala.) features, and he gently murmured: "Is it hot enough for you?" For one brief instant the office was pervaded with calm so still that you could have heard a gum-drop; then arose a mighty tumult like unto the rush of many waters. The h. w. f., where was he? Gone where fishline twineth and the thermometer troubleth not. "Justice has been done," said the horse reporter, as he wound up the bouncing machine, and set the trigger in readiness for the next victim.—Times.

* * *

Coupled with the advent of an abundant cucumber crop, it is timely gratifying to receive assurance from high scientific authority that the popular stigma of special unwholesomeness which attaches to that relishable vegetable is wholly without warrant, it being pronounced easily digestible and of ready assimilation. We wish it understood, however, that we assume no responsibility in making this restatement and our readers in their use of cucumbers will, as before, run their own risks of stomachic results.

Now is the time to cremate caterpillars before they leave the nest to deposit eggs for the second crop. An old shotgun is the one thing to examine them with. A small load of powder will blow a whole nest of them out of existence so quick they won't know what has happened. If not attended to soon these nasty pests will be raining down during the next month or two, covering all the sidewalks. porches, doors, and rolling their fuzzy tide into houses, sitting-rooms, beds, and over everything. Go for the caterpillars.

The early harvesting is now well advanced and the farmer will soon have a short season of rest. Harvesting is a season of hard work even though much of the labor in haying, etc., may be done by machinery. The use of the scythe has nearly passed away but is still fresh in the memory of the average farmer. American genius has inaugurated a millenial period to the farming community in the various implements adapted to their use.

As stated last week the committee have fixed upon Wednesday and Thursday, Sept. 2 and 3, as the time for the grand reunion of all the Massachusetts soldiers and sailors of the late war, at the Point of Pines. Tents will be provided for those who wish to remain over night. Governor Robinson, Generals Butler and Hancock, Commander-in-Chief Burdette of the Grand Army, and other distinguished individuals have been invited to be present.

IT IS conceded on all sides that the best poem evolved by the death of Gen. Grant is from the pen of John Boyle O'Reilly, of the Boston Pilot.

Everything Selling Regardless of Cost at

WILMOT'S.

MEN'S PANTALOONS,

99c, $1.49, 2.00, 2.50 and 3.00. Marked down from $1.25, 2.50, 3 and 4.50,

MEN'S ALL WOOL SUITS,

$4.87 1-2, 6, 8 and 10. Marked down from $8, 10, 12 and 16.00.

CHILDREN'S BLOUSE SUITS,

Warranted Fast Colors, $2.50. Former Price $5.

MEN'S CARPET SLIPPERS,

25 cents. Regular Price, 75 cents.

MEN'S LOW CUT SHOES,

87 1-2 cents. Regular price, $1.75.

BOYS' BASE BALL SHOES, 70 CENTS.

WILMOT'S CLOTHING STORE,

252 & 254 ESSEX STREET, SALEM, MASS

J. FRANK BOYNTON, Manager.

THE MAYOR of New York did not look kindly at the poetical effusion of the Superintendent of Public Works in that city, which he had placed in the City Hall. After an ineffectual request had been made to Mr. Squire for their removal, Mayor Grace ordered them taken down, and even then the commissioner thinks that it is envy that caused the order. Evidently Mr. Squire considers himself the equal of Tennyson or Whittier.

* * *

Newspaper bustles are now made of back numbers. It is pretty tough to think that a man's best journalistic efforts should thus be sat upon. It crushes all the glory out of the profession and were it not that the editor can feel that he has not only brightened a woman's mind but improved her shape, he might throw up the sponge in disgust and retire from a world of bustle and falneesss·

One of our exchanges confines seven-eighths of its county items to Salem. That city is not all the county, although when political conventions are held it wants all the offices.—Beverly Citizen.

It is rumored that Mr. S. F. Blaney is not satisfied with the declination of the Baptist Society to give him a deed of the house bought by him at auction, on the site of the proposed parsonage of that society, and that he has brought action against them for damages, at tacking funds belonging to the Society.

New Advertisements.

RATES REDUCED.

MAPLE HOUSE,

JEFFERSON, N. H.

The proprietors having in view that the great land slide which occurred on July 10th, 1885, will attract a great many people to Jefferson, during September and October, offer to entertain people during that time at from

$7.00 to 8.00 per week,

in all parts of the house. Send for descriptive circular.

Coaches connect with all trains at Jefferson Station.

Open till Nov. 1st.

MRS. M. H. BOWLES & SON.

TOWN OF PEABODY.

Town Collector's Notice.

The owners and occupants of the following described parcels of real estate, situated in the town of Peabody, in the county of Essex, and commonwealth of Massachusetts, and the public, are hereby notified that the taxes thereon assessed for the years hereinafter specified, according to the list committed to me as Collector of Taxes for said town, by the assessors of taxes, remain unpaid, and that said parcels of real estate will be offered at public auction for sale, at the office of the Collector at the Town House in said Town of Peabody, on

Wednesday, Sept. 2d, 1885,

At 9 o'clock A. M. for the payment of said taxes together with the costs and charges thereon, unless the same shall be previously discharged.

A lot of land bounded northwardly, westwardly and southwardly by land of Heirs of David Putnam, eastwardly by Lynn St., containing about 8250 square feet with the buildings thereon. Taxed to John Putnam for 1882, $32.40, (partly paid) for 1883, $26.18, for 1884, $27.88.

A lot of land bounded northwardly by land of Mary Beers, eastwardly by Harris St., southwardly by land of Edward Sheary, westwardly by land of John Motley, containing about 11,500 square feet, with the buildings thereon. Taxed to estate of John Cuddire for 1883 $16 94, for 1884 $18.04.

A lot of land bounded northwardly by land of George A. Needham and Daniel P. Pope, eastwardly by land of George Reed, southwardly by land formerly of Upton, westwardly by land of John G. Walcott and George A. Needham, containing about 13 acres, with the buildings thereon. Taxed to Philip H. Saunders for 1882, $16.20, for 1883 $15.40, for 1884, $16.40.

LEVI PRESTON, Collector.

aug 5

WARREN FIVE CENTS SAVINGS BANK.

The following named persons constitute the Investment Committee of the Warren Five Cents Savings Bank.

Rufus H. Brown, Alex. B. Merrill,
C. Warren Osborn, Nathl. Symonds.

A. H. MERRILL, Clerk.

Aug. 12, 1885.

Peabody's Prices.

The Celebrated Pivot Corsets,

75 Cents.

Fruit of the Loom, Bleached Cotton, Yard Wide,

7 Cents.

Good Dark Prints, fast colors, fresh Goods,

4 Cents.

Yard Wide Sheeting, fair quality,

5 Cents.

Nice Cheviots, good Colors and Quality,

8 Cents.

Nice Fine Milan Hats, worth 75 cents now

21 Cents.

Good Wide Foulard Cambrics, only

8 Cents.

Wash Poplin Skirts, 75 cent ones,

50 Cents.

Three Nice Japanese Fans, 5 cent ones, three for

5 Cents.

White Lonsdale Apron, tucks side and bottom,

25 Cents.

Seventy-five Cent Corsets, nice ones,

50 Cents.

Two Gauze Vests, worth 25 cents each, two for

25 cents.

And numerous other Bargains during the month of August.

— AT —

PEABODY'S.

SALEM.

PROBATE NOTICE.

Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

ESSEX, SS. PROBATE COURT.

To the Heirs-at-law, Next of Kin, and all other Persons interested in the Estate of RUTH A. GOLDTHWAIT, late of Peabody, in said county, widow, deceased,

GREETING:

WHEREAS, a certain instrument purporting to be the last will and testament of said deceased has been presented to said Court for Probate, by Mary A. Goldthwait, and Elizabeth P. Goldthwait, who pray that letters testamentary may be issued to them the executors therein named, and that they may be exempt from giving a surety or sureties on their bond, for the reasons alleged in said petition. You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court to be held at Salem, in said county of Essex, on the first Monday of September, next at nine o'clock, before noon, to show cause, if any you have, against the same.

And said petitioners are hereby directed to give public notice thereof, by publishing this citation once a week, for three successive weeks, in the newspaper called the Peabody Press, printed at Peabody, the last publication to be two days at least before said Court.

Witness, George F. Choate, Esquire, Judge of said Court, this fourteenth day of July, in the year one thousand eight hundred and eighty-five.

J. T. MAHONEY, Register.

jy 29—3t

EXECUTOR'S NOTICE.

Notice is hereby given, that the subscribers have been duly appointed Executors of the will of PERLEY KING, late of Peabody, in the County of Essex, yeoman, deceased, testate, and have taken upon themselves that trust by giving bonds, as the law directs. All persons having demands upon the estate of said deceased are required to exhibit the same; and all persons indebted to said estate are called upon to make payment to

JAMES P. KING,
EBEN U. KING.
Executors

Peabody, Mass., July 21, 1885.

AMERICAN RUDGE.

The only first-class wheel listed at a low price, fitted with all the latest improvements.

Price, 50 in., Enamel and Nickel, $107.50.

Call and Examine or send for Catalogue.

STODDARD, LOVERING & CO.,
152 Congress St., Boston.

The Peabody Press.

Wednesday Evening, Aug. 12, 1885

HOME HAPPENINGS.

James H. Thomas, a well-known citizen of this town, died Sunday evening at the residence of his parents, of consumption. He has been in failing health for many months—so much so as to cause anxiety on the part of his friends. Mr. Thomas came to this country from Ireland when a young man, and has been identified with the interests of this town in various ways during the past few years. In all his duties he was a faithful and conscientious servant. He canvassed the town for Meek & Fielden's directory—and he did it well. He was appointed truant officer after the retirement of Mr. Reed, and the town loses a valuable officer in his demise. He has been secretary of the Peabody Mutual Benefit Society since its formation, and last year took the census of the school children in town. This he would have done again had his health enabled him so to do. He at one time published, in connection with P. J. Cody, a weekly paper called the Times, and of late years was agent and reporter of the Salem Post. He built up the circulation of that paper here more than any one else, putting in much hard labor to make it a success.

Mr. Thomas knew every portion of our town—knew nearly every citizen by name. Those who knew him only by name failed to appreciate the goodness of his heart, and his many noble qualities. He was connected with an Insurance Company at one time which suspended, and that those of whom he had collected premiums should not lose, as he had done, on that account, he returned every dollar—probably more than he was worth—to those who had taken out policies. Such instances are rare. They are like an oasis in the desert of this wicked world. He was equally conscientious in his charges for services—whether to the town or citizens—fearing that he might appear to value his labor more than its true worth. Mr. Thomas was buried from St. John's church yesterday, solemn high mass being celebrated by Rev. Fr. Vincent, the quartette choir rendering the music, with Miss Katie Linehan at the organ. Mr. Thomas was 38 years old. He leaves a wife and three children. He was insured for $2000 in the New England Relief Association, and $1000 in a Vermont Instalment Company.

The Second Corps of Cadets went into camp at Centennial Grove, Essex, Monday morning, there being about 100 men. The corps marched to the depot accompanied by the cadet band, Jean Missud leader, and H. L. Perkins drum major. The roster of the corps is as follows:—Lt. Col., J. Frank Dalton; Major, John W. Hart; Adjutant, Andrew Fitz; Q. Master, E. A. Simonds; Paymaster, E. A. Maloon; Surgeon, C. W. Haddock; Assistant Surgeon, Chas. G. Weston; Chaplain, Rev. E. C. Butler. Non commissioned staff—Q. M. Sergeant, Benj. F. Brown; Sergt. Major, Arthur C. Williams; Hospital Steward, W. P. Luscomb. Co. A—Capt., Samuel A. Johnson; 1st Lieut., Walter F. Peck; 2d Lieut., Charles F. Baker. Co. B—Capt., E. W. Abbott; 1st. Lieut., Chas. W. Lang; 2d Lieut., Chas. W. Osgood.

Mr. Arthur Elliott has a very peculiar pet for his children. It is a common chicken that was hatched in the early spring and while the others that were hatched at the same time are half grown this one seems to be stunted, and looks as if it was not more than a month old. Besides this it is almost destitute of feathers and looks like a squab. It will spend most of its time with the children, allowing them to handle it and toss it about. It will follow them around like a kitten and in the morning before they come out will stand on the steps and yip till they come out, and when they do come seems perfectly contented.

About twenty of the members of Company C. M. V. M., attended the reunion at the Bass Point House, Nahant, last Thursday, and the usual good time and good dinner were enjoyed. The officers elected were the same as last year and consist of President, Col. R. S. Daniels, Vice presidents, Geo. F. Barnes of Peabody and J. D. Paul of Taunton, Secretary, C. K. Hutchinson. Committee of Arrangements, F. A. Pemberton, Wm. F. Pingree, Geo. F. Barnes, Frank T. Arnold, P. L. Winchester and C. K. Hutchinson.

The season of iced drinks is upon us. Few who are suffering from the heat, stop to consider that the taking of such cold refreshments into the stomach is the worst possible thing to do for the health. There are physicians who hold that ice cold drinks are productive of kidney disease.

To settle the controversy as to which is the best "room for improvement" allow us to suggest that the bath-room is not so slow.

SOUTH PEABODY.

Mrs. Martha Basford is quite sick at her residence on Washington street. We hope for her speedy recovery.

The South Peabody B. B. nine went to Lynnfield last Saturday afternoon, and played with the nine at that place, and got badly beaten.

Work has been begun on the cellar of a new house for Mr. Randolph Stickney, in the rear of Wm. E. Reed's store on Lynn street.

The L. & B. R. R. Co. carried nearly 2100 passengers last Sunday, the largest days work thus far this season.

A local sportsman recently killed thirteen woodcock in the rear of Cedar Grove Cemetery.

The Lynn & Boston Horse Railroad Company carried 1462 through passengers on the Peabody Branch last Saturday and 2023 on Sunday.

Visitors to Ship Rock report disgraceful conduct on the part of four men and a woman last Sunday.

Conductor Williams, of the Lynn road, is confined to his home by sickness.

During the Pastor's vacation the Churches at South and West Peabody will be supplied the next two Sundays, Aug. 16th and 23d, by Rev. W. M. Gay of Georgetown, Mass. On the last Sunday, the 30th, a Sabbath School Concert will take the place of the regular preaching service at both churches. All the services will be continued as usual.

A gentleman who keeps his cider barrels out of doors while making vinegar, got up early the other morning and found a tramp with a straw, taking a drink out of the barrel.

Mrs. Geo. Dwyer, formerly of this town, died in Lynn last Sunday.

A well known gentleman living on the outskirts of the town was taken in on a clever trick one day recently. About three o'clock one afternoon a nicely dressed young fellow called at the house and said he had lost a valuable ring near the entrance of the gentleman's house, which after a long search he had been unable to find. He was stopping with his uncle Mr. So and So who lived about half a mile from them, and if they heard of anyone finding such a ring he wished they would get it for him as he would be willing to pay ten dollars as a reward and would also handsomely reward them for their trouble if they would just let his uncle know. The next forenoon as the gentleman was going to his field he saw a man who looked like a tramp pick up a ring in front of his house, and it at once occurred to the gentleman that it was the valuable ring that was lost, and after considerable trouble he secured the ring for $10 and started out to find the young man, but his alleged uncle don't know any such nephew and the man has a dollar ring for ten dollars and more than ten dollars worth of experience.

A picnic from Georgetown, Byfield, and Groveland occupying twelve cars passed through town this morning on their way to Nantasket. The train was heavily loaded and considerable "hay seed" was hanging out the windows.—Peabody Press.

It was the braying of Albert the donkey, that attracted their attention. The freshness of the scene compared with bone rendering works, beam houses, glue soup manufactories, the curing of r tten hair and the open cess pool that has caused the witch city to howl, has had a bad effect on his health. Better send him into the country neighbor, and give him a little hay seed.—Georgetown Advocate.

Thus are we crushed. Paralyzed by the awful charge: we bow our head in humility. Yet it must be true. Of course we are the identical boy referred to. 'Twas at the depot we saw the picnic, and were so intent on watching the "hay seed," that we overlooked the antics of William, who was taken along to amuse the children, who kept pulling the string.

POLICE COURT.—Thursday, William H. Brigham, of Manchester, drunk, $1.00 and costs. He got 30 days not having the cash.

Robert Fields came up from Wenham last Thursday, to shake hands with his old friends, but after getting full he made a mistake, and was shaking hands with a pair of twisters. He will be looked after by Supt. Drew of the Alms House for the next two months.

Joshua Holmes was in court charged with non-support of his family, but was discharged for lack of evidence.

At the session of the Grand Lodge of Massachusetts, I. O. O. F., which will be held on Thursday next, petitions will be presented for new lodges to be located at Somerset, Swampscott and Lynn, and Rebekah lodges to be located at Fitchburg and Gloucester.

Master James Osgood and sister have gone to Somerville.

A. P. Chute is taking a vacation from Post Office duties and is in camp with the Salem Cadets.

Fred T. Herman, of the Herreshoff Manufacturing Co., Bristol, R. I., is stopping in town at the residence of H. G. Robbins, 31 Tremont street.

VACATION NOTES.

Mrs. B. F. Goodwin, wife of Officer Goodwin is spending her vacation at Madison, N. H.

The family of Henry Wardwell, Esq., are stopping at Mount Pleasant.

Mrs. John Hart and daughter have returned from Troy, N. Y., where they have been spending several weeks.

Mr. William Atherton, of Stoughton, was in town Monday.

Mr. Frank W. Roome is camping at Grape Island.

Mr. Frank M. Berry and family are at Plum Island.

Miss Lillie Heylingberg is spending her vacation at South Brewster, Mass.

Mr. Jesse F. Barrett and family will spend their vacation at Grape Island.

Miss Nellie Warner is visiting at Merrimackport.

Mr. Thomas Smith is stopping at Asbury Grove.

Miss Alice Byron is spending a few weeks at Concord, N. H.

Mr. George M. Foster went to New York City to attend the funeral of Gen. Grant.

Officer Geo. W. Jones is on his vacation. He will spend it at Grape Island.

Mr. and Mrs. John Osborn will spend a short vacation at Poland Springs.

Thomas M. Stimpson, Esq., and family will spend their vacation at Londonderry, N. H.

Dr. C. G. Weston and wife will rusticate at Newbury, N. H.

Wm. S. Osborne and wife have been eating game suppers at the Chebacco House.

Mr. George H. Wilson, the driver of Pepper's candy team, will spend two weeks among the hills of New Hampshire, and Mr. Warren Bushby, of Lynn, will drive for him.

Mrs. Sally Pickering has been visiting at Asbury Grove.

In our item last week saying that Mr. D. P. Grosvenor was registered at Pigeon Cove, we neglected to say that Mrs. Grosvenor was with him. Such mistakes are annoying.

Miss Emma Cheney, of Boston, is visiting her friends, the Misses Perkins, on Mt. Vernon Street.

Miss Nellie Stockwell expects to pass the remainder of her vacation at the Springfield House, Nantucket.

Oliver Emerson and wife will spend their vacation at Haverhill and Nantasket.

Mr. Pierson, of Pierson & Page, Methuen, has been visiting his sister, Mrs. Oliver Emerson.

Mr. Ira F. Pray was in town Monday, having returned from the West on a visit.

Mrs. Dr. Geo. Osborne was registered at the Ocean House, Newport, R. I.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. H. Jacobs will pass their vacation among their old friends at Farmington, Me.

The family of Dr. F. S. Worcester have gone to South Paris, Me.

Mr. Chas. C. Soule has gone to Freeport, Me.

Miss Sadie M. Southwick is spending her vacation at So. Brewster, Mass.

Mr. Jimmie Murphy, the accomplished clerk at Samuel Trask's store, has gone to New Hampshire on a vacation.

Mr. Geo. O. Peirce went to New York to attend the Memorial services last week.

Mr. E. A. Rich left town yesterday, for a three weeks' trip in the vicinity of Montpelier, Vt.

Mr. Thomas Sawyer has returned from a trip to New Hampshire.

Mr. K. M. Jarvis, who is traveling through the South, has our thanks for South Carolina and Georgia papers.

Mr. Samuel Trask took a short vacation last Thursday, in company with his wife. He drove to Magnolia and spent the day in that vicinity, and called upon our former townsman, Mr. C. A. Haskell. Early the next morning he drove to Gloucester and returned to Magnolia in season to take a sail and reached home about eight o'clock, having spent two days in a pleasant manner.

Miss Helen M. Poor is at Cornish, Maine.

At the Bay View, Professor Bill and party from Salem are having a lively time. Professor Bill is a teacher of music in the Beverly and Peabody schools, and proves a rare addition to our colony. Every evening he gives an impromptu concert and the singing is far superior to many of the professional people we have heard.—Ipswich Chronicle.

Mr. Horace A. Hart, the popular clerk at Geo. Stevens' store, will take a vacation to-morrow, visiting the Point of Pines and Oak Island.

Mrs. Rebecca (Putnam) Brewer, of Washington, D. C., is visiting her parents in town.

H. Grahame Wheeler will visit North Conway, the Glen, and different points in the White Mountains during the next ten days, accompanied by his mother. Mr. Wheeler will read at the different hotels during his journey.

Chief Peasley has returned from his vacation in New Hampshire.

Mrs. C. H. Collins is visiting friends in New York.

August Bargains.

SUNSHADES FOR 75 CTS.

Marked down from $1.25.

42 ARMURE DRESS GOODS,

12 1-2 cts. per yd. Regular 25c Goods.

LADIES' MILAN HATS

10c. Regular $1 Goods.

LADIES' GLOVES

15 cents. Regular 25 cent Goods.

— AT —

Frank Cousins'

BEE-HIVE,

SALEM.

POLO.

This popular game adapted for home amusement to play on the table.

PRICE $1.00.

For sale by all dealers. Manufactured by

HORACE A. BROOKS,

BOOK BINDER AND BLANK BOOK MANUFACTURER,

226 Essex Street, Salem, Mass.

FRESH ATTRACTIONS!

— AT —

W. B. GIFFORD & CO'S.

SPECIAL SALE OF BOOKS FOR THIRTY DAYS.

y without regard to cost. The collection embraces over thirty thousand volumes of the best Fiction, History, graphy, Travels, Wit and Humor, etc., etc., every volume of which has been carefully selected and all are half their actual value. Here is a partial list. Examine and decide for yourself:—

	Publishers' Price.	Our Price.
George Eliot's Works, 8 vols., half morocco	$24.00	$ 9.44
George Eliot's Works, 8 vols., cloth, library edition,	12.00	4.98
George Eliot's Works, 8 vols., cloth, Fine edition,	12.00	5.98
George Eliot's Works, 8 vols., half calf.	24.00	10.24
Guizot's History of France, 8 vols., fine edition,	20.00	13.98
Irving's Works, 10 vols., cloth,	15.00	6.98
Irving's Works, 10 vols., half calf,	30.00	12.80
Irving's Works, 3 vols, cloth,	7.50	3 98
Cooper's Sea Tales, 5 vols, cloth,	7.50	4.28
Cooper's Leather Stocking Tales, 5 vols, cloth,	7.50	4.28
Cooper's Complete Works, 16 vols, cloth,	32.00	16.98
Waverly Novels, 12 vols, cloth,	18.00	8.28
Waverly Novels, 24 vols, cloth,	24.00	12.98
Waverly Novels, 12 vols, half calf,	36.00	21.00
Waverly Novels, 24 vols, half calf,	75.00	35.00
Bulwer's Novels 13 vols,	19.50	8.28
Dickens's Works, 15 vols, half morocco,	45.00	17.00
Dickens's Works, 15 vols, cloth,	22.50	6.98
Dickens's Works, 15 vols, cloth gilt back edition,	22.50	9.75
Dickens's Works, 15 vols,, half calf,	49.00	22.50
Thackery's Works, 11 vols, cloth, library edition,	16.50	6.98
Thackery's Works, 11 vols, red cloth and gilt top edition,	16.50	8.88
Black's Works, 7 vols, cloth, library edition,	10.50	5.18
Green's History of the English People, 4 vols,	6.00	2 98
Macaulay's History of England, 5 vols,	5.05	1.48
Macaulay's History of England, 5 vols, red cloth, gilt top,	6.75	4.50
Macaulay's Life and Letters,	1.25	.58
McCarthy's History of Our Own Times, 4 vols, red cloth, gilt top,	6.00	3 78
Knight's History of England, 4 vols,	6.00	3.98
Pultrarch's Lives of Illustrious Men, 3 vols, cloth,	4.50	2.50
Smile's Self-Help Series, 4 vols,	6.00	3.12
Smile's Biographical Series, 3 vols,	4 50	2.18
Hume's History of England, 6 vols,	7.50	3.18
Chamber's Encyclopedia, 12 vols, cloth,	$18.00	$ 7.98
Prescott's Histories, per vol.,	1.50	1.18
Church's Works, 7 vols,	10.50	6.82
Elsie Books, 10 vols,	12.50	8.28
Gibbon's Roman Empire, 5 vols,	5.00	2.98
Shakespeare, 8 vols,	7.50	3.78
Carlyle's French Revolution, 2 vols,	3.00	1.58
Ella Wheeler's Poems of Passion,	1.50	.78
A line of regular Sunday School Books, Pretty Bound and Illustrated
F. Marion Crawford's Latest Work, "Zoroaster,"	1.50	1.28
Gen. Lew Wallace's "Ben Hur—A Tale of Christ,"	1.50	1.38
E. P. Roe's "A Young Girl's Wooing," and others,	1.50	.98
George Eliot's Essays,	1.25	.58
History of Our Own Times, 2 vols,	3.00	1.58
Thackery, 11 vols, half calf,	33.00	14.08
Macaulay's History of England, 5 vols, sheep,	7.50	4.98
Macaulay's Essays, 3 vols, cloth,	3.75	1.99
Bulwer's Novels, 13 vols, half calf,	39.00	21.48
Bulwer's Novels, 25 vols, half calf,	75.00	37.00
Macauley's History of England 5 vols, half calf,	15.00	7.40
Revised edition of the Bible,	1.00	.78
Troubled Waters,	1.25	.88
Afganistan and the Anglo-Russian dispute, illustrated and with maps,	.50	.39
English Classics—All in a Garden Fair, Belinda, Erankestein Outre Mer, Pyperion East Lynn, Tom Brown's School Days, The Mysterious Island, Pilgrims Progress, Imitation of Christ and 50 others,	1.00	.32
Red Line Edition of Standard Poets—Longfellow, Bryant, Whittier, Burns, Byron, Browning, Cowper Coleridge Dante, Eliot, Goethe, Heaven in Song, Hemane, Ingelow, Lucille, Milton, Poe, Pope, Proctor, Religious Poems, Schiller, Shakespeare and 60 others,	1.50	.59
Summer reading—A magnifi- line of illustrated books of
Fiction, embracing all the works of the best modern authors, elegantly bound in illuminated paper covers,	.50	.19
A selected line of the best works of Fiction, bound in colored cloth with gilt tiles, and embracing Her Mother's Sin and Beyond Pardon by Bertha M. Clay, Belinda by Rhoda Broughton; Other Peoples' Money by Emile Gaboriano and hosts of others,	1.25	.58
A beautiful line of 12 mo. books sumptuously bound comprising such works as Life of Washington, Ivanhoe, Oliver Twist, Adam Bede and 50 others,	1.25	.48
Don Quixiote,	5.00	1.98
America Illustrated, 120 wood cuts,	3.00	.98
Wood's Natural History, 300 engravings,	1.25	.78
History of the United States—Frost,	1.35	.78
Josephus's History of the Jews bound in sheep,	8.00	1.88
Poets bound in sheep, large volumes,	3.00	1.88
Gilbert edition of Shakespeare, fully illustrated,	5.00	2.28
A Manual of Ancient History,	1.25	.58
Right and Wrong Uses of the Bible,	1.25	.48
Popular American Dictionary,	1.00	.48
Favorite Dictionary, 35,000 words,	.35	.13
Spencer's Education,	1.50	.58
Emo's Model Speaker for Children,	1.25	.48
Hoyle's Games,	1 50	.98
Miss Parloa's Cook Book,	1.25	.98
Miss Niel's every day Cook Book,	2.25	.48
Song and Instrumental Folios,	.50	.32
An elegant line of Family Bibles.
Hundreds of Humorous Books.
An endless variety of Children's Books to suit all ages.
Treasures New and Old,	5.00	2.98
Ramona by Helen Jackson,	1.50	1.28
Worcester's Condensed Dictionary,	3.00	1.38
Poets bound in Alligator	3.00	1.48

SALE WILL CONTINUE FOR THIRTY DAYS ONLY.

W. B. GIFFORD & CO. MARKET ST., LYNN

GLASSWARE.

We have a large variety of Fancy Cut Glassware which we can offer at Great Bargains. Mason's Improved Preserve Jar we are now offering very low. Call and get our prices.

BARGAIN GOODS.

We have Three counters of the above named, and we can supply you with almost anything in the line of Tinware, Woodenware and General House Supplies. Call and see our stock of 5 and 10 cent Goods.

JUST RECEIVED.

A large lot of the following goods: Pails, Tubs, Rakes, etc., etc., at a low figure.

CLOSING OUT OUR STOCK

Of Hammocks, Freezers, Screen Window and Door Frames.

BIG BARGAINS

In Pocket Knives. We carry a fine stock of Jonathan Crooke's, Ulster, Union, American and many other makes.

SAMUEL TRASK,

WALNUT STREET, PEABODY.

Great Sale of Gents' Low Cut Shoes.

AT LOW FIGURES AT

J. E. HODGKINS' CASH STORE, 22 MARKET ST., LYNN.

Gents' Fine Strap, $1, 1.76, 1.50, 1.75.
Gents' Fine Calf Strap, $2, 2.50, 3, 3.50.
Gents' Fine Oxford Ties, $2, 2.50, 3.75, 4.
Gents' Fine Hand Sewed Oxfords only $4.
Full Lines of Goods for Everybody.

WE HAVE

Just closed a contract with one of the largest manufacturers of Chamber furniture in the country for 2 car loads of

CHAMBER SETS,

consisting of Ash, Black Walnut, Cherry and Painted, which we shall offer to the citizens of Essx County this week, with

I CAR LOAD OF MATTRESSES,

at way down prices, either for cash or on our easy instalment plan, $1 down and $1 a week. We have the largest stock of

Stoves, Ranges,
Furniture, Carpets,
and Crockery,

In fact anything in the house furnishing line to be found in Essex county.

Goods delivered free. Horse and steam cars stop at door. Call and be convinced we can save you money. Send for catalogue price list. Balance of

Refrigerators, Oil Stoves,
and Children's Carriages,
at very low prices.

Curtains made and put up. Carpet made by hand by experienced workers.

D. B. H. POWER & CO.,

123 & 125 PLEASANT ST. 24 SCHOOL ST.,

MARBLEHEAD.

W. C. ROBINSON,

(Successor to Smith & Robinson.)

Dealer in all kinds of

STATIONERY AND
ARTISTS' MATERIALS.

Pictures and Picture Frames.

Everything to be found in a first class establishment.

Everything in our line at Bottom Prices.

The people of Peabody are cordially invited to look at our stock, and see our display of paintings and art work.

We are agents for the celebrated

ROGERS' GROUPS.

☞ Horse cars pass the door.

W. C. Robinson,

MARKET STREET, LYNN, MASS.

TWICE A DAY

HATHAWAY'S ORIGINAL

CREAM HOME MADE BREAD

Hot Morning and Afternoon. Best of goods in our line comprising

Crackers, Bread, Cake and Pastry,

Also rich Bride, Angel and Wedding Cake to order. Fine ornamental work for Wedding, Birthday and Party Cake a specialty.

C. F. Hathaway,

50 LOWELL ST., PEABODY.

BUSHBY & MACURDY'S

CABINET PHOTOGRAPHS

At $3.00 per dozen are 100 per cent. better than any club-check photographs; and are guaranteed fully equal in

Posing, Lighting, Finish and Permanency

to any $10 cabinets, made in Boston or New York.

The largest and best constructed operating studio in New England. 40,000 negatives preserved.

521 Washington St.,

BOSTON.

Elevator from the ground. feb 11—3m

MERRIAM & CO.,

DEALERS IN

WOOD AND COAL

Danversport, Mass.

Kohinoor Coal, Bear Ridge Coal, Sheao kin Coal, Genuine Franklin Coal, Cumberland Coal.

All the best quality. Try them.

For Cash lower than can be bought elsewhere

Orders can be left with B. F. Stevens, Peabody, or by telphone to N. P. Merriam, Tapleyville. and will be promptly attended to.
em—

BATCHELDER & CO.,

DEALER IN

WOOD COAL HAY & STRAW.

Danversport and Peabody.

Cyrus P. Batchelder Chauncy S. Richards

OFFICE IN PEABODY:

7 ALLEN'S BLOCK, SQUARE.

GREAT

REDUCTION IN PRICE OF

COAL

— AT —

PICKERINGS

17 Peabody St., Salem, Mass

WHERE ALL FIRST-CLASS COALS CAN BE FOUND

Specialty made in Steam Coals.

Orders can be left at Office, 12 Front St., or at B. P. Pickering's Store, Salem.

SPECIAL RATES MADE FOR LARGE ORDERS

WHARF, 17 PEABODY STREET

WM. PICKERING, Jr & CO.,

17 Peabody Street.

PATENTS.

R. H. EDDY,

No. 76 State St., oopposite Kilby, Boston;

Secures patents in the United States; also in Great Britain, France and other foreign countries. Copies of the claims of any patents furnished by remitting one dollar. Assignments recorded at Washington. No Agency in the United States possesses superior facilities for obtaining Patents or ascertaining the patentability of inventions. R. H. EDDY, Solicitor of patents.

TESTIMONIALS.

"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse."
CHAS. MASON, Commissioner of Patents.

"Inventors cannot employ a person more trustworthy or more capable of securing for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office."
EDMUND BURKE, late Com. of Patents.

BOSTON, Oct. 19, 1870.
R. H. EDDY, Esq.—Dear Sir: you procured for me, in 1870, my first patent. Since then you have acted for and advised me in hundreds of cases, and procured many patents, re-issues and extensions. I have occasionally employed the best agencies in New York, Philadelphia and Washington, but I still give you almost the whol of my business, in your line, and advise othehr o employ you.
Yours truly, GEORGE DRAPER,
Boston, January 1, 1885.—1 y

FOR SALE.

House and land on Aborn street belonging o the estate of the late P. L. WINCHESTER. The house is two and one-half stores, and contains fourteen rooms, and is in good condition. The land measures about 10,000 feet, and there is connected with the premises a good stable. For terms or further articulars apply to
GEORGE J. WINCHESTER, dec 19 Administrator

ST. JACOBS OIL
TRADE MARK

THE GREAT GERMAN REMEDY FOR PAIN.

CURES
Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Sciatica,
Lumbago, Backache, Headache, Toothache,
Sore Throat, Swellings, Sprains, Bruises, Burns, Scalds, Frost Bites,
AND ALL OTHER BODILY PAINS AND ACHES.
Sold by Druggists and Dealers everywhere. Fifty Cents a bottle.
Directions in 11 Languages.
THE CHARLES A. VOGELER CO.
(Successors to A. VOGELER & CO.) Baltimore, Md., U. S. A.

Lorillard's
CLIMAX-
PLUG TOBACCO,
RED TIN TAG.
IMITATIONS
CLIMAX GRADE

NATIONAL

REAL ESTATE TITLE ASSOCIATION,

114 LA SALLE STREET, CHICAGO, ILL.,

Will undertake the care and management of real estate, make loans and pay taxes for non-residents; examine and guarantee titles. Satisfactory references. Information free. Correspondence solicited.

MASSACHUSETTS

STATE NORMAL SCHOOL

AT WORCESTER.

Twelfth School Year will begin with entrance examination on Thursday, Sept 10, 1885. Unsurpassed advantages for those who wish to become teachers. Tuition and use of text books free. For full information send for catalogue.

E. H. RUSSELL, Principal.

ADVERTISERS by addressing Geo. P. Rowell & Co., 10 Spruce St., New York, can learn the exact cost of any proposed line of Advertising in American Newspapers. ☞ 100-page Pamphlet. 10c.

WHAT IS DYSPEPSIA?

Among the many symptoms of Dyspepsia or indigestion, the most prominent are: Variable appetite; faint, gnawing feeling at pit of the stomach, with unsatisfied craving for food; heartburn, feeling of weight and wind in the stomach, bad breath, bad taste in the mouth, low spirits, general prostration, headache, and constipation. There is no form of disease more prevalent than Dyspepsia, and none so peculiar to the high-living and rapid-eating American people. Alcohol and tobacco produce Dyspepsia; also, bad air, etc. BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS, will cure the worst case, by regulating the bowels and toning up the digestive organs. Sold everywhere.

ROUGH ON RATS."

Clears out rats, mice, roaches, flies, ants, bed, bugs, skunks, chipmunks, gophers. 15c. Druggists.

HEART PAINS.

Palpitation, Dropsical Swellings, Dizziness, Indigestion, Headache, Sleeplessness cured by Wells' Health Renewer

"ROUGH ON CORNS."

Ask for Wells' "Rough on Corns." 15c. Quick complete cure. Hard or soft corns, warts, bunions.

"BUCHU-PAIBA."

Quick, complete cure, all Kidney, Bladder and Urinary Diseases, Scalding, Irritation, Stone, Gravel, Catarrh of the Bladder. $1, Druggists.

BED-BUGS, FLIES.

Flies, roaches, ants, bed-bugs, rats, mice, gophers, chipmunks, cleared out by "Rough on Rats." 15c.

THIN PEOPLE.

"Wells' Health Renewer" restores health and vigor, cures Dyspepsia, Impotence, Sexual Debility. $1.

'ROUGH ON PAIN."

Cures cholera, colic, cramps, diarrhoea, aches, pains, sprains, headache, neuralgia, rheumatism, 20c. Rough on Pain Plasters, 15c.

MOTHERS.

If you are failing, broken, worn out and nervous, use "Wells' Health Renewer." $1. Druggists.

LIFE PRESERVER.

If you are losing your grip on life, try "Wells' Health Renewer," Goes direct to weak spots.

"ROUGH ON PILES."

Cures Piles or Hemorrhoids, Itching, Protruding, Bleeding, Internal or other. Internal and External Remedy in each package. Sure cure, 50c. Druggists.

PRETTY WOMEN.

Ladies who would retain freshness and vivacity Don't fail to try "Wells' Health Renewer."

"ROUGH ON ITCH."

"Rough on Itch" cures humors, eruptions, ring-worm, tetter, salt rheum, frosted feet, chilblains.

"ROUGH ON CATARRH,"

Corrects offensive odors at once. Complete cure of worst chronic cases, also unequaled as gargle for Diptheria, Sore Throat, Foul Breath. 50c.

THE HOPE OF THE NATION.

Children, slow in development, puny, scrawny, and delicate, use "Wells' Health Renewer."

CATARRH OF BLADDER.

Stinging, irritation, inflammation, all Kidney and Urinary complaints, cured by "Buchu-Paiba." $1

"WATER BUGS, ROACHES."

"Rough on Rats" clears them out, also Beetles, Ants.

Hale's Honey the great Cough cure, 25c., 50c. & $1
Glenn's Sulphur Soap heals & beautifies, 25c.
German Corn Remover kills Corns & Bunions
Hill's Hair and Whisker Dye—Black and Brown, 50c.
Pike's Toothache Drops cure in 1 Minute, 25c
Dean's Rheumatic Pills are a sure cure, 50c.
feb 18—1y

STREET
GOSSIP,
AS GLEANED

Notwithstanding our many lines of horse cars, there are many annoyances. A lady who lives on Lowell street above Endicott walked down to the terminus of the Naumkeag road on Lowell street and waited for a car, which she saw approaching. A minute later she looked up and the car instead of coming to the end of the route had turned around and started for the square, and although the lady signaled them to stop they did not hear her. Considerably annoyed she started for the square, resolved in her own mind that she would not patronize a car of that line, and she entered the office of B. F. Stevens expecting to take a Danvers car to the city. She sat there patiently and soon a car from Danvers came around the curve but didn't stop and was nearly out of sight before it could be signaled. The lady was thoroughly provoked and she made her way across the square and secured a seat in the next car of the Naumkeag road as soon as the horses turned around, and after half an hour wasted she was on her way to Salem.

A certain lawyer who has recently had to do with the estate of a wealthy citizen, who has since died, remarked to a friend that it would make a decided difference in the size of his bill whether it was paid by the gentleman before he died or by the executors of his estate. Perhaps it will and then again!

There is a young man who has been paying attention to half a dozen young ladies in this town at the same time and there has been quite a rivalry among them to see which would secure the prize, as the young man is considered quite an eligible one. The girls themselves are growing a little rapidly in the direction of maidenhood and as none of them could seem to bring him to a proposal a new method has been adopted. They have combined and agreed to decline any more invitations to parties or sociables and not even accept a ride. What effect this will have on the young man I am anxiously watching to see.

I shall never dare to trust myself in a dry goods store alone again after what I saw the other day. It may be the regular thing, however, and I am not posted. Standing in the store I noticed the entrance of a handsome lady, the wife of Mr.——, who lives not far from the square. She went along to the young lady clerk and called for a dark blue ribbon, and after looking at several shades she put her foot upon a stool and lifting her dress compared the different shades with a pair of navy blue stockings which covered a well formed limb, and as Mulcahy caught sight of the delicate finery of other garments, he blushingly left the store.

* * *

WHIPPING CHILDREN.—If any of you are going to whip your children again, have your photograph taken in the act. Let it show your red, vulgar face, and let it show the dimpled face of your child. And if that child should die, I cannot think of a sweeter way to spend an autumn afternoon than to go out in the country, and sitting down upon the little mound, to look at the photograph.

* * *

CHEER UP! HELP IS AT HAND.—"I'm afraid I shall have to be taken to a hospital or to the poor house. I've been sick so long that my husband, good and patient as he is, can't stand the worry and expense much longer." See what Parker's Tonic will do for you. Plenty of women as badly off as you are, have been rescued almost from the grave by it. It will build you up, curing all ailments of the stomach, liver and kidneys, and is simple, pleasant and safe.

The Season for August is an exceptionally fine number. The designs in dresses for the coming fall are fully outlined, the colored plates being equal to the well known reputation of this Magazine. No lady can afford to be without the Season. It is published from the original designs in London and Paris, and is unlike the ordinary fashion magazines. Order it of the Peabody News Co., or subscribe for it directly to the International News Co., New York City.

A timely and well authenticated article on the historical associations connected with General Grant's burial place in Riverside Park, will be published in the Magazine of American History for September.

The dress coat is generally worn by the groom at the city wedding; but for the elopement there's nothing like the cutaway.

KEEP IT PURE.

THE LIFE IS THE BLOOD—PREVENT DISEASE—SURGERY THE LAST RESORT—A TELLING LETTER.

Here is a fact for you to think over, viz.: Medical science proves that diseases, no matter how great a variety they seem to have, proceed from comparatively few causes. It is for this reason that some single medicines relieve or cure so wide a range of complaints—some of them appearing almost directly opposite in their natures. When a medical preparation acts at once upon the digestive and urinary organs, and also purifies the blood, the list of difficulties subject to its control is astonishing. But, while many things are said to possess this power, those which actually do exert it are very rare.

It is conceded that DR. KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY, of Rondout, N. Y., is the most effective preparation now in use for all diseases arising from a foul or impure state of the circulation. Hence it is more than likely that if the writer of the following letter had habitually taken "FAVORITE REMEDY" ten years ago, he would never have suffered from Cancer.

PITTSFIELD, MASS., March 22, 1884.
Dr. D. Kennedy, Rondout, N. Y.:

Dear Sir:—About six years ago I was obliged to resort to external treatment for the removal of a cancerous growth on my lip. On my return home, I became sensible that my blood needed a thorough cleansing. My whole system, too, required toning up. While casting about for the best medicine to do this your "FAVORITE REMEDY" was so highly commended in my hearing that I resolved to try it. I did so, and the result surprised me, it was effected so quickly and completely. I soon got over the depression produced by the operation, and since the "FAVORITE REMEDY," which I have continued to take in small doses, has kept me in such health and strength as I never had before, nor expected to have. It is the best blood purifier in the world I am sure of that.
Yours, etc.,
MATTHEW FARRELL.
24 Adams Street.

In all cases when a consultation is deemed desirable.

Address, Dr. David Kennedy, Rondout, N. Y. But, if you have not done so, adopt "FAVORITE REMEDY" as a household friend.

MALARIA.

As an anti-malarial medicine

DR. DAVID KENNEDY'S

FAVORITE REMEDY

has won golden opinions. No traveler should consider his outfit complete unless it includes a bottle of this medicine. If you are exposed to frequent changes of climate, food and water, Favorite Remedy should always be within your reach. It expels malarial poisons, and is the best preventative of chills and malarial fever in the world. It is especially offered as a trustworthy specific for the cure of Kidney and Liver complaints, Constipation and all disorders arising from an impure state of the blood. To women who suffer from any of the ills peculiar to their sex Favorite Remedy is constantly proving itself an unfailing friend—a real blessing. Address the proprietor, Dr. D. Kennedy, Rondout, N. Y. $1 bottle, 6 for $5. by all druggists.

THE BRYANT & STRATTON
COMMERCIAL SCHOOL INK

BOSTON.

Largest & most Successful in the World,

Will Reopen Monday, Sept. 7th.

THE COURSE OF STUDY is thorough, complete and practical. Pupils are fitted for the duties and work of every day life.

THE FACULTY embraces a list of twenty teachers and assistants, elected with special reference to proficiency in each department.

THE STUDENTS are young people of both sexes, full of diligence and zeal.

THE DISCIPLINE is of the highest order and includes valuable business lessons.

THE PATRONAGE is the largest of any Commercial School in the world.

THE REPUTATION of this school for originality and leadership and as the Standard Institution of its kind is generally acknowledged.

THE SCHOOL BUILDING is centrally located and purposely constructed.

SPECIAL COURSE. Short Hand, Type Writing, Composition and Correspondence may be taken as a special course.

SITUATIONS in Business Houses furnished its pupils completes the varied inducements to attend this school.

On and after Aug. 24th, the Principal may be seen daily from 9 till 2 o'clock, at the School Building, 608 Washington street. Prospectus, containing full information, concerning course of study, terms, etc., post free

aug 5—6t

To The Public.

Dr. Gray informs the people of Peabody and vicinity that he is now prepared to administer "Dr. Mayo's vegetable anæsthetic," which is giving universal satisfaction in New England. This anæsthetic is purely a vegetable compound and can be administered with perfect safety to children and people in delicate health. It has no after effect as is apt to be the case in Nitrous Oxide Gas and Ether.

Office hours 8 to 12 A. M., 1 to 5 P. M. Office open evenings only by appointment.

WARREN BANK BUILDING,

PEABODY.

HAZEN A. SPAULDING,

DRUGGIST.

9 Allen's Block, Peabody, Mass.

Where can be found a first class assortment of Pure Drugs and Medicines; also a large assortment of Toilet Articles and Fancy Goods at moderate prices.

A large assortment of Imported, and Domestic Cigars.

Physicians' Prescriptions a Specialty.

HAZEN A. SPAULDING

Store Connected by Telephone.

CRAIG'S

KIDNEY CURE.

The Genuine.

WILLIAM T. LEE

AGENT.

Saving Institutions.

WARREN

FIVE CENTS SAVINGS BANK.

PEABODY

PRESIDENT.
Rufus H. Brown

Vice Presidents,

Stephen Blaney,	Geo. F. Osborne,
Lewis Allen,	Amos Merrill,
Chas. B. Farley,	John A. Lord.

Trustees,

Rufus H. Brown,	Alex. B. Merrill,
Stephen Blaney,	C. Warren Osborne.
Lewis Allen,	Geo. S. Osborne,
Chas. B. Farley,	Nathl. Symonds.
Geo. F. Osborne,	Aaron F. Clark,
Amos Merrill,	Albert A. Messer,
John A. Lord,	John Pinder,
Benj. S. Wheeler,	Wm P. Clark,
Wm. H. Little,	Reuben G. Nelson,
Aaron W. Warren,	Albert H. Merrill.

Clerk,
Albert H. Merrill.

Committee of Investment,
Rufus H. Brown,

Lewis Allen,	Alex. B. Merrill
C. Warren Osborne.	Nathl. Symonds.

Dividends are credited to the depositor as soon as declared, and immediately put upon interest.

New deposits commence drawing interest on the third Wednesday of February, May, August and November.

Peabody, March 6, 1878.

SALEM

FIVE CENTS

SAVINGS

BANK.

Cor. Washington & Essex Sts.,

WILLIAM H. JELLY, President.

CHARLES H. HENDERSON, Treas.

REMOVAL.

F. A. WRUCK

Watchmaker and Jeweller,

Would inform his friends and the public generally that he has removed from 165 to

276 ESSEX STREET,

(Wheeler & Wilson's Sewing Machine Office)

Where he will be pleased to see his former customers and as many new ones as will favor him with their patronage.

FINE WATCH AND CLOCK REPAIRING AT REDUCED PRICES PERSONALLY ATTENDED TO

AGENTS WANTED.

On Salary or Commission

FOR THE

CELEBRATED NEW BOOK,

THE WORLD'S WONDERS,

AS SEEN BY THE GREAT

Tropical and Polar Explorers,

Including the Official History of the late Greeley Expedition in search of the North Pole.

Embracing the travels, discoveries, achievements and marvelous adventures of such distinguished explorers as Speke and Grant, Burton, Sir Samuel Baker and wife, Livingstone, Stanley, Cummings, Du Chaillu, Wallace, Long, Squier, and numerous others in the Tropics; and in the Arctic regions, Franklin, Kane, Hays, Hall, Schwatka, De Long, Greeley, and many others, forming a complete history of exploration, discovery and adventure in all parts of the world, with descriptions of savage races, strange beasts, birds and reptiles, and great natural wonders; a record of marvelous things on the earth, a complete history of all the world's greatest wonders and famous explorations, in one splendid, low-priced, finely illustrated volume of 770 pages, and 200 engravings. A book of wonders, of great value and marvelously interesting. Warmly endorsed by ministers, teachers and many influential people. Outsells all other books! 16 large editions in five months! Splendid employment for men and women everywhere. No capital or experience needed. Send for pictorial circulars and extra terms. Salaries guaranteed. We mean what we say. Address,

HISTORICAL PUBLISHING CO.,
120 & 122 N. 7th St., Philadelphia, Pa.
jy 8—4t

CENTRAL FISH MARKET

(Formerly Southwick's.

RALPH F. DODGE, Prop.

OYSTERS OYSTERS OYSTERS

In the shell or opened.

IPSWICH CLAMS FRESH EVERY DAY,

A good selection of Norfolk, Providence River oysters a specialty. The famous Lynn Haven Bay Oysters.

A good assortment of Fresh, Salt, Smoked and Pickled Fish. Orders received and delivered promptly. Connected by telephone.

At the old stand on the Square, opposite the monument.

WIN more money than at anything else by taking an agency for the best selling book out. Beginners succeed grandly. None fail. Terms free. HALLETT BOOK Co., Portland, Me.

MUNROE & ARNOLD'S

PEABODY AND BOSTON

RAILROAD EXPRESS.

Express leaves Peabody		at	9 47 A. M
Freight "	"	at	5 00 P. M
Express "	Boston	at	3 30 P. M
Freight "	"	at	4 00 P. M

OFFICE AT FREIGHT DEPOT, Peabody

Express Offices in Boston, 174 Washington and 15 New Devonshire Street.

Freight Office in Boston, 128 State Street

☞ Particular attention paid to removing Furniture, collecting Bills, Notes, Drafts &c., Smallest favors thankfully received.

B. M. HILLS'

PEABODY and SALEM

EXPRESS.

CHANGE OF TIME.

Connects with Eastern and No. Conway Trains Leaves Peabody at 7.30 A. M., and 1.30 P. M. Salem, at 10 A. M., and 4.45 P. M.

Order Boxes.—PEABODY, at Holman's, Pickering's, Bushby & Johnson's, Frost's Drug Store and Sutton's Wool Store.

SALEM. at Savory's Express Office, Roberts' Store, corner Washington and Front Sts., and 15 Central Street.

B. M. HILLS' Express connects with the Eastern and Western Expresses.

ESTES'

SALEM AND PEABODY EXPRESS.

Leaves Peabody at 7.30 A. M., 1.30 P. M.
Leaves Salem at 10.30 A. M., 4.30 P. M.

Order Slates in Peabody, at G. Stevens', G. H. Jacobs', L. Pratt's, B. B. Humphrey's, W. O. Batchelder's.

In Salem at J. V. & J. Hanson & Co's, Roberts Fruit Store, Henry Hale's, E. Heffernan's, J. J. Mullin, F. C. Radford's, C. A. Ropes & Son, Geo A. Wells & Co's., C. M. Buffum's.

Connects with Eastern Express. Also connects with No. Conway, and the Beverly, Ipswich and Marblehead Expresses.

All orders promptly attended to and satisfaction guaranteed.

CHAS. H. ESTES.

TOWNSEND'S

PEABODY & BOSTON

EXPRESS.

Leaves Peabody at 10 A. M. over the Wakefield Branch R. R.

Leaves the Boston Office, 32 Court Square, at 2 P. M.

All business entrusted to my care will be safely and carefully attended to. Daily and weekly papers supplied.

Order Slates:—At B. F. Stevens', Bushby's, Batchelder's, B. B. Humphrey's, E. S. Howard's, and Nugent Bros. stores.

JAMES F. FOYE.

THOMAS H. O'KEEFE.

JOBBING AND EXPRESSING

of all kinds promptly attended to.

Persons desiring the removal of furnitue or ashes, rubbish, you can have such work satisfactorily done by leaving orders at G., Stevens', Batchelder's, or addressing Box 545, Peabody.

NEW COUPE.

Henry C. Wilson would inform the public that he will run a

PUBLIC CARRIAGE

to and from each train, and will also attend to calls around town, and to late trains and entertainments in Salem. Will also attend to Baggage Expressing and Jobbing of all kinds. Terms Reasonable. Order slate at Depot.

HENRY C. WILSON,
Peabody Mass.

CROSS,

PHOTOGRAPHER.

☞ There having been demand or more Clubs, I have concluded to issue a limited number.

INDUCEMENTS:

Two dozen Cards and two Cabinets given to any one getting up a Club of ten persons. Price of Club, $20. Each person to have one dozen Cards and one Cabinet finished in any of the different styles desired.

IRA P. NADOR,

DEALER IN

CHOICE CONFECTIONERY

46 MARKET STREET LYNN

CHARLES SIMONDS,

LIVERY STABLE,

(HOTEL STABLE).

SAFE and Reliable Horses, and Easy Carriages of the best style, furnished at short notice, for Funerals, Weddings, Business or Pleasure Riding.

$200,000 in presents given away. Send us 5 cents postage, and by mail you will get free a package of goods of large value, that will start you in work that will at once bring you in money faster than anything else in America. All about the $200,000 in presents with each box. Agents wanted everywhere, of either sex, of all ages, for all the time, or spare time only, to work for us at their own home. Fortunes for all workers absolutely assured. Don't delay. H. HALLETT & Co., Portland, Maine.

Professional Cards.

THOMAS M. STIMPSON

Attorney and Counselor-at-Law.

194 ESSEX STREET, SALEM,

Residence Lowell Street, Peabody.

HENRY WARDWELL,

Attorney and Counselor-at-Law.

PEABODY,

And 35 Court St., Boston

FRANK E. FARNHAM,

Attorney and Counselor-at-Law.

REAL ESTATE, INSURANCE AND INVESTMENT AGENT,

ALLEN'S BLOCK Peabody Square,

REMOVAL.

B. C. PERKINS,

Counselor at Law,

Has removed to Kinsman's Block,

81 WASHINGTON STREET, SALEM.

Evening consultations at residence, Peabody.

EUGENE T. McCARTHY,

Attorney and Counsellor at Law.

NO. 8 ALLEN'S BLOCK,

PEABODY.

oct 29—1y

MISS MARY E. LYNCH

TEACHER OF

Piano and Organ.

South Peabody, Mass.

Terms of tuition 8 and 10 dollars. Pupils visited at their homes if desired.

MISS ANNIE L. ORR,

TEACHER OF

VOCAL & INSTRUMENTAL MUSIC

Would solicit pupils. For terms apply to W P. Clark, or Miss Orr, No. 7 Palfry Place. Lynn, Mass. apr 29

Business Cards.

HENRY L. WHIDDEN,

PAINTER.

Orders left at A. H. Whidden's Store will be attended to.

J. H. ALLEN,

UNDERTAKER,

Removed to 36 St. Peter street, Salem
jan 11

W. S. OSBORNE,

TOWN UNDERTAKER & FURNISHER.

Home, 96 Central St., Peabody. Office Second Door west of Hay Scales.

EDWIN B. BALCOM,

Architect and Builder.

Plans, Specifications and Estimates furnished at Short Notice. Contracts Made and Faithfully executed.

Shop on Walnut St. Residence, 78 Washington St.

PEABODY, MASS.

DISTIN,

TAILOR.

Call and inspect my stock of Woolens, a full line constantly on hand.

WARREN NATIONAL BANK BUILDING.

oct1

$1

13 WEEKS.

The POLICE GAZETTE will be mailed, securely wrapped, to any address in the United States for three months on receipt of

ONE DOLLAR.

Liberal discount allowed to postmasters, agents and clubs. Sample copies mailed free. Address all orders to

RICHARD K. FOX,

FRANKLIN SQUARE, N. Y.

TRY LYONS'

Hair Tonic.

It cleanses the scalp, removes dandruff, and promotes the growth of the hair.

Price 50 Cents per Bottle.

Put up and for sale only by

P. J. LYONS,

on the square.

HELP for working people. Send 10 cents postage, and we will mail you free, a royal, valuable sample box of goods that will put you in the way of making more money in a few days than you ever thought possible at any business. Capital not required. You can live at home and work in spare time only, or all the time. All of both sexes, of all ages, grandly successful, 50 cents to $5 easily earned every evening. That all who want work may test the business, we make this unparalleled offer: To all who are not well satisfied we will send $1 to pay for the trouble of writing us. Full particulars, directions, etc., sent free. Immense pay absolutely sure for all who start at once. Don't delay. Address STINSON & Co., Portland, Me.

HEADQUARTERS !

FOR CIGARS.

THE BEST

to be found in the world? To prove it just call at the HORSE RAILROAD STATION on the Square, and see them.

GEO. STEVENS,

PEABODY SQUARE,

Agent for the Naumkeag Laundry.

MAYO'S

Compound Vegetable Anæsthetic.

A safe and pleasant substitute for gas and ether.

Discovered by Dr. N. K. Mayo of Boston, April 1883, subsequently administered by him in nearly two thousand cases, producing perfect slumber, being applicable to the child, the delicate sentitive woman as well as the hardy man. No ill effects have followed its use in any case, it acting rather as a vegetable tonic.

It controls the patient one-fourth longer than gas giving us time to remove from three to twenty teeth. It is with great confidence we have introduced it into our practice, giving very successful results.

DRS. FRIZZELL & WILLIAMS

DENTISTS.

LEE HALL.

Opposite City Hall, Lynn, Mass.

Administered also at our branch office, Marblehead.

Dr. Williams' Toothache Drops at Druggists.

O. B. CHADWICK & CO.,

(SUCCESSORS TO CHAS. TAPLEY)

FIRE INSURANCE AGENTS

NO. 8 ALLEN'S BLOCK, PEABODY

Over $12,000,000 Cash Capital represented

Also Agents for Holyoke, Merrimac, Quincy, and Dorchester Mutual Fire Ins. Cos.

Particular attention given to insuring Household Furniture, Family Wearing Apparel, Musical Instruments, Libraries, and Merchandise of all kinds in sums of $100 and upward, for one, three or five years, at the lowest rates.

TRADE VITA MARK

LINIMENT!

No Compound has ever been Invented so Useful and Efficacious in Curing Rheumatism, Pains in the Side, Hip, Back and Limbs, Stiff, Weak and Enlarged Joints, Sore Throat, Headache, Neuralgia, Piles, Hard Tumors, Bee Stings, Chapped Hands, Bunions, Burns, Frosted Feet, Mosquito Bites, Bruises and Sprains of all kinds.

Price 25 cents.

VITA CO., New York

D. P. GROSVENOR.

PHARMACIST AND DRUGGIST.

Compounder of

Physicians Prescriptions

and dealer in

RELIABLE DRUGS.

35 MAIN STREET.

PEABODY. MASS.

PEABODY LAUNDRY.

Goods called for and delivered free of charge.

C. A. SANGER

7 LOWELL STREET,

UP STAIRS.

SWEETSER'S

DRUG STORE

NO, 37 MAIN STREET,

PEABODY

Drugs and Medicines of all kinds; Toilet Articles, Sponges, Brushes, Perfumery, &c., constantly on hand.

Prescriptions carefully and promptly prepared.

REMOVED TO

No. 241 Essex St.,

PRICE BLOCK,

DANIEL T. SMITH,

Watchmaker.

AGENTS WANTED for Twenty Years of Congress,
1861—1881,
by James G. Blaine.

Hon. J. S. Wise of Va. says "Whoever takes it up, no matter whether he be Mr. Blaine's friend or enemy, will never put it down until he has read the whole." Agents make from $200 to $1000 per month. Address, The Henry Bill Pub. Co., Norwich, Conn.

Railroads.

BOSTON & LOWELL R. R.

SALEM BRANCH.

NEW EXPRESS TRAIN

Salem to Lowell

AND THE

White Mountains.

BEGINNING

MONDAY, JULY 13TH,

A NEW EXPRESS TRAIN WILL

LEAVE SALEM

At 9.10 A. M. for Lowell,

Stopping only at Peabody and connecting at Lowell with the Through Express for the

WHITE MOUNTAINS

AND FOR

MONTREAL VIA PLYMOUTH.

Returning, a new Express Train will leave

LOWELL FOR SALEM

At 4.55 P. M.

Connecting with Express Train leaving the White Mountains in the Morning.

Excursion Tickets

AND

Parlor Car Seats

May be secured at the Company's Office, 85 Washington St., Salem.

CHAS. ODELL, Agent.

C. S. MELLEN, Gen. Supt.
LUCIUS TUTTLE Gen. Pass. Agt.

OLD COLONY RAILROAD.

SEASON OF 1885.

Excursion Rates

FROM BOSTON.

To	Rates
Barnstable and return	$2.90
Brant Rock and return	2.00
Brewster and return	3.60
Buzzard's Bay and return	2.15
Cataumet and return	2.40
Duxbury and return	1.50
East Brewster and return	3.70
East Marshfield and return	1.20
East Wareham and return	2.10
Eastham and return	3.90
Egypt and return	1.00
Falmouth and return	2.75
Fairhaven and return	2.30
Greenbush and return	1.10
Harwich and return	3.40
Hyannis and return	3.00
Kingston and return	1.50
Marshfield and return	1.40
Marion and return	2.00
Mattapoisett and return	2.20
Monument and return	2.20
Monument Beach and return	2.25
Nantucket and return	4.00
Newport and return	2.50
North Eastham and return	4.00
North Falmouth and return	2.45
North Harwich and return	3.30
North Sandwich and return	2.30
North Scituate and return	.95
North Truo and return	4.55
Oak Bluffs and return	3.00
Onset Bay and return	2.15
Orleans and return	3.75
Plymouth and return	1.50
Pocassett and return	2.35
Provincetown and return	4.80
Rock and return	1.55
Sandwich and return	2.50
Sea View and return	1.25
Scituate and return	1.05
South Dennis and return	3.25
South Duxbury and return	1.50
South Middleboro and return	1.65
South Truo and return	3.45
South Wareham and return	1.90
South Wellfleet and return	4.15
South Yarmouth and return	3.20
Tremont and return	1.80
Truo and return	4 40
Wareham and return	1.95
Wellfleet and return	4.25
West Barnstable and return	2.75
West Falmouth and return	2.55
West Sandwich and return	2.40
Woods Holl and return	2.85
Yarmouth and return	3.00

Tickets are limited to continuous passage only in either direction.

Tickets sold from June 1st to October 1st good to return until November 1st of year of date.

J. SPRAGUE, Jr.,
Gen.'l Pass. Agent.
J. R. KENDRICK,
Gen'l Manager.

BOSTON & LOWELL R. R.
JUNE 29, 1885.

PASSENGER SERVICE FROM SALEM:

Leave Salem for Lowell, and Lawrence at 7 10, 10 55 A. M., 4 40 P. M. Sunday 7 20 P. M.

Leave Lowell for Salem, at 7 35 A. M., 1 10, 6 P. M. Sunday 7 43 A. M.

Leave Lawrence for Salem, at 7 45 A. M., 1 05, 6 P. M. Sunday 7 45 A. M.

Leave Wilmington Junction for Salem, at 8 09 A. M., 1 38, 6 24 P. M. Sunday 8 13 A. M.

Leave North Reading for Salem, at 8 20 A. M., 1 48, 6 34 P. M. Sunday 8 24 A. M.

Leave West Peabody for Salem, at 8 34 A. M., 2, 6 45 P. M. Sunday 8 36 A. M.

The 7 10 A. M. and 4 40 P. M. trains from Salem connect at Wilmington Junction for Boston via B. & L. R. R.

Leave Boston (Boston & Lowell Depot) for Wilmington Junction and North Reading, at 1, 5 30 P. M.

All trains from Salem connect at Lowell for Nashua, Manchester and Concord, N. H.

The 7 10 A. M. train connects at Lowell for Peterboro, Keene and intermediate stations.

The 10 55 A. M. train connects at Ayer Junction for stations on W. & N. R. R., Springfield, Hartford, New Haven and New York; also for Troy, Albany and the West via Hoosac Tunnel Line.

C. S. MELLEN, Gen'l Supt.
LUCIUS TUTTLE, Gen'l Pass. Agent.

A PRESENT!

Our readers for 12 cents in postage stamps to pay for mailing and wrapping and names of two book agents, will receive FREE a Steel Finish Parlor Engraving of all OUR PRESIDENTS, including Cleveland, size 22x28 inch, worth $4. Address

ELDER PUB. CO., Chicago,

Boston & Maine R. R.

SEASHORE LINE.

— THE —

SHORTEST,
QUICKEST and BEST ROUTE

— TO —

LAKE WINNIPESAUKEE

— AND THE —

WHITE MOUNTAINS.

FROM SALEM TO FABYANS.

The Centre of the White Mountain Region

65 Miles Shorter and nearly 2 hours Quicker

THAN ANY OTHER ROUTE.

Leave Salem	10.10 A. M.,	2.02 P. M.
Arr. Wolfboro	1.05 P M.,	5.20 P. M.
Arr. No. Conway	2 00 "	6.05 "
Arr. Crawford House	3.10 "	7.15 "
Arr. Fabyans	3 25 "	7.30 "
Arr. Bethlehem	4.28 "
Arr. Profile House	4.47 "

RETURNING,

Leave Fabyans at 9.35 A. M. and 2.10 P. M.
Arr. at Salem at 3.12 A. M. and 7.57 P. M.

Elegant Pullman Cars on all Trains Running Through to Fabyans.

EXCURSION RATES FROM SALEM

SPECIAL LIMITED.

Alton Bay	and Return,	$3.50
Wolfboro,	" "	4.00
Centre Harbor,	" "	4 00
Long Island,	" "	4.00
Weirs,	" "	4.00
Lake Village,	" "	4.00
Crawford House, good for the season,		10.00
Fabyans	and return "	10.50
Bethlehem	" " "	12.20
Profile House	" " "	14.50

EXCURSION TICKETS

May be procured at the Salem Station.

PARLOR CAR SEATS

Send on application to

L. W. MARDEN, Ticket Agent.

JAS. T. FURBER, General Manager.
D. J. FLANDERS, Gen'l Pass. Agent.

BOSTON & LOWELL R. R.

MERRIMAC VALLEY ROUTE,

TO THE

White Mountains,
Montreal, Quebec,

AND ALL PARTS OF

Vermont,
New Hampshire
and Canada.

Accelerated Summer Service from Boston.

In Effect Jnne 29, 1885.

8.30 A. M. Express for Weirs, Centre Harbor, Wolfboro' and Montreal, with through parlor cars via Plymouth and via White River Junction,

9.30 A. M. White Mountains Express, with through parlor cars to Weirs, Plymouth, Jefferson, Fabyan, Twin Mountain House and Mount Pleasant House; connecting for Maplewood, Bethlehem, Profile House Crawford and Mount Washington.

1.00 P. M. White Mountains and Montreal Express. With Mann Boudoir Car to Fabyan, etc., and parlor cars to Weirs, Plymouth and Montreal; connecting for Centre Harbor, Wolfboro', Maplewood, Bethlehem, Crewford's, Jefferson, etc.

3.00 P. M. Local train for Plymouth, White River Junction, Weirs, etc.

5.00 P. M. Fast Express for Lowell, Nashua, Amherst, Milford and Wilton.

7.00 P. M. Night Express for Montreal, via Plymouth and White River Junction, with Pullman Sleeping Cars.

Excursion tickets at lowest rates are procurable at the Company's offices, 218 Washington Street, third door South of Old State House, and at Causeway Street Station.

C. S. MELLEN, General Superintendent.
LUCIUS TUTTLE, Gen'l Pass. Agent.

ALLAN LINE

ROYAL MAIL STEAMSHIPS

Sailing from Quebec every Saturday for Liverpool.

SHORTEST OCEAN VOYAGE

Only five days from land to land.

Extra services from GLASGOW, GALWAY, QUEENSTOWN and LONDONDERRY to Boston direct for the convenience of Steerage passengers, to whom kind treatment is made a Specialty. Cabin. $70 and $80. Intermediate. $40. Steerage at Low Rates.

LEVE & ALDEN, Gen'l Pass. Agts.

15 State Street, Boston.

JOHN LINEHAN, Agt. for Peabody.

COMER'S COMMERCIAL COLLEGE,

666 Washington Street, BOSTON.

Thorough and Comprehensive Instruction in all Studies Essential to Success in Business.

Students may commence at any time, Receive Individual Instruction and progress according to ability and application. Separate department for Ladies. Graduates Aided to Employment. Young people receive instruction here that will insure a successful start in business, and that will benefit them throughout their business career. For 45th Annual Catalogue, Address C. E. COMER.

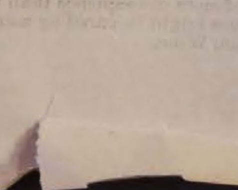
jy 15—13t



REVISED VERSION.

[illegible] cat for [illegible] Rare chance for [illegible] to make money. Send $1.00 for outfit. TERMS VERY LIBERAL. The Henry Bill Pub. Co., Norwich, Conn.

A MODEST LITTLE GIRL WHO DREW THE LINE AT BOYS' PANTS.—Mrs. McSpilkins is one of the most precise and dignified ladies in Austin and moving in the most aristocratic circles. A few days ago her aristocratic sensibilities received a shock that prostrated her upon a bed of sickness. She went to a store on Austin avenue, accompanied by her little girl Maud, aged ten. There were quite a number of gentlemen in the store. Mrs. McSpilkins wished to buy a hat for Johnny, who had been left at home, and knowing that his head was the same size as Maud's, she commenced trying boys' hats on Maud. None of the hats fit and Maud grew very tired having boys hats tried on her head. At last Mrs. McSpilkins said to the clerk:

"You have got no hats here of the right size, but I wish you would let me see some boys' pants."

Then Maud spoke up so everybody could hear:

"I say, ma, I nope you ain't going to make me try on all the boys' pants there are in the store, are you?"—Texas Siftings.

◆

A former President of the Pennsylvania State Board of Charities, himself a supporter of the theory that convict labor should be productive as far as was compatible with reformatory treatment says: Nothing has led to greater deterioration of prison discipline, corruption of the prison-keepers and demoralization of the prisoners, than this system of contract labor wherever it has been adopted. It completely annuls the idea of reformation as an object of prison labor and makes it a means of petty pecuniary profit or pecuniary relief to the State(in which it sometimes signally fails,) and of untold and irreponsible oppressions and cruelties on the part of the interested and unfeeling overseers, and drivers.

◆

It is not generally known that the man who refuses to pay for his newspaper can be prosecuted like an ordinary criminal for theft. A New York newspaper has begun suit against several delinquent subscribers under the United States postal laws, which say: "The taking of a newspaper and refusal to pay for the same renders a person liable to criminal prosecution as a thief, and the person guilty of the same can be punished as if he had stolen goods to the amount of subscription." The penalty is the same when a subscriber refuses to take a paper from the Post Office without first paying arrearages.

◆

A certain hotel proprietor had among his colored servants one Lizzie Jackson and this name was continued on the pay-roll long after Lizzie had taken unto herself a husband. The hotel keeper suggested a change, and Lizzie was called upon to give the name she had a right to be known by. Lizzie stood for some time in an attitude of profound thought, her dusky hand across her swarthy brow, and at last exclaimed, "My lands, boss! I can't 'member dat nigger's name nohow!"—Harper's Bazar.

◆

NOT A SINGLE GRAY HAIR.—"You may laugh and think me a vain thing," writes Mrs. J. R. C., of San Francisco, to a friend in this city, "but I have not a gray hair in my head, and yet (sad to say) I am fifty and a day. Recently my hair was not only quite gray but quite thin, too. Parker's Hair Balsam— made in New York, I think—did wonders for me. Try it if you have occasion. It really does what I say, and restores the color also.' Not a dye, not greasy, highly perfumed. Only reliable 50c. dressing.

When a Pittsburg minister preaches on cleanliness being next to godliness the members of the congregation wipe the soot off their faces.

The President of the Cambridge, Mass., Fire Ins. Co., recommends Hood's Sarsaparilla as a building up and strengthening remedy.

And now they have a new lawn rake out. After awhile a man can just lay abed and the lawn will move and rake itself.

CURE FOR CROUP.—Use Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil, according to directions. It is the best remedy for all sudden attacks of colds, pain and inflammation, and for injuries.

Major-General John C. Robinson, U. S. A., will contribute a paper entitled "Baltimore in 1861," to the War Studies of the September Magazine of American History. As he was in command of Fort McHenry when the Massachusetts troops were assaulted in passing through Baltimore April 19, 1861, his account of the scenes will be of surpassing interest.

A scientific writer has published an elaborate article on "The Fuel of the Future." It used to be considerd settied that the fuel of the future is chiefly brimstone.

"What is wanted," says a clergyman, "is a recreation that is inexpensive, that furnishes physical exercise and is harmless to the morals." We should think that sawing wood would about fill the bill.

The heated term still lingers!

WE HAVE SAVED MONEY

Is what OUR PEABODY FRIENDS and PATRONS say after visiting our store and securing some of the

GREATEST BARGAINS

— IN —

BABY CARRIAGES,
OIL STOVES,
REFRIGERATORS,

Parlor Suits, Dhamber Sets, Carpeting, Ranges, Lamps, Silver Ware, Crockery and all kinds of Housekeeping Goods that we are now offering for CASH or on very easy terms of payments.

Goods on Instalments one of our specialties.

151 HANOVER ST., BOSTON.

W. P. B. BROOKS & CO.,

W. P. B. BROOKS, ALEX. D. DAMON, FRED. D. SPERRY.

E. R. MORSE SAFE CO.

MANUFACTURER OF

FIRE & BURGLAR PROOF SAFES, VAULT DOORS, STEEL CHESTS, SILVER SAFES, EXPRESS SAFES, FIRE AND THIEF PROOF JEWEL BOXES.

76 & 78 SUDBURY STREET, BOSTON.

Second hand SAFES.

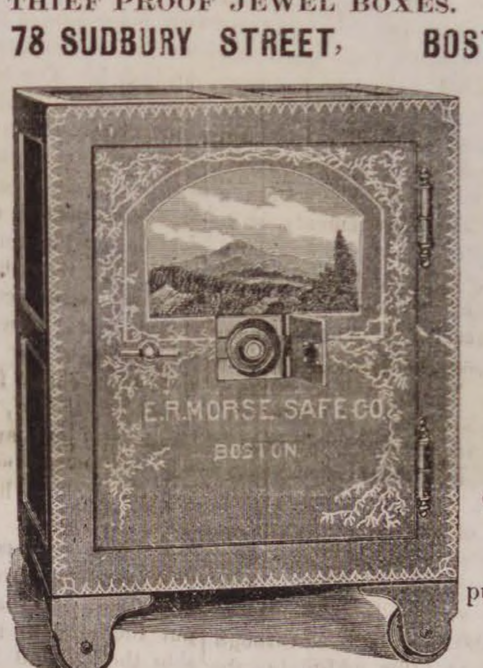
SAFES bought and sold.

SAFES opened and repaired.

SAFES exchanged.

SAFES moved.

Combination LOCKS put on to Old Safes.



E. R. MORSE SAFE CO.
BOSTON

Our Safes have on a PATENT CONCEALED DIAL LOCK which is used as a day door and is a great protection in case of fire, as the dial cannot be melted or broken off.

E. R. MORSE.

Was established in business October 10th, 1844.

NAUMKEAG BREWERY,

NO. 60 UNION STREET, SALEM.

We are prepared to fill orders for our

SPARKLING CREAM ALE

TO THE TRADE AND PRIVATE FAMILIES.

This Ale is brewed from the best Canada Malt combined with the choicest New York State Hops and Wenham Lake Water. For delicacy of flavor and sparkling brilliancy it cannot be excelled by any ale in the market and we Guarantee it strictly pure.

We make a specialty supplying private families, and respectfully solicit the patronage of the public generally who appreciate a pure and healthful beverage.

BARRELS, - - - - - -	$7.50
HALF BARRELS, - - - -	3.75

Ground Malt and Hops for Sale.

Orders by Mail or Telephone Promptly Filled.

ARTESIAN AND DRIVEN WELLS.

All of our

DRIVEN WELLS

for Domestic, Farm, or any other purpose well, receive prompt attention.

Thousands of these wells are being used in Tanneries, Breweries and other manufactories, where cool and better water is needed and also save water bills.

We are also prepared to

DRILL WELLS

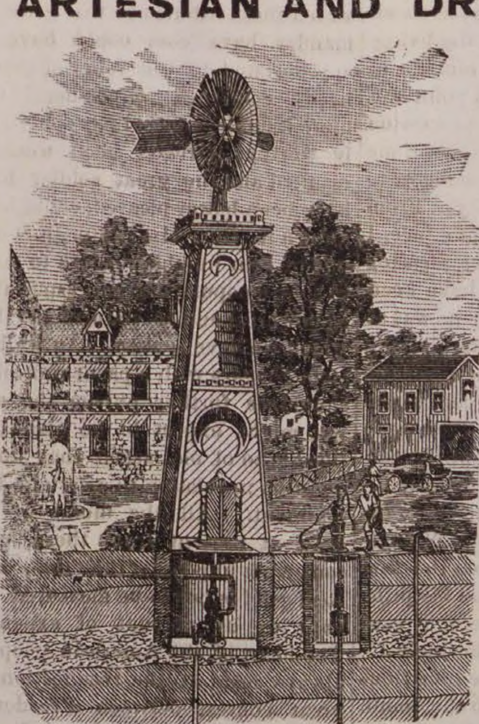
six or eight inches in diameter through earth or rock, by steam power.

B. F. SMITH,

OFFICE,

266 WASHINGTON STREET,

Room 3, Boston



Cut showing the Driven Well flowing, pumped by Hand and Wind Power. Arranged with Set-Length, (anti-freezing), for Domestic, Farm and Irrigating purposes; where large amount of water is needed Steam Pumps are.

A PRIZE Send six cents for postage, and receive free, a costly box of goods which will help you to more money right away than anything else in this world. All, of either sex, succeed from first hour. The broad road to fortune opens before the workers, absolutely sure. At once address, TRUE & Co., Augusta, Me.

FREDERIC G. PRESTON,

Attorney and Counsellor at Law,

ALLEN'S BLOCK.

RESIDENCE, 171 BOSTON ST., SALEM.

Conveyances.

BOSTON & MAINE RAILROAD On and after Monday, Je. 28, 1885 trains will run as follows,—

EASTERN DIVISION,

TRAINS LEAVE PEABODY FOR BOSTON AT 6 44, 7 25, 8 02, 8 31, 10 33, 11 07 A. M., 2 01, 3 37, 5 08, 6 46 P. M.

BOSTON FOR PEADODY, 8, 10 55 A. M., 1 M., 3, 4, 4 40, 5 15, 6 P. M.

LEAVE SALEM FOR

Lynn and Boston at 5 37, 6, 6,30, 7, 7 14, 7 35, 7 48, 7 51, 8 13, 8 34 (does not stop at Lynn), 8 40, 8 58, 9 20, 9 55, 10.48 A.M., 12 M., 12 30, 12 52, 2 15, 3 12, 3 45, 4 10, 4 25, 5 17, 5 48, 6 33, 6.58, 7 20, 7 57, 8 55, 9, 9 55 P. M. Sundays, 5.37, 8 40, 11 35 A. M., 1 05, 3 05, 5 40, 8 15, P. M.

Swampscott, 6, 6 30, 7 14, 7.48 7 51, 8 40, 8 58, 10 48, A. M., 12 M, 12 52, 2 15, 3 45, 4 25, 5 17, 5 48, 6 33, 6 58, 7 20, 7 57, 9, 9 55, P. M. Sundays, 8 40 11 35 A. M., 1 05, 3 05, 5 40, 8 15 P. M.

Beverly, 6 53, 8 11, 8 40, 10 42, 11 20 A. M., 12 02, 1 05, 2 27, 2 47, 3 56, 4 05, 5 12, 5 57, 6 37, 7 05, 7 15, 7 45, 10 10, 11, P. M. Sundays 8 45 A. M.

Beverly Farms, Manchester and Gloucester—6 53, 8 40, 11 20 A. M., 2 47, 4 07, 5 35, 7 05, 7 45, 10 10 P M

Essex, 8 11 A. M., 3 56, 6 37 P. M.

Ipswich, 8 11, 9 35, 10 42 A. M., 1 05, 2 27, 3 56, 5 12, 6 37, 7 15 P. M, Sundays 8 45 A. M., 7 30 P. M.

Newburyport, 8 11, 9 35, 10, 10 42 A. M., 1 05, 2 02, 2 27, 3 56, 5 12, 6 37, 7 15 P. M. Sundays 8 45 A. M., 7 30 P. M.

Amesbury, 8 11, 10 42 A. M., 1 05, 3 56, 5.12 P. M.

Portsmouth—8 11, 9 35, 10, 10 42 A. M., 1 05, 2 02, 3 56, 5 12, ‡7 15 P. M. Sundays 8 45 A. M., 7 30 P. M.

Dover, 8 11, A. M., 2 02, 5 12 P. M.

Great Falls and Rochester, 8 11, 10 A. M., 2 02, 3 56 P. M.

Wolfboro—8 11, 10 A, M., 2 02, 3 56 P. M.

North Conway—8 11, 10 A M., 2 02 P. M.

Portland—8 11, 9 35 A M, 1 05, ‡7 15 P M. Sundays 7 30 P. M.

Augusta—9 35 A. M., 1 05, †7 15 P. M. Sundays 7 30 P. M.

Bangor—9 35 A. M., 1 05, †7 15 P. M. Sundays 7 30 P. M.

St. John and Halifax, 9 35 A. M. †7 15 P. M. Sundays, 7 30 P. M.

Montreal, 9 35 P. M.

And FOR SALEM—from

Montreal—10 15 P. M.

St. John—8 P. M. (daily except Saturday).

Bangor. 8 A. M., 1 30, 8 P. M. Sundays 8 P. M.

Augusta, 6, 10 A. M., 2 45, 10 55 P. M. Sundays 10 55 P. M.

Portland—2, 9 A M. 1, 6 P M. Sundays, 2 A. M,

North Conway—7 20, 11 A M, 3 30 P. M.

Wolfboro—6 05 (Mondays only), 8 15, 11 20 A M, 4 05 P M.

Rochester—7 22, 9 42 A. M., 1 05, 5 37 P. M.

Great Falls—7 38, 9 57 A. M, 1 18, 5 50 P. M.

Dover—7, 10 25 A. M., 4 30 P. M

Portsmouth—4 05, 7 30, 7 35, 8 20, 10 50 A M, 1 55, 2 55, 5, 6 40, 7 40 P M, Sundays, 4 05 A. M, 4 P. M.

Amesbury—6 40, 8 40, 11 15 A. M, 1 30, 3 05, 5 20 P. M.

Newburyport—4 45, 6 30, 7, 8, 8 13, 9 05, 11 35 A. M. 2 35, 3 30, 3 38, 5 43, 7 20, 8 15 P. M. Sundays, 4 45 A. M., 4 45 P. M.

Ipswich—5 07, 6 48, 7 17, 8 15, 8 31, 9 25, 11 59 A. M., 2 49, 3 55, 6 06, 7 36 P. M. Sundays 5 07 A. M., 5 06 P. M.

Essex—7, 11 45 A. M, 5 45 P. M.

Rockport—6 05, 7 20, 8 39, 10 A. M, 1 20, 5, 6 10, 9 P. M. Sundays—7 45 A. M.

Gloucester—6 15, 7 29, 8 39, 10 08 A M, 1 30, 5 08 6 20, 9 09 P M. Sundays—7 55 A. M.

Manchester—6 30, 7 42, 8 51, 10 21 A. M., 1 45, 5 22, 6 32, 9 23 P. M. Sundays, 8 09 A. M.

Beverly—6 50, 7 05, 7 40, 8 05, 8 50, 9 11, 9 45, 10 40 A. M., 12 20, 12 45, 2 05, 4 16, 5 40, 6 23, 6 50, 7 08, 7 50, 9 43, 11 10 P. M. Sundays 8 30 A. M., 5 30 P. M.

Swampscott,—6 44, 8 50, 10 34, 11 26, 11 54 A. M., 12 36, 2 19, 3 28, 4 31, 6 29, 6 28, 6 56, 8 29, 10, 10 49, 11 49 P. M. Sundays 8 36, 11 17 A. M., 1 57, 5 51, 10 11 P. M.

Lynn—6 40, 7 59, 8 30, 8 46, 9 25, 9 51, 10 30, 11 10, 11 23, 11 51 A. M., 12 33, 12 55, 1 52, 2 15, 3 25, 3 45, 3 55, 4 28, 5 03, 5 24, 5 45, 6 16, 6 25, 6 52, 7 05, 7 35, 8 25, 9 55, 10 45, 11 45 P. M. Sundays 8 32, 11 14 A. M, 1 03, 5 47, 7 22, 10 06, P. M.

Boston—6 10, 7 30*, 8, 8 05, 9, 9 30, 10, 10 45, 10 55 11 15 A. M. 12 M., 12 30, 1 30, 1 40, 2 15, 3, 3 20, 3 30, 4, 4 40, 5, 5 15, 5 40, 6, 6 20, 6 40, 7 10, 7 50, 9 20, 10 15, 11 15 P M. Sundays, 8, 10 40 A. M. 1 20, 5 10, 7, 9 30 P. M.

*Via Saugus Branch.
†Change at Newburyport.

MARBLEHEAD BRANCH.

Salem for Marblehead—6 50, 7 55, 8 40, 9 30 A M, 1, 2 30, 4 20, 5 15, 6 05, 7 20 P M.

Marblehead for Salem—6 30, 7 30, 8 15, 9 10, 10 15 A M, 2 3 20, 4 55, 5 40, 6 25 P M.

SOUTH READING BRANCH.

Trains leave the South Reading Depot in Salem for Boston, 7 25, 9 05 A. M., 1 40, 4 35 P. M.

Boston for Salem—7 40, 11 30 A M, 3 10, 5 15 P. M.

Wakefield for Salem—8 13 A M, 12 06, 3 43, 5 48 P M.

Lynnfield for Salem—8 24 A M, 12 16, 3 52, 5 59 P M.

Peabody for Salem—8 35 A M, 12 27, 4 02, 6 07 P M.

LAWRENCE BRANCH.

Salem for Lowell—7 A. M., 6 P. M.

Salem for Lawrence—7 00, 11 32 A M, 4 43, 6 P M.

Salem for Middleton—6 15, 7, 8 58, 11 35 A M, 3 36, 4 43, 6 P M.

Salem for Danvers—6 15, 7, 7 28, 8 58, 11 32 A M, 12 47, 3 36, 4 43, 5 20, 6, 6 42 P M.

Lowell for Salem—7 10, 9 45 A. M., 12 15, 5 15 P. M

Lawrence for Salem—7 40, 10 5 A M, 1, 5 50 P M.

Middleton for Salem—7, 8 07, 10 10, 10 45 A M, 1 35, 4 45, 6 27, P M.

Danvers for Salem—6 37, 7 15, 7 50, 8 31, 10 25, 11 A. M, 1 50, 3 30, 5, 5 50, 6 39, P M.

Peabody for Salem—6 44, 7 25, 8 02, 8 31, 10 33, 11 07 A M, 2 01, 3 37, 5 08, 5 58, 6 46 P M.

JAMES T. FURBER, General Manager.
Boston Je. 28, 1885.

NEW YORK & NEW ENGLAND

RAILROAD.

Shorter by twenty miles than any other Line between Boston and New York.

Now a Double Track Road to a Connection with the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad, West of Willimantic.

LEAVE BOSTON.

8.30 A. M. *DAY EXPRESS TRAIN for New York (via Middletown and New Haven); Pullman Cars Boston to New York. A part of this train runs through to Hartford, New Britain Waterbury, Danbury and Fishkill.

3.00 P. M. †NEW ENGLAND LIMITED for New York (via Air Line Route) running 86 miles without a stop. Due Grand Central Depot, New York, at 9.00 P. M. Connects week days at Willimantic with train for Hartford, New Britain and Waterbury.

3.30 P. M. *AFTERNOON MAIL for New York, (via Middletown and New Haven), due New York 11.25 P. M. A part of this train runs through to Hartford, New Britain and Bristol.

6.30 P. M. †PHILADELPHIA EXPRESS for Hartford, New Haven, Jersey City, Trenton, Philadelphia, Baltimore and Washington, connecting for Richmond and points South. Through Pullman cars to Washington.

6.30 P. M. *NORWICH LINE EXPRESS for New York, New London, Norwich, Danielsonville and Putnam. Train connects at New London with Steamer City of Worcester, or City of Boston.

Seats in Parlor Cars, Berths in Pullman Cars, State-rooms on Steamers, Tickets and information obtained at Office, 322 Washington St, or Depot, foot of Summer St.

BOSTON.
A. C. KENDALL, Gen'l Pass. Agt.,

BOSTON, REVERE BEACH & LYNN R.R. SUMMER TIME-TABLE.

June, 15, 1885.

Leave Boston at 6.50, 7.30, 8, 8.30, 9, 10, 11 A.M. 12 M.; 1, 2, 2.30, 3, 3.30, 4, 4.30, 5, 5.30, 6, §6.30, 7, 7.30, 8, 8.30, 9.20, 9.50, 10.50, 11.15 P. M.

Leave Lynn at §6.10, 6.50, 7, 7.30, 8, 8.30, 9, 10, 11 A. M. 12 M.; 1, 1.45, 2.15, 2.45, 3.15, 3.45, 4.15, 4.45, 5.15, 5.45, 6.15, 6.45, 7.15, 7.45, 8.40, 9.10, 9.40, 10.10, 10.30, P. M.

SUNDAY TRAINS.

Leave Boston at 10, 11 A. M.; 12 M.; 1, 2, 2.30, 3, 3.30, 4, 4.30, 5, 5.30, 6, 6.30, 7, 7.30, 8, 8.30, 9, 10, P. M.

Leave Lynn at 9, 10, 11 A. M.; 12 M.; 1, 1.45, 2.15, 2.45, 3.15, 3.45, 4.15, 4.45, 5.15, 5.45, 6.15, 6.45, 7.15, 7.45, 8.15, 9.15 P. M.

§Workingmen's train.

JOHN A. FENNO, G. T. A.
C. A. HAMMOND, Supt

CALL AT THIS OFFICE FOR FINE JOB PRINTING. Specimens given

5 Matchless Values.

Ladies' Matt Kid Top scallop vamp, box toe, medium high heel, fine fitting and very stylish, $1.58.

Ladies' Glove Top Opera toe, all sizes, and in four widths, $1.72.

Ladies' Matt Kid Top medium box toe, a very fine boot, $2.50; this quality usually sold for $3.

Ladies' Curacoa Kid, Common Sense last, low heels, four widths and all sizes, a very fine boot, $2.50.

Ladies' Fine French Finish Kid, Common Sense Style in S, M, F, and FF widths, $3; this boot is worth $4.

Remember the name and number of our store.

F. W. Lucas & Co.,

186 ESSEX STREET,

Head of Central Street, Salem.

CORRESPONDENCE.

BENNINGTON, VERMONT.

The pride of Bennington Village is its Graded School. The school not being in session the building only can be referred to here, and it is one in which a larger community might take a pardonable pride. The grounds include about three acres, near the centre of which stands a fine brick building, two stories, with mansard roof. The first two floors have each six rooms; the third floor contains a large hall and the High School room with its adjoining recitation room, office, chemical laboratory, and a room in which is kept a fine set of illustrative and experimental apparatus. The hall is completely furnished with settees and has in front two platforms, the lower holding a fine piano, the other, large and well carpeted and so high as to be more appropriately called a stage. The rooms are all well furnished and water is supplied throughout the entire building. The basement, cemented throughout, contains water closets, the heating apparatus, and large play rooms. The ventilation is the Ruttan system, each room being connected with a large flue or chimney leading from basement to top of the building. If at any time the draft is not sufficient to ventilate thoroughly a light fire started at the bottom of the flue will put the air in motion, thus bringing a current of pure air through each room. The yard contains at one side a neat little cottage for the janitor. In front of the school house is a fountain; walks are laid out and well kept, and at least two-thirds of the yard is a neatly kept lawn, with closely cut grass and pretty trees. The playground, about an acre, is at the rear of the building. On each side of the yard is a stream of water, one being the stream which furnishes the power for several mills, the other a trout brook, in which the janitor's little boys were fishing as I passed through. Not for imaginary trout, either, for a fine specimen, caught there some time before, was swimming about in the brook, but securely boxed. All the mountain streams about here are trout brooks and a great many of the speckled beauties are caught every season. A young friend who took me trouting with him last week has caught more than one hundred and fifty this summer. There are no pickerel in the streams about here. The beds of all the streams are masses of stones made round and smooth by constant friction, and the tumbling of the water over the rocks seems unfavorable to any other fish than trout.

S. B. Hunt and Trenor W. Park are names well known among the citizens of Bennington. To them the town is indebted for its free library. Mr. Hunt when living had one of the finest places in town. At an expense of about $30,000, he brought water from a reservoir, which he had constructed high up on the hill, to supply a fountain near his house. It is said to rank among the highest fountains of the world, sending a stream to the height of one hundred and seventy-two feet. We saw the water let on to-day, and the sight was beautiful as, in contrast to the surrounding foliage, the silver stream pushed its way higher and higher up among the tall trees until it far o'er-topped the highest. Since the death of Mr. Hunt the house has been occupied only for a few weeks in summer by companies of poor children from New York. They come in groups of about fifty. What a contrast! The dirty crowded streets of New York in the morning; in the evening a play-ground of ninety-eight acres, grass, trees, fountains, birds, squirrels, country air and country fare, and at night clean beds in the large airy rooms of an elegant mansion. And what a pity that from some cause—what I do not know—the house this summer is vacant.

Bennington churches are substantial and well built structures. The Baptist, Second Congregational and Episcopal are of brick and the Methodist of stone. The first two are elegant modern buildings; the Episcopal not so new but fittingly set in the shade of tall trees, with its spire and front heavily draped with the dark foliage of the clinging woodbine. The First Congregational Church is at Bennington Centre, or on "Town Hill" as it is called. This is the old part of the town and the church is an ancient structure with small windows and a high gallery on three sides. The Catholic Church, also in this part of the town, is a rather small wooden building. Near the First Church is the ancient burial place which contains many stones that date back to Revolutionary times; and one, the oldest, bears the date 1756.

THE GRANT OBSEQUIES AT ALBANY.

Without doubt the readers of the PRESS have had full accounts of all that has transpired in connection with the all-absorbing topic of the week, but a brief statement of the doings at Albany which I witnessed on Tuesday and Wednesday, may not be without interest to some. One prominent feature, often lacking on such occasions, was the promptness with which the arrangements were carried out. The funeral train from Mt McGregor arrived promptly, as per schedule, at 3.40 P. M. on Tuesday, and the event was announced by the firing of a signal gun. The military and other organizations which were to form the procession were already in line, and the crowd of spectators that lined the streets and filled balconies and windows were soon gratified to see the procession headed by Gen. Hancock. Only a short march had been arranged and the body was soon lying in state in the Capitol. The arrangements were such that visitors viewing the remains could pass four abreast, going in at the east entrance and passing through and out on the west side. The first hour showed 7500 passing, and a line a mile long outside. The different military organizations guarded the premises, kept the crowd in order and kept it moving. The line with varying numbers was kept up all night and until 10.30 A. M. of Wednesday, when the doors were closed in the faces of a crowd extending an entire block. The number that viewed the remains was by count 77,200. As I passed through the Capitol just after mid-night, the column was full and extended outside probably a quarter of a mile.

When the doors closed at 10.30 Wednesday morning the body was at once prepared for removal. The procession was re-formed under the leadership of Gen. Hancock, and the remains were taken to the train that was to bear them to New York. The funeral car used in the procession was drawn by six black horses each led by a G. A. R. comrade detailed for the purpose. A somewhat novel part of the solemn ceremonies, was the singing, by several German societies of men's voices, of appropriate music. This was done in the Capitol Park beginning at 12 o'clock midnight, but the effect was far from being satisfactory to the crowd that attempted to hear. The singers were not raised at all above the surging crowd, even standing below instead of above their leader on the steep hillside. Musically the performance was fine, but for the occasion it was a failure. As a whole the occasion was not marked by any special incident. The crowd was evidently bent upon satisfying its curiosity, and there was as much interest apparent in seeing the living generals as in viewing the remains of the great commander. At a point not far from the Capitol as the procession was passing to the railway station some persons so far forgot the occasion as to clap as Gen. Hancock rode by. From the expression on the General's face, I am quite sure that however pleasing such manifestation might have been under other circumstances, it was at that time and place far from pleasing to him. And what a comment on the ways of the people when the cars of the funeral train have to be locked up to prevent relic hunters from cutting the drapery to pieces; and when the inventor of the steel case, made to inclose the Grant casket says: "Numerous rivet hole punchings from the first case were sold as relics," and his principal reason for ordering a second case was "to choke off the relic business."

To-day the remains of the illustrious dead will be committed to the tomb. Public services, under the direction of the local G. A. R. post, will be held here on the grounds of the Graded School. In many places throughout the land similar memorial services will be held. As a nation we stand to-day draped in the garb of mourners. Let every patriot's prayer be that both as a nation and as individuals, we take to heart, and be made made better by the great lessons so clearly taught by the life of him who has departed.

J. K. C.

SPARKS.

At the regular meeting of the Board of Engineers held last Wednesday evening, it was voted to put down a concrete driveway in front of the house of Hose 5, in South Peabody. The usual number of bills were approved.

Engineer Southwick tested the hydrants in his district last Wednesday.

Hose 3, at their last regular meeting, started from their house on Endicott street, ran to the hydrant near the Pottery, attached a line of hose, ran out 100 feet, broke coupling and had water through the pipe in just one minute and ten seconds. The distance run was about 800 feet.

The Sunday Globe says:—Among the many visitors registered at the Central Fire Station, Peabody (the most frequently visited fire station outside of Boston), the past week, were Chief Osborne of Salem, accompanied by Chief Harvie of North Adams, and Chief Goodhue of Beverly.

A new swing harness has been purchased by the Salem department for Chief Engineer Osborn's Concord wagon, and his team can now be hitched out in less than a minute—52 seconds was the trial time.

The Directors of the Firemen's Relief Association will hold their regular quarterly meeting, Thursday evening at the central station.

The members of Hose 1, and a few friends will go to Ipswich Neck, Saturday, in A. B. Clark's new steam launch and will stop over Sunday.

Quite a party from Hose 3 have been camping out at Grape Island, Ipswich Neck, for the past week.

In this department there should be two more sets of the swing harnesses, one for the Steamers and the other for the H & L. The harnesses now in use are old and liable to give out at any time. The swing harness costs but little more than the common harness, and can be used for work on the streets as well as the common harnesses. Lynn has just contracted for two new sets of the Berry harness, the patentee agreeing to protect the city against all law suits, and he would make the same terms with any department which should purchase from him. The harnesses are needed, time could be saved in getting out, and it would be better for the horses as they would not be obliged to keep heavy collars on their necks all night. We hope that the Selectmen will consider the subject, and purchase two or more sets of the harnesses, and that the Engineers will put them into all the hose houses, outside the Central Station where horses are used.

Z

* * *

Probably the greatest and most general grief the world has ever seen has been made during the past fortnight. In some respects it has been too great. More completely than any other people perhaps, American citizens can be roused to an extravagance of demonstration. Founded in appreciation of the distinguished services of General Grant, a perfect epidemic of sentimental mourning has pervaded every nook of our land. Not content with national, civic and municipal manifestation, which the loss of one who has played one of the most important parts of the age would naturally draw forth from an appreciative and grateful people, almost every citizen, whether appropriate or inappropriate to his station and means, has contributed his time and money to the great tide of national sorrow. In many cases these contributions could be ill afforded and in some without doubt they were diverted from needy families and honest creditors. Some of the many thousands of dollars which these tributes to the great commander have cost could have been appropriated to the relief of even the needy comrades of General Grant, more humble, and in their sphere equally worthy. Greater good would have resulted and the great soldier himself have been better pleased, could he have known it. But, Mr. Editor, it is not for one of your humble readers to attempt to stem a popular current, especially one so powerful and so natural as this of which we have spoken. As well try to stem Niagara with a paper protest, and should we further pursue the subject we might expect to be classed with those who of old asked that untimely question in relation to a certain box of ointment. All the moral we would draw at present from these, perhaps somewhat unpopular thoughts, is this: Real grief is not to be measured by the yard or by amount of expenditure. The heart of the American people will always leap at the recollection of the great contest between Freedom and Slavery and will always indissolubly connect with it the name of Grant.

But in all the recent manifestations, but rarely have the chords been struck which only can be touched by the death of a true and tried friend,—one of those sterling souls, so rarely met, that in homely every-day language it will do to tie to, one to whom we can look in confidence even in time of general defection and find him always true. This is indeed the loss which touches the heart, not the imagination. Such a loss was that of the past week to those intimately acquainted with James H. Thomas, and they at least will endorse the sincere sentiments of the writer, that few pass away from their fellow men more worthy of the recognition which patient merit should always receive. It is only his intimate friends that can know the full extent of conscientiousness and faithfulness to duty. His loss will not call forth great manifestations of public grief, but the loss of such a man is something more than an individual loss. It is is a subtraction from the sum total of Honor, Truth and manly worth in the world. In one sense it is a greater loss than the greatest of military geniuses, for the time will come when mankind will no longer practise the cruel arts of war or applaud its masters. But as long as eternal justice lasts, shall the attributes of manhood command the homage of men, and lives like that of our humble friend will leave an impress of unmixed good upon those left behind.

‡ ‡

* * *

HE HAD SEEN THE LATEST THINGS IN GARTERS.—"Oh, Jim," said a fond young wife, "have you seen the latest things in garters? They are just too cute."

"Yes, I believe you. You bet your sweet life they are."

"Why, Jim, you seem to take a very sudden interest in them. Where did you see them?"

"Just now. That pretty lady over across the street. Gosh, they are pretty."

"Well," said the wife, with a sort of frigid air, "I don't hardly believe you. As you know so much, what is the latest thing in garters?"

"Legs."

And she didn't speak to him till he treated her to ice cream.—Evansville Argus.

* * *

The directors of the Eastern Railroad Company recently paid over to the trustees for the bond holders $22,000 of the net earnings of the road for the fiscal year ending Sept. 30, 1884. The extra month's earnings are retained on the ground that the trustee year ends Aug 31, a month before the close of the fiscal year for the railroad. The money paid over is said to have been invested in Eastern 6s.

"Peabody's Prices," given in his announcement this morning, shows that a little money will buy quite an assortment of seasonable goods, at his store; and these figures are but a hint of the hundreds of bargains offered. Ladies will do well to purchase at once, for prices are pretty sure to advance.

There were only two of the "306" Chicago Grant medals awarded to Massachusetts; Ex-Gov. Boutwell has one, and Editor Marden of the Lowell Courier wears the other—but both are now prouder of the trophy than a three years old miss in high heel boots.—Marlboro Mirror Journal.

It is said that the reason there are so many unmarried women among the school teachers of Worcester, is because the teachers, as a rule, are women of sense, and no sensible woman will give up a sixty dollar position for a forty dollar man.—Home Journal.

An eminent physician thinks that men should not run after they reach 40 years. This of course does not apply to the long-winded men who run for office, and who the longer they run the tougher they get.—Boston Home Journal.

Stale buns may be made to taste as nicely as when fresh, if they are dipped a moment or so in cold water, then put into a hot oven for five or ten minutes. They will turn out as light and crisp as when first baked.

A Milwaukee boy has swallowed a trade dollar. He'll wish he'd selected a legal-tender dollar when the day of redemption comes.

Our friends at the mountains and seashore should remember the unfortunate, sweltering at home. They can do so in more than one way.

Marriages.

In Salem, Aug. 4, by Rev. Mr. Brown, Mr. Arthur H. Dodge of Beverly to Miss Helen L. Ford of Salem; 30th, by Rev. Mr. Odell, Mr. Thomas Hawken to Miss Caroline E. Goodridge.

In Danvers, Aug. 8, by Rev. Mr. Rice, Mr. William S. Ward of Middleton to Miss Susie E. Mosher of Danvers.

Deaths.

In Peabody, July 30th, James A. Fuller, 21 yrs. 3 mos.

Aug. 3, Mrs. Mary Horrigan, 67 yrs.

4th, Mary, daughter of Richard and Bridget Nagle, 8 yrs. 6 mos. 16 days.

7th, Thomas H., son of Patrick and Delia Ryan, 2 yrs. 11 mos. 16 days.

8th, Lillian, daughter of Maurice F. and Elizabeth F. O'Connor, 4 mos.

9th, Mr. James H. Thomas, 38 yrs. 7 mos.

In Beverly, Aug. 5th, at the residence of Thomas E. Proctor, Mrs. Anna S. Howe, 72 yrs.

In Salem, Aug. 5, Pierre, son of Erano and Stella L. Levesque, 1 mo. 6 days; 6th, Mary, daughter of Dennis J. and Mary Ellen Carroll, 1 mo. 17 days; 8th, John, son of Edward W. and Elizabeth S. Eagan, 11 mos. 11 days; 9th, Bernard, son of John and Rose Corregan, 26 yrs; Mabel E., daughter of Geo. A. and Martha Woods, 2 yrs. 5 mos. 8 days; 9th, Mrs. Lydia P., wife of Mr. Owen B. Stone, 39 yrs. 10 mos. 21 days; 10th, Edward, son of Peter F. and Ellen Heaney, 9 yrs. 4 mos.

CATARRH.

BY A. P. LIGHTHILL, M. D.

The earliest symptoms of Catarrh is a discharge from the head, consisting sometimes of a clear acid fluid, but oftener of a thick, fœtid, purulent yellow or greenish matter which is usually secreted in excessive abundance, and discharged through the nostrils for throat, and frequently by both channel.

The nature of this discharge varies in different cases, and even in the same individual at different times. In some it is copious, and of a loose or fluid character, while in others it is very viscid or gummy, adhering to the diseased membrane with glue-like tenacity; often this offensive matter concretes in dry, hard masses of crusts, which obstruct breathing and are very difficult to detach, their dislodgment requiring most violent efforts. Sometimes these incrustations come away in lumps of a deep green tint, but occasionally in broad and flat casts of a notable size, on which traces of blood may at times be observed. This condition is very liable to run to serious ulceration, involving a loss of the bony structure of the nose and a subsequent flattening of that organ, and is invariably accompanied by a breath of exceedingly fœtid and sickening odor. In some cases it becomes so revoltingly offensive as to render the sufferer an object of disgust to himself as well as to others.

The nasal membrane is thickened and congested, causing the nose to be stopped up, sometimes on one side, sometimes on the other, and often on both, giving rise to a disagreeable, stuffy sensation in the head, and occasionally to violent paroxysms of sneezing.

A feeling of fullness, heat, irritation, soreness or pain is generally experienced in the nostrils, near the root of the nose, as well as in the upper part of the throat, above and below the soft palate. A distressing sensation of heavy weight or compression is usually complained of over the forehead, especially in the region immediately above and between the eyes. Sometimes the pain is obstinately fixed in one particular part, as in the temples, on top of the head, at the back of the neck, or behind the orbits; and occasionally it manifests itself in the face, of so severe a character that it is frequently mistaken for neuralgia.

The voice is generally affected, and becomes hoarse, weak and uneven, assuming a nasal character, or an unpleasant snifling quality. Cough of variable severity is not unfrequently one of the symptoms and results of Catarrh.

The sense of smell is generally blunted or entirely lost, and a similar effect on taste may be occasionally observed. The eyes are apt to become irritable, and disposed to water excessively on exposure to the cold or wind, and a sense of weariness of sight is usually experienced after slight exertions. Hearing becomes frequently more or less impaired, and noises in the head very often add materially to the existing distress.

The stomach generally suffers more or less, and becomes weak and irritable; the appetite is capricious, and nearly always bad in the morning.

The patient often complains of lassitude and fatigue, an incapacity for either physical for mental exertions, and a constant disposition to drowsiness and sleep. The mental faculties are also sometimes slightly affected, loss of memory being not unfrequently experienced.

Catarrh may prove fatal, either by debilitating the system and wearing out the patient, or by travelling downward and producing consumption. This fact has been so repeatedly noticed that all experienced practitioners now look upon Catarrh as one of the earliest manifestations of this dreaded complaint. Among educated physicians in this or any other country, Dr. Lighthill was the first to devote his study and investigation to the cure of Catarrh and kindred diseases, and the happy results which attended his labor have been attested to by many of the most prominent citizens of Boston and vicinity. Cases abandoned as hopeless by other physicians have promptly yielded to his painless and effective treatment.

ASTHMA

For years Dr. Lighthill has made this distressing disease his special study, investigating carefully the causes that produce it; his labor was fully rewarded, for he not only established its true pathological condition, but also discovered a new and correct system of treatment for its cure. Hundreds of cases who have been under his care have found permanent relief from this wonderful discovery, from the beginning of this treatment prompt benefit is experienced which is ultimately followed by a complete and radical cure.

An experience of 30 years of constant practice enables Dr. Lighthill to decide on the first examination as to the cureability of any disease within specialty, and no case will be accepted for treatment unless the chances are for favorable results. His specialty comprises the cure of and affections of the Nervous system from whatever cause.

CATARRH, THROAT AFFECTIONS ASTHMA, CONSUMPTION, DEAFNESS DISCHARGE FROM THE EAR, DISEASES OF THE EYE, BLOOD, SKIN, LIVER AND KIDNEY

DR. LIGHTHILL,

Can be consulted

Every Thursday afternoon and evening,

From 2 until 8.30 P. M.

—— AT THE ——

Essex House, Salem,

And every forenoon from 8 until 12, at his office.

OF 115 BOYLSTON ST., BOSTON.

CONSULTATION FREE.

Washburn's Best.

OUR leading brand of Flour. None better in the market. Whole and half barrels at very low prices. CHAS. A. ROPES & SON.
41 to 47 Central street.

At this season of the year it will profit you to use Ferrated Hygienic Wine, to cleanse your blood of all poisonous humor. tf

Health is of more consequence than wealth Many sick ones might be cured by using Ferrated Hygienic Wine, tf

EDW. C. ALMY & CO.

LOW PRICES

FOR SUMMER GOODS.

We shall name closing prices on all our Spring and Summer Goods in order to clear our counters for the mammoth stock of Fall Clothing we are now manufacturing. Those in need of a Suit can obtain one, handsome, durable and stylish, at a merely nominal price. Thin Coats and Vests, Office Coats and Dusters in great variety and choicest patterns, at such low prices that the poorest, as well as the richest man, can afford to make himself comfortable during the fervid summer days.

At this season of the year many find it necessary to supplement their wardrobes with a pair of trousers. We have a large assortment of the most desirable styles in checks, stripes and plaids; we have also Trousers to match many of the Suits we sold this last season.

For Boys and Children we offer a big variety of Suits at reduced prices; also Bicycle and Lawn Tennis Blouses and Shirts, Star Shirt Waists in all styles, long and short Trousers, separate from the Suits, in great variety.

Prices Guaranteed the Lowest.

EDW. C. ALMY & CO.

163, 165 & 167 ESSEX ST., SALEM.

162 Westminster St., Providence.

Washington, cor. Essex Street, Boston.

Woodman's Plants.

TOMATO PLANTS,

Varieties—"Livingston's Perfection," "Paragon," "Acme." "Canada Victor."
Celery Plants—"Boston Market" variety.
Pepper Plants—3 varieties.

—— ALSO ——

Flowering & Ornamental Plants
Pansies, Daisies, Geraniums,
Verbenas, Coleus, etc.

Cut Flowers and Floral Designs to orders
We invite a share of your patronage. Price. on application. TERMS CASH.

E. & C. WOODMAN

Florist and Garden Supplies,

DANVERS, MASS.

☞ Greenhouses, Holten St., Tapleyville. On line Salem & Danvers Horse Railroad.

SPRING BARGAINS

—— IN ——

ROOM PAPERS.

Now is the time to paper your rooms, while goods are cheap. Room Papers for nearly half price for fifteen days only.

It will pay you to buy these goods, and lay by till spring, as you can save money by the operation.

LOOK AT THE PRICES.

4000 rolls 10c papers for 6c a roll.
3700 " 15c " " 10c "
2000 " 20c " " 12 1-2c "
Small lot 25c Satins for 15c a roll.

There is only a few patterns in this lot, and an early selection is necessary.

3500 rolls 50c gilts for 25c a roll.

Remnants at your own prices.

2c borders for 1c a yard. 5c borders for 2c yd. Gilt borders from 2c a yd upwards.

These bargains will not last long at these prices, and first customers will get the best trades.

MERRILL & MACKINTIRE

220 ESSEX ST.,

SALEM.

AVOID

The Cholera by using Carbolate of Lime.

For cleansing out-houses, cesspools, sink-drains, stables, etc. For sale in 10, 25 and 50 lbs. bags, and by the barrel.

E. S. THAYER,

165 Derby Street.

C. H. ESTES, Agent for Peabody.

SALEM GAS LIGHT CO.

A Dividend of THREE DOLLARS per share will be payable at the office of the Treasurer, on Monday, the 27th inst. to stockholders of record this day.

DAVID MOORE, Treasurer,

Salem, July 22, 1885.

HOTEL NAHANT,

NAHANT BEACH.

SAM'L SOULE & SON, Props.

IS NOW OPEN FOR GUESTS.

Horse cars from Salem and Peabody direct to the house,

Fish dinners a specialty.

Connected by Telephone.

P. O. Address, LYNN, MASS.

SHERIFF'S SALE.

ESSEX SS. July 7, 1885.

Taken on Execution in favor of Aaron F. Clark of Peabody, in said County, against Fannie L. Poor of said Peabody, and will be sold at Public Auction on Saturday, August 8, 1885, at 8 o'clock A. M. at my Office, at No. 139 Washington street, in Salem, in said County, all the right, title and interest which said Fannie L. Poor had on the 8th day of April last, being the time when the same was attached on mesne process, in and to the following described Real Estate, to wit:—

A certain parcel of land situate on Central street in said Peabody, bounded as follows: beginning at the northwest corner thereof and running southerly about 2 feet; thence westerly by land formerly of Crane about 20 feet; thence southerly by land now or formerly of Folsom about 88 feet; thence easterly by the fence on way of said Folsom about 79 1-2 feet to the line of the old homestead; thence northerly about 100 feet; thence westerly by land of Pierce about 88 1-2 feet to point begun at; being same estate conveyed by Henry Poor to said Fannie L. Poor by deed recorded Book 989, leaf 41, in Essex So. Dist. Registry of Deeds. The record is legal title to the above described real estate at the time of said attachment stood and now stands in the name of Charles L. Poor of said Peabody.

SAMUEL A. JOHNSON,
Deputy Sheriff.

jy8—3t

Store and Window Awnings,
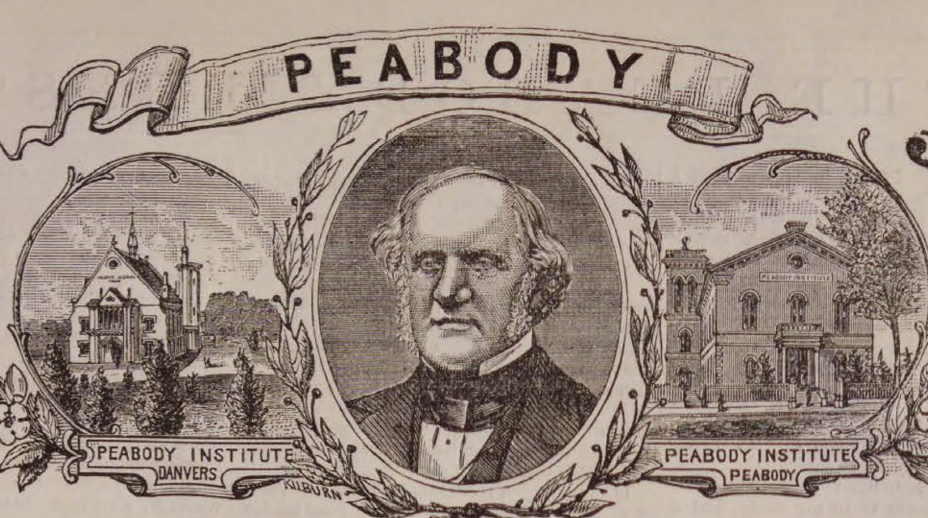
Hammocks,
Boatsails and
Wagon Covers.

Anton M. Liebsch

7 DERBY WHARF,

SALEM.

PEABODY The Press.



VOL. 26. PEABODY, MASS. WEDNESDAY EVENING AUGUST 19, 1885. NO. ~~36~~

33

CUT THE PRICES!

RIGHT AND LEFT.

OUR LAST AND FINAL MARK DOWN SALE

— OF —

MENS' & BOY'S

SPRING AND

SUMMER CLOTHING.

We have received orders from our Headquarters, Boston, to mark down and close out immediately all our Spring and Summer Clothing in order to make room for our Fall and Winter Stock.

Remember these are all new goods manufactured for the Spring and Summer trade of 1885; no old goods at any price, but the most pleasing, most desirable styles of our fashionable Clothing, bearing the stamp that inspires New England buyers with confidence, "OUR OWN MANUEACTURE."

The Greatest, Grandest, most generous mark down sale of Clothing ever inaugurated. Don't wait This sale will be short, sharp and effective. We have made prices that will immediately give us the needed room for new Fall and Winter goods now coming in.

Naumkeag Clothing Company,

177 & 179 ESSEX STREET, SALEM.

Z. A. GALLUP, Manager.

LOCAL CONDENSATIONS.

The katydids are nightly heard!

Summer wanderers are coming home.

Soon be time to oil up the gleeful roller skate.

Children's lace School Shoes 50 cents a pair at Nugents. *

The mourning draperies have nearly all disappeared.

Judge Merrill is improved in health and returned to duty.

Mr. Cornelius Mahoney on Walnut street, is dangerously ill.

The currying shop of F. Osborne Jr. & Co., is closed for repairs.

Nugent Bros., sells a Child's goat Button, (size 8) for 50 cents. *

Work has commenced on the new factory of Poor & Littlefield.

Mr. David A. Messer is canvassing Beverly for Grant's new book.

Tardy to bed and early to rise hurts a man's head and injures his eyes.

Mr. Henry Forness is working in Page's City fish market in Salem.

Soda fountains are always charged, whether they are paid for or not.

Rev. W. G. Sperry, of this town, preached at Andover last Sunday.

Mr. B. F. Woodbury will go to Asbury Grove as soon as he is able.

L. B. Southwick & Co., have put in one of Vaughn's buffing machines.

Whooping cough has left the children and cholera infantum takes its turn.

Attleboro has a fine fire alarm system and is far ahead of Peabody in that repect.

The roads are in good condition and traveling through the country is pleasant.

Mr. C. S. Emmerton has the largest and handsomest field of silo corn in town.

Nugent's great Bargain sale is still going on. Unusual bargains this week. *

Just now if you inquire for a man, you receive the reply, "Off on a vacation."

This week you can find a girl's Button School Boot for 60 cents at Nugents. *

The annual gathering of the Needham family takes place today at Brown's Grove.

The Danvers Street railway have lost another horse. It died at the stables last week.

The Selectmen will shortly visit Lynn, and inspect the manufacture of water gas.

Officer Peasley has been testing the milk of some of the dealers, and finds it all right.

Mr. George R. Norton is putting a new furnace in the house of Frank C. Ferguson.

A large number attended the Revere Beach illuminations last Wednesday night.

Mr. Milo McNeil is doing a good retail business in boots and shoes at Hastings, Minn.

Prof. Thomas P. Fields of Amherst College preached at the South Church last Sunday.

The boys were fishing for a hornpout in the drinking fountain near the flag staff last Friday.

Seventeenth Regiment Mass. Volunteers have a re-union at the Willows next Saturday.

Mr. Alfred Berry has the contract to plaster the elegant new residence of J. A. Lord in Salem.

Some people are much in favor of any movement that will put the liquor down—their throats.

Patrick Donovan, the well known junk dealer, died at his home on Holly street last Friday.

Some people can't enjoy themselves unless they are keeping up an unearthly racket all the time.

Mr. Geo. H. Jacobs, the clothing dealer, has had a new sign painted by Mr. C. C. Redmond.

A gravel car broke down near the station Thursday night and was removed to a side track.

Mr. D. B. Lord did the plumbing for the elegant new residence of William Pickering of Salem.

Mr. King Upton has purchased the two remaining houses at the Bleachery, and they will be removed.

It has leaked out that Parsons & Peterson lost about $4000 by their contract to build our town house.

Major Smith, the United States Commissioner of the Salvation Army, has excommunicated Brother Shaw.

Messrs. Buffum and Waters of Salem, will shoot for the silver medals at the Forrest street range next Friday.

"The time to set a hen is when she wants to set," and the rule holds good with those who want to get the news.

Our "Sparks" reporter went down to Plum Island, last Sunday, fishing and succeeded in bringing home—nothing.

Mr. L. W. Foan caught several fine specimens of pickerel in Ipswich, last Saturday. A three pounder broke his rod.

Mrs. Joseph Moore has received $1000—the amount of her husband's insurance in the American Legion of Honor.

Gentlemanly Pat Sweeney is home again from Salem. He has been the the guest of the county for several months.

Mr. H. B. Hooper is manager of the Elliot Rink, at Gloucester, which has recently been made over into a small theatre.

Mrs. John Marrs died quite suddenly at her home on Tremont street, last Saturday. She had been sick only a few days.

It is reported that Mr. H. A. Southwick and others have taken the old Carpet factory at Tapleyville for a morocco shop.

Read J. E. Hodgkins, new anvertisement. He is offering boots and shoes at prices that must convince you where to purchase.

Smoke "Nothing like it" for a five cent cigar at Geo. Stevens' and "El Sol" for a ten cent. Both are equal to anything in town.

A boy named Bartlett was struck by a grocery team in the leg, on Lowell street, last Friday, and has since limped a little as a result.

"Do you own that "cow" with the "crumpled horn"
That feasts at night on your neighbor's corn?"

Janitor Patterson has cut a scuttle through the roof of the cupola of the town house, and built some stairs to the same. This will make it easier for the handling of the flag when occasion requires it put up.

Mr. George Hart fell into a vat at the old Hardy tannery this forenoon, but the water being only warm, no serious damage was done.

Timothy Fitzpatrick, a boy employed by Mr. Otis Perkins, was badly poisoned about the face and hands by handling poison ivy.

Michael O'Brien, who kept a boarding house on Short street, till last May, and then removed to Boston, has returned to this town.

Will you or will you not take out your telephone? That is the question, whether 'tis nobler to forego the luxury or be imposed upon.

Mr. James Harvey, recently in the employ of P. J. Lyons, has got tired of life, and will take a position in a barber shop in the city.

The Western Union Telegraph Company has given $5000 to the Grant Monument fund. Probably another cut in operator's pay will follow.

The boy choir of St. Paul's Episcopal Church were given a day's outing at Lynn beach on Monday by Rev. Mr. Walker, rector of the church.

To brighten a carpet, put a half tumbler of spirits of turpentine in a basin of water and dip your broom in it and sweep over the carpet once or twice.

Capt. Frank D. Dodge of Peabody, commanding the ship Mary E. Trundy of Newburyport, loaded with mahogany from Mexico, is at home on a visit.

Last evening a hay team ran against the gas light over the drinking fountain on Central street, and badly used it up. It has been out of repair for some time.

Maurice McHugh, a teamster for Wm. H. Brown, jumped from a team in front of the post office last Saturday afternoon and broke the small bones in his right ankle.

The weather has turned a little cooler, and though there may be many warm days yet, it is probable that the worst of the heated term is over for the present summer.

A little child, named Stringer, living on Carey street, was run into by a carpenter's wagon, knocked down and one of its arms broken, besides being considerably bruised.

The 100-yard dash between Gahagan and Ellard did not come off last Wednesday night much to the disappointment of a large crowd. The latter did not put in an appearance.

Mr. H. A. Brooks, the book binder, has invented a new parlor game called "polo." Those who have seen it speak of it as being very interesting. It is advertised in another column.

The shipments of leather from Peabody and Salem for the week ending Aug. 15, were 6098 rolls, 388 sides, 120 bundles, 115 bags, 31 bags of leather, and 2 bundles, 1 barrel of skins.

Every grief has its compensations. It is comforting to know that General Grant is not obliged to read any of the original poetry that his demise has called forth: says the Malden Mirror.

The revised edition of the scriptures does not meet the requirements of some for the weather last week. One must fall back upon the King James version with its terse and expressive language.

Mr. Chas. A. Weare, who is canvassing this town for the latest work of John B. Gough, is meeting with fine success. It is an excellent work and should be in every public library in town.

Ground has been broken for the stable in the rear of Baldwin's Hotel. It is to be 32x40, and will be built sometime this coming fall. The contract for the work has not yet been given out.

Michael Hannon, a splitter employed by John A. Lord, Jr., broke both bones in his left arm yesterday in a splitting machine. He was taken to his home on Mt. Vernon street and Dr. Osborne attended him.

The Peabody Bicycle Club have elected the following officers:—President, L. A. McKean; Vice President, W. H. Friend; Secretary and Treasurer, W. H. Garniss; Club Committee, G. Allen, W. H. Garniss.

Mr. Wm. A. Smith lost by death his little black and tan dog "Toney." It had been a pet around his barber shop for the last ten or a dozen years. He was given a respectable burial and placed in a coffin furnished by his master.

Cornelius Connelly, a member of the 22d Reg. Mass. Vols., has entered the soldiers' home at Chelsea. His health is broken and we hope he will find a pleasant home for the remainder of his days. This is the first veteran from Peabody to enter the home.

Last evening a horse and buggy belonging to N. W. Edson, of Lynn, was hitched in front of their store on Main street, when the horse became frightened and pulled part of the harness over his head, and overturned the buggy completely wrecking it.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward A. Blaney have the sympathy of the community in the death of their infant son who died last Friday morning. The child was four months old and from the first was sickly, and the tender care of loving parents could not save it.

The Selectmen in company with President Russell of the Danvers and Peabody road inspected the grade of Andover street last Friday afternoon. It will be put in good order and the railroad company will bear a share of the expense.

It is reported that the Boston & Lowell railroad will build a fast propeller to place upon the present route of the Lady of the Lake next season, the reason being the failure of the Lady to connect with trains. In this case the present boat will be used as an excursion steamer.

The Danvers Mirror has noticed that the Salem & Danvers street railway receives a good share of travel between Salem and Peabody. On the first car from Salem for Danvers, one morning this week, there were forty passengers, one-half of whom got off at Peabody.

The green lights are being abandoned on most railroads. They are said to be confusing, in the added responsibility to engineers. The fewer signals and the fewer their meanings that can be used and clearly interpreted, the less chance there is for mistakes and accidents.

Miss Tina Bradley, at 54 Lowell street, gave a pleasant party in honor of the visit of Miss Alice Oliver, a former companion who is visiting here, last Monday evening. There were some twenty present and the evening was spent in a social manner. Miss May Abbie Humphrey furnished some pleasant instrumental music.

Attention is called to the advertisement of the Bryant & Stratton Commercial College which appears in this issue. This school has superior advantages—the principal, Mr. Hibbard, is a practical business man, and the training received there is of value to the young man or woman in after life. Circulars sent free on application.

Business at the Hotel Nahant this season is very flattering to the proprietors, Messrs. Samuel Soule & Son. The house is full of boarders, and is a popular resort for all classes on hot days. The bathing facilities at this place cannot be surpassed. Sunday the beach around the hotel was thronged with delighted visitors.

Bill Tucker, a driver for T. H. O'Keefe's express, while dumping a lot of rubbish over the dump at John M. Berry's on Washington street, the other day, backed the horse too far, and the load, horse and all were thrown in a heap among tin cans and broken glass. Fortunately the horse was not injured and the driver jumped out.

Some one entered the hardware store of Mr. Samuel Trask, on Walnut street, last Sunday night, through a cellar window, by breaking the sash. What change there was in the money drawer was taken, beside a number of knives. Mr. Trask estimates his loss at about ten dollars. It was evidently the work of boys.

By an arrangement with the B. & L. railroad the N. H. Veterans Association of Lynn has made arrangements to sell tickets good from Salem and Peabody to the Weirs and return, during the reunion, for $2.10.

The Father Mathew's nine defeated the Young Mens' nine of Salem at a game of ball at the Temperance picnic at Lake Walden yesterday, by a score of 10 to 9. John McGuin, of this town won the three-mile race and the prize of $3.

The Danvers horse car carried 60 passengers to Peabody and Danvers at half-past ten Saturday night from the late train from Boston, the conductor having obligingly delayed his last trip to accommodate. They will wait for passengers every Sunday evening.

CROCKERY.

CROCKERY.

CROCKERY.

The largest and best line of Crockery in Essex County. We have dinner sets of American Marine of 130 pcs. for $14.

Kiots dinner Sets, 130 pcs., for $15.

Also Brown Melton Melbourne, No. 7034, Fancy Colors, Blue Willow.

A full line of Fancy Decorated Dinner Sets in all prices.

A fine line of Tea Sets.

Glass ware, fancy and plain in full assortment.

CALL AND SEE.

THE L. A. MAY CO.

137-141 UNION ST. 5-7 & 9 MULBERRY ST.,

LYNN, MASS.

may 30—1y

GENTS' LOW SHOES

TO BE CLOSED OUT.

$1.00	Low	Shoes	.75
1.25	"	"	$1.00
1.50	"	"	1.25
1.75	"	"	1.50
2.00	"	"	1.75
2.50	"	"	2.00
3.00	"	"	2.50
3.50	"	"	2.75
4.00	"	"	3.25
4.75	"	"	3.75

— AT —

J. E. HODGKINS' CASH STORE, 22 MARKET ST., LYNN.

The freight railroad to the tannery of L. & G. H. Poor at the Crowninshield will be done to day.

Peabody wants some electric lights.—Beverly Citizen.

Who said she did? There isn't a town in Essex County that has better lighted streets nor one whose lamps are kept in better condition. No, Mr. Citizen, we have no use for the electric light.

Under the new naturalization law any court having a seal may receive petitions and grant the same, so that all business can be transacted before police courts, and the entire fees are but $1. No person can be registered as a voter within thirty days from date of naturalization.

Last Friday as Mr. C. A. Sanger, the laundry man, was driving across the track on Central street before a shifting engine, his reins broke and if he hadn't had one of the kindest, most quiet and docile blooded animals on the road this item would have recorded a serious runaway. It always pays to keep the best.

There is one class of business in this town that suffers by the enforcement of the non-license law and that is hair dressing and shaving. Many men now go to Salem Saturday night and get their beer and get shaved. A shop on Boston street that a year ago did not pay the proprietor twelve dollars a week now pays him forty, and the trade comes largely from Peabody.

The Union Club of Salem will start on their annual excursion to the White Mountains Tuesday, Sept. 1st. They will go to Plymouth via the Boston & Lowell R. R., thence te North Woodstock and the Flume; thence to the Profile House, Fabyans and Jefferson. They will return Thursday night. The price of tickets, including all expenses is $17. The committee are W. S. Nevins, W. D. Dennis and B. D. Hill.

An exchange says the farmers and others ought to know that there is a simple, effective, cheap recipe, within the reach of all, for keeping flies off horses and cattle in warm weather. Put a handful of walnut or pennyroyal leaves into two or three quarts of cold water; let them stand all night, pour the whole next morning into a kettle, and boil for an hour; when cold, apply with a sponge.

Our readers should not forget that this is the cholera morbus season, and be careful what they eat. Green apples, cucumbers, stunted watermelons and cantelopes and such things will kick up a rumpus in most anybody's stomach at this time. From now until the latter part of September, it would be well for all to exercise the greatest prudence in what they eat, and thereby avoid serious sickness.

Ames & Edgerly put out a new lantern last evening over their provision store on Walnut street.

The turnout on the Danvers road has been removed from Pike & Whipple's to the gate at Oak Hill farm.

Sometime during last Monday evening some one entered the restaurant of Messrs Bagley & Blanchard in Hartnett's Block on Foster street, while Mr. Blanchard was asleep and stole his silver watch and chain, a revolver and about ten dollars from the money drawer.

The appearance of the First Regiment, Col. Austin C. Wellington, in the grand pageant, and also that of company "B" of Cambridge, elicited the most unbounded applause. But it was as a regiment and a company representing the private citizens of the old commonwealth. When the Governor and his staff came into line, there was simply silence. He nor they had any part, or lot, as distinctive. It must have been humiliating to the chief executive of this great commonwealth, and also to his staff that they received no particular honors. Why should they? No one had distinguished himself in the ranks of the Union army during the four years of conflict. It must be sufficient for his Excellency to know that he was not sustained by popular sentiment. Anent of this, what the people of this commonwealth desire is a man placed at the head of the state government who dares to have an individuality. Robinson has failed in this. His over caution as so well displayed while he was in the service of the state and the nation has reacted. He has reached his climax, and beyond the governorship he never can go. Among all the candidates for U. S. Senator at the next election, on the part of the legislature, Robinson will fail. Had Robinson been governor in 1861, Massachusetts troops would never have entered the field first. He would have consulted authorities and looked over the entire list of precedents. He never would have been Sam Adams. He would have asked for a parley and desired to know to what extent the royalists had the right. He would have consulted all the authorities from Sir Matthew Hale down, and then would have remarked in his placid way, "M President, I see no authority for passing this bill." He never even as legislator or a member of Congre could find a reason for going outside o the common rut. Out upon such timid men and constructionists, I say. But the good old Bay State after all took he lead, thanks to the generosity of he merchants of Boston.—Hingham Journal.

Poet's Corner.

The Bivouac of the Dead.

This well known martial poem, written by Theodore O'Hara, was printed in the New York Herald at the special request of Major General W. S. Hancock.

The muffled drum's sad roll has beat
  The soldier's last tattoo:
No more on life's parade shall meet
  That brave and fallen few.
On Fame's eternal camping ground
  Their silent tents are spread,
And glory guards, with solemn round,
  The bivouac of the dead.

No rumor of the foe's advance
  Now swells upon the wind;
No troubled thought at midnight haunts
  Of loved ones left behind;
No vision of the morrow's strife
  The warrior's dream alarms,
No braying horn or screaming fife
  At dawn shall call to arms.

Their shivered swords are red with rust
  Their plumed heads are bowed,
Their haughty banner, trailed in dust,
  Is now their martial shroud;
And plenteous funeral tears have washed
  The red stains from each brow,
And the proud forms by battle gashed,
  Are free from anguish now.

The neighing troop, the flashing blade,
  The bugle's stirring blast;
The charge, the dreadful cannonade,
  The din and shout, are past;
Nor war's wild note, nor glory's peal
  Shall thrill with fierce delight
Those breasts that never more may feel
  The rapture of the fight.

Like the fierce northern hurricane
  That sweeps his great plateau
Flushed with the triumph yet to gain,
  Came down the serried foe;
Who heard the thunder of the fray
  Break o'er the field beneath,
Knew well the watchword of that day
  Was victory or death.

Full many a mother's breath has swept O'er Angostura's plain,
And long the pitying sky has wept
  Above its moldered slain.
The raven's scream, or eagle's flight,
  Or shepherd's pensive lay,
Alone now wake each solemn height
  That frowned o'er that dread fray.

Sons of the dark and bloody ground,
  Ye must not slumber there,
Where stranger steps and tongues resound
  Along the heedless air;
Your own proud land's heroic soil
  Shall be your fitter grave;
She claims from war its richest spoil—
  The ashes of her brave.

Thus 'neath their parent turf they rest,
  Far from the gory field,
Borne to a Spartan mother's breast
  On many a bloody shield.
The sunshine of their native sky
  Smiles sadly on them here,
And kindred eyes and hearts watch by
  The heroes' sepulchre.

Rest on, embalmed and sainted dead,
  Dear as the blood ye gave!
No impious footsteps here shall tread
  The herbage of your grave;
Nor shall your glory be forgot.
  While Fame her record keeps,
Or Honor points the hallowed spot
  Where Valor proudly sleeps.

Yon marble minstrel's voiceless stone
  In deathless song shall tell,
When many a vanished year hath flown,
  The story how he fell;
Nor wreck, nor change, nor winter's blight,
  Nor Time's remorseless doom,
Can dim one ray of holy light
  That gilds your glorious tomb.

* * *

The authorship of these is unknown. The poem may be found in "English Minstrelsy, being a selection of fugitive poetry from the best English authors, with some original pieces hitherto unpublished," two volumes, Edinburgh, 1810.

What shall I do, to show how much I love her?
  Thought's heavy burden what language can tell?
Will my soft passion be able to move her,
  Speaking so poorly, though loving so well?

Can sighs and tears, in their silence, betoken
  Half the distress this fond bosom must know?
Or will she melt when a true heart is broken,
  Weep at my story, yet smile at my woe?

Is there a Grace comes not playful before her?
  Is there a virtue, and not in her train?
Is there a swain but delights to adore her?
  Pains she a heart, but it boasts of her chain?

Could I believe she'd prevent my undoing
  Life's gayest fancies the hope should renew;
Or could I think she'd be pleased with my ruin,
  Death should persuade her my sorrows are true.

Sure the fair charmer her pride would surrender,
  When to be gentle were but to be just;
One tear would drop, and a tribute so tender
  Please my sad shade, and give peace to my dust.

* * *

Clipped from Canada Presbyterian, under signature of C. Blackett Robinson, Propr.: I was cured of oft-recurring bilious headaches by Burdock Blood Bitters.

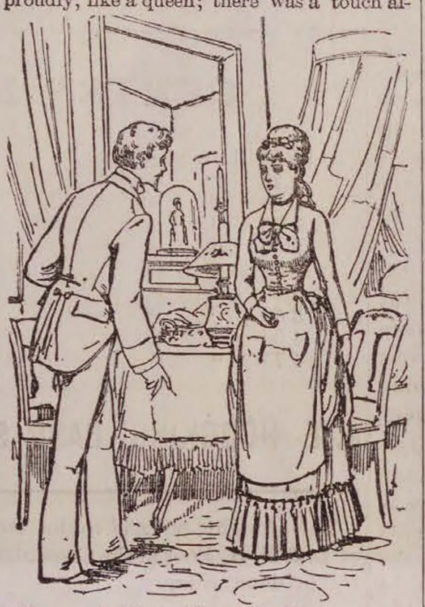
A PARIS MYSTERY.

view. He took the opposite side of the Rue de l'Odeon, and was almost abreast of us when we reached Madame Dumaine's door. There he walked very slowly, almost stopping. Evidently the police were taking an intelligent interest in my movements.

Madame Dumaine's shop was No. 8 Rue de l'Odeon; over the door was painted in white letters—"Glove Cleaner." Madame was of a respectable family; her late husband, a merchant in the Faubourg St. Honore, had met with losses; at his death his widow had found herself poor. Obliged to earn a livelihood in some way, she had taken a little shop in the Rue de l'Odeon, with a parlor behind, and had struggled hard to form a connection as glove cleaner. The struggle had not been very successful; Madame Dumaine and her daughter, neat-handed and industrious as they were, had to starve themselves in order to pay the rent. Then Gabrielle went on the stage. She was a singularly beautiful girl, and I believe might have made almost a great actress. Beginning with soubrette parts in one of the Boulevard theatres, she was earning a salary of 35 francs a week when first she met Raoul Girard behind the scenes. Raoul was writing theatrical critics for Le Drame, hence his presence there. I think they fell in love with each other at first sight; I know, at all events, that Raoul did. Gabrielle had many admirers; but she was as good as she was beautiful, and when she accepted Raoul she at once left the stage. I know that Raoul had not asked her to do this, as he said to me himself he had no right to demand such a sacrifice; it was her woman's instinct that led her to make it. They had been betrothed now for nearly two years, and were to be married as soon as Raoul had passed his final examination for the bar, and was making an income that could at all be depended on.

It was a familiar place to me, that little shop in the Rue de l'Odeon, with the rows of gloves in the window and on the counter, and the faint odor of benzine that hung about it. I had spent many merry evenings, along with Raoul, in the little parlor behind. Now all was dark and silent, as if a sorrow worse than death had entered there. I entered the room with extreme reluctance, for I cannot bear, of all things, to see a woman cry, and I expected to find Gabrielle in tears. But I was wrong.

She came forward to meet me without giving me her hand, and looked me straight in the eyes. Her face was pale, but bore no traces of weeping. She carried herself proudly, like a queen; there was a touch almost of defiance in the glance of the dark eyes and the curve of the red lips; never before had Gabrielle seemed to me so superbly beautiful. She reminded me of Rachel; but I saw that there was no acting here.



She carried herself proudly like a queen.

Her steadfast gaze held me captive; it was first inquiring, then accusing. I had to lower my eyes.

"You, too!" was all she said.

"My child," said Mme. Dumaine, "you are unjust to M. Marsal, as you have been to me!"

"Mother, I shall hate you if you say it! What? believe that of my Raoul? Believe that he—no, I shall speak to no one who thinks it! Be false to him if you will, but I shall be true! Desert him if you will, but I shall go to him, and stand at his side when they try him, if they will let me—and tell them he is innocent as I am myself! I know what you think—both of you—though you dare not say it! Shame upon you both—M. Marsal, you are not his friend! Mother, you are not—you are not my mother! Oh, mother, forgive me! My heart is breaking—forgive!" The proud voice passed into a sob, and she threw herself at her mother's feet and buried her face in her lap, weeping.

"She has not wept before," Mme. Dumaine said to me simply. I turned my back upon mother and daughter, with the feeling that to look upon such grief was to profane it. I heard their broken exclamations:

"My child! My own Gabrielle?"

"Oh, mother, you that loved him—called him your son!"

"My child! I will believe what you believe! Yes, he is my son! he is innocent!"

I do not say that my eyes were dry at this moment. I know that I felt myself more of a guilty wretch than the worst criminal that ever stood at the bar of justice. Certainly, Raoul was not guilty, this angel had said so, and therefore it must be true. Let the evidence be what it might, or the police say what they would, Gabrielle had given her verdict; it should be mine. Was woman's love to stand the test and man's friendship to fail?—I cast my doubts to the wind. I swore to atone for my cowardly suspicions.

"Forgive me, M. Marsal," I heard Gabrielle say; "look round, and say you forgive me!"

I looked round and saw her kneeling by her mother's side. One hand was held in Mme. Dumaine's, the other she stretched forth to me. I took it and kissed it, and murmured something about the forgiveness coming from her.

"No, no," she said; "I know that all the appearances are against him—I know that men reason, where women only feel. But there are times when you may trust a woman who reasons with her heart. Believe me, Raoul never did this—cannot have done it!"

"I believe it," I cried; "I swear to you never to doubt again."

"Only think, how could he have done it? On that Monday night he came here; he tapped at the door; I knew it was he—I ran to open. 'Only a word, dear,' he said; 'just to see you and hear your voice, and then good-night, for it is late.' 'Won't you come in, Raoul?' I said to him; 'mother and I are sewing; come in and talk to us for an hour.' 'Not to-night, dearest,' he said; 'I have work to do, and friend Paul is sitting up for me. Good night—don't forget New Year's Day and our walk round the Boulevards!' Then I said good night to him, and—and he kissed me. Oh, mother! M. Marsal! can you think that he went from me—straight from me, with that kiss upon his lips—to murder the old man for his money? Oh God, what evil will people not believe?"

"My darling, we do not believe it! We think as you do—is it not so, M. Marsal?"

I could see that Mme. Dumaine's belief was not so firm as she would have liked it to appear. But for my part, after such advocacy as Gabrielle's, the court of assizes could not have altered my opinion.

"Mademoiselle," I said, "it is true that I suspected Raoul at first. I do not seek to defend myself; I think of it with shame. The evidence is against him just now—strongly against him; that cannot be denied. Well, let us wait meanwhile; he himself will explain it. If his explanation needs proof I will find it; I pledge myself to that, before the Virgin and you!"

"Thanks, my friend," she murmured, again holding out her hand to me.

"Do not grieve, Mademoiselle. Raoul is innocent; therefore he is safe. I shall see him, and tell him what you said to me to-night; that will give him courage."

"And you will help him?"

"While the breath is in my body, and a sou in my purse! I devote myself to this—it is a reparation, an atonement! Mademoiselle, I thank you. You have kept me from utterly betraying my friend."

I sought to comfort the two women, and to some extent succeeded. When I left them Gabrielle was more calm.

"Do you really think——?" faltered Mme. Dumaine, as she opened the shop door for me.

"Madame, I am certain. Your angel of a daughter is right; let us take our inspiration from her."

The poor woman sighed; I noticed the candle shaking in her hand.

"If they find him guilty she will die," she said; "good-night, M. Marsal, and thank you for all your goodness."

I was followed homeward, as I had been in coming. On reaching the Rue Dauphine, I found Pierre in a state of frantic excitement and his wife in tears; she had an affection for Raoul. Everything was known now; Pierre was to give evidence at the inquiry; he had been visited during my absence by an agent of police.

"He is upstairs now," said the servant to me—"he has been waiting for Monsieur more than an hour. Ah, Monsieur, can you believe it? M. Girard, who would not hurt a fly?—surely it is not possible!"

"You are right," I said; "it is not possible." And I went upstairs to face the agent of police.

CHAPTER VII.

Here I interrupt my narrative, to give an account of the remainder of the preliminary inquiry, taken as before from the notes of the judge of instruction. As explained before, I had access to these notes, or rather to a copy of them, at a later stage in the proceedings.

The first evidence taken on the second day of the inquiry was that of the detective officer Py. This officer made the following statement: Having ascertained from the papers of the deceased Joseph Meissner that he was a native of the town of Provins, and possessed house property there, had at once proceeded to that town to make inquiries. Had found that the Jewish family of the Meissners was well known in Provins; that only two members of it now survived, namely, the murdered man, and a nephew of his, named Girard; and that Girard was a student of law in Paris. Struck by the coincidence of the initial letter of this young man's name with the letter on the wrist-stud found beside the body, and also by the fact that the young man, though in Paris, had not communicated with the police on the news of his uncle's death being made public, had decided to follow up this clew. Had found the young man's name and address in the books of the Ecole de Droit; had gone to his place of residence, No. 28 Rue Dauphine, late on the evening of Wednesday, the 26th, and there had surprised Girard, in bed and asleep. Had found at the wrist of his left shirt-sleeve an ivory button with an initial G. on it, now produced; the button at the wrist of the other sleeve was wanting. Had searched the room, which was shared with Girard by another law student, a friend of his, named Marsal. Had brought away the papers belonging to Girard, consisting of notes on legal subjects, drafts of newspaper articles, an unfinished comedy and a few letters. Had arrested Girard on suspicion.

Raoul Girard, arrested on suspicion, was interrogated:

Q. Your name is Raoul Girard?

A. Yes.

Q. Your domicile No. 28 Rue Dauphine?

A. Yes.

Q. Your profession?

A. I am a student of law.

Q. You are a relative of the deceased Joseph Meissner?

A. Yes; he was my uncle.

Q. Can you tell me what was the last occasion on which you saw your uncle, Joseph Meissner?

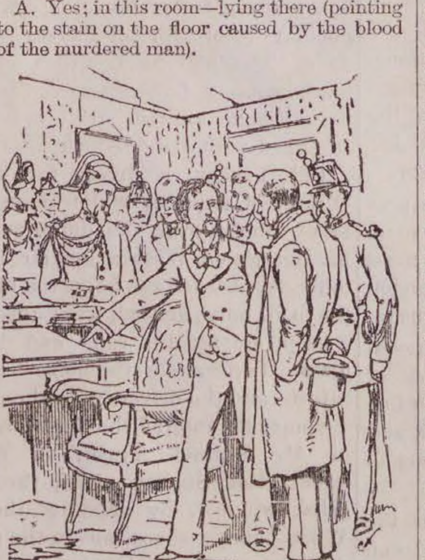
A. The last occasion on which I saw him alive was almost exactly a year ago; it was about the Christmas of last year.

Q. Why do you say 'the last occasion on which I saw him alive?' (Here Girard showed some emotion, which he seemed to repress with an effort.)

A. Because I saw him again last Monday night, when he was—dead.

Q. You mean to say that on the night of Monday you saw the corpse of Joseph Meissner?

A. Yes; in this room—lying there (pointing to the stain on the floor caused by the blood of the murdered man).



"Yes; in this room—lying there."

Q. At what time was that?

A. About half-past ten; perhaps a few minutes later.

Q. What was your object in visiting your uncle's room at that hour?

A. I was in straits for money, and—(here the accused hesitated).

Q. And you meant to borrow from him?

A. No, I did not mean that. I know that what I am about to say must seem almost incredible, but it is the fact. My uncle owed me money; I came here to ask it back.

Q. How did you gain access to the room?

A. I entered by the window of the cabinet, having climbed up from the court below with the aid of the trellis-work.

Q. Why did you adopt this means of entering your uncle's room?

A. Because he had previously refused me admission, and had ordered the people of the house to expel me if I ever showed myself again.

Q. Well, and what after entering the cabinet?

A. I opened the door, and, looking into this room, saw——

Q. What?

A. (After a moment's hesitation on the part of Girard, who betrayed considerable hesitation) I saw the corpse of my uncle lying in a pool of blood in front of his writing table.

Q. What did you do then?

A. I was horror-stricken, and for some seconds could not move a limb; I felt as if paralyzed. I advanced into the room, which was lit by one candle, then almost expiring. My uncle's body lay all in a heap, as if he had fallen from his chair on being struck from behind. Blood still oozed from his mouth, but he was quite dead; of that I assured myself. A dagger lay beside the corpse, with blood still wet upon it.

Q. Would you recognize the dagger which you say you found lying beside your uncle's corpse, if it were shown you again?

A. Yes, I could identify it with ease.

Q. Is that the dagger? (Here the accused was shown the poniard found beside the body of Meissner, and lately exhibited at the Morgue.)

A. Yes, that is the weapon I saw.

Q. Had you ever seen this weapon before?

A. I had seen, if not this weapon, at all events one so closely resembling it that it would be difficult to distinguish between them. My uncle on one occasion gave me a Japanese dagger which was an exact counterpart of the one I found beside his corpse.

Q. When did he give you this dagger?

A. About two years ago, as nearly as I can remember.

Q. What has become of it now?

A. I sold it shortly after it came into my possession.

Q. The dagger which you say was given you by your uncle had a sheath; can you describe it?"

A. The sheath was made of green silk and dark lacquered wood, and in shape resembled a closed fan.

Q. It was, then, like this? (Here the accused was shown a sheath of a dagger taken from the private collection of M. de St. Florent, an exact counterpart of the weapon used in the murder of Meissner).

A. Like that, exactly.

Q. After finding, as you say, the corpse of Meissner lying before the writing table, did you disturb any of the articles in the room?—did you open any of the drawers, or remove anything from the lock-fast places?

A. Assuredly not; after seeing my uncle's body, I had but one impulse—to escape from the room as quickly as possible; that is, as soon as I had recovered from the shock of the dreadful spectacle.

Q. How long do you suppose you were in the room?

A. I should imagine, for several minutes only.

Q. And you left it, how?

A. By the same way that I had entered it—by the window of the cabinet; I clambered down the trellis-work and then hastened from the court.

Q. You see this ivory wrist-stud which has been handed to me by the detective officer Py. Do you recognize it as your property?

A. Yes, I believe it to be my property.

Here the accused Raoul Girard requested permission to make a statement, and did so in the following terms:

"Monsieur the Judge, I shall recount to you in a few words my connection with this dreadful affair. I have to explain that my late uncle, Joseph Meissner, never treated me with kindness. I was brought up at Provins in the house of the brother of Joseph, Simeon Meissner, now dead. He was by trade a clockmaker, and was very poor. I came to Paris five years ago, and very soon had spent all the money left me by my father; both my parents had died while I was yet a child. After my money was gone I had to earn a precarious living by my pen. Meanwhile, my uncle Simeon Meissner fell ill, and was unable to work; I sent him the little money I could scrape together; then he bade me go to his brother Joseph, and ask help from him. Once or twice I received small sums of money from him—very small sums, given grudgingly; more often he would give me some article to sell; it was one of his peculiarities that he could not bring himself to part with money. One morning I found him in a remarkably good humor; a rich foreigner, in temporary difficulties, had gone only a few minutes before I arrived; and foreigners, rich and in temporary difficulties, were, he said, the sort of clients he preferred. That day he gave me a dagger of Eastern manufacture, saying that I might dispose of it, as he did not want to keep such a thing about him. I had the dagger in my possession for several weeks before I succeeded in selling it, which I did at last to a dealer in curiosities in the Palais Royal, for a hundred and twenty francs. Next time I visited my uncle he asked me how much I had got for the dagger. I told him, and he was very angry at the thought of having parted with a thing of that value. After this I found it impossible to extract from him either money or money's worth. All that I ever received from him went to my uncle Simeon—I kept not a centime to myself; rather than have done so I would have starved. When Simeon Meissner died I was at the very bottom of my purse. I wished to go to Provins to bury him. I asked my uncle Joseph for assistance. He refused to give me anything at the moment, but bade me go to Provins to see to the funeral, promising to refund me whatever I might expend. I borrowed money wherever I could, and went; on my return Joseph Meissner refused to give a single sou, and when I reminded him of his promise denied that he had ever made it. He insulted me most cruelly, declaring that I had been living in idleness on his hard-earned gains, and draining him of his money under false pretences. I naturally retorted; he flew into a passion, or feigned to do so, and bade me never cross his threshold again. As I went down stairs he screamed insults after me, calling me 'beggar,' 'good-for-nothing' and other names of that kind; finally he shouted for the janitor, and told the man on no account to admit me if I should ever present myself there again. I assured him that the order was needless, and, at the time, meant what I said. After this I managed to support myself in a way by writing for the journals, as I had done before; but about six weeks ago Le Petit Monde stopped, and with it the greater part of my scanty income. I had never been reduced to such distress before. I was in debt; there was absolutely nothing left me that I could pawn. Under ordinary circumstances I would not have gone to Joseph Meissner after what had passed, even to demand my rights. But I had a special need for money at this very time when my income had failed me. I thought it hard that this rich man should refuse payment of his debt to the penniless student of the Latin Quarter! I determined to go to him; to make a last attempt; to press my claim. I invite the attention of Monsieur the Judge to this fact—that the resolve was sudden; that it came to me in a moment of excitement. In a normal state of mind I would not have done as I did; but everything had gone against me, everything had failed me; it was my poverty that goaded me on. I did not reason; I acted wholly on impulse. On Monday night I came to this house, and hurried through the passage into the court. I knew that I could reach the window of the cabinet by clambering up the trellis-work which surrounds the court, and so gain access to this room. This I managed to do, though not without considerable exertion; in making the ascent I tore the sleeve of my coat, and must have loosened the stud at my wrist so that it afterward dropped on the floor. I swung myself into the cabinet, paused an instant to recover my breath, and then, on opening the door, saw what I have already described. . . . Monsieur the Judge will easily figure to himself my consternation, my horror, especially when I perceived, lying beside the corpse and dyed in blood, a dagger exactly like the one formerly given me by the murdered man. My brain reeled, my body trembled; for some time I was incapable of thought or action. . . . Long after I had left this place I wandered through the streets, striving in vain to banish the image of the ghastly scene from my mind. I could not shake it off; after going home I took a sleeping-draught, and found a respite in unconsciousness. Next day I was weak and feverish; next night hideous dreams came to me, in which I went through that whole scene of horror again. Monsieur the Judge will understand me when I say that for the time I was almost crazed by terror, acting on a temperament naturally nervous; the fact that I had eaten scarcely anything for three days helped to produce this effect. I was afraid to stir outside, afraid to face the light of day, so thoroughly had my fears unmanned me. I did not leave my room after returning on the night of Monday until I left it yesterday under arrest. And this that I have told Monsieur the Judge is the truth, so far as I know it."

Q. You say that the dagger given you by the deceased was sold, several weeks after, to a dealer in curiosities in the Palais Royal. Do you recollect the dealer's name?

A. (After a pause) No, I cannot remember it. But the shop is on the right hand side of the garden, as you enter from the Place du Palais Royal.

Q. You have stated that the time when you entered this room on Monday night was half-past ten, or rather a few minutes after the half hour. Are you certain of that?

A. Yes, because I heard a church clock sound the half hour just as I entered the Passage de Mazarin.

Q. In what way and with whom did you spend the night of Monday?

A. I was till nearly 10 o'clock in the Cafe de la Source, with a friend; after that I saw for a few minutes another friend. Then, as I have already stated, I came here.

Q. You share your room in the Rue Dauphine with a student of law, named Marsal?

A. Yes.

Q. He left the house on the night of your arrest; do you know why?

A. He left because—because——

Q. Well?

A. Because he suspected me.

Q. He told you so?

A. I know it.

Q. You say that you feared to leave your room after returning home on the night of the murder; of what were you afraid?

A. I feared lest suspicion might in some way fall upon me; I do not seek to conceal it.

The janitor Mouton, recalled and re-examined, stated: That Meissner had many visitors, who came to see him on business. That he, Mouton, according to orders, always took up to Meissner the names of his visitors, who were afterward received or dismissed, as the case might be. Stated that Meissner had a wide connection among the students of the "left bank"—Parisian, provincial and foreign. Had often heard the students complaining loudly of the hardness of Meissner's terms, and expressing their disgust at his avarice.

Q. You are aware that the deceased Joseph Meissner had a nephew resident in Paris?

A. Yes.

Q. From his having visited his uncle here, in this house?

A. Yes.

Q. Do you remember when the last of those visits took place?

A. It was about a twelvemonth back.

Q. Did anything particular pass then, so as to fix this date in your memory?

A. Yes. Joseph Meissner called me in a loud voice to come upstairs; I did so. He was standing at the open door of his room; the young man, his nephew, was a step or two lower. They looked as if they had been quarreling. Meissner was much flushed, and seemed excited; the young man was quiet, but one could perceive that he was agitated. Meissner spoke much louder than was usual with him. "Jean," he said to me, "you see this good-for-nothing fellow? If he comes back here you will refuse him admittance; if he persists, you will call the police. "The insult is unnecessary," said the young man. "I shall not come back." Then he went downstairs quietly.

Q. And he never came back?

A. Not to my knowledge.

Q. You are certain he said nothing more than the words you have repeated?

A. I heard him say nothing more.

CHAPTER VIII.

NOTES OF THE PRELIMINARY INQUIRY (CONTINUED).

Paul Marsal, student at law, interrogated, gave evidence as follows:

Q. You are the intimate friend of the accused, Raoul Girard?

A. For the last four years we have been inseparable.

Q. You frequently lived together, and were doing so at the time of this murder?

A. That is so.

Q. You were accustomed to discuss your private affairs quite freely together?

A. With perfect freedom.

Q. You were aware that your friend Girard had an uncle in Paris—Joseph Meissner, the money-lender?

A. I was aware that Girard had an uncle in Paris, but I did not know his name, or indeed anything about him, except that he was rich and miserly. We never talked of him; the subject was distasteful to Girard, and I avoided it.

Q. On the night of Monday, the 24th, you were along with Girard at the Cafe de la Source?

A. Yes.

Q. What was the subject of your conversation there?

A. We talked, among other matters, of our present want of means and the difficulty of raising money.

Q. Was the name of Girard's uncle mentioned in the course of that conversation?

A. No.

Q. Was any allusion made to him that evening?

A. Yes; I suggested that perhaps this rich uncle of Girard's might lend him some money.

Q. How was that suggestion received by Girard?

A. He said that it was quite useless to look for anything from that quarter.

Q. Did Girard, in your hearing, express any feeling of ill-will toward his uncle?

A. He expressed his strong disgust at the old man's avarice.

Q. Did he give utterance to any word or words expressing personal hatred—enmity?

A. It was impossible for Raoul to have a friendly feeling toward his uncle, after the treatment he had received from him.

Q. That is a negative statement. Did he express in words what you call an absence of friendly feeling?—did he threaten his uncle?

A. Certainly not.

Q. Did he apply to his uncle any epithet that might be called unfriendly?

A. (Given after a pause) I remember that he called his uncle a "cur;" an epithet, I thought, well chosen.

Q. It is not your opinion, but Girard's words to you that I wish to ascertain. Was his expression of dislike confined to the use of this word "cur?"—Did nothing more pass be-

To be continued.

ALMY, BIGELOW & WASHBURN.

MIDSUMMER BARGAINS,

CARPET DEPARTMENT.

After stock taking semi-annually we close out all patterns of Carpets that are not continued in loom by the manufacturers. These sales have become very popular because we are able to give some excellent bargains in the most desirable Carpets.

This Sale will surpass all former ones in the quantity of goods and range of prices.

It must be understood that no pattern can be duplicated.

25 Pieces 5-Frame Standard Brussels Carpets, including Lowell and Hartford, at $1.00 per yard. There is enough for a carpet in every style.

1000 yards Tapestry Brussels Carpets, at 50cts. per yard; marked down from 75 cts.

30 Pieces Tapestry Brussels Carpets, of the best quality, including Roxbury Tapestries, in short lengths, at 65 cents; been sold for $1.00.

40 Pieces Best Extra Superfine Carpets, at 60 cents. This is a fine line of Carpets, and excellent value.

REMNANTS.

5-Frame Brussels, best quality, in 1 1-2 yd. lengths, 67 cents.

Tapestry Brussels, regular $1.00 goods, at 50 cents.

Cotton Chain Remnants, 15 cents; sold from the roll at 37 1-2 to 50 cents.

SMYRNA RUGS AND MATS.

MATS, 18 x 36 in., only 95c.
RUGS, 26 x 54 in., only $3.00.
RUGS, 30 x 60 in., only 3.50.
RUGS, 36 x 72 in., only 5.00.

These goods are from a celebrated manufacturer, and are recent and very choice patterns, and are warranted in every particular.

TAPESTRY RUGS, $1.25; formerly $2.00.
TAPESTRY RUGS, 1.50; formerly 2.50.
TAPESTRY RUGS, 1.75; formerly 3.00.

Every description of Cocoa and Rubber Mats at very low prices.

FOREIGN RUGS, including Persian, India, Daghestan, Ghoirdes, etc., at prices that will be appreciated.

ALMY, BIGELOW & WASHBURN.

194 Essex Street, Salem.

CANDEE.

Rubber BOOTS
—WITH—
DOUBLE THICK BALL.

Ordinary Rubber Boots always wear out first on the ball. The CANDEE Boots are double thick on the ball, and give

DOUBLE WEAR.

Most economical rubber Boot in the market. Lasts longer than any other boot, and the

PRICE NO HIGHER.

Call and examine the goods.

"CANDEE" RUBBER BOOTS
GIVE
DOUBLE WEAR ON THE BOTTOM.
GREATEST IMPROVEMENT
EVER MADE IN RUBBER BOOTS.
TWO YEARS TEST.
A COMMON SENSE IDEA
DOUBLE THICK BALL.

FOR SALE BY

SAGE & CO.,
Wholesale Agents Candee Co.,
BOSTON, MASS.

LADIES!

FOR MILLINERY,
Go to Browne's.
FOR SUNSHADES,
Go to Browne's.
FOR KID GLOVES,
Go to Browne's.
FOR SILK GLOVES,
Go to Browne's.
FOR INFANTS' CAPS,
Go to Browne's.
FOR COLLARS,
Go to Browne's.

153 and 155 Essex St., Salem.

FOR LACE GOODS,
Go to Browne's.
FOR CORSETS,
Go to Browne's.
FOR RUCHINGS,
Go to Browne's.
FOR TOILET ARTICLES,
Go to Browne's.
FOR PERFUMERY,
Go to Browne's.
FOR HAIR GOODS,
Go to Browne's.

For all the Novelties of the season be sure and go to

Mrs. J. H. Browne

153 & 155 ESSEX ST.,

SALEM.

ESTIMATES CHEERFULLY GIVEN ON ALL KINDS OF PRINTING

HALLOWELL & SMILEY,

Canned Corn Beef AND TONGUE

For Picnics and Family Use.

MEATS AND PROVISIONS,

will always be found the best in the market at the LOWEST CASH PRICES.

Flour, Teas, Groceries, etc., at bottom prices.

Hallowell & Smiley

16 CALLER ST., PEABODY.

SMOKERS

Having secured a large lot of the very Best Tobacco in the market we feel justified in saying the

MON AMI AND PLANTER

are the Best Havana Cigars in the town of Peabody. We have also the Electric, Harvard and El Sol de Cuba Brands.

FOR A 5C. SMOKE

Try the Brunette, it is a good one. The Heart's Ease, Sociable, Purity, Gun Club and E. H. S., are fine goods.

Collins' Cigar Store,
4 Allen's Block.

TOBACCO WHOLESALE & RETAIL.

NOW IS THE TIME

TO GET

ASTERS,

And all the strong and hardy plants,

WARD'S GREENHOUSES,

Cor. Endicott and Warren Sts., Peabody.

TIP END OF YANKEE LAND.

A very interesting story about "Cape Cod folks" issued by the Old Colony Railroad, is now running through a second edition, the book contains a number of valuable maps and is full of information about the hotels and boarding houses of South Eastern Massachusetts, reached by the Old Colony system. Copies sent free on application to

T. R. KENDRICK,
General Manager, Boston.

GLASSWARE.

We have a large variety of Fancy Cut Glassware which we can r at Great Bargains. Mason's Improved Preserve Jar we are now offering very low. Call and get our prices.

BARGAIN GOODS.

We have Three counters of the above named, and we can supply you with almost anything in the line of Tinware, Woodenware and General House Supplies. Call and see our stock of 5 and 10 cent Goods.

JUST RECEIVED.

A large lot of the following goods: Pails, Tubs, Rakes, etc., etc., at a low figure.

CLOSING OUT OUR STOCK

Of Hammocks, Freezers, Screen Window and Door Frames.

BIG BARGAINS

In Pocket Knives. We carry a fine stock of Jonathan Crooke's, Ulster, Union, American and many other makes.

SAMUEL TRASK,

WALNUT STREET, PEABODY.

Our Competitors Keep Their Backs Up.

Because Our Prices are so Low,
Our Stock is so Large and
Our Patronage So Great.

WE ARE NOT TO BLAME

If an undeviating adherence to Low Prices, Fine Goods and Polite Treatment have won for us the largest trade of any retail boot and shoe store in Essex county, we shall continue to offer the same genuine inducements that have won for us the victory.

TRY THE MATCHLESS BOOT.

PRE-EMINENTLY THE BEST $2 BOOT IN THE MARKET.

Superb in style, elegant in fit and exquistte in design, they are marvels of grace and beauty and it is now within the means of every lady in Peabody to wear a most attractive boot at the

MARVELOUSLY LOW PRICE OF $2.

All horse cars from Peabody pass our Market street store and bv transfer our West Lynn store, and any lady can, by trading with us, save on one pair of boots more than nough to pay for one of the most delightful rides imaginable.

WELLMAN OSBORN,

84 MARKET ST., 23 MARKET SQUARE,

LYNN, MASS.

SPECIAL SALE!

W. F. GOLDSMITH & CO.

For a few days we shall offer a bargain in

WINDOW SHADES,

Six feet long, 36 inches wide, with Tassel attached, on Good Spring Roller, all ready to put up, for

50 CENTS EACH.

W. F. GOLDSMITH & CO.,

123 Union Street, Lynn, Mass.

Having increased our facilities for the Sale of Brussels and Tapestries, by the addition of a room for that purpose, we are prepared to show one of the best assortments to be found in the city.

BRUSSELS,
TAPESTRIES,
EXTRA SUPERS,
and cheaper grades of

INGRAINS. OIL CLOTH ALL WIDTHS.

UPHOLSTERY GOODS, CORNICES
POLES, &C. &C.

Please call and Examine.

W. F. GOLDSMITH & CO.'S
CARPET ROOMS,
123 UNION STREET, LYNN, MASS.

Three Peculiarities

Hood's Sarsaparilla, the great blood purifier and regulating medicine, is characterized by three peculiarities, namely:

1st: The combination of the various remedial agents used.

2d: The proportion in which the roots, herbs, barks, etc., are mixed.

3d: The process by which the active medicinal properties are secured.

The result is a medicine of unusual strength and curative power, which effects cures heretofore unequalled. These peculiarities belong exclusively to Hood's Sarsaparilla, and are

Unknown to Others

Hood's Sarsaparilla is prepared with the greatest skill and care, by pharmacists of education and long experience. Hence it is a medicine worthy of entire confidence. If you suffer from scrofula, salt rheum, or any disease of the blood, dyspepsia, biliousness, sick headache, or kidney and liver complaints, catarrh or rheumatism, do not fail to try

Hood's Sarsaparilla

"I recommend Hood's Sarsaparilla to all my friends as the best blood purifier on earth." WM. GAFF, druggist, Hamilton, O.

"Hood's Sarsaparilla has cured me of scrofulous humor, and done me worlds of good otherwise." C. A. ARNOLD, Arnold, Me.

A book containing many additional statements of cures will be sent to all who desire.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Sold by all druggists. $1; six for $5. Made only by C. I. HOOD & CO., Lowell, Mass.

100 Doses One Dollar.

HYGEIA

FERRATED HYGIENIC WINE

Compound of Columbo, Gentian, Chinchona Augustura, Cascarilla, Cocoa, Iron and Sherry Wine.

PURIFIES THE BLOOD

Of all Poisonous Humor.

INVIGORATING,
STRENGTHENING

The whole body. Prepared by

C. H. & J. PRICE,

226 ESSEX ST.

SALEM.

BURDETT
Business
COLLEGE

167 TREMONT ST., BOSTON.

Day and Evening Sessions.

Book-keeping, Business Arithmetic, Penmanship, Commercial Law, Business Correspondence, etc.

For complete information call at the College Office, or send for Journal.

y 15—2m

Waumbek Hotel.

JEFFERSON, N. H.,

In full view of Mount Washington, Adams, Jefferson and Lafayette; drainage perfect; pleasant drives; good livery; no mosquitoes, malaria or hay fever; elevation 1550 feet.

For nformation or Circulars inquire at this Office.

WAUMBEK HOTEL CO.

WANTED.

A few boarders on a farm in Sanbornton, N. H., healthy location, splendid view, piaz, a and shade trees, large rooms newly furnished, pleasant drives, horse to let if desired-terms reasonable. Address,
S. B. MILLS,
Gaza, N. H.
Or inquire at this office.

Hay.

2 CARS choice English; 1 car Bedding Hay Arrived to-day.
CHAS. A. ROPES & SON.
41 to 47 Central street.

STATE NORMAL SCHOOL, SALEM, MASS,

Examination for candidates for admission, TUESDAY, September 1. Tuition and text-books free. Pecuniary aid given to needy pupils. For further information, apply to DANIEL B. HAGAR, Principal.
jy 29

Tub Lard.

JUST received, a lot of choice Lard, in small tubs for family use.
CHAS. A. ROPES & SON.
41 to 47 Central street.

Now is the time to rid the system of humors and all Blood Impurities. Ferrated Hygienic Wine is a most effective remedy. tf

Cards For A Penny Apiece.

POSTAL MATTERS THAT ARE OF INTEREST TO ALL THE PEOPLE.

Many little things put together make a big heap. This is shown in few instances better than in the extent of the postal card business of the United States. The average man uses very few postal cards, but the consumption of the whole country amounts to upwards of a million per day. To realize the extent of the business of any small article you must go where it is turned out. Then you will, perhaps, find large capital and many hands employed in the manufacture of the cheapest, most insignificant, but useful novelty or time-saver. These facts were strongly impressed on an Argus reporter when he visited the Postal Card Manufactory at Castleton, on the Hudson, and about eight miles south of Albany. Here, or rather a mile outside of Castleton, are made all the postal cards used in the United States. The Hudson River railroad brings you to Castleton, and long before you reach it, the tall chimney of the postal card works is visible and a prominent object to attract attention. From Castleton, a curved railroad about a mile in length, owned by the company operating the works, brings you to the manufactory. By this road the employes are at morning, noon and night carried from Castleton, where most of them reside, to their employment. The making of postal cards is let by the government to contractors in periods of four years. When the card was first introduced Springfield, Mass., was the location of the manufactory. Then New York parties secured the contract, and after a year the present contractors, Messrs. Woolworth and Graham, bought them out and moved the scene of operations to Holyoke, Mass., where they continued for three years. At the end of this period they again secured the contract from the government and moved the works to the present location, Castleton, purchasing the old paper mill situated on Moodners' creek, a little stream about a mile out of the village.

ADVANTAGES OF CASTLETON.

Castleton has proved itself a very advantageous position. The paper stock for the cards is now made in the same building in which the manufacture of the card proper, that is the printing, cutting, packing, etc., goes on. Before removing to Castleton the paper was made in one place and had to be brought to the postal card works. Then Moodners' creek gives a water power, which, while not sufficient to run the works, is an advantage on the side of economy. These facts and the cheapness of coal and the low rates of transportation enjoyed by the contractors make Castleton the place for such works.

The present contract was made on the estimate of 2,000 millions in four years. This number, however, will not be called for, as the reduction of letter postage, from three to two cents, has somewhat hindered the otherwise increased demand for the one cent postal card.

Were you ever through a paper mill? The preparation of the paper stock for the postal card does not differ at all from the manufacture of writing paper of the best qualities. It must be good paper of course, as it must be able to stand ink, and it needs to be tough and strong to be handled easily and safely. Rags are the stuff from which the stock is made. The first room through which the reporter passed was that in which old women were busy sorting and cutting these rags, separating the linens from the woolens and seeing that no foreign substances are allowed to remain in the piles. The rags are then thoroughly dusted by being whirled around in a large cylinder having rotary fans within until they are as clean as possible. Then they are boiled in a large rotary cylinder filled with diluted lime water. This operation takes about four hours after which the rags are emptied into bins where they are allowed to remain until partly dry or until wanted to be worked into stock. The next process is that of washing them. For this there are large washers filled with clear water, in which the rags are allowed to remain about six hours and they are after coming from this clean and tender. Then they are put into the beating engines and having been mixed with rosin are torn to pieces and reduced to the consistency of soft soap, by means of a long dull blade, under which the rags are churned again and again. They remain in this machine from six to eight hours, according to the strength of the fibre of the rags.

PAPER FROM THE PULP.

After leaving the beater the pulp is now very soft and must be passed through a machine made for the purpose of shaking out the water. There are two such machines and the passing of the pulp through these properly constitutes the first process of producing the paper. All the operations before this were to make pulp from the rags; now paper is made from the pulp. There are in this room in which the paper is manufactured two Tourdinier machines, one 100 inches, the other 72 inches. When the pulp is well shaken it is passed over cylinders filled with steam and the web begins to form. The web, however, is not strong enough to support itself but is kept passing over wires covered with felt cloth which serves to hold the web together. After having been passed over about a dozen of these large steam filled cylinders it is run through a pail of animal sizing or glue to render it solid and able to stand the action of ink. Only the very best writing papers are sized with animal glue, as the cost of it is quite considerable. Now come more cylinders for a second drying, and soon the web of the paper is strong enough to pass over the rolls without the felt cloth to support it.

MAKING THE CARDS.

Having been passed through the calender machines the paper is now perfect and smooth and ready to be cut into sheets for printing. These sheets, large enough for forty cards are piled up and brought into the printing room, where having been printed on an ordinary press they are run through two cutting machines of ingenious design, and the perfect postal card is turned out. Now comes the packing. Around each twenty-five is placed a paper band and twenty of these packages are placed in a paper box. It will give some idea of the expense of this large establishment when it is mentioned that the small paper strips about half an inch wide, surrounding each package of twenty-five cost on the average one dollar per month. As far as possible everything used in this factory is made here and therefore other manufacturers' profits are spared. There is a place for the making of this animal sizing or glue by which the paper is made fit for ink. Horn cuttings are placed in tanks, and thoroughly soaked and having been subjected to the proper process are carried by pipes and made to supply the sizing tanks through which the paper is run.

MACHINES ARE ALSO AT HAND for the manufacture of the straw paper boxes into each of which 500 (20 packages of 25 each) cards are placed. Then the lumber for the larger wooden packing boxes comes cut in proper lengths and all ready for putting together. The whole works are run on the plan of completeness and economy and the supervision and management make the manufactory a model of order and system. The contractors, Messrs. Woolworth and Graham, have in process of construction and experiment a machine which is expected to receive this pulp at one end and turn out the completed cards printed, cut and packed at the other end. This machine is now nearly perfected, is covered by several patents, and if, as seems almost certain, it is a success, it will be one of the most marvelous inventions of modern times. While the water power of Moodner's creek is somewhat used, it is found to be almost as economical to use steam. About ten tons of coal are used daily for supplying the motive power. The boilers are supplied with condensed steam, not cold water. This result is an economy of fuel, and a decrease of strain on the boiler. A machine shop is connected with the works, and men and instruments are ready to remedy any defects that show themselves in the machinery.

DISTRIBUTING THE CARDS.

On the east side of the works is a large fireproof vault in which is always kept a reserve stock of from sixteen to eighteen millions of cards, to meet the orders that come in. Right long aside of this vault runs the railroad track and every day a postal car is loaded with the cards that have been ordered.

Postmasters when in want of cards send on their order to Washton, where the orders of each day are tabulated, and the orders transmitted to a mail agent at Castleton, whose duty it is to see that the orders are filled and the cards on the way to their proper destination. Every day at 3.44 this postal car is brought to Albany by the train coming from New York, which stops and takes it on. At Albany the distribution of the cards takes place, the packages being sent north, south, east or west, as the directions may read. Orders received at the Postal card works on Thursday are shipped the following Monday. About two hundred persons, about half being women and girls, work in this manufactory when running heavily, and a lesser number as business may call, about 150 on the average.

* * *

Frank Leslie's Sunday Magazine for September opens with a profusely illustrated article on "The Bible in English," tracing the history of the English version from Wyclif's to the latest versions. Illustrative papers on "Madagascar," and "Scenes at Chautauqua Lake," will interest the geographical student. Bernard Klein, Auguste Panseron, Johann Simon Mayer and Samuel Parkman Tuckerman are sketched in the Sacred Musicians series; "The Prodigal Son" with two illustrations, is the subject of the Parable, and "The Rival Kingdoms of Judah and Israel" the subject of the Bible History article. This last has seven fine illustrations. Dr. Talmage's sermon on "The Boy Home," and his editorial comments treat on fresh and timely topics. The two serial stories increase in interest, and there are several good short stories and poems, besides an attractive and abundant miscellany. Published by Mrs. Frank Leslie, 53, 55 and 57 Park Place, New York City, at 25 cents a number, or $2.50 a year, postage paid.

In a contribution to the North American Review for August, Hon. Geo. W. Julian, who has given special attention to the acts disposing of our public lands, tells the story in brief of the loss of the landed estate of the American nation. In the same number five medical authorities discuss the question "Can Cholera be Averted?" Felix L. Oswald contributes a suggestive article on "The Animal Soul;" and the Rev. M. J. Savage, in "A Profane View of the Sanctum" brings an indictment against the daily press. The other articles are one on "The Price of Gas," by Chas. H. Botsford, one on "Temperance Reform Statistics," by Prof. W. J. Beecher. and the chapter of "Comments," bv various writers on articles in previous numbers.

Ballou's Magazine for September has an illustrated article on the Crimea, and the mysterious movements of Russia on the Black Sea, at the present, after years of quietness. It is worth reading. Then follows the California story, "Lewey and I; or, Sailor Boys Wanderings," by Wm. H. Thomes, author of "The Belle of Australia," and on "Land and Sea." In this part the two adventurers have their first encounter with Captain Fremont's scouts, near Monterey, while escorting two ladies to their homes and husbands. There are stories and poems of great merit in Ballou's Magazine, and some rare wit and humor. it is a good number, and one the people will be pleased to read. It is only $1.50 per year, or 15 cents single copies. Address Thomes & Talbot, 23 Hawley street, Boston, Mass.

With this number, the Bay State Monthly begins a new series under new business and editorial management. While retaining the general plan and form of the old series, this number shows at once that a much higher plane of literary excellence has been adopted. The opening biographical sketch is of the famous war governor, John A. Andrew, accompanied by a steel plate portrait, unquestionably the finest that ever appeared in The Bay State, and two illustrations representing Andrew's birthplace and monument. The most prominent feature of the number is "The City of Worcester, the Heart of the Commonwealth," a most interesting and impartial historical and descriptive article embellished with 18 excellent illustrations, and written by Mrs. Fanny Bullock Workman, daughter of the late Governor Bullock of that city. Bay State Monthly Company, 43 Milk St., Boston, Mass. $3.00 a year, in advance 25 cents a number.

"GONE, BRAVE ONE, GONE!"—This is a memorial tribute to General Grant in the form of a song and chorus, by Walter A. Perry of this city. Mr. Perry is the author of both words and music, which are filled with sympathetic feeling, and a hearty appreciation of the noble qualities of the great soldier.—New Bedford Daily Mercury.

HEALTH AND EDUCATION.—The Sisters of the Academy of the Visitation, Frederick, Md., are amongst those in charge of educational institutions who use Red Star Cough Cure and give it to their pupils. They write that they can heartily recommend it to their friends.

ROYAL

FULL WEIGHT
ROYAL
BAKING POWDER

BAKING POWDER

Absolutely Pure.

This powder never varies. A marvel of purity, strength and wholesomeness. More economical than the ordinary kinds, and cannot be sold in competition with the multitudes of low test, short weight, alum or phosphate powders. Sold only in cans. ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO., 106 Wall street, N. Y.
2dm

AGENT

—FOR—

CHICKERING & SONS' PIANOS.

Four fine New Pianos for sale very low for Cash.

A large stock of Organs and Musical Merchandise.

E. V. EMILIO'S,

MUSIC STORE,

287 ESSEX ST.,

SALEM.

B. F. STEVENS,

JEWELER & STATIONER.

Watches, Clocks and Jewelry cleaned and repaired.

Just received a fine stock of musical instruments. The best

Violin, Banjo and Guitar Strings,
Accordions, Banjos,
Violins, Harmonicas,
Harps, Clappers, Bows,
Drums, Fifes, Flutes, Piccolos
etc., etc.

Agent for E. V. Emilio, also agent for Merriam & Co., wood and coal.
nov 19—tf PR

NOW FOR

Base Ball,

and the place to get

BASE BALLS
AND BATS

at the lowest prices is of

DANIEL J. SWEENEY

Next to the Old Hotel on the Square.

Here can also be found a good assortment of

Fruit,
Confectionery,
Cigars and
Tobacco.
Principee, Electric,
Serenader, Leader,

5 CENTS.

Harvard and Boat Club,

10 CENTS.

DANIEL J. SWEENEY.

N. W. EDSON & CO.

LARGE INVOICE OF

MASON'S

IMPROVED FRUIT JARS.

Three sizes—Pints, Quarts, one-half gallons.

N. W. Edson & Co.,

58 & 60 MAIN ST.,

PEABODY.

8 PER CENT. INVESTMENTS!

SCHOOL BONDS AND CAREFULLY SELECTED FARM MORTGAGES

in the "corn belt" of Dakota—the best and most fertile part of the Territory. Interest paid semi-annually at your home. Safest, best and most prompt paying investments obtainable. Satisfaction Guaranteed. Write us for copy School Bond Law and full particulats. First-class references THE CITIZENS' BANK, Grand View, Dakota aug 5—1m

LIBERALITY PAYS!

Any successful business man will you that Judicious Liberality in the treatment of customers has been one of his best paying investments. This has certainly been the experience of

NUGENT BROS.,

who have invariably found that their customers are more than glad to direct their friends to the

Bargain Shoe Store,

4 LOWELL STREET,

PEABODY SQUARE.

Before taking our semi-annual account of stock, we intend to reduce it one half, and in pursuance of our policy of liberalt ity, we continue to offer to the citizens of Peabody unparalleled Inducements to secure the greatest value for their money. Astounding Bargains may be obtained by simply calling on us and making known your wants.

We can Fit you, also fit your pocketbook. All we ask is the chance, and we will guarantee to give you satisfaction in every respect.

NUGENT BROS.

The Peabody Press.

JOHN P. FERNALD ALBERT VITTUM,
Editors and Publishers.

AND NOW the Telephone Company in this vicinity have increased the price of service to $50. 00 per year. The service is unremunerative, which means, we suppose, that the dividends are not as large as the Company would like to have them. We don't own any stock in the Company but we have been told that it is hard to get, and is considered one of the best investments a man can have.

We are not informed that the increase in price means any better service or any different service. As it is, the subscriber is confined mostly to Peabody and Salem. Subscribers in Peabody are informed that in Danvers, Beverly and Marblehead, the so-called Central Office is not a central office. The party in each of these places having the so-called Central office does the business of the Company for the use of the telephone. And if we, in Peabody, want to talk with him, it is an extra charge. The Company don't care to pay for the accommodation of their subscribers—they propose to get it out of the subscribers themselves. Suppose, for instance, Mr. A., who is a subscriber in Peabody, wishes to talk with Mr. Jones, of Danvers, who is not connected by telephone. It costs him for the message outside—which is all right—and extra for the telephone. In other words, if Mr. A. was not a subscriber, he could go to the Peabody office and telephone for the same price. Of what use, then, to Mr. A. is his telephone in this case?

Again the business men of Peabody, who use the telephone—and this also applies to Salem—often desire to use the service to Lynn. There is the same charge. They pay just the same as if they were not subscribers. Of course there must be some limit to the exchanges, but the business of Lynn, Salem, Peabody, Danvers, Beverly and Marblehead is so intimately connected that the exchanges ought to include all these places, particularly if there is to be an increased charge for the service.

We hear nothing but dissatisfaction, in Peabody, with the proposed change in rates. There are some subscribers to whom the telephone service would be invaluable were the charge one hundred dollars per year. Some of these, however, from principle, will not submit to the increased charge. Others will order their instruments removed, anyway. And we cannot blame them. It is their only remedy. When the Exchange in Peabody first started the Company was very affable and docile. The subscribers were of some account. But now that the Company has increased its service and grown fat—has become a gigantic monopoly—all is changed. The recent change in calling subscribers by number was not done for the further convenience of the subscribers, but for the convenience of the central office, that the company might be able to put an inexperienced operator at the Central Station, if they so desired, thus reducing their expenses and still further adding to the earnings of the monopoly.

There is, however, one redress. The Legislature of Massachusetts has the power to fix the maximum rates to be charged by the Companies in the State. The telephone companies are responsible to the State for the valuable franchise given them—and the State can see to it that her citizens are protected from excessive charges for service. An attempt was made last year to pass a bill limiting the rates of charges by these companies. The bill ought to have passed. It will pass in the future. If the business men, who feel the injustice of the excessive rates, will call the attention of their representative to it, or elect one pledged to see that such a law is passed, something will be done.

The Company may be able to see a remunerative business from a reduced number of telephones in Peabody. Whether they see the income or not, they will surely see a reduced number. The price is too high, already. It is not worth $50.00 a year to us—and we know of other subscribers of the same opinion.

* * *

MUCH HAS been said by the press of the country—too much in many instances—relative to the burial place of Gen. Grant. We have regretted, as most of our readers doubtless have, that some other place than New York City was not chosen as the last resting place of the body of our Military Commander. But with the wishes of the family of the late General the people should be content. If it is the desire of Mrs. Grant that Riverside Park should be the place of burial, all claims that his body belongs to the nation should be dismissed. They are ill timed and obtrusive. The nation has buried him with appropriate military ceremonies,and there the matter should rest.

For the sake of Mrs. Grant we are sorry that the selection of another place of burial seems to be necessary. We do not see how it can be avoided. The Mayor of New York was eager to assure Col. Grant that proper action would at once be taken that the request of the dead General should be complied with—that his wife could be buried at her death, by his side. This was the only condition mentioned by Gen. Grant, when consulted as to a place of burial. The trustees of the Park were also eager, as was Mayor Grace, to deed a certain plot of land to Mrs. Grant. Now comes the city solicitor,and his opinion is fortified by that of other prominent attorneys, that the trustees of the Park cannot grant such a deed. They were altogether too fast. The entire board of officials of New York were so greedy to secure the bones of the late General that they allowed policy to run entirely away with their judgment. They saw land increasing in price in the vicinity of the Park from the moment that site had been selected. The inability to give Mrs. Grant the deed proposed of course precludes any guarantee, that she can at her death, be buried by his side. Republics are notoriously ungrateful, and the lapse of time, and the possible change of feeling towards the widow is liable to prevent the consummation of the wishes of Grant. So that it seems not unlikely that the family will turn in another direction. And if the matter is re-opened, and a change thought of, the people of the country ought of right, at that time, to be heard. Its voice will make itself plainly manifest if called for. It is apparent to any inquirer now. The press has spoken the feeling of the people with singular unanimity—that the body should repose at the Soldiers' Home in Washington.

* * *

THERE IS an indication of a revival in business which we hope will be permanent. We don't see any prospects for a boom; and we can't say that we want to. Booms have done this country more harm than good. But a steady, sure improvement, one that will last, that will give employment to all our laboring men is what we earnestly desire. Late indications point to this. The New York Stock market has shown an upward tendency for some time—a gradual upward movement which has lasted. Print cloths have advanced, cotton goods are firmer and flannels are at least 5 per cent higher. The leather trade, on the whole, is in better condition. Prices remain about the same, but there is a better demand, and with this must come soon an advance in price. Some of our shops are doing all they can—and then are unable to supply the demand in certain grades. Business is being conducted on a more certain basis;people are learning to be cautious and more prudent both in their credits, and in their necessary expenditures. This is another hopeful indication. The following is from the Boston Advertiser of Monday, which is never rose-colored in its reports:

"The trade reports for the week showed a continuation of the improvement recently noted in the movement of staple dry goods, of wool and of boots and shoes. Cotton goods have made and held a fractional advance, and flannels are selling at an advance of 5 per cent. The prices of wool are firm, and there has been a perceptible starting up in manufactures from this staple. Wheat continues dull and weak, even in face of the almost assured fact that the yield for this year will scarcely do more than supply the home market. The crop reports from abroad would seem to encourage a bullish market here; but, in spite of all, November wheat closed at Chicago on Saturday at 88 5-8, with August selling at 83. The total visible supply of wheat was reported at 38,807,918 bushels. Flour, and in general, other food products, are still depressed, and the iron and steel trade reports no improvement. The failures for the week show a decrease of thirty-two, compared with the week before, and forty-five compared with a year ago."

* * *

THE TIME for the Conventions of the State, by both Republicans and Democrats, is near at hand. Yet in each case they are called later than usual, and the time given to the campaign, such as it is, will be short. It has been rumored that Gen. Butler's visit in the vicinity of Newport was of a nature political. No one supposes that he intends to enter the field himself. But it is possible that he will be induced to put in some work for his friend Col. French, and thus bring himself and followers back into the democratic fold.

We see no possible chance for the election of a democratic governor of Massachusetts this fall. It is conceded to be the plan to nominate Gov. Robinson for a re-election. Yet he is not as strong with the soldiers of the State as previous to the funeral of Grant, and not a few Army men hereabouts have expressed their unwillingness to vote for him at all. We have seen somewhere a suggestion that this year would be a good time to bring forward the name of Hon. William W. Crapo, of New Bedford. We believe that this is true. Mr. Crapo is one of the ablest Republicans in the State. He has more friends in this portion of Massachusetts than before his defeat at the Republican Convention which nominated Bishop. He has shown himself deserving of such friendship. Still we suspect it is on the slate to nominate Robinson, and if so, it will be useless to rebel. Gov. Robinson has made a careful and cautious executive, and in many ways an able one. If nominated he will be elected.

* * *

THE NEW Secretary of War is entitled to much commendation for his recent order in reference to the army officers. Many of them, it appears, have been in the habit of getting excused from duty with their regiments, and have spent their time around Washington, doing the gallant to the fair ladies of the Capitol. While this may be agreeable to the officers and their lady friends—it probably was—it is not army duty, and officers in the Army are supposed to do their duty, if there is any such to be done. The new order does not please the officers, but it pleases the country. Some of these men have been assigned to colored regiments, but the Secretary informs them that "all regiments stand on a perfect equality before the law; they are equally intrusted with the keeping of the flag, and with the honor of the country, and it is as important that colored regiments should be well officered and well led upon all occasions as other regiments. The Secretary of War can know no inequality, and it is his duty to assign officers to them upon the same principles which govern the assignments of all officers. The good of the service, the provisions of the law, the discipline of the army, and the unhesitating obedience to orders demand that officers should acquiesce when assigned to such regiments." This is just what we in this vicinity had reason to expect of Secretary Endicott. He will be cordially upheld by all without reference to party.

* * *

EXIT WILLIAM A. Simmons—the Chairman of the Boston Water Board, the appointee of the Palmer-Butler regime, the young Christian soldier about whom so much was heard when he was Collector of Boston. Mayor O'Brien refused to accept his resignation and removed him. Without expressing any opinion about the Fisher Hill transaction, his removal was certainly justifiable by Mayor O'Brien. Mr. O'Brien is proving himself a Mayor of whom Boston can be proud.

* * *

A very rare coinc idence of mortality has just occurred in a small religious circle in our city. The North Church has a large proportion of very aged people, and last week no less than three of their number—General Oliver, Mrs. Webb and Mrs. Lee—were visited by the angel of death. All three were lying unburied at one time. Rev. Mr Wilson, the pastor of the North Church, returned to Salem a few days since from his brief vacation at Petersham to attend one funeral, that of Capt. James S. Williams, to which have been added those of Miss Farley and Mr. George J. Breed(who was for some years organist at the North Church,)and the three first named.—Salem Gazette

* * *

It will be seen that Hon. Wm. M. Hill has opened an office in Salem as broker in real estate, and such other business as pertains thereto. Property will be sold by him at auction and all business entrusted to him will be carefully attended to. Ex-Mayor Hill has many friends in Peabody, who wish him success in his new business relations.

MUSICAL NOTES.

The musical people of this vicinity have met with another loss in the death of Gen. H. K. Oliver. Like Dr. Tuckerman his musical education and attainments were chiefly in the direction of sacred music. In his early years he was one of the boy choir in Park street church, in Boston, and since then had been identified with the music of the church as long as his health would allow. He was a fine organist in his early days and was also a good bass singer. His work as a composer was not so extensive as that of Dr. Tuckerman, but he published a collection of Church Music "Oliver's Collection," which met with a good sale. The arrangement and harmony of some of the tunes therein contained has never been excelled. His chief popularity, of course, was from the tune "Federal Street," which appears in all the psalmody up to the present time. At the time of Gilmore's great Peace Jubilee, it was sung by the great chorus there, and by request of Mr. Gilmore, Gen. Oliver himself conducted during its performance. Gen. Oliver has been a patron of all musical Societies, and a member of the Salem Oratorio Society up to the time of his death. On the occasi [illegible] his last birthday the choir of Grace Church went to his house and rendered "Federal Street" for him. It was no uncommon occurrence for this choir to visit him and sing some of their choicest selections. It was a pleasure to both him and the choir, and he was also a friend of Dr. Tuckerman. Gen. Oliver attended the afternoon rehearsal during the performance, by the Salem Oratorio Society, of the Messiah, last December, complimenting the two young lady soloists, Miss Cary and Miss Clapper, both of whom he heard then for the first time. He was a frequent contributor to the Salem and other papers on matters pertaining to musical education and musical history, and his articles bore the weight of authority.

Miss Grace F. Dalton sang at the South Church last Sabbath.

The Salem Band Orchestra have been engaged by Andrews, Moulton & Johnson for their entertainments in Mechanic Hall the coming season. The Brass Band will accompany the William Chase Steamer Co., in September, to Bath, Maine, and will go to Haverhill the 20th, with the Odd Fellows.

Plans are being matured for locating Reeves' band in Boston, and attaching it to the first regiment, to be known as Reeves' first regiment band.

Dodworth's Thirteenth Regiment N. Y. S. G. Band will remain at Nantasket the ensuing week, having been re-engaged.

Musical people will be highly entertained this week at the Point of Pines, and large numbers from this vicinity are making preparations to attend. The Salem Cadet band gave a concert today, which is "Opera day," selections being given from all the popular operas. Chandler's band of Chelsea appears Thursday, which is International day, when music characteristic of the principal nations of the world will be given. The National band of Lynn appears Friday, and Colt's band appears Saturday, which is Solo day. The festival will close on Sunday, when the Lynn Brass band appears. The programme for this day will consist of sacred and classic music. Over thirty soloists will appear in the programme. The crowd last evening was very large, and the solos on the Cornet, by Signor Liberati created a regular furore.

Bennett & Moulton's Opera Co. open their seventh tour at Mechanic Hall, Monday, August 31, remaining the entire week. The company this season is enlarged (40 people) and comprise all the old favorites. The repertoire includes the Mascot, Olivette, Chimes of Normandy, Pirates of Penzance, Patience, Girofle-Girofla. The mounting of the operas will be entirely new. This season the company have added one of the most important features to operatic presentations, a first class orchestra, which they carry with them. For full particulars see future announcements.

By the decease of Mr. George J. Breed, the city of Salem loses one of its most accomplished musicians. That he was extremely modest and unambitious, and hence unknown to many does not impair the statement that we have seldom had among us a more thorough pianist, a better teacher, or a more brilliant performer. Yet his peculiar temperament led him to withdraw from society, and to exert his talents for the benefit of a few only. He was an excellent gentleman, and had many warm friends and admirers.—Salem Observer.

At a sacred concert given at the New American House, Richfield Springs, Sunday, the 9th inst., Miss Lizzie Webb Cary sang "Consider the Lilies" by Topliff, and the Angel's Serenade with violin obligato by Herr Anton Furst. A Boston correspondent says that Miss Cary's "mellow, thoroughly trained voice and artistic method were greatly admired by the large audience assembled." She was accompanied by Miss Georgie D. Learned, of Boston, who is the accompanyist for Mrs. Edna A. Hall.

The Ipswich Chronicle thus speaks of an entertainment given last week at Ipswich Neck. "Prof. Bill with his interesting daughters furnished the vocal part of the entertainment, and was heartily applauded. Several very pretty songs (one in character) were sung by one of Prof. Bill's daughters, a charming little miss of only seven years, to the great delight of all.

A special Quartette, consisting of Misses Frederika and Addie Pitman, Messrs. Geo. M. Whipple and S. P. Chase sang at the funeral services of Gen H. K. Oliver, Monday afternoon, at the North Church, Salem.

SOUTH PEABODY.

Miss Annie Dean has gone to Sandwich, N. H., to spend her vacation.

The So. Peabody nine got defeated in a game of ball last Saturday by the nine from the Bleachery.

The carpenters have the house of Mr. Joseph Moody raised and nearly finished on the outside.

Mrs. Lydia A. Decatur has gone to N. H. for a few weeks recreation.

Mr. Hersey Larrabee is making extensive improvements to his residence on Lynnfield street.

Mr. Edward Balcomb is at work with his men making repairs in and around the school house on Brown street.

Mr. Charles Wiggin has returned from Great Falls, N. H., and will probably stop at home for the present.

Rer. Mr. Gay of Georgetown occupied the pulpit at the church last Sunday.

The gipsies find Peabody a good field to work, and have returned again for the third time this season.

Mr. Charles Newhall dropped a large block of ice on his foot in front of Baldwin's hotel last Saturday, badly bruising it for the second time this season. Charlie must have pretty large feet, and by the time he gets them well flattened out by dropping ice on them, the season will be over.

A well known lady in this part of he town, now in her seventy-fifth year, selected last Monday her first pair of spectacles, never before having had occasion to use any. It it had not been for a cold settling in her eyes she would not have been obliged to purchase a pair yet.

The tenth anniversary of the August Club was celebrated at Bartholomew's pond last Sunday. Ten years ago these gatherings were begun, the first one being attended by about twelve, and they have increased year by year until the number has reached seventy-five. It is the intention of the club in the future in addition to the regular annual, to hold frequent socials.

The Lynn & Boston railroad company carried 2384 through passengers last Sunday on the Peabody branch, being the largest day this season.

* * *

The Grand Lodge of Massachusetts Odd Fellows met in Odd Fellows' Hall last Thursday. Grand Master Braley of Fall River called the company together and presided. From the financial reports of the various officers it appears that the finances are in a good condition. From the report of the Grand Secretary it appears that there are in this State 173 subordinates, with a membership of 30,651, one new lodge has been instituted, 994 persons have been initiated, 70 have been admitted by card, 102 have withdrawn and 153 have died; 3365 degrees have been conferred; $40,360.22 has been paid for 13,457 weeks' benefits to 1762 sick members, $2733.44 has been paid for the relief of 249 widows, $7217.65 has been paid for the burial of 146 members and $4711.49 has been paid for other charitable purposes, and the receipts have been $152,880.58. A committee to whom was referred the matter of erecting a monument to the memory of the late William Ellison, past grand sire, reported in favor of the monument, and the committee, comprising Charles Hayden, William E. Ford, Horatio Wellington, Henry W. Clark and Julius L. Clarke, was authorized to spend $500 for the purpose. The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: Grand master, Edwin L. Pillsbury of Charlestown; deputy grand master, William M. Hill of Salem; grand warden, R. W. Taber of New Bedford; grand secretary, Charles D. Cole of Boston; grand treasurer, Julius L. Clarke of West Newton; grand representative to sovereign grand lodge, H. K. Braley of Fall River; grand marshal, Charles H. Brown of Charlestown; grand chaplain, William Parkman of Boston; grand conductor, Charles D. Dunkerton of Worcester; grand guard, Thomas B. Heath of Charlestown; grand herald, George W. Hayden of Boston.

* * *

Irving W. Allen, of the Citizen, while eating a fish dinner Friday, had the misfortune to have a fish bone lodge in his throat. Dr. J. H. Dearborn was called to perform the necessary surgical operation in order that the bone be removed.—Exchange.

That is just an editor's luck,give him a good square meal occasionally and he is sure to choke to death. Stick to oat meal, Brother.

No less than 250 musicians have been secured for the Point of Pines festival, which begun yesterday and continues for six days of brilliant programmes. Of course Mr. J. Thomas Baldwin is to be the director. He will have at his command, in addition to the noted Boston Cadet band, performers selected from the Worcester Cadet band, Higgins', Carter's and the Metropolitan bands of Boston. Chandler's band comes from Portland to take part in the programme, a grand excursion from "way down East" being arranged at the time of their visit. Colt's Armory band will head a great party of visitors from Hartford and along the New England railway. Then there will be heard the Lynn Cadet and National bands, and the Cadet band from the City of Peace, Salem. Distinguished soloists will give eclat to this festival. Walter Emerson has been especially engaged, and is certain of a grand welcome. Frederic N. Innes, the noted trombone player, is to appear. Alessandro Leberati, the Italian cornet virtuoso, whose playing with Gilmore's band at Coney Island is so much applauded, comes by special engagement. The successive events of the festival will be known as "Popular Day," "Opera Day." Reminiscences of the First Point of Pines Festival "International Day," "Special Day," and finally, a day of sacred and classical music. Trains will run constantly to and from the Point of Pines during the festival, and all the resources of this amusement centre will be brought into requisition to accommodate the throng.

* * *

The contribution for the centennial fund of the Salem Cadets has been so liberal that it is stated no assessment will probably be required. The arrangements are progressing favorably for the grand celebration by the corps Oct. 8. The Boston Cadets have accepted the invitation to them to be present and will bring their band. The Worcester Light Infantry is also coming with a band. The Actives will have their corps band, the Salem Cadet, and the Veterans, who include the flower of Salem youth of the past generation, will parade with full ranks and will have a band. At early dawn the trumpeters will visit every section of the city sounding the old fashioned bugle calls for reveille. The marquee and the full encampment of days of yore will be pitched on the Common, and there the visiting organizations will be received. There will be a grand parade, followed by a grand banquet at the Willows. Many novel features will be introduced in the parade, and the uniform of each epoch of the history of the corps will appear in the line. The centennial observance promises to be the most brilliant military event in the annals of the city.

* * *

The soldiers' monument at Atlanta is to have statues of Grant, Lee, Johnston and Sherman around the base of the column. Near the top will be two soldiers, the blue and the gray, clasping hands, and above the globe that crowns the summit will be the Goddess of Liberty. The structure will be 180 feet in height and will cost $100,000.

New Advertisements.

STRAWBERRIES! STRAWBERRIES!

Next June,

By planting Strawberry Plants in August will secure a crop of fruit the coming season. Any good garden soil, well cultivated, enriched, etc., will answer. We have fine plants and best varieties.

ALL POTTED PLANTS AT LOW MARKET RATES.

Varieties—"Sharpless," "Miner's Prolific," "Chas. Downing," "Bidwell," "Jersey Queen" (P,) "Hervey Davis," etc.

Orders by mail will receive prompt attention. Goods can be sent by express to all points.

TERMS CASH.

Plants, Flowers, etc., to order from

E. & C. WOODMAN

Florist and Garden Supplies,

DANVERS, MASS.

☞ Greenhouses, Holten St., Tapleyville. On line Salem & Danvers and Peabody and Danvers Horse Railroad.

Send for Circular.

WM. M. HILL.

AUCTIONEER, REAL ESTATE

BROKER & APPRAISER.

HALE'S BLOCK.

223 ESSEX STREET, SALEM.

Mortgagees negotiated. Personal attention to all Real Estate matters.

EXECUTOR'S NOTICE.

Notice is hereby given, that the subscribers have been duly appointed Executors of the will of PERLEY KING, late of Peabody, in the County of Essex, yeoman, deceased, testate, and have taken upon themselves that trust by giving bonds, as the law directs. All persons having demands upon the estate of said deceased are required to exhibit the same; and all persons indebted to said estate are called upon to make payment to

JAMES P. KING,
EBEN U. KING,
Executors

Peabody, Mass., July 21, 1885.

Peabody's Prices.

The Celebrated Pivot Corsets,

75 Cents.

Fruit of the Loom, Bleached Cotton, Yard Wide,

7 Cents.

Good Dark Prints, fast colors, fresh Goods,

4 Cents.

Yard Wide Sheeting, fair quality,

5 Cents.

Nice Cheviots, good Colors and Quality,

8 Cents.

Nice Fine Milan Hats, worth 75 cents now

21 Cents.

Good Wide Foulard Cambrics, only

8 Cents.

Wash Poplin Skirts, 75 cent ones,

50 Cents.

Three Nice Japanese Fans, 5 cent ones, three for

5 Cents.

White Lonsdale Apron, tucks side and bottom,

25 Cents.

Seventy-five Cent Corsets, nice ones,

50 Cents.

Two Gauze Vests, worth 25 cents each, two for

25 cents.

And numerous other Bargains during the month of August.

— AT —

PEABODY'S.

SALEM.

RATES REDUCED.

MAPLE HOUSE,

JEFFERSON, N. H.

The proprietors having in view that the great land slide which occurred on July 10th, 1885, will attract a great many people to Jefferson, during September and October, offer to entertain people during that time at from

$7.00 to 8.00 per week,

in all parts of the house. Send for descriptive circular.

Coaches connect with all trains at Jefferson Station.

Open till Nov. 1st.

MRS. M. H. BOWLES & SON.

PROBATE NOTICE.

Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

ESSEX, SS. PROBATE COURT.

To the Heirs-at-law, Next of Kin, and all other Persons interested in the Estate of RUTH A. GOLDTHWAIT, late of Peabody, in said county, widow, deceased,

GREETING:

WHEREAS, a certain instrument purporting to be the last will and testament of said deceased has been presented to said Court for Probate, by Mary A. Goldthwait, and Elizabeth P. Goldthwait, who pray that letters testamentary may be issued to them the executors therein named, and that they may be exempt from giving a surety or sureties on their bond, for the reasons alleged in said petition. You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court to be held at Salem, in said county of Essex, on the first Monday of September, next at nine o'clock, before noon, to show cause, if any you have, against the same.

And said petitioners are hereby directed to give public notice thereof, by publishing this citation once a week, for three successive weeks, in the newspaper called the Peabody Press, printed at Peabody, the last publication to be two days at least before said Court.

Witness, George F. Choate, Esquire, Judge of said Court, this fourteenth day of July, in the year one thousand eight hundred and eighty-five.

J. T. MAHONEY, Register.

jy 29—3t

TOWN OF PEABODY.

Town Collector's Notice.

The owners and occupants of the following described parcels of real estate, situated in the town of Peabody, in the county of Essex, and commonwealth of Massachusetts, and the public, are hereby notified that the taxes thereon assessed for the years hereinafter specified, according to the list committed to me as Collector of Taxes for said town, by the assessors of taxes, remain unpaid, and that said parcels of real estate will be offered at public auction for sale, at the office of the Collector at the Town House in said Town of Peabody, on

Wednesday, Sept. 2d, 1885,

At 9 o'clock A. M. for the payment of said taxes together with the costs and charges thereon, unless the same shall be previously discharged.

A lot of land bounded northwardly, westwardly and southwardly by land of Heirs of David Putnam, eastwardly by Lynn St., containing about 8250 square feet with the buildings thereon. Taxed to John Putnam for 1882, $32.40, (partly paid) for 1883, $26.18, for 1884, $27.88.

A lot of land bounded northwardly by land of Mary Beers, eastwardly by Harris St., southwardly by land of Edward Sheary, westwardly by land of John Motley, containing about 11,500 square feet, with the buildings thereon. Taxed to estate of John Cuddire for 1883 $16 94, for 1884 $18.04.

A lot of land bounded northwardly by land of George A. Needham and Daniel P. Pope, eastwardly by land of George Reed, southwardly by land formerly of Upton, westwardly by land of John G. Walcott and George A. Needham, containing about 13 acres, with the buildings thereon. Taxed to Philip H. Saunders for 1882, $16.20, for 1883 $15.40, for 1884, $16.40.

LEVI PRESTON, Collector.

aug 5

The Peabody Press.

Wednesday Evening, Aug, 19, 1885

HOME HAPPENINGS.

Rev. Dr. Tucker, of Andover, related istory in Manchester, N. H., while isiting there, which will be appreciaed by our readers. It was published n the Mirror of that place and evidenty Dr. Tucker thought it too good to eep. Rev. Mr. Sperry of this town reached at the Hanover Street Church t that place a few Sabbaths ago and as s well known to our readers, Prof. Hincks of Andover preached here. Now Prof. Hincks, according to Rev. Dr. Tucker, is regarded in Andover as ne of the soundest preachers of the aith as held at Andover, "his orthooxy being," as Dr. Tucker says, "as taunch as that of St. Paul." The proessor delivered one of his characterisic discourses, but it did not meet the pproval of one of the officers, who, at n evening meeting during the week, olicited prayers for Prof. Hincks, who, e thought, was "not up to the proper tandard of orthodoxy." Dr. Tucker was greatly amused at the impression is co-laborer at the Andover seminary roduced upon the Peabody deacon, and elated the story with much gusto.

Mr. Gardner M. Fasset, station agent t Wenham, and Miss Annie Brine were united in marriage at the resience of the bride's mother in that own last Thursday, Rev. George J. anger officiating. The ceremony took lace under a beautiful floral canopy nd the house was profusely decorated with flowers. The bride wore an eleant white satin dress. After the eremony the company, some seventyve, sat down to a supper furnished by Tador & Hill, caterers of Lynn. The appy couple were made the recipients f many beautiful presents, among hem a steel engraving entitled "Thorughbred," a parlor lamp, silver cake asket, two glass water services, two French plate mirrors, willow rockers, ronze statuettes, fruit dishes, ice cream ets, spoons, knives, and numerous ther ornamental and useful presents.

Manager Furber of the Boston & Maine and the people of Lynn get long very happily. Lynn desired a ew changes in regard to shifting trains. nstead of having any red-tape process, Manager Furber went down, and in ompany with the railroad commissionrs and city officials, looked over the round, saw that the changes were eally needed, and decided to make hem without any further fuss or eathers. Both sides wanted to do the air thing, and both went about it in a air way, and both were satisfied. Nearly every like question might be ettled in an equally pleasant way if its onsideration were entered upon with a pirit similar to that exhibited between Manager Furber and the city of Lynn. —Boston Globe.

James F. Foye has put on a new eam, from the manufactory of James . Roome & Co., and is prepared to do ny kind of expressage to and from Boston, whether light or heavy. Mr. Foye has increased the business over he South Reading Branch R. R. very onsiderably since he took the business reviously carried on by Mr. Townend. His express now leaves the deot for Boston at 9.11 A. M.—return ng arrives in Peabody at 4.02 P. M. Orders of any kind will be carefully ttended to.

Mrs. Thomas Smith has a night looming cereus which blossomed for he first time last week. The flower was seven and one-quarter inches in iameter. Its petals of pure white were ranged in seven rows around a reamy center consisting of funnel haped stamen, surrounded by pistils ine as down. The fragrance was difused through the room and it was dmired by many. The opening began bout half past seven o'clock, the full bloom was at midnight, and at day dawn the bud had closed never to open gain.

Mr. J. Augustus King, son of James P. King, Esq., was united in marriage ast Thursday evening to Mrs. Ellen M. Eaton, Rev. W. G. Sperry officiatng. The ceremony was performed in he presence of the immediate families and the newly married pair were made the recipients of many useful and valuable presents, besides the congratulations and best wishes of all. They will reside in the Upton house on Lowell street recently remodeled and furnished.

Dean & Blake at their morocco factory have been doing a large business of ate and among other kinds have turned out a large number of skins made in mitation of the famous dongola leather. They have a drying loft heated by steam, with a blower that enables them to dry their skins in a very short time.

Out of several hundred young cigarette smokers examined by a Washington physician one-fifth had heart disease. There is not a particle of doubt but that cigarette smoking is the worst form in which tobacco can be used.

VACATION NOTES.

Mrs. S. G. Southwick has gone to Hampton Beach, N. H.

Mr. and Mrs. George C. Prescott left home last Saturday for a visit to Meredith Village, N. H.

Mr. Howard Bott and wife will spend their vacation at Burlington and other places in the vicinity of Lake Champlain.

Miss Grace Waite of Wakefield is visiting in town.

Mr. Edward P. Barrett and Mr. Chas. Bushby have gone to North Woodstock, N. H.

Mr. T. H. McGrath is visiting friends at Cottage City.

Mrs. George Randall of Attleboro is visiting in town.

Mr. Geo. F. Haskell and family are at Portland, Me.

Mrs. Samuel Swett is visiting at Wolfboro, N. H.

Mr. Benj. S. Wheeler and family were registered at the Appledore House, Isle of Shoals, last week.

Miss Annie Dean is rusticating at Sandwich, N. H.

Mr. H. A. Spaulding is spending his vacation by visiting places of interest in this vicinity, taking a day or two a week.

Mr. Edward Harris is spending a portion of his vacation at Asbury Grove.

Mr. Sumner Goodwin will spend his vacation with his brother at Brunswick, Me.

Mr. Albert Wagner is spending his vacation at Wolfboro, N. H.

Mr. Geo. M. Foster and family will rusticate at Newport, Vt.

Officer Sweeney is taking his vacation. His friends are anxious about him and hope the needed rest will fat him up.

Mr. Newman Perkins and family have taken a cottage at Asbury Grove.

The family of Mr. Edward Trask are stopping at Middleton, Mass.

Mr. Isaac Munroe is arranging for a party to visit Jackson, N. H., about the first week in September.

Miss Sarah P. Smith will spend a few weeks at Milford, N. H.

Mrs. Charles W. Jenkins will spend her time at Asbury Grove for the next week.

Miss Kate Connell will pass her vacation in Vermont.

Mr. Francis Nugent and Mr. Timothy Hanrahan will spend the next two weeks at Newport, N. H.

The Misses Thatcher are at New Bedford.

Miss Ada M. Hill of Worcester is visiting in town.

The family of Mr. George Boynton are spending their vacation at Ipswich Bluffs.

Israel J. Goodwin is spending his vacation at Provincetown, R. I.

Mr. A. W. Moore, book keeper at Munroe & Arnold's, will spend his vacation in Vermont.

A number of boys including Ed Osborne, Jos. Thorndike, George Osborn, Harry Hutchinson, George Low and John Osborn will spend a week at Rowley.

Mr. J. K. Cole is expected home from Bennington, Vt., this week.

Mrs. E. G. Southwick is rusticating at North Lyndeboro, N. H.

Mrs. W. H. Vittum left today for Asbury Grove where she will spend the week.

Dr. C. S. Wright and family have gone to Sebago Lake, Maine.

Mr. Charles L. Sanborn was in town yesterday and will leave for North Topeka, Kansas, to-morrow.

Mr. and Mrs. H. K. Pevear are visiting Mrs. Sutton at Centre Harbor.

◆

POLICE COURT. — Last Thursday morning Lewis E. Allen of South Peabody was in the police court for the third time for being drunk and Judge Merrill sentenced him to the State Reformatory at Concord for one year.

William Kimball charged with being drunk was in court Wednesday, and as the charge was not proven he was discharged. He posed as a warning to unmarried men by exhibiting a butter firkin, block of wood, a hatchet and a lot of broken crockery which he said his loving wife threw at him. This was a way she had of showing her affection.

Police raided P. J. McCluskey yesterday forenoon, capturing 19 bottles of lager and some hard liquor. A visit to the stores of Patrick Mahoney, and Duffy & Desmond, failed to disclose any liquors.

John Cronin, an inmate of the Alms House, was given a vacation Monday, and in the evening the police found him in Clarke's lumber yard. He probably thought he would rest there as he seemed quite weary. He was taken to the station house and the next morning turned over to Supt. Drew of the Alms House.

Yesterday Frank Matthews, who had been brought in to sober off, came before Judge Merrill and received the customary fine of $1 and costs.

In the police court this morning Kate Dullea was convicted for the second time for drunkenness, and was sent to the Alms House for thirty days.

SPARKS.

A visit was made to Danvers last Wednesday evening by Chief Tibbetts, Foreman Miller of the H. & L., and other firemen in company with C. H. Palmer, agent for the Fox & McDormand extension fire ladder, to inspect one recently purchased by the Danvers department. The ladder is in two sections 60 feet in length when extended, the extension being operated by a simple arrangement of rope and pulleys, and when raised to position hooks drop into place automatically, preventing the ladder from slipping, and when ready to be dropped a slight raise of the extension will trip the hooks and let it slide down. Guy poles steady the ladder in position. The ladder is in use in Woburn and Somerville, and the Chiefs of those departments speak of its working in the highest terms. Such a ladder is needed in this department as it is lighter and easier to handle than the present ladder. Now is the time to purchase an extension long enough to reach the coving of the Town House. An exhibition of the working of the ladder was made in Danvers last evening, quite a number of Peabody firemen being present.

Assistant Engineer Horace A. Southwick has leased the old carpet factory in Tapleyville and will run it as a morocco factory.

David T. Nolan, who lost his legs while returning from a fireman's muster at Milford about five years ago, being at that time a member of Volunteer engine company, died in Lynn Sunday morning of typhoid fever. He leaves a wife and his age was about 29 years. It will be remembered that the engine company held a fair in Upton's Hall for his benefit, at which $3000 was realized.

The old yellow cat which has been "one of the family" at the Central fire Station for the last ten years, died Monday and was buried by Janitor Smart with all due honors, under the shadow of the building where she has reared her numerous progeny and kept the rats and mice in their places. She leaves two fellow kittens to take her place. Requies-cat in pace.

Steamer Company No. 2 are enjoying a sail on the Empire State on its trip to the Isle of Shoals today, taking with them as guests their honorary members, the Board of Engineers, their driver, engineer and fireman, about twenty in all. They left town on the eight o'clock train and sailed from Battery Wharf in Boston at 9.30 o'clock arriving home at about eight o'clock this evening.

A committee consisting of William H. Miller and George Metcalf of Phœnix Hose Company No. 1, of Poughkeepsie, N. Y., arrived in Salem yesterday and were taken in charge by Foreman Griffin of Hose 3, Salem. They came to make arrangements for a visit to Salem by their company, Oct. 13. The company will bring with them a hose carriage which cost $3800, and the finest of its character in the United States. The mayor of Poughkeepsie, the Burgess corps, the Tenth regiment band of Albany, N. Y., and 80 men will constitute the party. They will arrive about supper time, and remain until Wednesday night probably. An endeavor will be made to have the firemen parade about that time.

Steamer No. 1 of Salem accompanied by the Salem Brass Band and invited guests will visit Bath, Me., Tuesday, Sept. 1st, and will arrive home next Friday.

Hose 1 will go on their trip to Ipswich Bluffs, Saturday.

Steamer 1 is on duty today. z

◆

"A wasp went buzzing to his work,
  And various things did tackle;
He stung a boy, and then a dog,
  Then made a rooster cackle.
At last upon our devil's cheek
  He settled down to drill;
He prodded there for half an hour,
  And then he broke his bill.

The usefulness of common toads as industrious destroyers of insects noxious to vegetation has long been understood, but a discovery, published in a recent issue of the Scientific American, that these homely but harmless batrachians are likewise ruthless exterminators of corkroaches will likely lead to their domestication to be thus utilized. As toads are cleanly and inoffensive, there can be no valid objection to their introduction in houses, particularly when the end to be obtained is so desirable as the riddance of the most repulsive domestic pests that infest human habitations.

Next Tuesday evening Murray and Murphy, who are this week playing Our Irish Visitors to full houses in the Boston Theatre, will open the amusement season at Salem in Mechanic Hall, under the management of Andrews, Moulton & Johnson. The company is managed by J. M. Hill, and that is all that is necessary to know that they are first class. Seats are on sale at Newhall's Confectionery Store, Salem.

The contract for making the alterations in the heating apparatus of the Wallis and Center School houses has been awarded to the Exeter Iron Works of Boston, whose bid was more than $100 lower than any other.

Thomas Collins, of this town, while attempting to jump off the 8.25 car from Danvers, last evening, as it was passing the head of Walnut street, caught his foot between the irons supporting the footboard, and was dragged over fifty feet before the car could be stopped. He was taken from his bad position as soon as possible and with help was able to walk to his home in Dublin. Wonderful to relate there were no bones broken, but it is a mystery how he escaped without a broken leg.

Last Friday the President and Secretary of the W. C T. U., called on the Chairman of the School Board, presenting for their consideration the Barnes' Series of Text Books on Physiology and Hygiene, with special reference to the influence of Alcoholic Drinks and Narcotics on the Human System—the books which are endorsed by the National W. C. T. U., for the introduction into schools. Fourteen States in this country have now the Compulsory Temperance Educational laws.

"Billy" Hayes has been put into the cooking department at the jail, and says if he can have work enough, he will live his time out.

Jay Gould is not in the ice business, but he is the next thing to it. He handles blocks of stock which are principally consolidated water.

"Remember the porter," said the hotel highwayman to the departing guest. "I shall," said the other: "It was worse than the ale."

POLO.

This popular game adapted for home amusement to play on the table.

PRICE $1.00.

For sale by all dealers. Manufactured by

HORACE A. BROOKS,

BOOK BINDER AND BLANK BOOK MANUFACTURER,

226 Essex Street, Salem, Mass.

FRESH ATTRACTIONS!

— AT —

W. B. GIFFORD & CO'S.

SPECIAL SALE OF BOOKS FOR THIRTY DAYS.

Literally without regard to cost. The collection embraces over thirty thousand volumes of the best Fiction, History, Poetry, Biography, Travels, Wit and Humor, etc., etc., every volume of which has been carefully selected and all are marked at half their actual value. Here is a partial list. Examine and decide for yourself:—

	Publishers' Price.	Our Price.
George Eliot's Works, 8 vols., half morocco	$24.00	$ 9.44
George Eliot's Works, 8 vols., cloth, library edition,	12.00	4.98
George Eliot's Works, 8 vo's., cloth, Fine edition,	12.00	5.98
Gsorge Eliot's Works, 8 vols., half calf,	24.00	10.24
Guizot's History of France, 8 vols., fine edition,	20.00	13.98
Irving's Works, 10 vols., cloth,	15.00	6.98
Irving's Works, 10 vols., half calf,	30.00	12.80
Irving's Works, 3 vois, cloth,	7.50	3.98
Cooper's Sea Tales, 5 vols, cloth,	7.50	4.28
Cooper's Leather Stocking Tales, 5 vols, cloth,	7.50	4.28
Cooper's Complete Works, 16 vols, cloth,	32.00	16.98
Waverly Novels, 12 vols, cloth,	18.00	8.28
Waverly Novels, 24 vols, cloth,	24.00	12.98
Waverly Novels, 12 vols, half calf,	36.00	21.00
Waverly Novels, 24 vols, half calf,	75.00	35.00
Bulwer's Novels, 13 vols,	19.50	8.28
Dickens's Works, 15 vols, half morocco,	45.00	17.00
Dickens's Works, 15 vols, cloth,	22.50	6.98
Dickens's Works, 15 vols, cloth gilt back edition,	22.50	9.75
Dickens's Works, 15 vols,, half calf,	49.00	22.50
Thackery's Works, 11 vols, cloth, library edition,	16.50	6.98
Thackery's Works, 11 vols, red cloth and gilt top edition,	16.50	8.88
Black's Works, 7 vols, cloth, library edition,	10.50	5.18
Green's History of the English People, 4 vols,	6.00	2 98
Macaulay's History of England, 5 vols,	5.05	1.48
Macaulay's History of England, 5 vols, red cloth, gilt top,	6.75	4.50
Macaulay's Life and Letters,	1.25	.58
McCarthy's History of Our Own Times, 4 vols, red cloth, gilt top,	6.00	3 78
Knight's History of England, 4 vols,	6.00	3.98
Pultrarch's Lives of Illustrious Men, 3 vols, cloth,	4.50	2.50
Smile's Self-Help Series, 4 vols,	6.00	3.12
Smile's Biographical Series, 3 vols,	4.50	2.18
Hume's History of England, 6 vols,	7.50	3.18
Chamber's Encyclopedia, 12 vols, cloth,	$18.00	$ 7.98
Prescott's Histories, per vol.,	1.50	1.18
Church's Works, 7 vols,	10.50	6.82
Elsie Books, 10 vols,	12.50	8.28
Gibbon's Roman Empire, 5 vols,	5.00	2.98
Shakespeare, 8 vols,	7.50	3.78
Carlyle's French Revolution, 2 vols,	3.00	1.58
Ella Wheeler's Poems of Passion,	1.50	.78
A line of regular Sunday School Books, Pretty Bound and Illustrated
F. Marion Crawford's Latest Work, "Zoroaster,"	1.50	1.28
Gen. Lew Wallace's "Ben Hur—A Tale of Christ,"	1.50	1.38
E. P. Roe's "A Young Girl's Wooing," and others,	1.50	.98
George Eliot's Essays,	1.25	.58
History of Our Own Times, 2 vols,	3.00	1.58
Thackery, 11 vols, half calf,	33.00	14.08
Macaulay's History of England, 5 vols, sheep,	7.50	4.98
Macaulay's Essays, 3 vols, cloth,	3.75	1.99
Bulwer's Novels, 13 vols, half calf,	39.00	21.48
Bulwer's Novels, 25 vols, half calf,	75.00	37.00
Macauley's History of England 5 vols, half calf,	15.00	7.40
Revised edition of the Bible,	1.00	.78
Troubled Waters,	1.25	.88
Afganistan and the Anglo-Russian dispute, illustrated and with maps,	,50	.39
English Classics—All in a Garden Fair, Belinda, Erankestein Outre Mer, Pyperion East Lynn, Tom Brown's School Days, The Mysterious Island, Pilgrims Progress, Imitation of Christ and 50 others,	1.00	.32
Red Line Edition of Standard Poets—Longfellow, Bryant, Whittier, Burns, Byron, Browning, Cowper Coleridge Dante, Eliot, Coethe, Heaven in Song, Hemane, Ingelow, Lucille, Milton, Poe, Pope, Proctor, Religious Poems, Schiller, Shakespeare and 60 others,	1.50	.59
Summer reading—A magnificent line of illustrated books of Fiction, embracing all the works of the best modern authors, elegantly bound in illuminated paper covers,	.50	.19
A selected line of the best works of Fiction, bound in colored cloth with gilt tiles, and embracing Her Mother's Sin and Beyond Pardon by Bertha M. Clay, Belinda by Rhoda Broughton; Other Peoples' Money by Emile Gaboriano and hosts of others,	1.25	.58
A beautiful line of 12 mo. books sumptuously bound comprising such works as Life of Washington, Ivanhoe, Oliver Twist, Adam Bede and 50 others,	1.25	.48
Don Quixiote,	5.00	1.98
America Illustrated, 120 wood cuts,	3.00	.98
Wood's Natural History, 300 engravings,	1.25	.78
History of the United States—Frosts,	1.35	.78
Josephus's History of the Jews bound in sheep,	3.00	1.88
Poets bound in sheep, large volumes,	3.00	1.88
Gilbert edition of Shakespeare, fully illustrated,	5.00	2.28
A Manual of Ancient History,	1.25	.58
Rignt and Wrong Uses of the Bible,	1.25	.48
Popular American Dictionary,	1.00	.48
Favorite Dictionary, 35,000 words,	.35	.13
Spencer's Education,	1.50	.58
Emo's Model Speaker for Children,	1.25	.48
Hoyle's Games,	1 50	.98
Miss Parloa's Cook Book,	1.25	.98
Miss Niel's every day Cook Book,	2.25	.48
Song and Instrumental Folios,	.50	.32
An elegant line of Family Bibles.
Hundreds of Humorous Books.
An endless variety of Children's Books to suit all ages.
Treasures New and Old,	5.00	2.98
Ramona by Helen Jackson,	1.50	1.28
Worcester's Condensed Dictionary,	3.00	1.38
Poets bound in Alligator	3.00	1.48

SALE WILL CONTINUE FOR THIRTY DAYS ONLY.

W. B. GIFFORD & CO. MARKET ST., LYNN

Everything Selling Regardless of Cost at

WILMOT'S.

MEN'S PANTALOONS,

99c, $1.49, 2.00, 2.50 and 3.00. Marked down from $1.25, 2.50, 3 and 4.50,

MEN'S ALL WOOL SUITS,

$4.87 1-2, 6, 8 and 10. Marked down from $8, 10, 12 and 16.00.

CHILDREN'S BLOUSE SUITS,

Warranted Fast Colors, $2.50. Former Price $5.

MEN'S CARPET SLIPPERS,

25 cents. Regular Price, 75 cents.

MEN'S LOW CUT SHOES,

87 1-2 cents. Regular price, $1.75.

BOYS' BASE BALL SHOES, 70 CENTS.

WILMOT'S CLOTHING STORE,

252 & 254 ESSEX STREET, SALEM, MASS

J. FRANK BOYNTON, Manager.

WE HAVE

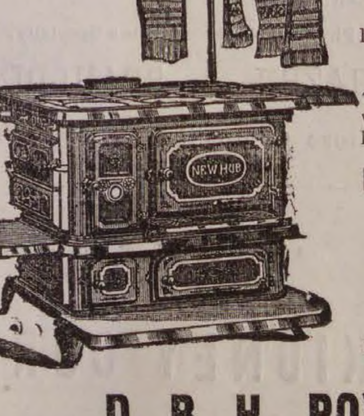
Just closed a contract with one of the largest manufacturers of Chamber furniture in the country for 2 car loads of

CHAMBER SETS,

consisting of Ash, Black Walnut, Cherry and Painted, which we shall offer to the citizens of Essx County this week, with

I CAR LOAD OF MATTRESSES,

at way down prices, either for cash or on our easy instalment plan, $1 down and $1 a week. We have the largest stock of



Stoves, Ranges,
Furniture, Carpets,
and Crockery,

In fact anything in the house furnishing line to be found in Essex county.

Goods delivered free. Horse and steam cars stop at door. Call and be convinced we can save you money. Send for catalogue price list. Balance of

Refrigerators, Oil Stoves,
and Children's Carriages,
at very low prices.

Curtains made and put up. Carpet made by hand by experienced workers.

D. B. H. POWER & CO.,

123 & 125 PLEASANT ST. 24 SCHOOL ST.,

MARBLEHEAD.

W. C. ROBINSON,

(Successor to Smith & Robinson.)

Dealer in all kinds of

STATIONERY AND

ARTISTS' MATERIALS.

Pictures and Picture Frames.

Everything to be found in a first class establishment.

—— Everything in our line at Bottom Prices. ——

The people of Peabody are cordially invited to look at our stock, and see our display of paintings and art work.

We are agents for the celebrated

ROGERS' GROUPS.

☞ Horse cars pass the door.

W. C. Robinson,

42 MARKET STREET, LYNN, MASS.

TWICE A DAY

HATHAWAY'S ORIGINAL

— CREAM HOME MADE BREAD —

Hot Morning and Afternoon. Best of goods in our line comprising

Crackers, Bread, Cake and Pastry,

Also rich Bride, Angel and Wedding Cake to order. Fine ornamental work for Wedding, Birthday and Party Cake a specialty.

C. F. Hathaway,

50 LOWELL ST., PEABODY.

BUSHBY & MACURDY'S

CABINET PHOTOGRAPHS

At $3.00 per dozen are 100 per cent. better than any club-check photographs; and are guaranteed fully equal in

Posing, Lighting, Finish and Permanency

to any $10 cabinets made in Boston or New York.

The largest and best constructed operating studio in New England. 40,000 negatives preserved.

521 Washington St.,

BOSTON.

Elevator from the ground. feb 11—3m

MERRIAM & CO.,

DEALERS IN

WOOD AND COAL

Danversport, Mass.

Kohinoor Coal, Bear Ridge Coal, Sheao kin Coal, Genuine Franklin Coal, Cumberland Coal.

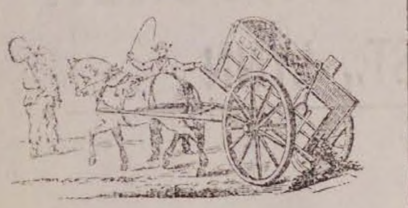
All the best quality. Try them.

For Cash lower than can be bought elsewhere

Orders can be left with B. F. Stevens, Peabody, or by telephone to N. P. Merriam, Tapleyville, and will be promptly attended to.
em—

BATCHELDER & CO.,

DEALER IN



WOOD COAL HAY & STRAW.

Danversport and Peabody.

Cyrus P. Batchelder Chauncy S. Richards

OFFICE IN PEABODY:

7 ALLEN'S BLOCK, SQUARE.

GREAT

REDUCTION IN PRICE OF

COAL

— AT —

PICKER NGS

17 Peabody St., Salem, Mass

WHERE ALL FIRST-CLASS COALS CAN BE FOUND

Specialty made in Steam Coals.

Orders can be left at Office, 12 Front St., or at B. P. Pickering's Store, Salem.

SPECIAL RATES MADE FOR LARGE ORDERS

WHARF, 17 PEABODY STREET

WM. PICKERING, JR & CO.,

17 Peabody Street.

PATENTS.

R. H. EDDY,

No. 76 State St., oopposite Kilby, Boston,

Secures patents in the United States; also in Great Britain, France and other foreign countries. Copies of the claims of any patents furnished by remitting one dollar. Assignments recorded at Washington. No Agency in the United States possesses superior facilities for obtaining Patents or ascertaining the patentability of inventions. R. H. EDDY, Solicitor of patents.

TESTIMONIALS.

"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse."
CHAS. MASON, Commissioner of Patents.

"Inventors cannot employ a person more trustworthy or more capable of securing for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office."
EDMUND BURKE, late Com. of Patents.

BOSTON, Oct. 19, 1870.

R. H. EDDY, Esq.—Dear Sir: you procured for me, in 1870, my first patent. Since then you have acted for and advised me in hundreds of cases, and procured many patents, re-issues and extensions. I have occasionally employed the best agencies in New York, Philadelphia and Washington, but I still give you almost the whole of my business, in your line, and advise othehr o employ you.
Yours truly, GEORGE DRAPER,
Boston, January 1, 1885.—1 y

FOR SALE.

House and land on Aborn street belonging to the estate of the late P. L. WINCHESTER. The house is two and one-half stores, and contains fourteen rooms, and is in good condition. The land measures about 10,000 feet, and there is connected with the premises a good stable. For terms or further articulars apply to
GEORGE J. WINCHESTER, dec 19 Administrator.

RED STAR

TRADE RED STAR MARK.

COUGH CURE

Absolutely Free from Opiates, Emetics and Poisons.

A PROMPT, SAFE, SURE CURE

For Coughs, Sore Throat, Hoarseness, Influenza, Colds. Bronchitis, Croup, Whooping Cough, Asthma, Quinsy, Pains in Chest, and other affections of the Throat and Lungs.

Price 50 cents a bottle. Sold by Druggists and Dealers. Parties unable to induce their dealer to promptly get it for them will receive two bottles, Express charges paid, by sending one dollar to

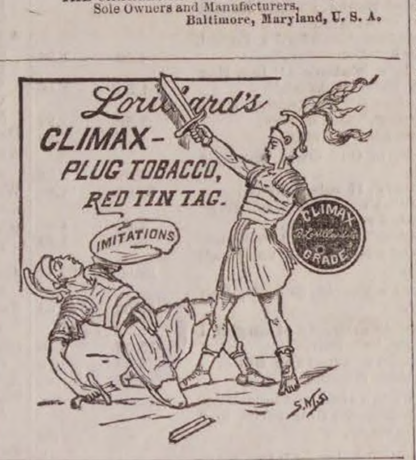
THE CHARLES A. VOGELER COMPANY,
Sole Owners and Manufacturers,
Baltimore, Maryland, U. S. A.



NATIONAL

REAL ESTATE TITLE ASSOCIATION,

114 LA SALLE STREET, CHICAGO, ILL.,

Will undertake the care and management of real estate, make loans and pay taxes for non-residents; examine and guarantee titles. Satisfactory references. Information free. Correspondence solicited.

MASSACHUSETTS

STATE NORMAL SCHOOL

AT WORCESTER.

Twelfth School Year will begin with entrance examination on Thursday, Sept 10, 1885. Unsurpassed advantages for those who wish to become teachers. Tuition and use of text books free. For full information send for catalogue.

E. H. RUSSELL, Principal.

ADVERTISERS by addressing Geo. P. Rowell & Co., 10 Spruce St., New York, can learn the exact cost of any proposed line of Advertising in American Newspapers. ☞ 100-page Pamphlet. 10c.

For Colds.

For Cro.,

For Neuralgia.

For Rheumatism.

Doctor Thomas' Eclectric Oil.

12

"Spent Fifty Dollars

In doctoring for rheumatism, before I tried Thomas' Eclectric Oil. Used a 50-cent bottle of this medicine, and got out in one week. For burns and sprains it is excellent." Jas. Durham, East Pembroke, N. Y.

64

You Can Depend On It.

"For severe Toothache and Neuralgia of the head, I used Thomas' Eclectric Oil. This is certainly the best thing I ever knew for the relief of pain of any kind. The house is never without it." Mrs. A. M. Frank, 177 Tupper Street, Buffalo, N. Y.

106

Speaks Right Up.

"Have tried Thomas' Eclectric Oil for croup and colds, and find it the best remedy I have ever used in my family." Wm. Kay, 510 Plymouth Ave., Buffalo, N. Y.

30

Worked Wonders.

"My daughter was very bad off on account of a cold, and pain in her lungs. Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil cured her in twenty-four hours. One of the boys was cured of sore throat. This medicine has worked wonders in our family." Alvah Pinckney, Lake Mahopac, N. Y.

ROUGH ON RATS."

Clears out rats, mice, roaches, flies, ants, bed, bugs, skunks, chipmunks, gophers. 15c. Druggists.

HEART PAINS.

Palpitation, Dropsical Swellings, Dizziness, Indigestion. Headache, Sleeplessness cured by Wells' Health Renewer

"ROUGH ON CORNS."

Ask for Wells' "Rough on Corns." 15c. Quick complete cure. Hard or soft corns, warts, bunions.

"BUCHU-PAIBA."

Quick, complete cure, all Kidney, Bladder and Urinary Diseases, Scalding, Irritation, Stone, Gravel, Catarrh of the Bladder. $1, Druggists.

BED-BUGS, FLIES.

Flies, roaches, ants, bed-bugs, rats, mice, gophers, chipmunks. cleared out by "Rough on Rats." 15c.

THIN PEOPLE.

"Wells' Health Renewer" restores health and vigor, cures Dyspepsia, Impotence, Sexual Debility. $1.

"ROUGH ON PAIN."

Cures cholera, colic, cramps, diarrhoea, aches, pains, sprains, headache, neuralgia, rheumatism, 20c. Rough on Pain Plasters, 15c.

MOTHERS.

If you are failing, broken, worn out and nervous, use "Wells' Health Renewer." $1. Druggists.

LIFE PRESERVER.

If you are losing your grip on life, try "Wells' Health Renewer," Goes direct to weak spots.

"ROUGH ON PILES."

Cures Piles or Hemorrhoids, Itching, Protruding, Bleeding, Internal or other. Internal and External Remedy in each package. Sure cure, 50c. Druggists.

PRETTY WOMEN.

Ladies who would retain freshness and vivacity Don't fail to try "Wells' Health Renewer."

"ROUGH ON ITCH."

"Rough on Itch" cures humors, eruptions, ring-worm, tetter, salt rheum, frosted feet, chilblains.

"ROUGH ON CATARRH,"

Corrects offensive odors at once. Complete cure of worst chronic cases, also unequaled as gargle for Diptheria, Sore Throat, Foul Breath. 50c.

THE HOPE OF THE NATION.

Children, slow in development, puny, scrawny, and delicate, use "Wells' Health Renewer."

CATARRH OF BLADDER.

Stinging, irritation, inflammation, all Kidney and Urinary complaints, cured by "Buchu-Paiba." $1.

"WATER BUGS, ROACHES."

"Rough on Rats" clears them out, also Beetles, Ants.

Hale's Honey the great Cough cure, 25c., 50c. & $1
Glenn's Sulphur Soap heals & beautifies, 25c.
German Corn Remover kills Corns & Bunions
Hill's Hair and Whisker Dye—Black and Brown, 50c.
Pike's Toothache Drops cure in 1 Minute, 25c
Dean's Rheumatic Pills are a sure cure, 50c.
feb 18—1y

Cause and Effect.

Under the above heading the Brookline Chronicle publishes the following interesting article on the local paper which we reproduce and commend to our readers:

The local paper is both a cause and effect. It is an effect, as it represents the spirit, status, culture, of the community out of which it springs. If the community is sensational, so will its mouthpiece be sensational. If the community is essentially gossipy, its organ will be sensitive to that vice, and imagine private affairs to be public news. Between the very scales of its close mail the spirit of a scandal loving constituency will breathe the malaria of its alley-ways and sewers. As Dr. Holmes long ago said, "turn over all the flat stones in a pasture and you shall find enough of ants and earwigs." Now as there is a low mood and a gossipy alcove in almost every mind, more or less of this will find its way in the columns of the paper as a natural effect. The newspaper is a vital and useful cause, to the extent it keeps this element down to its very smallest amount. To do this it must always be umpire and judge of what mood its correspondents reflect in their communications. In a sense the editor is autocrat, and if the public cannot endure editorial censorship it makes its organ a mere effect, and that effect will represent the worst things of the community, and become through the paper a cause of increasing depravity. That "little, mean, worthless, local paper" the irate townsman may sneer at, is perhaps a better mirror of himself, socially considered, than he thinks. It stands for good or bad, on more philosophical principles than the ordinary reader imagines.

No one man can make a local paper; it always has dual parentage—proprietor and public. Along the line of these platitudes success and failure, respectability and shame lie, as concerns the local press. An independent community will sustain an independent press. No doubt there are locations where fanaticism has its rights of absolutism—some Blitherdale, or Oneida, or Hopedale. An autocratic absolutism builds up such communities, and they have their organs. But an independent town represents a different spirit and each citizen must subordinate himself to its necessary conditions. The town paper to be valuable must be catholic and work along the line of compromises, or else become partisan and limit its circulation and its power. It cannot report everything that is true. It cannot tell every man he is a liar, notwithstanding David and his psalm. It would be well for every reader to put himself in an editor's chair to see the impossibility of admitting even every true thing in a local paper. If a woman wants a cigarette held up to ridicule, a man may want tea drinking and false teeth, and then comes in the campaign of Kilkenny cats. The editor is sometimes an "old woman," and he must be—that is, he must, like a dear mother, be blind to the foibles of his children, the erring constituents. How many a reader of the paper comes with tear-flowed cheeks, from sermons upon all the beatitudes and prayers of the church, to take his neighbor by the throat, through some malignant article in the paper, and is angered if the paper assumes the place of a cause to restrain him. Van Buren said the sober second thought of the people was, on the whole, sound. Would it not be well to exercise this sober second thought, as applied to an independent organ, in an independent town? We are quite sure the result would be the conviction that the ordinary local paper is better than we had thought—more important and valuable as a representative of the town affairs—as a historic record to be preserved and re-perused. The function of an editor is to be urbane, steady, corrective. The office of the subscriber is to be considerate and communicative. The citizen makes his paper what it ought to be by bringing to it his best gifts—his appreciation, his choice cuttings, his valuable intelligence and interesing news. If it is an honorable boast to be a citizen of no mean city, it is likewise honerable to be a subscriber to one's local paper —not only to pay its price, but to assist to make it the effect and cause of an independent spirit, in a community of refinement and good feeling.

* * *

TIRED, LANGUID, DULL.—Exactly expresses the condition of thousands of people at this season. The depressive effects of warm weather, and the weak condition of the body, can only be corrected by the use of a reliable tonic and blood purifier like Hood's Sarasaparilla. Why suffer longer when a remedy is so close at hand? Take Hood's Sarsaparilla now. It will give you untold wealth in health, strength and energy. (A)

* * *

Now the festive husband sendeth
 To the beach his trusting wife;
While she's absent he pr etendeth
 His will be a lonely life.
Tearfully with her he parteth;
 Gladly he would go, but can't—
When she's gone he gayly starteth
 Out to see the elephant.

Seek not for quiet at the gay seashore,
 You may not find it on the mountain high.
Nor at Niagara with its fearful roar,
 At none of these is rest for which you sigh.
I'll tell you of a lone secluded spot,
 Where everything in peaceful slumber lies;
Where dolce far niente is one's lot,
 It is the store that does not advertise.

—Chicago Sun.

KEEP IT PURE.

THE LIFE IS THE BLOOD—PREVENT DISEASE—SURGERY THE LAST RESORT—A TELLING LETTER.

Here is a fact for you to think over, viz.: Medical science proves that diseases, no matter how great a variety they seem to have, proceed from comparatively few causes. It is for this reason that some single medicines relieve or cure so wide a range of complaints—some of them appearing almost directly opposite in their natures. When a medical preparation acts at once upon the digestive and urinary organs, and also purifies the blood, the list of difficulties subject to its control is astonishing. But, while many things are said to possess this power, those which actually do exert it are very rare.

It is conceded that DR. KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY, of Rondout, N. Y., is the most effective preparation now in use for all diseases arising from a foul or impure state of the circulation. Hence it is more than likely that if the writer of the following letter had habitually taken "FAVORITE REMEDY" ten years ago, he would never have suffered from Cancer.

PITTSFIELD, MASS., March 22, 1884.

Dr. D. Kennedy, Rondout, N. Y.:

Dear Sir:—About six years ago I was obliged to resort to external treatment for the removal of a cancerous growth on my lip. On my return home, I became sensible that my blood needed a thorough cleansing. My whole system, too, required toning up. While casting about for the best medicine to do this your "FAVORITE REMEDY" was so highly commended in my hearing that I resolved to try it. I did so, and the result surprised me, it was effected so quickly and completely. I soon got over the depression produced by the operation, and since the "FAVORITE REMEDY," which I have continued to take in small doses, has kept me in such health and strength as I never had before, nor expected to have. It is the best blood purifier in the world. I am sure of that.

Yours, etc.,
MATTHEW FARRELL.
24 Adams Street.

In all cases when a consultation is deemed desirable.

Address, Dr. David Kennedy, Rondout, N. Y. But, if you have not done so, adopt "FAVORITE REMEDY" as a household friend.

MALARIA.

As an anti-malarial medicine

DR. DAVID KENNEDY'S

FAVORITE REMEDY

has won golden opinions. No traveler should consider his outfit complete unless it includes a bottle of this medicine. If you are exposed to frequent changes of climate, food and water, Favorite Remedy should always be within your reach. It expels malarial poisons, and is the best preventative of chills and malarial fever in the world. It is especially offered as a trustworthy specific for the cure of Kidney and Liver complaints, Constipation and all disorders arising from an impure state of the blood. To women who suffer from any of the ills peculiar to their sex Favorite Remedy is constantly proving itself an unfailing friend—a real blessing. Address the proprietor, Dr. D. Kennedy, Rondout, N. Y. $1 bottle, 6 for $5. by all druggists.

THE
BRYANT & STRATTON
COMMERCIAL SCHOOL

BOSTON.

Largest & most Successful in the World,

Will Reopen Monday, Sept. 7th.

THE COURSE OF STUDY is thorough, complete and practical. Pupils are fitted for the duties and work of every day life.

THE FACULTY embraces a list of twenty teachers and assistants, elected with special reference to proficiency in each department.

THE STUDENTS are young people of both sexes, full of diligence and zeal.

THE DISCIPLINE is of the highest order and includes valuable business lessons.

THE PATRONAGE is the largest of any Commercial School in the world.

THE REPUTATION of this school for originality and leadership and as the Standard Institution of its kind is generally acknowledged.

THE SCHOOL BUILDING is centrally located and purposely constructed.

SPECIAL COURSE. Short Hand, Type Writing, Composition and Correspondence may be taken as a special course.

SITUATIONS in Business Houses furnished its pupils completes the varied inducements to attend this school.

On and after Aug. 24th, the Principal may be seen daily from 9 till 2 o'clock, at the School Building, 608 Washington street. Prospectus, containing full information, concerning course of study, terms, etc., post free

aug 5—6t

To The Public.

Dr. Gray informs the people of Peabody and vicinity that he is now prepared to administer "Dr. Mayo's vegetable anæsthetic," which is giving universal satisfaction in New England. This anæsthetic is purely a vegetable compound and can be administered with perfect safety to children and people in delicate health. It has no after effect as is apt to be the case in Nitrous Oxide Gas and Ether.

Office hours 8 to 12 A. M., 1 to 5 P. M. Office open evenings only by appointment.

WARREN BANK BUILDING,

PEABODY.

HAZEN A. SPAULDING,

DRUGGIST.

9 Allen's Block, Peabody, Mass.

Where can be found a first class assortment of Pure Drugs and Medicines; also a large assortment of Toilet Articles and Fancy Goods at moderate prices.

A large assortment of Imported and Domestic Cigars.

Physicians' Prescriptions a Specialty.

HAZEN A. SPAULDING

Store Connected by Telephone.

CRAIG'S

KIDNEY CURE

The Genuine.

WILLIAM T. LEE

AGENT.

Saving Institutions.

WARREN

FIVE CENTS SAVINGS BANK.

PEABODY

PRESIDENT.
Rufus H. Brown
Vice Presidents,

Stephen Blaney,	Geo. F. Osborne,
Lewis Allen,	Amos Merrill,
Chas. B. Farley,	John A. Lord.

Trustees,

Rufus H. Brown,	Alex. B. Merrill,
Stephen Blaney,	C. Warren Osborne,
Lewis Allen,	Geo. S. Osborne,
Chas. B. Farley,	Nathl. Symonds.
Geo. F. Osborne,	Aaron F. Clark,
Amos Merrill,	Albert A. Messer,
John A. Lord,	John Pinder,
Benj. S. Wheeler,	Wm. P. Clark,
Wm. H. Little,	Reuben G. Nelson,
Aaron W. Warren,	Albert H. Merrill.

Clerk,
Albert H. Merrill.
Committee of Investment.
Rufus H. Brown,

Lewis Allen,	Alex. B. Merrill
C. Warren Osborne.	Nathl. Symonds.

Dividends are credited to the depositor as soon as declared, and immediately put upon interest.

New deposits commence drawing interest on the third Wednesday of February, May, August and November.

Peabody, March 6, 1878.

SALEM

FIVE CENTS

SAVINGS

BANK.

Cor. Washington & Essex Sts.,

WILLIAM H. JELLY, President.

CHARLES H. HENDERSON, Treas.

REMOVAL.

F. A. WRUCK

Watchmaker and Jeweller,

Would inform his friends and the public generally that he has removed from 165 to

276 ESSEX STREET,

(Wheeler & Wilson's Sewing Machine Office)

Where he will be pleased to see his former customers and as many new ones as will fav or him with their patronage.

FINE WATCH AND CLOCK REPAIRING AT REDUCED PRICES PERSONALLY ATTENDED TO

AGENTS WANTED.

On Salary or Commission

FOR THE

CELEBRATED NEW BOOK,

THE WORLD'S WONDERS,

AS SEEN BY THE GREAT

Tropical and Polar Explorers,

Including the Official History of the late Greeley Expedition in search of the North Pole.

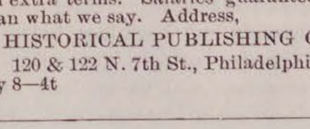
Embracing the travels, discoveries, achievements and marvelous adventures of such distinguished explorers as Speke and Grant, Burton, Sir Samuel Baker and wife, Livingstone, Stanley, Cummings, Du Chaillu, Wallace. Long, Squier, and numerous others in the Tropics; and in the Arctic regions, Franklin, Kane, Hays, Hall, Schwatka, De Long. Greeley, and many others, forming a complete history of exploration. discovery and adventure in all parts of the world, with descriptions of savage races, strange beasts, birds and reptiles, and great natural wonders; a record of marvelous things on the earth, a complete history of all the world's greatest wonders and famous explorations, in one splendid, low-priced, finely illustrated volume of 770 pages, and 200 engravings. A book of wonders, of great value and marvelously interesting. Warmly endorsed by ministers, teachers and many influential people. Outsells all other books! 16 large editions in five months! Splendid employment for men and women everywhere. No capital or experience needed. Send for pictorial circulars and extra terms. Salaries guaranteed. We mean what we say. Address,

HISTORICAL PUBLISHING CO.,
120 & 122 N. 7th St., Philadelphia, Pa.
jy 8—4t

CENTRAL FISH MARKET

(Formerly Southwick's.

RALPH F. DODGE, Prop.



OYSTERS OYSTERS OYSTERS

In the shell or opened.

IPSWICH CLAMS FRESH EVERY DAY,

A good selection of Norfolk, Providence River oysters a specialty. The famous Lynn Haven Bay Oysters.

A good assortment of Fresh, Salt, Smoked and Pickled Fish. Orders received and delivered promptly. Connected by telephone.

At the old stand on the Square, opposite the monument.

WIN more money than at anything else by taking an agency for the best selling book out. Beginners succeed grandly. None fail. Terms free. HALLETT BOOK CO., Portland, Me.

MUNROE & ARNOLD'S

PEABODY AND BOSTON

RAILROAD EXPRESS.

Express leaves Peabody			at	9 47 A. M
Freight	"	"	at	5 00 P. M
Express	"	Boston	at	3 30 P. M
Freight	"	"	at	4 00 P. M

OFFICE AT FREIGHT DEPOT, Peabody

xpress Offices in Boston, 174 Washington and 15 New Devonshire Street.

Freight Office in Boston, 128 State Street

☞ Particular attention paid to removing Eurniture, collecting Bills, Notes, Drafts &c., Smallest favors thankfully received.

B M. HILLS'

PEABODY and SALEM

EXPRESS.

CHANGE OF TIME.

Connects with Eastern and No. Conway Trains Leaves Peabody at 7.30 A. M., and 1.30 P. M. Salem, at 10 A. M., and 4.45 P. M.

Order Boxes.—PEABODY, at Holman's, Pickering's, Bushby & Johnson's, Frost s Drug Store and Sutton's Wool Store.

SALEM, at Savory's Express Office, Roberts' Store, corner Washington and Front Sts., and 15 Central Street.

B. M. HILLS' Express connects with the Eastern and Western Expresses.

ESTES'

SALEM AND PEABODY EXPRESS.

Leaves Peabody at 7.30 A. M., 1.30 P. M.
Leaves Salem at 10.30 A. M., 4.30 P. M.

Order Slates in Peabody, at G. Stevens', G. H. Jacobs', L. Pratt's, B. B. Humphrey's, W. O. Batchelder's.

In Salem at J. V. & J. Hanson & Co's, Roberts Fruit Store, Henry Hale's, E. Heffernan's, J. J. Mullin, F. C. Radford's, C. A. Ropes & Son, Geo A. Wells & Co's., C. M. Buffum's.

Connects with Eastern Express. Also connects with No. Conway, and the Beverly, Ipswich and Marblehead Expresses.

All orders promptly attended to and satisfaction guaranteed.

CHAS. H. ESTES,

TOWNSEND'S

PEABODY & BOSTON

EXPRESS.

Leaves Peabody at 10 A. M. over the Wakefield Branch R. R.

Leaves the Boston Office, 32 Court Square, at 2 P. M.

All business entrusted to my care will be safely and carefully attended to. Daily and weekly papers supplied.

Order Slates:—At B. F. Stevens', Bushby's, Batchelder's, B. B. Humphrey's, E. S. Howard's, and Nugent Bros. stores.

JAMES F. FOYE.

THOMAS H. O'KEEFE.

JOBBING AND EXPRESSING

of all kinds promptly attended to.

Persons desiring the removal of furnitue or ashes, rubbish, you can have such work satisfactorily done by leaving orders at G., Stevens', Batchelder's, or addressing Box 545, Peabody.

NEW COUPE.

Henry C. Wilson would inform the public that he will run a

PUBLIC CARRIAGE

to and from each train, and will also attend to calls around town, and to late trains and entertainments in Salem. Will also attend to Baggage Expressing and Jobbing of all kinds. Terms Reasonable. Order slate at Depot.

HENRY C. WILSON,
Peabody Mass.

CROSS,

PHOTOGRAPHER.

☞ There having been demand or more Clubs, I have concluded to issue a limited number.

INDUCEMENTS:

Two dozen Cards and two Cabinets given to any one getting up a Club of ten persons. Price of Club, $20. Each person to have one dozen Cards and one Cabinet finished in any of the different styles desired.

IRA P. NADOR,

DEALER IN

CHOICE CONFECTIONERY

46 MARKET STREET LYNN

CHARLES SIMONDS,

LIVERY STABLE,

(HOTEL STABLE).

SAFE and Reliable Horses, and Easy Carriages of the best style, furnished at short notice, for Funerals, Weddings, Business or Pleasure Riding.

$200,000 in presents given away. Send us 5 cents postage, and by mail you will get free a package of goods of large value, that will start you in work that will at once bring you in money faster than anything else in America. All about the $200,000 in presents with each box. Agents wanted everywhere, of either sex, of all ages, for all the time, or spare time only, to work for us at their own home. Fortunes for all workers absolutely assured. Don't delay. H. HALLETT & CO., Portland, Maine.

Professional Cards.

THOMAS M. STIMPSON

Attorney and Counselor-at-Law.

194 ESSEX STREET, SALEM.

Residence Lowell Street, Peabody.

HENRY WARDWELL,

Attorney and Counselor-at-Law.

PEABODY,

And 35 Court St., Boston

FRANK E. FARNHAM,

Attorney and Counselor-at-Law.

REAL ESTATE, INSURANCE AND INVESTMENT AGENT,

ALLEN'S BLOCK Peabody Square,

REMOVAL.

B. C. PERKINS,

Counselor at Law,

Has removed to Kinsman's Block,

81 WASHINGTON STREET, SALEM.

Evening consultations at residence, Peabody.

EUGENE T. McCARTHY,

Attorney and Counsellor at Law.

NO. 8 ALLEN'S BLOCK,

PEABODY.

oct 29—1y

MISS MARY E. LYNCH

TEACHER OF

Piano and Organ.

South Peabody, Mass.

Terms of tuition 8 and 10 dollars. Pupils visited at their homes if desired.

MISS ANNIE L. ORR,

TEACHER OF

VOCAL & INSTRUMENTAL MUSIC

Would solicit pupils. For terms apply to W P. Clark, or Miss Orr. No. 7 Palfry Place. Lynn, Mass. apr 29

Business Cards.

HENRY L. WHIDDEN,

PAINTER.

Orders left at A. H. Whidden's Store wil be attended to.

J. H. ALLEN,

UNDERTAKER,

Removed to 36 St. Peter street, Salem

jan 11

W. S. OSBORNE,

TOWN UNDERTAKER & FURNISHER.

Home, 96 Central St., Peabody. Office Second Door west of Hay Scales.

EDWIN B. BALCOM,

Architect and Builder.

Plans, Specifications and Estimates furnished at Short Notice. Contracts Made and Faithfully executed.

Shop on Walnut St. Residence, 78 Washington St.

PEABODY. MASS.

DISTIN,

TAILOR.

Call and inspect my stock of Woolens, a ful. line constantly on hand.

WARREN NATIONAL BANK BUILDING.

oct1

$1

13 WEEKS.

The POLICE GAZETTE will be mailed, securely wrapped, to any address in the United States for three months on receipt of

ONE DOLLAR.

Liberal discount allowed to postmasters, agents and clubs. Sample copies mailed free.
Address all orders to

RICHARD K. FOX,
FRANKLIN SQUARE, N. Y.

TRY LYONS'

Hair Tonic.

It cleanses the scalp, removes dandruff, and promotes the growth of the hair.

Price 50 Cents per Bottle.

Put up and for sale only by

P. J. LYONS,

on the square.

HELP for working people. Send 10 cents postage, and we will mail you free, a royal, valuable sample box of goods that will put you in the way of making more money in a few days than you ever thought possible at any business. Capital not required. You can live at home and work in spare time only, or all the time. All of both sexes, of all ages, grandly successful, 50 cents to $5 easily earned every evening. That all who want work may test the business, we make this unparalleled offer: To all who are not well satisfied we will send $1 to pay for the trouble of writing us. Full particulars, directions, etc., sent free. Immense pay absolutely sure for all who start at once. Don't delay. Address STINSON & CO., Portland, Me.

HEADQUARTERS !

FOR CIGARS.

THE BEST

to be found in the world? To prove it just call at the HORSE RAILROAD STATION on the Square, and see them.

GEO. STEVENS,

PEABODY SQUARE,

Agent for the Naumkeag Laundry.

MAYO'S

Compound Vegetable Anæsthetic.

A safe and pleasant substitute for gas and ether.

Discovered by Dr. N. K. Mayo of Boston, April 1883, subsequently administered by him in nearly two thousand cases, producing perfect slumber, being applicable to the child, the delicate sensitive woman as well as the hardy man. No ill effects have followed its use in any case, it acting rather as a vegetable tonic.

It controls the patient one-fourth longer than gas giving us time to remove from three to twenty teeth. It is with great confidence we have introduced it into our practice, giving very successful results.

DRS. FRIZZELL & WILLIAMS

DENTISTS.

LEE HALL

Opposite City Hall, Lynn, Mass.

Administered also at our branch office, Marblehead.

Dr. Williams' Toothache Drops at Druggists.

O. B. CHADWICK & CO.,

(SUCCESSORS TO CHAS. TAPLEY)

FIRE INSURANCE AGENTS

NO. 8 ALLEN'S BLOCK, PEABODY

Over $12,000,000 Cash Capital represented

Also Agents for Holyoke, Merrimac, Quincy, and Dorchester Mutual Fire Ins. Cos.

Particular attention given to insuring Household Furniture, Family Wearing Aparel, Musical Instruments, Libraries, and Merchandise of all kinds in sums of $100and upward, for one, three or five years, at the owest rates.

TRADE VITA MARK

LINIMENT!

No Compound has ever been Invented so Useful and Efficacious in Curing Rheumatism, Pains in the Side, Hip, Back and Limbs, Stiff, Weak and Enlarged Joints, Sore Throat, Headache, Neuralgia, Piles, Hard Tumors, Bee Stings, Chapped Hands, Bunions, Burns, Frosted Feet, Mosquito Bites, Bruises and Sprains of all kinds.

Price 25 cents.

VITA CO., New York

D. P. GROSVENOR.

PHARMACIST AND DRUGGIST,

Compounder of

Physicians Prescriptions

and dealer in

RELIABLE DRUGS.

35 MAIN STREET.

PEABODY, MASS.

PEABODY LAUNDRY.

Goods called for and delivered free of charge.

C. A. SANGER

7 LOWELL STREET,

UP STAIRS.

SWEETSER'S

DRUG STORE

NO. 37 MAIN STREET,

PEABODY

Drugs and Medicines of all kinds; Toilet Articles, Sponges, Brushes, Perfumery, &c., constantly on hand.

Prescriptions carefully and promptly prepared.

REMOVED TO

No. 241 Essex St..

PRICE BLOCK.

DANIEL T. SMITH,

Watchmaker.

AGENTS WANTED for Twenty Years of Congress, 1861—1881, by James G. Blaine.

Hon. J. S. Wise of Va. says: "Whoever takes it up, no matter whether he be Mr. Blaine's friend or enemy, will never put it down until he has read the whole." Agents make from $200 to $1000 per month. Address, The Henry Bill Pub. Co., Norwich, Conn.

Railroads.

BOSTON & LOWELL R. R.

SALEM BRANCH.

NEW EXPRESS TRAIN

Salem to Lowell

AND THE

White Mountains.

BEGINNING

MONDAY, JULY 13TH,

A NEW EXPRESS TRAIN WILL

LEAVE SALEM

At 9.10 A. M. for Lowell,

Stopping only at Peabody and connecting at Lowell with the Through Express for the

WHITE MOUNTAINS

AND FOR

MONTREAL VIA PLYMOUTH.

Returning, a new Express Train will leave

LOWELL FOR SALEM

At 4.55 P. M.

Connecting with Express Train leaving the White Mountains in the Morning.

Excursion Tickets

AND

Parlor Car Seats

May be secured at the Company's Office, 85 Washington St., Salem.

CHAS. ODELL, Agent.

C. S. MELLEN, Gen. Supt. LUCIUS TUTTLE, Gen. Pass. Agt.

OLD COLONY RAILROAD.

SEASON OF 1885.

Excursion Rates

FROM BOSTON.

To	Rates.
Barnstable and return	$2.90
Brant Rock and return	2.00
Brewster and return	3.60
Buzzard's Bay and return	2.15
Cataumet and return	2.40
Duxbury and return	1.50
East Brewster and return	3.70
East Marshfield and return	1.20
East Wareham and return	2.10
Eastham and return	3.90
Egypt and return	1.00
Falmouth and return	2.75
Fairhaven and return	2.30
Greenbush and return	1.10
Harwich and return	3.40
Hyannis and return	3.00
Kingston and return	1.50
Marshfield and return	1.40
Marion and return	2.00
Mattapoisett and return	2.20
Monument and return	2.20
Monument Beach and return	2.25
Nantucket and return	4.00
Newport and return	2.50
North Eastham and return	4.00
North Falmouth and return	2.45
North Harwich and return	3.30
North Sandwich and return	2.30
North Scituate and return	.95
North Truo and return	4.55
Oak Bluffs and return	3.00
Onset Bay and return	2.15
Orleans and return	3.75
Plymouth and return	1.50
Pocassett and return	2.35
Provincetown and return	4.80
Rock and return	1.55
Sandwich and return	2.50
Sea View and return	1.25
Scituate and return	1.05
South Dennis and return	3.25
South Duxbury and return	1.50
South Middleboro and return	1.65
South Truo and return	3.45
South Wareham and return	1.90
South Wellfleet and return	4.15
South Yarmouth and return	3.20
Tremont and return	1.80
Truo and return	4.40
Wareham and return	1.95
Wellfleet and return	4.25
West Barnstable and return	2.75
West Falmouth and return	2.55
West Sandwich and return	2.40
Woods Holl and return	2.85
Yarmouth and return	3.00

Tickets are limited to continuous passage only in either direction.

Tickets sold from June 1st to October 1st good to return until November 1st of year of date.

J. SPRAGUE, Jr., Gen.'l Pass. Agent.
J. R. KENDRICK, Gen'l Manager.

BOSTON & LOWELL R. R.

JUNE 29, 1885.

PASSENGER SERVICE FROM SALEM:

Leave Salem for Lowell, and Lawrence at 7 10, 10 55 A. M., 4 40 P. M. Sunday 7 20 P. M.

Leave Lowell for Salem, at 7 35 A. M., 1 10, 6 P. M. Sunday 7 43 A. M.

Leave Lawrence for Salem, at 7 45 A. M., 1 05, 6 P. M. Sunday 7 45 A. M.

Leave Wilmington Junction for Salem, at 8 09 A. M., 1 38, 6 24 P. M. Sunday 8 13 A. M.

Leave North Reading for Salem, at 8 20 A. M., 1 48, 6 34 P. M. Sunday 8 24 A. M.

Leave West Peabody for Salem, at 8 34 A. M., 2, 6 45 P. M. Sunday 8 36 A. M.

The 7 10 A. M. and 4 40 P. M. trains from Salem connect at Wilmington Junction for Boston via B. & L. R. R.

Leave Boston (Boston & Lowell Depot) for Wilmington Junction and North Reading, at 1, 5 30 P. M.

All trains from Salem connect at Lowell for Nashua, Manchester and Concord, N. H.

The 7 10 A. M. train connects at Lowell for Peterboro, Keene and intermediate stations.

The 10 55 A. M. train connects at Ayer Junction for stations on W. & N. R. R., Springfield, Hartford, New Haven and New York; also for Troy, Albany and the West via Hoosac Tunnel Line.

C. S. MELLEN, Gen'l Supt. LUCIUS TUTTLE, Gen'l Pass. Agent.

A PRESENT!

Our readers for 12 cents in postage stamps to pay for mailing and wrapping and names of two book agents, will receive FREE a Steel Finish Parlor Engraving of all OUR PRESIDENTS, including Cleveland, size 22x28 inch, worth $4. Address

ELDER PUB. CO., Chicago, Ill.

Boston & Maine R. R.

SEASHORE LINE.

— THE —

SHORTEST, QUICKEST and BEST ROUTE

— TO —

LAKE WINNIPESAUKEE

— AND THE —

WHITE MOUNTAINS.

FROM SALEM TO FABYANS.

The Centre of the White Mountain Region

65 Miles Shorter and nearly 2 hours Quicker

THAN ANY OTHER ROUTE.

Leave Salem	10.10 A. M.,	2.02 P. M.
Arr. Wolfboro	1.05 P M.,	5.20 P. M.
Arr. No. Conway	2 00 "	6.05 "
Arr. Crawford House	3.10 "	7.15 "
Arr. Fabyans	3.25 "	7.30 "
Arr. Bethlehem	4.28 "
Arr. Profile House	4.47 "

RETURNING,

Leave Fabyans at 9.35 A. M. and 2.10 P. M.
Arr. at Salem at 3.12 A. M. and 7.57 P. M.

Elegant Pullman Cars on all Trains Running Through to Fabyans.

EXCURSION RATES FROM SALEM

SPECIAL LIMITED.

Alton Bay	and Return,	$3.50
Wolfboro,	" "	4.00
Centre Harbor,	" "	4 00
Long Island,	" "	4.00
Weirs,	" "	4.00
Lake Village,	" "	4.00
Crawford House, good for the season,		10.00
Fabyans	and return "	10.50
Bethlehem	" " "	12.20
Profile House,	" " "	14.50

EXCURSION TICKETS

May be procured at the Salem Station.

PARLOR CAR SEATS

Send on application to

L. W. MARDEN, Ticket Agent.

JAS. T. FURBER, General Manager.
D. J. FLANDERS, Gen'l Pass. Agent.

BOSTON & LOWELL R. R.

MERRIMAC VALLEY ROUTE,

TO THE

White Mountains, Montreal, Quebec,

AND ALL PARTS OF

Vermont, New Hampshire and Canada.

Accelerated Summer Service from Boston.

In Effect Jnne 29, 1885.

8.30 A. M. Express for Weirs, Centre Harbor, Wolfboro' and Montreal, with through parlor cars via Plymouth and via White River Junction,

9.30 A. M. White Mountains Express, with through parlor cars to Weirs, Plymouth, Jefferson, Fabyan, Twin Mountain House and Mount Pleasant House; connecting for Maplewood, Bethlehem, Profile House Crawford and Mount Washington.

1.00 P. M. White Mountains and Montreal Express. With Mann Boudoir Car to Fabyan, etc., and parlor cars to Weirs, Plymouth and Montreal; connecting for Centre Harbor, Wolfboro', Maplewood, Bethlehem, Crawford's, Jefferson, etc.

3.00 P. M. Local train for Plymouth, White River Junction, Weirs, etc.

5.00 P. M. Fast Express for Lowell, Nashua, Amherst, Milford and Wilton.

7.00 P. M. Night Express for Montreal, via Plymouth and White River Junction, with Pullman Sleeping Cars.

Excursion tickets at lowest rates are procurable at the Company's offices, 218 Washington Street, third door South of Old State House, and at Causeway Street Station.

C. S. MELLEN, General Superintendent.
LUCIUS TUTTLE, Gen'l Pass. Agent.

ALLAN LINE

ROYAL MAIL STEAMSHIPS

Sailing from Quebec every Saturday for Liverpool.

SHORTEST OCEAN VOYAGE

Only five days from land to land.

Extra services from GLASCOW, GALWAY, QUEENSTOWN and LONDONDERRY to Boston direct for the convenience of Steerage passengers, to whom kind treatment is made a Specialty. Cabin, $70 and $80. Intermediate, $40. Steerage at Low Rates.

LEVE & ALDEN, Gen'l Pass. Agts.

15 State Street, Boston.

JOHN LINEHAN, Agt. for Peabody.

COMER'S COMMERCIAL COLLEGE,

666 Washington Street, BOSTON.

Thorough and Comprehensive Instruction in all Studies Essential to Success in Business.

Students may commence at any time, Receive Individual Instruction and progress according to ability and application. Separate department for Ladies. Graduates Aided to Employment. Young people receive instruction here that will insure a successful start in business, and that will benefit them throughout their business career. For 45th Annual Catalogue, Address C. E. COMER.

jy 15—13t

Agents wanted
HOLY BIBLE
REVISED VERSION.

Bibles at 1-2 and Old Testaments at less than 1-3 the prices of the English editions, and equal to the English in type, paper, printing and accuracy. First agent sent out reports an order at every call for two weeks. Rare chance for agents to make money. Send $1.00 for outfit. TERMS VERY LIBERAL. The Henry Bill Pub. Co., Norwich, Conn.

THE PITCH LAKE OF TRINIDAD.

The most remarkable feature of Trinidad is the Pitch Lake. It is about a mile and a half in circumference. The pitch at the sides of the lake is perfectly hard and cold; but as one walks toward the middle with the shoes off, in order to wade through the water, the heat gradually increases, the pitch becomes softer and softer, until at last it is seen boiling up in a liquid state. The air is then strongly impregnated with bitumen and sulphur, and the impression of the feet is left upon the pitch. It is possible during the rainy season to walk over most of the lake, but during hot weather a great part cannot be approached. I extract the following account from the narrative of a gentleman who visited it from San Fernando: "To get to the lake it was necessary to sail ten miles on the Gulf of Paria. The course lay along the shores of the district of South Naparima, with cane cultivation coming down nearly to the water's edge, and the planters' houses placed so as to command good views of the sea; then past the swamp called, par excellence, the lagoon, which fronts the sea for three or four miles, and extends far into the interior, a fertile source of agues and fevers to the estates adjoining, especially to leeward. Then came some more miles of bush, and then our destination, the beach and village of La Brae (which signifies pitch). Nothing could be more appropriate than the name, for it is pitch here and there and everywhere. It is the shore, it is the bed of the sea as far as you can trace it. It is the street and the surface of the ground. It forms the floors of the houses, and is under the vegetation which flourishes with tropical luxuriance all around. The road proceeds almost in a straight line from the shore for about a mile to the borders of the lake, which is wholly covered with pitch, presenting the appearance of motion, though quite hard [when he visited it]. It appeared as if wave after wave was coming on, each one having sufficient consistency to preserve its crest, as if the ripples on a level seashore had been suddenly arrested and solidified. The pitch is quite level with the edge of the basin. It was our intention to proceed toward the middle of the lake, and after we had spent some time on the border surveying the singular scene we began to put our intention into effect. The sides of the hummocks were slippery, and very steep; but we pursued our way till we arrived near the middle, where was a larger flow of pitch than any we had crossed. Some guava bushes afforded shelter from the sun's rays, and there we halted. The stillness was very marked. Not a sign of animal life but what came from our own party, while the black, brownish hue of the surface of the pitch added to the monotony of all around. Yet even here were the guava bushes growing, without any visible soil to nourish them, although probably a cropping-up of soil in the lake gave them place to strike root in. The water in the lake is so slightly tinged with the taste of pitch as to be drinkable, and there are many places where those inclined to bathing can indulge their wish."

MEAT EATING NOT NECESSARY.

It is a vulgar error to regard meat in any form as necessary to life; if for any it is necessary, it is for the hard-working out-door laborers, and for these a certain proportion is no doubt desirable. To many it has become partially desirable only by the force of habit, and because their digestive organs have thus been trained to deal with it, and at first resent a change. But this being gradually made, adaptation takes place, and the individual who has consumed two or three meat meals daily with some little discomfort chiefly from being often indisposed to make active exertions, becomes, after sufficient time has elapsed, stronger, lighter and happier, as well as better tempered and manifestly healthier, on a more delicate dietary. Alterations in the dietary, especially of elderly persons, should be made gradually and with caution. This condition fulfilled, a considerable change may be effected with satisfactory results when circumstances render it necessary. A brief allusion must be made to the well-known and obvious fact that the surrounding temperature influences the demand for food, which therefore should be determined as regards quantity or kind according to the climate inhabited, or the season of the year as it affects each climate. In hot weather the dietary should be lighter in the understood sense of the term, than in the cold weather. Living on cereals, vegetables and fruit, with some proportion of fish, and abstaining from alcholic drinks, the same persons would probably enjoy the high temperature, and be free from the thirst which is the natural result of consuming needlessly substantial and heating food.

BIRD REASON.

The old blind instinct theory of bird architecture appears to have quite broken down. The proofs are most convincing that blind instinct has very little to do with the matter. Birds as nearly as possible imitate the nests in which they were reared, and bring to the work a sort of rudimentary reason. As Mr. Charles Dixon says, "Man has to learn the particular art of house building practiced by his own peculiar race; birds have to do the same."

The limbs of the pear trees should be tied up before they break off.

WE HAVE SAVED MONEY

Is what OUR PEABODY FRIENDS and PATRONS say after visiting our store and securing some of the

GREATEST BARGAINS

— IN —

BABY CARRIAGES, OIL STOVES, REFRIGERATORS,

Parlor Suits, Chamber Sets, Carpeting, Ranges, Lamps, Silver Ware, Crockery and all kinds of Housekeeping Goods that we are now offering for CASH or on very easy terms of payments.

Goods on Instalments one of our specialties.

151 HANOVER ST., BOSTON.

W. P. B. BROOKS & CO.,

W. P. B. BROOKS, ALEX. D. DAMON, FRED. D. SPERRY.

E. R. MORSE SAFE CO.

MANUFACTURER OF

FIRE & BURGLAR PROOF SAFES, VAULT DOORS, STEEL CHESTS, SILVER SAFES, EXPRESS SAFES, FIRE AND THIEF PROOF JEWEL BOXES.

76 & 78 SUDBURY STREET, BOSTON.

Second hand SAFES.

SAFES bought and sold.

SAFES opened and repaired.

E. R. MORSE SAFE CO.
BOSTON

SAFES exchanged.

SAFES moved.

Combination LOCKS put on to Old Safes.

Our Safes have on a PATENT CONCEALED DIAL LOCK which is used as a day door and is a great protection in case of fire, as the dial cannot be melted or broken off.

E. R. MORSE.

Was established in business October 10th, 1844.

NAUMKEAG BREWERY,

NO. 60 UNION STREET, SALEM.

We are prepared to fill orders for our

SPARKLING CREAM ALE

TO THE TRADE AND PRIVATE FAMILIES.

This Ale is brewed from the best Canada Malt combined with the choicest New York State Hops and Wenham Lake Water. For delicacy of flavor and sparkling brilliancy it cannot be excelled by any ale in the market and we Guarantee it strictly pure.

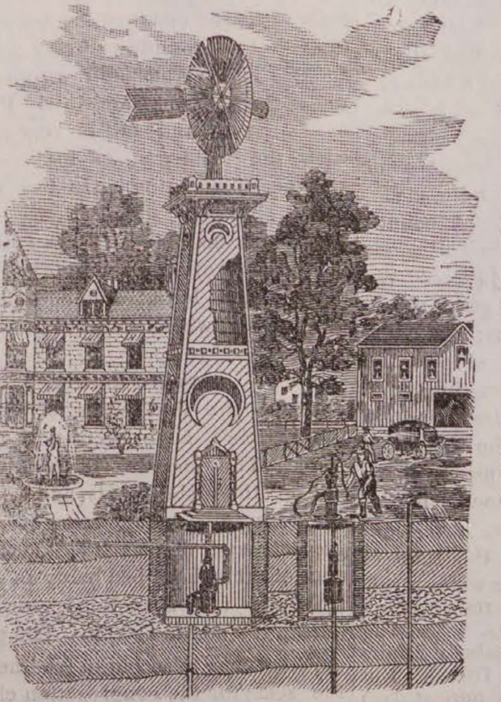
We make a specialty supplying private families, and respectfully solicit the patronage of the public generally who appreciate a pure and healthful beverage.

BARRELS, - - - - - -	$7.50
HALF BARRELS, - - - -	3.75

Ground Malt and Hops for Sale.

Orders by Mail or Telephone Promptly Filled.

ARTESIAN AND DRIVEN WELLS.



All of our

DRIVEN WELLS

for Domestic, Farm, or any other purpose well, receive prompt attention.

Thousands of these wells are being used in Tanneries, Breweries and other manufactories, where cool and better water is needed and also save water bills.

We are also prepared to

DRILL WELLS

six or eight inches in diameter through earth or rock, by steam power.

B. F. SMITH,

OFFICE,

266 WASHINGTON STREET,

Room 3, Boston

Cut showing the Driven Well flowing, pumped by Hand and Wind Power. Arranged with Set-Length, (anti-freezing), for Domestic, Farm and Irrigating purposes; where large amount of water is needed Steam Pumps are.

A PRIZE Send six cents for postage, and receive free, a costly box of goods which will help you to more money right away than anything else in this world. All, of either sex, succeed from first hour. The broad road to fortune opens before the workers, absolutely sure, At once address, TRUE & Co., Augusta, Me

---

FREDERIC G. PRESTON,

Attorney and Counsellor at Law.

ALLEN'S BLOCK.

RESIDENCE, 171 BOSTON ST., SALEM.

Conveyances.

BOSTON & MAINE RAILROAD On and after Monday, Je. 28, 1885 trains will run as follows,—

EASTERN DIVISION,

TRAINS LEAVE PEABODY FOR BOSTON AT 6 44, 7 25, 8 02, 8 31, 10 33, 11 07 A. M., 2 01, 3 37, 5 08, 6 46 P. M.

BOSTON FOR PEADODY, 8, 10 55 A. M., 1 M., 3, 4, 4 40, 5 15, 6 P. M.

LEAVE SALEM FOR

Lynn and Boston at 5 37, 6, 6,30, 7, 7 14, 7 35, 7 48, 7 51, 8 13, 8 34 (does not stop at Lynn), 8 40, 8 58, 9 20, 9 55, 10.48 A, M., 12 M., 12 30, 12 52, 2 15, 3 12, 3 45, 4 10, 4 25, 5 17, 5 48, 6 33, 6.58. 7 20, 7 57, 8 55, 9, 9 55 P. M. Sundays, 5.37, 8 40, 11 35 A. M., 1 05, 3 05, 5 40, 8 15, P. M.

Swampscott, 6, 6 30, 7 14. 7.48 7 51, 8 40, 8 58, 10 48, A. M.. 12 M, 12 52, 2 15, 3 45, 4 25, 5 17, 5 48, 6 33, 6 58, 7 20, 7 57, 9, 9 55, P. M. Sundays, 8 40 11 35 A. M., 1 05, 3 05, 5 40, 8 15 P. M.

Beverly, 6 53, 8 11, 8 40, 10 42, 11 20 A. M., 12 02, 1 05, 2 27, 2 47, 3 56, 4 05, 5 12, 5 57, 6 37, 7 05, 7 15, 7 45, 10 10, 11, P. M. Sundays 8 45 A. M.

Beverly Farms, Manchester and Gloucester—6 53, 8 40, 11 20 A. M., 2 47, 4 07, 5 35, 7 05, 7 45, 10 10 P. M

Essex, 8 11 A. M., 3 56, 6 37 P. M.

Ipswich, 8 11, 9 35, 10 42 A, M., 1 05, 2 27, 3 56, 5 12, 6 37. 7 15 P. M, Sundays 8 45 A. M., 7 30 P. M.

Newburyport, 8 11, 9 35, 10, 10 42 A. M., 1 05, 2 02, 2 27, 3 56. 5 12, 6 37, 7 15 P. M. Sundays 8 45 A. M.. 7 30 P. M.

Amesbury, 8 11, 10 42 A. M.. 1 05, 3 56, 5.12 P. M.

Portsmouth—8 11, 9 35, 10, 10 42 A. M.. 1 05, 2 02, * 3 56, 5 12, ‡7 15 P. M. Sundays 8 45 A. M., 7 30 P. M.

Dover, 8 11, A. M., 2 02, 5 12 P. M.

Great Falls and Rochester, 8 11, 10 A. M., 2 02, 3 56 P. M.

Wolfboro—8 11, 10 A, M., 2 02, 3 56 P. M.

North Conway—8 11, 10 A M., 2 02 P. M.

Portland—8 11, 9 35 A M, 1 05, ‡7 15 P M. Sundays 7 30 P. M.

Augusta—9 35 A. M., 1 05, †7 15 P. M. Sundays 7 30 P. M.

Bangor—9 35 A. M., 1 05, †7 15 P. M. Sundays 7 30 P. M.

St. John and Halifax, 9 35 A. M. †7 15 P. M. Sundays, 7 30 P. M.

Montreal, 9 35 P. M.

And FOR SALEM—from

Montreal—10 15 P. M.

St. John—8 P. M. (daily except Saturday).

Bangor, 8 A. M., 1 30, 8 P. M. Sundays 8 P. M.

Augusta, 6, 10 A. M., 2 45, 10 55 P. M. Sundays 10 55 P. M.

Portland—2, 9 A M. 1, 6 P M. Sundays, 2 A. M

North Conway—7 20, 11 A M, 3 30 P. M.

Wolfboro—6 05 (Mondays only), 8 15, 11 20 A M, 4 05 P M.

Rochester—7 22, 9 42 A. M., 1 05, 5 37 P. M.

Great Falls—7 38, 9 57 A. M, 1 18, 5 50 P. M.

Dover—7, 10 25 A. M., 4 30 P. M.

Portsmouth—4 05, 7 30, 7 35, 8 20, 10 50 A M, 1 55, 2 55, 5, 6 40, 7 40 P M, Sundays, 4 05 A. M, 4 P. M.

Amesbury—6 40, 8 40, 11 15 A. M., 1 30, 3 05, 5 20 P. M.

Newburyport—4 45. 6 30, 7, 8, 8 13, 9 05, 11 35 A. M. 2 35, 3 30, 3 38, 5 43, 7 20, 8 15 P. M. Sundays, 4 45 A. M., 4 45 P. M.

Ipswich—5 07, 6 48, 7 17, 8 15, 8 31, 9 25, 11 59 A. M., 2 49, 3 55, 6 06, 7 36 P. M. Sundays 5 07 A. M., 5 06 P. M.

Essex—7, 11 45 A. M, 5 45 P. M.

Rockport—6 05, 7 20, 8 30, 10 A. M., 1 20, 5, 6 10, 9 P. M. Sundays—7 45 A. M.

Gloucester—6 15, 7 29, 8 39, 10 08 A M, 1 30, 5 08* 6 20, 9 09 P M. Sundays—7 55 A. M.

Manchester—6 30, 7 42, 8 51, 10 21 A. M., 1 45, 5 22, 6 32, 9 23 P. M. Sundays, 8 09 A. M.

Beverly—6 50, 7 05, 7 40, 8 05, 8 50, 9 11, 9 45, 10 40 A. M., 12 20, 12 45, 2 05, 4 16, 5 40, 6 23, 6 50, 7 08, 7 50, 9 43, 11 10 P. M. Sundays 8 30 A. M., 5 30 P. M.

Swampscott,—6 44, 8 50, 10 34, 11 26, 11 54 A. M., 12 36, 2 19, 3 28, 4 31, 6 20, 6 28, 6 56, 8 29, 10, 10 49, 11 49 P. M. Sundays 8 36, 11 17 A. M., 1 57, 5 51, 10 11 P. M.

Lynn—6 40, 7 59, 8 30, 8 46, 9 25, 9 51, 10 30, 11 10, 11 23, 11 51 A. M.. 12 33, 12 55, 1 52, 2 15, 3 25, 3 45, 3 55, 4 28, 5 03, 5 24, 5 45, 6 16, 6 25, 6 52, 7 05, 7 35, 8 25, 9 55, 10 45, 11 45 P. M. Sundays 8 32, 11 14 A, M., 1 03, 5 47, 7 22, 10 06, P. M.

Boston—6 10, 7 30*, 8, 8 05, 9, 9 30, 10, 10 45, 10 55* 11 15 A. M. 12 M, 12 30, 1 30, 1 40, 2 15, 3, 3 20, 3 30, 4, 4 40, 5, 5 15, 5 40, 6, 6 20, 6 40, 7 10, 7 50, 9 20, 10 15, 11 15 P M. Sundays, 8, 10 40 A. M, 1 20, 5 10, 7, 9 30 P. M.

*Via Saugus Branch.
†Change at Newburyport.

MARBLEHEAD BRANCH.

Salem for Marblehead—6 50, 7 55, 8 40, 9 30 A M, 1, 2 30, 4 20, 5 15, 6 05, 7 20 P M.

Marblehead for Salem—6 30, 7 30, 8 15, 9 10, 10 15 A M, 2 3 20, 4 55, 5 40, 6 25 P M.

SOUTH READING BRANCH.

Trsins leave the South Beading Depot in Salem for Boston, 7 25, 9 05 A. M., 1 40, 4 35 P. M.

Boston for Salem—7 40, 11 30 A M, 3 10, 5 15 P. M.

Wakefield for Salem—8 13 A M, 12 06, 3 43, 5 48 P M.

Lynnfield for Salem—8 24 A M, 12 16, 3 52, 5 59 P M.

Peabody for Salem—8 35 A M, 12 27, 4 02, 6 07 P M.

LAWRENCE BRANCH.

Salem for Lowell—7 A. M., 6 P. M.

Salem for Lawrence—7 09, 11 32 A M, 4 43, 6 P M.

Salem for Middleton—6 15, 7, 8 58, 11 35 A M, 3 36, 4 43, 6 P M.

Salem for Danvers—6 15, 7, 7 28, 8 58, 11 32 A M, 12 47, 3 36, 4 43, 5 20, 6, 6 42 P M.

Lowell for Salem—7 10, 9 45 A. M., 1 15, 5 15 P. M

Lawrence for Salem—7 40, 10 5 A. M, 1, 5 50 P. M.

Middleton for Salem—7, 8 07, 10 10, 10 45 A M, 1 35, 4 45, 6 27, P M.

Danvers for Salem—6 37, 7 15, 7 55, 8 31, 10 25, 11 A. M. 1 50, 3 30, 5, 5 50, 6 39, P M.

Peabody for Salem—6 44, 7 25, 8 02, 8 31, 10 33, 11 07 A M. 2 01, 3 37, 5 08, 5 58, 6 46 P M.

JAMES T. FURBER, General Manager.
Boston Je. 28. 1885.

NEW YORK & NEW ENGLAND

RAILROAD.

Shorter by twenty miles than any other Line between Boston and New York.

Now a Double Track Road to a Connection with the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad, West of Willimantic.

LEAVE BOSTON.

8.30 A. M. *DAY EXPRESS TRAIN for New York (via Middletown and New Haven); Pullman Cars Boston to New York. A part of this train runs through to Hartford, New Britain Waterbury, Danbury and Fishkill.

3.00 P. M. †NEW ENGLAND LIMITED for New York (via Air Line Route) running 86 miles without a stop. Due Grand Central Depot, New York, at 9.00 P. M. Connects week days at Willimantic with train for Hartford, New Britain and Waterbury.

3.30 P. M. *AFTERNOON MAIL for New York, (via Middletown and New Haven), due New York 11.25 P. M. A part of this train runs through to Hartford, New Britain and Bristol.

6.30 P. M. †PHILADELPHIA EXPRESS for Hartford, New Haven, Jersey City, Trenton, Philadelphia, Baltimore and Washington, connecting for Richmond and points South. Through Pullman cars to Washington.

6.30 P. M. *NORWICH LINE EXPRESS for New York, New London, Norwich, Danielsonville and Putnam. Train connects at New London with Steamer City of Worcester, or City of Boston.

Seats in Parlor Cars, Berths in Pullman Cars, State-rooms on Steamers, Tickets and information obtained at Office, 322 Washington St, or Depot, foot of Summer St.

BOSTON.
A. C. KENDALL, Gen'l Pass. Agt.,

BOSTON, REVERE BEACH & LYNN R.R. SUMMER TIME-TABLE.

June. 15, 1885.

Leave Boston at 6.50, 7.30, 8, 8.30, 9, 10, 11 A.M. 12 M.; 1, 2, 2.30, 3, 3.30, 4. 4.30, 5, 5.30, 6, §6.30, 7, 7.30, 8, 8.30, 9.20, 9.50, 10.50, 11.15 P. M.

Leave Lynn at §6.10, 6.50, 7, 7.30, 8, 8.30, 9, 10, 11 A.M. 12 M.; 1, 1.45, 2.15, 2.45, 3.15, 3.45, 4.15, 4.45, 5.15, 5.45, 6.15, 6.45, 7.15, 7.45, 8.40, 9.10, 9.40, 10.10, 10.30, P. M.

SUNDAY TRAINS.

Leave Boston at 10, 11 A. M.; 12 M.; 1, 2, 2.30, 3, 3.30, 4, 4.30, 5, 5.30, 6, 6.30, 7, 7.30, 8. 8.30, 9, 10, P. M.

Leave Lynn at 9, 10, 11 A. M.; 12 M.; 1, 1.45, 2.15, 2.45, 3.15, 3.45, 4.15, 4.45, 5.15, 5.45, 6.15, 6.45, 7.15, 7.45, 8.15, 9.15 P. M.

§Workingmen's train.

JOHN A. FENNO, G. T. A. C. A. HAMMOND, Supt

CALL AT THIS OFFICE FOR FINE JOB PRINTING. Specimens given

OUR COMPETITOR EXHIBITS HIS CAT AND SO DO WE.

MAKE YOUR OWN COMPARISON.

As our cat is pleasing and more contented looking than his, so our customers go away better satisfied with the fine quality of the boots and shoes purchased of us at lower prices than the same goods are sold by other dealers.

Call and see for yourselves.

F. W. Lucas & Co.,

186 ESSEX STREET,

Head of Central Street, Salem

CORRESPONDENCE.

BENNINGTON, VERMONT.

Bennington and Albany are not much alike but the milkmen in both places have the same lazy habit. They ride up to the door, ring a large dinner bell and wait for some one to come and get the daily supply which they dip out of a large can holding ten gallons. It must be very pleasant on a stormy day or a cold day in winter for the housewife to leave her work and go out to the street to wait upon the milkmen. It would be interesting to know where the dividing line is between the custom here and that which prevails in eastern Massachusetts.

The ride from here to Albany is a pleasant one—an hour and a half by rail to Troy and from Troy by rail or by boat as one chooses. As our round trip ticket took us only to Troy we tried the boat and found it a very pleasant ride, though a short one, the distance being only about seven miles. Returning in a shower we took a train on the Belt Line. This line keeps two trains in service all the time, starting from each city every half hour; one train going one way the other the opposite. Starting from Albany on the hour the train runs on the west side of the Hudson and crosses the bridge at Troy. On the half hour the train crosses at Albany and comes upon the east side of the river. During the Grant obsequies trains and boats were kept running all night between the two cities. The most prominent object seen from the river as one nears Albany is the Capitol. It's a big thing; not completed yet, but has already cost the snug little sum of fifteen millions. "Orderlies" are always on duty to show visitors through the immense structure in which a stranger may easily get lost. It is reported that an old farmer one day put in an appearance at the entrance and desiring to be shown over the building said: "I want to see the whole of it because I am taxed to help pay for it." The polite orderly started on the round and for an hour or more a steady tramp was kept up. Becoming wearied the old gentleman called a halt and asked how much more there was of the thing. The attendant replied that if they kept up good speed another hour would probably carry them through. This was a "leetle too much" and the interested tax payer concluded to see the whole of the famous structure at some future period.

It looks a little strange to see along one of the railroads here abutments of bridges and culverts built of white marble. Bennington people have occasion to use or talk about several railroads, but the Glastonbury road is just now of greater interest to the writer than all the rest. The thing for a visitor to Bennington to do is to take a trip by rail to Glastonbury. By rail of course; you can go no other way except on foot or in a lumber team. The B. & G. R. R. differs from any other road in the country. It is a short road, only about eight miles, or, including sidings, perhaps ten miles of track. To Glastonbury is all up-grade, the ride of eight miles taking one twelve hundred feet above the starting point at Bennington. Not being a passenger road it runs only two trains a day—up in the morning and down at night,—and the time of starting is very uncertain. Half way up, at Woodford, is a picnic ground, and on Wednesday last it was our pleasure to accompany some of the good people of Bennington for a day's outing among the mountains. 8 A. M. was the hour for starting; the train took passengers at any street, and at the appointed time we were ready at the nearest and most convenient crossing. It would be too long a story to tell what happened during the next three hours, but our party at "the station," which was in the shade of the nearest large tree, was increased to a dozen, and we waited,—sometimes patiently, sometimes otherwise,—and that train arrived at just five minutes before eleven.

It was a mixed (?) train. Behind the engine was one car, half second or third class passenger, the other half baggage. In front of the engine was an observation car, otherwise a platform car with two settees facing each other at one end and boards for seats transversly, both ways, across the other end. By means of the cow-catcher and the connecting bar we mounted in front and started over a road which passes through the most charming valley, the most lovely scenery it has ever been my lot to witness. Most of the way the valley is very narrow, at some points barely wide enough for the little stream, Bolles Brook, which flows through, and the track. At others spreading out into narrow but well cared for fields. And on either side, with ever varying height, and according to the width of the valley with ever varying distance, the heavily wooded slopes rise precipitously. A mile on our way the train stops and the engine is supplied with water from a tank kept full by an ever running stream from out the mountain side. The next stop is at a saw mill where some empty platform cars are left. The next is Woodford, where most of the party leave the train for the picnic ground, eleven only, and these mostly not "to the manor born" go on to see the end of the road and Glastonbury. Arriving at the hotel we leave the train and climb to the elevated piazza. Not much more of a view in extent than on the way up, and the beauties of nature are marred by a saw mill, charcoal kilns, and the "Y" and spurs of R. R. track. Having seen the sights and taken a drink of the cold water which runs from the mountain side into the hotel we are ready for the descent to Woodford. The train doesn't go till night and it is arranged that we shall make the trip on a "dumpy." A dumpy is a little car about the size of a hand car, with no machinery except brakes, made on purpose for the down hill ride. The heaviest grade is 230 feet to a mile and the only thing to guard against is going too fast. We are soon seated and off we go, Mr. Pilling at the brakes. We move slowly at first but the speed rapidly increases as the grade becomes steeper, and the little car is soon racing down the track with the swiftness of the wind. It's a new and a thrilling experience to all the party except the brakeman, and he seems a little reckless; though we see that as he lays himself out with his whole strength and weight on the brake he has control of the flying dumpy. Words fail to describe this novel ride of four miles. From descriptions of tobogganing I think it comes as near to that as anything on wheels can. Not one of the party, new to the experience, would have missed this part of the day for any other pleasure it brought, and all too soon we drew a long breath as we came to a stop at Woodford.

Woodford is a representative mountain village, consisting of a saw mill, four charcoal kilns, four or five houses, and one of the prettiest little picnic grounds imaginable. Here we found the rest of our party busy with preparations for dinner. Extremes meet and here we find them helping on the dinner. Outside the building a camp fire was briskly burning, over which, on a pole placed across two crotched sticks, a kettle was hung; inside a kerosene stove was doing duty; and with these arrangements for furnishing heat—the primitive and the most modern of methods—coffee and tea were made, eggs and green corn boiled. A bountiful dinner was soon spread and all hands were ready to do it ample justice. We cannot here recount the good things that were urged upon us; we were amply fed, and believe it safe to say that even an appetite resulting from braking a dumpy down the mountain was at last satisfied. The afternoon passed much after the usual picnic style and all had a good time. One of the party was Mrs. Miller, a resident in Peabody for a while at the time of putting in the high service water pipes, and well known to many residents on Central and Stevens streets. Meeting her and talking over Peabody affairs was like meeting an old friend. But the longest day (and the hottest day) must end. The returning train came along about half past five and we were soon landed at the scene of our long morning wait. The top of a car load of lumber furnished a good lookout for a portion of the party, and one lady from Gloucester, Mass., took a seat in the cab of the engine. But I am reminded that long letters also ought to end, and here I must put a period until next week.

J. K. C.

ASBURY GROVE.

A LITTLE GOSSIP PICKED UP AMONG THE COTTAGES.

The season at this pleasant resort is now fully open, and meeting begins next Friday. Already there are 1500 people on the grounds representing all religious denominations, and sects. The claims of fashion are unknown here, and while there are a few who would excel in the manner of dress and put on a little "agony" among their neighbors, they are a small minority, and only receive a look of amused sympathy from the large majority who have come to enjoy themselves outside society's demands. The domestic cares are light and require only a few hours of a cottager's time; the rest of the day is spent in fancy work, amusements or social converse.

THE ACCOMMODATIONS.

While it is very quiet and pleasant here after the grove is reached, there are a few things that could be easily remedied by the Association who have the matter in charge, and greatly add to the pleasure and convenience of residents. This year there has been a less number of cottages built than for several years and at the same time there have been offered a larger number "for sale or to let." This is owing largely to the Association, who have a deal of red tape about its management, and some old fogy ideas that could be dispensed with to the benefit of the dwellers. The opening of large tracts of land outside the Association grounds, in the vicinity of the railroad station, has been the means of erecting a number of pretty summer homes out there, and as the land is quite reasonable, several have purchased lots and will build in the future. This is quite in contrast to the policy pursued inside, where the cottages are packed in like sardines in a box, and in some cases one can hardly speak in his own cottage without being heard by neighbors on both sides. Those who are fortunate enough to have a cottage with a vacant lot near them, are willing to pay the extra rental tax to secure the breathing place for their own convenience. This was shown recently by the enclosing of a small park in which there was a dozen or more trees on Mudge Avenue, between Kingsley and McClintock Avenues. The children in the vicinity had used this as a playground, and when it was rumored that some one wanted to move a cottage from another part of the ground to this vacant lot, the neighbors secured it for themselves and it will be kept open as before. The Newburyport and Chelsea societies have made a move that will probably be adopted by many of the others. In place of the society tent which forms the circle, they have built a two story wooden building with a large room on the first floor with kitchen and dining room in the rear, and the second story is divided into rooms, furnished and let at a moderate price to members of the society, or others for the season or by the week. While the association have looked after the sanitary condition of the grove, by placing the water closets some distance from the cottages and by sending teams daily to collect the swill and remove the dirt and rubbish, there are other things which affect them pecuniarily, that they overlook. We learn from good authority that the B. & M. Railroad Company were willing to run a train to the grove, in connection with morning and evening trains without extra expense to their patrons, but the managers of the association opposed this because they receive a few hundred dollars a year, as their share of a line of barges which are run to and fro between the grounds and the trains. The fare on these barges is ten cents each way and is a bonanza for those interested, and a constant drain on those who are compelled to patronize them daily. As the distance can be covered in about twelve minutes many prefer to walk. The stable and grounds are under the charge of Mr. C. O. Putnam of Danvers, and he is very popular with the residents, as he is pleasant and accommodating. He has at the stable besides some twenty horses which are boarded there by cottagers, bout eigteen of which are worked on the barges, and let at a dollar an hour to those who wish a ride for pleasure or business.

GETTING READY.

About the first signs of life about the "circle" have been noticed this week. The canvas covers have been put on the society tents, and cart loads of straw are being brought to the grounds and distributed among them, and on this hard bed many an zealous Christain will stretch his weary limbs during the coming week. The preachers stand has been put in readiness and the seats for the congregation cleaned. This consists of removing the pitch which has fallen from the pine trees. It is first wiped off as clean as possible and a quantity of kerosene oil poured over it, which has the effect of killing the sticky substance of the pitch.

AMUSEMENTS.

There is always something going on here, there are nicely laid out croquet grounds, and in the open lots games of lawn tennis, etc., are in hourly operation. In the evening there are social gatherings at the cottages, and excellent vocal and instrumental music is furnished by local talent. Sometimes a good practical joke creeps in as the following will show. A party of young men, members of a bicycle club, have a cottage just outside one of the main avenues, and the other evening decided to give their lady friends a supper, and accordingly their cottage was brilliantly lighted, and the tables fairly groaned with its weight of nice things. But a friend who knew what was going on, quietly put up a sign which read, "Ice cream five cents," "Lemonade one cent a glass." Such signs as those had the desired effect, and the look of astonishment that came over these young men's faces, as first one and then another brought his girl for a glass of lemonade or an ice cream, can be better imagined than described. Whether the young ladies were on hand later, we did not learn. There is a society here called the "Gleaners" whose object is a benevolent one, and they raise money by giving concerts at the chapel. One was given on Saturday evening last, and was very successful and quite well attended. It consisted of piano solos by Miss Fannie L. Moses, which were well received, but the piano not being in good tune, had an unpleasant effect on the audience, and this same fault was noticed throughout the entertainment. Hattie A. Beckford, reader, gave several selections some of which were quite pleasing, but her voice was hardly strong enough to fill the room. Miss Annie A. Parks rendered cornet solos, and was heartily encored. Mr. Geo. Stevens, a bass singer, and Miss Mamie Katon, a contralto, each sang a song. The Misses Annie and Nellie Parks played a Zither duet, and the Misses Park and Mr. Fred Stetson, rendered "Racco Waltz" on Zithers, and were loudly applauded. Mr. Fred Stetson played a Xylophone solo, which was much enjoyed and he received an encore. These concerts have proved quite popular, and have netted the society a neat little sum.

THE PAPERS.

The Boston papers are offered for sale daily on the grounds, but the Sunday papers must be sold outside. It is interesting to see the rush for Sunday reading matter, when the barge brings the young man with his papers. No time is given to fold them, and many take a copy of both the Globe and Herald, although the Globe is most in demand, being about in the proportion of 65 to 85, the number that was sold last Sunday. Here again is where the managers show their inconsistency by prohibiting the sale of Sunday papers on the ground, and at the same time allowing a barber shop in a tent, inside the grounds, to keep open. Perhaps there is a small income to the association for use of the tent, as a barber shop.

THE BAKER SHOP

The baker shop and eating house is in charge this season of Mr. Katon of Chelsea, and the old barracks, or what was at one time the old barracks of Co. C. will be open as a boarding house. The residents are much pleased with Mr. Katon's management, as he has put himself out to accommodate them, furnishing baked beans on Saturdays and hot doughnuts every morning, besides hot rolls and pastry of all kinds, at reasonable prices.

* * *

Almy, Bigelow & Washburn call attention in another column to the fact that they are in the habit, at this season, of closing out patterns of carpets not in loom by the mill. That is, there will be no more of that pattern made. The carpets are just as good in every respect, and often they are very desirable styles. Just now such a sale is going on in the carpet department of this firm. If any of our readers have a carpet to buy this fall, why not buy it now? And they can save from 25 to 50 per cent. on the purchase. We advise them to read the advertisement carefully and if they cannot save money by so doing we are no judge.

Marriages.

In Peabody, Aug. 13, at the residence of Eben U. King, Esq., by Rev. Mr. Sperry, Mr. J. Augustus King of this town, to Mrs. Ellen M. Eaton of Montpelier, Vt.

Aug. 17th. by Amos Merrill, Esq., Mr. Barney E. Gallagher to Mrs. Annie McCurdy both of Peabody.

In Danvers, Aug. 13, by Rev. Mr. Ayres, Mr. William Budgell to Miss Lvouisa Reely

Deaths.

In Peabody, Aug. 13. Laura, daughter of Lyman W. S., and Hattie E. U. Cox, 5 mos. 12 days.

14, Henry A. son of Edward A. and Addie Blaney, 3 mos. 24 days.

15, Frederick G. son of Charles G. and Mary A Barnstead, 5 mos. 15 days.

11, Infant child of Thomas C. and Mary Durkee, 1 mo. 24 days.

In Salem, Aug. 13, Capt. John J. Coker, 61 yrs. 1 month; Mr, James Daggett, 31 yrs. 3 mos. 8 days: Catherine, daughter of Dennis and Margaret D. Duggan, 25 yrs. 1 mo. 21 days; Bernard Smith, 6 mos. 14 days; Estelle A, Fanning, 4 mos. 3 days; 14, Mr. Calvin Coffin, 88 yrs. 1 mo. 8 days.

CATARRH.

BY A. P. LIGHTHILL, M. D.

The earliest symptoms of Catarrh is a discharge from the head, consisting sometimes of a clear acid fluid, but oftener of a thick, fœtid, purulent yellow or greenish matter which is usually secreted in excessive abundance, and discharged through the nostrils for throat, and frequently by both channel.

The nature of this discharge varies in different cases, and even in the same individualat different times. In some it is copious, and of a loose or fluid character, while in others it is very viscid or gummy, adhering to the diseased membrane with glue-like tenacity; often this offensive matter concretes in dry, hard masses of crusts, which obstruct breathing and are very difficult to detach, their dislodgment requiring most violent efforts. Sometimes these incrustations come away in lumps of a deep green tint, but occasionally in broad and flat casts of a notable size, on which traces of blood mayat times be observed. This condition is very liable to run to serious ulceration, involving a loss of the bony structure of the nose and a subsequent flattening of that organ, and is invariably accompanied by a breath of exceedingly fœtid and sickening odor. In some cases it becomes so revoltingly offensive as to render the sufferer an object of disgust to himself as well as to others.

The nasal membrane is thickened and congested, causing the nose to be stopped up, sometimes on one side, sometimes on the other, and often on both, giving rise to a disagreeable, stuffy sensation in the head, and occasionally to violent paroxysms of sneezing.

A feeling of fullness, heat, irritation, soreness or pain is generally experienced in the nostrils, near the root of the nose, as well as in the upper part of the throat, above and below the soft palate. A distressing sensation of heavy weight or compression is usually complained of over the forehead, especially in the region immediately above and between the eyes. Sometimes the pain is obstinately fixed in one particular part, as in the temples, on top of the head, at the back of the neck, or behind the orbits; and occasionally it manifests itself in the face, of so severe a character that it is frequently mistaken for neuralgia.

The voice is generally affected, and becomes hoarse, weak and uneven, assuming a nasal character, or an unpleasant sniffling quality. Cough of variable severity is not unfrequently one of the symptoms and results of Catarrh.

The sense of smell is generally blunted or entirely lost, and a similar effect on taste may be occasionally observed. The eyes are apt to become irritable, and disposed to water excessively on exposure to the cold or wind, and a sense of weariness of sight is usually experienced after slight exertions. Hearing becomes frequently more or less impaired, and noises in the head very often add materially to the existing distress.

The stomach generally suffers more or less, and becomes weak and irritable; the appetite is capricious, and nearly always bad in the morning.

The patient often complains of lassitude and fatigue, an incapacity for either physical for mental exertions, and a constant disposition to drowsiness and sleep. The mental faculties are also sometimes slightly affected, loss of memory being not unfrequently experienced.

Catarrh may prove fatal, either by debilitating the system and wearing out the patient, or by travelling downward and producing consumption. This fact has been so repeatedly noticed that all experienced practitioners now look upon Catarrh as one of the earliest manifestations of this dreaded complaint. Among educated physicians in this or any other country, Dr. Lighthill was the first to devote his study and investigation to the cure of Catarrh and kindred diseases, and the happy results which attended his labor have been attested to by many of the most prominent citizens of Boston and vicinity. Cases abandoned as hopeless by other physicians have promptly yielded to his painless and effective treatment.

ASTHMA

For years Dr. Lighthill has made this distressing disease his special study, investigating carefully the causes that produce it; his labor was fully rewarded, for he not only established its true pathological condition, but also discovered a new and correct system of treatment for its cure. Hundreds of cases who have been under his care have found permanent relief from this wonderful discovery, from the beginning of this treatment prompt benefit is experienced which is ultimately followed by a complete and radical cure.

An experience of 30 years of constant practice enables Dr. Lighthill to decide on the first examination as to the cureability of any disease within specialty, and no case will be accepted for treatment unless the chances are for favorable results. His specialty comprises the cure of and Affections of the Nervous system from whatever cause.

CATARRH, THROAT AFFECTIONS ASTHMA, CONSUMPTION, DEAFNESS DISCHARGE FROM THE EAR, DISEASES OF THE EYE, BLOOD, SKIN, LIVER AND KIDNEY

DR. LIGHTHILL,

Can be consulted

Every Thursday after noon and evening,

From 2 until 8.30 P. M.

— AT THE —

Essex House, Salem,

And every forenoon from 8 until 12, at his office.

OF 115 BOYLSTON ST., BOSTON.

CONSULTATION FREE.

Washburn's Best.

OUR leading brand of Flour. None better in the market. Whole and half barrels at very low prices. CHAS. A. ROPES & SON.
41 to 47 Central street.

At this season of the year it will profit you to use Ferrated Hygienic Wine, to cleanse your blood of all poisonous humor. tf

Health is of more consequence than wealth Many sick ones might be cured by using Ferrated Hygienic Wine. tf

CLOSING OUT.

We are naming Special Prices on all Spring and Summer Goods to clear our tables before Sept. 1st.

Bargains in Suits.

We are offering great Bargains in Suits for Dress or business, and show a splendid assortment at prices from 10 to 30 pet ct. less than last Month.

GREAT VALUES IN TROUSERS.

We are displaying the Largest and best Selections of Trousers in the city, including the choicest designs of Foreign and Domestic Fabrics. Our prices we guarantee from 10 to 20 per cent. less than you can obtain the same quality elsewhere.

Boys' and Children's Department.

We continue to offer great attractions in this Department, and those having boys to clothe for school can save money by calling on us.

EDW. C. ALMY & CO.

163, 165 & 167 ESSEX ST., SALEM.

162 Westminster St., Providence.

Washington, cor. Essex Street, Boston.

BEE-HIVE BARGAINS.

20 doz. elegant Embroidered BLACK JERSEY JACKETS, all sizes, for only $1.00 each; would be a bargain at $1.50.

LADIES' FINE MILAN HATS for 10 cts., 15 cts. and 25 cts. This is not one quarter of the cost.

LADIES' and MISSES' HOSIERY, 12 1-2 cts. a pair, marked down from 25 and 37 cts.

50 doz. CHILDREN'S SMALL SIZE VESTS, 5 cts. each, marked down from 15 cts.

30 doz. LADIES' GAUZE VESTS, 12 1-2 cts. each; cost $2.00 doz.

25 doz. LADIES' GLOVES, 15 and 25 cts. marked down from 25 and 37 cts.

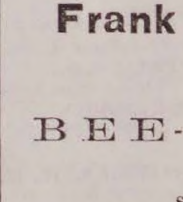
37 doz. MISSES' BLACK BRILLIANT LISLE HOSE, all sizes, for 25 cts. a pair; regular 50 cent goods.

— ALL AT —

Frank Cousins'

BEE-HIVE,

SALEM.



AMERICAN RUDGE.

The only first-class wheel listed at a low price, fitted with all the latest improvements.

Price, 50 in., Enamel and Nickel, $107.50.

Call and Examine or send for Catalogue.

STODDARD, LOVERING & CO.,

THE RUDGE. 152 Congress St., Boston.

AVOID

The Cholera by using Carbolate of Lime.

For cleansing out-houses, cesspools, sink-drains, stables, etc. For sale in 10, 25 and 50 lbs. bags, and by the barrel.

E. S. THAYER,

165 Derby Street.

C. H. ESTES, Agent for Peabody.

SALEM GAS LIGHT CO.

A Dividend of THREE DOLLARS per share will be payable at the office of the Treasurer, on Monday, the 27th inst.' to stockholders of record this day.

DAVID MOORE, Treasurer.

Salem, July 22, 1885.

HOTEL NAHANT,

NAHANT BEACH.

SAM'L SOULE & SON, Props.

IS NOW OPEN FOR GUESTS.

Horse cars from Salem and Peabody direct to the house,

Fish dinners a specialty.

Connected by Telephone.

P. O. Address, LYNN, MASS.

SPRING BARGAINS

— IN —

ROOM PAPERS.

Now is the time to paper your rooms, while goods are cheap. Room Papers for nearly half price for fifteen days only.

It will pay you to buy these goods, and lay by till spring, as you can save money by the operation.

LOOK AT THE PRICES.

4000 rolls 10c papers for 6c a roll.
3700 " 15c " " 10c "
2000 " 20c " " 12 1-2c "
Small lot 25c Satins for 15c a roll.

There is only a few patterns in this lot, and an early selection is necessary.

3500 rolls 50c gilts for 25c a roll.

Remnants at your own prices.

2c borders for 1c a yard. 5c borders for 2c yd. Gilt borders from 2c a yd upwards.

These bargains will not last long at these prices, and first customers will get the best trades.

MERRILL & MACKINTIRE-

220 ESSEX ST.,

SALEM.

Store and

Window Awnings,

Hammocks,

Boatsails and

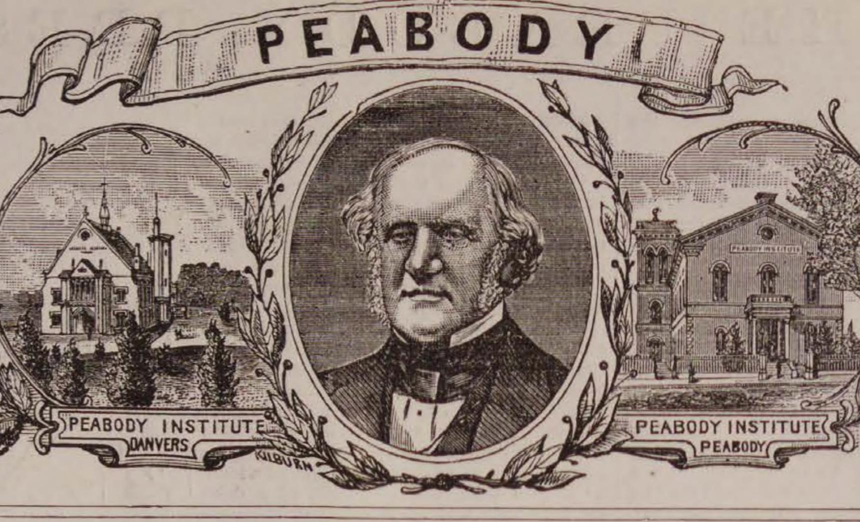
Wagon Covers!

Anton M. Liebsch

7 DERBY WHARF,

SALEM.

PEABODY The Press.



VOL. 26. PEABODY, MASS. WEDNESDAY EVENING AUGUST 26, 1885. 34 NO. ~~37~~ 34

CUT THE PRICES!

RIGHT AND LEFT.

OUR LAST AND FINAL MARK DOWN SALE

— OF —

MENS' & BOY'S

SPRING AND

SUMMER CLOTHING.

We have received orders from our Headquarters, Boston, to mark down and close out immediately all our Spring and Summer Clothing in order to make room for our Fall and Winter Stock.

Remember these are all new goods manufactured for the Spring and Summer trade of 1885; no old goods at any price, but the most pleasing, most desirable styles of our fashionable Clothing, bearing the stamp that inspires New England buyers with confidence, "OUR OWN MANUEACTURE."

The Greatest, Grandest, most generous mark down sale of Clothing ever inaugurated. Don't wait This sale will be short, sharp and effective. We have made prices that will immediately give us the needed room for new Fall and Winter goods now coming in.

Naumkeag Clothing Company,

177 & 179 ESSEX STREET, SALEM.

Z. A. GALLUP, Manager.

LOCAL CONDENSATIONS.

Succotash is ripe!
Peaches and cream!
Corn is looking well!
Sow your flat turnips!
Pea beans are higher!
Autumn is approaching!
Ice will soon be cheaper!
Next will be pink postals!
Harvesting is progressing!
Hat brims are very narrow!
Merchants are taking a rest!
Grasshoppers are no scarcer!
Cucumbers are going to seed!
The farmers are all very busy!
Autumnal signs begin to show!
This is bad weather for crimps!
The dust don't stand any show!
Have you been to camp meeting?
The rain has kept the dust down!
School commences September 7th!
The day is now cut off at both ends!

Dog days will be over in about ten days.

Brevity of twilight and lengthy evenings.

The showers of late have been copious.

The truant officer's vacation is most lover.

September weather in August this year.

Hay fever continues to afflict its victims.

Bad wells are productive of dysentery.

Listen to the cheerful chirp of the cricket.

Milkmen are talking of a raise in price.

The gutters have received their fall scraping.

Lace grows in favor as the season advances.

You can't get any postal cards at the ost office.

Should not the political pot soon begin to simmer?

The Point of Pines took the crowd last week.

Our stock of poetry will last us till cool weather. Thank you.

This kind of weather is fatal to the little children.

Judge Merrill is contemplating a short vacation.

There is no objection to shooting wild woodcock.

Cut away the weeds along the edge of the sidewalks.

Straw hats are licensed for only a short time longer.

The unwilling boy will soon tread the path to school.

Farmers continue to suffer from the pilferings of boys.

Mr. J. B. Thomas pays a tax at Rockport of $59.60.

October 1st the special post office delivery system begins.

This is good weather to sleep the "sleep of the just."

The delusive jack o'lantern now amuses the youngster.

There were eleven cars on the new Sunday train last Sunday.

Mr. Thomas I. Noyes is building an addition to his factory.

Josh Billings' "Darn a fli" comes in very appropriately just now.

When you cross a railroad track look to the right and to the left.

Elizabeth U. King, of this town pays a tax in Gloucester of $105.00.

A boy named Kroft was bitten by a dog in the face last Monday.

Always ready to do job printing at reasonable prices at the PRESS office.

Make your preparations to exhibit something at the coming cattle show.

A concrete walk will be placed in front of the new Dublin school house.

The recent rains have caused the weeds to grow higher than the fences.

A number of gates that swing across our sidewalks day and night, are a nuisance.

Rev. J. W. Hudson preached at the First Parish Church, Beverly, last Sunday.

Don't hurry home if you are enjoying yourself. We will take care of the town.

Merriam & Co., put the coal into the cellar of the Center school house last week.

Perhaps our boys will be invited to attend the Marblehead firemen's parade.

"Though flattery blossoms like friendship, yet there is a great difference in the fruit."

A nice row of maple or elm trees should be set out around the town house.

It is said that Mr. J. B. Thomas will shortly close up his business at Middleton.

Correspondents are respectfully requested to write on but one side of the paper.

A fine steel engraving of General Grant is being sold in town by a canvasser.

A number of the employes of Pike & Whipple have gone to Grape Island for this week.

Quite a number of complaints are being made by neighbors who live near savage dogs.

Counterfeit two-dollar bills are in circulation. They don't bother us very much, though.

The prospect for an active fall business is very encouraging throughout the country.

Mr. Eben Sutton pays a tax at North Andover of $1946.07 and John H. Sutton $64.40.

The tent used by the Lowell street boys at Nahant was blown away during Monday's storm.

A boy named Ryan had a narrow escape from drowning at Waters river, one day last week.

Mr. Charles A. Gilman of the firm of Norton & Gilman has again started in business at Swampscott.

A little son belonging to Timothy Cunningham fell down stairs last Sunday and broke his arm.

There is a tree on Tremont street that has a piece of golden rod in full bloom growing out of it.

Those who want "No trespass" signs containing the law, can get them at this office at ten cents each.

Mr. Elbridge Kelley has the contract for the plumbing of H. A. Southwick's new Tapleyville factory.

E. & C. Woodman have something of interest to say about strawberry plants in another column.

With the exception of the Episcopal and Catholic churches not a settled pastor in town occupied his pulpit last Sunday.

Two freight cars jumped the track in the freight yard last Saturday, and the wrecking train was sent for.

We have had considerable very splendid weather this week, and a little not altogether so much so.

Our farmers are cutting the second crop, but they have to go over a good many acres to get a ton.

Mr. W. D. Dennis has been appointed District Deputy to Holten Lodge, I. O. O. F. of this town.

It is said that cholera is caused by drinking water. That is another excuse for going over the line.

A number of families are putting steam into their houses instead of a furnace for heating purposes.

The Peabody family gathering at North Reading to-day. That should include the whole of this town.

A good many people in town are losing confidence in the "mutual benefit life insurance companies."

We learn that Miss Luella Goodwin, daughter of Thomas Goodwin on Washington Place, is dangerously ill.

The Methodist church was closed last Sunday. Most of the congregation adjourned to Asbury Grove.

These are dull days for business about town, and the clerks have plenty of time to wash windows.

We know who has got a good melon patch and we return thanks for one, but boys we won't give it away.

The way they steal fruit from our gardens and orchards, about discourages one from trying to raise anything.

The "Our Boys" defeated the "Old Men" of the bleachery in a game of base ball last Saturday, score 10 to 5.

Mr. John Linehan's barges carried a number of people to the Thomas family re-union at Ipswich last Thursday.

The lightning struck the house of Mrs. David T. Nolan, at Lynn, last Monday, throwing down the chimney.

The small boy has cleaned off all the summer apples and is sharpening his teeth for Greenings and Baldwins.

A mail messenger boy will probably be needed at the post-office when the "immediate delivery" law goes into effect.

It is over a quarter of a century since Rev. Father Vincent of St. John's Catholic church was ordained to the priesthood.

Mr. Clarence J. Messer has been presented with a little women's suffragist by his wife. The little one came last Wednesday.

There will be a meeting of the Peabody members of the Essex Agricultural society at town hall, Monday evening, Aug. 31, at 8 P. M.

Mr. John B. Wilson preached at the Baptist Church, Cambridge, last Sunday. He preached at Andover the Sunday previous.

Mr. Daniel Buxton, Jr., who died Monday, was greatly interested in seeds, and was the originator of the famous Danvers onion.

Whenever you see a counterfeit coin on the sidewalk, always pick it up. You are liable to get arrested if you try to pass it.

Mr. B. F. Hutchinson has been drawn as juror for the September term of the Superior Court to be held at Newburyport.

Mr. Theodore P. Teague returned from the north west last Thursday. He reports the largest wheat crop from that section for years.

Now that we have reached a temporary halt in the cutting down of shade trees would it not be a good idea to set out a few this fall.

The Lynn & Boston road carried 2306 through passengers on the Peabody branch last Sunday. Three cars were run on some of the trips.

By-the-way where are those resolutions on General Grant that a committee consisting of three or our able lawyers were appointed to draft?

Mr. George Boynton, a cutter at J. E. Farrar & Co's. shoe factory at Danvers, dropped a knife last Wednesday afternoon slightly cutting his foot.

Mr. Charles Murphy, a cutter at J. E. Farrar & Co.'s shoe factory at Danvers, badly cut the forefinger of his left hand last Saturday.

The League of Essex County Wheelmen will hold its third annual meeting at the trotting park, Danvers, on Saturday afternoon, Sept. 19.

An out of town party has been trying to hire the old hotel of Mr. J. B. Thomas, to be used as a boarding house. He was not successful.

Judge Garland, aged 95, recently died at Lynchburg, Va., and for the next month the papers will speak of the death of the oldest mason again.

Some one stole a can of milk from George Stevens' door step last Thursday morning. George was about ten quarts and a can out in consequence.

Mr. Daniel J. O'Connor, a sorter of leather, has left the employ of J. A. Lord, Jr., and will remove to Boston. He is well known in temperance circles.

Mr. James P. King gave a very instructive temperance lecture at Citizens Hall, Danversport, last Sunday evening under the auspices of the W. C. T. U.

Many of the Ipswich berry pickers complain of midgets. Some of them have been badly bitten. Ipswich is a great town for midgets and green head flies.

Mr. Michael Cummings, for a number of years in the employ of George J. Winchester as hired man, has resigned. He went to Weymouth last week.

Quite a number from this town attended the excursion of Unity Degree Camp I. O. O. F. to the Black Rocks from Haverhill coming down the Merrimac river.

It is rumored that Mr. J. H. Thomas made a will and divided his property between his wife and other relatives. He had $3000 life insurance in the Eastern Associates.

The new steam yacht of A. B. Clark of Peabody, which is expected to run on Ipswich river this season, will be named "Rambler." It is a fine-looking craft.

The Selectmen have decided to display the storm signal flags from the flag staff on the town house. The weather indications will be furnished twenty-four hours in advance.

There are some people that are dissatisfied because they don't see a report of their vacation trip under the personal head. Such should furnish us with the information necessary.

Shipments of leather from Peabody and Salem for the week ending Aug. 22 were 5981 rolls, 613 sides, 289 bundles, 27 barrels of leather, 196 rolls, 45 bundles, 1 case and 1 cask of skins.

Mr. David Bailey, Jr., the well known engineer at Nelson & Merrill's, will go on the road as travelling salesman for Locke & Co. of Salem, the manufacturers of patent dampers.

Mr. Charles McCormick says he has worked more or less in the hay field every summer for forty-five years, this summer not being an exception. He first began when he was eight years old.

It had never been noticed that John O'Day had a particularly long heel, till the other day, when a tip cart run over it on Winthrop street, badly bruising it and causing the owner to suffer considerable pain.

Two young men named Gallagher and Ireson engaged in a fistic encounter on Grove street, last Monday night, and after pounding each other for a short time, the fun was stopped by friends.

Four monstrous iron tanks passed through here on the cars one day last week. They may be for the new Beverly Water Works, or as some one remarked, "they may constitute the Prohibition platform."

A little daughter of Walter Hamilton fell from a fence while visiting a companion on Endicott street, last Thursday, and striking on a piece of broken crockery, cut a deep gash in her forehead.

Mr. Smith, of Peabody, has moved into Prof. Geo. H. Fall's new house, on Pleasant street.—Malden Mirror.

Mr. Smith; let's see, what Smith? It can't be that "John" Smith is moving again.

Mr. William Clerk, of the firm of Clerk & Lenox of Haverhill, has started a branch factory at Wilmington, Del., and is doing a successful business. It is possible that they will remove their business to that place.

On the Forest street range last Friday, David Waters and Charles Buffum had another contest for the silver medal. The former scored 25 out of a possible 30, and the latter 23. Waters will continue to hold the cup.

CROCKERY.

CROCKERY.

CROCKERY.

The largest and best line of Crockery in Essex County. We have dinner sets of American Marine of 130 pcs. for $14.

Kiots dinner Sets, 130 pcs., for $15.

Also Brown Melton Melbourne, No. 7034, Fancy Colors, Blue Willow.

A full line of Fancy Decorated Dinner Sets in all prices.

A fine line of Tea Sets.

Glass ware, fancy and plain in full assortment.

CALL AND SEE.

THE L. A. MAY CO.

137-141 UNION ST. 5--7 & 9 MULBERRY ST.,

LYNN. MASS.

may 30—1y

GENTS' LOW SHOES

TO BE CLOSED OUT.

$1.00	Low	Shoes	.75
1.25	"	"	$1.00
1.50	"	"	1.25
1.75	"	"	1.50
2.00	"	"	1.75
2.50	"	"	2.00
3.00	"	"	2.50
3.50	"	"	2.75
4.00	"	"	3.25
4.75	"	"	3.75

— AT —

J. E. HODGKINS' CASH STORE, 22 MARKET ST., LYNN.

Officer Grady is on his vacation beginning to-day. Officer Ferrin takes his place.

The Essex County Grand Army Convention is being held to-day in Lynn. Col. C. T. Batchelder and W. W. Reed are delegates from this town.

Women who wish to vote in the next town election for school committee, must make written application to the Assessors before the 15th of September, regardless of the fact that they were assessed and registered last year.

The Danvers road intend to run a late car in connection with the theatre trains from Boston this coming season. This road is showing a commendable amount of enterprise, and we trust our people will give them all the support they can.

Mr. B. B. Humphrey has a novel plant to be growing in a box, in front of his store. It is a large sunflower stock with all its branches which has been transplanted to a bushel measure. It seems to flourish well in its new quarters.

A young man named Delaney was knocked insensible in front of the Institute between nine and ten o'clock last Monday evening, by an unknown assailant. He was badly cut about the head. His wounds were dressed by Dr. Weston.

Several old saloon keepers received a notice last week from the revenue officers in Boston, that hereafter they would have to pay a license of $20 to sell hop beer. No doubt but what they would be willing to pay it if they could only sell.

The Selectmen visited Lynn last Thursday afternoon to inspect the works of the Water Gas Company of that city. They were shown the process of manufacturing the gas and also the way it was used in running an engine and cooking and baking.

The Peabody selectmen have made several visits to this city to inspect the water gas system. They have examined and examined, but as yet express no opinion.—Lynn Union.

That is characteristic of the gentlemen, Bro. Union.

Mr. Edward Merrill, the well known tenor singer, has hired the Pinder & Winchester leather factory on Main street and will carry on the shoe business. This is a revival of an old industry and we trust the young man will meet with success.

Dr. E. Osgood Richards, late District Deputy to Holten Lodge I. O. O. F. of this town, was presented last Wednesday evening with a handsome gold watch by members of Fraternity Lodge of Salem. Hon. John M. Raymond made the presentation speech.

We learn that Rev. W. G. Sperry has received a call to the First Cong. Church at Manchester, N. H., at $2700 and house rent. It is quite probable he will accept, as he is said to have remarked, that "duty called him to a new field of labor." Mr. Sperry has been here some seven years.

The Beverly Times and the Salem Telegram are disputing the question whether the proper thing to say is "the L of a house or the ell of a house," and the discussion has been quite animated. Keep cool, gentlemen, it don't make such an 'ell of a difference either way.

About sixty people attended the picnic of Holten Lodge I. O. O. F. last Monday. They were conveyed to the Relay House, Nahant, in Quint's barges, and the day was spent with games and dancing. Those who were present had a very pleasant time. They reached home at a late hour.

One of the most pitiful and degrading sights of the season was witnessed at the head of Foster street last Sunday. It was a woman in a beastly state of intoxication, with her eyes blacked, her face swollen and her clothes dirty and torn. She is the wife of an industrious man and mother of several children.

If there is anything you want in the line of meats, vegetables, or groceries, call on Hallowell & Smiley, 16 Caller street. They have not so expensive rents and large show windows as some of their competitors, and their customers don't have to pay for them, so of course they can afford to sell cheaper. Call and see them.

Mr. David T. Winter has lost the use of his left hand. It was injured by being put off a train on the New York Lake Erie & Western R. R. several years ago. He will go to the Mass. General Hospital for treatment. It is feared that the member will have to be amputated. Dr. Weston is attending him.

A travelling cowboy was in town one evening last week selling genuine solid gold (?) pins, with the monogram of the buyer engraved upon it for only 15 cents. He said he didn't do it for the money there was in it, but just to introduce his engraving, and a lot of people believed him.

We understand upon the best authority that the story published in the Manchester Mirror, and copied into this paper last week, and which was said to have been told by Dr. Tucker, of Andover, has no foundation in fact, and was made out of whole cloth. If Dr. Tucker said it, he was misled by somebody. Prof. Hincks is and has always been an acceptable preacher to the people of the South Society.

Poet's Corner.

An Unknown Man Respectably Dressed.

BY THE LATE HELEN JACKSON ("H. H.")

"An unknown man, respectably dressed,"
That was all that the record said:
Wondering pity might guess the rest;
One thing was sure, the man was dead.

And dead, because he'd no heart to live;
His courage had faltered and failed the test;
How little the all we now can give,
A nameless sod to cover his breast!

"Respectably dressed," the thoughtless read
The sentence over, and idly say,
"What was it then, since it was not need,
Which made him thus fling his life away?"

"Respectably dressed!" How little they know
Who never have been for money pressed,
What it costs respectable poor to go,
Day after day, "respectably dressed!"

The beggars on sidewalks suffer less;
They herd all together, clan and clan;
Alike and equal in wretchedness,
No room for pride between man and man.

Nothing to lose by rags, or by dirt,
More often something is gained instead;
Nothing to fear but bodily hurt,
Nothing to hope for save daily bread.

But respectable poor have all to lose,
For the world to know, means loss and shame;
They'd rather die, if they had to choose;
They cling as for life to place and name.

Cling, and pretend, and conceal and hide;
Never an hour but its terror bears;
Terror which sinks like guilt to one side,
And often a guiltier countenance wears.

"Respectably dressed" to the last; ay, last!
Last dollar, last crust, last proud pulse beat;
Starved body, starved soul, hope dead and past:
What wonder that any death look sweet!

"An unknown man respectably dressed,"
That was all that the record said,
When will the question let us rest,
Is it fault of ours, that the man was dead?

—N. Y. Independent.

On Seeing a Seagull far Inland.

EUGENE CLAY FERGUSON.

What dost thou here, lone wanderer from the sea,
On tireless wing, far from thy native shore?
In vain o'er bending wood or flowery lea
Thou seekest here to hear old ocean roar.

These billowy woods that sigh and moan and sing,
And wave their banners green o'er verdant lands,
To thee, lone bird, no recollections bring
Of wild waves creeping over whitening sands.

Hast thou grown weary of old ocean's sound,
Grown weary with the ebbing and the flowing tide,
Grown weary with the billows' mad'ning bound,
Grown weary with the waves that softly glide?

But thou—thou hast no joy in opening flowers;
O'er alien lands thou soarest, far from home;
Thou carest not for shady, greenwood bowers—
'Tis vain thy longings prompted thee to roam.

I, too, have oft grown weary with my lot;
Allurements bright have tempted me to roam;
But when in alien lands that one loved spot
Grown dearer far—it is my native home.

Go seek thy home again upon the shore;
'Tis not for thee the murmuring forests sing;
Go join thy mates at play again once more,
And 'mid thy fellows scream on wave-dipped wing.

—Galveston News.

Epitaph to Gen. U. S, Grant.

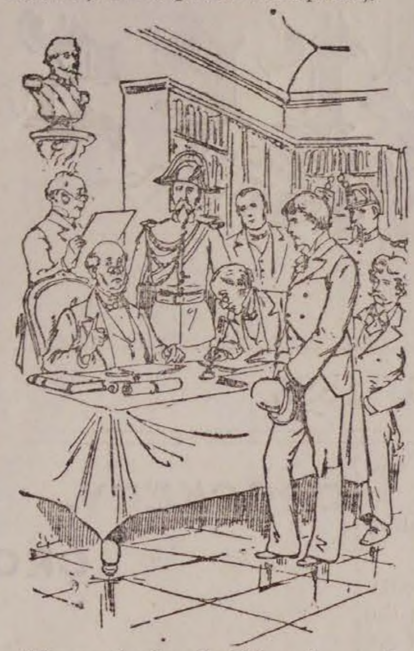
Thou art gone to the Tomb, beloved one so dear;
By kindred, and countrymen, everywhere,
May thy National loss be to all sanctified,
In spiritual achievement, our will to decide;
May the King of the universe smile on our land,
On our rulers, and citizens on every hand,
Defending and guiding his subjects aright,
In the path to the City of Glory and Light.

W. B. COTTRELL,
Summit St., Salem.

For the first time in its history, Cincinnati will use the check list at the next election. The new registry law passed by the last legislature has received the indorsement of the Democratic clubs of the city.

A PARIS MYSTERY.

tween you on the subject? (Here the witness hesitated, and the question was repeated).



"I remember he called his uncle a cur."

A. Raoul was excited; I attached no significance to what he said.

Q. That is not the point; you evade my question. Did Girard use the language of hatred with reference to his uncle, or did he not?

A. (Given after considerable hesitation) I believe he did say something to the effect that he hated his uncle, as he had good reason to do.

Q. You are here to give evidence, not to comment. Attend to this question: At what hour did you leave the Cafe de la Source?

A. At a little before ten o'clock.

Q. Did Girard accompany you home?

A. No, he left me at the top of the Rue Dauphine, saying that he meant to pay a visit.

Q. At what hour was that?

A. At 10 o'clock precisely; the bells of St. Sulpice sounded the hour as we parted.

Q. You see this dagger; have you seen it before?

A. I cannot say.

Q. How! You cannot say? Did you never see this dagger in the hands of Raoul Girard?

A. I have seen in his possession a weapon which was very like it.

Q. Exactly like it?

A. Yes.

Q. That dagger which you saw in Girard's possession had a sheath; can you describe it?

A. It was shaped, I remember, like a closed fan.

Q. Was this the sheath? (Here the witness was shown the sheath of the weapon belonging to M. de St. Florent.)

A. It might have been; it resembles it.

Q. When was it that you saw the dagger in Girard's possession?

A. (After a pause.) I think about two years ago. I saw it one day lying on Raoul's table; I understood that it had been given him by his uncle to sell. I took it up to examine it, and said that it seemed valuable and would bring something.

Q. You saw it only that once?

A. Yes; I was not living with Girard at the time; I understood that he was going to sell it.

Q. But you do not know for a fact that he did so?

A. No.

Q. On the table in your room, No. 28 Rue Dauphine, there was found by the detective officer Py, on the night of Wednesday, the 26th, a newspaper, so folded that a paragraph relating to the crime lay uppermost, and a little heap of money; it was you placed those things there?

A. Yes.

Q. With what purpose?

A. To warn my friend that he was in danger.

Q. Then you suspected him?

A. I did so at that time. It was an unworthy suspicion, of which I am ashamed. I am now as certain of his innocence as of my own.

Gabrielle Dumaine, glove cleaner, Rue de l'Odeon, gave evidence: That she knew the accused Raoul Girard intimately; that she was his betrothed. Interrogated as to whether she had ever heard Girard speak of his uncle, declared that she had, but very rarely. Thought she had been told Meissner's name, but knew nothing about him, except that he was rich and miserly, and had behaved very badly to her friend. Did Girard ever use the language of enmity in referring to his uncle? No; he spoke bitterly about the usage he had received, and that was all. But his language left the impression that he disliked his uncle? Oh, certainly; how could it be otherwise? Meissner had treated him shamefully.

Q. Did you ever see in Girard's possession a long dagger, with curious writing on the blade, and an oddly-shaped sheath?

A. Yes, I once saw such a dagger; Raoul visited us one day in passing, and showed it to us; it had been given him, he said, by his uncle a week or two before, and he was then on his way to sell it if he could find a purchaser.

Q. Was that long ago?

A. Yes; more than a year; perhaps two years; I cannot say precisely.

Q. Would you recognize this weapon and its sheath if they were shown you?

A. I think so.

Q. Is that the dagger? (Shown the poniard used in the murder).

A. It is very like it; I remember the chrysanthemum flower on the blade.

Q. Is that the sheath? (Shown the sheath from M. de St. Florent's collection).

A. I believe it is, or one exactly like it.

Q. What was the last occasion on which you saw the accused?

A. On Monday night, a little after ten, he tapped at the door of our shop in the Rue de l'Odeon, and I went to the door and spoke to him.

Q. How long did your conversation last?

A. Only a few minutes.

Q. Did he refer to his uncle at all during your interview?

A. Oh, no; we talked almost exclusively about the comedy which Raoul had sent to the Odeon.

Q. Did you observe anything peculiar in Girard's manner?

A. No, I did not; to me Raoul has always been the same.

Q. You do not think your conversation lasted more than five minutes?

A. I am certain it lasted no longer than that. Raoul would not come in, and it was snowing at the time.

Abel Lenormand, journalist, stated that he had been a colleague of Girard's on the staff of Le Petit Monde, a weekly journal now extinct. Remembered calling on Girard in company with his friend Tisson, and seeing on his (Girard's) table a dagger of Oriental workmanship, in a sheath made to imitate a closed fan. Had taken up the dagger and handled it, admiring the fine temper of the steel. The weapon now shown him (that found beside the dead body of Meissner), if not the one he had seen in Girard's possession, was at all events its very fac-simile. Could not say exactly when he had paid this visit to Girard, but thought it must have been at least a couple of years ago.

Auguste Tisson, journalist, confirmed the evidence of the last witness.

Pierre Roussel, servant at the house No. 28 Rue Dauphine, bore witness to the fact that Girard did not return home until after two o'clock on Tuesday morning, and that his coat sleeve was ripped up from the cuff to the shoulder.

Isaac Cohen, money-lender, stated that he had known the deceased Joseph Meissner for over thirty years. Meissner was a man of eccentric and miserly habits. Remembered visiting him on one occasion, and passing on the stairs the accused, Raoul Girard, who had just left his uncle. On that occasion Meissner had complained bitterly to him (Cohen) of his nephew's conduct, saying that the young man was a scapegrace, a rascal; that he had been extorting money, as usual; and that he (Meissner) would be ruined if this went on. Had heard Meissner say more than once that he expected to be murdered some day, for the sake of the treasure he kept in his room. Had advised Meissner to send the treasure to his banker's, but he had not done so; could not bear it to be out of his sight. When Meissner spoke of expecting to be murdered, it was without reference to any individual.

The Police Sergeant Garnier gave evidence, that, on the night of Monday, the 24th, he had been stationed in the Rue de Biche. Remembered that, while standing at the street corner, a man had passed him, walking very fast, in the direction of the Passage de Mazarin. The man was of middling height, and slimly made, wore a low-crowned hat, and had no greatcoat. Confronted with the accused, declared that Girard's figure resembled that of the man whom he had seen. This was after ten o'clock; thought it must have been nearly half-past ten, but had an impression that the half hour had not yet struck. It might have been only a quarter past; it might have been twenty minutes; could not say with certainty, but thought it was near the half hour.

Superintendent Ledru stated that he had made a careful examination of the court and exterior of this house, No. 13 Passage de Mazarin. Round three sides of the court was a trellis of stout wood, reaching to a distance of about two feet from the sills of the windows on the second floor. Beneath the window of Meissner's bed closet the trellis bore marks as if some one had recently climbed up by it; the paint was scraped off, and here and there a spar had been cracked or broken. There were marks also on the sill of the cabinet window and footprints on the floor, showing that in this way an entrance had been gained to Meissner's room.

Q. In searching Meissner's room on the night of the murder, in what position did you find the key of the room door?

A. The key was found hanging on a nail near the door.

Q. In order to reach the cabinet window by means of the trellis work, would any special degree of agility be required?

A. In my opinion, a very special degree of agility would be required. I should consider it a feat of gymnastics.

The janitor Mouton, recalled and re-examined, stated that there was no duplicate key to any room in the house. It was Meissner's custom, when in his room, to hang his door-key on the nail where it had been found by the police. Had frequently seen it hanging there.

The Officer of Police Lambert stated that, according to instructions, he had walked at his fastest pace from the head of the Rue Dauphine to Mme. Dumaine's shop in the Rue de l'Odeon; thence by the Rue de Conde and the Rue de Biche to the Passage de Mazarin. The time taken to cover this distance had been 13 minutes 20 seconds.

NOTE BY THE JUDGE OF INSTRUCTION.

"1. As to the time when the murder was committed.—The medical testimony goes to prove that the dagger wound from which Meissner died was inflicted at a late hour on Monday night. The occupant of the room next to Meissner's, Jules Pernet, the copyist, heard a dull, heavy noise, such as would be caused by the fall of the murdered man; this, he believes, was after 10 o'clock. The candle taken upstairs by Meissner at 9 o'clock would, says the janitor Mouton, burn for about an hour and a half. Meissner's body was found lying in front of his writing table; on the table were sheets of paper scrawled over with unfinished calculations; he had been working at these when suddenly stabbed from behind; his pen was found on the floor. The candle, therefore, was still burning when the fatal blow was struck; consequently, if Mouton's statement be accepted, the murder was committed before 10:30.

"2. As to Girard's connection with the affair.—Here we have an uncle notoriously rich, a nephew notoriously poor. We have ample evidence of the existence of bad feeling between this uncle and nephew. Mouton is witness of a violent scene between them; Cohen hears Meissner call his nephew a rascal; Marsal—a most reluctant witness—testifies that on the night of the murder Girard stigmatized his uncle as a 'cur,' and declared that he hated him.

"Christmas eve, the evening of the murder, is spent by Girard and Marsal at the Cafe de la Source. They leave the cafe together at a little before 10; at the head of the Rue Dauphine, where they reside, Girard quits his friend, saying that he has to pay a visit; 10 o'clock is striking as they separate. Girard goes straight to the Rue de l'Odeon, to the residence of his betrothed, Mlle. Dumaine; he remains with her, speaking on indifferent subjects, for a very short time, not more than five minutes. After Girard leaves Mlle. Dumaine there is no direct evidence as to his movements.

"It is now a little after 10 o'clock—about ten or fifteen minutes. About this time Police Sergeant Garnier, at his post in the Rue de Biche, is passed by a man 'of middling height and slimly made,' who hastens in the direction of the Passage de Mazarin. The child Sophie Mouton sees the figure of a 'tallish, slenderly-built' man glide swiftly past her window toward the court of the house; it is, she thinks, at some time either a little before or a little after 10 that she sees this man pass. It is true that the evidence both of Garnier and of the child Sophie Mouton is indefinite with regard to time; but the evidence of the one supports that of the other. The Officer of Police Lambert has walked at a swift pace over the route followed by Girard on Monday night; it took him about thirteen minutes. So far as the question of time is concerned, the man who passed Garnier in the Rue de Biche and the man who was seen by Sophie Mouton at No. 13 Passage de Mazarin may therefore have been one and the same person; and that person may have been Raoul Girard, the accused.

"Beside the dead body of Meissner are found an ivory wrist-stud bearing an initial G., and a Japanese dagger with which the crime was committed. Girard, when arrested, is found to have at one wrist a button matching that found in Meissner's room; the button at the other wrist is gone. The Japanese dagger is a rarity; only one other like it has been found in Paris, in the famous private collection of M. de St. Florent. At one time, as has been proved by several witnesses, Girard had in his possession a dagger exactly resembling that found beside the corpse of Meissner. This weapon of Girard's was inclosed in a peculiar fan-shaped sheath, which has its counterpart in the sheath belonging to the dagger of M. de St. Florent. There is no proof that Girard ever parted with the dagger seen in his possession.

"In what way does Girard explain these circumstances, which combine so terribly to prove his guilt? The story which he tells is perfectly connected. If his explanation breaks down, it will be from no contradiction in it, but simply from its essential incredibility.

"Girard declares that, swayed by a sudden impulse, he went on Monday night to demand money from his uncle; that he entered the room by the window, knowing that the janitor had orders not to admit him; and, having entered, found the corpse of Meissner lying in a pool of blood.

"If the story be set aside, there is but one other explanation of the circumstances. Girard and his uncle have quarreled, and quarreled violently; for a year they have not met. Spurred on by the want of money at the very time when the need of it was most pressing, Girard resolves on visiting his miserly relative, to demand a gift or a loan; he himself says, the repayment of a debt. He takes with him his dagger; if entreaties are unavailing, he will threaten; he will use force.

"He enters the cabinet by the window, and Meissner's room through the cabinet. The marks on the trellis-work on the window-sill—the fact that the door of Meissner's room is found locked, and the key hanging in its accustomed place—bear out Girard's own statement.

"Opening the door of the cabinet, he sees his uncle seated before the writing-table. What follows can only be conjectured. It may be that the man who meant merely to threaten was suddenly tempted to kill, and smote his victim on the back without a word being spoken. Or hot words may have passed between uncle and nephew; there may have been a refusal to lend money; taunts and insults; the young man, enraged and excited, may have been roused to a burst of homicidal fury, and in this state have dealt the fatal blow. The former of these hypotheses is borne out by the medical and police theory that the deceased was struck suddenly from behind, and so fell dead or dying from his chair.

"In ascending the trellis-work Girard has rent his coatsleeve and loosened the stud at his wrist; the stud drops on the floor as he raises his arm, and there remains. The dagger he lets fall beside the body of his victim, when it has served its purpose.

"When the room of the murdered man is entered by the police all is found in confusion. Drawers are pulled out, cabinets opened or broken into, as if some one had rummaged through them in haste; yet portable articles of great intrinsic value, such as jewels and money, have been left behind. This is the obscure point of the case; but the difficulty here tells as forcibly against any theory of the crime as against the theory that Girard is the guilty person. There is one explanation that may or may not be deemed satisfactory. Mental excitement, accentuated by the horror that follows crime, will account for the most eccentric behavior. The murderer, completely unnerved, almost out of his senses for the time, may have gone on overturning everything and yet taking nothing; or, if he took up the spoils of blood to remove them, the thought that they might lead to detection may have made him lay them down again. There is sufficient evidence as to the tumult of mind in which Girard passed the day subsequent to the murder.

"This is my theory of the crime, based on the evidence taken at the preliminary inquiry.

"(Signed) ROGUET,
"Judge of Instruction."

CHAPTER IX.

The preliminary inquiry had ended; Raoul was in the house of detention, waiting his trial before the court of assizes; and, so far as I could learn, there were only two persons in all Paris who did not believe him guilty—Gabrielle Dumaine and myself.

I cannot tell you how grateful I felt to Mademoiselle Dumaine for having restored my confidence in Raoul before my evidence was given at the inquiry. But for that I should have been forced by the judge of instruction to become the accuser of my friend. No sooner had I seen in the journals the account given by Raoul himself of his connection with the affair than I recognized its perfect truthfulness. I congratulated myself that I had not waited for this explanation before declaring my belief in his innocence. Had I done so I felt that I could never have looked him in the face again.

After giving my evidence at the inquiry—an experience I should not like again to pass through—I went back to our old attic room in the Rue Dauphine. I wanted to be where everything would remind me of Raoul. I fancied that there, better than elsewhere, I would be able to do the thing that I had set my whole heart on doing. I avoided the cafes of the Latin Quarter in those days; they were full of talk about the crime of Christmas day, such talk as no friend of Raoul's would like to hear. Neither did I read the journals; they all of them assumed Raoul's guilt as a thing of course. But before long the excitement caused by the murder of Meissner died away; a new ministry, a new drama and a new domestic crime, occuring one after the other, threw the affair of the Passage de Mazarin into the shade. Popular interest in the case was, however, revived for a time by an announcement made in The Theatre. This journal stated that the administration of the Odeon had decided on bringing out at an early date Girard's comedy, called "Gold of Toulouse." The administration, it was said, saw no reason for suppressing a play of unusual merit because the writer of it chanced to be lying in prison on a charge of murder. Indeed, this latter fact, as one of the theatrical journals pointed out, would be certain to make the piece at least a pecuniary success.

Some days after the close of the inquiry I obtained permission to visit Raoul at the house of detention. The interview was much less painful to either of us than I had feared. Raoul would not let me speak of the wrong I had done him—would not let me beg his forgiveness.

"What you thought," he said, "who could have helped thinking it? It was I who was to blame; I should have told you the truth at once; that I did not is the best proof to me that I must have been half-crazed at the time. No, no! It is not you who should speak of forgiveness; it is I. And you did not wait till you had heard my story—it needed only a word from Gabrielle to make you believe in me again!"

"Ah, if you had but heard her speak!"

"I seem to hear her. You will go to her, Paul. You will tell her that you have seen me, that I am well and brave—no longer the miserable coward that terrible sight made of me? You will tell her that?"

Of course I promised. Raoul had said no more than the truth. He was himself again; calm, courageous, looking his danger in the face with a firmness that inspired me.

"It is a dreadful fatality," he said. "If you had seen how the judge wove his net of evidence about me, you might almost despair of ever unweaving it. Yet I believe it will be done."

"It shall be done," I answered; "you used to say I never thought, Raoul; but, believe me, of late I have been thinking for you."

"My friend!" he said, and pressed my hand.

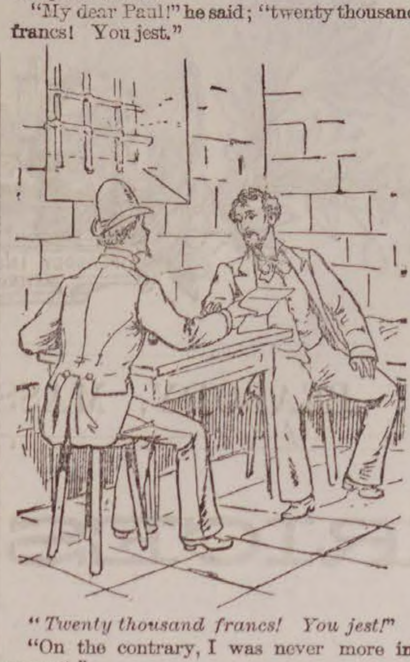
"You will allow me to retain our friend Sapinaud for your defense? I know no better man."

"By all means."

"And you will put your name to this document, which I have brought ready for signing?"

Raoul read the document: "I, Raoul Girard, hereby authorize Paul Marsal to offer a reward of twenty thousand francs to such person as may discover the real murderer of Joseph Meissner."

"My dear Paul!" he said; "twenty thousand francs! You jest."



"Twenty thousand francs! You jest!"

"On the contrary, I was never more in earnest."

"But where is the money to come from? From you?"

"It is you who are jesting now, Raoul. Leave it to me, like a good fellow. Sign your name, and take my word for it that I am asking you to do nothing wrong."

On this Raoul signed without further hesitation.

"I put myself in your hands," he said. "Nothing can make me more your friend than I am; but if you get me out of this frightful place—if you restore me, a free man once more, to Gabrielle—ah, Paul, what shall I not——"

His voice failed him; a hand-clasp said what each of us had to say. This was the one moment during our whole interview that Raoul showed the slightest want of composure. He recovered himself immediately.

Soon after I had to go, the duration of my visit being limited by the prison rules.

"Be patient, my friend," I said to him; "what has to be done will take time, and the time will seem doubly long to you. I do not say be brave, for you are brave; but I say, be patient."

"I will be patient," he said. Looking back as the warder closed the door, I saw his eyes fixed wistfully upon me; the bolts fell, and I had left my friend in his prison.

After leaving the house of detention I went straight to the Palace of Justice, to see the advocate Sapinaud and retain him for Raoul's defense. Sapinaud was an intimate friend of mine, and knew Raoul well also. He was a fiery Meriodinal, an eloquent pleader, and had a rapidly-growing reputation at the bar. Sapinaud took up the case with enthusiasm. He promised to see Raoul on the morrow, and in three days' time to make himself master of the evidence. I asked him to send me his copy of the judge's notes, which he engaged to do.

The next few days passed in comparative inaction. I went to see Gabrielle Dumaine. I found her very calm, like Raoul; but one could easily see how severely she had been tried by that cruel ordeal of the inquiry. All her vivacity was gone; her cheeks were pale, her movements languid; her dark eyes had ceased to shine. It would have wrung the heart of any man to see her with her mother. Mme. Dumaine had evidently no hope of Raoul's innocence ever being established; I believe that, in her heart, she even doubted whether he were innocent. Yet, for Gabrielle's sake, she had to feign the most perfect confidence that all would go well.

"And you will save him, M. Marsal?" Gabrielle said to me with trembling eagerness as I took my leave. "Remember, I trust in you! Leave me a word of comfort—tell me that I may hope!"

"Mademoiselle," I said, "assuredly you may hope. I honestly believe that the right clew will yet be found—that Raoul's innocence will be put beyond all doubt." And in this I said no more than I really thought.

A few days after my interview with Sapinaud, I received from him a copy of the evidence taken at the inquiry. At once I shut myself up in my room, and set myself to study it as I had never studied anything before.

I shall not go into the details of all my reading, weighing, comparing and theorizing; for three days I did not leave the room, and, but for Pierre, would almost have forgotten to take food. The knowledge that Raoul's life might be hanging on the result of my efforts seemed to lend me new powers of mind—or, at any rate, powers that I had never before suspected myself of possessing. It was, as it were, a continuation of that duel between myself and the judge of instruction, of which the first passes had been exchanged at the inquiry. I seemed to enter into the personality of each witness; to seize at a glance the significant point of each statement. I found a fact to explain every difficulty, a theory for every contradiction; my brain was for the time abnormally clear and active; it was a state of mental tension which, had it lasted, might have landed me either in Bicêtre or the president's chair of the court of cassation.

My study of the evidence led me to this conclusion: that the judge of instruction, starting from the assumption of Girard's guilt, had, in several instances, unconsciously warped important facts to make them fit in with his own theory; but that one starting from the contrary assumption, that of Girard's innocence, might take the same facts and base upon them a theory of the crime reversing that of the judge. Such negative evidence, however, would not suffice to clear Girard of complicity in the crime. Here and there a weak link might be found in the chain of the testimony against him; but to point out these was not enough. It was necessary that the adverse circumstantial evidence against him should be overborne by circumstantial evidence equally strong in his favor. In a word, since Girard was not the assassin of Joseph Meissner, that assassin must be found.

My first proceeding was to go to the house No. 13 Passage de Mazarin, and question the child Sophie Mouton, daughter of the janitor. From her I found out even more than I had expected. Then I went to a certain wine shop in the Rue St. Andre, which, as Sophie informed me, the janitor Mouton frequented more than was for his good. There I found him, drinking with several of his friends, and recounting, no doubt for the hundredth time, his share in the events of Meissner's murder. I had no difficulty in beginning a conversation with the janitor, and soon found out from him, over a glass of milk punch, all that I wanted to know.

"But it is singular," said Mouton, "these questions that Monsieur has asked; they are precisely the same questions asked by the little man with the sharp nose and the gray coat!"

"What man do you mean?"

"By Jove! that I cannot tell you. But he was here two nights ago, sitting in the very same place where Monsieur is sitting now, and he asked the very same questions as Monsieur! He also accompanied me home, and took away the key of M. Meissner's door. He produced on me the effect of an agent of police. Is it not so, M. Bastoul?"

M. Bastoul said that it was so. I left the wine-shop, wondering who the little man

To be continued.

MIDSUMMER BOOK SALE

—AT—

ALMY, BIGELOW & WASHBURN'S.

A SPECIAL SALE OF BOOKS

FOR TWO WEEKS ONLY.

Literally without regard to cost, the collection embracing over thirty thousand volumes of the best Fiction, Poetry, History, Biography, Travels, Wit, and Humor, etc., etc., every volume of which has been carefully selected. Here is a partial list of Titles and Prices. Look it through, and decide candidly if you ever saw better Books advertised for anything like such prices. When, for instance,, have you ever before heard of a complete set of Dickens, Thackeray or Black selling at $5.98 a set?

	Publishers Price.	Our Price.
George Eliot's Works, 8 vols., cloth, library edition	$12.00	$4.98
George Eliot's Works, 8 vols., cloth, fine edition	12.00	5.98
George Eliot's Works, 8 vols., half calf	24,00	10 24
Guizot's History of France, 8 vols., fine edition. half calf	32.00	21.98
Irving's Works, 10 vols., cloth,	15.00	6.98
Irving's Works, 10 vols,, half calf	30.00	12.80
Irving's Works, 3 vols., cloth	7.50	3,98
Cooper's Sea Tales, 5 vols., cloth	7.50	4.28
Cooper's Leather Stocking Tales, 5 vols., cloth	7.50	4.28
Bulwer's Novels, 13 vols.,	19.50	8.23
Dickens' Works, 15 vols., cloth	22.50	6 98
Dickens' Works, 15 vols., cloth, gilt-back edition	22.50	9.75
Dickens' Works, 15 vols., half morocco	45.00	17 70
Dickens' Works, 15 vols., half calf	49.00	19.20
Thackeray's Works 11 v., half calf	33.00	14.08
Thackeray's Works, 11 vols,, red cloth and gilt top edition	16.50	8.88
Green's History of the English People, 4 vols.	6.00	2 98
Macaulay's History of England, 5 vols., sheep	7.50	4.98
Macaulay's History of England, 5 v.	5.00	1.48
Macaulay's History of England, 5 vols., red cloth, gilt top	6.75	4.50
Macaulay's Essays, 3 vols., cloth	3.75	1.99
Macaulay's Life and Letters	1.25	.58
McCarthy's History of Our Own Times, 2 vols.	3.00	1.58
McCarthy's History of Our Own Times, 4 vols., red cloth, gilt top	6.00	3 78
Knight's History of England, 4 v.	6.00	3 98
Shakespeare's Complete Works, 8v.	7.50	3.78
Smile's Self-Help Series. 4 vols.	6.00	3.12
Smile's Biographical Series, 3 vols.	4.50	2.18
Hume's History of England, 6 vols.	7.50	3.18
Elsie Books, 10 vols.	12.50	8.28
Gibbon's Roman Empire, 5 vols.	5.00	2.98
Gen. Lew Wallace's "Ben-Hur—A Tale of Christ."	1.50	1.38
Poems of Passion	1.50	.78
Bulwer, 25 vols., half calf	75.00	37.00
Alligator-bound Poets	4 00	1.48
French Revolution, Carlyle's, 2 vols.	3.00	1.58
E. P. Roe's Works	1.50	1.18
George Eliot's Essays	1.25	.58
Revised Edition of the Bible	1.00	.78
America Illustrated,	3.00	.98
Swift's Works, 6 vols.	7.50	4.98
Eliot, 8 vols., full alligator	24.00	14.00
Guizot's History of France, 8 vols.	20.00	13.98
"Zoroaster," F. M. Crawford's latest work	1.50	1.38
Hugo's "Les Miserables,"	1.50	1.08
Dicken's Birthday	1.50	.88
"Boots and Saddles," by Mrs. Gen. Custer	1.50	1.38
History of the United States, Frost's	1.25	.78
Poets, bound in sheep, large vols.	3.00	1.88

	Publishers Price.	Our Price.
Irving's Works, 10 vols., half morocco	30.00	11.80
Dicken's Novels, 15 vols., full alligator	45.00	24.75
Dicken's Novels, 15 vols., half alligator	37.50	18.75
Thackeray's Novels, 11 vols., half alligator	27.50	13.75
Eliot's Novels, 8 vols., half alligator	20.00	10.28
An Echo of Passion, by G. P. Lathrop	1.25	.78
Afghanistan and the Anglo-Russian Dispute, illustrated and with maps	1.50	.78
English Classics—all in a Garden Fair, Belinda, Frankestein, Outre, Mer, Hyperion, East Lynne, Tom Brown's School Days, The Mysterious Island, Pilgrim's Progress, Imitation of Christ, and fifty others	1.00	.32
Red Line Edition of Standard Poets, Longfellow, Bryant, Whittier, Burns, Byron, Browning, Cowper, Coleridge, Dante, Eliot, Goethe, Heaven in Song, Hemans, Ingelow, Lucille, Milton, Poe, Pope, Proctor, Religious Poems, Schiller, Scott, Shakespeare, and sixty others	1.50	.59
Summer Reading—A magnificent line of Illustrated Books of Fiction, embracing all the works of the best modern authors, elegantly bound in iiluminsted paper covers		.19
A selected line of the Best Works of Fiction, bound in colored cloth, with gilt titles, and embracing Her Mother's Sin and Beyond Pardon, by Bertha M. Clay; Belinda, by Rhoda Broughton; Other People's Money, by Emile Gaborion, and hosts of others	1.25	.58
A beautiful line of 12mo. Books, sumptuously bound, comprising such works as Life of Washington, Ivanhoe, Oliver Twist, Adam Bede, and fifty others	1.25	.48
Wood's Natural History, 300 Engravings	1.25	.78
Josephus' History of the Jews, bound in sheep	3.00	1.88
Gilbert edition Shakespeare, fully illustrated	5.00	2.28
Right and Wrong Uses of the Bible	1 25	.48
Popular American Dictionary	1.00	.48
Favorite Dictionary, 32,000 words	.35	.12
Spencer's Education	1.50	.58
Elmo's Model Speaker for Children	1.25	.48
Hoyle's Games	1.50	.98
Miss Parloa's Cook Book	1.25	.98
Miss Neil's Everyday Cook Book	1.25	.48
Song and Instrumental Folios	.50	.32

An elegant line of Family Bibles.
Hundreds of Humorous Books.
An endless variety of Children's Books to suit all ages.

ALMY, BIGELOW & WASHBURN.

194 Essex Street, Salem.

"CANDEE" ARCTICS

—WITH—

DOUBLE THICK BALL.

Two Years TEST.

"CANDEE" Double Wear on the Sole.

Double Thick Ball.

The "CANDEE" RUBBER Co. give a better Rubber than can be obtained elsewhere for the same money, with their great improvement of the DOUBLE THICK BALL. The extra thickness of rubber right under the tread, gives DOUBLE WEAR.

Ask to see the "CANDEE" Double Thick Ball Rubbers in Boots, Arctics, Overshoes, Alaskas, &c.

A Common Sense Idea.

"CANDEE" Double Thick Ball.

SAGE & CO.,
Wholesale Agents Candee Co.,
BOSTON, MASS.

LADIES!

FOR MILLINERY,
Go to Browne's.
FOR SUNSHADES,
Go to Browne's.
FOR KID GLOVES,
Go to Browne's.
FOR SILK GLOVES,
Go to Browne's.
FOR INFANTS' CAPS,
Go to Browne's.
FOR COLLARS,
Go to Browne's.

153 and 155 Essex St., Salem.

FOR LACE GOODS,
Go to Browne's.
FOR CORSETS.
Go to Browne's.
FOR RUCHINGS,
Go to Browne's.
FOR TOILET ARTICLES,
Go to Browne's.
FOR PERFUMERY,
Go to Browne's.
FOR HAIR GOODS,
Go to Browne's.

For all the Novelties of the season be sure and go to

Mrs. J. H. Browne

153 & 155 ESSEX ST.,

SALEM.

ESTIMATES CHEERFULLY GIVEN ON ALL KINDS OF PRINTING

HALLOWELL & SMILEY,

Canned Corn Beef
AND TONGUE

For Picnics and Family Use.

MEATS AND PROVISIONS,

will always be found the best in the market at the LOWEST CASH PRICES.

Flour, Teas, Groceries, etc., at bottom prices.

Hallowell & Smiley

16 CALLER ST., PEABODY.

SMOKERS

Having secured a large lot of the very Best Tobacco in the market we feel justified in saying the

MON AMI AND PLANTER

are the Best Havana Cigars in the town of Peabody. We have also the Electric, Harvard and El Sol de Cuba Brands.

FOR A 5C. SMOKE

Try the Brunette, it is a good one. The Heart's Ease, Sociable, Purity, Gun Club and E. H. S., are fine goods.

Collins' Cigar Store.
4 Allen's Block.

TOBACCO WHOLESALE & RETAIL.

NOW IS THE TIME

TO GET

ASTERS,

And all the strong and hardy plants,

WARD'S GREENHOUSES,

Cor. Endicott and Warren Sts., Peabody.

TIP END OF YANKEE LAND.

A very interesting story about "Cape Cod folks" issued by the Old Colony Railroad, is now running through a second edition, the book contains a number of valuable maps and is full of information about the hotels and boarding houses of South Eastern Massachusetts, reached by the Old Colony system. Copies sent free on application to

T. R. KENDRICK,
General Manager, Boston.

GLASSWARE.

We have a large variety of Fancy Cut Glassware which we can r at Great Bargains. Mason's Improved Preserve Jar we are now offering very low. Call and get our prices.

BARGAIN GOODS.

We have Three counters of the above named, and we can supply you with almost anything in the line of Tinware, Woodenware and General House Supplies. Call and see our stock of 5 and 10 cent Goods.

JUST RECEIVED.

A large lot of the following goods: Pails, Tubs, Rakes, etc., etc., at a low figure.

CLOSING OUT OUR STOCK

Of Hammocks, Freezers, Screen Window and Door Frames.

BIG BARGAINS

In Pocket Knives. We carry a fine stock of Jonathan Crooke's, Ulster, Union, American and many other makes.

SAMUEL TRASK,

WALNUT STREET, PEABODY.

Our Competitors Keep Their Backs Up.

Because Our Prices are so Low,

Our Stock is so Large and

Our Patronage So Great.

WE ARE NOT TO BLAME

If an undeviating adherence to Low Prices, Fine Goods and Polite Treatment have won for us the largest trade of any retail boot and shoe store in Essex county, we shall continue to offer the same genuine inducements that have won for us the victory.

TRY THE MATCHLESS BOOT.

PRE-EMINENTLY THE BEST $2 BOOT IN THE MARKET.

Superb in style, elegant in fit and exquistte in design, they are marvels of grace and beauty and it is now within the means of every lady in Peabody to wear a most attractive boot at the

MARVELOUSLY LOW PRICE OF $2.

All horse cars from Peabody pass our Market street store and by transfer our West Lynn store, and any lady can, by trading with us, save on one pair of boots more than nough to pay for one of the most delightful rides imaginable.

WELLMAN OSBORN,

84 MARKET ST., 23 MARKET SQUARE,

LYNN, MASS.

SPECIAL SALE!

W. F. GOLDSMITH & CO.

For a few days we shall offer a bargain in

WINDOW SHADES,

Six feet long, 36 inches wide, with Tassel attached, on Good Spring Roller, all ready to put up, for

50 CENTS EACH.

W. F. GOLDSMITH & CO.,

123 Union Street, Lynn, Mass.

Having increased our facilities for the Sale of Brussels and Tapestries, by the addition of a room for that purpose, we are prepared to show one of the best assortments to be found in the city.

BRUSSELS,

TAPESTRIES,

EXTRA SUPERS,

and cheaper grades of

INGRAINS. OIL CLOTH ALL WIDTHS.

UPHOLSTERY GOODS, CORNICES POLES, &C &C.

Please call and Examine.

W. F. GOLDSMITH & CO.'S

CARPET ROOMS,

123 UNION STREET, LYNN, MASS.

---

100 Doses

One Dollar. Hood's Sarsaparilla is the only medicine of which this can be truly said; and it is an unanswerable argument as to the strength and positive economy of this great medicine. Hood's Sarsaparilla is made of roots, herbs, barks, etc., long and favorably known for their power in purifying the blood; and in combination, proportion, and process, Hood's Sarsaparilla is peculiar to itself.

"For economy and comfort we use Hood's Sarsaparilla." MRS. C. BREWSTER, Buffalo.

"Hood's Sarsaparilla takes less time and quantity to show its effect than any other preparation I ever heard of. I would not be without it in the house." MRS. C. A. M. HUBBARD, North Chili, N. Y. 100 Doses

One Dollar

Hood's Sarsaparilla cures scrofula, salt rheum, all humors, boils, pimples, general debility, dyspepsia, biliousness, sick headache, catarrh, rheumatism, kidney and liver complaints, and all affections caused by impure blood or low condition of the system. Try it.

"I was severely afflicted with scrofula, and for over a year had two running sores on my neck. I took five bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and consider myself entirely cured." C. E. LOVEJOY, Lowell, Mass.

"Hood's Sarsaparilla did me an immense amount of good. My whole system has been built up and strengthened, my digestion improved, and my head relieved of the bad feeling. I consider it the best medicine I have ever used, and should not know how to do without it." MARY L. PEELE, Salem, Mass.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Sold by all druggists. $1; six for $5. Made only by C. I. HOOD & CO., Lowell, Mass

100 Doses One Dollar.

Hygeia

FERRATED HYGIENIC WINE

Compound of Columbo, Gentian, Chinchona Augustura, Cascarilla, Cocoa, Iron and Sherry Wine.

PURIFIES THE BLOOD

Of all Poisonous Humor.

INVIGORATING,

STRENGTHENING

The whole body. Prepared by

C. H. & J. PRICE,

226 ESSEX ST.

SALEM.

BURDETT

Business

COLLEGE

167 TREMONT ST., BOSTON.

Day and Evening Sessions.

Book-keeping, Business Arithmetic, Penmanship, Commercial Law, Business Correspondence, etc.

For complete information call at the College Office, or send for Journal.

y 15—2m

Waumbek Hotel.

JEFFERSON, N. H.,

In full view of Mount Washington, Adams, Jefferson and Lafayette; drainage perfect; pleasant drives; good livery; no mosquitoes, malaria or hay fever; elevation 1550 feet.

For nformation or Circuiars inquire at this Office.

WAUMBEK HOTEL CO.

WANTED.

A few boarders on a farm in Sanbornton, N. H., healthy location, splendid view, piaz, a and shade trees, large rooms newly furnished, pleasant drives, horse to let if desired-terms reasonable. Address,

S. B. MILLS,
Gaza, N. H.

Or inquire at this office.

STATE NORMAL SCHOOL, SALEM, MASS,

Examination for candidates for admission, TUESDAY, September 1. Tuition and textbooks free. Pecuniary aid given to needy pupils. For further information, apply to DANIEL B. HAGAR, Principal

jy 29

Now is the time to rid the system of humors and all Blood Impurities. Ferrated Hygienic Wine is a most effective remedy. tf

---

Ebb and Flow.

When once again the year her promise keeps
And days and nights in sultry stillness steeps;
When seas of golden corn the valleys fill
And dusky roses are unfolding still
Sweet hidden fastnesses of fragrant fire,
Hushed into silence is the small birds' choir,
And withered leaflets, faded, sere and brown,
Come dropping lightly 'mid the roses down.

When winter's lusty breezes once more blow,
Tossing the barren branches to and fro;
When waters lie in silver fetters dight—
Bound by the white hands of the treacherous night,
From out bare boughs brave throstle 'gins to sing
The joyous lays of an approaching spring
And, smiling, Pan the sodden earth besets
With tender floods of sweetest violets.

So hopes and fears forever ebb and flow,
And so all times things sweet and bitter show.

—St. James' Gazette.

My Creed.

ALICE CAREY.

I hold that Christian peace abounds
Where charity is seen; that when
We climb to heaven, 'tis on the rounds
Of love to men.

I hold all else, named piety,
A selfish scheme, as vain pretence—
Where centre is not can there be Circumference?

That I moreover hold and dare
Affirm where'er my rhyme may go—
Whatever things be sweet or fair,
Love makes them so.

'Tis not the wide phylactery,
Nor stubborn taste, nor stated prayers,
That make us saints; we judge the tree
By what it bears.

And when a man may live apart
From worlds, on theologic trust,
I know the blood about his heart
Is dry as dust.

MUSICAL NOTES.

The notice of the death of Gen. H. K Oliver of Salem, brought to mind an interview which the writer of this had with him at a picnic near Salem, while he was Mayor of the city. After discussing various subjects, music was alluded to. I remarked there was one tune which was a particular favorite of mine. "And pray what is that?" inquired the general. I replied "Merton." "Ah," said he, "that is my favorite, too, and I will give you its history. When I was organist and leader of a quartette choir in Salem, the minister had selected for his third and closing hymn, the first line of which is "Ye golden lamps of heaven, farewell." I could find no tune to suit me. Having some music paper by me, while the minister was preaching, I composed and wrote out four copies and distributed them to my choir, which we sang to the closing hymn. The next day I met the minister, who inquired, "What tune was it that you sang at the close of the service yesterday? It was beautiful. I never heard it before." Nor I either, I replied. If you will not be offended I will tell you its author. I composed it while you was preaching. "Well," he replied, "by the appearance of the congregation and remarks I have heard to-day, I think the singing was more effective than the preaching.—Haverhill Bulletin.

Miss Annie L. Orr, who so ably manages the sheet music department at Green's music rooms, Union street, will rusticate for two weeks with friends in the New Hampshire mountains.—Lynn Item.

The Musical Herald (Boston, $1 a year or 10 cents a month) for August has for music, "A Swiss Love Song," by F. Mair, English version by Lulu Foster; "Lady Bird," by F. Cowen, arranged for male voices by O. B. Brown; "Oh, have mercy, Lord, upon me," English version by Laura M. Underwood; and "Dominie Deus," by Himmel.

It is stated that radical changes in the make up of the Boston Symphony Orchestra for next season's work will be made, and that Franz Kreisel has been secured as concert master, and three first prize pupils of the Vienna Conservatory as first violinists.

The following artists, somewhat known here, are to take part in the annual festival of the Worcester county Musical Asso'n, Sept. 22 to 25 inclusive:—Sopranos, Misses Elene Buffington Kehew and Helen M. Howland; contraltos, Misses Sopha C. Hall and Hattie J. Clapper; tenors, Messrs. Whitney, G. J. Parker, and C. F. Webber; bass, Messrs. M. W. Whitney, and D. M. Babcock. There has also been engaged Mme. Fursch-Madi, and Miss Emma Juch, Sopranos, and Miss Belle Cole, contralto of New York. Utrecht Jubilate, Bride of Dunkerron, Stronghold Sure, Stabat Mater, May Day, Zadock the Priest, Tower of Babel, Rustic Wedding, and Messiah, are among the works to be given.

Bennett & Moulton's Opera Company will appear at Mechanic Hall next week, commencing on Monday evening, in their peculiarly attractive repertoire. It is safe to predict that the Hall will be filled every night for one week at least.

From what has been whispered in musical circles it might be argued as not an unlikely thing that Mr. William J. Winch should make an essay in operatic singing before his return from that year in England to begin which he sailed last week. Mr. Carl Rosa has been much interested in his voice and his dramatic manner of singing his heavier music, and some arrangement by which he should make a debut under that excellent manager's auspices would seem to be by no means improbable.

A gold medal valued at $250, was presented to Patrick Sarsfield Gilmore, last week, by a number of his friends and admirers. The presentation, which was unexpected, was made while Mr. Gilmore was leading his famous band at Manhattan Beach. The medal which is borne in the beak of an eagle, bears on the obverse a harp crossed by a cornet and entwined with shamrocks, and on the reverse the following inscription: "Presented to Patrick Sarsfield Gilmore by Austin Corbin and the numerous admirers of his music produced at Manhattan Beach—1870—1885."

The Salem Cadet Band play at Lynnfield Hotel this evening.

The Herald's obituary poet is not as prolific as Lord Squire, the poet laureate of New York, but when he does write he produces very beautiful verses. His muse, chary of her favors, means that they shall be fully appreciated when they are bestowed. And they are. Note the charming sentiment of resignation, as well as the exquisite flavor of originality, about this little couplet, which accompanied a death notice in the Herald on Saturday:—

We cannot have all things to please us;
Little George has gone to Jesus.

We must submit, however, that this poemlet, beautiful as it is, does not reach the standard to which the same poet attained in the strain in which he celebrated the death of Little Patsy some time since, which has already become a part of the classics of American obituary literature. It ran as follows:—

Little Patsy's gone to heaven;
He's there the last of seven.

Shakespeare never put a longer story into two lines.—Boston Record.

Dr. S. W. Abbott, of the state board of health, recently sent out fifty orders for drugs to various apothecaries in neighboring cities and towns, for the purpose of seeking adulterations. The following order was sent to an apothecary located within five miles of Boston:

Deodorized tincture of opium	3	ounces.
White wine	8	"
Syrup	4	"
Precipitation of sulphur	1 1-2	"
Zinc	1	"
		U. S. P.

These are all common drugs, and should be found in every drug store. The letters "U. S. P." indicate that they should be up to the standard of the United States Pharmacopiæ. These drugs were returned by the inspector in five separate bottles, just as he had received them from the apothecary. They were analyzed by a chemist with the following result: The opium was found to be just one-tenth of its proper streagth; the white wine was not white wine at all, but strong alcohol: The syrup was a filthy mixture, consisting of three-quarters sugar and the rest dirt. The druggist said that he had no precipitate of sulphur, an article which is very common. For zinc the druggist sent two compounds of zinc, neither of which was what was ordered, and also word that a choice could be taken of the two. A prosecution is to follow in this case.—Herald.

JUST ONE.—Grandma—"Clara do you think your mother would approve of your sitting up so late?"

Clara—"Why, grandma, it was only half-past ten when Frank left last evening."

Grandma—"Clara, your grandma happened to be awake just as Frank was leaving, and didn't she hear him say, 'Now, Clara, just one,' and didn't the clock strike immediately?"

TOO READY WITH HIS REPLIES.—Madame (in search of country board)—You have plenty of fresh eggs?

Farmer—Millions of 'em, lady; millions of 'em.

Madame—And pure milk?

Farmer—Oceans of it, lady; oceans of it.

Madame—And mosquitoes?

Farmer—Billions of 'em, lady; billions of er—what did you say?

Madame—Mosquitoes.

Farmer—There ain't a skeeter on the farm.—New York Times.

"100 Doses One Dollar" is true only of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and it is an unanswerable argument as to strength and economy.

WHY THEY STUCK TO GRANT.—A letter from Augusta about Mr. Blaine's post-election political influence and the local Postmastership contains also a reminiscence that is new and interesting. A gentleman not long ago asked Don Cameron why it was that in the Chicago Convention in 1880 the Grant men did not throw their strength for some acceptable man when they found that there was no hope for their favorite.

"Well, I'll tell you why," said the Senator. He said that in the early summer of 1880 he and Mrs Cameron made a trip to the White Mountains. Returning to the hotel from a walk one day, the Senator was shown by his wife a telegram from Mrs. Blaine inviting them to visit Augusta.

"Ah, under the circumstances I think that will have to be postponed," was his remark.

"But I have replied that we will come," said Mrs. Cameron innocently, and to the Senator's consternation.

There was no help for it; but Cameron made a vow to himself that not a word concerning politics should escape his lips during the visit. The visit was a pleasant one, of course. Mr. Cameron was taken to drive with his host. The subject of the approaching Convention was broached, and Mr. Blaine asked Cameron who was his second choice. The Senator replied that he had none, that he should stand by Grant to the end. Then Blaine got in his work, and finally succeeded in obtaining the promise that if by any chance Grant should be dropped the Cameron influence should be for Blaine. Near the close of the Convention the Grant leaders got together to consult in regard to supporting another man. Then to the amazement of the others, Cameron was obliged to announce that in case of a break he must go for Blaine.

"Then let's stick by Grant to the last," said Conkling.

"With all my heart," responded Cameron; and they did.

"And that," said the narrator, as he finished, "is all a woman knows about politics."

Mrs. Lucy Stone suggests that a "city week" for farmers' wives would be a deserved and proper return for the "country week" of hospitality which these kind and often overworked women extend to the poor city children. She would have the organization which sends out the children invite and entertain the women who take them in. This would give to many of them the only vacation they have in a year, and in some cases the first visit they ever had to the city. The idea is creditable to Mrs. Stone's heart, and if it could be carried out with tact,—for there are no more self respecting women in the world than New England farmers' wives,—it would be appreciated. It is a pity that more of them cannot afford a "city week."—Boston Advertiser.

The management of the Namukeag Clothing Company announce a cut right and left in the prices of their goods. Fall and winter goods have just come in and spring and summer garments left over must be closed out to make room for the incoming stock. It is needless for us to say that the clothing of this place is noted for its excellent quality, as the crowds which visit there testify that nothing is lost by making a second visit, after the first purchase. In the sale, which is advertised on our first page, the regularly manufactured goods will be presented, and not a lot of shopworn garments, consequently, the purchaser is assured of getting an article which all the season has been held for a higher price but which must now be marked down to make room for new and seasonable goods coming in. It will repay all to give the establishment a trial. Courteous clerks are in attendance, and every effort is made on the part of the manager, Mr. Z. A. Gallup, to please the many patrons.

Pocket Guide to Salem, Mass., is a neat little volume published by Mr. Henry P. Ives, at the old corner bookstore, Essex and Washington streets, Salem. It gives a concise history of the old witch town, the many points of interest which may be visited and other valuable matter, all for 10 cents per copy. Mr. Ives is always glad to receive a call from his friends, and all will do well to visit the old corner bookstore.

The travel over the Boston, Revere Beach & Lynn railroad this year, is very gratifying to the directors, as it exceeds any year since the road was opened. The number of passengers carried in the month of July was 325,000; the number carried on the day of illumination was 26,000, the largest day's business in the history of the road. The half-hourly time table, put into operation after 6 P. M. by Supt. Hammond, was a great success.—Revere Journal.

Henry Schœnhals, foreman Henry Krug Packing Co., St. Joseph, Mo., uses Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil with his men for sprains, cuts, bruises, chapped hands, etc. It is the best.

ROYAL

FULL WEIGHT
ROYAL
BAKING POWDER

BAKING POWDER

Absolutely Pure.

This powder never varies. A marvel of purity, strength and wholesomeness. More economical than the ordinary kinds, and cannot be sold in competition with the multituds of low test, short weight, alum or phosphate powders. Sold only in cans. ROYAL BAKING POWDER Co., 106 Wall street, N. Y.
2dв

AGENT

—FOR—

CHICKERING & SONS' PIANOS.

Four fine New Pianos for sale very low for Cash.

A large stock of Organs and Musical Merchandise.

E. V. EMILIO'S,

MUSIC STORE,

287 ESSEX ST.,

SALEM.

B. F. STEVENS,

JEWELER & STATIONER.

Watches, Clocks and Jewelry cleaned and repaired.

Just received a fine stock of musical instruments. The best

Violin, Banjo and Guitar, Strings.
Accordions, Banjos,
Violins, Harmonicas,
Harps, Clappers, Bows,
Drums, Fifes, Flutes, Piccolos
etc., etc.

Agent for E. V. Emilio, also agent for Merriam & Co., wood and coal.
nov 19—tf PR

NOW FOR

Base Ball,

and the place to get

BASE BALLS

AND BATS

at the lowest prices is of

DANIEL J. SWEENEY

Next to the Old Hotel on the Square.

Here can also be found a good assortment of

Fruit,
Confectionery,
Cigars and
Tobacco.

Principee, Electric,
Serenader, Leader,

5 CENTS.

Harvard and Boat Club,

10 CENTS.

DANIEL J. SWEENEY.

N. W. EDSON & CO.

LARGE INVOICE OF

MASON'S

IMPROVED FRUIT JARS.

Three sizes—Pints, Quarts, one-half gallons.

N. W. Edson & Co.,

58 & 60 MAIN ST.,

PEABODY.

---

8 PER CENT. INVESTMENTS!

SCHOOL BONDS AND CAREFULLY SELECTED FARM MORTGAGES

in the "corn belt" of Dakota—the best and most fertile part of the Territory. Interest paid semi-annually at your home. Safest, best and most prompt paying investments obtainable. Satisfaction Guaranteed. Write us for copy School Bond Law and full particulats. First-class references THE CITIZENS' BANK, Grand View, Dakota aug 5—1m

LIBERALITY PAYS!

Any successful business man will you that Judicious Liberality in the treatment of customers has been one of his best paying investments. This has certainly been the experience of

NUGENT BROS.,

who have invariably found that their customers are more than glad to direct their friends to the

Bargain Shoe Store,

4 LOWELL STREET,

PEABODY SQUARE.

Before taking our semi-annual account of stock, we intend to reduce it one half, and in pursuance of our policy of liberalt ity, we continue to offer to the citizens of Peabody unparalleled Inducements to secure the greatest value for their money. Astounding Bargains may be obtained by simply calling on us and making known your wants.

We can Fit you, also fit your pocketbook. All we ask is the chance, and we will guarantee to give you satisfaction in every respect.

NUGENT BROS.

The Peabody Press.

JOHN P. FERNALD ALBERT VITTUM,

Editors and Publishers.

WE RECEIVED a call last week from W. J. Denver, Esq., the assistant general manager of the New England Telephone Co., for the the purpose of explaining to us the reason for the advance in price recently made to subscribers in this exchange. His statement in substance, is to the effect that while the Bell Telephone Company's stock may be of great value, the stock of the New England is selling at $34.00—the par value being $100—and that there have been no dividends since the latter company was organized. He claims that the company is $70,000 in debt—that the territory is in bad condition and that the Peabody exchange has never paid expenses. The Company therefore are obliged to raise the price. He also states the cost of maintainance of each telephone to be $40.00 and over, including a royalty to the Bell Telephone Co., of $14.00, which they must pay for each instrument.

We cheerfully give place to his statement. Yet they do not seem to us to explain matters fully. The business of the exchange here has been increasing constantly the past two years. If the Exchange is not paying expenses now, what must have been the state of affairs a year ago? The Company have been organized about three years—they have advanced the price several times, yet they appear to have just discovered that they are losing money.

The advance in price is small. Yet subscribers are asking themselves if the telephone has paid them, even at the old price. And this question is asked and decided in some cases in the negative, because of this latest move of the Company. If the raise had not been determined on, very likely these subscribers would have continued, and thought nothing about it. Again, the advantage of the telephone to a subscriber increases in proportion to the number of subscribers. The more people with whom he can communicate, the greater value the instrument is to him, so that when a telephone is ordered out by any subscriber, it is not the loss of that instrument alone which is felt by the Company, but it is liable to lead to the loss of others, because the decrease in subscribers lessens the value of the telephone to the others. It would be supposed that the company would endeavor to increase the advantages of the telephone by putting in more instruments even at a reduced rate, but that is not the way they proceed.

Of course they cannot afford to increase the number of subscribers at a loss to themselves. And we have no doubt the Managers of the Company are able to figure the cost of maintaining each instrument at over $40.00. Still they have made the price of rental to residences $40.00 under the new rates. So they lose by every instrument they put in to a dwelling house. And when we read in the social items of a leading Boston paper that the manager of the New England Telephone Co. has taken rooms for the winter at the Vendome, it is a little easier to see where some of the expense comes in.

One trouble with the subscribers here and elsewhere is that the established price of rental per year does not represent the actual cost. A subscriber told us yesterday that nearly all his telephoning was done at an extra charge. That is, he was obliged to telephone to Lynn and Boston and Danvers, more than here. All the advantage it was to him here was, that it was in his office, saving him the trouble of going to the Central office, and when he was in Lynn and Boston and desired to send a message, he could have the satisfaction of knowing that he was in direct communication with his clerks, and that they understood just what he wanted.

Our interview with Mr. Denver, we think, however, made clear to him a few of the difficulties which we mentioned last week— the extra charge for talking to the so-called exchanges in Danvers, Beverly and Marblehead. And we think some of these things will be remedied to the advantage of the subscribers. We are still of the opinion that the price of the service is high enough under the present rates, and that just at this time, with business certainly not in a booming condition, the advance in rates is a mistake on the part of the company.

* * *

REV. MR. DOWNS, pastor of the Bowdoin Square Baptist Church of Boston, has been brought conspicuously before the public within the last few days. It is to be regretted that there is so manifest a feeling to cast a slur upon his character, at once the evidence given in the first place is read. Some of our cotemporaries, also, unhesitatingly pronounce the evidence conclusive of his guilt. This is wrong. A newspaper should be an educator of the people, and it should be its duty to follow the precept of the law, that every person should be adjudged innocent until proved guilty.

It is well known that the social custom of this country tends to a familiarity between the sexes which is unknown on the Continent, and which would not have been allowed in our fathers' time. A young lady may have a casual introduction to a young man without any inquiry as to his social standing, or his character; may invite him to her house, go riding or walking with him, and not offend the laws of etiquette here. Nor will it be considered improper by her parents or friends. There is a familiarity of intercourse between young gentlemen and ladies, on a very short acquaintance, oftentimes without a formal introduction, which becomes so common as to be hardly noticeable. When, therefore, the acquaintance ripens still further into friendship, no thought is taken of daily occurrences which could be variously construed by those who are disposed to think evil. The young lady who travels in Europe without a male protector, and is seen in company with other young ladies at walk, giving vent to her natural inclination for innocent glee, is at once looked upon as belonging to a class which is as far from her true character as daylight is from darkness.

Naturally, such familiarity should lead away from prudishness. It does not, however, and this is one of the dangers to which this country is drifting. It is manifest in the tendency to slur at any suspicion of improper conduct on the part of a pastor or member of a church; as well as a tendency on the part of the young men of the country to throw suspicion on the character of the entire female sex.

We are not stating this a particle too strong. It is a frequent remark made with reference to the case of Rev. Mr. Downs, and other cases where a pastor is thrown under suspicion, that "a minister is no better than other people." The same is often said of church people, the intention, of course, being to scandalize the Church of Christ. But stop. Is that so? Isn't a pastor of a church, or a member of a church, if you will, entitled to as much consideration as other people? Is character and a good reputation to count for nothing? Is a man who has been known of his people for years to be condemned at once on suspicion, and more readily than if he were not a member of the Church of Christ? Yet this is just what is going on with reference to Pastor Downs.

It is not for us to pronounce upon the guilt or innocence of these parties. Yet to believe them both guilty—and if one is, both are—requires to our mind more than has yet been brought out. Consider for a moment the friendship of the pastor for Mrs. Taber—made still stronger by the domestic troubles which had been thrown around her—throw aside this tendency of which we have spoken to believe evil more readily of a pastor than of another, and what is there not satisfactorily explained by the statement of Mr. Downs? To the pure all things are pure.

The familiarity existing properly between the sexes after marriage, especially between intimate friends, is magnified many times by jealousy. More homes have been broken—more hearts shattered, by the nursing of this green eyed monster on the part of a man or woman than from any other cause. It makes the object of such jealousy a being whose life is a hell on earth. It magnifies the most innocent courtesy and civility, when done from the purest motives, into a crime. Yet from its poison no one is safe. It would seem that jealousy on the part of the husband of Mrs. Taber is somewhat responsible for the charge brought against his wife and her pastor. Such, at least, is a very reasonable construction to put upon it.

An instance in illustration is to the point. For obvious reasons we withhold the names of the parties, one of whom, although not residing in this vicinity, is well known to us. A gentleman, whose character is above reproach, frequently visits a firm in a distant city in the pursuit of his business. He has done so for years, and is on such friendly terms with them that he is invited to their residences—both are married—and the hospitality of their homes is extended to him. Both have fine turnouts, and he is often invited after the business is transacted, to drive with them—and sometimes when the gentlemen themselves cannot be spared from business, with the ladies. On the occasion we are about to relate, the business concluded, our friend was invited to a drive with the ladies, wives of the members of the firm, and by the gentlemen themselves, they being unable to join him. A concert in the evening was also to be one of the closing pleasures of the day. After the drive, it being yet not in time for tea, the wife of the senior partner invited our friend and the wife of the junior partner, to repair to a a neighboring ice cream saloon. Previously, however, she had a few errands to attend to, and the three separated to meet again in half an hour or such a matter. The husband of the younger lady was unfortunately very jealous, but of this our friend was ignorant, and as the pleasure of the day had been with the knowledge, and even on the invitation of the husband, he felt that there was no wrong. At the appointed time our friend entered the ice cream saloon. The younger lady was there, but the wife of the senior partner had not arrived. He was invited to have a cream with her. Our friend demurred. Both had come on the invitation of the elder lady who had not yet arrived. But she persisted, saying, "Mrs. ——— would soon be here, and she could eat another cream." Thus urged, our friend went into the parlor. They had been there but a few moments, when the husband of the lady entered in a furious state of mind. No explanations would be accepted, and a scene ensued at which our friend was informed that if he was ever again seen with the wife of the gentleman he would be shot. Judge of the astonishment of our friend! He was innocent of any wrong doing or intent. In fact such a thing was the furthest from his mind. And it was at a seasonable hour in the day, and there were many others, both ladies and gentlemen, in the saloon at the same time. Such was the result of jealousy.

We do not cite this as a parallel case with Rev. Mr. Downs, but only to show how much of evil a man may think of a woman—even his wife—when goaded by that tempter of which we have spoken. Similar instances will doubtless occur to the minds of our readers. Who of us has not seen such? In the case of the Boston pastor his friend was preparing for a journey, and he was assisting her in packing—a perfectly proper and justifiable proceeding when their previous friendly relations are considered. To the pure all things are pure.

We cannot believe that, if affairs were not as thus stated, Rev. Mr. Downs could still appear in his pulpit, and preach as he did last Sabbath. Least of all could his wife invite Mrs. Taber to her home, and express perfect confidence in their innocence. Mr. Taber had made up his mind before breaking down the door, and his jealousy assisted him in the conclusion to which he arrived. With few exceptions the church of Rev. Mr. Downs stand by him. They ought to—and the public should sympathize with him, if innocent, and he should be so considered until proven otherwise.

* * *

THE DANVERS Horse Railroad Company transferred their waiting station, Monday morning, from B. F. Stevens' store, to that of George Stevens, where is the station of the Lynn & Boston R. R. This is what should have been done in the first place. The cars can't stop on the rise in front of B. F. Stevens'. It is no place for a station. Then his accommodations are very small; more than half the people in the habit of waiting there have stopped outside his door, and many have waited at Geo. Stevens' anyway. The immediate cause of removal, we understand was that the station was not open at all times. At all events, the travelling public will be glad of the change. They will find good accommodations—plenty of room and a hearty welcome at the new place. And if they want a light lunch, a good glass of soda, or a first rate cigar, they will find it there at reasonable prices. The Danvers road are seeking in every way to accommodate the people of Peabody as well as Danvers, and it is being appreciated.

* * *

The committee of the Beverly Water Works have visited our town, calling at the pumping station, and examined our source of supply, with a view to the establishment of independent works in that town. They seemed to like the idea of a tank on the hill, but would want one to hold 1,000,000 gallons, or about double the capacity of ours.

Died Aug. 24. Daniel Buxton Jr., aged 74 yrs., is the brief mention of the close of an honorable and marked, though unobtrusive life. Not often away from the shadows of his own trees, yet the influence of his life has been by no means indistinct nor inconsiderable. Born with the old Quaker indignation against wrong, and especially the flagrant National wrong of his day, in his heart he lived faithful to his natural impulse. To an unusual degree he kept "his soul unspotted," and was one of the few who practically solve that most difficult problem of acquiring a competency honestly and honorably. Identified with the Anti-Slavery movement, almost from its origin, he patiently endured the obloquy of its inception and progress, and is entitled to share in the honor of its complete trimuph. Our older citizens will instantly recall that small but devoted band that filled the platform and front seats of Old Union Hall, in the fifties. Together with Garrison, Phillips, Pillsbury, Remond and others, now of National fame, were Page, Burnham, King, Buxton and a few other townsmen. The resolution and devotion to principles stamped upon the strongly marked faces of that little gathering always reminded the writer of the old Scotch Covenanters.

In the fierce contest with the other of twin National evils of intemperance, our friend was equally uncompromising, though, unfortunately for the human race, complete success on this battlefield seems still remote. Mr. B's business fortunately, was of such a nature, that his sterling qualities were of assistance to him more immediately and perceptibly than is often the case. His reputation for honesty in his dealings in seeds proved valuable to him pecuniarily as well as otherwise. In all phases of liberal thought he was in advance of the sentiment of his time, and unostentatiously rendered substantial assistance to pioneers of reform. Some may ask why give especial notice to so comparatively an uneventful life. Because such lives are as a rule, more profitable to the human race, than more stirring ones. How much more valuable for the consideration of our youth, are lives of principle and honest industry, than those, which shine by their rottenness, like decayed fish. For purposes, often inscrutable to mankind, all kinds of cheap men are allowed to strut their brief hour on the stage of life; men who stand ready to sell their dwarfed souls for a pittance, tricksters, sharpers, shysters, pettifoggers and hollow humbugs, beings whose most gracious act to the world is their leaving it, and at whose death conventional grief masks secret relief. That such careers should be duly estimated and condemned, it is meet that due recognition should be given to lives fit and worthy of emulation. RADICITUS.

* * *

During the high wind last Monday, a party of nine persons were returning from Nahant to Lynn, including in the number, Joseph Trask, a son of Warren Trask, and Arthur Pettee, a son of John L. Pettee, and when partly across Lynn beach road the barge was overturned and the occupants were badly shaken up and considerably bruised. Arthur Pettee was the only one seriously injured. The flesh on the left leg below the knee was torn from the bone, and the cord nearly severed. A handkerchief was tied around the limb to prevent further loss of blood, and the boy was taken by a gentleman named Stacey to the Central railroad station, and thence in the police ambulance to the City Hospital, where the wound was dressed. He was also badly bruised, his arm having the appearance of being pounded. At the time of the accident his mother was with the Odd Fellows at the Relay house and as soon as she reached home was informed of the accident and returned immediately to Lynn. His young companion, Trask, stuck to his friend and could he have had his way would have procured a carriage and brought Pettee home. The boy is very comfortable at the hospital, but as he has expressed a desire to be taken home, he will be removed this afternoon. It is to be hoped that with good care the limb will be saved, but it is feared that the cords are so badly injured that it may be stiff.

The police arrested last Friday a fourteen year old boy, who has figured in police matters before, for stealing $184, a gold watch and numerous other valuables from his brother. He took his brother's trunk from his room by lowering it into a potato patch in the rear of his house on Harris street, and breaking it open stole the money. The case came up in the police court Monday and was continued till to-day. The property was recovered. He was sent to the Lyman Reformatory during his minority.

John Dwinell, a fish monger, had his hand badly mangled by a vicious horse on Aborn street last Saturday. The horse had been eating his dinner from a basket and while attempting to put on the bridle again, the animal seized his arm and chewed it till the flesh was badly lacerated below the elbow, but fortunately no bones were broken.

West Peabody Gravel Pit.

A VISIT TO THE PIT AND AN INTERVIEW WITH REV. WILLARD SPAULDING.

Having noticed the large amount of gravel that has been daily carried from West Peabody to the North River, we naturally felt a desire to know if the whole of the "conservative" part of our town was being annexed to Salem by the car load, and so paid a visit there last week. Leaving the car at Phelps Mills we are nearly opposite the lower end of the pit. On the 27th day of last May operations were begun and the work has progressed without interruption since. The field from which this large quantity of "filling" is being taken consists of about ten acres and lies between the residence of Rev. Willard Spaulding and the B. & L. railroad track. It is nearly destitute of trees and almost everything else. There is a little loom on top but not over six inches deep at its best, but below there is fine gravel, broken rock, clay and sand, the latter so fine as to almost resemble beach sand, and the ridges and veins are so marked that it is easy to believe that at some time it was left there by the receding ocean. There is one part of the pit from which comes a clay that is perfectly dead. It is well known that a handful of ordinary gravel will seem to crawl and move when taken in the hand, but this clay is almost as hard as a rock, and when mixed with water makes a regular quick sand, but used as a filling to put in between gravel it does excellent service. The pit is very free from large stones, only two having been found thus far. The ground is about thirty feet high in the centre with a gradual slope to the street on one side, and the meadow land on the other. In the vicinity of the pit are several branch tracks on which are standing hundreds of dump cars. One of the tracks runs close to the bank the whole length and curves around on the west side. On this track is a shifting engine that does nothing but take the cars along one at a time to the steam shovel, where they are quickly filled and every dozen or so are carried to a side track and the regular gravel trains that go to North River are made up. They usually consist of from twenty-five to forty in number. It is interesting to watch the changing of a piece of track. The rails are securely fastened to the sleepers and about twenty men with crow bars working together move a section at a time, going up and down the pit until the whole is well under the bank; then the grade of the road bed is made. Between three and four acres of land have been used thus far and probably there will be six in all, and the work will be completed in six weeks. Two gangs of men are worked, one from six in the morning till six at night and another from that time till six the next morning. These men receive $1.50 per day. It is so hot in the pit as to be almost unbearable at times. The men are in charge of Mr. H. C. Wood, foreman of the dump, a gentleman who has had fourteen years experience at the business. During the night the pit is lighted by lanterns, torches and powerful locomotive headlights, which are placed on stands making everything light as day.

The principal attraction for the visitor is the steam shovel. The one in use at West Peabody is the property of the New York & New England Railroad and is leased for this job. The shovel consists of an engine and boiler inside a car that can be moved to any position and is constructed on nearly the same principal as the dredging machines in the harbors. The great scoop plows its way into the banks and quickly fills with whatever comes in the way—gravel, stone wall, small trees and everything go into that grand scoop. The shovel and its attachments when new cost about $9000 and weighs 30 tons. It will do the work of sixty men. It will take about six yards of gravel at a mouthful and three of them will fill a car. The machinery is kept swimming in oil about two barrels a month being required. The shovel is a very bungling thing to handle and when it is changed from one end of the pit to another all hands have to help out. It is kept in position by jack screws and is run on a sectional track, consisting of blocks of wood with a rail on them. It is started at the extreme edge and cuts its way through the bank as far as it can reach and then another piece of track is laid and the work continues the whole length. We have heard Ex-Mayor Hill of Salem tell a good story about the first steam shovel that was ever used at Castle Hill in Salem some years ago. A large number of Irishmen had been employed and were discharged when the shovel was put in, and of course were naturally indignant and came up next day to see the thing work. They stood and looked on in astonishment as the powerful machine plowed itself into the bank, and one of the party kept getting nearer and nearer until he was quite close to the big scoop, when he was heard to remark: "Yous may be a foine shoveler but yous can't vote." The night gang at the pit have been working since the 23d of June, and both gangs live in the vicinity. Near the little station has been erected a rough wooden shanty where the men are furnished their meals and some of them lodge there, while others lodge with the farmers in the vicinity. The cooking is in charge of Mr. Daniel Very and a corps of assistants and it is a very busy place, night and day. The cooking of three meals a day for fifty men is no small matter and besides that a midnight meal has to be cooked for the night gang. The large quantities of groceries are furnished by Mr. Brown of West Peabody and the meat by Mr. Flint of Reading. The best that the market affords are given the men or it would be impossible to keep them there. Across the track from the "shanty" is a large water tank about the size of the average leaches used by our tanners, and this is kept full all the time, being pumped by hand from the pond in the vicinity. This water is used to supply the locomotive and is carried by a long iron pipe the whole length of the pit. At short distances are places to which to attach a rubber hose and in this way the boiler of the steam shovel is kept supplied with water as it moves along. The pit is in charge of Mr. Rowe, who is one of the contractors.

As there has been considerable talk about the old cemetery in this pit, we made it a point to search out the owner of the land, Rev. Willard Spaulding. We found him at his farm house a short distance from the gravel pit, and having accepted his invitation to "walk in" we found him willing to give us the information desired. The cemetery was located on the hill in about the center of the pit, and while rude stones marked the graves of some, there were others where there was no indication of their existence on the outside, and they had been buried so long that they were within two feet of the surface. There was one monument on the lot, and it was erected to the memory of a Mr. Gardner in 1818, which date probably was when the last interment was made. There were four rows and some had five graves each. The steam shovel was used in removing the bones, as the outline of the grave could be seen as soon as the shovel reached them. The men were given particular instructions to carefully examine the dirt before sending it to the dump, and the men at Salem were instructed to return any bones that might be overlooked. Mr. Spaulding spent two nights at the pit, and looked after the bones himself. There were sixteen skeletons removed and they were in a wonderful state of preservation, considering that some of them were 200 years old. The only bones that were found at the North River were two skulls, a rib and a back bone, and these were returned and placed with the others that were removed. Previous to removing the bones Mr. Spaulding consulted a member of the State board of health and was informed that the local board or the Selectmen would have jurisdiction in the matter, and he went before the latter with the result that is well known to our readers. The surviving descendants of those buried there were consulted as far as known, and their permission obtained. The remains of the Phelps and Popes had been removed previously and permission given for the same, and Mr. Spaulding took legal advice and no statute law was found to prevent their removal. The bones were interred in the family lot of Mr. Jasper Pope, a descendant living at Danvers, at the expense of Mr. Spaulding. Since the bones have been removed a record of the transfer of the burying ground has been found to Dr. Hurd who formerly owned the farm. This is all that there is to the sensational talk about the Rev. Spaulding's burying ground. Those who have never seen a steam shovel at work would be well repaid by a visit to West Peabody.

* * *

Mr. James F. Foye, formerly superintendent of the Salem Street Railway, is meeting with considerable success in the Boston Express business from Peabody. He succeeded Mr. Townsend.—Observer.

Read the announcement of Almy Bigelow & Washburn in another column. They have inaugurated a midsummer book sale, which is worthy of notice. The prices speak for themselves. Read them and you will be convinced.

New Advertisements.

WM. M. HILL.

AUCTIONEER, REAL ESTATE BROKER & APPRAISER.

HALE'S BLOCK.

223 ESSEX STREET, SALEM.

Mortgagees negotiated. Personal attention to all Real Estate matters.

Peabody's Prices.

The Celebrated Pivot Corsets,

75 Cents.

Fruit of the Loom, Bleached Cotton, Yard Wide,

7 Cents.

Good Dark Prints, fast colors, fresh Goods,

4 Cents.

Yard Wide Sheeting, fair quality,

5 Cents.

Nice Cheviots, good Colors and Quality,

8 Cents.

Nice Fine Milan Hats, worth 75 cents now

21 Cents.

Good Wide Foulard Cambrics, only

8 Cents.

Wash Poplin Skirts, 75 cent ones,

50 Cents.

Three Nice Japanese Fans, 5 cent ones, three for

5 Cents.

White Lonsdale Apron, tucks side and bottom,

25 Cents.

Seventy-five Cent Corsets, nice ones,

50 Cents.

Two Gauze Vests, worth 25 cents each, two for

25 cents.

And numerous other Bargains during the month of August.

— AT —

PEABODY'S.

SALEM.

RATES REDUCED.

MAPLE HOUSE,

JEFFERSON, N. H.

The proprietors having in view that the great land slide which occurred on July 10th, 1885, will attract a great many people to Jefferson, during September and October, offer to entertain people during that time at from

$7.00 to 8.00 per week,

in all parts of the house. Send for descriptive circular.

Coaches connect with all trains at Jefferson Station.

Open till Nov. 1st.

MRS. M. H. BOWLES & SON.

STRAWBERRIES! STRAWBERRIES!

Next June,

By planting Strawberry Plants in August will secure a crop of fruit the coming season. Any good garden soil, well cultivated, enriched, etc., will answer. We have fine plants and best varieties.

ALL POTTED PLANTS AT LOW MARKET RATES.

Varieties—"Sharpless," "Miner's Prolific," "Chas. Downing," "Bidwell," "Jersey Queen" (P,) "Hervey Davis," etc.

Orders by mail will receive prompt attention. Goods can be sent by express to all points.

TERMS CASH.

Plants, Flowers, etc., to order from

E. & C. WOODMAN

Florist and Garden Supplies,

DANVERS, MASS.

☞ Greenhouses, Holten St., Tapleyville. On line Salem & Danvers and Peabody and Danvers Horse Railroad.

Send for Circular.

PROBATE NOTICE.

Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

ESSEX, SS. PROBATE COURT.

To the Heirs-at-law, Next of Kin, and all other Persons interested in the Estate of RUTH A. GOLDTHWAIT, late of Peabody, in said county, widow, deceased,

GREETING:

WHEREAS, a certain instrument purporting to be the last will and testament of said deceased has been presented to said Court for Probate, by Mary A. Goldthwait, and Elizabeth P. Goldthwait, who pray that letters testamentary may be issued to them the executors therein named, and that they may be exempt from giving a surety or sureties on their bond, for the reasons alleged in said petition. You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court to be held at Salem, in said county of Essex, on the first Monday of September, next, at nine o'clock, before noon, to show cause, if any you have, against the same.

And said petitioners are hereby directed to give public notice thereof, by publishing this citation once a week, for three successive weeks, in the newspaper called the Peabody Press, printed at Peabody, the last publication to be two days at least before said Court.

Witness, George F. Choate, Esquire, Judge of said Court, this fourteenth day of July, in the year one thousand eight hundred and eighty-five.

J. T. MAHONEY, Register.

jy 29—3t

Barley Oats.

2 Cars Old Barley Oats.
CHAS. A. ROPES & SON.

Beans.

PRIME Pea, Medium, and Yellow Eyed Beans.
CHAS. A. ROPES & SON.

The Peabody Press.

Wednesday Evening, Aug. 26, 1885

HOME HAPPENINGS.

The census of the school children in town has just been completed by F. G. Preston, and we are indebted to him for the following figures:

Wallis School. Census number, 614; over 15 years of age, 45. Attending school between 5 and 15, 477; over 15, 45; attending private school between 5 and 15, 13; over 15, 3; total number between 8 and 14 (the legal age) 329. Last year, Census number 685; over 15 years, 42. Attending school between 5 and 15, 560; over 15, 30. Attending private school between 5 and 15, 22; over 15, 12; whole number between 8 and 14, 384.

Center School. Census number, 682; over 15 years, 55. Attending school between 5 and 15, 586; over 15, 51. Attending private school between 5 and 15, 16; over 15, 4; whole number between 8 and 14, 397. Last year, Census number, 711; over 15, 44. Attending school between 5 and 15, 585; over 15, 38. Attending private school between 5 and 15, 20; over 15, 9; whole number between 8 and 14, 407.

Bowditch School. Census number, 248; over 15 years, 23. Attending school between 5 and 15, 226; over 15, 17. Attending private school between 5 and 15, 2; over 15, 2; whole number between 8 and 14, 141. Last year, Census number 265; over 15 years, 19. Attending school between 5 and 15, 242; over 15, 15. Attending private school between 5 and 15, 3; over 15, 3; whole number between 8 and 14, 152.

Rockville School. Census number, 136; over 15 years, 9. Attending school between 5 and 15, 127; over 15, 9; whole number between 8 and 14, 73. Last year, Census number 135; over 15 years, 10. Attending school between 5 and 15, 115; over 15, 8. Attending private school, over 15, 2; whole nnmber between 8 and 14, 76.

Felton School. Census number, 32; over 15 years, 2. Attending school between 5 and 15, 31; over 15, 2; whole number between 8 and 14, 19. Last year, Census number, 45; over 15, 3. Attending school between 5 and 15, 37; over 15, 2. Attending private school, over 15, 1; whole number between 8 and 14, 24.

West School. Census number 61; over 15 years, 8. Attending school between 5 and 15, 55; over 15, 8. Attending private school between 5 and 15, 1; whole number between 8 and 14, 40. Last year. Census number, 72; over 15 years, 8. Attending school between 5 and 15, 56; over 15, 5. Attending private school over 15, 3; whole number between 8 and 14, 42.

Summary. Census number (entire number of children between 5 and 15) 1773; over 15 years of age, 142. Attending school between 5 and 15 years, 1502; over 15 years, 132. Attending private school between 5 and 15 years, 32; over 15, 9; whole number between 8 and 14, (the legal school age) 999. Last year's figures were, Entire Census number (between 5 and 15) 1913; over 15, 126. Attending school between 5 and 15, 1595; over 15, 98. Attending private school, between 5 and 15, 45; over 15, 30; whole number between 8 and 14, 1089.

It would have been far better if Daniel Goodwin of Peabody, had been left without a cent, rather than with a fortune. Last week we published that he had been released from the Danvers Insane Asylum. Since the money was left him he has several times been committed to that institution. We noticed him again before the District Court for simple drunkenness, and again for the second offence. For the latter he was sent to the House of Correction for two months. His fortune—$30,000 originally—must have gone, or is fast going into the till of the rum-seller.—Beverly Citizen.

Owen Sweeney, an old man subject to fits, living on Sherman street, with a ten year old daughter started out last Friday afternoon to pick a few berries. As he did no return a few of his friends started out to find him; this number was largely increased till at midnight there were sixty men searching for him. The little girl returned home the next morning and seemed benumbed with the cold and wet. She said her father was in Salem. He fell in a fit near floating bridge and after recovering wandered to Salem.

One of our ex-town officials is responsible for the following hen story. A lady visiting on Central street had a false tooth set on a pivot and while in the yard the other day sneezed it out. An old hen, seeing it fall, mistook it for a grain of corn and immediately swallowed it. The hen was chased around the yard for a while and finely captured, beheaded, its crop opened, and then the tooth was found and restored to the mouth of the young lady, who with others helped eat the offending hen.

Officer Sweeney has returned to duty.

SOUTH PEABODY.

The following interesting account of the Needham family reunion with brief history was furnished by the Boston Journal:—The twelfth annual gathering of the Needham family, descendants of John Needham, who built the Needham homestead at the cross-roads known as Needham's Corner on the Lynnfield road at South Peabody, was held Wednesday at Brown's Grove, a pretty little copse on a knoll by the brookside, west of the old homestead. John Needham was famous in his day and generation as the builder of the solid old stone jail in Salem in 1813, the same massive structure which has just been remodelled. He was a man weighing 300 pounds, and the homestead which he built for himself at the Corner still stands under the spreading elms, which appear as old as the house, and afford a grateful shade in a desert of wide, white, dusty country road. Back of John, in the time of the Puritans, there were George Needham and his three brothers and a sister who came to ancient Salem very early in its infancy, and whose lineal descendants, of whom John was one, scattered all over New England. John Needham, it is stated, died in 1831 at the age of 73, revered and honored not only by his own family, but by the entire community in which he dwelt, as a trusty citizen who feared God and loved his fellow men. The family gathering, Wednesday, presented all the features of an old-fashioned farmers' outing between planting time and harvest, for the Needhams have ever been tillers of the soil. It took the form of a basket picnic, the members of the family bringing their wives, daughters and babies in the old farm wagon, in the early morning, and spending the day. Albert Needham of Lynn, President of the family association, was early on the ground and presided during the festivities. Six generations were represented, and a large number of the branches of the family as well—the Needhams, the Newhalls, the Browns, the Stones, the Nourses, the Galeucias and others. The oldest person on the ground was Harvey Galeucia, aged 83, and the youngest a baby boy of three years. A good orchestra was in attendance, and there were dancing and singing, but no formal literary exercises, although there were some informal speeches by different members of the family. In the late afternoon the number present had increased to three hundred. Dinner and tea were served in the grove and the crickets and tree toads were chirping a merry good night as the teams were loaded up for home in the gloaming.

Conductor Basford had a narrow escape from a very serious accident last Monday. He got off the car to turn the switch at the corner of Market and Essex street, when one of the horses kicked him in the breast, injuring him quite severely. He was picked up and conveyed to his home in Wyoma, where medical aid was summoned. At last accounts he was quite comfortable. Mr. Basford had contemplated taking his vacation this week.

Mr. Perley Galeucia has a lawn party at his residence this evening, when an old fashioned baked bean supper will be served to those present.

Miss Mira Larrabee celebrated the 19th anniversary of her birth by giving a party to a few of her relatives and friends.

Mr. Gustavus is having his house painted throughout, very much to the improvement of the same.

Mr. Joseph Mansfield is making repairs on Daniel Hogan's house on Washington street.

The L. & B road carried about 2400 passengers last Sunday.

Conductor Geo. Bean will spend the next three weeks in Maine.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward E. Taylor have gone to Alton Bay to attend the camp meeting.

Owing to the threatening weather last Wednesday morning only about 200 were present at the reunion of the Needham family at Brown's grove. The day was passed in the usual manner. Mr. Albert Needham, of Lynn, gave a history of the family from the first starting point. Music was furnished by Upton & Tiney's orchestra of Salem. The party broke up about nine o'clock, all well pleased with the day's entertainment.

The Galeucia family held a picnic at Spring pond last Thursday.

A laborer in the street department had quite an experience on Winthrop street with a bee's nest. He can probably appreciate the beautiful stanza from Dr. Watts' hymn which reads:

> "And now doth the busy bumble bee
> Improve each shining chance
> To nestle in the bosom
> Of some working men's pants."

Mr. Warren Trask has a large cabbage in front of his market that measures from the outside edges three feet and across the head about eighteen inches. It weighed twenty-seven pounds, and was raised on the farm of Stephen Blaney.

The B. & M. (not Boston & Maine) Opera Company at Mechanic Hall next week.

VACATION NOTES.

Mr. Eben P. Trask and family will rusticate for the next three weeks at Bethlehem, N. H.

Mrs. Charles E. Flint of West Peabody is taking a vacation in New Hampshire.

George King, Fred Wiley, and Fred Dodge are camping out at Nahant.

Miss Fannie Eagan is spending her vacation at Roxbury.

Louis and Charles Southwick have gone to Moosehead Lake.

Mrs. S. S. Gilson is stopping at the Willows.

The family of Mr. Henry C. Torr are in New York.

Miss Sadie E. Woodbury is at the Salem Willows.

Mr. W. B. Richardson spent last Sunday at Bellows Falls, Vt.

Mrs. Charles E. Teague has gone to Ithaca, N. Y.

Miss Annie Sherman has gone to Worcester, Mass.

Mrs. A. E. Kimball has gone to Byfield.

Miss Fannie W. Osborne and sister, Miss Lucy, were registered at the Lake View House, North Sebago, Me.

Miss Abbie Bell and Mrs. Geo. Clerk and children, have returned from North Conway.

Conductor George Bean, of the Lynn road, will spend his vacation at Casco, Me.

Mr. Chas. H. Hooper is on a trip to Niagara Falls.

Mr. E. S. Plaisted and wife have been to Old Orchard Beach.

Mr. A. W. Berry and family have gone to Center Harbor, N. H.

Mrs. C. A. Warner is rusticating at Beckett, Mass.

Mr. John B. Wilson is spending his vacation at Andover.

Mr. W. H. Brown was registered at the Grand Union Hotel, Saratoga.

Mr. J. T. Cassino and daughter are at So. Lancaster, N. H.

Mr. Harry A. Spofford will spend his vacation in Maine.

Mr. A. J. Kelley and wife have gone to West Bridgewater.

Mr. Robinson Whittaker and wife are at Old Orchard Beach.

Mrs. B. R. Lockwood and Mrs. Archie Israel are at Wolfboro, N. H.

Mr. and Mrs. John Gott are at Augusta Me.

Mr. Edward Harris spent a few days last week at Center Harbor.

Several business men including C. A. Sanger, Horace Bushby, George H. Jacobs and Charles S. Osgood spent Sunday at Rowley River.

Mr. and Mrs. John Osborne and Mr. Frank Teel have gone on a Raymond excursion to Montreal, Canada.

Henry G. Robbins of the Central fish market is taking his vacation,

Mrs. Geo. Buxton is at Asbury Grove, and also the family of Mr. John Steele.

Miss Sarah Warner is spending her vacation in Maine.

Mr. Edward Blaney and wife and Mrs. Benj. Jacobs are at the Isles of Shoals.

Mr. Asa Smiley of the firm of Hallowell & Smiley, will spend his vacation in Maine.

Mr. Frank I. Baker of New York is in town.

Miss Hattie Saunders is at Asbury Grove.

Mr. Al. Warner will spend his vacation at Cushing's Island, Portland Harbor.

Mr. Arthur S. Blaney is passing his vacation at the Isle of Shoals.

Hon. B. C. Perkins is at Bar Harbor Me.

Mr. J. K. Cole returned from Bennington last Friday afternoon but joined his family later at Andover.

Mr. Irvin Besse in company with others will leave on Friday in a yacht for New York and will be gone two weeks.

Mrs. Geo. Rand has returned from a visit to Middleton.

Mr. Isaac Drown has returned from his western trip.

Charles H. Kezar, Esq., is rapidly recovering his health at Bedford Springs, N. H.

* * *

POLICE COURT.—Last Saturday morning, P. J. McCluskey plead guilty to the charge of keeping liquors with the intent to sell and was sentenced to three months in the house of correction, and for drunkenness he was fined $5 and costs (new law) or two months in the house of correction. Appealed.

Michael J. Cassidy, while trying to keep the wet out by putting liquid refreshments inside last Monday, found himself in the "lockup" and yesterday morning he was asked to pay $9.83 for his lodgings and the offended law.

Thomas P. Fallon, who has charge of the night switching at the depot, had a vacation last night. On account of the severe rain work was suspended at the gravel pit, and the trains did not run. It is the first night, except holidays, since the work was commenced at the pit.

The six inch water main on Oak street, near Foster, burst yesterday afternoon. It was repaired by D. B. Lord in about six hours.

Last Sunday being the tenth anniversary of the settlement of Rev. George Walker over the Episcopal mission in this town, the pastor very feelingly referred to it. During that time he has performed the marriage ceremony for 33 couples, buried 57, confirmed 61 and christened 121 and has made 4000 calls. There was a profusion of beautiful flowers.

TOWN OF PEABODY.

Town Collector's Notice.

The owners and occupants of the following described parcels of real estate, situated in the town of Peabody, in the county of Essex, and commonwealth of Massachusetts, and the public, are hereby notified that the taxes thereon assessed for the years hereinafter specified, according to the list committed to me as Collector of Taxes for said town, by the assessors of taxes, remain unpaid, and that said parcels of real estate will be offered at public auction for sale, at the office of the Collector at the Town House in said Town of Peabody, on

Wednesday, Sept. 2d, 1885,

At 9 o'clock A. M. for the payment of said taxes together with the costs and charges thereon, unless the same shall be previously discharged.

A lot of land bounded northwardly, westwardly and southwardly by land of Heirs of David Putnam, eastwardly by Lynn St., containing about 8250 square feet with the buildings thereon. Taxed to John Putnam for 1882, $32.40, (partly paid) for 1883, $26.18, for 1884, $27.88.

A lot of land bounded northwardly by land of Mary Beers, eastwardly by Harris St., southwardly by land of Edward Sheary, westwardly by land of John Motley, containing about 11,500 square feet, with the buildings thereon. Taxed to estate of John Cuddire for 1883 $16 94, for 1884 $18.04.

A lot of land bounded northwardly by land of George A. Needham and Daniel P. Pope, eastwardly by land of George Reed, southwardly by land formerly of Upton, westwardly by land of John G. Walcott and George A. Needham, containing about 13 acres, with the buildings thereon. Taxed to Philip H. Saunders for 1882, $16.20, for 1883 $15.40, for 1884, $16.40.

LEVI PRESTON, Collector.

aug 5

POLO.

This popular game adapted for home amusement to play on the table.

PRICE $1.00.

For sale by all dealers. Manufactured by

HORACE A. BROOKS,

BOOK BINDER AND BLANK BOOK MANUFACTURER,

226 Essex Street, Salem, Mass.

Family Flour.

A Full stock of Spring Wheat patent process and Winter Wheat Family Flour, fresh ground from old wheat, and warranted.

CHAS. A. ROPES & SON.

On Track—Old Eastern Hay,

ONE Car prime Old Eastern Hay.

CHAS. A. ROPES & SON.
41 to 47 Central street.

FRESH ATTRACTIONS!

— AT —

W. B. GIFFORD & CO'S.

SPECIAL SALE OF BOOKS FOR THIRTY DAYS.

Literally without regard to cost. The collection embraces over thirty thousand volumes of the best Fiction, History, Poetry, Biography, Travels, Wit and Humor, etc., etc., every volume of which has been carefully selected and all are marked at half their actual value. Here is a partial list. Examine and decide for yourself:—

	Publishers' Price.	Our Price.
George Eliot's Works, 8 vols., half morocco	$24.00	$ 9.44
George Eliot's Works, 8 vols., cloth, library edition,	12.00	4.98
George Eliot's Works, 8 vols., cloth, Fine edition,	12.00	5.98
Gsorge Eliot's Works, 8 vols., half calf,	24.00	10.24
Guizot's History of France, 8 vols., fine edition,	20.00	13.98
Irving's Works, 10 vols., cloth,	15.00	6.98
Irving's Works, 10 vols., half calf,	30.00	12.80
Irving's Works, 3 vols, cloth,	7.50	3.98
Cooper's Sea Tales, 5 vols, cloth,	7.50	4.28
Cooper's Leather Stocking Tales, 5 vols, cloth,	7.50	4.28
Cooper's Complete Works, 16 vols, cloth,	32.00	16.98
Waverly Novels, 12 vols, cloth,	18.00	8.28
Waverly Novels, 24 vols, cloth,	24.00	12.98
Waverly Novels, 12 vols, half calf,	36.00	21.00
Waverly Novels, 24 vols, half calf,	75.00	35.00
Bulwer's Novels, 13 vols,	19.50	8.28
Dickens's Works, 15 vols, half morocco,	45.00	17.00
Dickens's Works, 15 vols, cloth,	22.50	6.98
Dickens's Works, 15 vols, cloth gilt back edition,	22.50	9.75
Dickens's Works, 15 vols,, half calf,	49.00	22.50
Thackery's Works, 11 vols, cloth, library edition,	16.50	6.98
Thackery's Works, 11 vols, red cloth and gilt top edition,	16.50	8.88
Black's Works, 7 vols, cloth, library edition,	10.50	5.18
Green's History of the English People, 4 vols,	6.00	2 98
Macaulay's History of England, 5 vols,	5.05	1.48
Macaulay's History of England, 5 vols, red cloth, gilt top,	6.75	4.50
Macaulay's Life and Letters,	1.25	.58
McCarthy's History of Our Own Times, 4 vols, red cloth, gilt top,	6.00	3 78
Knight's History of England, 4 vols,	6.00	3.98
Pultrarch's Lives of Illustrious Men, 3 vols, cloth,	4.50	2.50
Smile's Self-Help Series, 4 vols,	6.00	3.12
Smile's Biographical Series, 3 vols,	4.50	2.18
Hume's History of England, 6 vols,	7.50	3.18

	Publishers' Price.	Our Price.
Chamber's Encyclopedia, 12 vols, cloth,	$18.00	$ 7.98
Prescott's Histories, per vol.,	1.50	1.18
Church's Works, 7 vols,	10.50	6.82
Elsie Books, 10 vols,	12.50	8.28
Gibbon's Roman Empire, 5 vols,	5.00	2.98
Shakespeare, 8 vols,	7.50	3.78
Carlyle's French Revolution, 2 vols,	3.00	1.58
Ella Wheeler's Poems of Passion,	1.50	.78
A line of regular Sunday School Books, Prettily Bound and Illustrated
F. Marion Crawford's Latest Work, "Zoroaster,"	1.50	1.28
Gen. Lew Wallace's "Ben Hur —A Tale of Christ,"	1.50	1.38
E. P. Roe's "A Young Girl's Wooing," and others,	1.50	.98
George Eliot's Essays,	1.25	.58
History of Our Own Times, 2 vols,	3.00	1.58
Thackery, 11 vols, half calf,	33.00	14.08
Macaulay's History of England, 5 vols, sheep,	7.50	4.98
Macaulay's Essays, 3 vols, cloth,	3.75	1.99
Bulwer's Novels, 13 vols, half calf,	39.00	21.48
Bulwer's Novels, 25 vols, half calf,	75.00	37.00
Macauley's History of England 5 vols, half calf,	15.00	7.40
Revised edition of the Bible,	1.00	.78
Troubled Waters,	1.25	.88
Afganistan and the Anglo-Russian dispute, illustrated and with maps,	,50	.39
English Classics—All in a Garden Fair, Belinda, Frankestein Outre Mer, Pyperion East Lynn, Tom Brown's School Days, The Mysterious Island, Pilgrims Progress, Imitation of Christ and 50 others,	1.00	.32
Red Line Edition of Standard Poets—Longfellow, Bryant, Whittier, Burns, Byron, Browning, Cowper Coleridge Dante, Eliot, Coethe, Heaven in Song, Hemane, Ingelow, Lucille, Milton, Poe, Pope, Proctor, Religious Poems, Schiller, Shakespeare and 60 others,	1.50	.59
Summer reading—A magnificent line of illustrated books of

	Publishers' Price.	Our Price
Fiction, embracing all the works of the best modern authors, elegantly bound in illuminated paper covers,	.50	.19
A selected line of the best works of Fiction, bound in colored cloth with gilt tiles, and embracing Her Mother's Sin and Beyond Pardon by Bertha M. Clay, Belinda by Rhoda Broughton; Other Peoples' Money by Emile Gaboriano and hosts of others,	1.25	.58
A beautiful line of 12 mo. books sumptuously bound comprising such works as Life of Washington, Ivanhoe, Oliver Twist, Adam Bede and 50 others,	1.25	.48
Don Quixote,	5.00	1.98
America Illustrated, 120 wood cuts,	3.00	.98
Wood's Natural History, 300 engravings,	1.25	.78
History of the United States—Frosts,	1.35	.78
Josephus's History of the Jews bound in sheep,	3.00	1.88
Poets bound in sheep, large volumes,	3.00	1.88
Gilbert edition of Shakespeare, fully illustrated,	5.00	2.28
A Manual of Ancient History,	1.25	.58
Right and Wrong Uses of the Bible,	1.25	.48
Popular American Dictionary,	1.00	.48
Favorite Dictionary, 35,000 words,	.35	.13
Spencer's Education,	1.50	.58
Elmo's Model Speaker for Children,	1.25	.48
Hoyle's Games,	1 50	.98
Miss Parloa's Cook Book,	1.25	.9
Miss Niel's every day Cook Book,	2.25	.48
Song and Instrumental Folios,	.50	.32
An elegant line of Family Bibles.
Hundreds of Humorous Books. An endless variety of Children's Books to suit all ages.
Treasures New and Old,	5.00	2.98
Ramona by Helen Jackson,	1.50	1.28
Worcester's Condensed Dictionary,	3.00	1.38
Poets bound in Alligator	3.00	1.48

SALE WILL CONTINUE FOR THIRTY DAYS ONLY.

W. B. GIFFORD & CO. MARKET ST., LYNN

Everything Selling Regardless of Cost at

WILMOT'S.

MEN'S PANTALOONS,

99c, $1.49, 2.00, 2.50 and 3.00. Marked down from $1.25, 2.50, 3 and 4.50,

MEN'S ALL WOOL SUITS,

$4.87 1-2, 6, 8 and 10. Marked down from $8, 10, 12 and 16.00.

CHILDREN'S BLOUSE SUITS,

Warranted Fast Colors, $2.50. Former Price $5.

MEN'S CARPET SLIPPERS,

25 cents. Regular Price, 75 cents.

MEN'S LOW CUT SHOES,

87 1-2 cents. Regular price, $1.75.

BOYS' BASE BALL SHOES, 70 CENTS.

WILMOT'S CLOTHING STORE,

252 & 254 ESSEX STREET, SALEM, MASS

J. FRANK BOYNTON, Manager.

WE HAVE

Just closed a contract with one of the largest manufacturers of Chamber furniture in the country for 2 car loads of

CHAMBER SETS,

consisting of Ash, Black Walnut, Cherry and Painted, which we shall offer to the citizens of Essex County this week, with

I CAR LOAD OF MATTRESSES,

at way down prices, either for cash or on our easy instalment plan, $1 down and $1 a week. We have the largest stock of

Stoves, Ranges, Furniture, Carpets, and Crockery,

In fact anything in the house furnishing line to be found in Essex county.

Goods delivered free. Horse and steam cars stop at door. Call and be convinced we can save you money. Send for catalogue price list. Balance of Refrigerators, Oil Stoves, and Children's Carriages,

at very low prices.

Curtains made and put up. Carpet made by hand by experienced workers.

D. B. H. POWER & CO.,

123 & 125 PLEASANT ST. 24 SCHOOL ST.,

MARBLEHEAD.

W. C. ROBINSON,

(Successor to Smith & Robinson.)

Dealer in all kinds of

STATIONERY AND

ARTISTS' MATERIALS.

Pictures and Picture Frames.

Everything to be found in a first class establishmeat.

Everything in our line at Bottom Prices.

The people of Peabody are cordially invited to look at our stock, and see our display of paintings and art work.

We are agents for the celebrated

ROGERS' GROUPS.

☞ Horse cars pass the door.

W. C. Robinson,

42 MARKET STREET, LYNN, MASS.

TWICE A DAY

HATHAWAY'S ORIGINAL

CREAM HOME MADE BREAD

Hot Morning and Afternoon. Best of goods in our line comprising

Crackers, Bread, Cake and Pastry,

Also rich Bride, Angel and Wedding Cake to order. Fine ornamental work for Wedding, Birthday and Party Cake a specialty.

C. F. Hathaway,

50 LOWELL ST., PEABODY.

BUSHBY & MACURDY'S

CABINET PHOTOGRAPHS

At $3.00 per dozen are 100 per cent. better than any club-check photographs; and are guaranteed fully equal in

Posing, Lighting, Finish and Permanency

to any $10 cabinets made in Boston or New York.

The largest and best constructed operating studio in New England. 40,000 negatives preserved.

521 Washington St.,

BOSTON.

Elevator from the ground. feb 11—3m

MERRIAM & CO.,

DEALERS IN

WOOD AND COAL

Danversport, Mass.

Kohinoor Coal, Bear Ridge Coal, Sheaokin Coal, Genuine Franklin Coal, Cumberland Coal.

All the best quality. Try them.

For Cash lower than can be bought elsewhere

Orders can be left with B. F. Stevens, Peabody, or by telephone to N. P. Merriam, Tapleyville, and will be promptly attended to.
em—

BATCHELDER & CO.,

DEALER IN

WOOD COAL HAY & STRAW.

Danversport and Peabody.

Cyrus P. Batchelder   Chauncy S. Richards

OFFICE IN PEABODY:

7 ALLEN'S BLOCK, SQUARE.

GREAT

REDUCTION IN PRICE OF

COAL

— AT —

PICKERINGS

17 Peabody St., Salem, Mass

WHERE ALL FIRST-CLASS COALS CAN BE FOUND

Specialty made in Steam Coals.

Orders can be left at Office, 12 Front St., or at B. P. Pickering's Store, Salem.

SPECIAL RATES MADE FOR LARGE ORDERS

WHARF, 17 PEABODY STREET

WM. PICKERING, JR & CO.,

17 Peabody Street.

PATENTS.

R. H. EDDY,

No. 76 State St., opposite Kilby, Boston.

Secures patents in the United States; also in Great Britain, France and other foreign countries. Copies of the claims of any patents furnished by remitting one dollar. Assignments recorded at Washington. No Agency in the United States possesses superior facilities for obtaining Patents or ascertaining the patentability of inventions. R. H. EDDY, Solicitor of patents.

TESTIMONIALS.

"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse."
CHAS. MASON, Commissioner of Patents.

"Inventors cannot employ a person more trustworthy or more capable of securing for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office."
EDMUND BURKE, late Com. of Patents.

BOSTON, Oct. 19, 1870.

R. H. EDDY, Esq.—Dear Sir: you procured for me, in 1870, my first patent. Since then you have acted for and advised me in hundreds of cases, and procured many patents, re-issues and extensions. I have occasionally employed the best agencies in New York, Philadelphia and Washington, but I still give you almost the whole of my business, in your line, and advise others to employ you.
Yours truly, GEORGE DRAPER.
Boston, January 1, 1885.—1 y

FOR SALE.

House and land on Aborn street belonging to the estate of the late P. L. WINCHESTER. The house is two and one-half stories, and contains fourteen rooms, and is in good condition. The land measures about 10,000 feet, and there is connected with the premises a good stable. For terms or further particulars apply to GEORGE J. WINCHESTER, Administrator. dec 19

ST. JACOBS OIL
TRADE MARK

THE GREAT GERMAN REMEDY FOR PAIN.

CURES

Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Sciatica, Lumbago, Backache, Headache, Toothache, Sore Throat, Swellings, Sprains, Bruises, Burns, Scalds, Frost Bites, AND ALL OTHER BODILY PAINS AND ACHES.

Sold by Druggists and Dealers everywhere. Fifty Cents a bottle. Directions in 11 Languages.

THE CHARLES A. VOGELER CO.
(Successors to A. VOGELER & CO.) Baltimore, Md., U. S. A.

Lorillard's
CLIMAX-PLUG TOBACCO,
RED TIN TAG.
IMITATIONS
CLIMAX GRADE

NATIONAL

REAL ESTATE TITLE ASSOCIATION,

114 LA SALLE STREET, CHICAGO, ILL.,

Will undertake the care and management of real estate, make loans and pay taxes for non-residents; examine and guarantee titles. Satisfactory references. Information free. Correspondence solicited.

MASSACHUSETTS

STATE NORMAL SCHOOL

AT WORCESTER.

Twelfth School Year will begin with entrance examination on Thursday, Sept 10, 1885. Unsurpassed advantages for those who wish to become teachers. Tuition and use of text books free. For full information send for catalogue.

E. H. RUSSELL, Principal.

ADVERTISERS by addressing Geo. P. Rowell & Co., 10 Spruce St., New York, can learn the exact cost of any proposed line of Advertising in American Newspapers. ☞ 100-page Pamphlet. 10c.

BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS!

BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS
FOR
That Ache in Small of Back.

BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS
RELIEVES
Weary, Aching Bones.

BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS
CURES
Dyspepsia.

Dyspepsia.

GENTS:—I feel it my duty to say respecting Burdock Blood Bitters, that it is the best medicine I ever took. I suffered two or three years from stomach troubles and dyspepsia, as well as from liver and kidney complaint. I was not able to attend to my business. My wife was afflicted in much the same way. We read of your Bitters in the papers and made up our minds that we would try them. The result is, my wife and I began to improve at once, and I am now able to do more hard work than before in ten years. It relieved my kidney troubles as well. We both wish you, the makers of it, Godspeed.

JOSEPH LANDON,
Chelsea, Vt.

"ROUGH ON RATS."

Clears out rats, mice, roaches, flies, ants, bed-bugs, skunks, chipmunks, gophers. 15c. Druggists.

HEART PAINS.

Palpitation, Dropsical Swellings, Dizziness, Indigestion, Headache, Sleeplessness cured by Wells' Health Renewer

"ROUGH ON CORNS."

Ask for Wells' "Rough on Corns." 15c. Quick complete cure. Hard or soft corns, warts, bunions.

"BUCHU-PAIBA."

Quick, complete cure, all Kidney, Bladder and Urinary Diseases. Scalding, Irritation, Stone, Gravel, Catarrh of the Bladder. $1, Druggists.

BED-BUGS, FLIES.

Flies, roaches, ants, bed-bugs, rats, mice, gophers, chipmunks, cleared out by "Rough on Rats." 15c.

THIN PEOPLE.

"Wells' Health Renewer" restores health and vigor, cures Dyspepsia, Impotence, Sexual Debility. $1.

"ROUGH ON PAIN."

Cures cholera, colic, cramps, diarrhoea, aches, pains, sprains, headache, neuralgia, rheumatism, 20c. Rough on Pain Plasters, 15c.

MOTHERS.

If you are failing, broken, worn out and nervous, use "Wells' Health Renewer." $1. Druggists.

LIFE PRESERVER.

If you are losing your grip on life, try "Wells' Health Renewer," Goes direct to weak spots.

"ROUGH ON PILES."

Cures Piles or Hemorrhoids, Itching, Protruding, Bleeding, Internal or other. Internal and External Remedy in each package. Sure cure, 50c. Druggists.

PRETTY WOMEN.

Ladies who would retain freshness and vivacity Don't fail to try "Wells' Health Renewer."

"ROUGH ON ITCH."

"Rough on Itch" cures humors, eruptions, ring-worm, tetter, salt rheum, frosted feet, chilblains.

"ROUGH ON CATARRH,"

Corrects offensive odors at once. Complete cure of worst chronic cases, also unequaled as gargle for Diptheria, Sore Throat, Foul Breath. 50c.

THE HOPE OF THE NATION.

Children, slow in development, puny, scrawny, and delicate, use "Wells' Health Renewer."

CATARRH OF BLADDER.

Stinging, irritation, inflammation, all Kidney and Urinary complaints, cured by "Buchu-Paiba." $1

"WATER BUGS, ROACHES."

"Rough on Rats" clears them out, also Beetles, Ants.

Hale's Honey the great Cough cure, 25c., 50c. & $1
Glenn's Sulphur Soap heals & beautifies, 25c.
German Corn Remover kills Corns & Bunions
Hill's Hair and Whisker Dye—Black and Brown, 50c.
Pike's Toothache Drops cure in 1 Minute, 25c
Dean's Rheumatic Pills are a sure cure, 50c.
feb 18—1y

Book Notices.

"Grant's Memorial: what shall it be?" is discussed in the September number of the North American Review, by Launt Thompson, Karl Gerhardt, O. L. Warner and Wilson McDonald, sculptors; W. H. Beard, painter; Calvert Vaux and Henry Van Brunt, architects; and Clarence Cook, art critic. This symposium is sure to attract wide attention at this time. The same number of the Review contains a consideration of the question, "Shall our National Banking System be Abolished?" by George S. Boutwell, F. J Scott, S. Dana Horton and Edward H. W. Clark. But the most readable article in the number is ex-Sergeant-at-Arms French's "Reminiscences of Famous Americans," which is a series of delightful anecdotes about the famous war senators. Mr. French is writing a book of these reminiscences. If it equals this forestallment in the Review, it will be one of the famous works of modern literature.

Frank Leslie's Popular Monthly for September brings before us several notable articles, which will be read with much interest at this time. The number opens with a carefully written paper by Edmund Collins on "Canada since the Confederation." "Some Famous Juliets" has portraits of Ellen Terry, Mary Anderson, Adelaide Neilson, Mrs. Kemble and Fanny Kemble in this character. The "Caverns of Luray," in Page County, Va., by Ralph S. Tarr, is another finely illustrated paper. This famous cave is destined to rival Mammoth Cave. History, Geography, Science, Travel, Fiction, Adventure and Verse add their attractions to one of the most interesting numbers of this favorite magazine ever issued. Published by Mrs. Frank Leslie, 53, 55 and 57 Park Place, New York City, at 25 cents a number, or $3 a year, postpaid.

One of the most notable utterances regarding General Grant is that in the September Harper's, from the pen of Gen. Horace Porter. Gen. Porter was on Gen. Grant's staff during most of the war, and was one of his private secretaries when he became President. He knew the dead hero, therefore, under all varieties of circumstance; and his paper presents a great number of personal reminiscences both of his military and political life. A fine portrait, engraved by Kruell, accompanies the article.

Nearly a hundred years ago New England began to stream out to the Western Reserve, and founded its first colony at Marietta, Ohio. It is proposed to celebrate the event by a "centennial" in 1888; meanwhile Harper's Magazine takes time by the forelock, and gives in the September issue a paper on "The Earliest Settlement in Ohio," with numerous portraits of the pioneers and pictures of old houses.

Henry James begins a new story, "The Princess Casamassima," in the September Atlantic, and the reader will find it totally unlike anything he has previously written. Mrs. Oliphant's serial is remarkably interesting just now, and Mr. Warner and Dr. Holmes give entertaining installments of "On Horseback" and "The New Portfolio." There is a thoughtful article —"Ancient and Modern Greek"—on the "Greek question" in colleges, by William Cranston Lawton, and under the title of "A Diplomatic Episode," Rev. S. J. Barrows narrates the attempted seizure of the island of Alte Velo by the United States government. A careful consideration of "The Poetic Element in the Mediæval Drama," three good poems, and reviews of several important books, together with the usual departments, close the number. Houghton, Mifflin & Co., Boston.

Lippincott's Magazine for September is light and amusing, as a number issued in the dog-days should be. "On this Side" is brought to a conclusion, which is satisfactory in all respects, except that of leaving no more to come. In "A Chapter of Mystery," Charles Morris deals with the subject of Spiritualism, confining himself to the manifestations observed and tested by scientific investigators,—Crooks, Wallace and others,—and drawing no inferences in regard to their causes beyond a claim to further and stricter investigation. "Roses of Yesterday and To-day," by Alice King Hamilton, is a paper of pleasant reminiscences. "Muster-day in New England," by F. G. Mather, is an amusing picture of bygone manners and the training and tactics of the old State militia. The "Gossip," among other good things, contains extracts from Tourgeneff's correspondence.

The Season for September illustrates the coming styles which develop no decided change from the present. Headgear is a trifle more towering and drapery more ample. Every item of the wardrobe is carefully considered in this excellent fashion magazine whose pages are entirely devoted to fashion, and it is therefore the most complete.

◆

A HOTEL MAN'S DISCOVERY.—San Francisco, Cal. Mr. George H. Arnold, proprietor of the Occidental Hotel, says that as the air is purer as we ascend, a man should not object to being assigned to a room on the uppermost floor; that he shouldn't mind taking a room-attic, as it were, in view of the fact that St. Jacobs Oil so promptly cures the rheumatic. He states that throughout California it is regarded as the great pain-cure of the age.

◆

Gov. Robinson is enjoying a vacation until Sept. 1, Lieut.-Gov. Ames occupying the executive chair in the meantime.

KEEP IT PURE.

THE LIFE IS THE BLOOD—PREVENT DISEASE —SURGERY THE LAST RESORT—A TELLING LETTER.

Here is a fact for you to think over, viz.: Medical science proves that diseases, no matter how great a variety they seem to have, proceed from comparatively few causes. It is for this reason that some single medicines relieve or cure so wide a range of complaints —some of them appearing almost directly opposite in their natures. When a medical preparation acts at once upon the digestive and urinary organs, and also purifies the blood, the list of difficulties subject to its control is astonishing. But, while many things are said to possess this power, those which actually do exert it are very rare.

It is conceded that DR. KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY, of Rondout, N. Y., is the most effective preparation now in use for all diseases arising from a foul or impure state of the circulation. Hence it is more than likely that if the writer of the following letter had habitually taken "FAVORITE REMEDY" ten years ago, he would never have suffered from Cancer.

PITTSFIELD, MASS., March 22, 1884.

Dr. D. Kennedy, Rondout, N. Y.:

Dear Sir:—About six years ago I was obliged to resort to external treatment for the removal of a cancerous growth on my lip. On my return home, I became sensible that my blood needed a thorough cleansing. My whole system, too, required toning up. While casting about for the best medicine to do this your "FAVORITE REMEDY" was so highly commended in my hearing that I resolved to try it. I did so, and the result surprised me, it was effected so quickly and completely. I soon got over the depression produced by the operation, and since the "FAVORITE REMEDY," which I have continued to take in small doses, has kept me in such health and strength as I never had before, nor expected to have. It is the best blood purifier in the world. I am sure of that.

Yours, etc.,
MATTHEW FARRELL.
24 Adams Street.

In all cases when a consultation is deemed desirable.

Address, Dr. David Kennedy, Rondout, N. Y. But, if you have not done so, adopt "FAVORITE REMEDY" as a household friend.

MALARIA.

As an anti-malarial medicine

DR. DAVID KENNEDY'S

FAVORITE REMEDY

has won golden opinions. No traveler should consider his outfit complete unless it includes a bottle of this medicine. If you are exposed to frequent changes of climate, food and water, Favorite Remedy should always be within your reach. It expels malarial poisons, and is the best preventative of chills and malarial fever in the world. It is especially offered as a trustworthy specific for the cure of Kidney and Liver complaints, Constipation and all disorders arising from an impure state of the blood. To women who suffer from any of the ills peculiar to their sex Favorite Remedy is constantly proving itself an unfailing friend—a real blessing. Address the proprietor, Dr. D. Kennedy, Rondout, N. Y. $1 bottle, 6 for $5. by all druggists.

THE BRYANT & STRATTON
COMMERCIAL SCHOOL

BOSTON.

Largest & most Successful in the World,

Will Reopen Monday, Sept. 7th.

THE COURSE OF STUDY is thorough, complete and practical. Pupils are fitted for the duties and work of every day life.

THE FACULTY embraces a list of twenty teachers and assistants, elected with special reference to proficiency in each department.

THE STUDENTS are young people of both sexes, full of diligence and zeal.

THE DISCIPLINE is of the highest order and includes valuable business lessons.

THE PATRONAGE is the largest of any Commercial School in the world.

THE REPUTATION of this school for originality and leadership and as the Standard Institution of its kind is generally acknowledged.

THE SCHOOL BUILDING is centrally located and purposely constructed.

SPECIAL COURSE. Short Hand, Type Writing, Composition and Correspondence may be taken as a special course.

SITUATIONS in Business Houses furnished its pupils completes the varied inducements to attend this school.

On and after Aug. 24th, the Principal may be seen daily from 9 till 2 o'clock, at the School Building, 608 Washington street. Prospectus, containing full information, concerning course of study, terms, etc., post free

aug 5—6t

To The Public.

Dr. Gray informs the people of Peabody and vicinity that he is now prepared to administer "Dr. Mayo's vegetable anæsthetic," which is giving universal satisfaction in New England. This anæsthetic is purely a vegetable compound and can be administered with perfect safety to children and people in delicate health. It has no after effect as is apt to be the case in Nitrous Oxide Gas and Ether.

Office hours 8 to 12 A. M., 1 to 5 P. M. Office open evenings only by appointment.

WARREN BANK BUILDING,

PEABODY.

HAZEN A. SPAULDING,

DRUGGIST.

9 Allen's Block, Peabody, Mass.

Where can be found a first class assortment of Pure Drugs and Medicines; also a large assortment of Toilet Articles and Fancy Goods at moderate prices.

A large assortment of Imported and Domestic Cigars.

Physicians' Prescriptions a Specialty.

HAZEN A. SPAULDING

Store Connected by Telephone.

CRAIG'S

KIDNEY CURE.

The Genuine.

WILLIAM T. LEE

AGENT.

Saving Institutions.

WARREN

FIVE CENTS SAVINGS BANK.

PEABODY

PRESIDENT.

Rufus H. Brown

Vice Presidents,

Stephen Blaney,	Geo. F. Osborne,
Lewis Allen,	Amos Merrill,
Chas. B. Farley,	John A. Lord.

Trustees,

Rufus H. Brown,	Alex. B. Merrill,
Stephen Blaney,	C. Warren Osborne,
Lewis Allen,	Geo. S. Osborne,
Chas. B. Farley,	Nathl. Symonds.
Geo. F. Osborne,	Aaron F. Clark,
Amos Merrill,	Albert A. Messer,
John A. Lord,	John Pinder,
Benj. S. Wheeler,	Wm P. Clark,
Wm. H. Little,	Reuben G. Nelson,
Aaron W. Warren,	Albert H. Merrill.

Clerk,

Albert H. Merrill.

Committee of Investment.

Rufus H. Brown,

Lewis Allen,	Alex. B. Merrill
C. Warren Osborne.	Nathl. Symonds.

Dividends are credited to the depositor as soon as declared, and immediately put upon interest.

New deposits commence drawing interest on the third Wednesday of February, May, August and November.

Peabody, March 6, 1878.

SALEM

FIVE CENTS

SAVINGS

BANK.

Cor. Washington & Essex Sts.,

WILLIAM H. JELLY, President.

CHARLES H. HENDERSON, Treas.

REMOVAL.

F. A. WRUCK

Watchmaker and Jeweller,

Would inform his friends and the public generally that he has removed from 165 to

276 ESSEX STREET,

(Wheeler & Wilson's Sewing Machine Office)

Where he will be pleased to see his former customers and as many new ones as will favor him with their patronage.

FINE WATCH AND CLOCK REPAIRING AT REDUCED PRICES PERSONALLY ATTENDED TO

AGENTS WANTED.

On Salary or Commission

FOR THE

CELEBRATED NEW BOOK,

THE WORLD'S WONDERS,

AS SEEN BY THE GREAT

Tropical and Polar Explorers.

Including the Official History of the late Greeley Expedition in search of the North Pole.

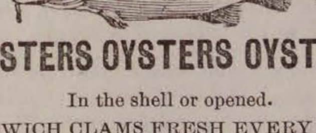
Embracing the travels, discoveries, achievements and marvelous adventures of such distinguished explorers as Speke and Grant, Burton, Sir Samuel Baker and wife, Livingstone, Stanley, Cummings, Du Chaillu, Wallace, Long, Squier, and numerous others in the Tropics; and in the Arctic regions, Franklin, Kane, Hays, Hall, Schwatka, De Long, Greeley, and many others, forming a complete history of exploration, discovery and adventure in all parts of the world, with descriptions of savage races, strange beasts, birds and reptiles, and great natural wonders; a record of marvelous things on the earth, a complete history of all the world's greatest wonders and famous explorations, in one splendid, low-priced, finely illustrated volume of 770 pages, and 200 engravings. A book of wonders, of great value and marvelously interesting. Warmly endorsed by ministers, teachers and many influential people. Outsells all other books! 16 large editions in five months! Splendid employment for men and women everywhere. No capital or experience needed. Send for pictorial circulars and extra terms. Salaries guaranteed. We mean what we say. Address,

HISTORICAL PUBLISHING CO.,
120 & 122 N. 7th St., Philadelphia, Pa.
jy 8—4t

CENTRAL FISH MARKET

(Formerly Southwick's.

RALPH F. DODGE, Prop.



OYSTERS OYSTERS OYSTERS

In the shell or opened.

IPSWICH CLAMS FRESH EVERY DAY.

A good selection of Norfolk, Providence River oysters a specialty. The famous Lynn Haven Bay Oysters.

A good assortment of Fresh, Salt, Smoked and Pickled Fish. Orders received and delivered promptly. Connected by telephone.

At the old stand on the Square, opposite the monument.

WIN more money than at anything else by taking an agency for the best selling book out. Beginners succeed grandly. None fail. Terms free. HALLETT BOOK CO., Portland, Me.

MUNROE & ARNOLD'S

PEABODY AND BOSTON

RAILROAD EXPRESS.

Express leaves Peabody at		9 47 A. M
Freight " " at		5 00 P. M
Express " Boston at		3 30 P. M
Freight " " at		4 00 P. M

OFFICE AT FREIGHT DEPOT, Peabody

Express Offices in Boston, 174 Washington and 15 New Devonshire Street.

Freight Office in Boston, 128 State Street

☞ Particular attention paid to removing Furniture, collecting Bills, Notes, Drafts &c., Smallest favors thankfully received.

B. M. HILLS'

PEABODY and SALEM

EXPRESS.

CHANGE OF TIME.

Connects with Eastern and No. Conway Trains Leaves Peabody at 7.30 A. M., and 1.30 P.M. Salem, at 10 A. M., and 4.45 P. M.

Order Boxes.—PEABODY, at Holman's, Pickering's, Bushby & Johnson's, Frost's Drug Store and Sutton's Wool Store.

SALEM, at Savory's Express Office, Roberts' Store, corner Washington and Front Sts., and 15 Central Street.

B. M. HILLS' Express connects with the Eastern and Western Expresses.

ESTES'

SALEM AND PEABODY EXPRESS.

Leaves Peabody at 7.30 A. M., 1.30 P. M.
Leaves Salem at 10.30 A. M., 4.30 P. M.

Order Slates in Peabody, at G. Stevens', G. H. Jacobs', L. Pratt's, B. B. Humphrey's, W. O. Batchelder's.

In Salem at J. V. & J. Hanson & Co's, Roberts Fruit Store, Henry Hale's, E. Heffernan's, J. J. Mullin, F. C. Radford's, C. A. Ropes & Son, Geo A. Wells & Co's., C. M. Buffum's.

Connects with Eastern Express. Also connects with No. Conway, and the Beverly, Ipswich and Marblehead Expresses.

All orders promptly attended to and satisfaction guaranteed.

CHAS. H. ESTES,

TOWNSEND'S

PEABODY & BOSTON

EXPRESS.

Leaves Peabody at 10 A. M. over the Wakefield Branch R. R.

Leaves the Boston Office, 32 Court Square, at 2 P. M.

All business entrusted to my care will be safely and carefully attended to. Daily and weekly papers supplied.

Order Slates:—At B. F. Stevens', Bushby's, Batchelder's, B. B. Humphrey's, E. S. Howard's, and Nugent Bros. stores.

JAMES F. FOYE.

THOMAS H. O'KEEFE.

JOBBING AND EXPRESSING

of all kinds promptly attended to.

Persons desiring the removal of furnitue or ashes, rubbish, you can have such work satisfactorily done by leaving orders at G., Stevens', Batchelder's, or addressing Box 545, Peabody.

NEW COUPE.

Henry C. Wilson would inform the public that he will run a

PUBLIC CARRIAGE

to and from each train, and will also attend to calls around town, and to late trains and entertainments in Salem. Will also attend to Baggage Expressing and Jobbing of all kinds. Terms Reasonable. Order slate at Depot.

HENRY C. WILSON,
Peabody Mass.

CROSS,

PHOTOGRAPHER.

☞ There having been demand for more Clubs, I have concluded to issue a limited number.

INDUCEMENTS:

Two dozen Cards and two Cabinets given to any one getting up a Club of ten persons. Price of Club, $20. Each person to have one dozen Cards and one Cabinet finished in any of the different styles desired.

IRA P. ANADOR,

DEALER IN

CHOICE CONFECTIONERY

46 MARKET STREET LYNN

CHARLES SIMONDS,

LIVERY STABLE,

(HOTEL STABLE).

SAFE and Reliable Horses, and Easy Carriages of the best style, furnished at short notice, for Funerals, Weddings, Business or Pleasure Riding.

$200,000 in presents given away. Send us 5 cents postage, and by mail you will get free a package of goods of large value, that will start you in work that will at once bring you in money faster than anything else in America. All about the $200,000 in presents with each box. Agents wanted everywhere, of either sex, of all ages, for all the time, or spare time only, to work for us at their own home. Fortunes for all workers absolutely assured. Don't delay. H. HALLETT & Co., Portland, Maine.

Professional Cards.

THOMAS M. STIMPSON

Attorney and Counselor-at-Law.

194 ESSEX STREET SALEM

Residence Lowell Street, Peabody.

HENRY WARDWELL,

Attorney and Counselor-at-Law.

PEABODY,

And 35 Court St., Boston

FRANK E. FARNHAM,

Attorney and Counselor-at-Law.

REAL ESTATE, INSURANCE AND INVESTMENT AGENT,

ALLEN'S BLOCK   Peabody Square,

REMOVAL.

B. C. PERKINS,

Counselor at Law,

Has removed to Kinsman's Block,

81 WASHINGTON STREET, SALEM.

Evening consultations at residence, Peabody.

EUGENE T. McCARTHY,

Attorney and Counsellor at Law.

NO. 8 ALLEN'S BLOCK,

PEABODY.

oct 29—1y

MISS MARY E. LYNCH

TEACHER OF

Piano and Organ.

South Peabody, Mass.

Terms of tuition 8 and 10 dollars. Pupils visited at their homes if desired.

MISS ANNIE L. ORR,

TEACHER OF

VOCAL & INSTRUMENTAL MUSIC

Would solicit pupils. For terms apply to W P. Clark, or Miss Orr, No. 7 Pallry Place, Lynn, Mass.   apr 29

Business Cards.

HENRY L. WHIDDEN,

PAINTER.

Orders left at A. H. Whidden's Store will be attended to.

J. H. ALLEN,

UNDERTAKER,

Removed to 36 St. Peter street, Salem
jan 11

W. S. OSBORNE,

TOWN UNDERTAKER & FURNISHER.

Home, 96 Central St., Peabody. Office Second Door west of Hay Scales.

EDWIN B. BALCOM,

Architect and Builder.

Plans, Specifications and Estimates furnished at Short Notice. Contracts Made and Faithfully executed.

Shop on Walnut St. Residence, 78 Washington St.

PEABODY, MASS.

DISTIN,

TAILOR.

Call and inspect my stock of Woolens, a full line constantly on hand.

WARREN NATIONAL BANK BUILDING.

oct1

$1

13 WEEKS.

The POLICE GAZETTE will be mailed, securely wrapped, to any address in the United States for three months on receipt of

ONE DOLLAR.

Liberal discount allowed to postmasters, agents and clubs. Sample copies mailed free. Address all orders to

RICHARD K. FOX,
Franklin Square, N. Y.

TRY LYONS'

Hair Tonic.

It cleanses the scalp, removes dandruff, and promotes the growth of the hair.

Price 50 Cents per Bottle.

Put up and for sale only by

P. J. LYONS,

on the square.

HELP for working people. Send 10 cents postage, and we will mail you free, a royal, valuable sample box of goods that will put you in the way of making more money in a few days than you ever thought possible at any business. Capital not required. You can live at home and work in spare time only, or all the time. All of both sexes, of all ages, grandly successful, 50 cents to $5 easily earned every evening. That all who want work may test the business, we make this unparalleled offer: To all who are not well satisfied we will send $1 to pay for the trouble of writing us. Full particulars, directions, etc., sent free. Immense pay absolutely sure for all who start at once. Don't delay. Address STINSON & Co., Portland, Me.

HEADQUARTERS !

FOR

CIGARS.

THE BEST

to be found in the world? To prove it just call at the HORSE RAILROAD STATION on the Square, and see them.

GEO. STEVENS,

PEABODY SQUARE,

Agent for the Naumkeag Laundry.

MAYO'S

Compound Vegetable Anæsthetic.

A safe and pleasant substitute for gas and ether.

Discovered by Dr. N. K. Mayo of Boston, April 1883, subsequently administered by him in nearly two thousand cases, producing perfect slumber, being applicable to the child, the delicate sensitive woman as well as the hardy man. No ill effects have followed its use in any case, it acting rather as a vegetable tonic.

It controls the patient one-fourth longer than gas giving us time to remove from three to twenty teeth. It is with great confidence we have introduced it into our practice, giving very successful results.

DRS. FRIZZELL & WILLIAMS

DENTISTS.

LEE HALL

Opposite City Hall, Lynn, Mass.

Administered also at our branch office, Marblehead.

Dr. Williams' Toothache Drops at Druggists.

O. B. CHADWICK & CO.,

(SUCCESSORS TO CHAS. TAPLEY)

FIRE INSURANCE AGENTS

NO. 8 ALLEN'S BLOCK, PEABODY

Over $12,000,000 Cash Capital represented

Also Agents for Holyoke, Merrimac, Quincy, and Dorchester Mutual Fire Ins. Cos.

Particular attention given to insuring Household Furniture, Family Wearing Aparel, Musical Instruments, Libraries, and Merchandise of all kinds in sums of $100and upward, for one, three or five years, at the owest rates.

TRADE VITA MARK

LINIMENT!

No Compound has ever been Invented so Useful and Efficacious in Curing Rheumatism, Pains in the Side, Hip, Back and Limbs, Stiff, Weak and Enlarged Joints, Sore Throat, Headache, Neuralgia, Piles, Hard Tumors, Bee Stings, Chapped Hands, Bunions, Burns, Frosted Feet, Mosquito Bites, Bruises and Sprains of all kinds.

Price 25 cents.

VITA CO., New York

D. P. GROSVENOR.

PHARMACIST AND DRUGGIST,

Compounder of

Physicians Prescriptions

and dealer in

RELIABLE DRUGS.

35 MAIN STREET.

PEABODY, MASS.

PEABODY LAUNDRY.

Goods called for and delivered free of charge.

C. A. SANGER

7 LOWELL STREET,

UP STAIRS.

SWEETSER'S

DRUG STORE

NO. 37 MAIN STREET,

PEABODY

Drugs and Medicines of all kinds; Toilet Articles, Sponges, Brushes, Perfumery, &c., constantly on hand.

Prescriptions carefully and promptly prepared.

REMOVED TO

No. 241 Essex St.,

PRICE BLOCK,

DANIEL T. SMITH,

Watchmaker.

AGENTS WANTED for
Twenty Years of Congress,
1861—1881,
by James G. Blaine.

Hon. J. S. Wise of Va. says: "Whoever takes it up, no matter whether he be Mr. Blaine's friend or enemy, will never put it down until he has read the whole." Agents make from $200 to $1000 per month. Address, The Henry Bill Pub. Co., Norwich, Conn.

Railroads.

BOSTON & LOWELL R. R.

SALEM BRANCH.

NEW EXPRESS TRAIN

Salem to Lowell

AND THE

White Mountains.

BEGINNING

MONDAY, JULY 13TH,

A NEW EXPRESS TRAIN WILL

LEAVE SALEM

At 9.10 A. M. for Lowell,

Stopping only at Peabody and connecting at Lowell with the Through Express for the

WHITE MOUNTAINS

AND FOR

MONTREAL VIA PLYMOUTH.

Returning, a new Express Train will leave

LOWELL FOR SALEM

At 4.55 P. M.

Connecting with Express Train leaving the White Mountains in the Morning.

Excursion Tickets

AND

Parlor Car Seats

May be secured at the Company's Office, 85 Washington St., Salem.

CHAS. ODELL, Agent.

C. S. MELLEN, Gen. Supt.
LUCIUS TUTTLE Gen. Pass. Agt.

OLD COLONY RAILROAD.

SEASON OF 1885.

Excursion Rates

FROM BOSTON.

To	Rates
Barnstable and return	$2.90
Brant Rock and return	2.00
Brewster and return	3.60
Buzzard's Bay and return	2.15
Cataumet and return	2.40
Duxbury and return	1.50
East Brewster and return	3.70
East Marshfield and return	1.20
East Wareham and return	2 10
Eastham and return	3.90
Egypt and return	1.00
Falmouth and return	2.75
Fairhaven and return	2.30
Greenbush and return	1.10
Harwich and return	3.40
Hyannis and return	3.00
Kingston and return	1.50
Marshfield and return	1.40
Marion and return	2.00
Mattapoisett and return	2.20
Monument and return	2.20
Monument Beach and return	2 25
Nantucket and return	4.00
Newport and return	2.50
North Eastham and return	4.00
North Falmouth and return	2.45
North Harwich and return	3.30
North Sandwich and return	2.30
North Scituate and return	.95
North Truro and return	4.55
Oak Bluffs and return	3.00
Onset Bay and return	2 15
Orleans and return	3.75
Plymouth and return	1.50
Pocassett and return	2 35
Provincetown and return	4.80
Rock and return	1.55
Sandwich and return	2.50
Sea View and return	1.25
Scituate and return	1.05
South Dennis and return	3.25
South Duxbury and return	1.50
South Middleboro and return	1.65
South Truro and return	3.45
South Wareham and return	1.90
South Wellfleet and return	4.15
South Yarmouth and return	3.20
Tremont and return	1.80
Truo and return	4 40
Wareham and return	1.95
Wellfleet and return	4.25
West Barnstable and return	2.75
West Falmouth and return	2.55
West Sandwich and return	2.40
Woods Holl and return	2.85
Yarmouth and return	3.00

Tickets are limited to continuous passage only in either direction.

Tickets sold from June 1st to October 1st good to return until November 1st of year of date.

J. SPRAGUE, Jr.,
Gen.'l Pass. Agent.
J. R. KENDRICK,
Gen'l Manager.

BOSTON & LOWELL R. R.

JUNE 29, 1885.

PASSENGER SERVICE FROM SALEM:

Leave Salem for Lowell, and Lawrence at 7 10, 10 55 A. M., 4 40 P. M. Sunday 7 20 P. M.

Leave Lowell for Salem, at 7 35 A. M., 1 10, 6 P. M. Sunday 7 43 A. M.

Leave Lawrence for Salem, at 7 45 A. M., 1 05, 6 P. M. Sunday 7 45 A. M.

Leave Wilmington Junction for Salem, at 8 09 A. M., 1 38, 6 24 P. M. Sunday 8 13 A. M.

Leave North Reading for Salem, at 8 20 A. M., 1 48, 6 34 P. M. Sunday 8 24 A. M.

Leave West Peabody for Salem, at 8 34 A. M., 2, 6 45 P. M. Sunday 8 36 A. M.

The 7 10 A. M. and 4 40 P. M. trains from Salem connect at Wilmington Junction for Boston via B. & L. R. R.

Leave Boston (Boston & Lowell Depot) for Wilmington Junction and North Reading, at 1, 5 30 P. M.

All trains from Salem connect at Lowell for Nashua, Manchester and Concord, N. H.

The 7 10 A. M. train connects at Lowell for Peterboro, Keene and intermediate stations.

The 10 55 A. M. train connects at Ayer Junction for stations on W. & N. R. R., Springfield, Hartford, New Haven and New York; also for Troy, Albany and the West via Hoosac Tunnel Line.

C. S MELLEN, Gen'l Supt.
LUCIUS TUTTLE, Gen'l Pass. Agent.

A PRESENT!

Our readers for 12 cents in postage stamps to pay for mailing and wrapping and names of two book agents, will receive FREE a Steel Finish Parlor Engraving of all OUR PRESIDENTS, including Cleveland, size 22x28 inch, worth $4. Address

ELDER PUB. CO., Chicago, Ill.

Boston & Maine R. R.

SEASHORE LINE.

— THE —

SHORTEST, QUICKEST and BEST ROUTE

— TO —

LAKE WINNIPESAUKEE

— AND THE —

WHITE MOUNTAINS.

FROM SALEM TO FABYANS.

The Centre of the White Mountain Region

65 Miles Shorter and nearly 2 hours Quicker

THAN ANY OTHER ROUTE.

Leave Salem	10.10 A. M.	2.02 P. M.
Arr. Wolfboro	1.05 P. M.	5.20 P. M.
Arr. No. Conway	2 00 "	6.05 "
Arr. Crawford House	3.10 "	7.15 "
Arr. Fabyans	3 25 "	7.30 "
Arr. Bethlehem	4.28 "
Arr. Profile House	4.47 "

RETURNING,

Leave Fabyans at 9.35 A. M. and 2.10 P. M.
Arr. at Salem at 3.12 A. M. and 7.57 P. M.

Elegant Pullman Cars on all Trains Running Through to Fabyans.

EXCURSION RATES FROM SALEM

SPECIAL LIMITED.

Alton Bay	and Return,	$3.50
Wolfboro,	" "	4.00
Centre Harbor,	" "	4 00
Long Island,	" "	4.00
Weirs,	" "	4.00
Lake Village,	" "	4.00
Crawford House, good for the season,		10.00
Fabyans	and return "	10.50
Bethlehem	" " "	12.20
Profile House,	" " "	14.50

EXCURSION TICKETS

May be procured at the Salem Station.

PARLOR CAR SEATS

Send on application to

L. W. MARDEN, Ticket Agent.

JAS. T. FURBER, General Manager.
D. J. FLANDERS, Gen'l Pass. Agent.

BOSTON & LOWELL R. R.

MERRIMAC VALLEY ROUTE,

TO THE

White Mountains,
Montreal, Quebec,

AND ALL PARTS OF

Vermont,
New Hampshire
and Canada.

Accelerated Summer Service from Boston.

In Effect June 29, 1885.

8.30 A. M. Express for Weirs, Centre Harbor, Wolfboro' and Montreal, with through parlor cars via Plymouth and via White River Junction.

9.30 A. M. White Mountains Express, with through parlor cars to Weirs, Plymouth, Jefferson, Fabyan, Twin Mountain House and Mount Pleasant House; connecting for Maplewood, Bethlehem, Profile House Crawford and Mount Washington.

1.00 P. M. White Mountains and Montreal Express. With Mann Boudoir Car to Fabyan, etc., and parlor cars to Weirs, Plymouth and Montreal; connecting for Centre Harbor, Wolfboro', Maplewood, Bethlehem, Crawford's, Jefferson, etc.

3.00 P. M. Local train for Plymouth, White River Junction, Weirs, etc.

5.00 P. M. Fast Express for Lowell, Nashua, Amherst, Milford and Wilton.

7.00 P. M. Night Express for Montreal, via Plymouth and White River Junction, with Pullman Sleeping Cars.

Excursion tickets at lowest rates are procurable at the Company's offices, 218 Washington Street, third door South of Old State House, and at Causeway Street Station.

C. S. MELLEN, General Superintendent.
LUCIUS TUTTLE, Gen'l Pass. Agent.

ALLAN LINE

ROYAL MAIL STEAMSHIPS

Sailing from Quebec every Saturday for Liverpool.

SHORTEST OCEAN VOYAGE

Only five days from land to land.

Extra services from GLASGOW, GALWAY, QUEENSTOWN and LONDONDERRY to Boston direct for the convenience of Steerage passengers, to whom kind treatment is made a Specialty. Cabin, $70 and $80. Intermediate, $40. Steerage at Low Rates.

LEVE & ALDEN, Gen'l Pass. Agts.

15 State Street, Boston.

JOHN LINEHAN, Agt. for Peabody.

COMER'S COMMERCIAL COLLEGE,

666 Washington Street, BOSTON.

Thorough and Comprehensive Instruction in all Studies Essential to Success in Business.

Students may commence at any time, Receive Individual Instruction and progress according to ability and application. Separate department for Ladies. Graduates Aided to Employment. Young people receive instruction here that will insure a successful start in business, and that will benefit them throughout their business career. For 45th Annual Catalogue, Address C. E. COMER.

jy 15—13t

Agents Wanted
HOLY BIBLE REVISED VERSION.

Bibles at 1-2 and Old Testaments at less than 1-3 the prices of the English editions, and equal to the English in type, paper, printing and accuracy. First agent sent out reports an order at every call for two weeks. Rare chance for agents to make money. Send $1.00 for outfit. TERMS VERY LIBERAL. The Henry Bill Pub. Co., Norwich, Conn.

A RUSSIAN PRISON.

The fortress of St. Peter and St. Paul is huge, hideous and slabsided, and surmounted by a thin and tapering spire that looks like the end of a Brobdingnagian syringe. The fortress is in the centre of the city, and faces the imperial palace. During the day it is in part a public thoroughfare, and people pass through a narrow defile of gloomy and tortuous vaults, where heavily armed sentinels march to and fro, and stone slabs in niches hold aloft burning tapers. But at nightfall all is closed, and when darkness covers the capital and the quays of the Neva are all aglow with gaslights, the prison here dedicated to St. Peter and St. Paul remains shrouded in gloom like some huge maw, ever ready to swallow up all that is best and noblest of the unhappy hand which it curses with its presence. During the last twenty years thousands have entered its gloomy portals, and as fast as they perish or depart the great army of miserables is reinforced by fresh victims. Most of them only remain for a time, either pending their trial or until they are removed to a central prison or deported to Siberia. But there are some whose fate is still more terrible. There are prisoners who have never been tried and never will be—men and women—who are kept in prison generally for years, often for life, simply by order of the Czar. In one casement, dying of consumption, is a woman whose identity is as great a mystery as the "man in the iron mask." Neither her jailers nor her fellow-prisoners know either her name nor the nature of her crime. She is a number, and nothing more. What a terrible tragedy must be hidden in that woman's heart, if it still beats! The casemates are cells five paces long and three wide, equal to about seven and a half feet—dens into which little light struggles through a strongly-barred slit. The walls steam with moisture. For furniture the inhabitant has a straw mattress and a thin quilt, a jug, the image of a saint, and a pail which serves for all purposes and remains there day and night. The prisoners are never allowed to communicate with each other, nor to exchange a word with their jailers. Once a day the door is opened, and the wardens signify to the inhabitant by a gesture that it is the hour for exercise. Silently he rises from his little bed and follows his custodians into a narrow yard so hemmed in by high walls as to seem like the bottom of a well. Here he paces to and fro for the allotted time like a wild beast in a cage, and is then led back to his den as silently as he was brought out. The prison is full of people, yet for every inhabitant of its casemates, its bastions, its ravelins and its curtains there is the isolation of death. No books are allowed in this dismal solitude, not even the Bible. If a prisoner wants religious consolation he may look at his saint and raise his thoughts heavenward, if he can. It is no wonder that men immured in these dark places sometimes go mad. For clothing, the prisoners have the gray press of common malfactors. Instead of shoes and stockings, their feet are wrapped in rags. Even in the depth of winter the cells are seldom warmed, never sufficiently; at least, the fuel assigned for the purpose is insufficient, and embezzled at that. Hence the cells are always damp. Water streams down the walls and freezes in pools on the floor. So intense is the cold that when the director makes his rounds he never takes off his fur cloak, and shivers even then.

THE ORIGIN OF MUSQUITOES.

The Indians have a very satisfactory account of the origin of the Montezuma musquitoes. The legend runs thus: There were in times of old, many moons ago, two huge feathered monsters permitted by the Manitou to descend from the sky and alight on the banks of the Seneca River. Their form was that of the musquito. They were so large that they flew toward the earth. Standing on either bank they guarded the river, and stretching their long necks into the canoes of the Indians as they attempted to paddle along the stream, gobbled them up as the stork king in the fable gobbled up the frogs. The destruction of life was so great that not an Indian could pass without being devoured in the attempt. It was long before the monsters could be exterminated, and then only by the combined efforts of all the Cayuga and Onondaga nations. The battle was terrible, but the warriors finally triumphed, and the mammoth musquitoes were slain and left unburied. For this neglect the Indians had to pay dearly. The carcasses decomposed, and the particles, vivified by the sun, flew off in clouds of musquitoes, which have filled the country ever since.

BURMESE BUFFALOES.

In Burmah, or the Shan country, buffaloes are more hostile to Europeans than any other animal. "They are fine large animals," says the author of "Among the Shans," "of an exceedingly suspicious disposition, gentle and obedient to those they know, but violent and dangerous to strangers. It is curious to see, as one sometimes does, a stalwart Englishman protected from a buffalo by a little Burmah lad of ten or twelve, who quietly leads away the startled animal, which, but for his appearance on the scene, would have charged and possibly killed the detestable white man."

The "mooney" nights are now around.

WE HAVE SAVED MONEY

Is what OUR PEABODY FRIENDS and PATRONS say after visiting our store and securing some of the

GREATEST BARGAINS

— IN —

BABY CARRIAGES,
OIL STOVES,
REFRIGERATORS,

Parlor Suits, Chamber Sets, Carpeting, Ranges, Lamps, Silver Ware, Crockery and all kinds of Housekeeping Goods that we are now offering for CASH or on very easy terms of payments.

Goods on Instalments one of our specialties.

151 HANOVER ST., BOSTON.

W. P. B. BROOKS & CO.,

W. P. B. BROOKS, ALEX. D. DAMON, FRED. D. SPERRY.

E. R. MORSE SAFE CO.

MANUFACTURER OF

FIRE & BURGLAR PROOF SAFES, VAULT DOORS, STEEL CHESTS, SILVER SAFES, EXPRESS SAFES, FIRE AND THIEF PROOF JEWEL BOXES.

76 & 78 SUDBURY STREET, BOSTON.

Second hand SAFES.

SAFES bought and sold.

SAFES opened and repaired.

E. R. MORSE SAFE CO.
BOSTON.

SAFES exchanged.

SAFES moved.

Combination LOCKS put on to Old Safes.

Our Safes have on a PATENT CONCEALED DIAL LOCK which is used as a day door and is a great protection in case of fire, as the dial cannot be melted or broken off.

E. R. MORSE.

Was established in business October 10th, 1844.

NAUMKEAG BREWERY,

NO. 60 UNION STREET, SALEM.

We are prepared to fill orders for our

SPARKLING CREAM ALE

TO THE TRADE AND PRIVATE FAMILIES.

This Ale is brewed from the best Canada Malt combined with the choicest New York State Hops and Wenham Lake Water. For delicacy of flavor and sparkling brilliancy it cannot be excelled by any ale in the market and we Guarantee it strictly pure.

We make a specialty supplying private families, and respectfully solicit the patronage of the public generally who appreciate a pure and healthful beverage.

BARRELS, - - - - - -	$7.50
HALF BARRELS, - - - -	3.75

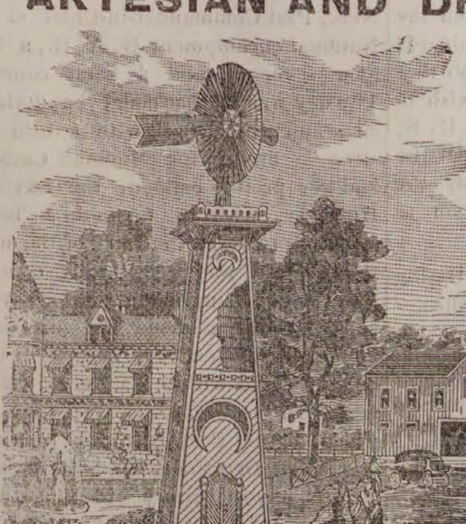
Ground Malt and Hops for Sale.

Orders by Mail or Telephone Promptly Filled.

ARTESIAN AND DRIVEN WELLS.



Cut showing the Driven Well flowing, pumped by Hand and Wind Power. Arranged with Set-Length, (anti-freezing), for Domestic, Farm and Irrigating purposes; where large amount of water is needed Steam Pumps are.

All of our

DRIVEN WELLS

for Domestic, Farm, or any other purpose well, receive prompt attention.

Thousands of these wells are being used in Tanneries, Breweries and other manufactories, where cool and better water is needed and also save water bills.

We are also prepared to

DRILL WELLS

six or eight inches in diameter through earth or rock, by steam power.

B. F. SMITH,

OFFICE,

266 WASHINGTON STREET,

Room 3, Boston

A PRIZE Send six cents for postage, and receive free, a costly box of goods which will help you to more money right away than anything else in this world. All, of either sex, succeed from first hour. The broad road to fortune opens before the workers, absolutely sure. At once address, TRUE & Co., Augusta, Me.

FREDERIC G. PRESTON,

Attorney and Counsellor at Law.

ALLEN'S BLOCK.

RESIDENCE, 171 BOSTON ST., SALEM.

Conveyances.

BOSTON & MAINE RAILROAD On and after Monday, Je. 28, 1885 trains will run as follows,—

EASTERN DIVISION,

TRAINS LEAVE PEABODY FOR BOSTON AT 6 44, 7 25, 8 02, 8 31, 10 33, 11 07 A. M., 2 01, 3 37, 5 08, 6 46 P. M.

BOSTON FOR PEABODY, 8, 10 55 A. M., 1 M., 3, 4, 4 40, 5 15, 6 P. M.

LEAVE SALEM FOR

Lynn and Boston at 5 37, 6, 6.30, 7, 7 14, 7 35, 7 48, 7 51, 8 13, 8 34 (does not stop at Lynn), 8 40, 8 58, 9 20, 9 55, 10.48 A. M., 12 M., 12 30, 12 52, 2 15, 3 12, 3 45, 4 10, 4 25, 5 17, 5 48, 6 33, 6.58, 7 20, 7 57, 8 55, 9, 9 55 P. M. Sundays, 5.37, 8 40, 11 35 A. M., 1 05, 3 05, 5 40, 8 15, P. M.

Swampscott, 6, 6 30, 7 14, 7.48, 7 51, 8 40, 8 58, 10 48, A. M., 12 M, 12 52, 2 15, 3 45, 4 25, 5 17, 5 48, 6 33, 6 58, 7 20, 7 57, 9, 9 55, P. M. Sundays, 8 40 11 35 A. M., 1 05, 3 05, 5 40, 8 15 P. M.

Beverly, 6 53, 8 11, 8 40, 10 42, 11 20 A. M., 12 02, 1 05, 2 27, 2 47, 3 56, 4 05, 5 12, 5 57, 6 37, 7 05, 7 15, 7 45, 10 10, 11, P. M. Sundays 8 45 A. M.

Beverly Farms, Manchester and Gloucester—6 53, 8 40, 11 20 A. M., 2 47, 4 07, 5 35, 7 05, 7 45, 10 10 P. M.

Essex, 8 11 A. M., 3 56, 6 37 P. M.

Ipswich, 8 11, 9 35, 10 42 A. M., 1 05, 2 27, 3 56, 5 12, 6 37, 7 15 P. M., Sundays 8 45 A. M., 7 30 P. M.

Newburyport, 8 11, 9 35, 10, 10 42 A. M., 1 05, 2 02, 2 27, 3 56, 5 12, 6 37, 7 15 P. M. Sundays 8 45 A. M., 7 30 P. M.

Amesbury, 8 11, 10 42 A. M., 1 05, 3 56, 5.12 P. M.

Portsmouth—8 11, 9 35, 10, 10 42 A. M., 1 05, 2 02, 3 56, 5 12, ‡7 15 P. M. Sundays 8 45 A. M., 7 30 P. M.

Dover, 8 11, A. M., 2 02, 5 12 P. M.

Great Falls and Rochester, 8 11, 10 A. M., 2 02, 3 56 P. M.

Wolfboro—8 11, 10 A. M., 2 02, 3 56 P. M.

North Conway—8 11, 10 A. M., 2 02 P. M.

Portland—8 11, 9 35 A. M., 1 05, ‡7 15 P. M. Sundays 7 30 P. M.

Augusta—9 35 A. M., 1 05, †7 15 P. M. Sundays 7 30 P. M.

Bangor—9 35 A. M., 1 05, †7 15 P. M. Sundays 7 30 P. M.

St. John and Halifax, 9 35 A. M. †7 15 P. M. Sundays, 7 30 P. M.

Montreal, 9 35 P. M.

And FOR SALEM—from

Montreal—10 15 P. M.

St. John—8 P. M. (daily except Saturday).

Bangor, 8 A. M., 1 30, 8 P. M. Sundays 8 P. M.

Augusta, 6, 10 A. M., 2 45, 10 55 P. M. Sundays 10 55 P. M.

Portland—2, 9 A. M., 1, 6 P. M. Sundays, 2 A. M.

North Conway—7 20, 11 A. M., 3 30 P. M.

Wolfboro—6 05 (Mondays only), 8 15, 11 20 A. M., 4 05 P. M.

Rochester—7 22, 9 42 A. M., 1 05, 5 37 P. M.

Great Falls—7 38, 9 57 A. M., 1 18, 5 50 P. M.

Dover—7, 10 25 A. M., 4 30 P. M.

Portsmouth—4 05, 7 30, 7 35, 8 20, 10 50 A. M., 1 55, 2 55, 5, 6 40, 7 40 P. M., Sundays, 4 05 A. M., 4 P. M.

Amesbury—6 40, 8 40, 11 15 A. M., 1 30, 3 05, 5 20 P. M.

Newburyport—4 45, 6 30, 7, 8, 8 13, 9 05, 11 35 A. M., 2 35, 3 30, 3 38, 5 43, 7 20, 8 15 P. M. Sundays, 4 45 A. M., 4 45 P. M.

Ipswich—5 07, 6 48, 7 17, 8 15, 8 31, 9 25, 11 59 A. M., 2 49, 3 55, 6 06, 7 36 P. M. Sundays 5 07 A. M., 5 06 P. M.

Essex—7, 11 45* A. M., 5 45 P. M.

Rockport—6 05, 7 20, 8 30, 10 A. M., 1 20, 5, 6 10, 9 P. M. Sundays—7 45 A. M.

Gloucester—6 15, 7 29, 8 39, 10 08 A. M., 1 30, 5 08*, 6 20, 9 09 P. M. Sundays—7 55 A. M.

Manchester—6 30, 7 42, 8 51, 10 21 A. M., 1 45, 5 22, 6 32, 9 23 P. M. Sundays, 8 09 A. M.

Beverly—6 50, 7 05, 7 40, 8 05, 8 50, 9 11, 9 45, 10 40 A. M., 12 20, 12 45, 2 05, 4 16, 5 40, 6 23, 6 50, 7 08, 7 50, 9 43, 11 10 P. M. Sundays 8 30 A. M., 5 30 P. M.

Swampscott,—6 44, 8 50, 10 34, 11 26, 11 54 A. M., 12 36, 2 19, 3 28, 4 31, 6 20, 6 28, 6 56, 8 29, 10, 10 49, 11 49 P. M. Sundays 8 36, 11 17 A. M., 1 57, 5 51, 10 11 P. M.

Lynn—6 40, 7 59, 8 30, 8 46, 9 25, 9 51, 10 30, 11 10, 11 23, 11 51 A. M., 12 33, 12 55, 1 52, 2 15, 3 25, 3 45, 3 55, 4 28, 5 03, 5 24, 5 45, 6 16, 6 25, 6 52, 7 05, 7 35, 8 25, 9 55, 10 45, 11 45 P. M. Sundays 8 32, 11 14 A. M., 1 03, 5 47, 7 22, 10 06, P. M.

Boston—6 10, 7 30*, 8, 8 05, 9, 9 30, 10, 10 45, 10 55* 11 15 A. M. 12 M., 12 30, 1 30, 1 40, 2 15, 3, 3 20, 3 30, 4, 4 40, 5, 5 15, 5 40, 6, 6 20, 6 40, 7 10, 7 50, 9 20, 10 15, 11 15 P. M. Sundays, 8, 10 40 A. M., 1 20, 5 10, 7, 9 39 P. M.

*Via Saugus Branch.
†Change at Newburyport.

MARBLEHEAD BRANCH.

Salem for Marblehead—6 50, 7 55, 8 40, 9 30 A. M., 1, 2 30, 4 20, 5 15, 6 05, 7 20 P. M.

Marblehead for Salem—6 30, 7 30, 8 15, 9 10, 10 15 A. M., 2 3 20, 4 55, 5 40, 6 25 P. M.

SOUTH READING BRANCH.

Trains leave the South Reading Depot in Salem for Boston, 7 25, 9 05 A. M., 1 40, 4 35 P. M.

Boston for Salem—7 40, 11 30 A. M., 3 10, 5 15 P. M.

Wakefield for Salem—8 13 A. M., 12 06, 3 43, 5 48 P. M.

Lynnfield for Salem—8 24 A. M., 12 16, 3 52, 5 59 P. M.

Peabody for Salem—8 35 A. M., 12 27, 4 02, 6 07 P. M.

LAWRENCE BRANCH.

Salem for Lowell—7 A. M., 6 P. M.

Salem for Lawrence—7 09, 11 32 A. M. 4 43, 6 P. M.

Salem for Middleton—6 15, 7, 8 58, 11 35 A. M., 3 36, 4 43, 6 P. M.

Salem for Danvers—6 15, 7, 7 28, 8 58, 11 32 A. M., 12 47, 3 36, 4 43, 5 20, 6, 6 42 P. M.

Lowell for Salem—7 10, 9 45 A. M., 12 15, 5 15 P. M.

Lawrence for Salem—7 40, 10 5 A. M., 1, 5 50 P. M.

Middleton for Salem—7, 8 07, 10 10, 10 45 A. M., 1 35, 4 45, 6 27, P. M.

Danvers for Salem—6 37, 7 15, 7 50, 8 31, 10 25, 11 A. M., 1 50, 3 30, 5, 5 50, 6 39, P. M.

Peabody for Salem—6 44, 7 25, 8 02, 8 31, 10 33, 11 07 A. M., 2 01, 3 37, 5 08, 5 58, 6 46 P. M.

JAMES T. FURBER, General Manager.
Boston Je. 28, 1885.

NEW YORK & NEW ENGLAND RAILROAD.

Shorter by twenty miles than any other Line between Boston and New York

Now a Double Track Road to a Connection with the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad, West of Willimantic.

LEAVE BOSTON.

8.30 A. M. *DAY EXPRESS TRAIN for New York (via Middletown and New Haven); Pullman Cars Boston to New York. A part of this train runs through to Hartford, New Britain Waterbury, Danbury and Fishkill.

3.00 P. M. †NEW ENGLAND LIMITED for New York (via Air Line Route) running 86 miles without a stop. Due Grand Central Depot, New York, at 9.00 P. M. Connects week days at Willimantic with train for Hartford, New Britain and Waterbury.

3.30 P. M. *AFTERNOON MAIL for New York, (via Middletown and New Haven), due New York 11.25 P. M. A part of this train runs through to Hartford, New Britain and Bristol.

6.30 P. M. †PHILADELPHIA EXPRESS for Hartford, New Haven, Jersey City, Trenton, Philadelphia, Baltimore and Washington, connecting for Richmond and points South. Through Pullman cars to Washington.

6.30 P. M. *NORWICH LINE EXPRESS for New York, New London, Norwich, Danielsonville and Putnam. Train connects at New London with Steamer City of Worcester, or City of Boston.

Seats in Parlor Cars, Berths in Pullman Cars, State-rooms on Steamers, Tickets and information obtained at Office, 322 Washington St., or Depot, foot of Summer St.

BOSTON
A. C. KENDALL, Gen'l Pass. Agt.

BOSTON, REVERE BEACH & LYNN R.R. SUMMER TIME-TABLE.

June, 15, 1885.

Leave Boston at 6.50, 7.30, 8, 8.30, 9, 10, 11 A. M. 12 M.; 1, 2, 2.30, 3, 3.30, 4, 4.30, 5, 5.30, 6, §6.30, 7, 7.30, 8, 8.30, 9.20, 9.50, 10.50, 11.15 P. M.

Leave Lynn at §6.10, 6.50, 7, 7.30, 8, 8.30, 9, 10, 11 A. M. 12 M.; 1, 1.45, 2.15, 2.45, 3.15, 3.45, 4.15, 4.45, 5.15, 5.45, 6.15, 6.45, 7.15, 7.45, 8.40, 9.10, 9.40, 10.10, 10.30, P. M.

SUNDAY TRAINS.

Leave Boston at 10, 11 A. M.; 12 M.; 1, 2, 2.30, 3, 3.30, 4, 4.30, 5, 5.30, 6, 6.30, 7, 7.30, 8, 8.30, 9, 10, P. M.

Leave Lynn at 9, 10, 11 A. M.; 12 M.; 1, 1.45, 2.15, 2.45, 3.15, 3.45, 4.15, 4.45, 5.15, 5.45, 6.15, 6.45, 7.15, 7.45, 8.15, 9.15 P. M.

§Workingmen's train.

JOHN A. FENNO, G. T. A.
C. A. HAMMOND, Supt

CALL AT THIS OFFICE FOR FINE JOB PRINTING. Specimens given

OUR COMPETITOR EXHIBITS HIS CAT AND SO DO WE.

MAKE YOUR OWN COMPARISON.

As our cat is pleasing and more contented looking than his, so our customers go away better satisfied with the fine quality of the boots and shoes purchased of us at lower prices than the same goods are sold by other dealers.

Call and see for yourselves.

F. W. Lucas & Co.,
186 ESSEX STREET,
Head of Central Street, Salem

SPARKS.

At the regular August meeting of Steamer Company No. 2, it was voted that the company should take a days' trip on a yacht, starting from Salem, and that a number of invited guests should accompany the party, and a committee appointed to attend to the details. Enquiring among the members of the company a few days later showed that a trip of this kind was not very popular, but that some longer one would be much more pleasing. Acting on this, the committee called a meeting of the company for Monday the 17th, when it was proposed that instead of the yachting party, a trip on the Steamer Empire State should be taken. This took the fancy of every member, and it was then and there decided to go on the Isle of Shoals trip of the next Wednesday, and all arrangements were accordingly made and invitations extended to the Board of Engineers and the honorary members of the company and any others who might wish to accompany them. Wednesday morning opened with threatening weather, and many were the regrets at what promised to be a bad day, but notwithstanding the rain which began falling just before eight o'clock, every member of the company, with Chief Engineer Tibbetts, Assistant Engineer Johnson, ex-Engineers Folsom and Lord, driver Duntley, Engineer Sumner and fireman Childs, Assistant Foreman A. A. Carleton, and W. S. Lord of the H. & L. and George Wasson as invited guests took the eight o'clock train on the Boston & Maine road for Boston. The rain fell in torrents until the train arrived in Boston when it held up with all signs of clear weather. The party proceeded to Battery Wharf and boarded the boat which was advertised to sail at 9.30, but for some time it was considered doubtful as to whether there would be passengers enough to warrant sailing, but they gradually began to come aboard, and at 9.45, with over 300 passengers the lines were cast off and the staunch craft began to move down the harbor, the Empire State Band giving one of their fine concerts on deck for the first half hour of the sail. The members of the party, many of whom had never been on the boat, took places where they could command views of all places of interest in Boston Harbor. As the Empire State started out, one of the large ocean going steamers of the Warren line, the Missouri, a vessel of over 5000 tons burthen, was being towed to her berth by four tugs, and the various harbor and excursion boats were passing right and left keeping the boys busy for the time to see what was going on. Forts Independence and Winthrop were passed, the steamer taking the course between Long and Deer Islands, with the city institutions, out into Massachusetts Bay hugging the North Shore of which a good view was obtained. As the boat was passing between Long and Deer Islands, the body of a man was seen floating in the water. This was picked up by the police boat Protector, later in the day, and turned out to be that of a sailor washed overboard from a vessel a few days previous. By 10.30 the clouds had broken away and the sun came out in full brilliancy giving a splendid view of Nahant, Egg Rock, Marblehead, the Beverly and Manchester shores, the mouth of Gloucester harbor, Eastern Point light, Bass Rocks with the residence of Attorney General Sherman, the twin lights at Thatcher's Island, the boat running within 300 feet of them, Squam and Ipswich lights, Plum Island and thence taking a straight course for the Isle of Shoals. At this time, 12.30, dinner was announced and the hungry fire fighters were not slow in responding to the summons. Filing in to the commodious dining saloon, arrangements having been previously made for a special bill of fare, the party, twenty-two in all, sat down to a table which fairly groaned under the load of eatables arranged in a manner to suit the most fastidious, in fact being one of the famous Empire State dinners, served under the eye of the Chief Steward with an efficient corps of waiters. The following is the bill of fare:

Soups.
Vegetable, Clam and Fish Chowders.
Fish.
Baked Blue Fish, Egg Sauce.
Roasts.
Beef, Lamb, Veal, Cold Ham.
Vegetables.
Mashed Potatoes. Green Peas,
String Beans, Green Corn.
Dessert.
Rice Pudding,
Apple Pie, Lemon Pie.
Cake, four kinds.
Strawberry, Lemon and Vanilla Ice Cream.
Fruits.
Watermelon and Peaches.
Drinks.
Coffee and Tea.

The boys did ample justice to the viands, eating as only a brisk sea air will make one eat. Engineer Johnson declared that he had lost his hard earned title of champion eater of clam chowder although he had done his best to preserve it, but there were others present against whom he stood no chance. After an hour spent at the table an adjournment was made to the deck where it was found that the Shoals were in sight. Numerous schools of Bonitas, quite a large fish, were seen, the boat passing through some of them. Capt. Phillips said that it was something unusual to see those fish so near in shore. At 2.15 the islands were reached and the boat's head turned towards home, passing between the islands giving a splendid view of the large hotels, lighthouse and other points of interest. Concerts were given in the main saloon from 11 to 12 o'clock and from 3 until 4 o'clock by the Empire State Orchestra, an unrivalled musical organization. The return course was taken a little further out, but still within sight of the North Shore. A whale was seen a few miles outside Baker's Island. Many outward bound steamers and sailing vessels were passed, and at 6.40 the boat arrived at her wharf and the days excursion was nearly over. At the wharf the party separated, some starting for home, and others remaining in the city to attend the theatres. Contrary to indications in the morning, the day had been all that could be wished, a calm sea and not one disagreeable feature to mar the days pleasures. The excursion will long be remembered by the members of Steamer 2 and their guests. The Boston & Maine Railroad furnished transportation between Peabody and Boston at half fare. We hope that another year the company will take a similar excursion.

Janitor Smart, of the Central Station, and his wife, are spending the week in Concord, and the Weirs, N. H.

Engineer Sumner, of Steamer 2, has gone to Moultonboro, N. H., to pass the week. Engineer Enos, of Steamer 1, will run the engine, if called out during his absence.

Foreman Charles H. Hooper of Hose 3, is passing his vacation at Niagara Falls.

Driver Duntley of the Steamer took a rise in the world yesterday afternoon, climbing to the top of the flagstaff on the top of the town house, a distance of over 150 feet from the ground, and reefed the halyards through the trucks. It is a job that very few men in this town wish to attempt. A sailor from the U. S. Ship Wabash declined to make the ascent Monday morning. Now the storm signals can be set as soon as they are purchased.

The Engineers were around testing the hydrants yesterday afternoon.

The excursion of Hose 1 took place Saturday. The members of the company and friends, making a party of about thirty, started from Salem Saturday afternoon on A. B. Clark's new steam launch, Rambler, Capt. William Jewett commanding. The party arrived at Plum Island late in the afternoon and immediate preparations were made for enjoying themselves. Sunday morning Chief Tibbetts and assistant Engineer Southwick, with several other firemen, joined them. The bill of fare was a fine one consisting of fried fish, eels, clams and lobsters, clam chowder, the best of sirloin steak and other things too numerous to mention. From all reports the party had a very enjoyable time. Brophy was with the party and some time during the night he had all hands out of bed by an alarm of fire and from that time forward no sleep was allowed. It was said that "there was twenty-one lobsters in the boat," but a careful survey failed to disclose them. Some of the party came home Sunday afternoon on the train and the rest came around on the boat arriving about 9 o'clock Sunday night. The boat gave perfect satisfaction.

Z.

CORRESPONDENCE.

BENNINGTON, VERMONT.

"Why should you want? Behold, the earth hath roots;
Within this mile break forth a hundred springs;
The oak bears mast, the briers scarlet hips:
The bounteous housewife, Natures blackberries on each bush
Lays her full mess before you."

Shakespeare was born too early to visit Bennington, but he must have had in mind a piece of nature very like this region where, with lavish hand, she filled the bushes with berries and caused the springs to flow from the hillsides. A most familiar sight here is the berry pickers as they come down from the mountain with pails of all sizes filled to the brim with blueberries. We hear most fabulous stories as to the quantity picked in a single day. We have no story to tell of personal experience in that direction, but will simply say that we are well on into our second bushel. The spring water is both abundant and of the best for drinking, being not only clean but in many cases as cold as ice water, and far more healthful.

Of the Glastenbury R. R. it should be said in addition to what I wrote last week that it was built to reach a charcoal and lumber region, and the production of these two articles is the principal business of the people at Woodford and the part of Glastenbury reached by the railroad. The lumber is principally spruce and hemlock. All kinds of hard wood are used in making charcoal. The kilns in which the wood is burned are like large brick ovens, with a door on one side at the bottom, and a large opening in the top. The kilns are built on a side hill so that the wood when brought by teams is on a level with the top opening through which it is thrown in and then is nicely packed. A kiln holds from 35 to 40 cords and the product of burning this is from 1200 to 1500 bushels of marketable charcoal. About six days are required for this burning, then all vents are carefully stopped and another six days are necessary for cooling off. It is very important that this latter proscess should be very thorough. Pieces of charcoal sometimes contains fire when loaded into the car, and if, from the movement of the train down the mountain, a draft reaches such pieces a blaze is the result and car and contents are sometimes burned.

The process of working logs into lumber is an interesting one to witness. As I stood in the saw-mill at Woodford and saw the large circular saw, the improved machinery for turning and moving the logs, and watched the rapidity with which the large teeth ate their way through, and the speed at which the carriage was propelled back, I compared the process with that at the old mill at Boxford, with its up-and-down saw and its slow carriage on which I used to ride when a boy. The man who runs a modern sawmill must be a good judge of logs and lumber and decide quickly what the log before him will best make, whether boards, or plank, or lumber the size of which he has posted before him. The steepness of the mountains is sometimes made use of to aid the lumberman, the logs being sent down in a shoot. This might be done in almost any part of Glastenbury, and after having passed over the railroad one may readily believe that it is the roughest and most inaccessible town in the state.

The anniversary of the Battle of Bennington falling on Sunday the celebration was observed on Saturday. Custer Post G. A. R. held a picnic at Hunt's grove, the Post making this occasion a means of increasing its relief fund. Entertainments are furnished and an admission fee is charged. The attractions this year were a dinner served by the Ladies' Relief Corps, an oration by Gen. Paul Van Der Voort of Omaha, Neb., Past Commander-in-Chief of the National encampment G. A. R., a balloon ascension, and a band concert. The day was all that could be desired, clear and cool, though with a little too strong a breeze for Madame Carlotta and her pretty balloon, the Skylark. However, with a temporary board structure to break the force of the wind the inflation was successfully completed, the gas being manufactured on the spot. Carlotta made the ascension alone and made a very successful trip, coming down within a mile of the village. In the evening a reception was given at the Post room in honor of Gen. Van Der Voort who, in a brief speech, gave a history of the National Ladies' Relief Corps, and made a strong plea in favor of a general pension law.

Under the inspiration of the celebration I formed a determination to see the battle ground, which was accomplished on Monday. I have already in this correspondence referred to my disappointment at not finding the noted place near Bennington. It is in New York State in the town of Hoosick, at least a mile from the State line, and probably five miles from the proposed site of the monument. A ride by rail to North Bennington and a walk beyond of three miles, brought me to the historic ground which now bears the romantic and inspiring name of "The Stump Lot." It is correctly named, decaying stumps appearing all over the hill, which is a sheep pasture. The only mark is an oak post, 3x4 joist, with the inscription. "Baum's intrenchments, Aug. 16, 1777"; and the only relic one can bring away is a bit of wood from a stump, or a piece of stone, either of slate or marble formation. The position as a place for defence is very strong and one's admiration is greatly heightened after seeing the place from which he routed the British and Hessians. At a meeting, held last week, of the Battle monument Committee the design for a monument previously recommended was adopted, and at Bennington Centre, near the site of the store house which contained the supplies that Burgoyne coveted, and that Stark so gallantly defended, will eventually appear a plain shaft of some 300 ft. elevation, built of native blue limestone. The site of the "Catamount Tavern," at which Baum is said to have ordered a dinner in anticipation of a speedy victory, not far from where the old store house stood, is now marked by a granite base about five feet high upon which is to be placed the figure of a catamount. Histories of Vermont place the Battle of Bennington as the turning point in the tide of American affairs, and the final victory and resulting Independence were made possible by the gallantry of Stark and his brave followers.

Bennington has two weekly newspapers the Banner and The Reformer. Bennington Village is separate from the township in the management of its local affairs. Children from outside the village limits are not allowed to attend the Graded School except by paying tuition; the arrangement seems to be a town within a town. The intricacies of the tax laws I have not been able to solve. A novelty in architecture here is a house whose walls are built of small round stones laid in mortar in courses as bricks are laid. The weather has had but little place in this correspondence; judging from reports it has been similar to Massachusetts weather. Our first week here was hot and dry. Since the rain came showers have been frequent, and there have been hot days, but the nights are cool. Signs of coming autumn are unmistakable and I have heard talk of frost. The high wind of two weeks ago was very marked here. Natives call such a breeze a "Shirkshire." My young friend of trouting experience caught seventy-two trout one day last week.

A second visit to the old cemetery shows the earliest date on any stone to be 1759 instead of 1756. Another statement in a former letter needs correction. A day's work at turning knobs was stated as one hundred dozen; it should be one hundred gross, the individual pieces handled being nearly fifteen thousand. I have concluded that Bald Mt. was so named from several rocky places along its side towards the top which are without trees.

Bennington was named in honor of an early Governor, Benning Wentworth. It was settled by Samuel Robinson, a Massachusetts man, who in returning from Lake George during the old French war mistook the Walloomsac tributary, for the Hoosick, the main river, and found himself in this beautiful valley. He was so much pleased with the location that he afterwards persuaded some of his friends and neighbors to accompany him and settle here. As we leave the valleys and its surrounding mountains after a sojourn of four weeks we do not wonder at Capt. Robinson's choice of a site for a new settlement, and we heartily commend it as a good place in which to spend a vacation.

J. K. C.

* * *

10,278 people attended the Bennett & Moulton Opera Co., in Salem last season. This Co. open at Mechanic Hall for one week, commencing Monday Aug. 31, presenting the latest comic Operas at the People's Prices, 10, 20 and 30 cents. Seats now for sale at Luscomb's Drug store, next door to Mechanic Hall.

The first meeting of the Essex Club for the season, will be held at Young's Hotel Saturday Sept. 5th, on which occasion the club will have as guests Hon. Geo. F. Hoar, Hon. John D. Long, Hon A. W. Beard, and Hon. Henry Cabot Lodge. A good attendance is desired. Henry H. Proctor is on the executive committee from this town.

Marriages.

In Salem, Aug. 24, by Rev. Mr. Franks, Mr. James B. Curwen to Miss Mary S. Osgood; 23d, by Rev. B. F. McDaniel, Mr. Josiah Mayo of Beverly, to Miss Eliza A. Upton of Salem.

Deaths.

In Peabody, Aug. 6, Martin Cuddire, 26 yrs. 3 mos.
9th, Morbet, son of Colin and Victoria Chisholm, 8 mos.
12th, Eneas Daley, 67 yrs.
14th, Patrick Donovan, 40 yrs. 5 mos. 8 days
15th, Bridget, wife of John Meagher. 57 yrs
18th, John, son of John and Ellen Dillon, 3 mos. 8 days.
18th, Margaret, widow of John Cuddire, 45 yrs.
In Danvers, Aug. 14, Chester A., son of Henry A. and Mercy A. Moore, 1 yr.; 18th, Miss Annie J. Connor, 17 yrs. 7 mos.
In Salem, Aug. 22d, Mr. Edward Rowell, 40 yrs. 8 mos. 20 days.

CATARRH.

BY A. P. LIGHTHILL, M. D.

The earliest symptoms of Catarrh is a discharge from the head, consisting sometimes of a clear acid fluid, but oftener of a thick, fœtid, purulent yellow or greenish matter which is usually secreted in excessive abundance, and discharged through the nostrils for throat, and frequently by both channel.

The nature of this discharge varies in different cases, and even in the same individual at different times. In some it is copious, and of a loose or fluid character, while in others it is very viscid or gummy, adhering to the diseased membrane with glue-like tenacity; often this offensive matter concretes in dry, hard masses of crusts, which obstruct breathing and are very difficult to detach, their dislodgment requiring most violent efforts. Sometimes these incrustations come away in lumps of a deep green tint, but occasionally in broad and flat casts of a notable size, on which traces of blood may at times be observed. This condition is very liable to run to serious ulceration, involving a loss of the bony structure of the nose and a subsequent flattening of that organ, and is invariably accompanied by a breath of exceedingly fœtid and sickening odor. In some cases it becomes so revoltingly offensive as to render the sufferer an object of disgust to himself as well as to others.

The nasal membrane is thickened and congested, causing the nose to be stopped up, sometimes on one side, sometimes on the other, and often on both, giving rise to a disagreeable, stuffy sensation in the head, and occasionally to violent paroxysms of sneezing.

A feeling of fullness, heat, irritation, soreness or pain is generally experienced in the nostrils, near the root of the nose, as well as in the upper part of the throat, above and below the soft palate. A distressing sensation of heavy weight or compression is usually complained of over the forehead, especially in the region immediately above and between the eyes. Sometimes the pain is obstinately fixed in one particular part, as in the temples, on top of the head, at the back of the neck, or behind the orbits; and occasionally it manifests itself in the face, of so severe a character that it is frequently mistaken for neuralgia.

The voice is generally affected, and becomes hoarse, weak and uneven, assuming a nasal character, or an unpleasant sniffling quality. Cough of variable severity is not unfrequently one of the symptoms and results of Catarrh.

The sense of smell is generally blunted or entirely lost, and a similar effect on taste may be occasionally observed. The eyes are apt to become irritable, and disposed to water excessively on exposure to the cold or wind, and a sense of weariness of sight is usually experienced after slight exertious. Hearing becomes frequently more or less impaired, and noises in the head very often add materially to the existing distress.

The stomach generally suffers more or less, and becomes weak and irritable; the appetite is capricious, and nearly always bad in the morning.

The patient often complains of lassitude and fatigue, an incapacity for either physical for mental exertions, and a constant disposition to drowsiness and sleep. The mental faculties are also sometimes slightly affected, toss of memory being not unfrequently experienced.

Catarrh may prove fatal, either by debilitating the system and wearing out the patient, or by travelling downward and producing consumption. This fact has been so repeatedly noticed that all experienced practitioners now look upon Catarrh as one of the earliest manifestations of this dreaded complaint. Among educated physicians in this or any other country, Dr. Lighthill was the first to devote his study and investigation to the cure of Catarrh and kindred diseases, and the happy results which attended his labor have been attested to by many of the most prominent citizens of Boston and vicinity. Cases abandoned as hopeless by other physicians have promptly yielded to his painless and effective treatment

ASTHMA

For years Dr. Lighthill has made this distressing disease his special study, investigating carefully the causes that produce it; his labor was fully rewarded, for he not only established its true pathological condition, but also discovered a new and correct system of treatment for its cure Hundreds of cases who have been under his care have found permanent relief from this wonderful discovery, from the beginning of this treatment prompt benefit is experienced which is ultimately followed by a complete and radical cure.

An experience of 30 years of constant practice enables Dr. Lighthill to decide on the first examination as to the cureability of any disease within specialty, and no case will be accepted for treatment unless the chances are for favorable results. His specialty comprises the cure of and affections of the Nervous system from whatever cause.

CATARRH, THROAT AFFECTIONS ASTHMA, CONSUMPTION, DEAFNESS DISCHARGE FROM THE EAR, DISEASES OF THE EYE, BLOOD, SKIN, LIVER AND KIDNEY

DR. LIGHTHILL,
Can be consulted
Every Thursday after noon and evening,
From 2 until 8.30 P. M.,
AT THE
Essex House, Salem,
And every forenoon from 8 until 12, at his office.
OF 115 BOYLSTON ST., BOSTON.

CONSULTATION FREE.

At this season of the year it will profit you to use Ferrated Hygienic Wine, to cleanse your blood of all poisonous humor. tf

Health is of more consequence than wealth Many sick ones might be cured by using Ferrated Hygienic Wine, tf

CLOSING OUT.

We are naming Special Prices on all Spring and Summe
Goods to clear our tables before Sept. 1st.

Bargains in Suits.

We are offering great Bargains in Suits for Dress or business, and show a splendid assortment at prices from 10 to 30 pet ct. less than last Month.

GREAT VALUES IN TROUSERS.

We are displaying the Largest and best Selections of Trousers in the city, including the choicest designs of Foreign and Domestic Fabrics. Our prices we guarantee from 10 to 20 per cent. less than you can obtain the same quality elsewhere.

Boys' and Children's Department.

We continue to offer great attractions in this Department, and those having boys to clothe for school can save money by calling on us.

EDW. C. ALMY & CO.
163, 165 & 167 ESSEX ST., SALEM.
162 Westminster St., Providence.
Washington, cor. Essex Street, Boston.

BEE-HIVE
BARGAINS.

20 doz. elegant Embroidered BLACK JERSEY JACKETS, all sizes, for only $1.00 each; would be a bargain at $1.50.

LADIES' FINE MILAN HATS for 10 cts., 15 cts. and 25 cts. This is not one quarter of the cost.

LADIES' and MISSES' HOSIERY, 12 1-2 cts. a pair, marked down from 25 and 37 cts.

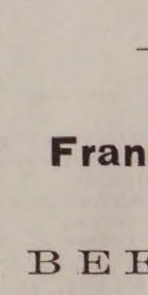
50 doz. CHILDREN'S SMALL SIZE VESTS, 5 cts. each, marked down from 15 cts.

30 doz. LADIES' GAUZE VESTS, 12 1-2 cts. each; cost $2.00 doz.

25 doz. LADIES' GLOVES, 15 and 25 cts. marked down from 25 and 37 cts.

37 doz. MISSES' BLACK BRILLIANT LISLE HOSE, all sizes, for 25 cts. a pair; regular 50 cent goods.

— ALL AT —
Frank Cousins'
BEE-HIVE,
SALEM.



AMERICAN RUDGE.
The only first-class wheel listed at a low price, fitted with all the latest improvements.
Price, 50 in., Enamel and Nickel, $107.50.
Call and Examine or send for Catalogue.
STODDARD, LOVERING & CO.,
152 Congress St., Boston.

AVOID
The Cholera by using Carbolate of Lime.

For cleansing out-houses, cesspools, sink-drains, stables, etc. For sale in 10, 25 and 50 lbs. bags, and by the barrel.

E. S. THAYER,
165 Derby Street.
C. H. ESTES, Agent for Peabody.

SALEM GAS LIGHT CO.

A Dividend of THREE DOLLARS per share will be payable at the office of the Treasurer, on Monday, the 27th inst.' to stockholders of record this day.
DAVID MOORE, Treasurer.
Salem, July 22, 1885.

HOTEL NAHANT,
NAHANT BEACH.
SAM'L SOULE & SON, Props

IS NOW OPEN FOR GUESTS.

Horse cars from Salem and Peabody di rect to the house,

Fish dinners a specialty.

Connected by Telephone.

P. O. Address, LYNN, MASS.

SPRING BARGAINS
— IN —
ROOM PAPERS.

Now is the time to paper your rooms, whil goods are cheap. Room Papers for nearl half price for fifteen days only.

It will pay you to buy these goods, and la by till spring, as you can save money by th operation.

LOOK AT THE PRICES.

4000 rolls 10c papers for 6c a roll
3700 " 15c " " 10c "
2000 " 20c " " 12 1-2c "
Small lot 25c Satins for 15c a roll.

There is only a few patterns in this lot, an an early selection is necessary.

3500 rolls 50c gilts for 25c a roll.

Remnants at your own prices.

2c borders for 1c a yard. 5c borders for 2c yd. Gilt borders from 2c a yd upwards.

These bargains will not last long at the prices, and first customers will get the be trades.

MERRILL & MACKINTIRE
220 ESSEX ST.,
SALEM.

Store and Window Awning
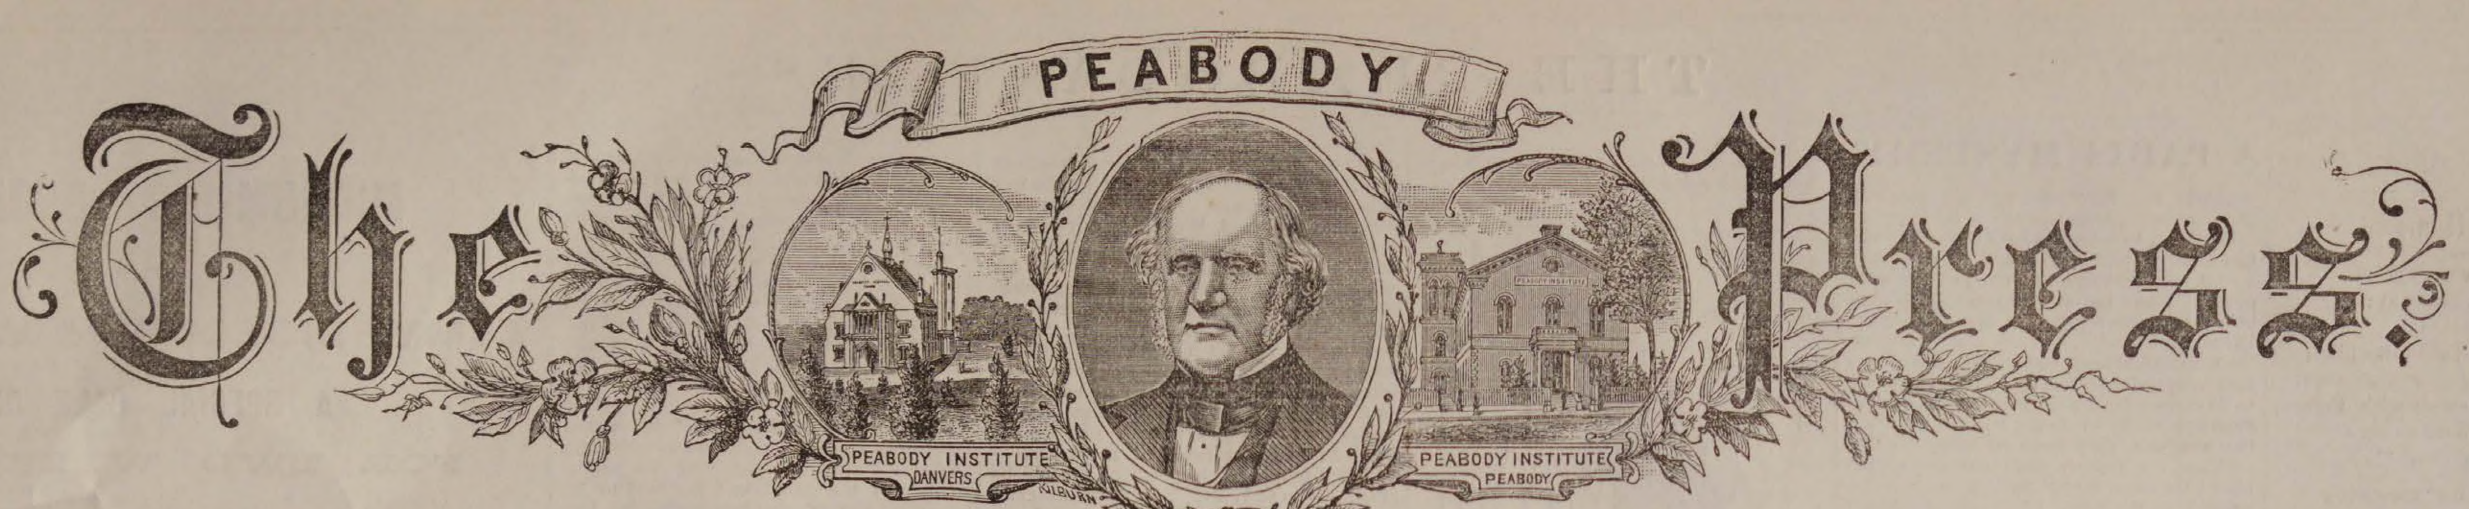
Hammocks,
Boatsails and
Wagon Cover

Anton M. Liebsch
7 DERBY WHARF,
SALEM.

The Peabody Press.



VOL. 26. PEABODY, MASS. WEDNESDAY EVENING SEPTEMBER 2, 1885. 35 NO. ~~38~~ 35

CUT THE PRICES!

RIGHT AND LEFT.

OUR LAST AND FINAL MARK DOWN SALE

—OF—

MENS' & BOY'S

SPRING AND

SUMMER CLOTHING.

We have received orders from our Headquarters, Boston, to mark down and close out immediately all our Spring and Summer Clothing in order to make room for our Fall and Winter Stock.

Remember these are all new goods manufactured for the Spring and Summer trade of 1885; no old goods at any price, but the most pleasing, most desirable styles of our fashionable Clothing, bearing the stamp that Inspires New England buyers with confidence, "OUR OWN MANUEACTURE."

The Greatest, Grandest, most generous mark down sale of Clothing ever inaugurated. Don't wait This sale will be short, sharp and effective. We have made prices that will immediately give us the needed room for new Fall and Winter goods now coming in.

Naumkeag Clothing Company,

177 & 179 ESSEX STREET, SALEM.

Z. A. GALLUP, Manager.

LOCAL CONDENSATIONS.

Cool nights!

September 2d!

Plenty of rain!

Feels like Fall!

Last of dog days!

School again Monday!

Last week for vacation!

Eggs are getting scarce!

No beach travel Sunday!

An early fall is predicted!

Summer is gliding into fall!

Have you got your tax bill?

Sweet cider is in the market!

Potatoes are cheap and good!

August has been a wet month!

The rink will soon be open again!

Mosquitoes are as pestiferous as ever!

Seersuckers have received the second call.

The people have begun to flock—home.

Excessive use of salt will destroy the teeth.

Swamps and low lands are filled with water.

The frigid weather brought out the overcoats.

Now is the time to buy peaches for preserving.

Don't throw your decayed fruit into the street.

The Granite House is undergoing some repairs.

The cranberry crop is promising a good yield.

September and October are the pleasantest months.

Plans for social life this winter are now being laid.

The thermometer registered 42 last Friday morning.

A butcher should always be put on the joint committee.

Now the farmer is counting the "bushels per acre."

Jack Frost was seen in the low lands last Friday morning.

Salisbury gathering is announced for September 16 and 17.

Apples for cooking purposes are worth $1.25 a bushel.

Now the night fellows are crawling over the melon patch.

Early fruit is reaching a natural ripeness and dropping off.

Some girls marry for protection and others for revenue only.

Cyrus T. Batchelder & Co., pay a tax at Danvers of $57.00.

Soda dealers are getting ready to "draw off" the fountain.

A "crazy" supper is being talked of by one of our societies.

George Stevens has added a nice line of stationery at his store.

An agent for the Frazier Acoustic telephone company is in town.

A flock of wild geese were seen flying southward last Thursday.

The farmer is reaping his profits from his summer work.

The oysteR in SeptembeR chestnuts is going the rounds again!

Now that the vacation season is over a lively fall trade is expected.

The building of the Vaughn Morocco Machine Co., is being repaired.

Hunt up your pawn ticket, you will soon want your winter overcoat.

Soon the small boy will be trudging along with a slate under his arm.

Mr. Elbridge Rust is building an addition to his house on Elm street.

Peabody will be entitled to four delegates to the Republican State Convention.

The young Atlantics defeated the Our Boys at base ball by a score of 27 to 2.

Remember J. S. Murphy at town hall next Tuesday evening in "Kerry Gow."

Mr. Elbridge G. Kelley will do the piping of Mr. Tapley's new factory at Danvers.

Those who are ready to condemn others need to have a pure record themselves.

It is not what you eat so much as what you can't digest that does the mischief.

A horse on Main street kicked a little dog last Friday, and broke the dog's hind leg.

Mr. M. W. Cummings has painted the store of Oliver Batchelder and C. A. Batchelder.

Most of those who have returned from their vacation bring home a darker complexion.

C. C. Farwell & Co., pay a tax of $345.00 at Danvers, and J. V. & J. Hanson $158.00.

Nugent Bros. have a large stock of School Shoes, which they are selling at way down prices. *

Mothers and fathers are rejoiced at the prospect of having their little ones at school again.

Postmaster Ward has recently shipped some of his premium light Brahma fowls to Canada.

Mr. Albert H. Merrill will act as agent for the American Insurance Company of Philadelphia.

Carpet bugs are making sad havoc in some households. Light colored carpets suffer the worse.

An addition is being built to J. M. Ward's greenhouse on Endicott street, to be used as a seed house.

It is not a good sign for a store clerk to spend his time on the sidewalk, with his hands in his pocket.

The tax collector has sent out his tax bills. If you haven't received one you have not been assessed.

Economy is of itself a great revenue. Money can be saved by trading at Nugent's Shoe Store. *

It is proposed to enforce the law in this vicinity, which requires skating rinks to obtain a license.

The D. B. Associates will hold their third grand assembly at town hall Thursday evening, Sept. 24.

Major Allen has had another attack of illness which has confined him to the house for the past week.

It is said that Mrs. Eastman, formerly a teacher in this town, has opened a select school in Philadelphia.

Mrs. Frank Goldthwait on Washington street, has been quite sick and threatened with typhoid fever.

The fifth annual reunion of the forty-eighth regiment association will be held at the Willows to-morrow.

The St John's polo team defeated the Father Matthew team at the Willows rink last Friday by two goals.

The apple crop promises a fair yield this season. The pear crop is abundant, many trees being overloaded.

Union Post 50 G. A. R. have voted not to attend the State Encampment at the Point of Pines to-day in a body.

Mr. Edward McLaughlin, the contortionist, has joined the Frazier Variety company, and will go on the road.

The boys amuse themselves in the evening by trying to capture the numerous bats that fly in the low grounds.

Forrest E. Tiney cut off the end of his thumb in a dieing-out machine at C. C. Farwell & Co's factory, Thursday.

Mr. John Cullen, a former resident, who has been ordained to the priesthood, has been given a church in Colorado.

A new face wall is an improvement that has been recently added to Timothy T. Riordan's place on Tremont street.

Miss Dorcas Currier died this morning at the home of Geo. F. Currier on Mason street. She was about 80 years of age.

The New York Grain Button B. C. D. and E. widths are the best School Boots manufactured. Buy a pair at Nugent's Shoe Shoe. *

About 200 cattle on their way to or from Brighton, passed through the square Monday noon. Some were very large.

A lot of new machinery has been put into the new shoe factory of Mr. Edward W. Merrill in the Pinder & Winchester shop.

Knights of Labor are boycotting beer of several manufactures. If they would boycott it all together, it would be a good thing.

Read what Samuel Trask says about wood in another column. It is cheaper to buy your wood all cut than it is to cut it yourself.

The issue of the one and two dollar bills is to be suspended for three months. This is to force the silver dollar into circulation.

Mr. H. Grahame Wheeler will read next Friday evening at the Clifton House, and on next Wednesday evening at the Masconomo.

Miss Martha B. Galeucia, a sister of Isaac Munroe, died last Monday of apoplexy, at her brother's residence. She was 48 years of age.

The extension of the track of the Lynn horse railroad to the B. & M. track is going on and things are lively about the square.

The Boston & Maine have adopted the idea of naming their new locomotives for cities along their line. The last is the City of Lynn.

Boys are cautioned against drinking out of the watering tanks used by the horses. If they are not careful they will take the glanders, one of the most contagious of diseases.

Mr. G. Horace Merrill has on his lawn two of the handsomest hydrangeas in town. Mr. Benj. Jacobs on Lowell street also has a pretty one.

Mr. Frank C. Ferguson was the first in the town house to have a fire in his office. A fire in the open grate felt good there last Friday morning.

One of the hardest things for a boy to do is to convince himself that the pants made for him by his mother, look just as good as the clothier's.

Mr. John Lations, carriage painter on Foster street, will remove his business to Salem, and Frank O. Chadbourne will take the vacant shop.

Last Monday a boy named Sweeney got his hand caught on a tenter hook at F. K. Pemberton's, making a bad wound. Dr. Weston attended him.

There never was a man so slow that he would not jump when his wife suddenly inquired: "Where did that hair on your coat collar come from?"

The Selectmen visited West Peabody last Friday, and inspected a new road which Mr. F. H. Appleton has asked the County Commissioners to lay out.

Mr. E. Herbert Davis has been quite sick and typhoid fever has been feared. We learn that Mr. Davis has recently received a pension amounting to $450.

Mr. P. J. Cody, a former employe of the PRESS office, will teach Latin, Greek and Mathematics at St. Thomas College, Cambridge, during the next year.

"Campmeeting" John Allen, whose familiar voice has often been heard in the pulpits of this town, died recently at Chicopee Falls at the age of 89 years.

The ordinary house fly is said to tread on the average about three miles per day. It will thus be seen that he is able to tackle a good many bald-headed people.

Services in the Unitarian church will be resumed next Sunday. Preaching by Rev. S. B. Stewart of Lynn at 2.15 P. M. Sabbath School at the usual hour.

Have you seen the Bennett & Moulton Opera Company at Mechanic Hall Popular prices and good shows are filling the hall. Matinees this and Saturday afternoon.

The season of the sweet singing fall mosquito has arrived, and through the month of September we can be lulled into a horrible wakefulness by this musical insect.

Mr. Fred Wilson, of Salem, dropped the top mast of the flag staff on Monday, and put on new guy lines and halyards. The storm signals will be displayed there.

Housekeepers will find that the work of canning peaches is expedited by dropping the fruit into boiling water, when preparing it, and thus easily removing the skins.

An exchange says: "People who strip the leaves of their lilac bushes will have them to bloom again in September." It is with some hesitancy that we believe a li-lac that.

Mrs. R. T. Brown while passing through Washington street last Saturday, was struck in the face with a ball which an amateur nine were playing with, and had her lip badly cut.

A mare belonging to a Mr. Griffin of Salem, and pastured in a field in this town, recently gave birth to twin colts. They were removed to his stable and were both alive at last accounts.

The Selectmen voted last Saturday "leave to withdraw" on the petition of the Peabody Water Gas Company, to lay pipes in this town. $75,000 less of taxable property on that account.

The county commissioners have ordered the telephones to be removed from the Salem, Ipswich, Lawrence and Newburyport county instutions on account of the increase in rentals.

W. H. Lyons, formerly of this town, was arrested last week at Fort Edwards, N. Y., for selling obscene pictures. He used the mails for sending his "works of art" and was fined $350.

Mr. Chas. H. Kezar has bought the restaurant under the Salem Market, and would be pleased to see his Peabody friends. Mr. Kezar, we are glad to note, is rapidly recovering his health.

A very effective remedy for palpitation of the heart is powdered motherwort mixed in molasses. A little powdered daughterwort mixed with taffy produces palpitation. Make no mistake.

Frank Fisher, while removing a cork from a bottle of ginger ale, was struck below the eye by the flying cork and completely closed the optic. It is better now but has considerable color about it.

The cigar manufacturers have received a notice from the Collector that the law requiring the stamp to be placed three-fourths of an inch from the edge of the box will hereafter be strictly enforced.

Winthrop street is walking away with the plum as to improvements. Just meander around that way and observe the style she is displaying. But then the town made an appropriation for that very thing.

A party from Marblehead passed through town in the horse cars on the Lynn road last Thursday evening. They stopped for supper at Van Vrankin's in Salem. The car was drawn by four superb looking horses.

The first meeting after the summer vacation will be held at the Universalist church, to-morrow evening. It will be a church meeting and will commence at 7.30 o'clock. Services will be resumed as usual next Sunday.

The Winona Mills property at West Peabody is being remodeled by Lynn carpenters and masons, for Messrs. Winslow & Chandler, who will engage in the manufacture of a fine grade of lamp black, and will employ seven or eight men.

Fears were entertained during the recent cold spell that frost would come and ruin the corn, but it has warmed up again without such a result. Opinions are divided as to the probability of early frost. Some think that the signs are good for frost before many days, while others think there will be none before the next new moon, which will put the corn out of reach of damage.

The shipments of leather from Peabody and Salem for the week ending August 29, were 6567 rolls, 820 sides, 118 bundles, 29 barrels, 19 bags of leather, 411 rolls, 42 bundles, 4 casks and 1 case of skins.

An excursion to Nantasket beach, by steamer Nantasket, will be given under the auspices of the Salem Cadets, to-morrow, Sept. 3, leaving Phillips' wharf, Salem, at 10 A. M. Music will be furnished by the Salem Cadet band.

It is told that the young man while taking the census asked the usual question at one house and was somewhat astonished by the reply. "How many males in this house?" The answer came quickly. Only two—me husband and meself.

We can see many evidences of returning confidence and increase in business circles. There is plenty of room, and it will be hailed with delight. Our business firms expect increased business on the opening of the fall trade and are making preparations accordingly.

It is said that a short time ago one of our officers picked up a stray child on the street, and while taking it to the station, the little one in passing a place near the square exclaimed, "there's Pa's shop." And so it proved to be when the officer took him inside.

The funeral of the late Daniel Buxton took place last Thursday and was largely attended. Besides relatives and friends, many of the large seed firms of Boston and vicinity were represented. The services were conducted by Mr. Allen Putnam of Roxbury, a noted spiritualist author.

The season for competing in mammoth sunflowers has arrived. Engineer Pettee at the pumping station intended to enter the race, but his were frost bitten when Dan. Lord's men were making repairs during the recent break and we shall have to depend on some one else.

Sargeant David Brainard of the United States Signal Corps, one of the survivors of the terrible sufferings of the Greeley Arctic expedition, was in town one day last week. He came through on the Lowell train and changed for Boston. He has not yet regained his health.

To-day and to-morrow the New England Undertaker's Association hold their sixth annual meeting in Boston. A vary important feature will be, the practical illustration of embalming, by Prof. J. H. Clarke, of Springfield, Ohio, by diagrams and also by actual work on a cadaver.

A good vegetable gardener, who ought to know, says there is more money to be made in raising lima beans for the market than almost any other vegetable. The storekeepers here will pay a dollar a bushel for them in trade, and he will retail them for two dollars, making the most profit out of the transaction.

A baker offers the interesting fact in dentistry that he never heard of Italians and Chinese, who eat stale bread exclusively, suffering from dyspepsia or the toothache. Neither does the use of Hathaway's home made bread bring on dyspepsia, and in many families it is used to the exclusion of home production.

Two fellows on bicycles were coming down Central street last Monday morning, when one of them attempted to cross the street in front of the other, he struck the horse car track and took a header, and both machines and riders were thrown in a heap. Neither were seriously injured, but both were somewhat bruised.

These are the hushed and tranquil days when lingering summer breathes its waning incense o'er the sun-kissed mountain peaks which reverently raise their brows to receive her parting benediction and the country editor stops the press to acknowledge the receipt of a jug of cider from—well, bring in the cider, somebody.

Mr. John Bagley, a well known citizen, who has been employed at the Alms House for several years, left there last Spring, and opened an eating house on Foster street. He was taken sick a short time ago and was removed to the Alms House last Thursday, where he died Friday morning. He was a son of "Father" Bagley, the well known Methodist exhorter. He was 63 years of age and leaves a family.

Dole & Osgood shipped a large double wagon to C. L. Pratt & Co., of Grafton.

The semi-annual election of officers of the St. John C. T. A. Society takes place to-night.

Dr. E. M. Harding of Boston, medical director of the New England Relief Association, was in town to-day.

Remember that Dodge, at the Central fish market, is ready to receive orders for oysters next Sunday or any time previously.

If our readers want to enjoy the best ten cent cigar they ever smoked, call for the Brianza at Geo. Stevens'. It beats the world. Ten cents, straight. A regular fifteen cent cigar.

The telephones of the following parties were taken out last Monday: Thomas E. Wilson, Samuel Trask, H. C. Wilson, R. F. Dodge, John H. Tibbetts, Warren Trask, Jesse H. Smith, Charles A. Thomas. S. A. Osborne.

Miss "Harrie" Osborn, daughter of George M. Osborne, on Tremont street, celebrated her eleventh birthday last Friday, by giving a reception to her young companions during the afternoon and evening. They remembered her with many little tokens of their esteem.

A brilliant comet may be looked for in the southwestern heavens this month. It is impossible to see it at the present time as it travels in the orbit of the sun, whose brilliant light during the day prevents the human eye from gazing at it. The deflection by the latter part of this month will, however, bring it above the horizon during the early evening hours, when it will be of the first magnitude.

A pair of horses on the Naumkeag Street Railway car, became frightened on Boston street last Sunday, by the flapping curtains of an open car, and in jumping, one of the horses kicked the lead bar off the hook, and both horses started for this town with the wooden bar, striking their heels at every step. One of the horses fell near the Institute and the other followed the track to the terminus on Lowell street. The horse that fell was badly cut.

The supreme council of the American Legion of Honor met at Boston and arranged the price of salaries. It may be of interest to members of the order in town to know the salaries paid. Supreme commander, $2000 a year; treasurer, $2500, with $900 additional for office hire; supreme secretary, $2000; finance committee of three members $50 each for the examination of the books twice a year and other duties, with mileage allowance.

At a meeting of the School Committee last Friday, it was voted to call the new school on Tremont street the "Endicott School" and the district is to embrace the territory between the Salem line on the north and east, Love Lane and Union street on the West, and a line through the center of Dennis street to Union street on the South. It was decided to adopt McGuffie's Fifth Reader for the grammar schools in addition to the one in use.

At a meeting of the members of the Essex Agricultural Society, living in Peabody, held in the Selectmen's room at the town house, Monday evening, for the purpose of choosing a trustee for the coming year, Lyman Osborne was elected chairman and A. C. Osborne, secretary. Francis H. Appleton was unanimously re-elected as trustee. Mr. Appleton is eminently qualified for the position he has been chosen for several years to fill, having the entire confidence of the Agricultural portion of the inhabitants of Essex County.

When Mr. King Upton bought the Bleachery houses Mr. Stephen Blaney and Mr. Thomas Clothey protested against their being moved through Washington street, as it would be an injury to the shade trees in front of their respective residences. And the Selectmen after visiting the premises decided that the only trouble that would be experienced would be with a limb from a tree in front of Mr. Clothey's which it would be an improvement to remove and they declined to reverse their decision, giving Upton permission to move them. Yesterday morning after one of the buildings had started up Washington street, a meeting of interested parties was held and Mr. Upton sold the buildings to Mr. Alex. B. Clark, who will move them to the land adjoining his factory on Union street.

Poet's Corner.

The Old Home.

"Return, return," the voices cried,
"To your old valley, far away;
For softly on the river-tide
The tender lights and shadows play;
And all the banks are gay with flowers,
And all the hills are sweet with thyme;
Ye cannot find such bloom as ours
In you bright foreign clime!"

And still "Return, return" they sung
"With us abides eternal calm;
In these old fields, where you were young
We cull the heart's-ease and the balm;
For us the flocks and herds increase,
And children play around our feet;
At eve the sun goes down in peace;
Return, for rest is sweet."

For me, I thought, the olives grow,
The sun lies warm upon the vines;
And yet I will arise and go
To that dear valley dim with pines!
Old loves are dwelling there, I said,
Untouched by years of change and pain;
Old faiths, that I had counted dead,
Shall rise, and live again.

Then I arose, and crossed the sea,
And sought that home of younger days;
No love of old was left to me
(For Love has wings, and seldom stays;)
But there were graves upon the hill,
And sunbeams shining on the sod,
And low wind breathing, "Peace, be still!
Lost things are found in God."

Separation.

A wall was grown between the two—
A strong, thick wall, though all unseen;
None knew when the first stones were laid,
Nor how the wall was built, I ween.

And so their lives were wide apart,
Although they shared one board, one bed;
A careless eye saw naught amiss,
Yet each was to the other dead.

He, much absorbed in work and gain,
Grew soon unmindful of his loss;
A hard indifference worse than hate
Changed love's pure gold to worthless dross.

She suffered tortures all untold;
Too proud to mourn, too strong to die;
The wall pressed heavily on her heart;
Her white face showed her misery.

Such walls are growing day by day
'Twixt man and wife, 'twixt friend and friend—
Would they could know, who lightly build,
How sad and bitter is the end.

A careless word, an unkind thought,
A slight neglect, a taunting tone—
Such things as these, before we know,
Have laid the wall's foundation stone.

A New Version of an Old Song.

S. P. DRIVER.

O Paradise! O Paradise!
Death cannot enter there;
Earth's roses bloom, in fairest dye,
Upon the holy air,
And beauties, all unknown before,
Engross the raptured sight,
For Sin's dark door shuts out no more
Heaven's quenchless light.

O Paradise! O Paradise!
Brief toil brings endless rest,
Where gates of gold swing open wide
To welcome every guest.
There, tears are wiped from every eye
There, cares and troubles cease,
And sorrow's shade shall ne'er invade
Heaven's lasting peace.

O Paradise! O Paradise!
Why should we fear to go
Where living streams, 'neath fairer skies,
Through greener pastures flow?
O! bliss beyond Faith's fondest dreams!
O! charms without alloy!
We, too, would haste from earth to taste
Heaven's fadeless joy.

—Lowell Courier.

August.

I watch thee, Queen, in the first flush of morn,
Walking with Ceres 'mid the ripened corn,
Who whispers subtle secrets in thine ears
Of earth's great harvests in the antique years.

I see thee thro' hot noontides veil thy face
In the green shadows of a sylvan place,
While a kind Dryad slips from out her tree,
And fans thee into slumber dreamfully.

I mark thee later by the still sea strand,
Summer's last poppy reddening in thy hand;
And sunset's royal mystery, grand and fair,
Meshed in the glory of thy Titian hair!

—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

A GOOD WHIST HAND.—One day recently four gentlemen were playing whist on a train of the Boston and Maine railroad. Spades were trumps. Mr. A., who had the first play, led the ace of trumps, and followed with the king and queen, which exhausted the trumps in the hands of the other players, he holding the others. He then led from his only remaining suit, clubs, of which he held six, the leading cards being ace, king and ten spot, the first two drawing the queen and knave thereby giving him full control, and thus securing to him the 13 tricks.

A PARIS MYSTERY

could be, and for what purpose he was asking questions exactly like my own.

Next day, in consequence of the answers I had received from Mouton and his daughter, I went with Sapinaud to the prefecture of police. I saw the two daggers which were being kept there as evidence in the case of the Passage de Mazarin—the one, that with which the murder had been committed; the other, that from the collection of M. de St. Florent, in its curious fan-shaped sheath. It was almost impossible to distinguish between the two weapons, they were so exactly alike. Both had the same writing on one side of the blade; the same flower, with a single word beside it, on the other. I took careful tracings of the inscriptions on both daggers.

That evening I went to the house of M. Beauvais, member of the institute, in the Rue d'Anjou, Faubourg St. Honore. I had obtained a letter of introduction to him from one of my acquaintances, who declared him to be the most distinguished Orientalist in Paris. M. Beauvais received me courteously, and professed himself most willing to give me the information I required.

"Both daggers," he said, after examining my tracings, "have an identical inscription in the Japanese character on one side of their blades. This inscription establishes the curious fact that they are from the hand of the same maker; it is to the effect that 'this steel comes from the anvil of the smith Tokotaru in Yeddo.' On the other side of the blade of each is a representation of the kiku, or chrysanthemum flower, which is the crest of the Mikado of Japan. They must, therefore, have had at one time a royal owner. The single word beside the flower on the blade of the De St. Florent dagger means 'Evanescence;' that on the blade of the other weapon means 'Illusion.' These are sacred words of the Buddhist creed. From the shape of the characters, I should suppose these weapons to be several centuries old."

I thanked M. Beauvais, and noted down what he had told me.

"You are the second visitor," he said, "whom I have had on this same business. Evidently these daggers are to be a feature of the case."

Here also, then, there had been some one before me!—some one working on the same lines as myself!

"Might I ask if Monsieur is acquainted with the name of his other visitor? I have a reason for wishing to know."

"Certainly. It was M. Blery, the well-known detective officer, who came to me no later than last night, and submitted to me tracings exactly like these. I told him what I have told you now."

What could this mean?—Blery? I had heard the name somewhere; in connection with some case, I thought. A "well-known detective officer." This was worth looking into.

"Monsieur will pardon the singularity of the question," I said, "but this M. Blery—is he a little man, sharp-featured, who wears a gray coat?"

"You describe M. Blery," said the great Orientalist with a smile. "Good evening, M. Marsal, and a good issue to your labors for your friend! By the way, your friend had a book of mine—an English book——"

"Ah, pardon, Monsieur! I had forgotten about the book—forgotten even that it came from you. Since that night when you gave it to Girard, my mind has been so occupied——"

"I understand, Monsieur," said M. Beauvais, kindly, "I understand. At your convenience return the book—at your convenience. Good-evening!"

That night I sent a letter to M. Blery, Rue Jerusalem, asking him to meet with me on the morrow, either at the prefecture of police or at the Rue Dauphine, in connection with the affair of the Passage de Mazarin.

CHAPTER X.

Before ten o'clock next morning M. Blery had appeared. He was a little man, very shabbily dressed, with a napless felt hat and a gray overcoat, the sleeves of which were made too short, yet revealed no linen. His features were thin and sharp; his eyes were keen and restless; his mouth was habitually pursed as though secrets must ooze out if he opened it.

He came up to me quickly, bowed, and cast a glance around him which seemed to take in myself, the room and all its contents in a second of time.

"M. Marsal?—Ah! Then I have the honor to salute the gentleman who assaulted my friend Py, is it not so?"

I confessed to this with a smile, but pleaded that the assault had been involuntary—that I had not known it was the friend of Monsieur.

"No matter," said M. Blery; "and what, then, does Monsieur think of the exploit of my friend Py?—the achievement that has covered him with glory?"

"You mean the arrest of M. Girard?"

"Certainly! that is what I mean."

"Since Monsieur asks me, I think that his friend Py made a serious mistake on that occasion. I have some hope that Monsieur may be of the same opinion?"

M. Blery gave me a crafty look out of his little sharp eyes, then he said, slowly:

"My friend Py is a very clever man; he has great sagacity, and a brain—ah, admirable! But he believes too much in his good fortune. Ah, Monsieur, one should never believe in that! My friend Py goes to the native town of the murdered man; he finds out the nephew's name—comes back to Paris; finds out his domicile—comes here; finds the nephew himself, asleep, no wrist-button in one of his sleeves—arrests him. Ah, it is all so simple, so easy! No, things should not happen so in our line; when they do, one should say to himself, halt!—this goes on too smoothly—the second step is seen almost before the first is taken—it is one piece of luck after another—beware of a trick! Py did not do this; he trusted his good fortune, and—you see! Yes, it is as Monsieur says, he has made a mistake."

"You have, then, been following the case, M. Blery?"

"I have made inquiries," said the detective, still very slowly, and giving me a curious, cunning look as he spoke—"yes, I have made inquiries. I have even reached a certain point in the case, but I can go no further."

"For want of evidence?"

"No, Monsieur, not at all. For want of money."

"Ah! That is all? Well, if money is wanted it will be forthcoming. And if M. Girard's innocence were established this would become a valuable document, is it not so?"

The detective's eyes twinkled as he read the paper signed by Raoul, offering a reward of twenty thousand francs for the detection of the criminal. He did not ask where the money was to come from.

"It is well," he said, handing me back the paper; "I trust Monsieur and his friend as men of honor. Let us be frank. Let us play an open game, cards on the table!"—M. Blery's manner changed completely after he had seen the document.

"That is what I desire," I said.

"Good. Now, the way is cleared, let us come to business. I hear of Monsieur at the prefecture of police, where he examines and takes tracings of the two daggers. Where, may I be permitted to ask, does Monsieur hear of me?"

"First from the janitor Mouton, at No. 13 Passage de Mazarin; next from M. Beauvais, of the Rue d'Anjou."

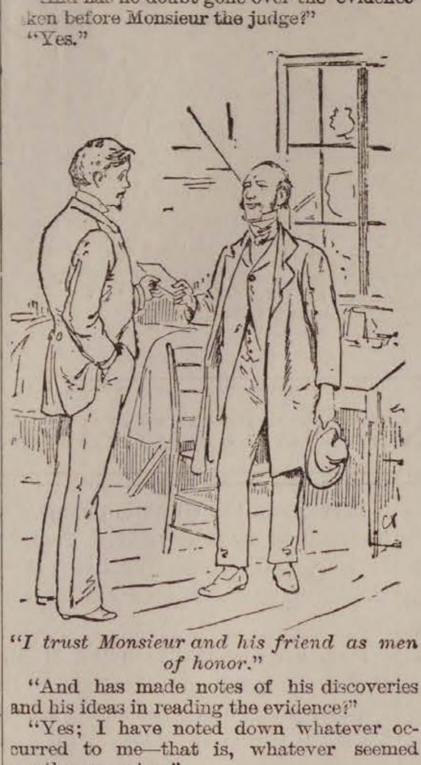
M. Blery looked at me again, and for about a minute said nothing. Then:

"Monsieur has made certain discoveries?"

"Yes, I have."

"And has no doubt gone over the evidence taken before Monsieur the judge?"

"Yes."



"I trust Monsieur and his friend as men of honor."

"And has made notes of his discoveries and his ideas in reading the evidence?"

"Yes; I have noted down whatever occurred to me—that is, whatever seemed worth preserving."

"If Monsieur will read his notes, that, I think, would be the quickest way of going to work. With permission of Monsieur, I will light a cigar and listen."

I took out the notes I had made and read them; at first not without some trepidation in submitting my amateur work to such a critic. But the attention with which M. Blery listened reassured me.

The first point taken up in my notes was this—that Girard could not be supposed to have premeditated the crime. Had he done so, he would not, on the very night of the murder, have applied such language to his uncle as he had done; he would not have used and left behind him a weapon that must infallibly connect him with the crime. A madman might act in this manner; but Girard, when he left the Cafe de la Source, when he parted from his betrothed on that fatal Christmas eve, had been perfectly sane; of that there was no doubt whatever.

"Girard then," I went on, "did not premeditate the crime. If he murdered his uncle without premeditation, what is the most natural thing to suppose? Surely this—that he entered the room, asked his uncle for money, was refused with taunts and insults that lashed him into fury, and finally, in a paroxysm of fury, slew the old man with a single blow.

"But against this conjecture there is the medical and police testimony as to the position in which the corpse was found. All the witnesses concur in stating that he was found lying between his chair and the writing table, as if he had been struck suddenly and silently from behind. Had the blow been preceded by an altercation, that would certainly have been heard by the copyist Pernet, whose room is divided from Meissner's by a thin partition. Had there been a hot dispute, face to face, between uncle and nephew, the blow would almost certainly have been struck in front, and not planted under the shoulder-blade.

"There being a difficulty in the way of both of these conjectures, the judge of instruction adopted a third. He supposed that Girard had armed himself with a dagger merely to frighten the old man, and that he had been led to murder him in a moment of homicidal mania—changing his purpose before a word had passed. This conjecture is one way out of the difficulty——"

"Ingenious, but unsatisfactory," observed M. Blery.

"I am charmed to find that Monsieur agrees with me. Now, as to the question of time."

"Ah! as to the question of time?" said M. Blery, relighting his cigar.

"As to that, there are three witnesses of chief importance—Sophie Mouton, daughter of the janitor; the police sergeant Garnier, and Pernet the copyist. None of these witnesses were able to make a definite statement; Pernet was so positive in his uncertainty that his evidence may be set aside. On the night of the murder Girard parted company from me, as you will remember, at 10 o'clock precisely; going by the Rue de l'Odeon, he can scarcely have reached the Passage de Mazarin before twenty minutes past ten. Sophie Mouton, 'a little before or a little after ten'—I quote her words exactly—sees the figure of a man, not one of the tenants, pass her door going towards the court. If this was a little before ten, the man cannot have been Girard; and 'a little after ten' is probably not so much as twenty minutes. The police sergeant Garnier began by stating his belief that it was half-past ten when the man rushed past him in the Rue de Biche. Girard himself asserted in his evidence that it was half-past ten o'clock when he came to the Passage; he has since explained this to M. Sapinaud, his counsel, by the statement that he did not follow the most direct way from the Rue de l'Odeon to the Passage. But putting aside Girard's statement, and taking simply the evidence of Sophie Mouton and of Garnier, apart from the judge's inspiration, I reach this conclusion—that the man whom the police sergeant saw rush by him in the Rue de Biche and the man whom the janitor's daughter saw hastening through the passage were not one and the same person. The former was Raoul Girard; the latter was the assassin."

"Ah, another point! And now shall I tell Monsieur how he goes on? He has shown that Girard did not premeditate the crime; he goes on to show that the real assassin did—that he had his plan of operations. Is it not so?"

"That is certainly how I go on," I answered, admiring the readiness with which the detective took up my train of reasoning.

"Yes," continued Blery, "that is the next step, undoubtedly." He was now walking up and down the room as he spoke, emphasizing his words by flourishes of his cigar, which had gone out. "Girard entered Meissner's room by the window; the assassin did not. No man with a plan of operations would attempt such a thing; he would calculate his chances, and find them twenty to one against his doing it unobserved. Your friend is a man of unusual agility, is he not?"

"Yes, he is a trained gymnast."

"Ah, but was the assassin a trained gymnast? The balance of probabilities is against it. No; he did not enter by the window. How, then, did he enter? You say, naturally, by the door. I say yes, but how? The door of Meissner's room is found locked, the key hanging within; the janitor has declared in evidence that there is no duplicate key to any room in the house. You tell me that the assassin must have procured a second key to fit the lock of Meissner's door. I say, good; but again, how? You tell me—but no, I forget; Monsieur cannot know this; he has not seen the key of Meissner's door."

"No; you were beforehand with me there."

"Well, here is the key."—M. Blery laid it before me on the table.—"Our assassin has his plan of operations; that is agreed. What, then, does he do? His natural course is to obtain temporary possession of Meissner's key, in order to have a duplicate made from it. Now, observe the key. It is of simple construction; an expert locksmith could fashion one like it in half an hour. This key of Meissner's was always in one of two places—either it hung on its nail in his room, when he was at home; or on the rack in the janitor's room, when he was abroad. We suppose our assassin to have watched Meissner's movements carefully; to be thoroughly acquainted with his habits. He knows that every evening without fail the old money-lender goes out at six o'clock, and returns at nine. Good; he will seek to gain possession of the key between these hours. Now, Monsieur, you have talked with Mouton the janitor, and with his daughter Sophie. You have made notes of your conversation with these persons; I have made none—I never do. I carry them all here"—M. Blery tapped his brow—"but I should be glad to listen to yours. You found the child Sophie Mouton intelligent, did you not?"

"Certainly. She appears to have been somewhat agitated during her examination by the judge, but she answered my questions most clearly."

"As she did mine. And now, Monsieur, for the notes of your conversation."

"Very good; here they are: 'Sophie Mouton states that about two months ago—the exact date she cannot remember—a man came to No. 13 Passage de Mazarin desiring to see Joseph Meissner. It was after six o'clock; Meissner had gone out as usual. Sophie Mouton, who chanced to be alone in the janitor's room, said so to Meissner's visitor.

"'The stranger, Sophie Mouton says, was evidently a foreigner, both from his appearance and accent. He was of medium height and slim figure'——"

"Of medium height and slim figure—that is it," said M. Blery.

"'Had a dark complexion, straight black hair, and very dark, sunken eyes. She could not guess to what nation he belonged; he did not look like either an Italian or a Spaniard; seemed more foreign than that—such was the phrase. He must have come from a warm climate'——"

"A warm climate!" murmured M. Blery. "Proceed, Monsieur, proceed!"

"'Because he shivered constantly, and complained bitterly in his broken French of the cold. He was in evening dress, and wore a fur cloak hung loosely over his shoulders.

"'When informed that Meissner had gone out he seemed annoyed, and asked at what hour he might be expected to return. The girl told him at nine o'clock; then the stranger, looking out at the weather, which was wet, and down at his dress boots, which were thin, asked Sophie to oblige him by fetching a cab, as he had dismissed his on arriving. Leaving him alone in the room, Sophie ran to the stand at the corner of the Rue St. Andre and brought a cab; the stranger thanked her, gave her a five-franc piece, and then drove off, after saying that he would return that night, as he wished to see Meissner particularly.'"

"Left alone in the janitor's room," said M. Blery, "he takes down Meissner's key from the rack. Proceed, Monsieur, proceed!"

"'About eight o'clock he came back; he explained that he had not understood what the girl had said; thought she had mentioned eight, not nine, as the hour of Meissner's return; he found French so difficult to understand! It mattered little, however; he would wait, if they would allow him. Mouton the janitor had by this time come back from the wine shop; with him the stranger sat, talking very affably in his broken French. Mouton recollects having told the stranger, in the course of conversation, that he reminded him in speech and appearance of another foreigner, a client of Meissner's, who had been accustomed to visit the usurer frequently, up to about a year before. The stranger remarked that that might possibly be one of his compatriots, but did not mention to what country he belonged.

"'After talking for about half an hour, the stranger suggested that the girl should be sent for a bottle of wine. Mouton agreed with alacrity; the stranger gave Sophie money to pay for it. During her absence it seems that he asked Mouton to look out and tell him whether it still rained; the janitor complied, going to the outer door, and so leaving the stranger alone in the room for, perhaps, a minute.'"

"During which minute," observed M. Blery, "our man replaces Meissner's key on the rack."

"No doubt. Well: 'Presently Sophie Mouton returns with the wine; the stranger sits down, fills glasses for Mouton and himself, and chats with the janitor for a few minutes longer. Suddenly he rises, saying that he wishes to see whether the rain has stopped. He goes to the outer door—and never returns.'"

"Precisely," said M. Blery; "never returns. No; he has got what he came for. And now, Monsieur, let me ask you if you put any question to the janitor Mouton regarding that other foreigner of whom he was reminded by his complaisant visitor?"

"Yes; it occurred to me that this was significant."

"Admirable!" murmured M. Blery; "admirable! He neglects nothing—misses not a single point! A born detective!—Well, Monsieur?"

"This other foreigner, Mouton informed me, had been for a long time, more than a year, most assiduous in his visits to the old usurer. He was one of those unfortunates, the janitor said, whom Meissner had 'flayed.' At first he used to drive up to their door in a cabriolet, or ride with a groom following him; but toward the end of his acquaintance with the old Jew his clothes had become shabby; and finally Meissner had given the order that he was to be admitted no more. It was more than a year, Mouton told me, since he had last seen this man."

"Monsieur attaches an evident importance to this other foreigner. He thinks that there may be some connection between him and Mouton's mysterious visitor of two months back?"

"Yes. They were very like each other, the janitor says—the same build, the same cast of features, the same accent in their speech. I connect them with each other; I connect them also with the weapon used in the commission of the crime. The dagger is of Japanese workmanship; the two foreigners may be—it is a mere surmise, but there is at least something in its favor—the two foreigners may be Japanese."

"That is more than a surmise, Monsieur—it is an idea; an idea which has also occurred to myself. And now as to the daggers—I take it we gained precisely the same information from M. Beauvais?"

"No doubt, but I shall ask your attention to one point regarding the daggers, which I think of consequence. I take no credit to myself for this discovery; it was made by the happiest of chances."

M. Blery paused in his walk through the room and listened very attentively.

"A Japanese dagger is found beside the corpse of Meissner; one exactly like it is found in the collection of M. de St. Florent. The chief characteristic of these daggers is their rarity; that of the Passage de Mazarin, before the discovery of the other, was pronounced by connoisseurs to be unique. The De St. Florent dagger has a sheath shaped like a closed fan; presumably, that found in Meissner's room would have a similar sheath.

"Meissner obtained this dagger, which he subsequently gave to his nephew, from a rich foreigner who was one of his clients. The question we have to deal with is this—can we prove that Girard's story is true? Can we prove that he really sold the weapon given him by his uncle? In a word, can we show that there is a third dagger of this kind in existence? If so, can we find it?

"On each of the daggers now at the prefecture there is graven the image of a flower. On each, beside that flower, there is inscribed a single word. The word on the De St. Florent dagger means Evanescence; that on the other Illusion.

"Here is what I find written in this book. The book, I may tell you, belongs to M. Beauvais. It is in English, and is called 'The Buddhist Belief'—Buddhism, I need not remind M. Blery, is the religion of the Japanese. This book was given to my friend Girard, by M. Beauvais, on the very night of the murder, to be translated. Ever since it has lain in a corner of this room; last night I picked it up, to return it to its owner. I was idly fingering the pages, thinking of the visit I had just paid to M. Beauvais, and of the information he had given me regarding the words graven on the daggers and their meaning. All at once it flashed through my mind that here, in this very book, I had seen something—I could not recall distinctly what, but still I was sure, something—which connected itself in my mind with the words Evanescence and Illusion. I searched through the book; at last I found this paragraph, which I translate: 'TILAKUNA, THE THREE SIGNS: There are three Things on which the mind of the Ascetic ought to dwell forever; Anitya, Evanescence; Anatma, Illusion; Dukha, Sorrow. These three Signs belong to every existing thing.'

"Here, you will observe, are three words taken from the sacred writings of the Buddhists—the mystic number Three. We find the word for Evanescence inscribed on one dagger-blade; the word for Illusion on another. What is the natural assumption? Is it not that the smith Tokotaru in Yeddo forged three daggers, on each of which he chased one of these mystic words? If Monsieur succeeds, as I do not doubt he will, in finding the dealer in curiosities to whom Girard sold his weapon, I venture to predict that he will find graven beside the flower on its blade the remaining sign of the three—the word for Sorrow."

"Admirable!" said M. Blery again; "Monsieur, this is more than ingenious; it is subtile. You call your discovery a happy chance; doubtless, to a certain extent, it was so. But the inference you draw from it—ah, that is quite another thing! It is, I repeat, admirable; Monsieur should certainly have been a detective!"

I disclaimed the compliment; but M. Blery politely insisted that it was deserved, and assured me that, had I only had the proper training, I might have reached a grade in the profession scarcely second to his own.

"Your discovery," he said, "supplies an important link in the chain of evidence. The theory of the crime which we have both of us formed, each independently of the other, determines the line of action to be followed. I shall begin to-day; before a week is over, if our theory proves correct, I shall have laid my hand on the assassin."

I gave M. Blery a little roll of notes; I had contrived to borrow some money for this special purpose. When I apologized for the smallness of the amount——

"Do not speak of it," said M. Blery; "this is ample. If I succeed in finding the real criminal, as I hope to do, I receive five thousand francs from the authorities, twenty thousand francs from your friend—a sufficient reward. Besides, I take an interest in the case, in M. Girard, and in the charming young lady, his betrothed. And I shall have a satisfaction, I confess it, in overthrowing the theory of my friend Py. Ah, it will be beautiful!—beautiful! A child might see the difference between our methods. Is it not so, Monsieur?"

"Certainly. The judge and your friend Py start from the assumption of Girard's guilt; we start from the assumption of his innocence."

"Oh, no, Monsieur!" exclaimed M. Blery, whom this answer seemed to disappoint greviously—"no! We start from no assumption; we assume nothing. It is this; let me explain: Py and the judge look out for facts to support their theory; we discover facts and construct our theory from them. Py says it is all easy, simple, straightforward, the evidence lies at your hand; we say, no, it is complex, difficult, obscure; you have to go in search of the evidence, possibly far."

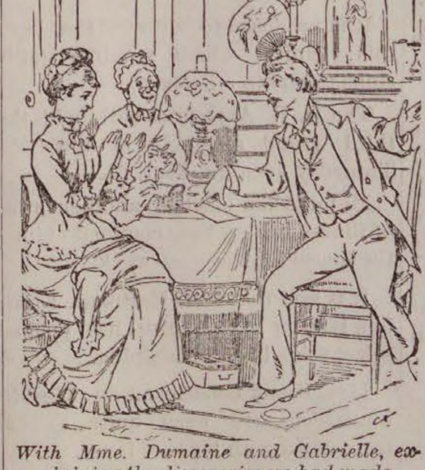
So saying, M. Blery bowed himself out, taking with him the key of Meissner's door and the tracings of the daggers, and promising to communicate with me at the end of 10 days, if not sooner. I did not inquire what his plan was; I could see that he would have disliked such a question. And I had now great confidence in M. Blery.

CHAPTER XI.

After M. Blery's departure, I naturally suffered a reaction from the excitement of the last few days, and the hopefulness of my interview with the detective. It was difficult to remain inactive and not to despond. But, for the sake of Mlle. Dumaine, whom I saw every day, I strove to be cheerful. I also wrote to Raoul, and, without raising his hopes unduly, hinted that things were beginning to wear a more favorable aspect.

The days passed without any word from M. Blery, and each day deepened my anxiety. At last the fourteenth day came, and every one of its hours seemed to me as long as a month. I dared not go to Gabrielle; I could not have concealed my disquietude.

But in the evening there came a telegram from Blery, the most joyful message I have ever received in my life, because it assured me that my friend was safe. M. Blery telegraphed from Rome: "I have succeeded; the dagger is found. I return to Paris direct." I ran at once with the telegram to the Rue de l'Odeon, and spent the rest of the evening with Mme. Dumaine and Gabrielle, explaining the discoveries we had made, and listening to the outpourings of their joy.



With Mme. Dumaine and Gabrielle, explaining the discoveries we had made.

Next morning I saw the advocate Sapinaud, and told him of the new evidence in Raoul's favor. He advised me to say nothing, in the meantime, to Raoul.

"Let us wait," he said, "until Blery returns and tells us the whole story. Then, if the evidence he has found proves what you say it proves, I will frame a statement and lay it before the Imperial procurator. After that Girard will no doubt be released from detention, either with or without bail."

Next morning the detective arrived in Paris, and sent me a message asking me to come to him at the prefecture of police, and to bring Sapinaud also. I was fortunate enough to

To be continued.

MIDSUMMER BOOK SALE

—AT—

ALMY, BIGELOW & WASHBURN'S.

A SPECIAL SALE OF BOOKS

FOR TWO WEEKS ONLY.

Literally without regard to cost, the collection embracing over thirty thousand volumes of the best Fiction, Poetry, History, Biography, Travels, Wit, and Humor, etc., etc., every volume of which has been carefully selected. Here is a partial list of Titles and Prices. Look it through, and decide candidly if you ever saw better Books advertised for anything like such prices. When, for instance., have you ever before heard of a complete set of Dickens, Thackeray or Black selling at $5.98 a set?

	Publishers Price.	Our Price.
George Eliot's Works, 8 vols., cloth, library edition	$12.00	$4.98
George Eliot's Works, 8 vols., cloth, fine edition	12.00	5.98
George Eliot's Works, 8 vols., half calf	24.00	10 24
Guizot's History of France, 8 vols., fine edition, half calf	32.00	21.98
Irving's Works, 10 vols., cloth	15.00	6.98
Irving's Works, 10 vols., half calf	30.00	12.80
Irving's Works, 3 vols., cloth	7.50	3.98
Cooper's Sea Tales, 5 vols., cloth	7.50	3.28
Cooper's Leather Stocking Tales, 5 vols., cloth	7.50	4.28
Bulwer's Novels, 13 vols.,	19.50	8.23
Dickens' Works, 15 vols., cloth	22.50	6.98
Dickens' Works, 15 vols., cloth, gilt-back edition	22.50	9.75
Dickens' Works, 15 vols., half morocco
Dickens' Works, 15 vols., half calf	45.00	17 70
Thackeray's Works 11 v., half calf	45.00	19 20
Thackeray's Works, 11 vols., red cloth and gilt top edition	33.00	14.08
	16.50	8.88
Green's History of the English People, 4 vols.	6.00	2 98
Macaulay's History of England, 5 vols., sheep	7.50	4.98
Macaulay's History of England, 5 v.	5.00	1.48
Macaulay's History of England, 5 vols., red cloth, gilt top	6.75	4.50
Macaulay's Essays, 3 vols., cloth	3.75	1.99
Macaulay's Life and Letters	1.25	.58
McCarthy's History of Our Own Times, 2 vols.	3.00	1.58
McCarthy's History of Our Own Times, 4 vols., red cloth, gilt top	6.00	3 78
Knight's History of England, 4 v.	6.00	3 98
Shakespeare's Complete Works, 8v.	7.50	3.78
Smile's Self-Help Series, 4 vols.	6.00	3.12
Smile's Biographical Series, 3 vols.	4 50	2 18
Hume's History of England, 6 vols.	7.50	3.18
Elsie Books, 10 vols.	12.50	8.28
Gibbon's Roman Empire, 5 vols.	5.00	2.98
Gen. Lew Wallace's "Ben-Hur—A Tale of Christ."	1.50	1.38
Poems of Passion	1.50	.78
Bulwer, 25 vols., half calf	75 00	37.00
Alligator-bound Poets	4 00	1.48
French Revolution, Carlyle's, 2 vols.	3 00	1.58
E. P. Roe's Works	1.50	1.18
George Eliot's Essays	1.25	.58
Revised Edition of the Bible	1.00	.78
America Illustrated,	3.00	.98
Swift's Works, 6 vols.	7 50	4.98
Eliot, 8 vols., full alligator	24.00	14.00
Guizot's History of France, 8 vols.	20.00	13.98
"Zoroaster," F. M. Crawford's latest work	1.50	1.38
Hugo's "Les Miserables,"	1.50	1.08
Dicken's Birthday	1.50	.88
"Boots and Saddles," by Mrs. Gen. Custer	1.50	1.38
History of the United States, Frost's	1 25	.78
Poets, bound in sheep, large vols.	3 00	1.88

	Publishers Price.	Our Price.
Irving's Works, 10 vols., half morocco	30.00	11.80
Dicken's Novels, 15 vols., full alligator	45.00	24.75
Dicken's Novels, 15 vols., half alligator	37.50	18.75
Thackeray's Novels, 11 vols., half alligator	27.50	13.75
Eliot's Novels, 8 vols., half alligator	20.00	10.28
An Echo of Passion, by G. P. Lathrop	1.25	.78
Afghanistan and the Anglo-Russian Dispute, illustrated and with maps	1.50	.78
English Classics—all in a Garden Fair, Belinda, Frankenstein, Outre Mer, Hyperion, East Lynne, Tom Brown's School Days, The Mysterious Island, Pilgrim's Progress, Imitation of Christ, and fifty others	1.00	.32
Red Line Edition of Standard Poets, Longfellow, Bryant, Whittier, Burns, Byron, Browning, Cowper, Coleridge, Dante, Eliot, Goethe, Heaven in Song, Hemans, Ingelow, Lucille, Milton, Poe, Pope, Proctor, Religious Poems, Schiller, Scott, Shakespeare, and sixty others	1.50	.59
Summer Reading — A magnificent line of Illustrated Books of Fiction, embracing all the works of the best modern authors, elegantly bound in illuminsted paper covers		.19
A selected line of the Best Works of Fiction, bound in colored cloth, with gilt titles, and embracing Her Mother's Sin and Beyond Pardon, by Bertha M. Clay; Belinda, by Rhoda Broughton; Other People's Money, by Emile Gaborion, and hosts of others	1.25	.58
A beautiful line of 12mo. Books, sumptuously bound, comprising such works as Life of Washington, Ivanhoe, Oliver Twist, Adam Bede, and fifty others	1.25	.48
Wood's Natural History, 300 Engravings	1.25	.78
Josephus' History of the Jews, bound in sheep	3.00	1.88
Gilbert edition Shakespeare, fully illustrated	5.00	2.28
Right and Wrong Uses of the Bible	1 25	.48
Popular American Dictionary	1.00	.48
Favorite Dictionary, 32,000 words	.35	.12
Spencer's Education	1.50	.58
Kimo's Model Speaker for Children	1.25	.48
Hoyle's Games	1.50	.98
Miss Parloa's Cook Book	1.25	.98
Miss Neil's Everyday Cook Book	1.25	.48
Song and Instrumental Folios	.50	.32
An elegant line of Family Bibles.
Hundreds of Humorous Books.
An endless variety of Children's Books to suit all ages.

ALMY, BIGELOW & WASHBURN.

194 Essex Street, Salem.

CANDEE.

Rubber BOOTS

—WITH—

DOUBLE THICK BALL.

Ordinary Rubber Boots always wear out first on the ball. The CANDEE Boots are double thick on the ball, and give

DOUBLE WEAR.

Most economical rubber Boot in the market. Lasts longer than any other boot, and the

PRICE NO HIGHER.

Call and examine the goods.

"CANDEE" RUBBER BOOTS GIVE DOUBLE WEAR ON THE BOTTOM. GREATEST IMPROVEMENT EVER MADE IN RUBBER BOOTS. TWO YEARS TEST.
A COMMON SENSE IDEA
DOUBLE THICK BALL.

FOR SALE BY

SAGE & CO.,
Wholesale Agents Candee Co.,
BOSTON, MASS.

LADIES!

FOR MILLINERY,
Go to Browne's.
FOR SUNSHADES,
Go to Browne's.
FOR KID GLOVES,
Go to Browne's.
FOR SILK GLOVES,
Go to Browne's.
FOR INFANTS' CAPS,
Go to Browne's.
FOR COLLARS.
Go to Browne's.

153 and 155 Essex St., Salem.

FOR LACE GOODS,
Go to Browne's.
FOR CORSETS.
Go to Browne's.
FOR RUCHINGS,
Go to Browne's.
FOR TOILET ARTICLES,
Go to Browne's.
FOR PERFUMERY,
Go to Browne's.
FOR HAIR GOODS,
Go to Browne's.

For all the Novelties of the season be sure and go to

Mrs. J. H. Browne

153 & 155 ESSEX ST.,

SALEM.

ESTIMATES CHEERFULLY GIVEN ON ALL KINDS OF PRINTIN

HALLOWELL & SMILEY,

Canned Corn Beef

AND TONGUE

For Picnics and Family Use.

MEATS AND PROVISIONS,

will always be found the best in the market at the LOWEST CASH PRICES.

Flour, Teas, Groceries, etc., at bottom prices.

Hallowell & Smiley

16 CALLER ST., PEABODY.

SMOKERS

Having secured a large lot of the very Best Tobacco in the market we feel justified in saying the

MON AMI AND PLANTER

are the Best Havana Cigars in the town of Peabody. We have also the Electric, Harvard and El Sol de Cuba Brands.

FOR A 5C. SMOKE

Try the Brunette, it is a good one. The Heart's Ease, Sociable, Purity, Gun Club and E. H. S., are fine goods.

Collins' Cigar Store,

4 Allen's Block.

TOBACCO WHOLESALE & RETAIL.

NOW IS THE TIME

TO GET

ASTERS,

And all the strong and hardy plants,

WARD'S GREENHOUSES,

Cor. Endicott and Warren Sts., Peabody.

TIP END OF YANKEE LAND.

A very interesting story about "Cape Cod folks" issued by the Old Colony Railroad, is now running through a second edition, the book contains a number of valuable maps and is full of information about the hotels and boarding houses of South Eastern Massachusetts, reached by the Old Colony system. Copies sent free on application to

J. R. KENDRICK,
GeneralManager, Boston.

TWICE A DAY

HATHAWAY'S ORIGINAL

—— CREAM HOME MADE BREAD ——

Hot Morning and Afternoon. Best of goods in our line comprising

Crackers, Bread, Cake and Pastry,

Also rich Bride, Angel and Wedding Cake to order. Fine ornamental work for Wedding, Birthday and Party Cake a specialty.

C. F. Hathaway,

50 LOWELL ST., PEABODY.

Our Competitors Keep Their Backs Up.

Because Our Prices are so Low,
Our Stock is so Large and
Our Patronage So Great.

WE ARE NOT TO BLAME

If an undeviating adherence to Low Prices, Fine Goods and Polite Treatment have won for us the largest trade of any retail boot and shoe store in Essex county, we shall continue to offer the same genuine inducements that have won for us the victory.

TRY THE MATCHLESS BOOT.

PRE-EMINENTLY THE BEST $2 BOOT IN THE MARKET.

Superb in style, elegant in fit and exquistte in design, they are marvels of grace and beauty and it is now within the means of every lady in Peabody to wear a most attractive boot at the

MARVELOUSLY LOW PRICE OF $2.

All horse cars from Peabody pass our Market street store and by transfer our West Lynn store, and any lady can, by trading with us, save on one pair of boots more than cugh to pay for one of the most delightful rides imaginable.

WELLMAN OSBORN,

84 MARKET ST., 23 MARKET SQUARE,

LYNN, MASS.

SPECIAL SALE!

W. F. GOLDSMITH & CO.

For a few days we shall offer a bargain in

WINDOW SHADES,

Six feet long, 36 inches wide, with Tassel attached, on Good Spring Roller, all ready to put up, for

50 CENTS EACH.

W. F. GOLDSMITH & CO.,

123 Union Street, Lynn, Mass.

Having increased our facilities for the Sale of Brussels and Tapestries, by the addition of a room for that purpose, we are prepared to show one of the best assortments to be found in the city.

BRUSSELS,
TAPESTRIES,
EXTRA SUPERS,
and cheaper grades of .

INGRAINS. OIL CLOTH ALL WIDTHS.

UPHOLSTERY GOODS, CORNICES
POLES, &C. &C.

Please call and Examine.

W. F. GOLDSMITH & CO.'S
CARPET ROOMS,
123 UNION STREET, LYNN, MASS.

Rheumatism

It is an established fact that Hood's Sarsaparilla has proven an invaluable remedy in many severe cases of rheumatism, effecting remarkable cures by its powerful action in correcting the acidity of the blood, which is the cause of the disease, and purifying and enriching the vital fluid.

It is certainly fair to assume that what Hood's Sarsaparilla has done for others it will do for you. Therefore, if you suffer the pains and aches of rheumatism, give this potent remedy a fair trial.

A Positive Cure.

"I was troubled very much with rheumatism in my hips, ankles, and wrists. I could hardly walk, and was confined to my bed a good deal of the time. Being recommended to try Hood's Sarsaparilla, I took four bottles and am perfectly well. I cheerfully recommend Hood's Sarsaparilla as one of the best blood purifiers in the world." W. F. Wood, Bloomington, Ill.

For Twenty Years

I have been afflicted with rheumatism. Before 1883 I found no relief, but grew worse. I then began taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, and it did me more good than all the other medicine I ever had." H. T. Balcom, Shirley, Mass.

"I suffered from what the doctors called muscular rheumatism. I took Hood's Sarsaparilla and am entirely cured." J. V. A. Proudfoot, letter carrier, Chicago, Ill.

We shall be glad to send, free of charge, to all who may desire, a book containing many additional statements of cures by

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Sold by all druggists. $1; six for $5. Made only by C. I. HOOD & CO., Lowell, Mass.

100 Doses One Dollar.

Store and Window Awnings,
Hammocks,
Boatsails and
Wagon Covers

Anton M. Liebsch

7 DERBY WHARF,

SALEM.

BURDETT
Business
COLLEGE

167 TREMONT ST., BOSTON.

Day and Evening Sessions.

Book-keeping, Business Arithmetic, Penmanship, Commercial Law, Business Correspondence, etc.

For complete information call at the College Office, or send for Journal.

y 15—2m

Waumbek Hotel.

JEFFERSON, N. H.,

In full view of Mount Washington, Adams, Jefferson and Lafayette; drainage perfect; pleasant drives; good livery; no mosquitoes, malaria or hay fever; elevation 1550 feet.

For information or Circulars inquire at this Office.

WAUMBEK HOTEL CO.

RATES REDUCED.

MAPLE HOUSE,

JEFFERSON, N. H.

The proprietors having in view that the great land slide which occurred on July 10th, 1885, will attract a great many people to Jefferson, during September and October, offer to entertain people during that time at from

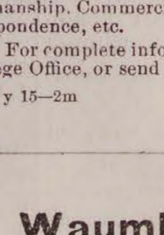
$7.00 to 8.00 per week,

in all parts of the house. Send for descriptive circular.

Coaches connect with all trains at Jefferson Station.

Open till Nov. 1st.

MRS. M. H. BOWLES & SON.



AMERICAN RUDGE.

The only first-class wheel listed at a low price, fitted with all the latest improvements.

Price, 50 in., Enamel and Nickel, $107.50.

Call and Examine or send for Catalogue.

STODDARD, LOVERING & CO., 152 Congress St., Boston.

Now is the time to rid the system of humors and all Blood Impurities. Ferrated Hygienic Wine is a most effective remedy. tf Mirage.

Only a lady on a lawn—
  A shape of angel white or cream,
Graceful as antelope or fawn,
  Is it a spirit or a dream?
Only a lady on a lawn!

Only a lady on a lawn,
  The light shines on her gold-brown hair,
On scarf of crimson closely drawn,
  Her lithe form swaying in the air,
Only a lady on a lawn!

Only a lady on a lawn
  Pass! let the sweet enchantment be,
'Tis but a vision of the dawn,
  Draw thou no nearer, lest thou see
Only a lady on a lawn!

Married in Haste.

The night before my wedding day! Was ever night so full of hours—were ever hours so full of dreary minutes, that seemed to crawl after each other through its dread, cold gloom?

Yet it was, by my own consent, to be my wedding day tomorrow. I had said it; I had not only said it, but I had said I should never repent.

As the early dawn breaks through the gloom of night, I heard the old cock in the farm-yard give a dismal hoot preparatory to the first crow of the day.

And, utterly tired out, I fall asleep.

One—two—three—four—five—six—seven—eight beats of the tall, old clock on the stair-head outside my door, and I jump wildly to my feet.

At nine o'clock, then, he said.

I had only one hour—only one hour to be Norah Glennie.

At the time that the clock struck 10 I should be Norah Mapleson—a wife, a true wife to a true husband.

I rearrange my dress with feverish haste.

I only stop to drink a cup of milk ere I leave the house, only just in time to catch the country train as it passes the country station.

I am in time.

Once more my hands are clasped in his.

We say no word only hurry through the sleepy streets till we enter the dingy office, where, by some strange method, we are made man and wife. All is a dream to me.

I wonder where are my bridesmaids, where are my father and mother? Bah! Why, of course, they are dead long, long ago. I have only my uncle, and he is lying bed-ridden at Newington farm.

How could he be here? The only thing that seems real to me is the shining ring on my finger.

I look at it in a kind of fear as I draw my old kid glove over it before leaving the house into which Nora Glennie had gone a few minutes ago, and out of which now a white, startled woman was issuing—Nora Mapleson.

Don't be so distressed, my darling! Don't look so, or I cannot bear it!

I drew a deep breath; I stretch out my hand a little wildly, I suppose, for he takes it firmly in his and lays it on his arm as he hurries me through the streets back again in the direction of the railway station.

Once more we are in the train.

Mine—mine forever! I do not fear the future now! is all my husband says; but there is a world of love in his eyes.

Poor William! in a week's time he will be on the ocean, and we will have parted for many months—perhaps years.

He lets me rest quietly in his arms during the very short journey back again to Norlington. I get out of the train alone, as he is going on some business two stations further on; then he will come back for the rest of the week to the farm.

Before you go into his room, wife, darling, you will take it off?—and he touches my finger on which the bright, new wedding ring glitters.

I cannot! I say, shuddering. It is unlucky to remove a wedding ring!

But, my darling, his sharp eyes will—

The train goes on and I am alone. I see his face looking at me from the window alarmed and anxious; but I nod reassuringly and he smiles.

It causes no remark that I have been out so early this morning, for everything lately is so upset by reason of my uncle's illness and William's near departure.

Then again there is only old Betty in the kitchen; and perhaps she scarcely knows I have been out; and if the nurse who has been called in to attend my uncle knows, she doubtless thinks I have been into town on some household errand.

About my ring. I must hide it; but I cannot take it off. I hurry up into my room, and hurriedly turn over the contents of an old musty dressing case that has been my father's. Where can it be? That old garnet ring, with the queer undergrove in it, that I feel sure will let this thin wedding ring into it, and so keep my secret from prying eyes.

Ah! with hot, trembling hand I find it; it does exactly as I thought it would do.

With that broad old ring always on I need fear no discovery. None but myself would know that under it lay another, the tiny circlet of gold binding me stronger than iron bands could do to my dear love.

During the day my old uncle is taken much worse, and he will let no one near him but me. William comes in and out of the room, but I am tied to it all of the time till toward evening uncle falls into a deep sleep, and I can safely leave him with his nurse.

It was a rambling old house, Norlington Farm, and it had been my old home now for nearly seven years, all of which time William Mapleson has lived as my uncle's steward and helped under the same roof.

It had been a hard, self-denying life for him, perhaps, but for me—or, rather, for his love for me—he would never have borne it. Till latterly the hard old man had never discovered our love, and when he had there was no more peace for us under his roof.

He had raged and stormed, declaring that no niece of his should marry William Mapleson, on pain of disinheritance.

Mine was always a weak timid nature. Perhaps some women (I was no longer a young girl, my thirtieth birthday had come and gone) would have actively resented his tyranny and asserted their individual rights. I could not. I was in his power, for when my parents died he had taken me in, a penniless girl, and had from that time given me, in his peculiar, hard way, all that I needed to live, not but what some would have thought they fully earned such keep.

I scarcely ever looked at it in that way. I had been weak and helpless, alone in the world, not very strong in health, when he had come to my father's funeral; and, after paying all expenses, had simply said:

Now go and pack up your kit. You must come with me to Norlington Farm. Can't say, I'm sure what old Betty will say, but there's nothing else as I see to be done. Remember, my girl,' tis not a lady's life I am offering you; but I suppose you are not too fine a lady to know what work means?

If it had been then, all was corrected by now. During these seven years I have worked hard and lived hard.

Yet there are those who say old Peter Glennie is worth half a million.

My golden week of happiness is gone, but, although William is gone, I am strangely content.

I do not regret the step I have taken.

Since the morning of my marriage my uncle had been better and quieter. Old Mr. Baines, the lawyer, had been with him a full hour that morning, and old Jenkins had been called into his room to sign his name to some documents together with the hired nurse.

He's a miserable old man, she said to me that same day. I suppose it's his will we signed. What a grudge he seems to have against marriage. He growls continually about fools getting married.

Ah! said I, he has never married.

No, she laughed, I should not say any one was the loser by that either.

He had called her at this moment, and I was left alone to overhear a conversation between old Jenkins and Betty, who, being both deaf, were talking over the same matter in the kitchen.

Ah, well, Betty, it's a hard day for the farm when William goes away; an' how'll the old master do wi' a new steward at his time o'life, I wonder?

He knows what he's about, never you fear. Do'ee think for a moment as how he don't know a' letting him go is the only way of preventing a marriage between him and Miss Norah? Ha! ha! ha!

As I hear her cunning old laugh at my expense I sit hugging my love to my heart.

Old Betty always owed me a grudge for coming to Norlington farm, although she had been obliged to show me ordinary civility.

How little she knew we were married only yesterday, under her very nose, as it were.

So far I had deceived him and the few other people I knew—deceived him through his own hardness. So far as I was concerned, I would have told him, only I knew, and my husband knew that any sudden shock would in all probability, kill him.

We should have parted and kept true faith to each other if my strength had not been weakened when that good offer to go to Canada had come so suddenly. Then he had prayed me to marry him before he started, so that if my uncle died I might at once come out to him as his wife.

And now William was gone. The ship had sailed and I was alone, but happier far than if I had denied him his prayer.

Since the day after my marriage, when Mr. Baines had been with my uncle, he had been more quiet, but strangely anxious not to let me out of his sight.

All through the week I had not been once out of the house. Of this he seemed to take full care by keeping me near him by every pretense he could think of.

The ship had sailed only one week when my uncle died suddenly, and then on the day of his funeral came the reading of the old miser's will.

I came down with my wedding ring exposed for the first time.

I was noticed at once.

Miss Glennie and Mr. Baines looked aghast at me. The doctor, who attended my poor uncle looked horrified, as well he might, knowing that it meant disinheirtance if I married.

Old Betty's eyes had a wicked gleam in them as she said:

Perhaps you didn't know, you and William Mapleson, that you'd lose everything if you married?

We did not care to think of it I said. I should have sailed with him had not my duty kept me with your master.

At that moment I could not say my uncle, old Betty looked so malicious.

And so, she said, you have gone and lost a fortune—lost a fortune to get married?

I cannot describe the insolent sneer with which she hissed out these words.

I made out his will the 27th of this month, my dear lady decreeing so. When were you married?

On the 26th, Mr. Baines.

The old gentlemen stared at me, then rapidly read the short will.

I was to be disinherited of more than half a million of money if I married from that date—so it was worded.

I was married the day before.

◆

A Word for the Milkmen.—The milk dealer is, no doubt, says the Dorceester Spy, a wicked man, but at the same time he is much abused, and it is no wonder that he resorts to tricks to prevent attacks from the authorities. The law of Massachusetts requires that milk must contain at least 13 per cent solids. Now, as a fact, not one cow in ten comes up to that standard. The New York law requires only 11 per cent, and in some places 10 is all that is necessary. In looking over Commissioner Loring's United States Agricultural report, he says the average dairy cow will not yield over 11 per cent solids. Mr. Davenport, last year's inspector, says the same; and yet Boston milkmen are prosecuted because their milk falls far below the standard. Right here in Dorchester, where dealers keep their own cows, they fail, and run the chances of being caught, or resort to tricks for which they are condemned. Now, think a little; is it right to make frauds of men who can't help it? That is what the State is doing in the city of Boston to-day.

The Secret Art of Beauty lies not in cosmetics, but is only in pure blood and a healthy performance of the vital functions which can be obtained by using Burdock Blood Bitters.

An epidemic has broken out among the dogs down Cape Cod way. It is a sort of cramp colic and the victim gives a howl, a twist, a farewell wag of his tail and then points his feet skyward and is no more. We scarcely dare to hope it will reach this vicinity.

ROYAL

FULL WEIGHT
ROYAL BAKING POWDER
ABSOLUTELY PURE
ROYAL
BAKING POWDER

BAKING POWDER

Absolutely Pure.

This powder never varies. A marvel of purity, strength and wholesomeness. More economical than the ordinary kinds, and cannot be sold in competition with the multituds of low test, short weight, alum or phosphate powders. Sold only in cans. Royal Baking Powder Co., 106 Wall street, N. Y.

2dw

AGENT

— FOR —

CHICKERING & SONS' PIANOS.

Four fine New Pianos for sale very low for Cash.

A large stock of Organs and Musical Merchandise.

E. V. EMILIO'S,

MUSIC STORE,

287 ESSEX ST.,

SALEM.

B. F. STEVENS,

JEWELER & STATIONER.

Watches, Clocks and Jewelry cleaned and repaired.

Just received a fine stock of musical instruments. The best

Violin, Banjo and Guitar Strings
Accordions, Banjos,
Violins, Harmonicas,
Harps, Clappers, Bows,
Drums, Fifes, Flutes, Piccolos
etc., etc.

Agent for E. V. Emilio, also agent for Merriam & Co., wood and coal.

nov 19—tf PR

NOW FOR

Base Ball,

and the place to get

BASE BALLS
AND BATS

at the lowest prices is of

DANIEL J. SWEENEY

Next to the Old Hotel on the Square.

Here can also be found a good assortment of

Fruit,
Confectionery,
Cigars and
Tobacco.
Principee, Electric,
Serenader, Leader,

5 CENTS.

Harvard and Boat Club,

10 CENTS.

DANIEL J. SWEENEY.

N. W. EDSON & CO.

LARGE INVOICE OF

MASON'S

IMPROVED FRUIT JARS.

Three sizes—Pints, Quarts, one-half gallons.

N. W. Edson & Co.,

58 & 60 MAIN ST.,

PEABODY.

8 PER CENT. INVESTMENTS!

SCHOOL BONDS AND CAREFULLY SELECTED FARM MORTGAGES

in the "corn belt" of Dakota—the best and most fertile part of the Territory. Interest paid semi-annually at your home. Safest, best and most prompt paying investments obtainable. Satisfaction Guaranteed. Write us for copy School Bond Law and full particulats. First-class references THE CITIZENS' BANK, Grand View, Dakota aug 5—1m

LIBERALITY PAYS!

Any successful business man will tell you that Judicious Liberalityin he treatment of customers has been one of his best paying investments. This has certainly been the experience of

NUGENT BROS.,

who have invariably found that their customers are more than glad to direct their friends to the

Bargain Shoe Store,

4 LOWELL STREET,

PEABODY SQUARE.

Before taking our semi-annual account of stock, we intend to reduce it one half, and in pursuance of our policy of liberality, we continue to offer to the citizens of Peabody unparalleled Inducements to secure the greatest value for their money. Astounding Bargains may be obtained by simply calling on us and making known your wants.

We can Fit you, also fit your pocketbook. All we ask is the chance, and we will guarantee to give you satisfaction in every re-pect.

NUGENT BROS.

The Peabody Press.

JOHN P. FERNALD ALBERT VITTUM.

Editors and Publishers.

NEXT WEEK the public schools are to begin, and with few changes in teachers save at our High School, which seems to be unusually fated in this respect. It is an open secret that this school has not done the work the past year which it should do, and the Committee, with a view, we presume, to remedy this defect, have elected new assistant teachers. They both come with the best of testimonials, and we think are competent to accomplish all that should be expected in this direction.

The public statutes of Massachusetts wisely lay down specific laws for the establishment and maintainance of a High School. We say wisely, because we regret that in many places the necessity of such an education as is intended to be given there, is not fully appreciated. In fact, many parents are disposed to underrate its value, and sometimes to oppose it. Unless required by statute, some towns would not maintain a High School. Evidently the framers of the law foresaw this, and provided against such contingencies.

They also provided for a classical course in such schools. Here again there is opposition from those who think an English course the better, and who would, if possible, abolish the classical instruction altogether. The statute leans towards a classical course. In towns under 4000 inhabitants Latin only is required to be taught. In larger towns and cities the teachers must be competent to teach Greek as well as Latin and French. The purpose evidently is, to require our High Schools to be able to fit young men and women for a collegiate course, and not require them to attend the special preparatory schools for that purpose. We do not purpose now to discuss the advantages of a classical education, or of a scientific or English course. We are perfectly content with the action of our School Board, which makes it elective in the school which course may be pursued. But we are not disposed to look with favor upon any change in the character of the school which shall make the classical instruction given subordinate to that given in other branches.

It has been the custom in this school, and it is elsewhere as far as we know, to have the classical department, especially the advanced portion of it, under the charge of the principal of the school. Here, however, it is not so, and has not been so since the resignation of Mr. Ham. The assistant teachers have the charge of it, and are responsible for it, making it, in outward appearance, at least, subordinate to the other branches taught in the school. We asked the School Board how the examinations of the last year showed the work to have been in this department. His reply was not in commendation of it. Yet the School Report speaks in the highest terms of the ability of Miss Noyes, who was then first assistant, as a teacher. The point is this. Very few female teachers are qualified to teach Latin and Greek as it should be taught to scholars preparatory to entrance into our Colleges. The single exception in our High School, a few years ago, in the person of Miss Alice Osborne, only proves the truth of our statement. Nothing short of a thorough study of Latin and Greek obtained in the colleges themselves, can fit a teacher to properly prepare the students of the High School for entrance therein. The female teacher may be able to teach the primary classes in Latin—very few of them know anything of Greek—and that is all that should be required of them. Not that their ability is unequal to that of a male teacher, in itself, or that they could not fit themselves for such teaching as should be required. But they do not. A successful principal of a High School not many miles from this town, said to us recently, that he allowed his female assistant to teach the first year of Latin. Yet he regretted being obliged to do so, as he could do much better with the classes could he have them at the beginning, and in many cases, as it was, he was obliged to begin many things over again.

Our High School has fitted young men for college, and handsomely, too. There has not been, to our knowledge, a principal of our school, until the present one, who has not been a successful teacher of the classical branches. Yet, to-day, were there any students desirous of such instruction, would not they or their parents prefer to send them to a preparatory school rather than to our own High School, and would not this defeat one of the objects for which this and other High Schools are established? We know nothing derogatory to the ability of the two young ladies who are to run the classical course in our High School. At the same time we question very much if the scholars will receive the instruction in Latin and Greek which has been given by Mr. Ham, by Mr. Grose, by Mr. Carleton or Mr. A. C. Perkins. Yet nothing short of this should be attempted. We therefore consider the course of the Committee a mistake, in placing the responsibility of the classical course with the assistants.

* * *

THE CALL that has been issued for the Republican State Convention is as liberal as the most ardent mugwump could desire. It simply means that the leaders of the party in this state cherish no resentment towards those who defeated the National republican candidate for President. It does not mean that the republicans are down on their knees begging the mugwumps to come back—nor that the republican party need all the votes they can buy or beg to ensure the election of the nominees at Springfield.

Parties are necessary in State and National politics. No great measure of public policy has been brought about save by their aid. If the mugwump desires to accomplish anything towards the purity of the civil service, or the honorable administration of law, he will ally himself with some party. If the principles of the republican party are more to his liking than of the opposite one, it is just as much for his interest to identify himself with that party, as it is for the party itself to have him. We have not the slightest doubt that the nominees of the republican party in Springfield will be handsomely endorsed at the polls.

* * *

The Southbridge Journal says—"The press generally will rejoice to see the Richmond Medical company of St. Joseph, Mo., go for advertising agent Hubbard." We think the press generally looks on with about the same interest that was felt by the woman whose husband was having a fight with a bear. "Go in, John. Go in, bear."—Milford Journal.

That's about it. Hubbard is not the only advertising agent who makes one contract with the advertisers for a certain paper, and another with the paper itself. And as for the Richmond Medical company, we think they are trying to get the sympathy of the press for the sake of some free advertising. Their offer is made subject to payment by an order on a druggist payable when the goods are sold. And judging by the sale of the remedy hereabouts, it would take about ten years to get pay for an ordinary sized advertisement.

* * *

TELEPHONE RATES.—The following is the new schedule of telephone rates adopted by the New England company:

In cities having a population of 20,000 or over—

1st class, consisting of an exclusive private wire for each subscriber; $75 for business purposes, $75 for residence.

2d class, consisting of not over 2 subscribers per wire; $60 for each subscriber for business purposes, $50 for residence.

3d class. consisting of 3 or more subscribers on each wire; $50 for each subscriber for business purposes and $40 for residence.

In towns or cities of less than 20,000 population—

1st class (as above) $60 for business purposes and $60 for residence.

2d class, $48 for business purposes and $42 for residence.

3d class, $42 for business purposes and $36 for residence.

All of the above rates apply only to subscribers within 1 mile of the general office. An additional charge of 50 per cent. will be made for subscribers more than one mile and less than two miles distant, and a further mileage charge for subscribers whose location is more than two miles distant.

* * *

If you want to buy some blank books cheap, Merrill & Mackintire have purchased a manufacturer's line of samples that are a little shop worn, and will give you a big bargain.

OUR SCHOOL HOUSES.

During the vacation prior to the opening of the schools next Monday all the school rooms have been thoroughly cleaned and renovated—and some repairs made in the houses. The vacation season is nearly closed—and its length has enabled both teachers and scholars to get needed rest. The High School building has been painted on the outside since the close of the school, and a few little repairs made on the inside. The building is in better condition for the use of this school than it has been for years. There will be more changes in teachers here than at any other school. Prof. J. Y. Bergen, Jr., will again have charge with Miss F. M. Henshaw, of Amherst, Mass., as first assistant, and Miss E. P. Rollins, of Dorchester, as second assistant.

At the Wallis School an addition has been made to the radiating surface in two of the rooms, some painting has been done around the house, and the grounds newly graded. This school opens under the charge of Geo. F. Barnes and the same assistants as last year. At the Center School more radiating surface has been made and there has been some grading of the ground. This school opens under the charge of J. K. Cole, and the corps of assistants will be the same as last year with the exception that Miss Kittie E. Wiley will take the place made vacant by the resignation of Miss Sarah B. Brown. At the Bowditch School the furnaces in the building have been repaired—furnished with new pots, and some grading done around the grounds. Mr. A. E. Wells is principal of this school, and there is no change in assistants. At the Rockville School the fence around the building has been repaired and newly painted by H. L. Whidden. At the West School there have been some little repairs made in the rooms, and in the Felton School, the fence has been repaired and the grounds entirely enclosed.

Mr. Albert Breed, janitor at the Bowditch School has been compelled to resign his position on account of illness, much to the regret of the Committee, who have found him very competent and careful in the discharge of his duties.

The books to be used for the ensuing term are all ready for distribution. Lists are made out at the close of each term, by the teachers, of the approximate number required, and these are purchased by the Committee. Thus far the books have been well used by the scholars, the percentage lost or mutilated being much less than was anticipated by many. The Committee are not allowed to sell to any scholar; they must furnish to all free, whatever books are needed for use.

Miss Abbie D. Esty and Miss Cass have been engaged as teachers of the new school on Tremont street.

The new school house on Tremont street is completed and will be turned over to the School Committee this week. It is 75x36—the entire dimensions, and provides for two rooms on each floor 34x27. The entrance is well arranged, a large entry in the center being provided with closets for the use of the teachers, as well as for the scholars on each side. The rooms are neatly fitted—a blackboard all around the room, and the platform for the teachers furnished with table and chairs. In the rear of each room, entrance is made to a rear entry provided with water and a set bowl, and with doors leading to the water closets on each side. The floor is well laid of hard pine, and each room has 63 seats. The rooms up stairs are like those below in every respect, there being a trifle more room on the landing up stairs for the dressing rooms. The rooms up stairs command a particularly fine view and are unusually light and cheerful. Ventilation is obtained at the top and bottom of each room, so that the health of the scholars will be well cared for.

In the cellar are two large Magee furnaces furnished by J. D. & J. W. Eaton of Salem. The cellar is cemented, and is abundantly large for the coal bins, ash bins, and whatever else is needed there. A blind drain runs all around the wall, connecting with an 8-inch pipe to a spot eight feet away. The drainage from the building also runs into a pipe which carries it off. Everything that can be done for the health of the children has been done, and the house is light, dry, well heated and ventilated. The grounds are to be enclosed with a neat fence, graded in good shape,and the entire building has been built and furnished, including fencing, grading and all the improvements, within the appropriation. In fact the Committee have about seventy dollars left. This they propose to expend in a concrete walk around the house—something which the School Committee hope to be able to do for all the school houses in the future. It not only helps the water from the building to run off, but it makes a neat, clean walk. The Committee do not intend to exceed the appropriation—nor will it be necessary—but as one member expresses it, they propose "to spend every cent of it for the best interests of the town." That they have done so no one who visits the school house can doubt. The people of that section of the town have a school house to be proud of, and the whole building reflects a deal of credit on the artisans and the Committee having it in charge. There is ample play ground for the children, and we don't believe the town will ever desire to utilize any portion of the land for any other purpose than for which it was designed. Lord & Fuller were the architects and the contract for the entire building was awarded to Levi Spaulding who also did the carpenter work. The mason work was done by E. D. Trask & Co., the plumbing and piping by Daniel B. Lord. The building committee was S. Francis Blaney, Thos. J. Relihan, G. Fred Osgood, Thos. Carroll, John Linehan.

SPARKS.

The Selectmen Saturday, voted to authorize Chief Engineer Tibbetts to purchase two sets of swing harnesses for the use of the steamers and H. & L. and the contract for building them has been awarded to George C. Prescott, who will begin work on them immediately.

Steamer Co. No. 1, of Salem, started for Bath, Maine, last evening in the Star of the East, sailing from Boston. They will arrive home Friday morning.

O. B. Chadwick & Co., had a policy for $200, in the Merrimac Mutual of Andover, on the barn of Henry Collins on Hobart street, Danvers, which was burned Saturday morning about 1·15 o'clock.

Sixteen persons left Saturday on the annual trip of Steamer 2 company down Boston harbor, They are expected back to-day, with wondrous tales of the good time they have had.

The above does not refer to Steamer 2, of Peabody, but of Milford, and was taken from the Milford Journal. The excursion took place about the same time as the Peabody companies.

Last evening two of our Engineers were made happy by the presentation of hats and coats. The first one given was by Excelsior S. F. E. Co. No. 2., who assembled in their room and presented Chief Engineer John H. Tibbetts with a handsome 48 comb white Engineer's fire hat and a fine white rubber service coat. The hat front is lettered "Chief Engineer P. F. D.," with the initials J. H. T. and is fancy stitched. A silver shield on the rim is engraved, "Presented to John H. Tibbetts by Excelsior S. F. E. Co. No. 2. Peabody, Sept. 1, 1885." Mr. Tibbetts was taken completely by surprise but made a fitting response to the presentation speech, and the assembled company gave him three cheers and a tiger, after which he sent out for refreshments in the shape of fruits and cigars, and the evening was pleasantly passed in their discussion. The hat was made by Daley & Bryan of Boston, and the coat by the Conant Rubber Company. The second surprise was for Assistant Engineer A. E. Johnson, and took place at the house of Hose 4 on Pierpont street, about 9 o'clock. The members and ex-members of the company to the number of about 30 assembled at the quarters and Foreman John H. Moreland presented Mr. Johnson with a handsome 16 comb white, Engineers fire hat and a fine white rubber service coat. The hat front is lettered, "First Assistant Engineer P. F. D," and on the silver plate on the rim is engraved, "Presented by the members of Hose Company No. 4. to Engineer A. E. Johnson, Sept. 1. 1885." Mr. Johnson responded ably, thanking the boys for their generous gift. After the presentation the party sat down to a bountiful supper, consisting of clam chowder, Engineer Johnson's strong point, coffee and all the fixings. The chowder was prepared by friends Hutchinson and Upton, and was very fine. After the supper the company were regaled with a history of the company for the last fifteen years as given by Horace G. Upton. Taken all in all it was a very happy evening for the two Engineers. z

* * *

A neighboring exchange says that it is just sixty-nine years ago since the "year without a summer," when frost occurred in every month of the year. Ice formed half an inch thick in May; snow fell to the depth of three inches in the interior of New York and Massachusetts in June; ice was formed the thickness of common window glass throughout New York on the 5th of July; Indian corn was frozen so that the greater part was cut down and dried for fodder in August, and farmers supplied themselves from the corn produced in 1814 for seed in the spring of 1816. We have verified this by referring to the Lynn Item correspondent and find it true.

* * *

THE LECTURE delivered at Boston last week in the Old South Church, by Gen. Wm. Cogswell of Salem, on "The Campaign of Atlanta is very highly spoken of. Why not have him deliver it here in the Peabody Institute Course? We don't think Gen. Cogswell has placed his name with any "Bureau," but it is all the better on that account.

POLICE COURT.—The police have succeeded in breaking up one of the most desperate gang of young thieves that has infested this vicinity for some time. They arrested last Friday evening Jack Shea and Cornelius Shehan and a third one Howlett is still at large. This gang have been very bold about their operations and their work has extended over a large territory. They broke into Samuel Trask's store a short time ago and while the police knew who they were, they were unable to capture them although they made daily search. The story of their capture is quite interesting. Among other things they stole was a boat from Mr. Lewis J. Foan and he determined to capture them and secure his own property. After they broke into Samuel Trask's store they went to the "Rial side" and camped out and Foan nearly captured them one day as they were cooking a meal, consisting of fish and stolen vegetables. They took to the woods and Foan followed them about for several days. Last Friday about quarter of seven in the evening, he saw them on Grove street and gave chase, running down Shehan and Howlett and captured them near Peter Sim's shop. Shehan had a seven shot revolver and was loading it with cartridges, having three chambers loaded when caught, and these were taken from him. Foan had his hands full, as he captured them on the railroad track; a train approached and he had to drag them off the track, and they fought like young tigers, biting and kicking him so that he was obliged to let Howlett go, but kept Shehan. In the meantime word had been sent to the police station and the officers came down and took Shehan to the station. Foan who had been tracking Shea then led our officers in company with Salem officers to an old paste shop in "Irish town" owned by one Sweeney, and there under a lot of leather chips under the stairs they captured Jack Shea and he was placed in a cell adjoining Shehan's. Foan found his boat which had been stolen from Danversport in the possession of one Abel Goodwin of Beverly, who bought it of the gang for three dollars. There were no oars in the boat and with pieces of slats they rowed to Beverly. Goodwin admitted that he had bought two other boats of them at prices as suspiciously cheap, although he pretended he did not know it was stolen property. Shehan while in the station house confessed to breaking into the B. & M. railroad depot at Howe's station. The only charge against them when the case came up last Saturday afternoon was breaking and entering Samuel Trask's store to which they both plead guilty and were bound over for the Grand Jury in the sum of $1000 each. They were taken to jail. Great credit is due Mr. Foan for the way he worked on the case. Last evening the police captured Howlett near Daniel Haskell's residence, and lodged him in the station house. This is the third one of the gang and one of the worst. He not only broke into Trask's, and was the one that sold Foan's boat, but also broke into the railroad depot.

Chief Peasley went to Lawrence last Saturday and arrested Robert Lawless who was wanted for assaulting Jeremiah Daley at the new Bleachery building. Lawless said he was "boss" and wanted Daley to do a day's work. The Judge though $15 and costs wouldn't be too much for the "boss" to pay and he was fined that amount, and it was paid by the contractor.

The Boston papers relate the "old story" and this time the victim was Clarence Ward. On a recent evening he met a "soiled dove" on Washington street, Boston, about eleven o'clock, and he accepted her invitation to visit her rooms as she said "he would enjoy her acquaintance and find her home exceedingly pleasant." After reaching her room the woman asked what time it was and took Mr. Ward's watch, which he held up to show her, and fled from the room. He started in pursuit when he was confronted by two men and they had his watch and demanded two dollars for its restoration. As Mr. W. did not have as much money with him, he told them if they would leave it at a certain place the next morning they could have the money. He then went to the police station and had the woman arrested and she was sent to the house of correction for three months.

* * *

One of the best evidences that the American people now live better than their fathers did is found in the steady and rapid growth of the trade in tropical fruits. It is not many years since the great majority of people scarcely knew what the banana was, and considered oranges and lemons as luxuries to be afforded only in sickness and on great occasions. Now, not only these, but other tropical fruits, are bought and eaten almost as generally and freely as apples, and the consumption of melons, peaches, pears, plums and berries is on the same universal and extensive scale.

The best fitting shirt in the City can be purchased at Peabody's. See descriptive advt.

B. A. ATKINSON & CO.,

NASSAU HALL, 827 Washington St., cor. Common Street, and 54 Shawmut Ave., cor. Pleasant Street, BOSTON, MASS.

CORNER PEARL AND MIDDLE STREETS, PORTLAND, ME.

THE LARGEST HOUSE FURNISHING STORES IN NEW ENGLAND.

102,550 square feet of floor room in the Nassau Hall Building is filled with all kinds of

USEFUL HOUSEHOLD GOODS,

which will be sold Cheap for CASH or on INSTALLMENTS.

SPECIAL ANNOUNCEMENT to the housekeepers of New England.—During the month of September we shall sell all kinds of household furnishings cheaper than ever before.

FURNITURE, CARPETS, BEDDING, STOVES, RANGES, &c.

Buy of the MANUFACTURERS and save one profit.

PARLOR FURNITURE (our own make).

Hair Cloth Parlor Suites, 7 Pieces, $35.00, $40.00, $45.00, $50.00 $60.00, $75.00, $80.00. Covered in Embossed Mohair Plush for $15 extra, 4 colors. SUITES in all grades of Mohair and Silk Plush from $50.00 to $300.00. Also Suites in Fancy Goods. We carry an enormous line of Plushes and Upholstery Goods, and any person can select their goods and have their Suites or Odd Chairs or Couches made to order, at same Prices. Continually on hand 75 to 80 different styles. Our Factory is taxed to its utmost Capacity.

CHAMBER FURNITURE.

In this department we have an Enormous Line.
Ash Chamber Suites, at $18.00, $20.00, $25.00, $30.00, $35.00 to $75.00.
Cherry Chamber Suites, at $30.00, $40.00, $50.00 to $100.00.

SOLID BLACK WALNUT CHAMBER FURNITURE.

No. 1 is a 10 Piece Marble Top Suite, nicely Moulded and Beaded, a beauty, $40.00.
No. 2 is a 10 Piece, Bevel Mirror, finely Polished, best Italian Marble Tops, and worth $65.00. Price, $50.00.
No. 3 is one of the Handsomest Suites in the market, comprising 10 pieces, large Bevel Glass, Brace Arm Chairs, large Table, and Warranted in every Particular, $60.00.
We have over 50 DIFFERENT PATTERNS, all set up on one floor to select from.

ALSO, A FULL LINE OF PINE PAINTED FURNITURE.

Mahogany Furniture.

All kinds of Odd Furniture—Odd sized Bedsteads, Cribs, Cradles, Car Beds, Cabinet Beds, Mantle Beds, Bed Lounges, Sofa Beds, Spring Beds, Feather Beds.

STOVES AND RANGES IN GREAT VARIETY.

Our stock is complete, some of the finest RANGES in America; a nice Range and Ware for $15.00, $20.00, $22.50, $25.00, $30.00 and up to $50.00.
PARLOR STOVES in great variety, from $4.00 to $40.00.
Special pains have been taken in this Department.

CARPETS.

The Finest Line in New England, comprising Marquetts, Velvets, Body Brussels, Tapestry Brussels, Ingrains and Oil Cloths in great variety of quality and price.

Tapestry Brussels,	60c to $1.00.	Ingrains,	25c to $1.25.
Body Brussels,	95 " 1.50.	Velvets,	95 " 1.50.

Mats and Rugs.—An enormous quantity just received, selling at cost to produce.
Window Shades, Lace Curtains, Drapery Curtains, Poles, and Cornices all set up.
Everything in our stock will be sold on the Installment Plan if desired. Square dealing is our motto. Come well recommended—we want honest people for our customers. Send for our circulars showing how we do the Installment Business. Your Obedient Servants,

B. A. ATKINSON & CO.,

NASSAU HALL, 827 Washington St., cor. Common Street, and 54 Shawmut Ave., cor. Pleasant Street, BOSTON, MASS.

CORNER PEARL AND MIDDLE STREETS, PORTLAND, ME.

SOUTH PEABODY.

The funeral of Richard Draper, who died last Sunday, took place from his late residence on High street, last Tuesday afternoon, a very large number of relatives and friends following the remains to the grave in Cedar Grove cemetery.

Only about 500 passengers were carried on the Lynn & Boston road last Sunday, on account of the storm.

J. B. Newhall has been at work cleaning the gutters on Lynn street, the past week, very much to the improvement of the same.

Conductor Basford is improving slowly from his late accident.

Mrs. Emily Dakin has gone to Seabrook, N. H., for a few days vacation.

Owing to the bad weather last Sunday, no services were held at the church.

Arthur Fader starts for N. H., on his vacation the last of the week.

A concrete driveway will be put down in front of the house of Hose 5.

Mr. A. W. Tyler, of New York, recently connected with the Kansas State Library, is passing his vacation in town, and is stopping at the house of Mr. Samuel Brown. During his stay, Mr. Tyler will be engaged in preparing for the press, the Biblical lectures, which during the past six years he has been delivering both East and West. He will probably deliver one or two of them in this vicinity.

Samuel Haynes, clerk for Samuel Donnell & Son, killed a large rattlesnake on Lynnfield road yesterday. It measured 4 feet and 6 inches and had eleven rattles.

New Advertisements.

TOWN HALL.

ONE NIGHT ONLY.

TUESDAY, SEPT. 8TH, 1885

The distinguished Irish Comedian and Vocalist,

J. S. MURPHY,

In Fred Marsden's greatest of all Irish Dramas, the

"KERRY GOW,"

Played by him with unparallelled success for eight consecutive seasons in all the principal cities and leading theatres in America.

A Comedy Drama without Equal

Presenting not only realistic pictures of Life and Love in the Emerald Isle, but an everyday tale in every land. Supported by the talented young Leading Actress,

MISS IDA BURROWS

And a Superb Dramatic Company.

PRICES AS USUAL.

Reserved Seats to be had at H. A. Spaulding's.

CHARLES A. WEARE,

Attorney and Counsellor at Law.

ALLEN'S BUILDING,

PEABODY, MASS.

Barley Oats.

2 Cars Old Barley Oats.
CHAS. A. ROPES & SON.

Beans.

PRIME Pea, Medium, and Yellow Eyed Beans.
CHAS. A. ROPES & SON.

WOOD FOR SALE.

I now offer at the Lowest Cash Price, Trash by the cord, $4. Hard by the cord, Pine by the cord.

Cord Wood sawed and split to order.

Also 12 bushels of pine or 10 bushels of hard, for $1.

All orders left with Daniel Goodrich, at N. W. Edson's, Main St., or at Samuel Trask's, Walnut St., will receive prompt attention.

SAMUEL TRASK,

WALNUT ST.,

PEABODY.

IF YOU DESIRE

A MEDICINE

To regulate and build up your system and purify the blood of all poisonous humor use

FERRATED HYGIENIC WINE

FOR SALE BY DRUGGISTS.

PROBATE NOTICE.

Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

ESSEX, SS. PROBATE COURT.

To the Heirs-at-law, Next of Kin, and all other Persons interested in the Estate of RUTH A. GOLDTHWAIT, late of Peabody, in said county, widow, deceased,

GREETING:

WHEREAS, a certain instrument purporting to be the last will and testament of said deceased has been presented to said Court for Probate, by Mary A. Goldthwait, and Elizabeth P. Goldthwait, who pray that letters testamentary may be issued to them the executors therein named, and that they may be exempt from giving a surety or sureties on their bond, for the reasons alleged in said petition. You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court to be held at Salem, in said county of Essex, on the first Monday of September, next, at nine o'clock, before noon, to show cause, if any you have, against the same.

And said petitioners are hereby directed to give public notice thereof, by publishing this citation once a week, for three successive weeks, in the newspaper called the Peabody Press, printed at Peabody, the last publication to be two days at least before said Court.

Witness, George F. Choate, Esquire, Judge of said Court, this fourteenth day of July, in the year one thousand eight hundred and eighty-five.

J. T. MAHONEY, Register.

jy 29—3t

The Peabody Press.

Wednesday Evening, Sept, 2, 1885

HOME HAPPENINGS.

'Tis now that the schoolma'am begins to remember
She's drawing quite near to the month of September,
And having enjoyed herself through the vacation,
She views its conclusion with much tribulation.
She feels so much happier, healthier, stronger,
She wishes the season would last a month longer:
And the urchins who sit on the wharf catching fishes,
No doubt, when, they think of it, echo her wishes.
—Exchange.

* * *

At the close of the regular evening prayer meeting at the South Church last Friday, a meeting of the church was held, Mr. Richard Smith presiding, and the matter of the call of Rev. W. G. Sperry to Manchester, N. H., was discussed and the unanimous feeling of the meeting was expressed in the following resolutions:

WHEREAS, our Pastor, Rev. Willard G. Sperry, has received a call from the Hanover St. church, Manchester, N. H., to become its Pastor, to which he is giving his prayerful consideration.

RESOLVED, That we, the members of his church, over which for seven years he has been our beloved Pastor, hold him in increasing confidence and esteem, and that by his able, faithful, loving ministrations in every department of his work, among us, he has bound himself to us by ties too strong to be broken.

That his present field of labor in this community is wide and important, and that his acquaintance with our character and needs, and the adaptedness of his ministry acquired by several years experience, constitute a strong claim for the continuance of his ministry with us.

That we believe that the Pastoral relation should be as permanent as the providence of God indicates, and that the blessing of God upon our Pastor's efforts to win souls, to strengthen believers, and in all respects to promote the prosperity of the church and society and also the weight of his christian influence in favor of righteousness, temperance, law and order, in the community, together with the prospect of increasing usefulness from year to year all forbid that the existing relation so harmonious and prosperous should now be severed.

That we earnestly pray that our Heavenly Father will give unto both Pastor and people wisdom from above profitable to direct, an l that it may please Him to continue the ministry with us, which has thus far been so useful and acceptable.

At a meeting of the Society held Monday evening, the feeling was equally as strong for retaining the pastor. Mr. H. H. Proctor presided, and the following resolutions were passed:

At a special meeting of the Society and Congregation connected with the South Church in Peabody held in the vestry on Monday evening, Aug. 31st, 1885, the following preamble and resolutions were unanimously adopted and the Standing Committee and Clerk were appointed a committee] to present them to the Pastor.

WHEREAS, our Pastor, the Reverend Willard G. Sperry, has received a call to the pastorate of the Hanover Street Church, Manchester, N. H., and

WHEREAS, The Church connected with this Society has unanimously passed resolutions expressive of the love, confidence and esteem in which our Pastor is held by us, therefore be it

RESOLVED, That these expressions of feeling toward our Pastor meet our heartfelt and cordial approval and are hereby adopted by this Society as expressing our own sentiments and that we as a Society most earnestly hope and desire that the relations so pleasantly existing between us as Pastor and people may be continued.

It was also

Voted, That the vacation of the Pastor this year be six weeks instead of four weeks, the additional two weeks to be taken now or in the spring as he may elect.

A true copy,

ARTHUR F. POOLE,
Clerk of Society.

Peabody, Sept. 1st, 1885.

* * *

Another robbery was committed in town last night. Mr. William Frye, who has charge of the town scales went home as usual, and left one of the windows down at the top a few inches, leaving a small piece of stick braced against it to keep it in position. During the night some one reached in and loosened the stick and forced an entrance to the shop and stole a beautiful "mule" bird owned by Mr. Frye and valued at $15.00, The bird was a cross between a canary and a goldfinch, and had been in his possession for two or three years. A canary in another cage was not disturbed. Under the window were footprints in the mud, and the door to the shop was open. It looks as if some one took a fancy to the bird and took this means of getting possession of it.

The following is interesting reading, particularly as the company referred to is "not making a cent." The operations of the New England Telephone and Telegraph Company in June and the first six months of 1885 were:

	June.	Since Jan. 1.
ss receipts	$77,331.60	$462,959.55
ss expenses	55,608.82	324,369.21
. earnings,	21,722.78	138,590.34
struction	6,985.63	46,352.87
plus	14,737.15	92,237.47

The above shows average gross receipts per month of $77,159.92; average expenses, $54,061.53; average net earnings, $23,098.39; average construction expenditures, $7725.47, and average surplus, $15,372.91.

News of the death of Mr. James Perkins of Magnolia, who was for many years a citizen of Peabody, was received with much regret by his many friends here, and calls for something more than a passing notice in these columns. Mr. Perkins was born at Essex, Aug 13, 1814, and having learned the trade of millwright of the late John Whitney, went very early in life to the State of Alabama, where his services were for some two years in request in setting up machinery. Here an inside view of the system of Slavery made upon his mind a permanent impression long before the anti-slavery movement had made much progress in the North. Returning, he established himself in Danvers, now Peabody, married, and built on Washington street, a house almost the first in that now central quarter.

Mr. Perkins was one of the first to discuss whither the struggle between the North and the South growing out of the usurpations of the Slave power would inevitably tend, but such was his horror of the system of Slavery that he welcomed the contest, and when the time of trial came he threw himself into it with characteristic ardor. Upon the call for troops to serve for nine months he enlisted in Company C. 5th Regiment M. V. M. and served with his regiment in North Carolina. At the time of his enlistment he was already past the usual age of military service, but this did not prevent him from obeying what he considered a call of duty. About ten years ago the attention of Mr. Perkins was called to the natural beauties of that part of the Cape Ann coast now known as Magnolia Point, and to its advantages as the site of a sea side residence. He promptly decided to remove to that spot, build the first cottage there, and from that time to the day of his death, he identified himself with all its plans for its improvement and came to be looked upon as one of its leading citizens. He afterwards built the Oceanside Hotel, and the house which was finally his residence. A firm believer in temperance and purity of morals, as essential to the welfare of a community, he was untiring in his efforts to secure these blessings for Magnolia. He was an earnest Christain and illustrated his faith by his works. His many friends at South Peabody and Brookdale will remember with gratitude his share in the work of establisihng regular public worship.

His death occured at Magnolia on Saturday August 29th, after a brief illness. A funeral service conducted by Rev. Mr. Childs of Gloucester, and Rev. Henry W. Foote of Boston, was held on Tuesday at the new chapel, in the building of which he had taken an active interest. The many citizens and visitors at Magnolia evinced by their presence and beautiful floral offerings, the respect felt for their departed friend.

An arrangement has been consummated of great interest to the leather trade in regard to the Winter Measuring machine. Negotiations have been in progress for several months, through the instrumentality of Frank E. Farnham, Esq., with the Standard Leather Measuring Machine Co., David T. Winter and Charles E. Teague, looking towards a settlement of their rival claims. It is well known that the Standard Machine Co. brought action against Winter for an infringement of patents, and the case has never been brought to final judgment. Neither party, however, have put machines on the market to any extent—nor have parties been willing to purchase them on account of the pending litigation. The Union Leather Measuring Machine Co., of Peabody, who will be represented in this town by Mr. Farnham, have secured from all the parties releases of their respective rights in the patents covered by the Winter Leather Measuring Machine, and the Tapley machine and will proceed at once to carry on the manufacture of the Winter machine. A written guarantee will be furnished with every machine against any interference by any of the parties heretofore claiming rights in the machines. Several orders for machines, have been received by the new Company and they will be supplied as soon as arrangements can be made for their manufacture. This agreement will be received with pleasure by the trade. The Winter machine has been appreciated by the trade, and the more so since its manufacture has been suspended.

* * *

"Kerry Gow," in which J. S. Murphy appears next Tuesday evening at town hall, is a drama portraying Irish life in a realistic manner, and containing a romantic and sensational interest. It has taken fair rank on the American stage, and has achieved remarkable success. Mr. Murphy depicts the jovial, quick witted Irishman in a natural and skilful manner, hitting off the drolleries and peculiarities of the Irish character to perfection, and throwing in occasionally a dash of pathos that brings tears to many an eye. Mr. Murphy is supported by a good company.

VACATION NOTES.

Mr. Wm. O. Batchelder and wife were in New York last week,

Mr. Joseph Jacobs and family have been to the Isle of Shoals.

Mrs. Charles E. Teague is visiting at Ithica, N. Y.

Mr. Thomas H. Jackman has been spending a few days with the New Hampshire Veterans at the Weirs, N. H.

Dr. Pike and Rev. Mr. Sperry have been to Prince Edward's Island.

Miss Ella F. Dodge has gone to Clifton.

Mrs. R. W. Wilkinson and Mrs. R. H. Wilkinson contemplate a visit to North Conway.

Mr. Moses Ferrin and wife are at Freedom, N. H.

Mr. Thomas Horrigan is on a camping trip with some of his classmates.

Mr. John L. Colcord and son are in attendance at the New England Agricultural Fair at Bangor, Me.

Mr. Frank A. Pratt, of Melrose, is visiting in town.

Mrs. Gerry Hardy and family of Andover, have been the guests of W. H. Fellows.

Mrs. Hettie Elliott is rusticating at the Shirley Hill House, Manchester, N. H.

Miss Alice Blaney has been rusticating at the Isle of Shoals.

Mr. George Griffin and wife will spend their two weeks' vacation at Hartford, Conn.

Mr. James Gilman and family are at Crescent Beach.

Miss Jennie F. Woodbury of Beverly, formerly of this town, is enjoying her vacation at Ossipee Park, N. H.

Gen. Sutton and wife and Miss Lila Sutton have gone to Saratoga.

Mr. James P. King has gone to Bangor, Me., to attend the Agricultural Fair.

Mr. Hazen A. Quint is spending a week in Lawrence.

John Drew sailed for Ireland last Saturday.

Theodore Swazey Esq., of Washington, D. C., has been the guest of Mr. Franklin Osborn.

Mrs. S. A. Pope will spend two weeks at the Glen Ellis House, Jackson, N. H.

W. C. Munroe, F. K. Pemberton, Jacob G. Bodge, E. Pope Barrett, Amos Buxton and J. O. Whitten have gone to the New England fair at Bangor, Me.

Mr. and Mrs. B. D. Hill and daughter. Mrs. Wm. Hagar, and Judge Amos Merrill and Frank C. Merrill have gone with the Union club to Jefferson, N. H.

Arthur W. Littlefield and wife are at Center Sandwich, N. H.

Miss Annie Richmond and Mr. Augustus Merrill are with the Munroe party.

As our town is to have the weather signals from the Meteorological Bureau at Cambridge, it may be of interest to explain to our readers the various signals used. These weather signals, recommended by the U. S. Signal Service, are displayed upon the receipt of telegraphic dispatches from the central office in Washington, as follows:

The flag with a full round spot as follows, in red, means higher temperature, (warm weather): with a blue spot of the same shape it means general rain or snow.

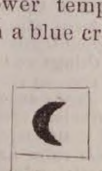
The flag with a red crescent, as follows, means lower temperature (cooler weather): with a blue crescent, clear or fair weather.



The flag with a red star, as follows, means stationary temperature; with a blue star it means local rain or snow.

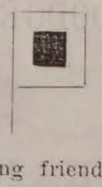
The flag with a black square spot, as follows, means that a cold wave is coming:



To our farming friends and, indeed, to our citizens generally, these signals should be of great benefit. There is hardly a day passing, but some of us are making our plans according to the weather, which it is very convenient to be assured of twenty-four hours in advance.

It should not be expected that the signals will always be perfectly correct. The Bureau at Cambridge can only depend upon general signs which it observes, and which may be variable in certain localities, but as a rule the signals will be found notably correct, and of much interest and value.

HANDKERCHIEFS.

SEVEN BARGAINS.

No. 1
A Ladies' All Linen Handkerchief for 4 cts., or 42 cents per dozen.

No. 2
A Ladies' All Linen Hem'd Handkerchief for 6 cts., or 63 cents per dozen.

No. 3
A Ladies' All Linen Hem'd Handkerchief for 7 cts., or 75 cents per dozen.

No. 4
A Gent's All Linen Hem'd Handkerchief for 9 cts., or $1 per dozen.

No. 5
A Gent's All Linen Handkerchief for 10 cts., or $1.13 per Dozen.

No. 6
A Gents' All Linen Handkerchief for 15 cts., or $1.50 per dozen.

No. 7
A Gents' All Linen Handkerchief for 18 cents, or $1.75 per dozen.

The above lots are strictly first class goods, and are from twenty to thirty per cent. under the market price. Inasmuch as linen goods are staple goods and seldom offered at a sacrifice, we congratulate ourselves in being able to offer these seven lots at such prices. An early call will secure them. No more can be had at this price.

JOHN P. PEABODY,
SALEM.

STRAWBERRIES! STRAWBERRIES!

Next June,

By planting Strawberry Plants in August will secure a crop of fruit the coming season. Any good garden soil, well cultivated, enriched, etc., will answer. We have fine plants and best varieties.

ALL POTTED PLANTS AT LOW MARKET RATES.

Varieties—"Sharpless," "Miner's Prolific," "Chas. Downing," "Bidwell," "Jersey Queen" (P,) "Hervey Davis," etc.

Orders by mail will receive prompt attention. Goods can be sent by express to all points.

TERMS CASH.

Plants, Flowers, etc., to order from

E. & C. WOODMAN

Florist and Garden Supplies,

DANVERS, MASS.

☞ Greenhouses, Holten St., Tapleyville. On line Salem & Danvers and Peabody and Danvers Horse Railroad.

Send for Circular.

WM. M. HILL.

AUCTIONEER, REAL ESTATE
BROKER & APPRAISER.

HALE'S BLOCK.

223 ESSEX STREET, SALEM.

Mortgagees negotiated. Personal attention to all Real Estate matters.

Family Flour.

A Full stock of Spring Wheat patent process and Winter Wheat Family Flour, fresh ground from old wheat, and warranted.
CHAS. A. ROPES & SON.

FRESH ATTRACTIONS!

— AT —

W. B. GIFFORD & CO'S.

SPECIAL SALE OF BOOKS FOR THIRTY DAYS.

Literally without regard to cost. The collection embraces over thirty thousand volumes of the best Fiction, History, Poetry, Biography, Travels, Wit and Humor, etc., etc., every volume of which has been carefully selected and all are marked at half their actual value. Here is a partial list. Examine and decide for yourself:—

	Publishers' Price.	Our Price.
George Eliot's Works, 8 vols., half morocco	$24.00	$ 9.44
George Eliot's Works, 8 vols., cloth, library edition,	12.00	4.98
George Eliot's Works. 8 vols., cloth, Fine edition,	12.00	5.98
Gsorge Eliot's Works, 8 vols., half calf,	24.00	10.24
Guizot's History of France, 8 vols., fine edition,	20.00	13.98
Irving's Works, 10 vols., cloth,	15.00	6.98
Irving's Works, 10 vols., half calf,	30.00	12.80
Irving's Works, 3 vols, cloth,	7.50	3.98
Cooper's Sea Tales, 5 vols, cloth,	7.50	4.28
Cooper's Leather Stocking Tales. 5 vols, cloth,	7.50	4.28
Cooper's Complete Works, 16 vols, cloth,	32.00	16.98
Waverly Novels, 12 vols, cloth,	18.00	8.28
Waverly Novels, 24 vols, cloth,	24.00	12.98
Waverly Novels, 12 vols, half calf,	36.00	21.00
Waverly Novels. 24 vols. half calf,	75.00	35.00
Bulwer's Novels 13 vols,	19.50	8.28
Dickens's Works, 15 vols, half morocco,	45.00	17.00
Dickens's Works, 15 vols, cloth,	22.50	6.98
Dickens's Works, 15 vols, cloth gilt back edition,	22.50	9.75
Dickens's Works, 15 vols,, half calf,	49 00	22.50
Thackery's Works, 11 vols, cloth, library edition,	16.50	6.98
Thackery's Works. 11 vols, red cloth and gilt top edition,	16.50	8.88
Black's Works, 7 vols, cloth, library edition,	10.50	5.18
Green's History of the English People, 4 vols,	6.00	2.98
Macaulay's History of England, 5 vols,	5.95	1.48
Macaulay's History of England, 5 vols, red cloth, gilt top,	6.75	4.50
Macaulay's Life and Letters,	1.25	.58
McCarthy's History of Our Own Times, 4 vols, red cloth, gilt top,	6.00	3.78
Knight's History of England, 4 vols,	6.00	3.98
Pultrarch's Lives of Illustrious Men, 3 vols, cloth,	4.50	2.50
Smile's Self-Help Series, 4 vols,	6.00	3.12
Smile's Biographical Series, 3 vols,	4.50	2.18
Hume's History of England, 6 vols,	7.50	3.18

	Publishers' Price.	Our Price.
Chamber's Encyclopedia, 12 vols, cloth,	$18.00	$ 7.98
Prescott's Histories, per vol.,	1.50	1.18
Church's Works, 7 vols,	10.50	6.82
Elsie Books, 10 vols,	12.50	8.28
Gibbon's Roman Empire, 5 vols,	5.00	2.98
Shakespeare, 8 vols,	7.50	3.78
Carlyle's French Revolution, 2 vols,	3.00	1.58
Ella Wheeler's Poems of Passion,	1.50	.78
A line of regular Sunday School Books, Prettly Bound and Illustrated
F. Marion Crawford's Latest Work, "Zoroaster,"	1.50	1.28
Gen. Lew Wallace's "Ben Hur—A Tale of Christ,"	1.50	1.38
E. P. Roe's "A Young Girl's Wooing," and others,	1.50	.98
George Eliot's Essays,	1.25	.58
History of Our Own Times, 2 vols,	3.00	1.58
Thackery. 11 vols, half calf,	33.00	14.98
Macaulay's History of England. 5 vols, sheep,	7.50	4.98
Macaulay's Essays, 3 vols, cloth,	3.75	1.99
Bulwer's Novels, 13 vols, half calf,	39.00	21.48
Bulwer's Novels, 25 vols, half calf,	75.00	37.00
Macauley's History of England 5 vols, half calf.	15.00	7.40
Revised edition of the Bible,	1.00	.78
Troubled Waters,	1.25	.88
Afganistan and the Anglo-Russian dispute, illustrated and with maps,	.50	.39
English Classics—All in a Garden Fair, Belinda, Erankestein Outre Mer, Pyperion East Lynn, Tom Brown's School Days, The Mysterious Island, Pilgrims Progress, Imitation of Christ and 50 others,	1.00	.32
Red Line Edition of Standard Poets—Longfellow, Bryant, Whittier, Burns, Byron, Browning, Cowper Coleridge Dante, Eliot, Coethe, Heaven in Song, Hemane, Ingelow, Lucille, Milton, Poe, Pope, Proctor, Religious Poems, Schiller, Shakespeare and 60 others,	1.50	.59
Summer reading—A magnificent line of illustrated books of

	Publishers' Price.	Our Price
Fiction, embracing all the works of the best modern authors, elegantly bound in illuminated paper covers,	.50	.19
A selected line of the best works of Fiction, bound in colored cloth with gilt tiles, and embracing Her Mother's Sin and Beyond Pardon by Bertha M. Clay, Belinda by Rhoda Broughton; Other Peoples' Money by Emile Gaboriano and hosts of others,	1.25	.58
A beautiful line of 12 mo. books sumptuously bound comprising such works as Life of Washington, Ivanhoe, Oliver Twist, Adam Bede and 50 others,	1.25	.48
Don Quixiote,	5.00	1.98
America Illustrated, 120 wood cuts,	3.00	.98
Wood's Natural History, 300 engravings,	1.25	.78
History of the United States—Frosts,	1.35	.78
Josephus's History of the Jews bound in sheep,	3.00	1.88
Poets bound in sheep, large volumes,	3.00	1.88
Gilbert edition of Shakespeare, fully illustrated,	5.00	2.28
A Manual of Ancient History,	1.25	.58
Rignt and Wrong Uses of the Bible,	1.25	.48
Popular American Dictionary,	1.00	.48
Favorite Dictionary, 35,000 words,	.35	.13
Spencer's Education,	1.50	.58
Elmo's Model Speaker for Children,	1.25	.48
Hoyle's Games,	1 50	.98
Miss Parloa's Cook Book,	1.25	.9
Miss Niel's every day Cook Book,	2.25	.48
Song and Instrumental Folios,	.50	.32
An elegant line of Family Bibles.
Hundreds of Humorous Books. An endless variety of Children's Books to suit all ages.
Treasures New and Old,	5.00	2.98
Ramona by Helen Jackson,	1.50	1.28
Worcester's Condensed Dictionary,	3.00	1.38
Poets bound in Alligator	3.00	1.48

SALE WILL CONTINUE FOR THIRTY DAYS ONLY.

W. B. GIFFORD & CO. MARKET ST., LYNN

NEW LIST.

WAR, WAR, WAR,
ON BOOKS

AT FRANK COUSINS' BEE-HIVE

Special Sale on Books, to end Monday, Sept. 7. Read carefully this list and compare with others.

	Publishers Price	Our Price
George Eliot's Works, 8 vols,	$12.00	$ 4.00
Irving's Works,	12.00	5.25
Cooper's Sea Tales, 5 vols,	5.00	2.75
Dickens's Popular Illus., 15 vols,	18.75	5.89
Dickens's gilt back standard, illustrated. 15 vols,	22.50	6.89
Dickens's half calf, illus. 15 vols,	37.50	16.09
Green's History of English People, 4 vols, 12mo.,	6.00	2.25
Macaulay's History of England, 5 vols. cloth,	5.00	1.19
McCarthy's History of Our Own Times, 2 vols,	2.50	1.10
Knight's Popular History of England, 8 vols, 4 Books,	6.00	2.96
Smile's Self-Help series, 4 vols, cloth,	6.00	1.80
Lew Wallace Ben Hur, a tale of the Christ,	1.50	1.00
Alligator Bound Poets,	2.50	1.10
Eliot's Essays,	1.25	1.18
Oxford Revised version of the Bible,	1.00	.64
Dickens Birthday Book,	1.00	.54
Claxton Edition, 12mo,	1.00	.23
Red Line Gilt Edge Poets,	1.25	.46
Elegant 12mo,	1.25	.37
Wood's Natural History, 300 Engravings,	1.25	.50
American Dictionary, Illustrated with supplement of new words,	.50	.10

And many other Books at lowest known prices.

SALE AT

Frank Cousins'

BEE-HIVE,

SALEM.

W. C. ROBINSON,

(Successor to Smith & Robinson.)

Dealer in all kinds of

STATIONERY AND

ARTISTS' MATERIALS.

Pictures and Picture Frames.

Everything to be found in a first class establishment.

— Everything in our line at Bottom Prices. —

The people of Peabody are cordially invited to look at our stock, and see our display of paintings and art work.

We are agents for the celebrated

ROGERS' GROUPS.

☞ Horse cars pass the door.

W. C. Robinson,

42 MARKET STREET, LYNN, MASS.

WE HAVE

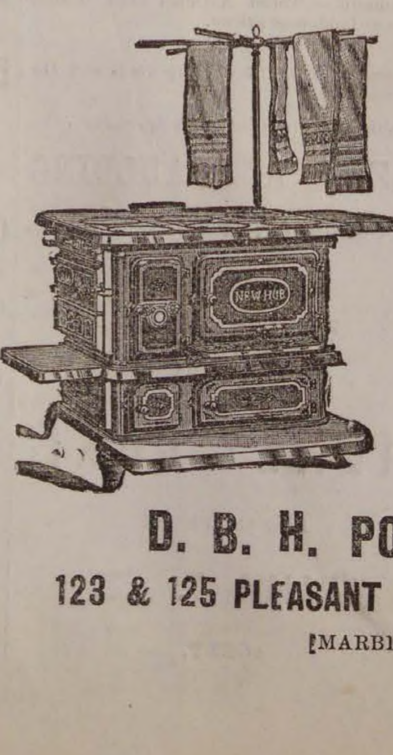
Just closed a contract with one of the largest manufacturers of Chamber furniture in the country for 2 car loads of

CHAMBER SETS,

consisting of Ash, Black Walnut, Cherry and Painted, which we shall offer to the citizens of Essex County this week, with

I CAR LOAD OF MATTRESSES,

at way down prices, either for cash or on our easy instalment plan, $1 down and $1 a week. We have the largest stock of



Stoves, Ranges,
Furniture, Carpets,
and Crockery,

In fact anything in the house furnishing line to be found in Essex county.

Goods delivered free. Horse and steam cars stop at door. Call and be convinced we can save you money. Send for catalogue price list. Balance of

Refrigerators, Oil Stoves,
and Children's Carriages,
at very low prices.

Curtains made and put up. Carpet made by hand by experienced workers.

D. B. H. POWER & CO.,

123 & 125 PLEASANT ST. 24 SCHOOL ST.,

MARBLEHEAD.

HOTEL NAHANT,

NAHANT BEACH.

SAM'L SOULE & SON, Props.

IS NOW OPEN FOR GUESTS.

Horse cars from Salem and Peabody direct to the house,

Fish dinners a specialty.

Connected by Telephone.

P. O. Address, LYNN, MASS.

At this season of the year it will profit you to use Ferrated Hygienic Wine, to cleanse your blood of all poisonous humor. tf

Health is of more consequence than wealth Many sick ones might be cured by using Ferrated Hygienic Wine, tf

SPRING BARGAINS

— IN —

ROOM PAPERS.

Now is the time to paper your rooms, while goods are cheap. Room Papers for nearly half price for fifteen days only.

It will pay you to buy these goods, and lay by till spring, as you can save money by the operation.

LOOK AT THE PRICES.

4000 rolls 10c papers for 6c a roll.
3700 " 15c " " 10c "
2000 " 20c " " 12 1-2c "
Small lot 25c Satins for 15c a roll.

There is only a few patterns in this lot, and an early selection is necessary.

3500 rolls 50c gilts for 25c a roll.

Remnants at your own prices.

2c borders for 1c a yard. 5c borders for 2c yd. Gilt borders from 2c a yd upwards.

These bargains will not last long at these prices, and first customers will get the best trades.

MERRILL & MACKINTIRE.

220 ESSEX ST.,

SALEM.

BUSHBY & MACURDY'S

CABINET PHOTOGRAPHS

At $3.00 per dozen are 100 per cent. better than any club-check photographs; and are guaranteed fully equal in

Posing, Lighting, Finish and Permanency

to any $10 cabinets made in Boston or New York.

The largest and best constructed operating studio in New England. 40,000 negatives preserved.

521 Washington St.,

BOSTON.

Elevator from the ground. feb;11—3m

MERRIAM & CO.,

DEALERS IN

WOOD AND COAL

Danversport, Mass.

Kohinoor Coal, Bear Ridge Coal, Sheaokin Coal, Genuine Franklin Coal, Cumberland Coal.

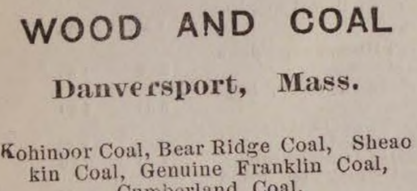
All the best quality. Try them.

For Cash lower than; can be bought elsewhere

Orders can beleft with B. F. Stevens, Peabody, or by telphone to N. P. Merriam, Tapleyville, and will be promptly attended to. em—

BATCHELDER & CO.,

DEALER IN



WOOD COAL HAY & STRAW.

Danversport and Peabody.

Cyrus P. Batchelder ChauncyS. Richards

OFFICE IN PEABODY:

7 ALLEN'S BLOCK, SQUARE.

GREAT

REDUCTION IN PRICE OF

COAL

—AT—

PICKERINGS

17 Peabody St., Salem, Mass

WHERE ALL FIRST-CLASS COALS CAN BE FOUND

Specialty made in Steam Coals.

Orders can beleft at Office, 12 Front St., or at B. P. Pickering's Store, Salem.

SPECIAL RATES MADE FOR LARGE ORDERS

WHARF, 17 PEABODY STREET

WM. PICKERING, JR & CO.,

17 Peabody Street.

PATENTS.

R. H. EDDY,

No. 76 State St., opposite Kilby, Boston;

Secures patents in the United States; also in Great Britain, France and other foreign countries. Copies of the claims of any patents furnished by remitting one dollar. Assignments recorded at Washington. No Agency in the United States possesses superior facilities for obtaining Patents or ascertaining the patentability of inventions. R. H. EDDY, Solicitor of patents.

TESTIMONIALS.

"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse."
CHAS. MASON, Commissioner of Patents.

"Inventors cannot employ a person more trustworthy or more capable of securing for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office."
EDMUND BURKE, late Com. of Patents.

BOSTON, Oct. 19, 1870.
R. H. EDDY, Esq.—Dear Sir: you procured for me, in 1870, my first patent. Since then you have acted for and advised me in hundreds of cases, and procured many patents, re-issues and extensions. I have occasionally employed the best agencies in New York, Philadelphia and Washington, but I still give you almost the wol of my business, in your line, and advise othehr o employ you.
Yours truly, GEORGE DRAPER.

Boston, January 1, 1885.—1 y

FOR SALE.

House and land on Aborn street belonging to the estate of the late P. L. WINCHESTER. The house is two and one-half stories, and contains fourteen rooms, and is in good condition. The land measures about 10,000 feet, and there is connected with the premises a good stable. For terms or further particulars apply to

GEORGE J. WINCHESTER, Administrator.

dec19

RED STAR COUGH CURE

TRADE RED STAR MARK.

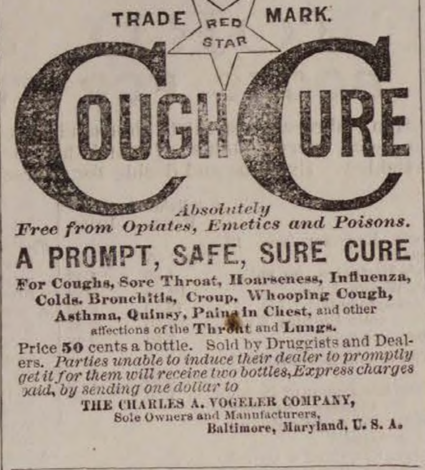
Absolutely Free from Opiates, Emetics and Poisons.

A PROMPT, SAFE, SURE CURE

For Coughs, Sore Throat, Hoarseness, Influenza, Colds, Bronchitis, Croup, Whooping Cough, Asthma, Quinsy, Pains in Chest, and other affections of the Throat and Lungs.

Price 50 cents a bottle. Sold by Druggists and Dealers. Parties unable to induce their dealer to promptly get it for them will receive two bottles, Express charges paid, by sending one dollar to

THE CHARLES A. VOGELER COMPANY,
Sole Owners and Manufacturers,
Baltimore, Maryland, U. S. A.



NATIONAL

REAL ESTATE TITLE ASSOCIATION,

114 LA SALLE STREET, CHICAGO, ILL., Will undertake the care and management of real estate, make loans and pay taxes for non-residents; examine and guarantee titles. Satisfactory references. Information free. Correspondence solicited.

MASSACHUSETTS

STATE NORMAL SCHOOL

AT WORCESTER.

Twelfth School Year will begin with entrance examination on Thursday, Sept 10, 1885. Unsurpassed advantages for those who wish to become teachers. Tuition and use of text books free. For full information send for catalogue.

E. H. RUSSELL, Principal.

ADVERTISERS by addressing Geo. P. Rowell & Co., 10 Spruce St., New York, can learn the exact cost of any proposed line of Advertising in American Newspapers. ☞ 100-page Pamphlet. 10c.

Read what the people say concerning the ability of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, to cure asthma, catarrh, croup, colds, etc. Mrs. Dora Koch of Buffalo, says: "For croup it is decidedly efficacious." [Mrs. Jacob Mellisor of Marion, Ohio, says the same thing.] S. S. Graves, Akron, N. Y., writes: "Had asthma of the worst kind, took one dose of Thomas' Eclectric Oil and was relieved in a few minutes. Would walk five miles for this medicine and pay $5 a bottle for it." Druggist C. R. Hall, Grayville, Ill., says: "Cured an ulcerated throat for me in twenty-four hours." "Sat up in bed and coughed till the clothing was wet with perspiration. My wife insisted that I use Thomas' Eclectric Oil. The first teaspoonful RELIEVED me." E. H. Perkins, Creek Centre, N. Y., Thomas' Eclectric Oil is also a TIP-TOP external application for rheumatism, cuts, scalds, burns, bites, bruises, etc. When visiting the druggist, ask him what he knows of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil; if he has been long in the drug trade, be sure he will speak highly of it.

Worked Wonders.

"My daughter was very bad off on account of a cold and pain in her lungs. Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil cured her in twenty-four hours. One of the boys was cured of sore throat. This medicine has worked wonders in our family." Alvah Pinckney, Lake Mohopac, N. Y.

ROUGH ON RATS."

Clears out rats, mice, roaches, flies, ants, bed-bugs, skunks, chipmunks, gophers. 15c. Druggists.

HEART PAINS.

Palpitation, Dropsical Swellings, Dizziness, Indigestion, Headache, Sleeplessness cured by Wells' Health Renewer

"ROUGH ON CORNS."

Ask for Wells' "Rough on Corns." 15c. Quick complete cure. Hard or soft corns, warts, bunions.

"BUCHU-PAIBA."

Quick, complete cure, all Kidney, Bladder and Urinary Diseases, Scalding, Irritation, Stone, Gravel, Catarrh of the Bladder. $1, Druggists.

BED-BUGS, FLIES.

Flies, roaches, ants, bed-bugs, rats, mice, gophers, chipmunks, cleared out by "Rough on Rats." 15c.

THIN PEOPLE.

"Wells' Health Renewer" restores health and vigor, cures Dyspepsia, Impotence, Sexual Debility. $1.

"ROUGH ON PAIN."

Cures cholera, colic, cramps, diarrhoea, aches, pains, sprains, headache, neuralgia, rheumatism, 20c. Rough on Pain Plasters, 15c.

MOTHERS.

If you are failing, broken, worn out and nervous, use "Wells' Health Renewer." $1. Druggists.

LIFE PRESERVER.

If you are losing your grip on life, try "Wells' Health Renewer," Goes direct to weak spots.

"ROUGH ON PILES."

Cures Piles or Hemorrhoids, Itching, Protruding, Bleeding, Internal or other. Internal and External Remedy in each package. Sure cure, 50c. Druggists.

PRETTY WOMEN.

Ladies who would retain freshness and vivacity Don't fail to try "Wells' Health Renewer."

"ROUGH ON ITCH."

"Rough on Itch" cures humors, eruptions, ring-worm, tetter, salt rheum, frosted feet, chilblains.

"ROUGH ON CATARRH,"

Corrects offensive odors at once. Complete cure of worst chronic cases, also unequaled as gargle for Diptheria, Sore Throat, Foul Breath. 50c.

THE HOPE OF THE NATION.

Children, slow in development, puny, scrawny, and delicate, use "Wells' Health Renewer."

CATARRH OF BLADDER.

Stinging, irritation, inflammation, all Kidney and Urinary complaints, cured by "Buchu-Paiba." $1

"WATER BUGS, ROACHES."

"Rough on Rats" clears them out, also Beetles, Ants.

Hale's Honey the great Cough cure, 25c., 50c. & $1
Glenn's Sulphur Soap heals & beautifies, 25c.
German Corn Remover kills Corns & Bunions
Hill's Hair and Whisker Dye—Black and Brown, 50c.
Pike's Toothache Drops cure in 1 Minute, 25c
Dean's Rheumatic Pills are a sure cure, 50c.

feb 18—1y

Book Notices.

Of greatest public interest among the contents of the September Century are Gen. Grant's article on "The Siege of Vicksburg;" the forcible frontispiece portrait, after a photograph taken when Gen. Grant was president (with which is given a fac-simile of his first signature on the army pay-accounts as "Gen. Retired;)" and a communication from Gen. Grant, dated Mt. McGregor, June 23, which is printed with "Memoranda on the Civil War," and in which he withdraws what was said by him in The Century of last February in regard to the conduct of Gen. Lew Wallace and Gen. McCook at Shiloh. An editorial in Topics of the Time, explains why Gen. Grant's article on Vicksburg is printed without illustrations, and also that the subject will be resumed, with pictures, at another time. We have only space to call attention to the other splendidly illustrated articles, including Lieut. Schwatka's paper on The Great River of Alaska, and Wendell Phillips Garrison in describing the Prudence Crandall persecution of 1833, and the encouragement given by William Lloyd Garrison to the brave school-mistress who wished to educate "young ladies of color." The article is very suggestively entitled Connecticut in the Middle Ages,—the many valuable unillustrated articles, the serials, the capital short stories, and the richly stored departments.

The Magazine of American History for September is a number of extraordinary and vital interest. It opens with an admirable steel portrait of General Grant, in military uniform, and its leading paper treats of the "Historical Associations of General Grant's Resting Place," at Riverside Park. The second paper of the number, "Washington's First Public Service," is from the distinguished scholar, T. J. Chapman, A. M., and is extremely entertaining. Three excellent articles follow in the Civil War Series—"Baltimore in 1861," by Major-General John C. Robinson. "The Beginnings of the Civil War in America. The Confederates taking the Offensive" (third paper), by General Thomas Jordan, and General Meredith Read second important and readable contribution on the "Military Affairs of New York State in 1861" while he was Adjutant-General of the State. The standing departments–Original Documents, Notes, Queries, Replies, Societies, and Book Notices—are of high order and great interest. Published at 30 Lafayette Place, New York City.

St. Nicholas for September has a long and varied table of contents, one of the most attractive features of which is a fanciful tale by Frank R. Stockton, entitled The Battle of the Third Cousins. In Spiders of the Sea, C. F. Holder contributes an interesting paper about crabs, and their many curious ways and uses. Henry Frederic Reddall writes an entertaining article on nicknames. The number is well supplied with poems and verses, among the daintiest being In September, Lady Golden-Rod, and Dreamland Sheep,—A charm to woo slumber. The illustrations include a full-page engraving direct from nature, and a full-page drawing, called By the Sea. W. H. Drake contributes two full-page illustrations to Driven Back to Eden, and there are drawings by Monks, Birch, L. Hopkins, Francis, Rogers, Taber, J. C. Beard, Nugent, Jessie McDermott, M. L. D. Watson, Walter Bobbett and others.

The Art Amateur for September contains some charming figure desisgn suitable for sketching on linen, outline embroidery or sachet decoration; a page of monograms in G, another of designs for metal work, and three pages of designs for a dessert plate (primroses), and a cup and saucer (azaleas). The frontispiece is an attractive pen sketch by James Symington, The Duet, and there are other interesting examples of pen work. The valuable series of articles on Amateur Photography concludes with some excellent directions for portrait groups, and the practical topics of scene painting and embroidery stiches receive continued attention. The number is especially rich in needlework. 35 cents. 23 Union Square, N. Y.

* * *

100 DOSES ONE DOLLAR—Is inseparably connected with Hood's Sarsaparilla, and is true of no other medicine. It is an unanswerable argument as to strength and economy, while thousands testify to its superior blood-purifying and strengthening qualities. A bottle of Hood's Sarsaparallia contains 100 doses and will last a month, while others will average to last not over a week. Hence, for economy, buy Hood's Sarsaparllla. (B)

It does no harm once in a while to reproduce the moral which John G. Saxe attaches to one of his best poems:—

Because you flourish in worldly affairs,
Don't be haughty and put on airs
With insolent pride of station!
Don't be proud and turn up your nose
At poorer people in plainer clothes;
But learn, for the sake of your mind's repose,
That wealth's a bubble that comes—and goes!
And that all proud flesh wherever it grows,
Is subject to irritation.

THE ERIE IN OREGON.—Mark A. Miller, travelling agent for the Erie Railroad, writes from Portland, Oregon, that an attack of pleuro-pneumonia left behind it a severe and painful cough. After trying several remedies without success, he began using Red Star Cough Cure, and upon taking one bottle found himself on the road to rapid recovery.

KEEP IT PURE.

THE LIFE IS THE BLOOD—PREVENT DISEASE —SURGERY THE LAST RESORT—A TELLING LETTER.

Here is a fact for you to think over, viz.: Medical science proves that diseases, no matter how great a variety they seem to have, proceed from comparatively few causes. It is for this reason that some single medicines relieve or cure so wide a range of complaints —some of them appearing almost directly opposite in their natures. When a medical preparation acts at once upon the digestive and urinary organs, and also purifies the blood, the list of difficulties subject to its control is astonishing. But, while many things are said to possess this power, those which actually do exert it are very rare.

It is conceded that DR. KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY, of Rondout, N. Y., is the most effective preparation now in use for all diseases arising from a foul or impure state of the circulation. Hence it is more than likely that if the writer of the following letter had habitually taken "FAVORITE REMEDY" ten years ago, he would never have suffered from Cancer.

PITTSFIELD, MASS., March 22, 1884.

Dr. D. Kennedy, Rondout, N. Y.:

Dear Sir:—About six years ago I was obliged to resort to external treatment for the removal of a cancerous growth on my lip. On my return home, I became sensible that my blood needed a thorough cleansing. My whole system, too, required toning up. While casting about for the best medicine to do this your "FAVORITE REMEDY" was so highly commended in my hearing that I resolved to try it. I did so, and the result surprised me, it was effected so quickly and completely. I soon got over the depression produced by the operation, and since the "FAVORITE REMEDY," which I have continued to take in small doses, has kept me in such health and strength as I never had before, nor expected to have. It is the best blood purifier in the world. I am sure of that.

Yours, etc.,
MATTHEW FARRELL.

24 Adams Street.

In all cases when a consultation is deemed desirable.

Address, Dr. David Kennedy, Rondout, N. Y. But, if you have not done so, adopt "FAVORITE REMEDY" as a household friend.

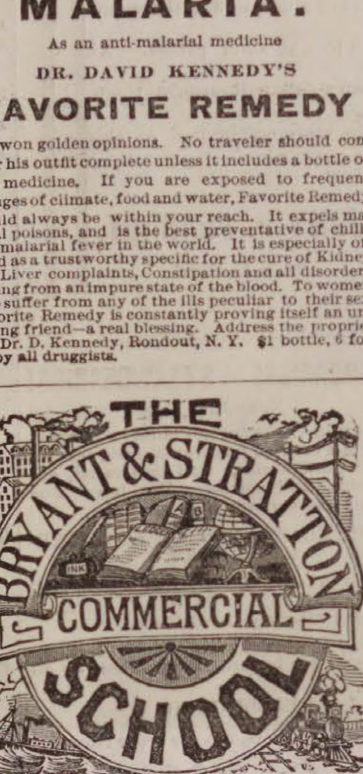
MALARIA.

As an anti-malarial medicine

DR. DAVID KENNEDY'S

FAVORITE REMEDY

has won golden opinions. No traveler should consider his outfit complete unless it includes a bottle of this medicine. If you are exposed to frequent changes of climate, food and water, Favorite Remedy should always be within your reach. It expels malarial poisons, and is the best preventative of chills and malarial fever in the world. It is especially offered as a trustworthy specific for the cure of Kidney and Liver complaints, Constipation and all disorders arising from an impure state of the blood. To women who suffer from any of the ills peculiar to their sex Favorite Remedy is constantly proving itself an unfailing friend—a real blessing. Address the proprietor, Dr. D. Kennedy, Rondout, N. Y. $1 bottle, 6 for $5, by all druggists.



BOSTON.

Largest & most Successful in the World,

Will Reopen Monday, Sept. 7th.

THE COURSE OF STUDY is thorough, complete and practical. Pupils are fitted for the duties and work of every day life.

THE FACULTY embraces a list of twenty teachers and assistants, elected with special reference to proficiency in each department.

THE STUDENTS are young people of both sexes, full of diligence and zeal.

THE DISCIPLINE is of the highest order and includes valuable business lessons.

THE PATRONAGE is the largest of any Commercial School in the world.

THE REPUTATION of this school for originality and leadership and as the Standard Institution of its kind is generally acknowledged.

THE SCHOOL BUILDING is centrally located and purposely constructed.

SPECIAL COURSE. Short Hand, Type Writing, Composition and Correspondence may be taken as a special course.

SITUATIONS in Business Houses furnished its pupils completes the varied inducements to attend this school.

On and after Aug. 24th, the Principal may be seen daily from 9 till 2 o'clock, at the School Building, 608 Washington street. Prospectus, containing full information, concerning course of study, terms, etc., post free

aug 5—6t

To The Public.

Dr. Gray informs the people of Peabody and vicinity that he is now prepared to administer "Dr. Mayo's vegetable anæsthetic," which is giving universal satisfaction in New England. This anæsthetic is purely a vegetable compound and can be administered with perfect safety to children and people in delicate health. It has no after effect as is apt to be the case in Nitrous Oxide Gas and Ether.

Office hours 8 to 12 A. M., 1 to 5 P. M. Office open evenings only by appointment.

WARREN BANK BUILDING,

PEABODY.

HAZEN A. SPAULDING,

DRUGGIST.

9 Allen's Block, Peabody, Mass.

Where can be found a first class assortment of Pure Drugs and Medicines; also a large assortment of Toilet Articles and Fancy Goods at moderate prices.

A large assortment of Imported and Domestic Cigars.

Physicians' Prescriptions a Specialty.

HAZEN A. SPAULDING

Store Connected by Telephone.

CRAIG'S

KIDNEY CURE;

The Genuine.

WILLIAM T. LEE

AGENT.

Saving Institutions.

WARREN

FIVE CENTS SAVINGS BANK.

PEABODY

PRESIDENT.
Rufus H. Brown

Vice Presidents,

Stephen Blaney,	Geo. F. Osborne,
Lewis Allen,	Amos Merrill,
Chas. B. Farley,	John A. Lord.

Trustees,

Rufus H. Brown,	Alex. B. Merrill,
Stephen Blaney,	C. Warren Osborne,
Lewis Allen,	Geo. S. Osborne,
Chas. B. Farley,	Nathl. Symonds.
Geo. F. Osborne,	Aaron F. Clark,
Amos Merrill,	Albert A. Messer,
John A. Lord,	John Pinder,
Benj. S. Wheeler,	Wm P. Clark,
Wm. H. Little,	Reuben G. Nelson,
Aaron W. Warren,	Albert H. Merrill.

Clerk,
Albert H. Merrill.

Committee of Investment.
Rufus H. Brown,

Lewis Allen,	Alex. B. Merrill
C. Warren Osborne.	Nathl. Symonds.

Dividends are credited to the depositor as soon as declared, and immediately put upon interest.

New deposits commence drawing interest on the third Wednesday of February, May, August and November.

Peabody, March 6, 1878.

SALEM

FIVE CENTS SAVINGS BANK.

Cor. Washington & Essex Sts.,

WILLIAM H. JELLY, President.
CHARLES H. HENDERSON, Treas.

REMOVAL.

F. A. WRUCK

Watchmaker and Jeweller,

Would inform his friends and the public generally that he has removed from 165 to

276 ESSEX STREET,

(Wheeler & Wilson's Sewing Machine Office)

Where he will be pleased to see his former customers and as many new ones as will favor him with their patronage.

FINE WATCH AND CLOCK REPAIRING AT REDUCED PRICES PERSONALLY ATTENDED TO

AGENTS WANTED.

On Salary or Commission

FOR THE

CELEBRATED NEW BOOK,

THE WORLD'S WONDERS,

AS SEEN BY THE GREAT

Tropical and Polar Explorers,

Including the Official History of the late Greeley Expedition in search of the North Pole.

Embracing the travels, discoveries, achievements and marvelous adventures of such distinguished explorers as Speke and Grant, Burton, Sir Samuel Baker and wife, Livingstone, Stanley, Cummings, Du Chaillu, Wallace, Long, Squier, and numerous others in the Tropics; and in the Arctic regions, Franklin, Kane, Hays, Hall, Schwatka, De Long, Greeley, and many others, forming a complete history of exploration, discovery and adventure in all parts of the world, with descriptions of savage races, strange beasts, birds and reptiles, and great natural wonders; a record of marvelous things on the earth, a complete history of all the world's greatest wonders and famous explorations, in one splendid, low-priced, finely illustrated volume of 770 pages, and 200 engravings. A book of wonders, of great value and marvelously interesting. Warmly endorsed by ministers, teachers and many influential people. Outsells all other books! 16 large editions in five months! Splendid employment for men and women everywhere. No capital or experience needed. Send for pictorial circulars and extra terms. Salaries guaranteed. We mean what we say. Address,

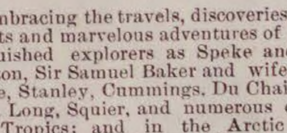
HISTORICAL PUBLISHING CO.,
120 & 122 N. 7th St., Philadelphia, Pa.

jy 8—4t

CENTRAL FISH MARKET

(Formerly Southwick's.

RALPH F. DODGE, Prop.



OYSTERS OYSTERS OYSTERS

In the shell or opened.

IPSWICH CLAMS FRESH EVERY DAY,

A good selection of Norfolk, Providence River oysters a specialty. The famous Lynn Haven Bay Oysters.

A good assortment of Fresh, Salt, Smoked and Pickled Fish. Orders received and delivered promptly. Connected by telephone.

At the old stand on the Square, opposite the monument.

WIN more money than at anything else by taking an agency for the best selling book out. Beginners succeed grandly. None fail. Terms free. HALLETT BOOK CO., Portland, Me.

MUNROE & ARNOLD'S

PEABODY AND BOSTON

RAILROAD EXPRESS.

Express leaves Peabody	at	9 47 A. M
Freight " "	at	5 00 P. M
Express " Boston	at	3 30 P. M
Freight " "	at	4 00 P. M

OFFICE AT FREIGHT DEPOT, Peabody

Express Offices in Boston, 174 Washington and 15 New Devonshire Street.

Freight Office in Boston, 128 State Street

☞ Particular attention paidto removing Furniture, collecting Bills, Notes, Drafts &c., Smallest favors thankfully received.

B. M. HILLS'

PEABODY and SALEM

EXPRESS.

CHANGE OF TIME.

Connects with Eastern and No. Conway Trains Leaves Peabody at 7.30 A. M., and 1.30 P. M. Salem, at 10 A. M., and 4.45 P. M.

Order Boxes.—PEABODY, at Holman's, Pickering's, Bushby & Johnson's, Frost's Drug Store and Sutton's Wool Store.

SALEM, at Savory's Express Office, Roberts' Store, corner Washington and Front Sts., and 15 Central Street.

B. M. HILLS' Express connects with the Eastern and Western Expresses

---

ESTES'

SALEM AND PEABODY EXPRESS.

Leaves Peabody at 7.30 A. M., 1.30 P. M.
Leaves Salem at 10.30 A. M., 4.30 P. M.

Order Slates in Peabody, at G. Stevens', G. H. Jacobs', L. Pratt's, B. B. Humphrey's, W. O. Batchelder's.

In Salem at J. V. & J. Hanson & Co's, Roberts Fruit Store, Henry Hale's, E. Heffernan's, J. J. Mullin, F. C. Radford's, C. A. Ropes & Son, Geo A. Wells & Co's., C. M. Buffum's.

Connects with Eastern Express. Also connects with No. Conway, and the Beverly, Ipswich and Marblehead Expresses.

All orders promptly attended to and satisfaction guaranteed.

CHAS. H. ESTES,

TOWNSEND'S

PEABODY & BOSTON

EXPRESS.

Leaves Peabody at 10 A. M. over the Wakefield Branch R. R.

Leaves the Boston Office, 32 Court Square, at 2 P. M.

All business entrusted to my care will be safely and carefully attended to. Daily and weekly papers supplied.

Order Slates:—At B. F. Stevens', Bushby's, Batchelder's, B. B. Humphrey's, E. S. Howard's, and Nugent Bros. stores.

JAMES F. FOYE.

THOMAS H. O'KEEFE.

JOBBING AND EXPRESSING

of all kinds promptly attended to.

Persons desiring the removal of furnitue or ashes, rubbish, you can have such work satisfactorily done by leaving orders at G., Stevens', Batchelder's, or addressing Box 545, Peabody.

NEW COUPE.

Henry C. Wilson would inform the public that he will run a

PUBLIC CARRIAGE

to and from each train, and will also attend to calls around town, and to late trains and entertainments in Salem. Will also attend to Baggage Expressing and Jobbing of all kinds. Terms Reasonable. Order slate at Depot.

HENRY C. WILSON,
Peabody Mass.

CROSS,

PHOTOGRAPHER.

☞ There having been demand or more Clubs, I have concluded to issue a limited number.

INDUCEMENTS:

Two dozen Cards and two Cabinets given to any one getting up a Club of ten persons. Price of Club, $20. Each person to have one dozen Cards and one Cabinet finished in any of the different styles desired.

IRA P. NADOR,

DEALER IN

CHOICE CONFECTIONERY

46 MARKET STREET LYNN

CHARLES SIMONDS,

LIVERY STABLE,

(HOTEL STABLE).

SAFE and Reliable Horses, and Easy Carriages of the best style, furnished at short notice, for Funerals, Weddings, Business or Pleasure Riding.

$200,000 in presents given away. Send us 5 cents postage, and by mail you will get free a package of goods of large value, that will start you in work that will at once bring you in money faster than anything else in America. All about the $200,000 in presents with each box. Agents wanted everywhere, of either sex, of all ages, for all the time, or spare time only, to work for us at their own home. Fortunes for all workers absolutely assured. Don't delay. H. HALLETT & CO., Portland, Maine.

Professional Cards.

THOMAS M. STIMPSON

Attorney and Counselor-at-Law.

194 ESSEX STREET SALEM

Residence Lowell Street, Peabody.

HENRY WARDWELL,

Attorney and Counselor-at-Law.

PEABODY,

And 35 Court St., Boston

FRANK E. FARNHAM,

Attorney and Counselor-at-Law.

REAL ESTATE, INSURANCE AND INVESTMENT AGENT,

ALLEN'S BLOCK Peabody Square,

REMOVAL.

B. C. PERKINS,

Counselor at Law,

Has removed to Kinsman's Block,

81 WASHINGTON STREET, SALEM.

Evening consultations at residence, Peabody.

EUGENE T. McCARTHY,

Attorney and Counsellor at Law.

NO. 8 ALLEN'S BLOCK,

PEABODY.

oct 29—1y

MISS MARY E. LYNCH

TEACHER OF

Piano and Organ.

South Peabody, Mass.

Terms of tuition 8 and 10 dollars. Pupils visited at their homes if desired.

MISS ANNIE L. ORR,

TEACHER OF

VOCAL & INSTRUMENTAL MUSIC

Would solicit pupils. For terms apply to W P. Clark, or Miss Orr, No. 7 Paltry Place. Lynn, Mass. apr 29

Business Cards.

HENRY L. WHIDDEN,

PAINTER.

Orders left at A. H. Whidden's Store will be attended to.

J. H. ALLEN,

UNDERTAKER,

Removed to 36 St. Peter street, Salem

jan11

W. S. OSBORNE,

TOWN UNDERTAKER & FURNISHER

Home, 96 Central St., Peabody. Office Second Door west of Hay Scales.

EDWIN B. BALCOM,

Architect and Builder.

Plans, Specifications and Estimates furnished at Short Notice. Contracts Made and Faithfully executed.

Shop on Walnut St. Residence, 78 Washington St.

PEABODY. MASS.

DISTIN,

TAILOR:

Call and inspect my stock of Woolens, a full line constantly on hand.

WARREN NATIONAL BANK BUILDING.

oct1

$1

13 WEEKS.

The POLICE GAZETTE will be mailed, securely wrapped, to any address in the United States for three months on receipt of

ONE DOLLAR.

Liberal discount allowed to postmasters, agents and clubs. Sample copies mailed free. Address all orders to

RICHARD K. FOX,
FRANKLIN SQUARE, N. Y.

TRY LYONS'

Hair Tonic.

It cleanses the scalp, removes dandruff, and promotes the growth of the hair.

Price 50 Cents per Bottle.

Put up and for sale only by

P. J. LYONS,

on the square.

HELP for working people. Send 10 cents postage, and we will mail you free, a royal, valuable sample box of goods that will put you in the way of making more money in a few days than you ever thought possible at any business. Capital not required. You can live at home and work in spare time only, or all the time. All of both sexes, of all ages, grandly successful, 50 cents to $5 easily earned every evening. That all who want work may test the business, we make this unparalleled offer: To all who are not well satisfied we will send $1 to pay for the trouble of writing us. Full particulars, directions, etc., sent free. Immense pay absolutely sure for all who start at once. Don't delay. Address STINSON & Co., Portland, Me.

HEADQUARTERS !

FOR

CIGARS.

THE BEST

to be found in the world? To prove it just call at the HORSE RAILROAD STATION on the Square, and see them.

GEO. STEVENS,

PEABODY SQUARE,

Agent for the Naumkeag Laundry.

MAYO'S

Compound Vegetable Anæsthetic.

A safe and pleasant substitute for gas and ether.

Discovered by Dr. N. K. Mayo of Boston, April 1883, subsequently administered by him in nearly two thousand cases, producing perfect slumber, being applicable to the child, the delicate sensitive woman as well as the hardy man. No ill effects have followed its use in any case, it acting rather as a vegetable tonic.

It controls the patient one-fourth longer than gas giving us time to remove from three to twenty teeth. It is with great confidence we have introduced it into our practice, giving very successful results.

DRS. FRIZZELL & WILLIAMS

DENTISTS.

LEE HALL

Opposite City Hall, Lynn, Mass.

Administered also at our branch office, Marblehead.

Dr. Williams' Toothache Drops at Druggists.

O. B. CHADWICK & CO.,

(SUCCESSORS TO CHAS. TAPLEY)

FIRE INSURANCE AGENTS

NO. 8 ALLEN'S BLOCK, PEABODY

Over $12,000,000 Cash Capital represented

Also Agents for Holyoke, Merrimac, Quincy, and Dorchester Mutual Fire Ins. Cos.

Particular attention given to insuring Household Furniture, Family Wearing Apparel, Musical Instruments, Libraries, and Merchandise of all kinds in sums of $100 and upward, for one, three or five years, at the lowest rates.

TRADE VITA MARK

LINIMENT!

No Compound has ever been Invented so Useful and Efficacious in Curing Rheumatism, Pains in the Side, Hip, Back and Limbs, Stiff, Weak and Enlarged Joints, Sore Throat, Headache, Neuralgia, Piles, Hard Tumors, Bee Stings, Chapped Hands, Bunions, Burns, Frosted Feet, Mosquito Bites, Bruises and Sprains of all kinds.

Price 25 cents.

VITA CO., New York

D. P. GROSVENOR.

PHARMACIST AND DRUGGIST.

Compounder of

Physicians Presciptions

and dealer in

RELIABLE DRUGS.

35 MAIN STREET.

PEABODY, MASS.

PEABODY

LAUNDRY.

Goods called for and delivered free of charge.

C. A. SANGER

7 LOWELL STREET,

UP STAIRS.

SWEETSER'S

DRUG STORE

NO, 37 MAIN STREET,

PEABODY

Drugs and Medicines of all kinds; Toilet Articles, Sponges, Brushes, Perfumery, &c., constantly on hand.

Prescriptions carefully and promptly prepared.

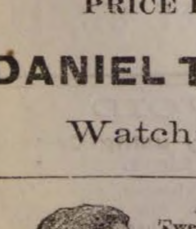
REMOVED TO

No. 241 Essex St.,

PRICE BLOCK,

DANIEL T. SMITH,

Watchmaker.



AGENTS WANTED for
Twenty Years of Congress,
1861—1881,
by James G. Blaine.

Hon. J. S. Wise of Va. says: "Whoever takes it up, no matter whether he be Mr. Blaine's friend or enemy, will never put it down until he has read the whole." Agents make from $200 to $1000 per month. Address, The Henry Bill Pub. Co., Norwich, Conn.

Railroads.

BOSTON & LOWELL R. R.

SALEM BRANCH.

NEW EXPRESS TRAIN

Salem to Lowell

AND THE

White Mountains.

BEGINNING

MONDAY, JULY 13TH,

A NEW EXPRESS TRAIN WILL

LEAVE SALEM

At 9.10 A. M. for Lowell,

Stopping only at Peabody and connecting at Lowell with the Through Express for the

WHITE MOUNTAINS

AND FOR

MONTREAL VIA PLYMOUTH.

Returning, a new Express Train will leave

LOWELL FOR SALEM

At 4.55 P. M.

Connecting with Express Train leaving the White Mountains in the Morning.

Excursion Tickets

AND

Parlor Car Seats

May be secured at the Company's Office, 85 Washington St., Salem.

CHAS. ODELL, Agent.

C. S. MELLEN, Gen. Supt. LUCIUS TUTTLE, Gen. Pass. Agt.

OLD COLONY RAILROAD.

SEASON OF 1885.

Excursion Rates

FROM BOSTON.

To	Rates.
Barnstable and return	$2.90
Brant Rock and return	2.00
Brewster and return	3.60
Buzzard's Bay and return	2.15
Cataumet and return	2.40
Duxbury and return	1.50
East Brewster and return	3.70
East Marshfield and return	1.20
East Wareham and return	2 10
Eastham and return	3.90
Egypt and return	1.00
Falmouth and return	2.75
Fairhaven and return	2.30
Greenbush and return	1.10
Harwich and return	3.40
Hyannis and return	3.00
Kingston and return	1.50
Marshfield and return	1.40
Marion and return	2.00
Mattapoisett and return	2.20
Monument and return	2.20
Monument Beach and return	2.25
Nantucket and return	4.00
Newport and return	2.50
North Eastham and return	4.00
North Falmouth and return	2.45
North Harwich and return	3.30
North Sandwich and return	2.30
North Scituate and return	.95
North Truo and return	4.55
Oak Bluffs and return	3.00
Onset Bay and return	2.15
Orleans and return	3.75
Plymouth and return	1.50
Pocassett and return	2 35
Provincetown and return	4 80
Rock and return	1.55
Sandwich and return	2.50
Sea View and return	1.25
Scituate and return	1.05
South Dennis and return	3.25
South Duxbury and return	1.50
South Middleboro and return	1.65
South Truo and return	3 45
South Wareham and return	1.90
South Wellfleet and return	4 15
South Yarmouth and return	3.20
Tremont and return	1.80
Truo and return	4 40
Wareham and return	1.95
Wellfleet and return	4.25
West Barnstable and return	2.75
West Falmouth and return	2.55
West Sandwich and return	2.40
Woods Holl and return	2.85
Yarmouth and return	3.00

Tickets are limited to continuous passage only in either direction.

Tickets sold from June 1st to October 1st good to return until November 1st of year of date.

J. SPRAGUE, Jr., Gen.'l Pass. Agent.
J. R. KENDRICK, Gen'l Manager.

BOSTON & LOWELL R. R.

JUNE 29, 1885.

PASSENGER SERVICE FROM SALEM:

Leave Salem for Lowell, and Lawrence at 7 10, 10 55 A. M., 4 40 P. M. Sunday 7 20 P. M.

Leave Lowell for Salem, at 7 35 A. M., 1 10, 6 P. M. Sunday 7 43 A. M.

Leave Lawrence for Salem, at 7 45 A. M., 1 05, 6 P. M. Sunday 7 45 A. M.

Leave Wilmington Junction for Salem, at 8 09 A. M., 1 38, 6 24 P. M. Sunday 8 13 A. M.

Leave North Reading for Salem, at 8 20 A. M., 1 48, 6 34 P. M. Sunday 8 24 A. M.

Leave West Peabody for Salem, at 8 34 A. M., 2, 6 45 P. M. Sunday 8 36 A. M.

The 7 10 A. M. and 4 40 P. M. trains from Salem connect at Wilmington Junction for Boston via B. & L. R. R.

Leave Boston (Boston & Lowell Depot) for Wilmington Junction and North Reading, at 1, 5 30 P. M.

All trains from Salem connect at Lowell for Nashua, Manchester and Concord, N. H.

The 7 10 A. M. train connects at Lowell for Peterboro, Keene and intermediate stations.

The 10 55 A. M. train connects at Ayer Junction for stations on W. & N. R. R., Springfield, Hartford, New Haven and New York; also for Troy, Albany and the West via Hoosac Tunnel Line.

C. S MELLEN, Gen'l Supt. LUCIUS TUTTLE, Gen'l Pass. Agent.

A PRESENT!

Our readers for 12 cents in postage stamps to pay for mailing and wrapping and names of two book agents, will receive FREE a Steel Finish Parlor Engraving of all OUR PRESIDENTS, including Cleveland, size 22x28 inch, worth $4. Address

ELDER PUB. CO., Chicago, Ill.

Boston & Maine R. R.

SEASHORE LINE.

— THE —

SHORTEST,

QUICKEST and

BEST ROUTE

— TO —

LAKE WINNIPESAUKEE

— AND THE —

WHITE MOUNTAINS.

FROM SALEM TO FABYANS.

The Centre of the White Mountain Region

65 Miles Shorter and nearly 2 hours Quicker

THAN ANY OTHER ROUTE.

Leave Salem	10.10 A. M.,	2.02 P. M.
Arr. Wolfboro	1.05 P M.,	5.20 P. M.
Arr. No. Conway	2 00 "	6.05 "
Arr. Crawford House	3.10 "	7.15 "
Arr. Fabyans	3 25 "	7.30 "
Arr. Bethlehem	4.28 "
Arr. Profile House	4.47 "

RETURNING,

Leave Fabyans at 9.35 A. M. and 2.10 P. M.

Arr. at Salem at 3.12 A. M. and 7.57 P. M.

Elegant Pullman Cars on all Trains Running Through to Fabyans.

EXCURSION RATES FROM SALEM

SPECIAL LIMITED.

Alton Bay	and Return,	$3.50
Wolfboro,	" "	4.00
Centre Harbor,	" "	4 00
Long Island,	" "	4.00
Weirs,	" "	4.00
Lake Village,	" "	4.00
Crawford House, good for the season,		10.00
Fabyans	and return "	10.50
Bethlehem	" " "	12.20
Profile House,	" " "	14.50

EXCURSION TICKETS

May be procured at the Salem Station.

PARLOR CAR SEATS

Send on application to

L. W. MARDEN, Ticket Agent.

JAS. T. FURBER, General Manager.
D. J. FLANDERS, Gen'l Pass. Agent.

BOSTON & LOWELL R. R.

MERRIMAC VALLEY ROUTE,

TO THE

White Mountains,

Montreal, Quebec,

AND ALL PARTS OF

Vermont,

New Hampshire

and Canada.

Accelerated Summer Service from Boston.

In Effect June 29, 1885.

8.30 A. M. Express for Weirs, Centre Harbor, Wolfboro' and Montreal, with through parlor cars via Plymouth and via White River Junction,

9.30 A. M. White Mountains Express, with through parlor cars to Weirs, Plymouth, Jefferson, Fabyan, Twin Mountain House and Mount Pleasant House; connecting for Maplewood, Bethlehem, Profile House Crawford and Mount Washington.

1.00 P. M. White Mountains and Montreal Express. With Mann Boudoir Car to Fabyan, etc., and parlor cars to Weirs, Plymouth and Montreal; connecting for Centre Harbor, Wolfboro', Maplewood, Bethlehem, Crawford's, Jefferson, etc.

3.00 P. M. Local train for Plymouth, White River Junction, Weirs, etc.

5.00 P. M. Fast Express for Lowell, Nashua, Amherst, Milford and Wilton.

7.00 P. M. Night Express for Montreal, via Plymouth and White River Junction, with Pullman Sleeping Cars.

Excursion tickets at lowest rates are procurable at the Company's offices, 218 Washington Street, third door South of Old State House, and at Causeway Street Station.

C. S. MELLEN, General Superintendent.
LUCIUS TUTTLE, Gen'l Pass. Agent.

ALLAN LINE

ROYAL MAIL STEAMSHIPS

Sailing from Quebec every Saturday for Liverpool.

SHORTEST OCEAN VOYAGE

Only five days from land to land.

Extra services from GLASCOW, GALWAY, QUEENSTOWN and LONDONDERRY to Boston direct for the convenience of Steerage passengers, to whom kind treatment is made a Specialty. Cabin, $70 and $80. Intermediate, $40. Steerage at Low Rates.

LEVE & ALDEN, Gen'l Pass. Agts.

15 State Street, Boston.

JOHN LINEHAN, Agt. for Peabody.

COMER'S COMMERCIAL COLLEGE,

666 Washington Street, BOSTON.

Thorough and Comprehensive Instruction in all Studies Essential to Success in Business.

Students may commence at any time, Receive Individual Instruction and progress according to ability and application. Separate department for Ladies. Graduates Aided to Employment. Young people receive instruction here that will insure a successful start in business, and that will benefit them throughout their business career. For 45th Annual Catalogue, Address C. E. COMER.

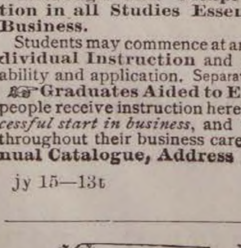
jy 15—13t



Bibles at 1-3 and Old Testaments at less than 1-3 the prices of the English editions, and equal to the English in type, paper, printing and accuracy. First agent sent out reports an order at every call for two weeks. Rare chance for agents to make money. Send $1.00 for outfit. TERMS VERY LIBERAL. The Henry Bill Pub. Co., Norwich, Conn.

Understandest Thou What Thou Readest.

Messrs. Editor.—To foresee the future intelligence in regard to supply and demand, production and consumption, is the great want that finance and commerce are to-day struggling and grappling with and striving to solve. The advance and decline in the average price of the manufactures and provisions in the markets of our Country, for the last half century, and for certain periods, have been as alternately certain as the diurnal revolutions of the earth upon its axis; and the periods of high and low prices have been as regular in rotation as the annual return of the four seasons. To persons not acquainted with the rules by which these changes occur, as regulated by an overruling providence, it is to them a wonderful illustration of the peculiarities of trade and uncertainty of prices, during seasons of reaction from over trading and over expansion of credit; an o'er abundant supply with a limited demand or an excess of commerce and finance more generally known as panic years. The question of prices will always be of great interest to the producer and consumer. The spirit of the age is tending toward speculation, competition or rivalry, in the products of the "Farm, the Mine, and the Factory." Thus the "Cast Iron Rule," which is that, "one extreme invariably follows another," can be witnessed in all the operations of nature, in all the business affairs of man, and in all the ramifications of trade and industry.

Although iron may be considered as chief among all our National industries, and the fluctuations in the market value or demand for this chief industry is said to have a controlling influence over all other productions, yet there has been, during the last thirty years, one or two instances when leather took precedence over iron in an upward advance. When the price of iron begins to decline there is a panic in iron. When the price of leather begins to decline there is a panic in the leather market. When the price of hogs begins to decline there is a panic in hogs. When the price of cotton, corn, wool, or wheat begins to decline there is a panic in that particular article, the supply exceeds the demand. When the price of an article declines below cost, production will diminish until demand increases and prices advance. When the price of an article advances above cost, production will increase until demand ceases and prices decline. And the cost of production is the wages of labor, interest on capital, and wear of land and machinery. When the price of leather is twenty cents a foot, it may be either high or low, and like a certain game with cards, the points depend upon the trumps that are out. If the cost of production is above on a declining market, then twenty cents a foot is high; if the cost of production is below on an advancing market then twenty cents a foot is low. The ratio of an advance in price exceeds the ratio of increase in the cost of production, and there have been times when money has been made very fast in the leather business, during the two or three years of advance in price

On the other hand, the ratio of decline in price exceeds the ratio of decrease in the cost of production, and manufacturers lose money on the seven or eight years alternately of the decline in price, unless wages and other expenses are curtailed in time. The leather business at the present day, is a very uncertain trade for persons to engage in who are not acquainted with the number of years in which the price advance, as they are only from two to three years, while the declines are from six to eight years. It should be for the interest of Trade Unions to consider well the ups and downs in our manufacturing industries as their losses by strikes to maintain a high rate of wages during the years of decline, could be avoided by knowing the unchangeable tendency of the times. Although "advice is cheap," yet we continually see some of our best traders "caught out in the wet," and to some persons it will always require a Columbus to show them how the egg is to stand upon its end, or explain the text, "Understandest thou what thou readest."

M. W. GRAVES.

* * *

"Remember that it is not necessary to get a constable to arrest berry thieves caught in the act on your own land. A man is a constable on his own land in such cases." Such was the charge of Judge Crosby to a farmer who had been pestered by these nuisances; and moreover, he said, "the owner of the land beside the road owns all the grapes, apples and everything either side of the wall, clear to the middle of the road." If farmers will assert their rights and make a few examples of the strollers that leave down pasture bars, throw down stone walls and let their cattle out, the nuisance will soon abate—Lowell Courier.

A fellow by the name of Gass was lately jilted by an Ohio girl. She said he was too high, and turned him off.—Boston Commonwealth.

And so he wont meet-her any more.

WE HAVE SAVED MONEY

Is what OUR PEABODY FRIENDS and PATRONS say after visiting our store and securing some of the

CREATEST BARGAINS

— IN —

BABY CARRIAGES,

OIL STOVES,

REFRIGERATORS,

Parlor Suits, Dhamber Sets, Carpeting, Ranges, Lamps, Silver Ware, Csockery and all kinds of Housekeeping Goods that we are now offering for CASH or on very easy terms of payments.

Goods on Instalments one of our specialties.

151 HANOVER ST., BOSTON.

W. P. B. BROOKS & CO.,

W. P. B. BROOKS, ALEX. D. DAMON, FRED. D. SPERRY.

E. R. MORSE SAFE CO.

MANUFACTURER OF

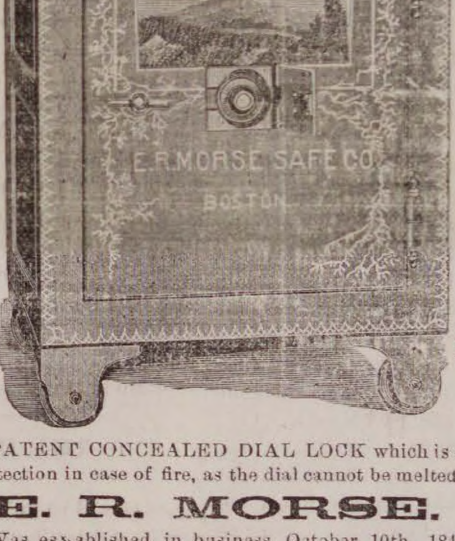
FIRE & BURGLAR PROOF SAFES, VAULT DOORS, STEEL CHESTS, SILVER SAFES, EXPRESS SAFES, FIRE AND THIEF PROOF JEWEL BOXES.

76 & 78 SUDBURY STREET, BOSTON.

Second hand SAFES.

SAFES bought and sold.

SAFES opened and repaired.



SAFES exchanged.

SAFES moved.

Combination LOCKS put on to Old Safes.

Our Safes have only a PATENT CONCEALED DIAL LOCK which is used as a day door and is a great protection in case of fire, as the dial cannot be melted or broken off.

E. R. MORSE.

Was established in business October 10th, 1844.

NAUMKEAG BREWERY,

NO. 60 UNION STREET, SALEM.

We are prepared to fill orders for our

SPARKLING CREAM ALE

TO THE TRADE AND PRIVATE FAMILIES.

This Ale is brewed from the best Canada Malt combined with the choicest New York State Hops and Wenham Lake Water. For delicacy of flavor and sparkling brilliancy it cannot be excelled by any ale in the market and we Guarantee it strictly pure.

We make a specialty supplying private families, and respectfully solicit the patronage of the public generally who appreciate a pure and healthful beverage.

BARRELS, - - - - - -	$7.50
HALF BARRELS, - - - -	3.75

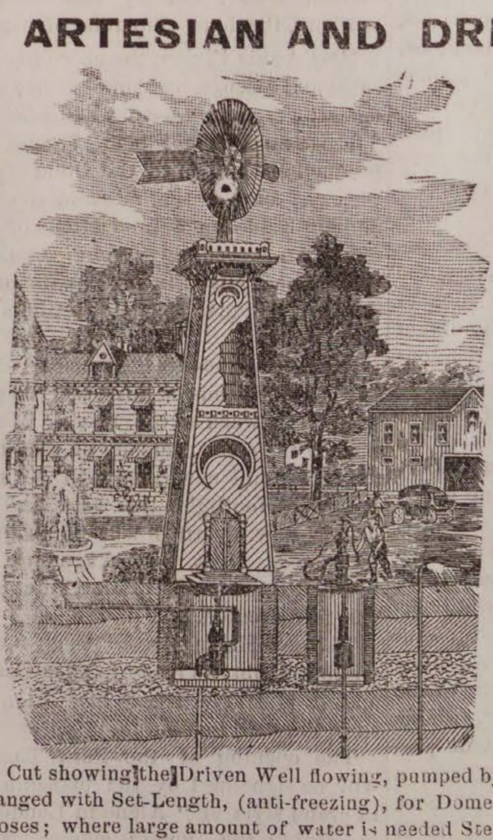
Ground Malt and Hops for Sale.

Orders by Mail or Telephone Promptly Filled.

ARTESIAN AND DRIVEN WELLS.



All of our

DRIVEN WELLS

for Domestic, Farm, or any other purpose well, receive prompt attention.

Thousands of these wells are being used in Tanneries, Breweries and other manufactories, where cool and better water is needed and also save water bills.

We are also prepared to

DRILL WELLS

six or eight inches in diameter through earth or rock, by steam power.

B. F. SMITH,

OFFICE,

266 WASHINGTON STREET,

Room 3, Boston

Cut showing the Driven Well flowing, pumped by Hand and Wind Power. Arranged with Set-Length, (anti-freezing), for Domestic, Farm and Irrigating purposes; where large amount of water is needed Steam Pumps are.

A PRIZE Send six cents for postage, and receive free, a costly box of goods which will help you to more money right away than anything else in this world. All, of either sex, succeed from first hour. The broad road to fortune opens before the workers, absolutely sure, At once address, TRUE & Co., Augusta, Me.

FREDERIC G. PRESTON,

Attorney and Counsellor at Law.

ALLEN'S BLOCK.

RESIDENCE, 171 BOSTON ST., SALEM.

Conveyances.

BOSTON & MAINE RAILROAD On and after Monday, Je. 28, 1885 trains will run as follows,—

EASTERN DIVISION,

TRAINS LEAVE PEABODY FOR BOSTON AT 6 44, 7 25, 8 02, 8 31, 10 33, 11 07 A. M., 2 01, 3 37, 5 08, 6 46 P. M.

BOSTON FOR PEABODY, 8, 10 55 A. M., 1 M., 3, 4, 4 40, 5 15, 6 P. M.

LEAVE SALEM FOR

Lynn and Boston at 5 37, 6, 6.30, 7, 7 14, 7 35, 7 48, 7 51, 8 13, 8 34 (does not stop at Lynn), 8 40, 8 58, 9 20, 9 55, 10.48 A.M., 12 M., 12 30, 12 52, 2 15, 3 12, 3 45, 4 10, 4 25, 5 17, 5 48, 6 33, 6.58. 7 20, 7 57, 8 55, 9, 9 55 P. M. Sundays, 5.37, 8 40, 11 35 A. M., 1 05, 3 05, 5 40, 8 15, P. M.

Swampscott, 6, 6 30, 7 14. 7.48 7 51, 8 40, 8 58, 10 48, A. M., 12 M, 12 52, 2 15, 3 45, 4 25, 5 17, 5 48, 6 33, 6 58, 7 20, 7 57, 9, 9 55, P. M. Sundays, 8 40 11 35 A. M., 1 05, 3 05, 5 40, 8 15 P. M.

Beverly, 6 53, 8 11, 8 40, 10 42, 11 20 A. M., 12 02, 1 05, 2 27, 2 47, 3 56. 4 05, 5 12, 5 57 6 37, 7 05, 7 15, 7 45, 10 10, 11, P. M. Sundays 8 45 A. M.

Beverly Farms, Manchester and Gloucester—6 53, 8 40, 11 20 A. M., 2 47, 4 07, 5 35, 7 05, 7 45, 10 10 P M

Essex, 8 11 A. M., 3 56, 6 37 P. M.

Ipswich, 8 11, 9 35, 10 42 A, M., 1 05, 2 27, 3 56, 5 12, 6 37, 7 15 P. M, Sundays 8 45 A. M., 7 30 P. M.

Newburyport, 8 11, 9 35, 10, 10 42 A. M., 1 05, 2 02, 2 27, 3 56. 5 12, 6 37, 7 15 P. M. Sundays 8 45 A. M., 7 30 P. M.

Amesbury, 8 11, 10 42 A. M., 1 05, 3 56, 5.12 P. M.

Portsmouth—8 11, 9 35, 10, 10 42 A. M., 1 05, 2 02, 3 56, 5 12, ‡7 15 P. M. Sundays 8 45 A. M., 7 30 P. M.

Dover, 8 11, A. M., 2 02, 5 12 P. M.

Great Falls and Rochester, 8 11, 10 A. M., 2 02, 3 56 P. M.

Wolfboro—8 11, 10 A, M., 2 02. 3 56 P. M.

North Conway—8 11, 10 A M., 2 02 P. M.

Portland—8 11, 9 35 A M, 1 05, ‡7 15 P M. Sundays 7 30 P. M.

Augusta—9 35 A. M., 1 05, †7 15 P. M. Sundays 7 30 P. M.

Bangor—9 35 A. M., 1 05, †7 15 P. M. Sundays 7 30 P. M.

St. John and Halifax, 9 35 A. M. †7 15 P. M. Sundays, 7 30 P. M.

Montreal, 9 35 P. M.

And FOR SALEM—from

Montreal—10 15 P. M.

St. John—8 P. M. (daily except Saturday).

Bangor, 8 A. M., 1 30, 8 P. M. Sundays 8 P. M.

Augusta, 6, 10 A. M., 2 45, 10 55 P. M. Sundays 10 55 P. M.

Portland—2, 9 A M. 1, 6 P M. Sundays, 2 A. M

North Conway—7 20, 11 A M, 3 30 P. M.

Wolfboro—6 05 (Mondays only), 8 15, 11 20 A M, 4 05 P M.

Rochester—7 22. 9 42 A. M., 1 05, 5 37 P. M.

Great Falls—7 38, 9 57 A. M, 1 18, 5 50 P. M.

Dover—7, 10 25 A. M., 4 30 P. M.

Portsmouth—4 05, 7 30, 7 35, 8 20, 10 50 A M, 1 55, 2 55, 5, 6 40, 7 40 P M, Sundays, 4 05 A. M, 4 P. M.

Amesbury—6 40, 8 40, 11 15 A. M., 1 30, 3 05, 5 20 P. M.

Newburyport—4 45, 6 30, 7, 8, 8 13, 9 05, 11 35 A. M. 2 35, 3 30, 3 38, 5 43, 7 20, 8 15 P. M. Sundays, 4 45 A. M., 4 45 P. M.

Ipswich—5 07, 6 48, 7 17, 8 15, 8 31, 9 25, 11 59 A. M., 2 49, 3 55, 6 06, 7 36 P. M. Sundays 5 07 A. M., 5 06 P. M.

Essex—7, 11 45 A. M, 5 45 P. M.

Rockport—6 05, 7 20, 8 30, 10 A. M., 1 20, 5, 6 10, 9 P. M. Sundays—7 45 A. M.

Gloucester—6 15, 7 29, 8 39, 10 08 A M, 1 30, 5 08* 6 20, 9 09 P M. Sundays—7 55 A. M.

Manchester—6 30, 7 42, 8 51. 10 21 A. M., 1 45, 5 22, 6 32, 9 23 P. M Sundays, 8 09 A. M.

Beverly—6 50, 7 05, 7 40, 8 05. 8 50, 9 11, 9 45, 10 40 A. M., 12 20, 12 45, 2 05, 4 16, 5 40, 6 23, 6 50, 7 08, 7 50, 9 43, 11 10 P, M. Sundays 8 30 A. M., 5 30 P. M.

Swampscott,—6 44, 8 50, 10 34, 11 26, 11 54 A. M., 12 36, 2 19, 3 28, 4 31, 6 20, 6 28. 6 56, 8 29, 10, 10 49, 11 49 P. M. Sundays 8 36, 11 17 A. M., 1 57, 5 51, 10 11 P. M.

Lynn—6 40, 7 59, 8 30, 8 46, 9 25, 9 51, 10 30, 11 10, 11 23, 11 51 A M., 12 33, 12 55, 1 52, 2 15, 3 25, 3 45, 3 55, 4 28, 5 03, 5 24, 5 45, 6 16, 6 25, 6 52, 7 05, 7 35, 8 25, 9 55, 10 45, 11 45 P. M. Sundays 8 32, 11 14 A. M., 1 03, 5 47, 7 22, 10 06, P. M.

Boston—6 10, 7 30*, 8, 8 05, 9, 9 30, 10, 10 45, 10 55* 11 15 A. M. 12 M, 12 30, 1 30, 1 40, 2 15, 3, 3 20, 3 30, 4, 4 40, 5, 5 15, 5 40, 6, 6 20, 6 40, 7 10, 7 50, 9 20, 10 15, 11 15 P M. Sundays, 8, 10 40 A. M, 1 20, 5 10, 7, 9 30 P. M.

*Via Saugus Branch.
†Change at Newburyport.

MARBLEHEAD BRANCH.

Salem for Marblehead—6 50, 7 55, 8 40, 9 30 A M, 1, 2 30, 4 20, 5 15, 6 05, 7 20 P M.

Marblehead for Salem—6 30, 7 30, 8 15, 9 10, 10 15 A M, 2 3 20, 4 55, 5 40, 6 25 P M.

SOUTH READING BRANCH.

Trsins leave the South Reading Depot in Salem for Boston, 7 25, 9 05 A. M., 1 40, 4 35 P. M.

Boston for Salem—7 40, 11 30 A M, 3 10, 5 15 P. M.

Wakefield for Salem—8 13 A M, 12 06, 3 43, 5 48 P M.

Lynnfield for Salem—8 24 A M, 12 16, 3 52, 5 59 P M.

Peabody for Salem—8 35 A M, 12 27, 4 02, 6 07 P M.

LAWRENCE BRANCH.

Salem for Lowell—7 A. M., 6 P. M.

Salem for Lawrence—7 09, 11 32 A M, 4 43, 6 P M.

Salem for Middleton—6 15, 7, 8 58, 11 35 A M, 3 36, 4 43, 6 P M.

Salem for Danvers—6 15, 7, 7 28, 8 58, 11 32 A M, 12 47, 3 36, 4 43, 5 20, 6, 6 42 P M.

Lowell for Salem—7 10, 9 45 A. M., 12 15, 5 15 P. M

Lawrence for Salem—7 40, 10 5 A M, 1. 5 50 P M.

Middleton for Salem—7, 8 07, 10 10, 10 45 A M, 1 35, 4 45, 6 27, P M.

Danvers for Salem—6 37, 7 15, 7 59, 8 31, 10 25, 11 A. M, 1 50, 3 30, 5, 5 50, 6 39, P M.

Peabody for Salem—6 44, 7 25, 8 02, 8 31, 10 33, 11 07 A M, 2 01, 3 37, 5 08, 5 58, 6 46 P M.

JAMES T. FURBER, General Manager.
Boston Je. 28, 1885.

NEW YORK & NEW ENGLAND RAILROAD.

Shorter by twenty miles than any other Line between Boston and New York

Now a Double Track Road to a Connection with the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad, West of Willimantic.

LEAVE BOSTON.

8.30 A. M. *DAY EXPRESS TRAIN for New York (via Middletown and New Haven); Pullman Cars Boston to New York. A part of this train runs through to Hartford. New Britain Waterbury, Danbury and Fishkill.

3.00 P. M. †NEW ENGLAND LIMITED for New York (via Air Line Route) running 86 miles without a stop. Due Grand Central Depot, New York, at 9.00 P. M. Connects week days at Willimantic with train for Hartford, New Britain and Waterbury.

3.30 P. M. *AFTERNOON MAIL for New York, (via Middletown and New Haven), due New York 11.25 P. M. A part of this train runs through to Hartford, New Britain and Bristol.

6.30 P. M. †PHILADELPHIA EXPRESS for Hartford, New Haven. Jersey City, Trenton, Philadelphia, Baltimore and Washington, connecting for Richmond and points South. Through Pullman cars to Washington.

6.30 P. M. *NORWICH LINE EXPRESS for New York, New London, Norwich, Danielsonville and Putnam. Train connects at New London with Steamer City of Worcester, or City of Boston.

Seats in Parlor Cars, Berths in Pullman Cars, State-rooms on Steamers, Tickets and information obtained at Office, 322 Washington St, or Depot, foot of Summer St.

BOSTON
A. C. KENDALL, Gen'l Pass. Agt.

BOSTON, REVERE BEACH & LYNN R.R. SUMMER TIME-TABLE.

June, 15, 1885.

Leave Boston at 6.50, 7.30, 8, 8.30, 9, 10, 11 A.M. 12 M.; 1, 2, 2.30, 3, 3.30, 4. 4.30, 5, 5.30, 6, §6.30, 7, 7.30, 8, 8.30, 9.20, 9 50, 10.50, 11.15 P. M.

Leave Lynn at §6.10, 6.50, 7, 7.30, 8, 8.30, 9, 10, 11 A.M. 12 M.; 1, 1.45, 2.15, 2.45, 3.15, 3.45, 4.15, 4.45, 5.15, 5.45, 6.15, 6.45, 7.15, 7.45, 8.40, 9.10, 9.40, 10.10, 10.30, P. M.

SUNDAY TRAINS.

Leave Boston at 10, 11 A. M.; 12 M.; 1, 2, 2.30, 3, 3.30, 4, 4.30, 5, 5.30, 6, 6.30, 7, 7.30, 8. 8.30, 9, 10, P. M.

Leave Lynn at 9, 10, 11 A. M.; 12 M.; 1. 1.45, 2.15, 2.45, 3.15, 3.45, 4.15, 4.45, 5.15, 5.45, 6.15, 6.45, 7.15, 7.45, 8.15, 9.15 P. M.

§Workingmen's train.

JOHN A. FENNO, G. T. A. C. A. HAMMOND. Supt

CALL AT THIS OFFICE FOR FINE JOB PRINTING. Specimens given

OUR COMPETITOR EXHIBITS HIS CAT AND SO DO WE.

AKE YOUR OWN COMPARISON.

As our cat is pleasing and more contented looking than his, so our customers go away better satisfied with the fine quality of the boots and shoes purchased of us at lower prices than the same goods are sold by other dealers.

Call and see for yourselves.

F. W. Lucas & Co.,

1̣6 ESSEX STREET,

Head of Central Street, Salem

ASBURY GROVE.

The season at Asbury Grove is almost over, and since camp meeting, there has been an exodus in the direction of home. The week ending last Friday has been given up entirely to the meetings and residents in the cottages were obliged to forego their social amusements, and soap bubble parties, candy pulls and croquet were dispensed with. But lovers of the latter game made the most of their time and it was not unusual to see old and young playing by lamp light. Among the skillful lovers of the game is Rev. Mr. Smith of Peabody, who is said to have not unfrequently played so late that he was obliged to tie a white handkerchief on the arbor to tell where it was. The Wednesday before the camp meeting opened, the young people held a "corn roast" at Idlewood, and about 200 participated. There were large bonfires built and each was provided with a long pointed stick and after the corn had been husked, it was roasted in the fire, and the stick used as a fork. Coffee and other refreshments were served and the evening's entertainment closed with a moonlight sail on the beautiful Idlewood Lake.

CAMP MEETING WEEK.

The Thursday before camp meeting was ushered in by a big rush to the grove and it seemed to the looker on that there would never be an end to the number of trunks, load after load of which were brought to the grounds, and and as up to that time there had been but little rain, the heavy express teams as they hurried along the avenues, distributed a quantity of dust in every direction. The rain of Saturday morning laid the dust and prepared the grounds for the large number who were present Sunday, and whose constant tramp, tramp, among the avenues lasted till late at night. The meetings were opened as usual and continued through the week, and while earnest work was done by many, there seemed to be a lack of enthusiasm which usually characterizes the meetings. This is readily explained by the damp, cold weather, which has prevailed, and except Sunday there was hardly a day when it was suitable for a person to sit at the preacher's stand, and in the evenings the air was almost a fog. One of the most successful meetings was the Sunday morning love feast, conducted by our good friend, Rev. C. N. Smith, at which 191 testified to their faith in the "Old, Old Story." As a whole the meetings have been fairly successful and well attended.

THE LAST NIGHT.

To a disinterested person the last night of camp meeting is the most interesting. By that time there is a deal of enthusiasm and meetings are held at all hours and it seems as if the pastors and people could not stop, but must continue to pray for and solicit the unconverted to unite with them. Particularly has this been noticeable at the tent of the negro brothers and sisters, who get very much excited and sing, pray and shout far into the night. But this year the "colored folks" were froze out, so to speak, and went home Thursday, as did also the Swedes, who have also been very popular, as they sang the songs in their native tongue, and their meetings were largely attended. Only a small number gathered at the evening meeting at the stand, but there were earnest words spoken and when the bell rung for ten o'clock, which was a notice to close, they tried to drown it by singing. As soon as the meeting closed others were started in the tents, among them the Newburyport, Bromfield street and Melrose, but the latter took the largest part of the audience. This society has done a great work during the week, through the efforts of its pastor, who is known all over the grove as "Johnie" Pickles. The Rev. J. D. Pickles is a young man, quite plain looking, but with a magnetism about him that will hold an audience for hours listening to his words. It is said that at every meeting at the Melrose tent during the week, one or more conversions were made. On the last evening the tent was crowded and a large number went away unable to gain admittance, and the service was kept up till long after the distant bell at Wenham had tolled the midnight hour.

THE POLICE.

This year the police force is under the charge of Chief N. A. Cram of Malden, and notwithstanding the grounds have been visited by thousands there has been no serious disturbance, and with the exception of some mischievous young men no arrests have been made. The police head-quarters as usual have been in the building adjoining the committee room, but this year there has been one object of interest that has caused passers by to stop and wonder. It was a kind of curtain or screen on which were great gaudily painted letters, which seen at a distance made one think he was approaching a dime museum, but a close inspection showed it was only used as a partition to divide the room, and on it were the words, "Behold how good and how pleasant it is for brethren to dwell together in unity." This wouldn't be a bad motto to place in every police station.

BOARDING HOUSES.

There has been a lively demand for rooms in the cottages and they have been let especially during camp meeting week, for from five to nine dollars a week without board. At the house occupied by Mr. C. O. Putnam, the superintendent of the grounds, there has been a constant demand for board, and probably fifty would have taken rooms for the season, if there had been accommodations. What the association should do and probably will in a few years, is to build a hotel, and it is the opinion of all it would be a paying investment. On the grounds there are several who have hired cottages and kept boarders all summer. The cold weather of late has had a depressing effect on the boarding house keepers and cottagers, and many who have depended on an oil stove have been unable to keep warm except under a bundle of outside wraps and shawls. Others who were fortunate enough to have a stove found a fire not uncomfortable. There naturally has been a lively demand for wood and coal, the former retailing at fifteen cents a bushel, and the latter at thirty-five cents a bushel. A bushel of wood don't count for much and we heard one of our Unitarian neighbors, who could only count twenty-nine sticks of wood in two bushels remark, "Those are regular Methodist bushels and cost me over a cent a stick."

THE DINING ROOMS.

The dining rooms have been in charge of Mr. L. L. Katon, and the boarders have been served by some forty table girls, and there has been considerable anxiety expressed concerning their health, as they occupied tents in the rear of the baker shop, but they came out smiling every morning and all fear was allayed. There was cooked for camp meeting Sunday, nine bushels of white beans, 200 loaves of brown bread, 500 loaves of white bread, 300 loaves of cake and 500 pies. Thirteen whole lambs were roasted, 750 pounds of beef, 300 pounds of corn beef, together with ten bushels of potatoes, ten bushels of shell beans, 400 pounds of squash, 1400 ears of corn, fifty beef tongues, seventy-five four-quart puddings, 125 gallons of coffee, the same amount of tea and 400 quarts of milk.

CONCLUSION.

The social tide has begun to ebb back and flow into distant places, and the first of September finds the number greatly reduced, but those who linger are drawn into closer social relations and their attention is divided between providing for the deserted cats, left by the early returning cottagers, and the forming of parties to raid the neighboring fields for golden rod, which grows in great abundance in the vicinity. And every lady is decked with a golden rod bouquet, and on each piazza will be found quantities of the weed tastily arranged. There has been quite an unusual event this week—the birth of a child on the grounds. The wife of the Methodist minister of Beverly, who is stopping at the Newburyport tent presented her surprised husband with a little girl, and the happy parents have received many congratulations. It is an uncommon occurrence and probably is the first one that has been born inside the circle. Last Tuesday evening Mrs. L. L. Katon, wife of the caterer, was given a surprise party by a large number of her friends, and during the evening was presented with a handsome willow rocker. After a social evening refreshments were served.

MUSICAL NOTES.

The fifth series of the Boston symphony concerts will be given in Music Hall during the fall and winter mouths with Herr Wilhelm Gericke again as conductor. The membership of the orchestra will be somewhat changed from that of last season, the most important retirement being that of Mr. Bernhard Listemann, who has led the violin players as concert master since the orchestra was organized by Mr. Georg Henschel four years ago. Mr. Listemann's successor in this important position will be Herr Franz Kneisel, who has a recognized position in Vienna, and was for many years the concert master of the Blise Orchestra of Berlin. The ranks of the first violin players will be recruited from abroad in a measure, as Herr Gericke has engaged three of the prize pupils of the Vienna Conservatory to replace those of the players in this section of last season's orchestra who have not renewed their contracts. It has been determined that the series of Boston concerts shall be 24 in number and given on consecutive Saturday evenings, beginning Oct. 17, the usual Friday afternoon rehearsals preceding each concert.

A Boston lady who enjoys an acquaintance with Patti, and who recently met Mlle. de Lussan, the new soprano of the Boston Ideals, says the resemblance between the singer and Patti is something phenomenal both in general appearance and voice—the speaking voice in particular. In manner in a drawing-room the resemblance is even still more striking. The only great difference is that Mlle. de Lussan has a more slender figure.

Mr. Neuendorff's benefit at the promenade concerts, which is to end up the season, is taking shape, and the indications are that it will be one of the bright events of the season.

T. W. Henry's cornet solos are one of the popular features in the Cadet band concerts at Point of Pines. Mr. Henry is a conscientious musician, and has the ability to rank with many soloists of reputation should he enter that field.

The choir at Grace Church, Salem, is to consist of Miss Frederika Pitman, soprano; Mrs. F. C. Ferguson, contralto; Mr. Warren Wilson, Jr., of this town, tenor, and Mr. Michado, of Salem, bass. A. J. Walker is to be the organist and conductor.

Miss Howard, of Salem, contralto of the South Church, is expected to sing at the Unitarian church next Sabbath. The position has not been permanently filled.

Miss Belle Leavitt will be the regular soprano at the Baptist church.

THE DRAMA.

At the Boston Theatre this week the greatest combination of specialty, variety and musical artists ever made for one entertainment will give a series of grand performances. The role of celebrities includes Mlle. Capitola Forrest, queen of the flaming zone; Harrington and Johnson, negro comedians; Maude Beverly, character artist and vocalist; Lizzie Sims, the peerless transformation danseuse; Valvo, the "Jap of Japs," in many feats, including the bamboo slide; Sheehan and Coyne, the greatest of Irish sketch artists; Miss Ella Wesner, surnamed "The Captain," in her original drawing-room entertainment; Valjean, the renowned juggler, equilibrist and pigeon charmer; The Four Shamrocks, in their inimitible act "The Workingmen's Strike:" the world renowned French troupe Daven, in their aerial acts, which includes Mlle. Lotto's leap from the gallery to the stage; and everybody's favorites, Wood, Beasley and Weston brothers, the four emperors of music.

Miss Annie Pixley, the charming vocalist and fascinating commediene, will open the regular season at the Boston Theatre on Monday, Sept. 7, with the production of "M'liss, the Child of the Sierras," one of the most interesting and enjoyable stage productions of the day. An exceedingly strong company will support Miss Pixley, and the management will give splendid settings to the drama.

Sardou's Celebrated Comedy "Nos Intimes," Friends or Foes, will be presented this week at the Boston Museum, by the stock company of that theatre. Several new faces will be seen before the footlights this week, and the old and new favorites will be heartily welcomed. Next week Augustine Daly's new comedy "Love on Crutches," will be presented.

The new Hollis street Theatre will, without doubt, be ready to open Oct. 5, and it is Harry Dixey in "Adonis," sure, that will inaugurate it.

The opening of the Park Theatre will be signalized by the presentation in grand style of "Alone in London," presenting the young actress, Miss Tanner, with a strong support. It will hold the boards two weeks.

* * *

The Salem and Peabody police raided Christopher Campbell's liquor saloon on the line between the two places and captured a quantity of hard liquor.

STREET GOSSIP
AS GLEANED BY NOTES
Mulcahy

"Mulcahy" has stopped his foolish braying in the Press, for reasons which he had perhaps rather keep private.—Salem News.

The above comes from a very learned (?) source and unlike "Mulcahy," who doesn't say anything when he has nothing to say, this common ass keeps up a continual braying.

There is a truly good citizen in town who does a fair business in the grocery line, who makes it a point to trade with only those who trade with him. Another citizen, who is in the shoe business, marked a certain line of shoes at a very small profit, and our grocer finding they were cheap, purchased a pair provided the dealer would "take it out of the store," which was agreed to. A few days later the grocer bought several pairs more for other members of his family, and the shoe dealer saw his stock, which he had put out as a bait, rapidly disappearing to only one customer, and he knew he had got to take that up in groceries. But not to be outdone in buying goods that were sold on a small margin, he took up the whole amount of his bill in sugar. The question is, who got the best of the trade?

I have heard of the questionable transactions of a certain lawyer, not a thousand miles from Peabody, and I think it would be interesting to your readers for me to give from time to time some of them, and show how a pettifogger can get a living. A while ago he was given some bills to collect and among them was one against a poor but industrious man, who was not earning over eight dollars a week. The bill amounted to six dollars, and he received a letter from this lawyer(?) asking him to call and settle. He went down and was told that the bill could be settled then for $12, as the costs were always $6, but unless it was settled within a certain time, the costs would be just double. The man, who was ignorant of his rights, borrowed the money and paid the $12. The lawyer took six of the amount and charged twenty-five per cent. additional for collecting the bill.

Some low lived, despicable wretch, who is so diabolically mean that he isn't fit to live in a civilized community, entered the garden of a well known citizen and after stealing a large number of pears, deliberately broke off two young plum trees in the center of the trunk, making them worthless. They were full of unripe fruit and had been cared for all winter and had borne for the first time this year.

It is unfortunate to have too many in town of the same name as yourself. This led to a humiliating mistake the other day. A certain married man wrote to a young girl to meet him at the Point of Pines and the letter was received by a servant girl of the same name, and as she was unable to read it, took it to her employer and that lady sent it to the wife of the gentleman who wrote it. How he explained matters I don't know, but the next time he writes that girl, it will probably be under an assumed name.

* * *

Numerous temperance text books are now being pressed upon the attention of school-boards. All of these, over twenty in number, have been subjected to a patient and careful examination by experienced, practical teachers and by well-known friends of temperance. Most of the books have attractive features, and many marks of real worth, as treatises on Physiology in general. In respect, however to their adaptation to meet the requirements of the law, they seem to the examiners to possess very varied degrees of merit. The books most fully approved to this end are the following: Hygienic Physiology, Hygiene for Young People, The Child's Health Primer, each suitable for the different grades.

Marriages.

In Salem, Aug. 24, at the residence of the bride, by Rev. Mr. Ray, Mr. Samuel Hoyle of Boston to Miss Harriet M. Pitman of Salem.

Deaths.

In Peabody, Aug. 30, Richard Draper, about 37 yrs.

31st, Martha B. Galeucia, about 48 yrs.

In Danvers, Aug. 23, Katie N., daughter of Thomas and Mary Russell, 2 mos. 4 days; Mrs. Philena M. Lamoy, 40 yrs. 1 mo.; 24th, Mr. Patrick Lyons, 85 yrs. 5 mos.

In Salem, Aug. 28th, Mr. James Ryan, 60 yrs.; 30th, Mr. Patrick Foley, 58 yrs.

At Beaver Brook, Danvers, Aug. 28, Sarah Ellen, wife of Henry A. Hale, of Salem

CATARRH.

BY A. P. LIGHTHILL, M. D.

The earliest symptoms of Catarrh is a discharge from the head, consisting sometimes of a clear acid fluid, but oftener of a thick, fœtid, purulent yellow or greenish matter which is usually secreted in excessive abundance, and discharged through the nostrils for throat, and frequently by both channel.

The nature of this discharge varies in different cases, and even in the same individual at different times. In some it is copious, and of a loose or fluid character, while in others it is very viscid or gummy, adhering to the diseased membrane with glue-like tenacity; often this offensive matter concretes in dry, hard masses of crusts, which obstruct breathing and are very difficult to detach, their dislodgment requiring most violent efforts. Sometimes these incrustations come away in lumps of a deep green tint, but occasionally in broad and flat casts of a notable size, on which traces of blood may at times be observed. This condition is very liable to run to serious ulceration, involving a loss of the bony structure of the nose and a subsequent flattening of that organ, and is invariably accompanied by a breath of exceedingly fœtid and sickening odor. In some cases it becomes so revoltingly offensive as to render the sufferer an object of disgust to himself as well as to others.

The nasal membrane is thickened and congested, causing the nose to be stopped up, sometimes on one side, sometimes on the other, and often on both, giving rise to a disagreeable, stuffy sensation in the head, and occasionally to violent paroxysms of sneezing.

A feeling of fullness, heat, irritation, soreness or pain is generally experienced in the nostrils, near the root of the nose, as well as in the upper part of the throat, above and below the soft palate. A distressing sensation of heavy weight or compression is usually complained of over the forehead, especially in the region immediately above and between the eyes. Sometimes the pain is obstinately fixed in one particular part, as in the temples, on top of the head, at the back of the neck, or behind the orbits: and occasionally it manifests itself in the face, of so severe a character that it is frequently mistaken for neuralgia.

The voice is generally affected, and becomes hoarse, weak and uneven, assuming a nasal character, or an unpleasant sniffling quality. Cough of variable severity is not unfrequently one of the symptoms and results of Catarrh.

The sense of smell is generally blunted or entirely lost, and a similar effect on taste may be occasionally observed. The eyes are apt to become irritable, and disposed to water excessively on exposure to the cold or wind, and a sense of weariness of sight is usually experienced after slight exertious. Hearing becomes frequently more or less impaired, and noises in the head very often add materially to the existing distress.

The stomach generally suffers more or less, and becomes weak and irritable; the appetite is capricious, and nearly always bad in the morning.

The patient often complains of lassitude and fatigue, an incapacity for either physical for mental exertions, and a constant disposition to drowsiness and sleep. The mental faculties are also sometimes slightly affected, loss of memory being not unfrequently experienced.

Catarrh may prove fatal, either by debilitating the system and wearing out the patient, or by travelling downward and producing consumption. This fact has been so repeatedly noticed that all experienced practitioners now look upon Catarrh as one of the earliest manifestations of this dreaded complaint. Among educated physicians in this or any other country, Dr. Lighthill was the first to devote his study and investigation to the cure of Catarrh and kindred diseases, and the happy results which attended his labor have been attested to by many of the most prominent citizens of Boston and vicinity. Cases abandoned as hopeless by other physicians have promptly yielded to his painless and effective treatment

ASTHMA

For years Dr. Lighthill has made this distressing disease his special study, investigating carefully the causes that produce it; his labor was fully rewarded, for he not only established its true pathological condition, but also discovered a new and correct system of treatment for its cure Hundreds of cases who have been under his care have found permanent relief from this wonderful discovery, from the beginning of this treatment prompt benefit is experienced which is ultimately followed by a complete and radical cure.

An experience of 30 years of constant practice enables Dr. Lighthill to decide on the first examination as to the cureability of any disease within specialty, and no case will be accepted for treatment unless the chances are for favorable results. His specialty comprises the cure of and affections of the Nervous system from whatever cause.

CATARRH, THROAT AFFECTIONS ASTHMA, CONSUMPTION, DEAFNESS DISCHARGE FROM THE EAR, DISEASES OF THE EYE, BLOOD, SKIN, LIVER AND KIDNEY

DR. LIGHTHILL,

Can be consulted

Every Thursday after noon and evening,

From 2 until 8.30 P. M.

—AT THE—

Essex House, Salem,

And every forenoon from 8 until 12, at his office.

OF 115 BOYLSTON ST., BOSTON.

CONSULTATION FREE.

CLOSING OUT.

We are naming Special Prices on all Spring and Summe Goods to clear our tables before Sept. 1st.

Bargains in Suits.

We are offering great Bargains in Suits for Dress or busines and show a splendid assortment at prices from 10 to 30 pet c less than Last Month.

GREAT VALUES IN TROUSERS.

We are displaying the Largest and best Selections of Trou sers in the city, including the choicest designs of Foreign an Domestic Fabrics. Our prices we guarantee from 10 to 2 per cent. less than you can obtain the same quality elsewhere.

Boys' and Children's Department.

We continue to offer great attractions in this Departmen and those having boys to clothe for school can save money b calling on us.

EDW. C. ALMY & CO.

163, 165 & 167 ESSEX ST., SALEM.

162 Westminster St., Providence.

Washington, cor. Essex Street, Boston.

Everything Selling Regardless of Cost a

WILMOT'S.

MEN'S PANTALOONS,

99c, $1.49, 2.00, 2.50 and 3.00. Marked down from $1.25, 2.50, and 4.50,

MEN'S ALL WOOL SUITS,

$4.87 1-2, 6, 8 and 10. Marked down from $8, 10, 12 and 16.0

CHILDREN'S BLOUSE SUITS,

Warranted Fast Colors, $2.50. Former Price $5.

MEN'S CARPET SLIPPERS,

25 cents. Regular Price, 75 cents.

MEN'S LOW CUT SHOES,

87 1-2 cents. Regular price, $1.75.

BOYS' BASE BALL SHOES, 70 CENT

WILMOT'S CLOTHING STORE,

252 & 254 ESSEX STREET, SALEM, MAS

J. FRANK BOYNTON, Manag

CENTS' LOW SHOES

TO BE CLOSED OUT.

$1.00	Low Shoes	.75
1.25	" "	$1.00
1.50	" "	1.25
1.75	" "	1.50
2.00	" "	1.75
2.50	" "	2.00
3.00	" "	2.50
3.50	" "	2.75
4.00	" "	3.25
4.75	" "	3.75

—AT—

J. E. HODGKINS' CASH STORE, 22 MARKET ST., LYN

POLO.

This popular game adapted for home amusement to play on the table.

PRICE $1.00.

For sale by all dealers. Manufactured by

HORACE A. BROOKS,

BOOK BINDER AND BLANK BOOK MANUFACTURER,

226 Essex Street, Salem, Mass.

AVOID

The Cholera by using Carbol of Lime.

For eansing out-houses, cesspools, s drains, stables, etc. For sale in 10, 25 50 lbs. bags, and by the barrel.

E. S. THAYER,

165 Derby Stree

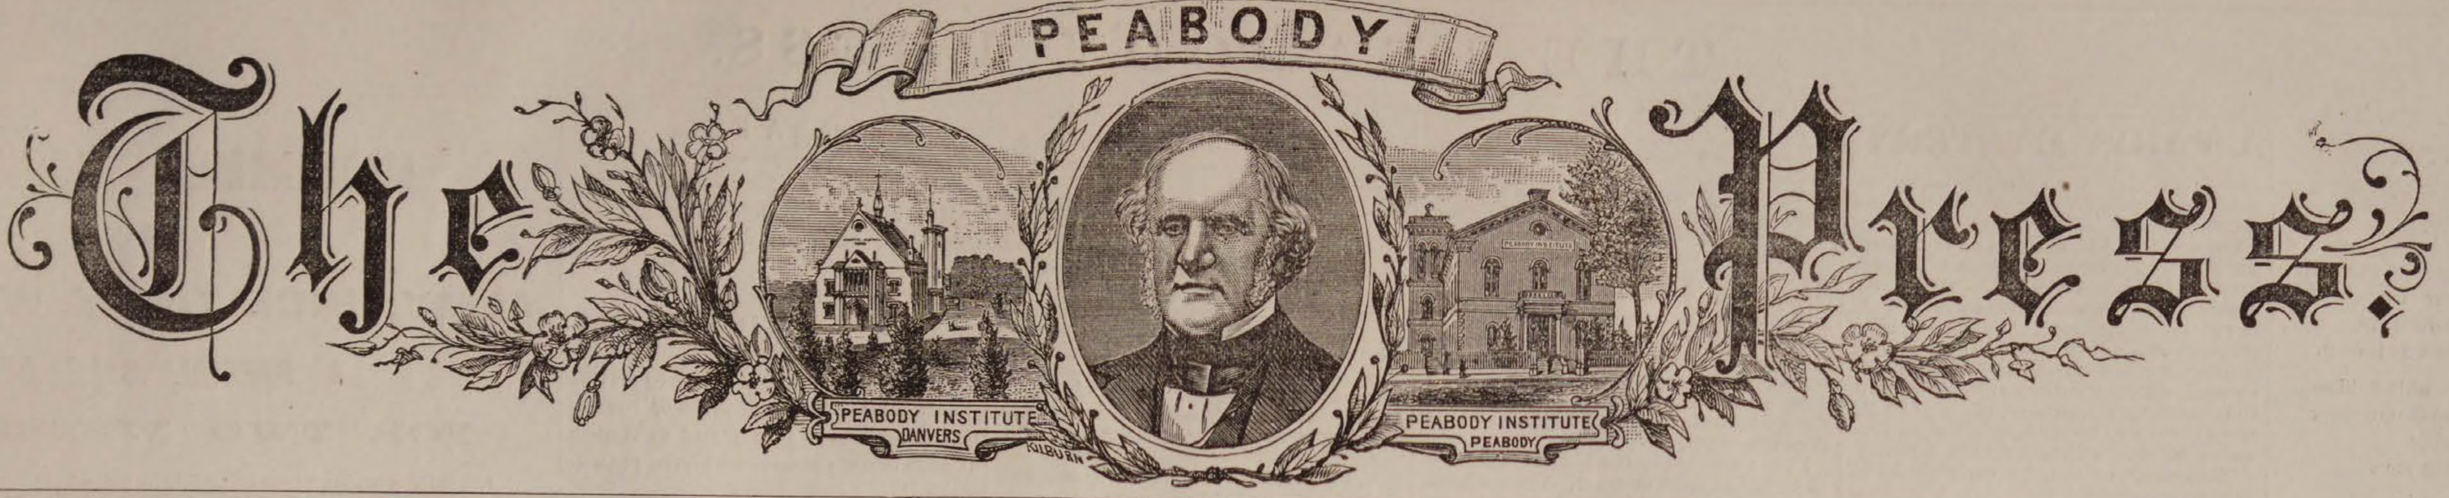
C. H. ESTES, Agent for Peabo

On Track—Old Eastern Hay,

ONE Car prime Old Eastern Hay.

CHAS. A. ROPES & SON.
41 to 47 Central stre

The Peabody Press.



VOL. 26. PEABODY, MASS. WEDNESDAY EVENING SEPTEMBER 9, 1885. 36 NO. ~~39~~ 36

EXTRAORDINARY SALE

—OF—

Winter Overcoats.

565 WINTER OVERCOATS

COMPRISING

MEN'S, YOUTHS', BOYS' AND CHILDREN'S,

Carried over from last season, which we shall sell at

A GREAT SACRIFICE!

We guarantee each and every garment to be clean, perfect goods, just as stylish in cut, make and trimmings as any garments made this season. Our object in offering this great bargain sale of Overcoats so early in the season is that we need the counter room for our new goods which are now ready to be shipped from our Manufactory.

REMEMBER.

We mean just what we say: 565 Overcoats carried over from last season; all clean, perfect goods to be closed out in the next 15 days at a great Sacrifice. Buyers of Clothing now is your time to secure a Bargain.

We are selling Men's Fine, Heavy Overcoats for $10, 12 and 13.50. Men's Elegant Overcoats for $15, 16 and 18. Men's Heavy, all-wool Overcoats for $5, 6 and 8. Laboring Men's Heavy Overcoats for $2, 3 and 4. Men's Heavy Reefing Jackets, $3, 4, 5, 6 and 8. Boys' Fine, Heavy Overcoats for $6, 7 and 8, ages 12 to 17 years. Boys' Heavy, all-wool Overcoats, ages 12 to 17, for $4.50 and 5.00. B'soy Heavy Overcoats for $2, 3 and 4.00, ages 12 to 17 years. Children's Fine, Heavy Overcoats for $5, 6 and 7, ages 5 to 12 years. Children's all-wool, Heavy Overcoats for $3 and 4, ages 5 to 12 years Children's Heavy Overcoats for $1, 1.50, 2 and 2.50, ages 4 to 12 years.

This is a Bargain Sale.—If you think of Buying an Overcoat this Winter, Buy it now, and save 30 to 40 per cent.

Naumkeag Clothing Company,

177 & 179 ESSEX STREET, SALEM.

Z. A. GALLUP, Manager.

LOCAL CONDENSATIONS.

Dog days, good-bye!

Put up your pickles!

Fires feel comfortable!

Election in two months!

Better put up the stove!

"Fish fries" are common!

Oysters at W. R. Austin's!

Freight traffic is increasing!

Husking parties come next!

Oyster stews are appetizing!

The peach season is waning!

Hello! Glad to see you back!

Crab apples are very plentiful!

Peanut festivals are the latest!

Dog days ended last Saturday!

The new postal card pleases all!

Save the big cucumbers for seed!

This has been a year of reunions!

Measured that big sun flower yet?

The summer of 1885 is about gone!

The season at the seashore is over!

Ah, there, waiter! oysters for two!

Little Corinne to-morrow evening!

Boys are searching for wild grapes!

The law is off on partridge shooting!

The shoe peg barberry is turning red!

The weather signal flags arrived today.

Hay fever still lingers with its victims.

Ferns and thistles are being gathered.

Now for cheap rates to the mountains.

What have you got for the cattle show?

The long evenings delight the gas man.

The days are two hours and a quarter shorter.

The new school year begins this term.

Soon the railroads change their timetables.

The leaves are turning in the low lands.

Farmers have commenced to fill their silos.

The glue factories will soon be starting.

Yellow Crawford peachers are scarce this year.

The fizz of the soda fountain is hushed.

September butter will soon be in the market.

The Almanac's autumn begins September 22.

There are still many strangers visiting in town.

We are ready to receive orders for job printing!

The new stays have been put in the flag staff.

Mr. J. B. Thomas pays a tax in Salem of $507.90.

The Peabody girl can now be seen on the street.

Coal dealers smile at a prospect of an early fall.

How do you like King Uptons' new chime whistle?

The fall overcoat this year will have a fly breast.

The stove pipe funny business will soon be in order.

Our advertisers are here with their fall announcements.

Officer Barnabee takes his vacation commencing to-day.

Give the boys the "cow pumpkins" for jack-o'-lanterns.

Even the stay-at homes went to church last Sunday.

Splendid crop reports from all sections of the country!

Miss Annie Poland has gone to Plainsville, Mass.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Fellows have been visiting in Revere.

The market price of straw hats and dusters is very low.

Mr. Charles Abbott will rusticate at North Brookfield, Mass.

Why don't the gas light company go through Central street?

You can wear the latest style overcoat with a straw hat.

Judge Luther Perkins, of Coffeeville, Kansas, is visiting in town.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Albert Gould have gone to Perkinsville, Vt.

The foundations of Baldwin's new stable are being put in.

Postage stamps have been in use in this country only 38 years.

Baked clams, green corn, sweet potatoes, lobster, cod fish.

Samuel Donnell & Son are out with a newly painted swing sign.

Streets, alleys and private premises should be cleaned up again.

Plenty of reading and a good fire are comfortable these cool nights.

The Peabody and Danvers road had a large patronage last Sunday.

People have returned and are now settling down to real existence.

The chimneys are "being topped" out on Chas. B. Farley's house.

Another telephone taken out—from the store of N. W. Edson & Co.

"Mulcahy wanted to have his say this week but was crowded out.

Mr. Thomas W. Dudley went to Jefferson with the Union Club.

Mr. A. Pindikowsky, a celebrated fresco painter, is visiting in town.

The Overseers of the Poor officially visited the Alms House yesterday.

To-morrow the Fortieth regiment will hold a reunion at the Willows.

Mr. Henry C. Hills will spend his vacation at Center Harbor, N. H.

Mr. L. W. Foan while on a recent fishing trip caught a two pound eel.

For an easy shave and stylish hair cut visit P. J. Lyons on the square.

Last Sunday was as lovely in point of weather as one ever experienced.

Mr. John Humphrey will take a business course at Bryant & Stratton's.

Mr. James Murphy and Timothy Woods have entered Boston College.

The recent heavy rains are causing the potatoes to rot in the low grounds.

Mr. John S. Rhodes has been appointed janitor of the Bowditch school.

The "nipper gang" of burglars are reported to be again at work in Essex county.

The heavy rains and building of new streets has kept the road surveyors busy.

Mr. Wm. R. Fifield is cutting meat at B. B. Humphrey's on Washington street.

Rev. Geo. Walker recently preached his ninth anniversary sermon at Danvers.

Mr. W. W. Pinder is offering the machinery in his currying shop for sale.

The cold weather last week left wilted corn and squash vines in some places.

The Board of Registrars meet tomorrow. Begins to look like election time.

Mr. R. F. Dodge has removed his office at his fish market to the front window.

A full attendance is requested at the meeting of the W. C. T. Union, Friday at 3 P. M.

Mr. Frank W. Stanley's residence on Washington street is having new gutters put on.

Weather bulletins have not been received at the post-office for several months.

Rev. Willard Spaulding had a coat returned to him that he recently left on the train.

A. E. Wells has resigned as Superintendent of the Unitarian Sabbath School.

A. B. Galloupe of this town is on a Raymond excursion to the White Mountains.

Mrs. Geo. G. Morgan and sister Miss Ruth Elliott, have gone to Halifax, N. S.

Where is the detachment of the Salvation Army which was to assail Peabody?

N. M. Quint conveyed a party of G. A. R. Veterans to the Point of Pines last week.

Col. John E. Russell declined to act as chairman of the Democratic State Convention.

There has been a big tumble in the price of whale bone. This is of interest to the ladies.

The boys have broken many of the trees in our cemeteries in the efforts to get rum cherries.

Rev. C. C. Carpenter, late of Mt. Vernon, N. H., with his family, have settled at Andover.

It is said that John B. Gough the well known lecturer will lecture at the Institute, Oct 20.

The Peabody Bicycle Club will open the rink Sept. 24th, with dancing, trick skating, etc.

Prohibition state convention at Worcester to-morrow. Peabody won't be officially represented.

The Danvers Mirror says a polo club from Peabody have been practicing at the rink in that town.

Mr. Charles L. Sanborn has entered the employ of Hollis & Co., wholesale butchers in Boston.

The Essex Co. League of Wheelmen will give $150 in prizes at the meet at Danvers Park Sept. 19.

A child recently born in this town weighed fifteen pounds and a quarter. It was of Irish parentage.

We all regret the departure of summer and know that the cold season is only a few weeks off.

The Band of Hope will meet at the W. C. T. U. rooms next Saturday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock.

Republicans and "all other voters" was the way the call reads and Faxon thinks this means him.

The police raided Patrick McCarthy on Hancock street yesterday and secured a barrel of beer.

The Lynn & Boston road carried 2006 through passengers on the Peabody branch last Sunday.

A granite stone, weighing over eleven tons, was recently loosened at Davis' ledge at South Peabody.

Warren Trask has a stalk of corn on exhibition raised at the Blaney farm. It is thirteen feet high.

Another of those foolish jumps from a train was witnessed last Thursday, at the Wallis street crossing.

Popped corn is the fashionable dish to pass company when you know they are coming for an evening.

Mr. Edgar Upton took the employes of the Standard Thermometer Works down the harbor last Saturday.

If everybody would do his best to get out of debt we should have lively times within the next thirty days.

Mr. Frank B. Trask has returned from his vacation. He has been driving through N. H. with his team.

The station at the West Peabody junction is a busy place, and depot master Plaisted is kept very busy with 48 trains a day to look after besides the postoffice and telegraphing.

Several people complained that some one in the gallery at town hall last night spit tobacco juice on those below.

Mrs. L. D. Warner and Miss Sadie Warner are visiting East Wakefield, N. H., and will visit Springvale, Me.

Improvements are being made in the house corner of Oak and Washington streets owned by Mrs. W. N. Lord.

The quarterly meeting of the Essex County S. S. Union is being held in the Universalist church, Beverly, to-day.

The very interesting continued story which we have been running for several weeks will be concluded next week.

There are one hundred and forty assemblies of the Knights of Labor in this state and three of them are in Peabody.

Mr. D. B. Lord made the connection yesterday with the main pipe on Andover street, and the new pipe on Mt. Pleasant.

Mrs. Catherine Foley, a resident of Foster Street, died last Monday at the age of 50 years. She leaves two daughters.

Mr. Andrew Nichols of Danvers has been elected a trustee of the Essex Agricultural Society from that town.

Misses Flavia M. Goodwin, Mamie Cummings, Nellie Taylor and Hamie Thompson have entered the Normal school.

Howorth's Hibernica will not play in this town at present. They had engaged the Town Hall for Saturday evening.

With the exception of Rev. W. G. Sperry, it is expected that our pastors will occupy their own pulpits next Sunday.

Pumpkin and squash pies are beginning to ripen and ere long can be taken out of the oven and placed on a table to cool.

Applications for naturalization papers must be made immediately, to enable the person naturalized to vote at the Fall election.

A young son of John Laughlin, who used to keep a wood yard, was recently kicked by a horse and had his collar bone dislocated.

Members of Emerald Court C. O. F. visited Bass River Lodge of Beverly last Thursday evening, and passed a pleasant evening.

It is reported that Mr. James Buxton, believing it is not "good for man to live alone," is again to launch on the matrimonial sea.

Mrs. George A. Osborne and Miss Fannie and Messrs. George and Alfred Osborne, are expected home from Europe this week.

Parents ought to have respect enough for themselves and their children to teach them better than steal their neighbors' fruit.

Forty-nine years ago last Thursday, says an old citizen, the ground was white with frost so heavy that it resembled a fall of snow.

The radiators in some of the rooms in the Center school have been taken out and the steam pipes will be extended around the rooms.

A man named Lucy had his hand badly injured yesterday while under the influenec of the ardent. He couldn't tell how it happened.

Messrs. M. F. Collins and Daniel J. O'Connor were chosen deputies at the Essex County C. T. A. Societies in convention at Lynn yesterday.

Loud talk and a beating of gongs never yet won a battle. Open, manly warfare is always preferable to the sneaking, hypocritical sort.

In the police Court in Salem, last Thursday, Christopher Campbell, charged with keeping liquor with intent to sell, was discharged.

There will be a meeting of applicants for naturalization in the Forresters' hall, over Warren Trask's provision store, at 7.30, Thursday evening.

It is queer that with all the thieving from orchards and melon patches that none of the offenders have been invited to settle with Judge Merriil.

Mr. Thomas C. Durkey of West Peabody has been raising large sun flowers. One measured 15 feet in height and weighed 100 pounds.

Now is the time to think of an overcoat. Edward C. Almy & Co. have a stock of light and heavy goods which are made up well for young and old.

Frank Dexter, formerly of this town, made a flying visit here on business last Friday. He is now head bookkeeper for a large Philadelphia firm.

Mr. Charles C. Felton of this town has recently patented a "Napkin Supporter." It is quite novel and convenient, being made from metal and nickel plated.

Mr. J. B. Newhall, the road surveyor, has been building new gutters along side the road, and the winter freshets will be more easily taken care of.

It is reported that Mr. Thomas H. McGrath, late of the Reporter, in company with Mr. John Regan of the Salem Register, will start a job office in Salem.

Rev. Mr. Eddy, of Beverly, preached at the South church last Sunday; J. Brainard Wilson at the Baptist, and Rev. Mr. Stewart of Lynn, at the Unitarian.

A number of persons visited Buxton's Hill last Sunday. From there our enterprising town looks like a picturesque panoramic view as it stretches in each direction.

The steamer Empire State made its last trip on Thursday, closing a most successful season. A number of Peabody people enjoyed the sail to Provincetown.

The National Party, consisting of reformers, Greenbackers, Mugwumpocrats and Independents, generally, will hold a State convention in Boston the last of September.

Last Saturday a boy named McCarthy jumped from the 2 o'clock train for Boston just below the station, and badly cut his knee pan. Dr. Weston attended him.

We learn that arrangements have been made by Webber, of Lynn, who was recently burned out, to have some of his stock finished at the factory of Peter Sim & Sons.

Janitor Patterson caught a number of hoodlums at the show last night who had gained an entrance through the stage door. They were quickly bounced.

At the Police Court in Salem, Monday, the will of the late Ruth A. Goldthwait was proved, and an inventory of the estate of Mary Putnam filed for $5391.75.

Howlett, the last of the young burglars to be caught, was brought before Judge Merrill Monday afternoon and sentenced to the Reformatory at Concord for two years.

Mrs. M. O. Stevens read a biographical sketch at Boston last Wednesday, of the life of Wm. Poole, of Chelsea, an old member of the Massachusetts Temperance Alliance.

Rev. W. G. Sperry, of Peabody, who is a graduate of the Andover Theological Seminary in this place is stopping in town, says the Andover correspondent of the Essex Eagle.

There should be something done to prevent the driving of horses on the concrete side walks. A resident on Washington street had his badly cut recently by a horse's shoes.

The Globe had a good picture of "Jack Burnham" last Friday morning. Mr. Burnham formerly lived on Tremont street, in this town, and is now a champion tricycle rider.

Musical Notes on page 3 are unusually full and interesting this week. There is also much local and general news on this same page, besides what is given on the regular local page.

A person while walking on Endicott street near the railroad track last Saturday, picked up a pair of ear rings with a stone setting. They were attached to a card and had never been worn.

In conversation with a prominen hotel man in Boston recently he said that Mr. J. B. Thomas would shortly remodel the old hotel building in this town and make a first class house of it.

This is a damp season; the amount of rain fall in the month of August, for the past five years, in inches and decimals, is as follows: 1881, 1.77; 1882, 1.62; 1883, 49; 1884, 4.96; 1885, 6.40.

The Secretary of the New England Relief Association was in town last Thursday, and paid Mrs. Joseph Moore $2000, the amount of her husband's insurance. The check had been drawn in her favor, some time ago, but a little technical point in regard to her late husband's sickness had to be settled before it was paid.

The School committee held a meeting last Friday and voted to enforce the state law in regard to vaccination. Miss Nellie M. Boynton was transferred from the Center to the Endicott school.

By the prompt efforts of Mr. Maurice Sullivan, flag man on the South Reading branch, a woman was saved from instant death last Thursday. She was attempting to cross in front of a train.

The shipments of leather from Peabody and Salem for the week ending Sept. 5 were 4806 rolls, 1395 sides, 176 bags, 96 bundles, 28 barrels, 8 bales of leather, 89 rolls, 71 bundles, 13 casks and 3 bales of skins.

Rev. W. P. Ray of Salem will lecture in the rooms of the Women's Chr istian Temperance Union, Thursday evening. Subject,—"How to receive power from on high." A cordial invitation is extended to all.

It is a gratifying fact to know that our town contains no pest holes. The work performed by our Board of Health early in the season relieves us of any fear of a contagious or malignant disease taking root.

Mr. David T. Winter will superintend the manufacture of the new leather measuring machines for the Union leather measuring machine Co. They will occupy his old factory in the Wheeler building.

Some foolish girls cut the fibers between the ring and little fingers so as to stretch an octave better in their piano playing. The operation gives a longer stretch, but the little finger thus isolated usually loses strength.

Mr. Samuel Trask has had a number of iron hitching posts placed in front of his property on Walnut street. They are of an original design, made of solid iron, with iron loops above with rings for hitching.

An agent of the State Board of Education is soon to visit every school in the state, which is another scheme of that veteran educational commission humbug, to keep this expensive force busy at the state's expense.

It is said that the gauge of the new piece of track laid by the Lynn & Boston horse railroad on the square is too narrow and will have to be relaid before winter, as the wheels need more play when there is ice on the track.

Mr. J. S. Murphy played Kerry Gow to a large audience at town hall last evening. The company was a good one and was heartily received. The old trouble of not being able to hear was a general complaint.

We call attention to the professional card of Theodore M. Osborne, in another column. Mr. Osborne is no longer connected with E. P. Brown, and has resumed the independent practice of his profession in Salem and Boston.

Notwithstanding the cold, damp weather there are seventy-five families still occupying cottages at Asbury Grove. Those who waited "till the clouds rolled by" are enjoying the pleasantest part of the season.

The Baptist parsonage society have taken the agency for Gen. Grant's new book. Mr. Frank Wiggin of Provincetown, who commenced the canvass, has been obliged to return to his school being principal of the high school there.

The weather seems to have gone mad. With one wild jump it plunges from the torrid heighth of summer to the frigid depths of winter. Twenty degrees in twenty minutes is rather lively work for the ordinary thermometer.

As a meeting of the school committee last night, Mr. Thomas Carroll and Dr. H. K. Foster were appointed a sub-committee for the new Endicott school. They received a notification from the building committee turning over the new school-house to them.

The semi-annual meeting of the St. John's C. T. A. Society was held last Wednesday evening and the following officers elected:—President, James A. Buckley; Vice President, John J. O'Brien; Recording Secretary, James E. Ryan; Corresponding Secretary, Dennis P. Gill; Treasurer, John Daley; Collector, Michael T. Ray; Librarian, William Russell. Board of Directors—John F. Duffy, John N. Russell, Philip H. Coleman, James F. Fennelly and Charles J. Houghton. Board of Investigation—Timothy Cunningham and Dennis F. Neenan.

Poet's Corner.

Necessity.

Gaunt-faced and hungry-eyed she waits,
This sombre warder of our fates.
Forever sleepless, while we sleep,
And silent, while we watch and weep.

Sometimes, beguiled by smiling skies
And wooing winds, we shut our eyes,
Forgetting for a little space
That tireless, unforgetting face.

Or, stirred as stirs the sap in spring
By nature's force, we laugh and sing,
Or run to pass that waiting shape
With flying footsteps of escape.

But where we run she leads the way,
She goes before us night and day,
No flying footsteps can escape,
By any path that sombre shape.

Always she waits with whip and spur
To urge us on if we demur;
With bitter breath we call her "foe,"
As driven thus we rise and go.

The roads we follow wind and twist,
Our eyes grow blind with blinding mist,
Blown down to us as we ascend
The upland heights that near the end.

And at the end—" Where is our foe?
Where hideth she?" we cry—and lo,
Through breaking mist an angel's face
Looks out upon us from her place!

Nora Perry, in the Congregationalist

The Old Mill.

Here from the brow of the hill I look
Through a lattice of boughs and leaves
On the old gray mill, with its gambrel roof;
And the moss on its rotting eaves.
I hear the clatter that jars its walls,
And the rushing waters sound;
And I see the black floats rise and fall
As the wheel goes slowly round.

rode there often when I was young,
With my grist on the horse before,
And talked with Nellie, the miller's girl,
As I waited my turn at the door.
And while she tossed her ringlets brown,
And flirted and chatted so free,
The wheel might stop or the wheel might go—
It was all the same to me.

'Tis twenty years since last I stood
On the spot where I stand to-day,
And Nellie is wed and the miller is dead,
And the mill and I are gray.
But both, till we fall into ruin and wreck,
To our fortune of toil are bound,
And the man goes and the stream flows,
And the wheel moves slowly round.

Thomas Dunn English in the Springfield Republican.

The Love of God.

BY " SAXE HOLM."

Like a cradle, rocking, rocking,
Silent, peaceful, to and fro,
Like a mother's sweet looks dropping
On the little face below,
Hangs the green earth, swinging, turning,
Jarless, noiseless, safe and slow;
Falls the light of God's face bending
Down, and watching us below.

And as feeble babes that suffer,
Toss and cry, and will not rest,
Are the ones the tender mother
Holds the closest, loves the best,
So when we are weak and wretched,
By our sins weighed down, distressed,
Then it is God's greatest patience
Holds us closest, loves us best.

Oh, great heart of God! whose loving Cannot hindered be nor crossed;
Will not weary, will not even
In our death itself be lost;
Love divine! of such great loving
Only mothers know the cost—
Cost of love, with all love passing,
Gave a son to save the lost.

Homesick Days.

The strange, sweet days are here again,
The happy, mournful days;
The songs which tremble on our lips
Are half complaint, half praise.

A sadness in the softer air,
And in the tenderer sky;
A touch of heartache everywhere;
We weep, yet know not why.

The wind is full of memories;
It whispers low and clear
n secret echoes of the past
And brings the dead more near.

The breath of budded hyacinths
Is heavy in the breeze;
The peach tree twigs are strung with pink
And murmurous with bees.

Swing, robin, on the budded sprays,
And sing your blithest tune;
Help us across these homesick days
Into the joys of June.

Elizabeth Akers Allen.

In many localities Hood's Sarsaparilla is in such general demand that it is the recognized family medicine. People write that "the whole neighborhood is taking it," etc. Particularly is this true of Lowell, Mass., where it is made, and where more of Hood's Sarsaparilla is sold than of any other sarsaparilla or blood purifier. It is the great remedy for debility, scrofula, dyspepsia, biliousness, or any disease caused by impure state or low condition of the blood. Give it a trial.

A PARIS MYSTERY.

meet Sapinaud in the Salle des Pas-Perdus; he at once unrobed, and we hastened to the prefecture.

There we found M. Blery, in his napless hat and shabby gray overcoat, just as he had appeared in Rome, and who could tell how many other European capitals? The room in which he received us was small, but well lighted; its furniture consisted of two chairs and a bureau in common pine wood; on the bureau lay an almanac, a Paris Directory and a Universal Guide to all the railways of the world. M. Blery gave each of us a chair, and himself remained standing with his back to the light.

"Messieurs," he said, "I am charmed to have the honor of this visit. I rush at once into the middle of things. In the conversation which I had with M. Marsal 15 days ago, there was one point we did not discuss—namely, the apparent want of motive for the crime. I presume, however, that Monsieur, in his very intelligent examination of the case, did not fail to give this point his attention?"

"No," I said; "I considered the point, and came to a certain conclusion."

"We may suppose," said M. Blery, "that the assassin of Meissner had one of two objects in view—either revenge or plunder. If it was simply revenge, why did he ransack the strong boxes and cabinets? If it was plunder, why did he leave so much portable booty behind? The Judge—again fitting the facts into the theory—accounted for this by the eccentricity, amounting to insanity, of the criminal, terror-stricken by his crime. How, Monsieur, do you account for it?"

"I account for it," I said, "in quite another way. I account for it by the conjecture of a search on the part of the assassin; and, since all the lock-fast places were not opened, by a search for a special object."

"Exactly," said M. Blery; "the conclusion to which any unbiased mind, possessing sufficient acuteness, would naturally come. What were the judge's words? 'This,' he said, 'is the obscure point of the case, but the difficulty here tells as forcibly against any other theory of the crime as against the theory that Girard is the guilty person.' A somewhat rash assertion, Monsieur the Judge! The circumstances certainly make against his theory, but they confirm ours. Yes, search for a special object, that is it! And the special object?"

"A compromising paper," suggested Sapinaud, "left in Meissner's hands by one of his clients."

"An excellent hypothesis," said Blery; "but here, fortunately, we can dispense with hypotheses; we have facts, as I shall show you. Since leaving M. Marsal, a fortnight ago, I have been in London, Brussels and Rome. I have been in search of the missing dagger. I started here in Paris, at the Palais Royal. I found it correct, as did my friend Py, that there was now no dealer in curiosities there to whom Girard had sold his weapon. But I found that two years ago there was a dealer in curiosities there; a man who had fled by night, carrying the valuable part of his stock in trade with him, and leaving his rent unpaid. I traced this man to London; with the help of my friend Briggs, of Scotland Yard, I find him. He has by this time sold the dagger, but he names the purchaser. I go to the purchaser, but he also has parted with it—in brief, I followed this dagger to Brussels, I followed it to Rome. In that city it has come into the possession of a French artist, who is by no means well off. I tell him for what purpose I require the dagger; he agrees to sell it. It is then in pledge; we go to the pawnshop, we redeem it—and I leave Rome with it in my keeping. Here, Messieurs, is the dagger." M. Blery laid it on the bureau before us. "Observe the one word written beside the flower; compare it with these characters, traced by M. Beauvais, and which stand for the word 'sorrow'—you see they are the same. Thus the conjecture of M. Marsal is proved to be perfectly correct; this is the missing dagger of the three—the one given by Meissner to his nephew two years ago."

I could not look without emotion on this weapon, which had so nearly proved fatal to my friend, and which now had been found just in time to save him.

"So much for the dagger," continued M. Blery, "now for the key." He touched a hand-bell on the mantelpiece; the door opened and a little man, red-haired, pock-marked, and with furtive eyes, appeared.

"This, Messieurs, is Pilotin," observed M. Blery, with the air of one exhibiting an inferior animal, "Pilotin, one of my aides. You will tell these gentlemen, Pilotin, what were the instructions I gave you before I left for London."

"Monsieur gave me this key," said Piloton, laying it beside the dagger on the bureau. "Monsieur told me he had reason to believe that a key had been fabricated from this as a model, about two months ago, by a locksmith living within a certain radius of the Passage de Mazarin. Monsieur also gave me a description of the person who had ordered the key to be fabricated, and directed me to discover the locksmith."

"And you made inquiries?" prompted Blery, whose aide spoke in a monotonous voice, with the inflection of one who repeats a lesson by rote.

"I begin by consulting the directory and visiting all the locksmiths within the radius. No result. I widen my circle; still no result. I begin again by inquiries into the private life of certain locksmiths, who are in the habit of doing work at home; still there is no clew. I begin to despair of satisfying Monsieur, when I make a lucky find. Passing along the Rue St. Louis I observe a small shop whose shutters are closed; its exterior is freshly painted; above the door is a sign: 'L. Benoit, Locksmith.' I make inquiries. I learn from the neighbors that Benoit is a young man, very sober, very industrious, who came from Limoges to Paris about three months ago and opened this shop. About a fortnight ago he had injured his hand with one of his tools, and had been taken to the Hotel Dieu for proper treatment. I conjecture that this may be our man; the fact of his shop being so recently opened accounts for his name not being in the directory. I go to the Hotel Dieu, but am told that I cannot see him; he is suffering from blood poisoning and is very ill. I ask who is the doctor attending him, and am informed that it is the Doctor de Bourdon. M. de Bourdon, as Messieurs will remember, was one of the medical witnesses at the inquiry into the murder of Meissner. I see him; I tell him that my mission is connected with the affair of the Passage de Mazarin. M. de Bourdon takes an interest in that affair; he allows me to see his patient. This is Benoit's story: About a month after he had opened his shop—that is, about two months ago—on a dark and wet night, a gentleman drove up to his door in a cab and came into his shop. The gentleman asked him whether he could, in less than an hour, fabricate a key exactly like one which he showed him. The key was of simple construction. Benoit said, 'Yes, easily;' and at once went to work. The gentleman waited. He was a foreigner, of that Benoit is certain, but cannot guess the country to which he belonged. He was in evening dress, and wore a fur cloak. The locksmith noticed specially his dark eyes and sallow complexion; could indentify the stranger if he met him again, especially if he heard him speak. When Benoit had finished the key, which he did in half an hour, the stranger gave him three francs, the sum asked, and at once drove away. I showed Benoit the key of Meissner's room, now lying on that bureau; he declared it to be the same size and shape as the one which had served him for a model."

Here Pilotin stopped, as if he had run down.

"Is this Benoit available as a witness?" asked Sapinaud, who like myself had listened with close attention to Pilotin's narrative.

"M. de Bourdon says that he will live," answered Pilotin tersely.

"Messieurs," said Blery, "you have heard; now you shall see—Pilotin, fetch a cab. We are on the eve of a discovery."

We took our seats in the conveyance without asking any questions. Sapinaud and I exchanged a glance which said, Let us leave the revelation to M. Blery; he has an eye for dramatic effects.

Pilotin mounted on the box; I noticed that he carried a short crowbar. The coachman had evidently received his directions beforehand. He drove us up the steep, narrow Rue St. Jacques, into the very heart of the Latin Quarter. He stopped at last where the Rue St. Jacques intersects the Rue Cujas, at a pork-butcher's shop, with the name Pajol over the door. Pilotin alighted, and held open the door of the cab while we got out.

M. Blery entered the pork butcher's shop and presently reappeared with M. Pajol, fat faced and blue aproned.

"Messieurs," said Blery, "M. Pajol will now take us to the room of that tenant of his who, since Christmas Day, has disappeared."

M. Pajol bowed, smiled blandly, rubbed his fat hands, and led us up the dark, moldering staircase.

When we had reached the sixth story Sapinaud and I paused to take breath. "A little higher, Messieurs, if you please!" said M. Blery. We toiled up with many stumblings after the detectives, until we reached the garrets, in the very top of the roof. The stairway leading to these was little better than a ladder, where the hands had to assist the feet of the climber.

"This is the door," said Pajol.

Pilotin took a big bunch of keys from his pocket and tried them one after another; none fitted.

"No matter!" said Blery. "See, place the crowbar here—now, a little force—and, presto, we have the door opened!"

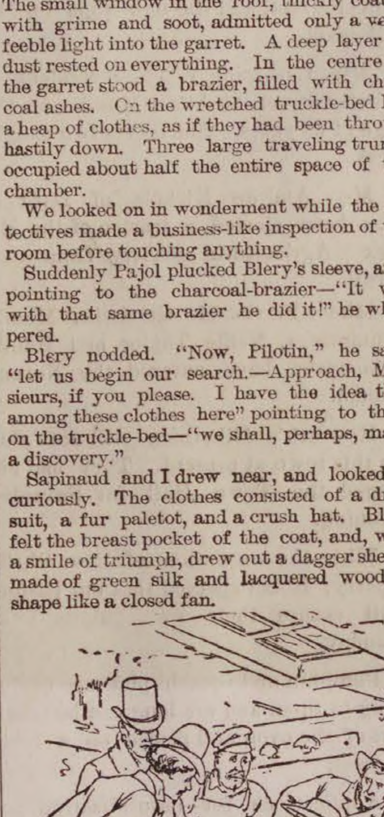
Sapinaud and I followed the detectives into the room, Pajol bringing up the rear. The spectacle which met our eyes was a strange one. The small window in the roof, thickly coated with grime and soot, admitted only a very feeble light into the garret. A deep layer of dust rested on everything. In the centre of the garret stood a brazier, filled with charcoal ashes. On the wretched truckle-bed lay a heap of clothes, as if they had been thrown hastily down. Three large traveling trunks occupied about half the entire space of the chamber.

We looked on in wonderment while the detectives made a business-like inspection of the room before touching anything.

Suddenly Pajol plucked Blery's sleeve, and, pointing to the charcoal-brazier—"It was with that same brazier he did it!" he whispered.

Blery nodded. "Now, Pilotin," he said, "let us begin our search.—Approach, Messieurs, if you please. I have the idea that among these clothes here" pointing to those on the truckle-bed—"we shall, perhaps, make a discovery."

Sapinaud and I drew near, and looked on curiously. The clothes consisted of a dress suit, a fur paletot, and a crush hat. Blery felt the breast pocket of the coat, and, with a smile of triumph, drew out a dagger sheath made of green silk and lacquered wood, in shape like a closed fan.



Drew out a dagger sheath made of green silk and lacquered wood.

"You have seen something like this before, Messieurs, is it not so?" said the detective. "And this—this also you will recognize?"—and he showed us a key which he had found in another pocket. An exclamation—a significant "Ah!"—escaped from Sapinaud and myself at the same moment. M. Blery smiled again.

Pilotin next opened the traveling-trunks. They were found to contain clothes for the most part; among which were one or two dresses, evidently Oriental. There were also a number of letters, some in our own language, some in a foreign character, which I easily recognized as Japanese.

Still M. Blery had not spoken a word of explanation. He seemed to enjoy onr complete mystification.

"Pilotin," he said at last, when his search was finished, "you will remain here on guard until you are relieved. You will allow no one to enter without a written order from Monsieur the Prefect. Messieurs, if you will return with me to the prefecture, I shall have the pleasure of explaining to you what you have seen here. That will be a more convenient place for doing so."

Leaving M. Pajol's, we drove back to the Prefecture, where M. Blery resumed his narrative.

"Monsieur," he said to me, "will remember the surmise he had formed—or, as I prefer to call it, the idea—that the assassin of Meissner, who was certainly a foreigner, may possibly have been a Japanese. I decided on following up this clew."

"In the lists at the prefecture I find the names of between sixty and seventy Japanese returned by the hotel keepers and proprietors of furnished houses in Paris. About forty of these are still resident here. Over twenty have returned to their native country. The remainder are dead, and buried in Paris.

"I make special inquiries with regard to these last; it seems to me very probable that the victim of Meissner's extortions should be among them. One of the names is Sangura, a native of Yeddo, no profession, returned by Lunel, a keeper of private apartments, of the most expensive description, in the Avenue du Roi de Rome. I visit Lunel, who remembers his lodger Sangura perfectly. He had occupied for a year the finest suite of rooms on the first floor of Lunel's house. He was a Japanese of noble birth and great wealth, who intended remaining for three years in Europe. The seductions of Paris had proved too strong for M. Sangura, however; his style of living, Lunel assured me, was fabulous. He always rode out with two grooms behind him. His dinner never cost him less than two hundred francs, as he never dined alone. He would go behind the scenes of the theatres with his pockets full of jewelry. He made presents of the most splendid character; to one actress, it is said, he gave a set of diamonds worth thirty thousand francs; to another a barouche and a pair of English horses with silver-mounted harness.

"The rent was always paid to Lunel quarterly, in advance. About the end of the third quarter, Lunel's experienced eye began to see symptoms of a change in his tenant's disposition and mode of life. Sangura was no longer high-spirited and gay; there was almost continually a cloud on his face. First one of the grooms was dismissed; then the other; then the valet. Finally, the riding-horses and the cabriolet were sold. One by one Lunel began to miss from his tenant's apartment certain costly articles of jewelry, with which Sangura had decorated it when he first came. Lunel inferred that these were being sold, as the difficulties of his tenant grew more pressing. Little by little Sangura's wardrobe disappeared also—a bad sign, Lunel thought; but the fourth quarter's rent was paid, and so he was safe.

"At the end of the fourth quarter, Sangura—whose apartment was by this time stripped of everything belonging to him which had the least value—disappeared himself. Lunel never saw him again; but, about three months after, he remembers having read an account of a suicide committed somewhere in the Latin Quarter by an unknown foreigner, supposed to be a Japanese, and having fancied that this might be his former tenant.

"Lunel further hands to me a bundle of letters, which had arrived for his tenant subsequent to his disappearance. I examined these; with one exception they are the unpaid bills of M. Sangura's tradesmen. The exception is a letter addressed in a female hand; it is here—Monsieur can examine it for himself."

M. Blery, drawing out a bulky pocket-book, took from it a letter in a delicately tinted envelope, addressed in faint violet ink: "M. de Sangura, l'Avenue du Roi de Rome, 361."

I read the letter, then handed it to Sapinaud. It was as follows: "My own one, why hide thyself thus? Cans't thou think thy poverty will change me? Come to me as of old. Thine own Clotilde." The letter was dated "Rue de la Reine, 48; Wednesday morning."

"As Messieurs may suppose," continued M. Blery, "I lose no time in visiting No. 48 Rue de la Reine. At first I am refused admission; Mlle. Duchastre, the premiere danseuse at the —— Theatre—for she and no other is Clotilde—can see no one. I pencil on a card these words, 'It is the affair of the Japanese, Sangura,' and give the maid five francs to carry it up to her mistress. In two minutes I stand in the presence of the beautiful Mlle. Duchastre.

"I can easily see on the lady's face the signs of emotion. I infer at once that this has not been an ordinary acquaintance, but a case of true affection. 'Mademoiselle,' I say, with an air of deep respect, 'pardon my intrusion; but I am engaged in an inquiry into the sad end of M. de Sangura. I have found from one of your letters that you knew him, and I beg of you to give me any information you may possess as to his affairs.'

"Mlle. Duchastre seems to take a pleasure in talking to any one of her dead lover. She tells me—with real emotion, with frequent tears—this story, which I repeat to Messieurs:

"Mademoiselle had formed the acquaintance of Sangura about six months after his arrival in Paris; they soon formed a mutual attachment. The Japanese was handsome, his manners were distinguished; the courtesy of a gentleman, the generosity of a prince. His generosity, indeed, was so lavish that it eventually proved his ruin. Mademoiselle pleaded with her lover to curb his expenditure, to give up gambling and betting at Chantilly and Longchamps; it was of no avail. He persisted in loading her with costly presents; which she assured me—and I believe her—caused her more pain than pleasure to receive. The worst feature in Sangura's case, Mademoiselle informed me, was that he had gradually fallen into the power of some Jewish money-lender, who, she thought, resided on the left bank, but whose name she had never heard. As Sangura's funds diminished, this man's hold on him increased; the unfortunate Japanese grew every day moodier and more depressed. She divined that he was now living by the sale of his wardrobe and effects; but he never told her so, and she did not dare to touch on the subject.

"At an early period of their acquaintance Sangura had given her to wear, not to keep, a pearl of extraordinary size and beauty; explaining to her that this gem was the great heirloom of his house; that he, as the eldest son of his dead father, had the custody of it, and that if anything happened to it he would be dishonored in the eyes of all his relatives. There was nothing he would not give to his Clotilde, Sangura had said, except only this pearl; nevertheless, she might wear it as an ornament, since he knew that in her charge it would be safe.

"One morning Sangura rushed into her room, in a state of great agitation, and, exclaiming that he was ruined and undone, asked for the gem. His mistress gave it to him with trembling hands; he rushed out of the chamber, and Mlle. Duchastre never again saw her lover alive.

"About three months after, Mademoiselle read in the journals the report of a suicide in the Rue St. Jacques—the suicide of a young foreigner, supposed to be a Japanese. She hastened to the morgue; it was the unfortunate Sangura. He had found a last refuge in the miserable garret which Messieurs visited to-day. Too proud to return to his mistress, all his means exhausted by the rapacity of the old money-lender, he had starved there till his last sou was spent. Then one night he closed up carefully every crevice in door or window; lighted a charcoal-fire in the brazier; lay down on his wretched pallet—and, three days afterward, was found there, lying dead.

"Mlle. Duchastre caused her unhappy lover to be buried with propriety, and had a stone erected over his grave, where she still hangs wreaths of immortelles. But she had not yet heard the last of Sangura. About three months ago she was visited by a young Japanese, who introduced himself as Kiosaka, Sangura's brother. Kiosaka told her that his brother had written him of the straits into which he had fallen, asking him to leave Yeddo for Paris at the earliest opportunity, and, when there, to lose no time in visiting Mlle. Duchastre. It was from Mademoiselle that Kiosaka first heard the news of his brother's painful death; he was profoundly affected, apparently with rage as well as grief, and muttered something in his own language, Mademoiselle told me, 'with an accent which was terrible.' Shortly after he bade her farewell, and him also she has never seen again.

"I ask Mademoiselle if she has a portrait of the late M. de Sangura. Mademoiselle has; a miniature on ivory, of beautiful execution. After some hesitation she consents to lend it to me, on my swearing to return it uninjured. Taking my departure, I first show this portrait to Mouton and his daughter; they recognize it at once as that of the foreigner who had so frequently visited Meissner up to about a year ago, and whom the old money-lender had 'flayed,' to use Mouton's own term. I then proceed to the Rue St. Jacques, in order to show the portrait to the proprietor of the house where Sangura found his last lodging, and where he died. There I made a discovery, unexpected, but most important, the discovery that another Japanese, about four months ago, had rented the very garret in which Sangura destroyed himself; that he did not live there, but spent in the garret a portion of almost every day; and that he was quite a problem to Pajol, the proprietor, and to all the other tenants. But to me the point of greatest interest was this: On Christmas day the Japanese visited Pajol in his shop, and

To be continued.

Busting A Drama.

"By gum!"

Mr. and Mrs. Defoe were at home the other evening. There had been a long period of silence, when Mr. Defoe suddenly exclaimed as above.

"What is it, dear?" she responded.

"Say, we've got tired of playing games, and what do you say to private theatricals? We'll get three or four of the neighbors to join in and we'll meet at each other's houses and have regular plays."

"That will be splendid," she gasped.

"Hanged if it won't! Twenty dollars will get us all the scenery we want, and each one can furnish his own wardrobe. By gum! we've got the idea now!"

"What sort of a play could we play?" she asked as he marched up and down with tragic step.

"I have it—aha!" he exclaimed, as he stopped short. "Don't you remember I started to write a play about five years ago? I'll finish it and we'll bring it out. Now let's see how the characters run. There is Count Dumdorff, who is in love with Geraldine the fair. I'll be the count, of course, as he is the hero. He kills four men, rescues Geraldine from several dangers, and there is a good deal of kissing and love making, and a happy marriage.

"And I'll be Geraldine."

"You! Oh, you couldn't play that part. She must be young and vivacious. Let's see? I think I'll cast you for Hannah, who keeps a bakery near the park in Paris."

"I'd like to see myself playing Hannah in a bakery, I would!" she defiantly answered. "If you can play Dumdorff I know I can play Geraldine."

"Oh, no you can't, my love. You are a little stiff in the knees, and how you'd look throwing yourself in my arms as the villians pursue. I shall cast that little Widow D. for Geraldine."

"Then there'll be two Geraldines of us. If you can play Dumdorff with your lame back and catarrh I know I can play Geraldine with this little lameness in my left knee."

"Now you listen to reason, Mrs. DeFoe. You aren't built for a Geraldine; you are too fat; your feet are too large; you haven't got the voice for it."

"And you'd make a pretty Count Dumdorff, you would!" she fired back. "You want to get that crook out of your back, that bald head shingled over, your mouth repaired and your eyes touched up with a paint brush! I think I see you killing four villains—ha! ha! ha!"

"Woman, do not anger me!" he said in a deep-toned voice, as he rose up.

"And don't you anger your Geraldine, either!"

"Geraldine! Why, you don't know a sky border from a flat!"

"Dumdorff! And you don't know a skye terrier from the big fiddle in the orchestra!"

"Tis well! We'll have no playing here!

"Then you needn't! When I play Hannah in a bakery to let you hug and kiss the Widow D., or any other woman, all over the stage, you'll be three or four Count Dumdorffs!"

"I'll burn the play, jealous woman!"

"If you don't I will, vain man!"

Then they sat down, and the disturbed cat went back to her rug and her dreams.—St Paul Pioneer Press.

"A Glass of Beer" is the subject of the third in the series of articles on great American industries that Harper's Magazine is now printing, which is announced for the October number. The facts of the industry are very remarkable. It stands sixth among all industries in the United States in the amount of capital used, exceeded only by metals, cotton, woolens and worsteds, lumber and grist; and its growth is shown by the fact that whereas in 1880 the production of the United States was something over thirteen million barrels, in 1885 it was over eighteen millions. The United States stands third in the list of beer-producing countries, Great Britian at the last general estimate brewing 1,000,000,000 gallons, Germany 900,000,000, and the United States 600,000,000. The census reported 2191 breweries, employing 26,220 people who earned wages of $456.21 yearly—an average higher than in almost any other industry. The article in Harper's promises a complete description of the processes of beer making, from the raising of the hops to the barrelling and bottling, and those who indulge in malt liquors will be interested in the many varieties of beer mentioned, from the ordinary "bitter" of England and "lager," of Germany and America to the frozen beer of Tasmania and the condensed beer manufactured in Switzerland for export. The writer points out that the words "ale" and "beer" are used indiscriminately in England, but American brewers confine the word beer to lager, the product of what is known as the under fermentation process, and ale to the product of the upper fermentation process, which are carried out with different kinds of yeast and at different temperatures. The article will be fully illustrated.

MIDSUMMER BOOK SALE

— AT —

ALMY, BIGELOW & WASHBURN'S.

A SPECIAL SALE OF BOOKS

FOR TWO WEEKS ONLY.

Literally without regard to cost, the collection embracing over thirty thousand volumes of the best Fiction, Poetry, History, Biography, Travels, Wit, and Humor, etc., etc., every volume of which has been carefully selected. Here is a partial list ot Titles and Prices. Look it through, and decide candidly if you ever saw better Books advertised for anything like such prices. When, for instance,, have you ever before heard of a complete set of Dickens, Thackeray or Black selling at $5.98 a set?

	Publishers Price.	Our Price.
George Eliot's Works, 8 vols., cloth, library edition	$12.00	$4.98
George Eliot's Works, 8 vols., cloth, fine edition	12.00	5.98
George Eliot's Works, 8 vols, half calf	24.00	10 24
Guizot's History ot France, 8 vols., fine edition. half calf	32.00	21.98
Irving's Works, 10 vols., cloth,	15.00	6.98
Irving's Works, 10 vols,, half calf	30.00	12.80
Irving's Works, 3 vols., cloth	7.50	3.98
Cooper's Sea Tales, 5 vols., cloth	7.50	4.28
Cooper's Leather Stocking Tales, 5 vols., cloth	7 50	4.28
Bulwer's Novels, 13 vols.,	19.50	8.23
Dickens' Works, 15 vols., cloth	22.50	6 98
Dickens' Works, 15 vols., cloth. gilt-back edition	22.50	9.75
Dickens' Works, 15 vols., half morocco	45.00	17 70
Dickens' Works, 15 vols., halt calf	49.00	19 20
Thackeray's Works 11 v., half calf	33.00	14.08
Thackeray's Works, 11 vols,. red cloth and gilt top edition	16.50	8.88
Green's History of the English People, 4 vols.	6.00	2 98
Macaulay's History of England, 5 vols., sheep	7.50	4.98
Macaulay's History of England, 5 v.	5.00	1.48
Macaulay's History of England, 5 vols., red cloth, gilt top	6.75	4.50
Macaulay's Essays, 3 vols., cloth	3.75	1.99
Macaulay's Life and Letters	1.25	.58
McCarthy's History of Our Own Times, 2 vols.	3.00	1.58
McCarthy's History of Our Own Times, 4 vols., red cloth, gilt top	6.00	3 78
Knight's History of England, 4 v.	6.00	3 98
Shakespeare's Complete Works, 8v.	7.50	3.78
Smile's Self-Help Series. 4 vols.	6.00	3.12
Smile's Biographical Series, 3 vols.	4 50	2.18
Hume's History of England, 6 vols.	7.50	3.18
Elsie Books, 10 vols.	12.50	8.28
Gibbon's Roman Empire, 5 vols.	5.00	2.98
Gen. Lew Wallace's "Ben-Hur—A Tale of Christ."	1.50	1.38
Poems of Passion	1.50	.78
Bulwer, 25 vols., half calf	75.00	37.00
Alligator-bound Poets	4.00	1.48
French Revolution, Carlyle's, 2 vols.	3.00	1.58
E. P. Roe's Works	1.50	1.18
George Eliot's Essays	1.25	.58
Revised Edition of the Bible	1.00	.78
America Illustrated,	3.00	.98
Swift's Works, 6 vols.	7.50	4.98
Eliot, 8 vols., full alligator	24.00	14.00
Guizot's History of France, 8 vols.	20.00	13.98
"Zoroaster," F. M. Crawford's latest work	1.50	1.38
Hugo's "Les Miserables,"	1.50	1.08
Dicken's Birthday	1.50	.88
"Boots and Saddles," by Mrs. Gen. Custer	1.50	1.38
History of the United States, Frost's	1.25	.78
Poets, bound in sheep, large vols.	3 00	1.88

	Publishers Price.	Our Price.
Irving's Works, 10 vols., half morocco	30.00	11.80
Dicken's Novels, 15 vols., full alligator	45.00	24.75
Dicken's Novels, 15 vols., half alligator	37.50	18.75
Thackeray's Novels, 11 vols., halt alligator	27.50	13.75
Eliot's Novels, 8 vols., half alligator	20.00	10.28
An Echo of Passion, by G. P. Lathrop	1.25	.78
Afghanistan and the Anglo-Russian Dispute, illustrated and with maps	1.50	.78
English Classics—all in a Garden Fair, Belinda, Frankestein, Outre, Mer, Hyperion, East Lynne, Tom Brown's School Days, The Mysterious Island, Pilgrim's Progress, Imitation of Christ, and fifty others	1.00	.32
Red Line Edition of Standard Poets, Longfellow, Bryant, Whittier, Burns, Byron, Browning, Cowper, Coleridge, Dante, Eliot, Goethe, Heaven in Song, Hemans, Ingelow, Lucille, Milton, Poe, Pope, Proctor, Religious Poems, Schiller, Scott, Shakespeare, and sixty others	1.50	.59
Summer Reading — A magnificent line of Illustrated Books of Fiction, embracing all the works of the best modern authors, elegantly bound in illuminsted paper covers		.19
A selected line of the Best Works of Fiction, bound in colored cloth, with gilt titles, and embracing Her Mother's Sin and Beyond Pardon, by Bertha M. Clay; Belinda, by Rhoda Broughton; Other People's Money, by Emile Gaborion, and hosts of others	1.25	.58
A beautiful line of 12mo. Books, sumptuously bound, comprising such works as Life of Washington, Ivanhoe, Oliver Twist, Adam Bede, and fifty others	1.25	.48
Wood's Natural History, 300 Engravings	1.25	.78
Josephus' History of the Jews, bound in sheep	3.00	1.88
Gilbert edition Shakespeare, fully illustrated	5.00	2.28
Right and Wrong Uses of the Bible	1 25	.48
Popular American Dictionary	1.00	.48
Favorite Dictionary, 32,000 words	.35	.12
Spencer's Education	1.50	.58
Kimo's Model Speaker for Children	1.25	.48
Hoyle's Games	1.50	.98
Miss Parloa's Cook Book	1.25	.98
Miss Neil's Everyday Cook Book	1.25	.48
Song and Instrumental Felios	.50	.32
An elegant line of Family Bibles.
Hundreds of Humorous Books.
An endless variety of Children's Books to suit al ages.

ALMY, BIGELOW & WASHBURN.

194 Essex Street, Salem.

"CANDEE" ARCTICS
—WITH—
DOUBLE THICK BALL.

Two Years TEST.

"CANDEE" Double Wear on the Sole. Double Thick Ball.

The "CANDEE" RUBBER Co. give a better Rubber than can be obtained elsewhere for the same money, with their great improvement of the DOUBLE THICK BALL. The extra thickness of rubber right under the tread, gives DOUBLE WEAR.

Ask to see the "CANDEE" Double Thick Ball Rubbers in Boots, Arctics, Overshoes, Alaskas, &c.

A Common Sense Idea.

"CANDEE" Double Thick Ball.

SAGE & CO.,
Wholesale Agents Candee Co.,
BOSTON, MASS.

LADIES!

FOR MILLINERY, Go to Browne's.
FOR SUNSHADES, Go to Browne's.
FOR KID GLOVES, Go to Browne's.
FOR SILK GLOVES, Go to Browne's.
FOR INFANTS' CAPS, Go to Browne's.
FOR COLLARS, Go to Browne's.

153 and 155 Essex St., Salem.

FOR LACE GOODS, Go to Browne's.
FOR CORSETS, Go to Browne's.
FOR RUCHINGS, Go to Browne's.
FOR TOILET ARTICLES, Go to Browne's.
FOR PERFUMERY, Go to Browne's.
FOR HAIR GOODS, Go to Browne's.

For all the Novelties of the season be sure and go to

Mrs. J. H. Browne
153 & 155 ESSEX ST.,
SALEM.

ESTIMATES CHEERFULLY GIVEN ON ALL KINDS OF PRINTING.

HALLOWELL & SMILEY,

Canned Corn Beef
AND TONGUE

For Picnics and Family Use.

MEATS AND PROVISIONS,

will always be found the best in the market at the LOWEST CASH PRICES.

Flour, Teas, Groceries, etc., at bottom prices.

Hallowell & Smiley
16 CALLER ST., PEABODY.

SMOKERS

Having secured a large lot of the very best Tobacco in the market we feel justified in saying the

MON AMI AND PLANTER

are the Best Havana Cigars in the town of Peabody. We have also the Electric, Harvard and El Sol de Cuba Brands.

FOR A 5C. SMOKE

Try the Brunette, it is a good one. The Heart's Ease, Sociable, Purity, Gun Club and E. H. S., are fine goods.

Collins' Cigar Store,
4 Allen's Block.
TOBACCO WHOLESALE & RETAIL.

NOW IS THE TIME
TO GET
ASTERS,
And all the strong and hardy plants,
AT
WARD'S GREENHOUSES,
Cor. Endicott and Warren Sts., Peabody.

AMERICAN RUDGE.

The only first-class wheel listed at a low price, fitted with all the latest improvements.
Price, 50 in., Enamel and Nickel, $107.50.
Call and Examine or send for Catalogue.
THE RUDGE. STODDARD, LOVERING & CO., 152 Congress St., Boston.

Now is the time to rid the system of humors and all Blood Impurities. Ferrated Hygienic Wine is a most effective remedy.

TWICE A DAY

HATHAWAY'S ORIGINAL

—CREAM HOME MADE BREAD—

Hot Morning and Afternoon. Best of goods in our line comprising

Crackers, Bread, Cake and Pastry,

Also rich Bride, Angel and Wedding Cake to order. Fine ornamental work for Wedding, Birthday and Party Cake a specialty.

C. F. Hathaway,

50 LOWELL ST., PEABODY.

Our Competitors Keep Their Backs Up.

Because Our Prices are so Low,

Our Stock is so Large and

Our Patronage So Great.

WE ARE NOT TO BLAME

If an undeviating adherence to Low Prices, Fine Goods and Polite Treatment have won for us the largest trade of any retail boot and shoe store in Essex county, we shall continue to offer the same genuine inducements that have won for us the victory.

TRY THE MATCHLESS BOOT.

PRE-EMINENTLY THE BEST $2 BOOT IN THE MARKET.

Superb in style, elegant in fit and exquistte in design, they are marvels of grace and beauty and it is now within the means of every lady in Peabody to wear a most attractive boot at the

MARVELOUSLY LOW PRICE OF $2.

All horse cars from Peabody pass our Market street store and by transfer our West Lynn store, and any lady can, by trading with us, save on one pair of boots more than eugh to pay for one of the most delightful rides imaginable.

WELLMAN OSBORN,

84 MARKET ST., 23 MARKET SQUARE,

LYNN, MASS.

B. A. ATKINSON & CO.,

NASSAU HALL, 827 Washington St., cor. Common Street, and 54 Shawmut Ave., cor. Pleasant Street, BOSTON, MASS.

CORNER PEARL AND MIDDLE STREETS, PORTLAND, ME.

THE LARGEST HOUSE FURNISHING STORES IN NEW ENGLAND.

102,550 square feet of floor room in the Nassau Hall Building is filled with all kinds of

USEFUL HOUSEHOLD GOODS,

which will be sold Cheap for CASH or on INSTALLMENTS.

SPECIAL ANNOUNCEMENT to the housekeepers of New England.—During the month of September we shall sell all kinds of household furnishings cheaper than ever before.

FURNITURE, CARPETS, BEDDING, STOVES, RANGES, &c.

Buy of the MANUFACTURERS and save one profit.

PARLOR FURNITURE (our own make).

Hair Cloth Parlor Suites, 7 Pieces, $35.00, $40.00, $45.00, $50.00 $60.00, $75.00, $80.00. Covered in Embossed Mohair Plush for $15 extra, 4 colors. SUITES in all grades of Mohair and Silk Plush from $50.00 to $300.00. Also Suites in Fancy Goods. We carry an enormous line of Plushes and Upholstery Goods, and any person can select their goods and have their Suites or Odd Chairs or Couches made to order, at same Prices. Continually on hand 75 to 80 different styles. Our Factory is taxed to its utmost Capacity.

CHAMBER FURNITURE.

In this department we have an Enormous Line.
Ash Chamber Suites, at $18.00, $20.00, $25.00, $30.00, $35.00 to $75.00.
Cherry Chamber Suites, at $30.00, $40.00, $50.00 to $100.00.

SOLID BLACK WALNUT CHAMBER FURNITURE.

No. 1 is a 10 Piece Marble Top Suite, nicely Moulded and Beaded, a beauty, $40.00.
No. 2 is a 10 Piece, Bevel Mirror, finely Polished, best Italian Marble Tops, and worth $65.00. Price, $50.00.
No. 3 is one of the Handsomest Suites in the market, comprising 10 pieces, large Bevel Glass, Brace Arm Chairs, large Table, and Warranted in every Particular, $60.00.
We have over 50 DIFFERENT PATTERNS, all set up on one floor to select from.

ALSO, A FULL LINE OF PINE PAINTED FURNITURE.

Mahogany Furniture.

All kinds of Odd Furniture—Odd sized Bedsteads, Cribs, Cradles, Car Beds, Cabinet Beds, Mantle Beds, Bed Lounges, Sofa Beds, Spring Beds, Feather Beds.

STOVES AND RANGES IN GREAT VARIETY.

Our stock is complete, some of the finest RANGES in America; a nice Range and Ware for $15.00, $20.00, $22.50, $25.00, $30.00 and up to $50.00.
PARLOR STOVES in great variety, from $4.00 to $40.00.

Special pains have been taken in this Department.

CARPETS.

The Finest Line in New England, comprising Marquetts, Velvets, Body Brussels, Tapestry Brussels, Ingrains and Oil Cloths in great variety of quality and price.

Tapestry Brussels,	60c to $1.00.	Ingrains,	25c to $1.25.
Body Brussels,	95 " 1.50.	Velvets,	95 " 1.50.

Mats and Rugs.—An enormous quantity just received, selling at cost to produce.
Window Shades, Lace Curtains, Drapery Curtains, Poles, and Cornices all set up.
Everything in our stock will be sold on the Installment Plan if desired. Square dealing is our motto. Come well recommended—we want honest people for our customers. Send for our circulars showing how we do the Installment Business. Your Obedient Servants,

B. A. ATKINSON & CO.,

NASSAU HALL, 827 Washington St., cor. Common Street, and 54 Shawmut Ave., cor. Pleasant Street, BOSTON, MASS.

CORNER PEARL AND MIDDLE STREETS, PORTLAND, ME.

MUSICAL NOTES.

The performances, in Salem Mechanic Hall, last week, by Bennett & Moulton's Opera Company, deserve some mention in this column. They opened their seventh season there, with a change of opera nightly, and gave the Mascot, Chimes of Normandy, Olivette, Patience, Girofle-Girofla and Pirates of Penzance. We heard them only in Patience—what, therefore, we have to say will have reference solely to that performance. The managers play this company on week stands—and at popular prices of 10, 20 and 30 cents. This price would not entitle us to consider them a first class troupe—and they are not. Yet in so many particulars are their performances equal to companies whose only merit as a first class troupe is the price charged for admission, that it would need only a little judicious pruning, and a strengthening of some of the parts, to make their performances nearly equal to the best. We have seen Patience performed many times, in much better shape than it was given Thursday, where the part of Patience was not sung as well as by Miss Irene Murphy, of this company. The choruses were well given throughout, the male choruses in particular. The Lady Angela of Miss Annie Carter was sung better than Sadie Martinot can do it, and the Bunthorne of Mr. E. P. Smith was very like that of Geo. W. Wilson, late of the Boston Museum, whom we consider the best Bunthorne on the stage. But there were defects which a little attention could easily remedy. The Grosvenor of Mr. Ben Lodge was a fine piece of acting—but it was entirely marred by his singing. His first entrance introduces him in a duet "Prithee, pretty maiden" which, when well-rendered, is one of the gems of Patience. We never heard it sung more wretchedly than Thursday evening. No one not familiar with it, could have told until the second verse what Mr. Lodge was singing. The tempo was taken decidedly too fast, and his voice seemed entirely unequal to the part. The Lady Jane of Miss Fairbairn was creditably acted and fairly sung; at the opening of the second act, when Lady Jane is supposed to play a bass viol on the stage, as her own accompaniment, it was entirely spoiled by the absence of a bass viol from the orchestra. There was a tendency among the male chorus of dragoons to over-act; particularly was this noticeable at the departure of the maidens who were supposed to be infatuated a year previous with these same dragoons, but now entirely oblivious of their charms. Instead of the usual attempt on their part to engage the attention of the maidens, the men rushed up to them, threw their arms around them, and all this without any opposition on the part of the ladies. A ridiculous thing, also, was the presentation of a bouquet to Lady Angela, at the close of a duet with Patience, which deserved an encore, but almost solely on Patience's account. It was not to be wondered at, that, later in the evening, when Patience received a hearty encore—which was well earned, that she declined to respond.

Last Sunday at St. John's Church, High Mass and Vespers began after a vacation of five weeks. The same programme of music was rendered as by the choir last Christmas, and was under the direction of Chas. A. Clark. At vespers the following music was rendered:

Dixit Dominus }
Confitibor }
Beatus Vir } Millard
Laudate Pueri }
Laudate Dominum }
Magnificat Emerig
O Salutaris, Solo
Tantum Ergo, Duet

The soloists of the choir are Miss Alice Ducey, Soprano, Miss Burke and Miss McElligott, alti, Wm. McElligott, Wm. Cass, tenori, T. F. McGrath, T. F. Horrigan, bassi. The choir numbers about twenty voices.

We were glad to see Miss Nellie M. Bartlett at her post as organist of the Universalist church, lastSunday.

Leslie H. Goldthwait, son of George A. Goldthwait, officiated as organist at the Baptist church last Sabbath, in place of Mrs. Foote. He also played there several Sabbaths before the vacation. Young Goldthwait is studying organ music at the N. E. Conservatory of Music, and gives promise of becoming a very skillful organist. He is a hard student and is deserving of success.

What is the matter with the organ at the Methodist church, when the full organ is played?

Miss Howard, of Salem, has been engaged as alto of the Unitarian church. The music last Sunday there was unusually good.

Manager Rock, of Lynn, has secured the services of Mme. Nevada, for an appearance in his Star courses the following season.

The Musical Record for September is a prime number. It contains a generous installment of new music, while its literary contents are fresh, timely and first class. Musical Record is published by Oliver Ditson & Co., Boston.

Avon D. Saxon, the popular baritone, has declined the offer made him to sing at the Bijou Theatre next season, and has in consideration a flattering professorship and church position at Syracuse, N. Y.

The Philomela ladies' quartet commenced their second season at the Claremont (N. H.) musical festival, with Miss Emma Wheeler as second soprano. They met with their usual success, and anticipate an even more profitable season than the last.

As the new season of music advances the Music Hall promenade concerts lose none of their popularity, and thoughts of their discontinuance have been for the present abandoned. The orchestra under Herr Neuendoiff improves, and the pains taken in the make-up of the programmes contributes as usual one of the most praiseworthy features of the enterprise.

The next season of the Boston Ideal Opera Company will begin in New England, October 1. Miss Ober is to be succeeded in the management by W. H. Foster. Among the members of the old company to be retained are Miss Marie Stone, Miss Lizzie Burton, Tom Karl, Herndon Morsell, Henry C. Barnabee, W. H. McDonald and Geo. Frothingham, and among its new accessions are Miss Zelie de Lussan, contralto, and Miss Agnes Huntington, soprano, of both of whom much may be looked for in the way of musical excellence—the latter to alternate with Miss Stone in leading role—and W. H. Clark, late of the Carleton opera company. The male chorus of the old company will be retained, but the female chorus will be reorganized. Mr. Studley will continue to be the musical director. The entire organization will consist of sixty-seven people. Six operas only of the old repertory will be retained, and three new ones will be added. Mr. Fred Williams, who was for a long time at the Boston Museum, is to be the new stage manager of the Ideals.

An esteemed contemporary says, in view of Miss Agnes Huntington probably accepting a position with the Boston Ideals: "It is not a great position for a young lady of such large pretensions." As Miss Huntington has refused an offer from the Metropolitan German Opera Company for next season, and has received and declined overtures from Mrs. Thurber's associates for their talked-of opera scheme, it is hardly fair to assume the lady makes any very great pretensions. Miss Huntington has absolutely no stage experience, and it may be the old story, "Better a ruler in a small country, than a subject in a larger one."—Boston Herald.

THE DRAMA.

The event of the week will be the Museum production of Augustin Daly's laughable new comedy, the most famous success of Daly's Theatre, "Love on Crutches." This amusing piece will be cast to the full strength of the Museum company, who will essay it for the first time. Owing to other engagements the comedy can have but a limited number of presentations. The assignment of parts includes Mr. Charles Barron, Miss Annie Clarke, Mrs. Vincent, J. B. Mason, Miss Blanche Thompson and all the old favorites. The London success, "Featherbrain" is in preparation.

The Boston Theatre opens its regular dramatic season with the appearance of Annie Pixley in "M'liss" the child of the Sierras. The favorite actress will have the support of an excellent company. Miss Pixley has presented this charming portraiture in Boston so many times that comment is superfluous. She will undoubtedly have large houses.

"Alone in London" is doing a big business at the Park. It could probably draw full houses a month if other engagements did not prevent. This week is the last.

"Niagara," the new play which is to present Rose Eytinge once again to a Boston audience at the close of "Alone in London" at the Park, Sept. 14, is a romantic drama by Edward Kidder, author of Nate Salsbury's very funny play, "Three of a Kind." Mr. Kidder is a Boston boy, and in "Niagara" he has aimed at a much higher standard than in any previous work. Ada Gilman, always a favorite in Boston, plays a strong Irish soubrette part, just suited to her. The cast also includes Lillian Lee, Stella Tenton, Augusta Raymond, Mattie Ferguson, Laura Le-Claire, Henry Dalton, Chas. T. Nichols, Will A. Sands, and A. J. Dunbar. Great pains have been expended on the scenic effect, and a descent of the Alps will be shown, where a tragedy is developed, which recalls to mind the thrilling narrative of Mr. Whymper and other Alpine tourists. The title "Niagara" is the name bestowed upon the Italian adventuress, Ginditta Orsini, by her American lover, on account of the furious torrent of her temper, which carries all before it. Rose Eytinge plays this part, and has a terrific death scene which has not been equalled since "Le Sphinx."

A coming attraction at the Boston Theatre will be "Around the World in Eighty Days," by the Kiralfy company. It will be presented with many grand spectacular effects, Sept. 14.

The curtain for the Hollis Street Theatre is completed. It represents a beautiful spot on Lake of Como, Italy, showing an old inn, a vineyard, a view of the lake with its surface dotted with sails, the mountains in the distance and in the foreground the harvesters gathering the ripe fruit and sorting it. It is a rich and pleasingly suggestive picture, and is warm in coloring. It will be bordered by painted draperies of gold and maroon, which, with the frame-shaped proscenium wall, will give it a very handsome effect.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. S. Knight appear this week at the Globe Theatre in "Over the Garden Wall." New people have been added to the company, and new features to the play, including all the specialties of Mr. and Mrs. Knight.

The Madison Square company will present "May Blossoms" at the Park for the week of October 5, and will be followed by Maggie Mitchell for two weeks, October 12. Hoey & Evans "Parlor Match" and Roland Reed will follow in November.

Dan Maguinnis thinks "Lord Tatters," everybody's friend, will be sure to make a hit when he appears at the Park, Sept. 21.

Mr. J. M. Hill takes possession of the Union Square Theatre in New York this week, and will present "A Moral Crime" there. This vigorous and somewhat old fashioned drama will be followed by a revival of "Romeo and Juliet," with Miss Mather and Mr. Joseph Haworth.

* * *

DESCRIPTION OF THE NEW PULLMAN PALACE CAR TICINUS.—Never was there a finer Pullman car in Boston than the Ticinus, now standing on the tracks at the New York & New England depot. It was built for this road, and has just arrived from the works at Chicago. The most noticeable improvement over previous cars is the style of decoration, which is beautiful as well as elegant. Bronzed plush, embossed plush and hand-painted flowers, and finely selected mahogany are substituted for marquetry, with very pleasant effect. A novelty that will be most agreeable to long-distance travellers is the extra high seats coming up so that the lazy man can lounge on them with more comfort than on his softest chair at home. The seat coverings are in bronze gold instead of the usual maroon color. The drawing room is very sumptuously decorated and arranged with a novel feature in the sliding cylinder top to the washstand, which can be opened and closed at will, and when not in use as a lavatory forms a handsome cabinet. The smoking room is finished in English oak with richly-embossed leather trimmings. The doors of both the drawing room and smoking room are fitted with bevelled plate glass of unique design. The arrangement of the wash-stand at the gentlemen's end of the car is also changed from the usual plan. The general effect is striking and luxurious, and at the same time is harmonious and in good taste. A magnificent portiere of sky-blue velvet plush adds greatly to the general effect. The car has the usual buffet and electric bells at each berth to call the porter. It has ten sections, besides a drawing room and smoking room, is 65 feet long and rides on the standard Pullman trucks. It will run regularly on the New York & New England's Washington express, which leaves this city every night at 6.30 o'clock, arriving in Philadelphia at 6.50 a. m. the next day, Baltimore at 9.50 and Washington at 10.50 o'clock. This route which was establshed in 1876, is the shortest and most popular out of Boston.

* * *

Peabody is one of the towns designated for special postal delivery, beginning Oct. 1st. A description of the stamp is as follows: "A line engraved on steel, oblong in form, dimensions 1 3-16 by 1 7-16 inches, color dark blue. Design—On the left an arched panel, bearing the figures of a small messenger boy on the run, and surrounded by the words, "United States;" on the right an oblong tablet ornamented with a wreath of oak and laurel surrounding the words "Secures immediate delivery at a special delivery office;" across the top of the tablet is the legend, "Special postal delivery," and at the bottom the words, "Ten cents;" separated by a small shield bearing the numerical "10." A list of special delivery offices will be furnished to postmasters, and must be conspicuously posted in the post-office, where it will readily attract public attention. A circular by the postmaster general directs postmasters to employ the requisite number of messenger boys to insure prompt delivery—and provides that substitute letter carriers may be employed as messengers and receive the same compensation as other messengers, but in no case shall the compensation paid to any one person exceed thirty dollars per month. Letters will be thus delivered in Peabody, within a radius of one mile of the post-office.

Thunder showers don't affect the electric time wires.

The county commissioner, Thursday, visited several farms in Ipswich that had been proposed for the truant school. Among them the Town farm, 350 acres; the Sutton farm, 75 acres; and the Governor's—originally owned by Gov. Winthrop, 500 acres, extending five miles on the ocean shore. They have other places to examine before they decide; but it is probable that they will purchase and be ready to open the institution early in the coming year. The petitioners for the school are from a large number of towns, in all parts of the county, with a preponderance of population at the southend.—Valley Visitor.

Secretary Bayard tells the Austrian government that the United States make no distinction on account of race or religion, in sending ministers to foreign courts; and Secretary Endicott says that "colored soldiers hold the same status in the army of the United States as any other troops of the line." Those things read well, but neither Bayard or Endicott are greater than the Democratic party and they don't believe in it.

Charles Kerans of the firm of Plumer & Kerans at the Port, lost a gold watch and chain last Saturday, which were found and returned by J. L. Bacon. The time-piece jumped from Mr. Kerans' pocket as he alighted from his team in front of Beckford's store, at about 12 o'clock, and was picked up by Mr. Bacon at half past one, having lain in the street all that time without injury. $25 was the generous sum given the finder by Mr. Kerans.—Mirror.

This will be Corinne's last season on the stage at present. All arrangements have been made for her to go to Europe in June, and begin her serious studies in both voice and dramatic action. She cannot fail to succeed in the latter, it seems to me, as her manner is graceful, and her action very piquant at times. I think she will return in two or three years quite a cultured juvenile actress. She has the best wishes of everybody here.—Earl Marble in New York Mirror.

One of the greatest consolations of the heated term is to discover that it is much hotter in some other parts of the country. Perhaps one of the greatest torments of sheol will be the practical impossibility of relieving the fevered imagination by any comparison of this kind.

One of the many single-day round trips out of Boston that prove interesting to everybody is that to the Hoosac Tunnel and North Adams, by way of the Fitchburg railroad.. Three hours may be profitably passed in sight-seeing and dining at the famous Wilson house, and the city is reached at 9.55 P. M.

REJOICINGS DOWN SOUTH.—Lexington, Ky. Mr. John T. Bruce, of the United States Revenue Collector's Office, informed an editor of the Daily Press, of this city, that for seven years he suffered terribly from rheumatism in his ankle, which most of the time was swollen to two or three times its natural size, and was so painful that he could not put his foot to the ground. After trying everything he could think of without obtaining relief, he at ten o'clock one morning applied St. Jacobs Oil, and shortly afterwards made two further applications. At three o'clock that afternoon the pain was gone; the swelling also disappeared, and the cure was as permanent as it was quick.

The September number of the Young Ladies Journal has reached us and is more than full of interesting things for the ladies. The magazine is full of fashions, interesting novelties and fancy work, and besides this, is the mammoth fashion sheet, the triple plate of Paris fashions showing all the latest fashions in colored plates for ladies and children. And also designs in colors for "presents for gentlemen" including a shaving tidy, tobacco pouches and letter case in embroidery. Get a copy this month, and you will not be without it.

A scientist observes that "a man in full, healthy exercise requires about one-half pound of meat, nineteen ounces of bread and three ounces of butter per day." Some men seem to require a stiff drink of whiskey before breakfast and a lecture from their wives before going to bed.

Patronize the dealer who wants your trade enough to ask for it, through your local paper. You will find by experience that you can do better with them every time. The man who asks for your trade, is the man who will deal with you so that he may retain your patronage when once you call on him.

For Rheumatism, Lumbago, Neuralgia Cramp and colic, there is no remedy superior to the genuine Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil.

The Scientific American says: "Breakfast should not be a heavy meal and hot food should be used in moderation. Hot tea and coffee liberally partaken of prevent one from feeling comfortable all day. Radishes ice cold, oatmeal, crackers and milk, a dainty slice of cold lamb, fresh fruit and cold asparagus, presents a breakfast menu that makes hot weather a luxury."

Scrofula diseases manifest the mselve in the warm weather. Hood's Sarsaparilla cleanses the blood, and removes every taint of scrofula.

ROYAL

FULL WEIGHT
ROYAL BAKING POWDER
ROYAL
BAKING POWDER

BAKING POWDER

Absolutely Pure.

This powder never varies. A marvel of purity, strength and wholesomeness. More economical than the ordinary kinds, and cannot be sold in competition with the multitude of low test, short weight, alum or phosphate powders. Sold only in cans. ROYAL BAKING POWDER Co., 106 Wall street, N. Y.
2dв

AGENT,

— FOR —

CHICKERING & SONS' PIANOS.

Four fine New Pianos for sale very low for Cash.

A large stock of Organs and Musical Merchandise.

E. V. EMILIO'S,

MUSIC STORE.

287 ESSEX ST.,

SALEM.

B. F. STEVENS,

JEWELER & STATIONER.

Watches, Clocks and Jewelry cleaned and repaired.

Just received a fine stock of musical instruments. The best

Violin, Banjo and Guitar Strings
Accordions, Banjos,
Violins, Harmonicas,
Harps, Clappers, Bows,
Drums, Fifes, Flutes, Piccolos
etc., etc.

Agent for E. V. Emilio, also agent for Merriam & Co., wood and coal.
nov 19—tf PR

NOW FOR

Base Ball,

and the place to get

BASE BALLS

AND BATS

at the lowest prices is of

DANIEL J. SWEENEY

Next to the Old Hotel on the Square.

Here can also be found a good assortment of

Fruit,
Confectionery,
Cigars and
Tobacco.

Principee, Electric,
Serenader, Leader,

5 CENTS.

Harvard and Boat Club,

10 CENTS.

DANIEL J. SWEENEY.

RATES REDUCED.

MAPLE HOUSE,

JEFFERSON, N. H.

The proprietors having in view that the great land slide which occurred on July 10th, 1885, will attract a great many people to Jefferson, during September and October, offer to entertain people during that time at from

$7.00 to 8.00 per week,

in all parts of the house. Send for descriptive circular.

Coaches connect with all trains at Jefferson Station.

Open till Nov. 1st.

MRS. M. H. BOWLES & SON.

A PRIZE Send six cents for postage, and receive free, a costly box of goods which will help you to more money right away than anything else in this world. All, of either sex, succeed from first hour. The broad road to fortune opens before the workers, absolutely sure, At once address, TRUE & Co., Augusta, Me.

PEOPLE'S POPULAR PRICES
— FOR —
BOOTS and SHOES.

Misses' Grain Button, 11 to 2,	$ .75
Children's Lace School Shoes, 7 to 11,	.50
" Spring Heel Button,	.75
Ladies' Serge Buskins,	.25
" Kid Opera Slippers,	.50
" Glove Top Kid Foxed Button,	1.25
" Serge Congress,	.75
" Grain Button,	1.25
Men's Button Boots, sewed,	1.50
" Kip Bals, Tap Sole,	1.25
" Slippers,	.40
" Fine Calf Button, Bals & Cong.	2.50
Boy's Bals and Congress,	1.00
" Button, sewed, 1 to 5 1-2,	1.25
Men's Kip Plow Shoes, Batchelder's best,	1.50

Rubber Goods at Lowest Prices.

All our Low Cut Shoes will be sold at cost.

Cheap and Reliable Goods make Cheerful Buyers.

We invite the attention of all those to whom

"Money is an Object!"

to the extremely low prices we have placed on our really first-class and desirable grades of goods.

NUGENT BROS.
PEABODY SQUARE.

The Peabody Press.

JOHN P. FERNALD ALBERT VITTUM,
Editors and Publishers.

THE STATEMENT which we published last week, giving the operations of the N. E. Telephone Co., for the six months ending July 1, '85, does not tally well with the statements made here and elsewhere by Mr. Denver, the new Assistant Manager of the Company. The net earnings of the company were for this six months $138,590.34. Out of this had been paid for construction, $46,352.87, leaving a surplus of $92,237.47. And yet it is said the exchanges do not pay, and that the company are unable to pay a dividend. These figures are made by the N. E. Company themselves and show that the business does pay. Some exchanges may not pay—but that is a small matter compared with the sum total. It is true no dividends have been declared. Why?

The secret lies in the operations of the American Bell Telephone Co. This company in the first place manufacture the telephones at a cost of $3.42, renting them to the New England at $14.00. This includes the transmitter, and this sum is a portion of the annual income received by the American Bell for these telephones. At the outset they leased these instruments to any parties who would do business with them—that is, form a company. The consequence was we had different companies in every part of the State. Oct. 10, 1883, the American Bell Co., conceived a plan called the "Re-consolidation of Interests" by which the companies, including our Boston & Northern, Bay State, Suburban and others were to be united and form one company—the New England Telephone Co. In the contract is found the following:

Of the amount of stock which the American Bell Telephone Company is to receive for franchise, amounting to $4,058,400, out of $9,901,200, and $860,500 out of $2,098,800, treasury stock, dividends are to be paid as follows:—

Commencing for the quarter ending Sept. 30, 1884, on				$720,000
For the year ending			Sept. 30, 1885, on	1,320,000
do	do	do	Sept. 30, 1886, on	1,920,000
do	do	do	Sept. 30, 1887, on	2,520,000
do	do	do	Sept. 30, 1888, on	3,120,000
do	do	do	Sept. 30, 1889, on	3,720,000
do	do	do	Sept. 30, 1890, on	4,320,000
do	do	do	Sept. 30, 1891, on	4,918,900

Up to May last $10,394,600 of stock had been issued by the New England Telephone Co., of which the American Bell received its proportion as determined above March 21, 1885.

Now in the formation of this company the American Bell stipulated that they should own fifty per cent. of the stock; they bought ten per cent. more—and to-day own sixty per cent. of the stock of the New England Telephone Co. This is not all. They own a large share of the stock of the Western Electric Co., which furnishes all the supplies for the Co. They compel the New England Co., to expend a large share of their net earnings in construction and supplies—which is bought of this Western Electric Light Co., owned largely by the American Bell Co. Thus the Bell Co. pay large dividends—accruing not only from the rental of the instruments at an enormous profit, but from the furnishing of supplies which they buy of the Western Electric Co.—in reality buying of themselves. The Bell Co., have been known to put in an expensive switch-board and remove it within a few days for another. Every effort is made to use up the earnings of the New England and other companies to whom the instruments are leased. They do not wish them to declare dividends at present. A minority of the stockholders who purchased stock of the New England at nearly 100, and have seen it go down to 34, are naturally disgusted with such proceedings. But no dividend will be declared until it is so willed by the American Bell who own sixty per cent. of the stock.

Here, then, is the strongest argument against the increase of rates. Of what use is it for the public to add still further to the income of the N. E. company, only to have it swallowed up by the American Bell, in the construction account? The use of the telephone to a subscriber, is largely increased by the addition of subscribers. Not only should there be no advance in price, but we demand the use of these telephones at a less price than is now charged for them.

In the city of New Bedford, not within the N. E. Company's circuit, telephones are rented at $35.00 per year. The expense paid the American Bell is the same for instruments. Yet the exchange there has not ceased to exist, nor is there any prospect of it.

This brings us to the point which we mentioned some weeks ago, that the only relief from this monopoly lies in the restriction of charges by the Legislature. A petition was presented last season signed by numerous subscribers, corporations and banks, asking for such a bill. A hearing was had before the Committee on Mercantile affairs. We are indebted to the Commercial Bulletin for the opinion of a well known business man with reference to this Committee, and it is very pertinent at the present time. At the time it was published people who were subscribers to the telephone were not so much interested in this matter as at the present.

"This telephone question, entered into the election of the president of the Senate at the beginning of the session, and the defeat of Hon. Geo. A. Marden was largely due to his known opposition to the ways and manners of the Bell Telephone Company. Then the Committee on Mercantile Affairs appears to have been made up with reference to granting increased capital to the telephone company.

"The Chairman, Senator Norris, is well-known to be favorable to the Bell Company. Two members who are from Bradford,—one from the House and the other from the Senate,—are closely identified in business with Mr. Thomas Sanders of the Bell Company: and one was selected from New Bedford, Mr. Brightman, who is a director in a suburban telephone company controlled by the Bell Company.

"In 1883 when the Bell Company came before the Legislature with its petition for the repeal of the provision of its charter forbidding it to hold more than 30 per cent. of the stock of subcompanies, the selection of members of the Committee on Mercantile Affairs was influenced in a similar manner. Two members of the committee were selected from New Bedford. The Company's petition of that year never ought to have been granted; but it was, and the result is that the Bell Company now owns 60 per cent. of the stock of the New England Telephone & Telegraph Company."

The result of the hearing before this Committee on Mercantile Affairs was very damaging to the Telephone Co., yet such was the complexion of the Committee, that the petitioners for a restriction of rate of service were given leave to withdraw. Mr. Read, of Boston, however, presented a minority report, had it substituted for that of the majority, and it was ordered to a third reading. At the last stage, on its passage to be engrossed, the Telephone Co. procured a large and active lobby, and through the efforts of Hon. A. W. Beard and Mr. Greenhalge of Lowell, the bill was defeated.

In addition to the high price of stock of the American Bell Co., they have been paying dividends of fifteen per cent. and when at asked the investigation if they could have paid more, they replied that they could have paid seventeen per cent.

We have heard it rumored that the New England Company have decided not to enforce the advanced rates which they announced to take place, Sept. 15. We don't know whether it is true or not. We have not been officially informed. We think, however, it will be well for them not only not to raise the price, but reduce it still further,—obtain the good will of the public and attempt to increase the number of telephones. A decrease in number renders the telephone of less value to those who continue to be subscribers. An attempt should also be made in this vicinity to improve the service. We do not mean in the Peabody exchange. No fault can be found with Miss Upton. She is always obliging, pleasant and prompt to respond to the calls. But when we call a subscriber in Salem and have to wait ten minutes before we can get communication with the party desired, it is time to find fault. This happened only last week. We learn from others here in town, that this is by no means an unusual occurrence. Let us have reduced rates and better service, and at the next session of the Legislature let us have a bill passed limiting the rates charged by the companies throughout the State.

THE CHURCHES.

At the Universalist Church Rev. Mr. Sprague preached from Acts 17:21, "For all the Athenians and strangers which were there spent their time in nothing else but either to tell or hear some new thing." A peculiarity of the Athenian people is set forth by the text. They were always seeking after some new thing. They were carried away with anything new or strange. Not only were they given to seek new things in philosophy and art, but in religion they were after new gods, new demons, images and altars. They were so hungry for novelty that they desired to hear Paul, who had been represented as a setter forth of strange gods—and they had 30,000 of them already. So they sought him out. Not because his teachings were good, but because they were new; not for the sake of ennobling their characters, but because of their great curiosity, to make his utterances a subject for argument. They cared nothing for Paul—enough that they heard what his doctrine was.

This class has not become extinct. There are not a few existing at the present day whose ruling spirit is for anything new or novel. The preacher did not refer to a laudable desire for change; nor a feeling when a work is accomplished that it is not entirely satisfactory. But it was against this excessive love for novelty that he spoke; this seeking after every new thing in literature or art, as well as everything new in goods. It runs into excess. The person becomes a monomaniac on certain subjects; he rides hobbies, when they are not riding him. He craves novelty, and selects this or that hobby. It is his last free-will act, the longer he follows it the more he is at its mercy.

These seekers after novelties may be considered in two classes. One class is continually looking for new things, new styles never before the public. Among these are seekers of new books—bibliomaniacs they might be called—mousing into book stores for anything new. This would be well enough if these books were to be studied. But the eagerness with which they are sought is because they are new. There are in book stores standing orders, in the departments of law, science, philosophy and others, for any new book. There are also those who are eager for oil paintings, delving for anything that is new. They are entirely absorbed in oil and canvas. For example, there was a man in the Universalist denomination whose house contained oil paintings valued at $250,000. It was a picture gallery not a home. Others are enthusiasts over new statuary—neglecting every duty to see any new bust or statuary. They make their homes pantheons for these little gods. Different communities have different hobbies in this direction.

The second class are those whose minds turn back to the past. Every thing that is of the past age is a novelty to them. Whatever is very old or uncommon has charms for them. An example is the searcher for rare manuscripts. He pays an extra price for what he cannot read. Its possession is a silent delight to him because it is so rare—because it is a novelty to this generation. Then there is the collector of old coins. Many of these rare coins have a face value which is much advanced on this account. Their nominal value is all out of relative proportion to their real value. Then there are searchers for old pottery, old chairs, old andirons, which never belonged to their ancestors or relatives. The preacher visited a store in Philadelphia during his vacation, devoted especially to this purpose—filled with what seemed old junk. These articles exist because of a market value for them.

But these people claim the right to do as they please. Have they that right? Rather, ought they not to use their time and means in a higher sphere of duty? There is the same state of mind which caused the Athenians to hear St. Paul—this seeking after some thing new. They become unsettled—know not which way to be led. They are like the bishop's "mother never content full or fasting." This novelty hates sameness. There is something wrong in such a state of mind. There is something wrong about the stomach when the ring of the old dinner bell has not a sound of welcome. There are some who come to the church to hear something new. Christ, God, duty are ever the same yesterday, to-day and forever. The Gospel is an old story. Those who are in sound spiritual health come to church to hear this old Gospel. It is to them the bread of life; it answers human needs; it gives light for darkness, happiness for misery. Anything that can be secured by education to lend light to the teachings of the Gospel should be sought. Anything more than this cometh of evil and is like the Athenian philosophers, seeking for new gods.

At the Methodist Church, Rev. C. N. Smith preached from II Chronicles, 15:15, "And all Judah rejoiced at the oath; for they had sworn with all their heart, and sought him with their whole desire; and he was found of them; and the Lord gave them rest round about." The preacher said that a sacred oath was very frequent in ancient history. The Roman general, going into battle, made oath to some deity that if victory should be granted some sacrifice or offering would be made. The same was true in Bible history. We read of this covenanting with God all through the Bible. A proper covenant carries with it a sense of responsibility. With some this responsibility rises no higher than moral propriety. Such was the case of Jacob when he vowed one-tenth of his property. There was a propriety about it. With others there is a moral responsibility. Like when God says: "Son, give me thy heart," they are brought to a sense of duty. In regard to covenants the preacher remarked that the object must fall within the range of divine law, or what legitimately springs from it. We see some enter into covenant with God intelligently—it is entirely intellectual—they do it because it is right and proper. Another extreme is when there is such an illumination—the vastness of eternity so presses upon the soul that a man becomes all but desperate. Like Jacob of old wrestling with the Angel, he cannot let him go except he receives a blessing. God's presence by His spirit is all at work drawing us to this covenant with God. The Baptismal covenant—the sacraments—all are bringing us to the fulfillment of that vow, to renounce the world, and be obedient to the Commandments of God all the days of their life. The man who cannot take this vow is not to be relied upon. Some say they intend to serve God but leave the means unemployed. They do not perform any requirement of the Gospel.

The preacher said there were many within hearing who never had entered into Covenant with God. There were times when under the influence of the spirit they had mentally said: "I will enter into it now." Had they done it? These vows may be forgotten by us, but never by God. Is it better not the vow? To refuse the vow of covenant with God is ruin. To assume these vows and keep them is to be a Christian. The preacher exhorted all to renew them in the sacraments of the Lord's supper which was to follow, and to keep them to the end.

* * *

The theories of the anti-vaccination cranks are having a hard time in Montreal, where the disease is raging, much of the lack of control being on account of the people's aversion to vaccination. —Exchange.

We are inclined to doubt this. The "lack of control" is chiefly on account of the laxity of the authorities and the ignorance of the people in regard to the nature of the disease. A working woman entering the house of people where small pox existed was warned of the danger. She replied "why, I left two children sick with it at home." Such a state of affairs here, even where vaccination is peremptory, and where it is claimed to be a preventive, would produce a panic. Vaccination or no vaccination, small pox is a dreaded disease. It is not favorable to the theory of vaccination, if it does all that it is claimed by its advocates, that so stringent measures are thought necessary where all have been vaccinated. At the same time we believe in these stringent measures which are always taken by our Boards of Health. The sooner they are adopted in Montreal, the better it will be. Until they are, the disease will increase there. But we are not in favor of calling people "cranks" who do not believe in vaccination. It has its evil results as well as good. There are more physicians than is usually supposed who are inclined to doubt the utility of vaccination. The profession are by no means unanimous in its favor.

* * *

Rev. George Batchelder, formerly of Salem, and who was called to Unity Church, Chicago, has been compelled to resign his pastorate on account of ill health. The following resolution was adopted by the Church there in accepting his resignation: "This society bears witness to the cordial relations which have existed between us as minister and people, to our respect and regard for him and his and our wishes for their welfare, and to our own deep regret for the ill health which has brought about the severance of the relation between him and the society."

* * *

The Fairhaven Star displayed great enterprise last week in its account of the dedication of the new Rogers School Building, which had been given to the town. The addresses, poems, and everything were published in full, compelling Bro. Waldron to issue a six page sheet, in order to get in his other news. We congratulate Bro. Waldron and the town on the possession of such a munificent gift as the Rogers School Building.

* * *

Messrs. Nugent Bros. intend to make some important changes in their store in order to meet their large increasing trade.

OUR PUBLIC SCHOOLS.

THEY OPEN ON MONDAY WITH AN ENROLLMENT OF 1844 PUPILS.

Our public schools opened on Monday, and troops of children could be seen wending their way to the various buildings to which they belonged, and their smiles mingling with sunshine induced a representative of the PRESS to make a tour of the schools. The teachers all appeared happy after their long vacation. The school buildings and surroundings have been repaired and renovated and fresh paint and new books add to the cheerful surroundings. The schools are still in an unsettled condition and it will be a week or more before they are running in their old ruts again. New pupils will come in daily and the over crowded rooms in some departments and districts will be relieved by changing pupils to the same grade in other buildings. The teachers have found plenty to do in arranging their classes, dividing them into sections and providing a list of books required. And the committee, particularly Mr. G. Fred Osgood, have found that with a demand upon them for new books and other material, that their time is very well taken. We first visited the High School and were courteously received by Prof. J. Y. Bergen, Jr., who begins the year with two new assistants, making as a whole an able and efficient corps of teachers, consisting of Miss F. M. Henshaw as first assistant, and Miss E. P. Rollins second assistant. The total number at this school is 84 divided as follows: post graduates, 7; seniors 16; middlers 32; juniors 29.

We next visited the Bowditch school, arriving while the school was at recess, and spent a few minutes listening to the joyous laughter and watching the effervescence of merry childhood all aglow with health and vigor. Mr. A. E. Wells, the principal, was watching from the upper window with an amused expression the children about their play. His work is shared by Miss Georgie Hart as first assistant and there are 72 pupils under their charge, divided into six classes and known as the Grammar school. Miss Carrie Gee presides over 59 pupils of a lower grade in the grammar school and Miss Addie Torr has charge of an enrollment of 45 pupils and here the young idea is prepared for the grammar grade as noted above. We enter Miss Jennie S. Tufts' school just as the master's bell announces that recess is over, and while the little ones are taking their seats in a very quiet and orderly manner, we look around the room and are struck with the appropriate motto on a banner in the rear, "Despise not the days of small beginning." Miss Tufts has the youngest scholars in the building, 63 in number, and they formed a perfect sea of little heads, as they twisted and squirmed on the "awful" hard benches. Here were little ones taken for the first time from mamma's care and sent to school.

The horse cars took us to the Felton school, that little brick school house among our farming community. The grammar grade is presided over by Miss Ida M. Baker and her pupils number 17, and across the hall way is the primary department in charge of Miss Nellie T. Allen, who also has seventeen pupils. The departments are divided into five classes each, but this term Miss Allen has only four, there being no pupils for the second class. The children in this school are very healthy and rugged looking and quite in contrast to some of those in the village. At this school and the South and West Peabody schools a session is kept all day, Wednesday and Saturday being made a holiday. The afternoon session here begins at one o'clock, at South Peabody 1.45 and West Peabody at 1.15, while in the village it begins at two o'clock and Wednesday and Saturday afternoons are kept as holidays.

At the South Peabody school commencing with the primary, Miss Hattie Pike regulates the buzz in the busy hive and she has 55 in number, and as they advance to the intermediate Miss Florence M. Taylor reins over the little charges 45 all counted, and Miss Lena C. Emery, as principal, trains the youthful minds of 41 pupils up against advanced ideas in the grammar grade. Miss Emery and Miss Pike each have four classes and Miss Taylor three. It will be noticed that in the schools outside the Center and Wallis each room has several classes, while in the others there is a teacher for each class.

In the Wallis school every class is given a teacher, and Miss Mary E. Walton opened with an enrollment in the primary numbering 49, and the room is overflowing with little juveniles. Miss Mary Forness, is the next teacher in the primary, when the little heads were counted, numbered 40. Then comes Miss Katie Price who has 39 primary scholars, and everything was in apple pie order, making one forget that school had just begun. Miss Mary E. Poole, with 69 more primary pupils, seems equal to so large a family. The primary grade closes with Miss Florence E. Hannon, where 57 Young Americas enlarge their vocabulary and prepare for the grammar grade. The grammar grade commences with Miss Jacobs, who has 51; Miss Vienna Batchelder has 54, and Mrs. Sarah Williams 54 well-behaved and studious pupils. At the top of the building, 37 pupils are advancing along the road to wisdom, in charge of Miss Mary Stratton and 24 more, guided by Miss Addie S. Hill, are climbing the difficult road. Mr. George F. Barnes guides the destiny of the whole building, and has a class of 17 under his immediate charge. Work in this school is begun by the sounding of the drum.

At the Center, the Primary grade commencing with Miss Mary Chandler numbers 86; Miss Eva Raddin, has charge of 81; Miss Maggie S. Poor counts 72; Miss Carrie Upton, 67; Mrs. Elizabeth Towne, 69. In the grammar department Miss Kittie Wiley has 68; Miss Laura P. Whitney, 63; Miss Mary P. Towne, 46; Miss Esther R. Perkins, 45; Miss Julia P. Wilkins 24, and the principal, Mr. J. K. Cole, 19. As in the Wallis district, the building is in charge of the principal, and under his direction, the numerous scholars are laying the foundation for useful lives. It will be noticed that this school is over crowded, and the committee will take immediate steps for its relief.

At the West Grammar school, Miss Carrie E. Welch, has 23 pupils, divided into five classes, and Miss Eva M. Flint in the same building has 32 primary pupils comprising six classes. In the latter grade several more new pupils are expected..

At the new Endicott school where the smell of fresh paint and plaster still lingers, Miss Abbie D. Esty is in charge. There are three grades of primary pupils in the building. The beginners are under the charge of Miss Eliza M. Cass and she has 66. The next division is presided over by Miss Nellie M. Boynton, who has 44 puplis, and Miss Esty in her room has 50.

The total number of scholars enrolled in our public schools is 1844, divided as follows: High School, 84; Center School, 640; Wallis School, 491; Bowditch School, 239; Endicott School 160; Rockville School, 141;. West School, 55; Felton School, 34. Never before have our schools started out with more flattering prospects than now. Many of the teachers expressed a desire that the parents visit the schools frequently and thus lend to both teacher and pupils all the encourment possible.

Artists' Materials of every Description.

DECORATIVE ART GOODS OF ALL KINDS.

Art Pottery supplies for Oil Color, Water Color, China and Lustra Painting.

PICTURE FRAMING
OF EVERY DESCRIPTION.

PLUSH WORK a specialty. Plush Frames and Plush Plaques made to order.

Charles J. Edmands,
12 BROMFIELD ST., BOSTON.

* * *

The managers of the B. & A. rail road must pride themselves on the kind of a reputation they are making. The following from the Milford Journal is only a sample of their smallness:—A few days ago a Milford party presented himself at the B. & A. railroad baggage-room in Boston, and requested that his travelling bag be checked, which the official in charge refused to do, because there waa a small bundle securely strapped on the outside of the bag. The gentlemen went back to the ticket office, demanded the money back on the ticket he had purchased, which, after some little controversy, he succeeded in getting, and then went to the N. Y. & N. E. road, where he took the train for Milford. He says he has travelled over the B. & A. for the last time, save when he is absolutely compelled to. For smalless of dealings with the travelling public and a dictatorial spirit, the B. & A. railroad management has no rival on American soil, never has had and never can have.-

* * *

It is the gossip at the headquarters and in the parlor conferences that the Hon. W. W. Crapo of New Bedrord is considered as the sure republican candidate for governor next year, unless circumstances are greatly changed in the meantime.

Mr. Crapo's friends have felt that he deserves consideration on account of the way things went in 1882, and we understand that at a proper time the supporters of another gentleman, Mr. Robert R. Bishop of Newton, will ask for a review of his case at the hands of a state convention.—Boston Record.

From Colonel Carroll D. Wright's annual report of the bureau of statistics of labor just published, it appears that the whole number of persons performing Sunday labor in the state of Massachusetts is 115,778 of whom 59,736 are males and 56,042 females. The apparently large number of the latter is caused by the fact that the whole number of female domestics, 49,444 is included among Sunday laborers. In other occupations the number of females employed Sundays is comparatively small. From the statistics and other information collected, the conclusions are, that when systematic work for the production of wealth is done on Sunday, the tendency is to break down the rate of pay so that the laborer receives no more for seven days' work than the six days' wage would have been, and such labor causes a marked deterioration in vital powers. It is the opinion of Colonel Wright that the sheer will of man, actuated by no constraint of nature, nor through the selfish motive of profit, but only for what is considered as some human convenience, causes all or nearly all the Sunday labor in Massachusetts: that all wealth and true economic welfare that man now has with Sunday labor he could easily have without it if he set his mind in that direction, and that the safety of society, as such safety is represented in the intelligence, in the morality and the integrity of the great body of workers, depends not upon turning Sunday into a day of recreation, but in providing such means for recreation and rest during the working day of the week, when Sunday shall become a day of rest in the highest sense. The statistics given above have been carefully collected as regards Sunday labor on steam and horse railroads, steamboats, telegraphs and telephones, the publication and delivery of newspapers, milk supply, and other employments.—Milford Gazette.

* * *

A phenomenal business success is tha of Messrs. B. A. Atkinson & Co., Nassau Hall, Boston. By a system of fair dealing and absolutely rock bottom prices they have succeeded in establishing a business that is simply wonderful. Read their double column advertisement in this issue.

New Advertisements.

TOWN OF PEABODY.

Town Collector's Notice.

The owners and occupants of the following described parcels of real estate, situated in the town of Peabody, in the county of Essex, and commonwealth of Massachusetts, and the public, are hereby notified that the taxes thereon assessed for the years hereinafter specified, according to the list committed to me as Collector of Taxes for said town, by the assessors of taxes, remain unpaid, and that said parcels of real estate will be offered at public auction for sale, at the office of the Collector at the Town House in said Town of Peabody, on

Wednesday, Oct. 7th, 1885,

At 9 o'clock A. M. for the payment of said taxes together with the costs and charges thereon, unless the same shall be previously discharged.

A lot of land bounded northwardly by land of Bushby, eastwardly by land of Shaw, southwardly by land of Margaret Galencia, westwardly by a private way leading to Lynn street, containing about 14,500 square feet. Taxed to Heirs of Betsey Bowers for 1884, $1.64; for 1885, $1.56.

THEODORE M. OSBORNE,
Attorney and Counsellor at Law,
Has resumed practice at
81 Washington St., Salem.
Boston Office, 54 Devonshire St., Room 27.
sept 9—2m

SOUTH DANVERS MUTUAL FIRE INSURANCE CO.

The members of this company are hereby notified that their annual meeting for the election of a Board of Directors for the ensuing year, and the transaction of such other business as may come before them, will be held at the room of the South Danvers National Bank, in Peabody, on Monday, October 5, 1885, at 7 o'clock P. M.

G. M. FOSTER, Sec.

Peabody, Sept. 7, 1885.

CARD OF THANKS.

Torrent Hose Company No. 3, take this opportunity to extend their thanks to Mr. Lewis Brown for the bountiful refreshments furnished them at the fire on the premises of George Mackintosh on the morning of September 5.

A. B. BODGE, Clerk.

FOUND.

A Dog, which owner can have by proving property and paying charges.

NEWMAN PERKINS,
Grove St., Peabody.

The Peabody Press.

Wednesday Evening, Sept, 9, 1885

HOME HAPPENINGS.

> "The lands are lit
> With all the autumn blaze of golden-rod;
> And everywhere the purple asters nod
> And bend and wave and flit."

The new postal cards have been received at the Post Office in this town. They differ considerably from the old cards in appearance. The size is exactly the same. The design is printed in a light brown or pink color. Instead of the head of the Goddess of Liberty in the vignette in the corner, appears a fine engraving of Jefferson's head. Instead of the monogram "U. S.," the new card has on it the words "United States," printed at length. On the address side of the old card were printed the words: "Nothing but the address can be placed on this side." The expression has always been criticised a little as not being true, as a person could write anything he chose on that side though the card might not be received at the Post Office. The expression has been changed on the new card so as to read as follows: "Nothing but the address to be on this side."

Little Corinne and company will appear in "Capers," a new conceit written especially for her, at Town Hall to-morrow evening, under the management of H. Brooks Hooper. This will be the last opportunity to see little Corinne. She sails for Europe this fall to study for the stage and to complete her musical education. It is likely when she returns that she will be anything but "little" Corinne. The prices are to be 10, 20 and 30 cents, and at these figures there ought not to be a vacant seat in the hall.

Mr. P. W. Duffy, who came here from Southbridge a little over a year ago and bought out the stove business of D. A. & F. H. Caskin, died at his home on Washington street, last Sunday, of consumption. Mr. Duffy has been in poor health for several months, and unable to attend to his business. During his brief stay here he made many friends, being a warm hearted and generous man. He was about 45 years of age and leaves a widow and five children. His funeral took place from St. John's church, yesterday and the remains were taken to Cambridge.

The accommodations which are furnished Peabody people returning from the entertainments in Mechanic Hall is especially noticeable. There are plenty of seats—no one has to stand. There has been a line of cars each evening last week extending clear down to the Horse R. R. Station. This is due to rivalry between the two roads. Competition is the life of trade. It is a good thing for Peabody in many ways that the Danvers road has laid its rails through this town.

The single and married men employed at H. A. Southwick's morocco factory last Saturday, played a game of base ball. The single men were victorious. The score will show that the men must have been weary by the amount of running they did. Score 45 to 22 in seven innings. If they had played the nine innings both clubs would have been exhausted.

Sometime Monday night some one entered the grocery store of James Sherry on Washington street. They forced an entrance through a cellar window and stole $2.50 from the money drawer and also took a quantity of cigars, tobacco and cologne. The police caught one of the culprits, a boy, named Hayes, and the property was partly recovered.

Insurance Commissioner Tarbox intends to examine and make public reports on all the state assessment insurance companies, because of the general interest in these concerns at present. He has just published two reports on the condition of the Home mutual accident association, and finds but little that does not meet his approval.

An exchange suggests that it would be a good idea for farmers to put up placards in front of their residences announcing the owners of the farm. For instance: "The John Smith farm," "The W. R. Johnson farm," etc. This would give more or less interesting information to passers-by, and save a good deal of question-asking.

Last winter one of our farmers, while cutting wood from a piece of land that had recently come into his possession, discovered that hid among the saplings was an orchard of a dozen or more trees of grafted fruit, which had been hidden for years. They were trimmed up and are now well filled with very nice fruit.

The days are sensibly growing shorter, and the long evenings of the pleasant weather steal upon us with a sense of content and enjoyment which renders them very attractive. Time flies rapidly, and it surprises us to find that we are already far advanced in the latter half of a year that seems to have opened upon us but yesterday.

Have your boots neatly soled and heeled for 75 cents at Nugent's. *

We should have mentioned last week that Mr. F. G. Preston will continue the law business with Frank E. Farnham in Allen's block. We can cordially and heartily recommend Mr. Preston to those in need of professional services, assuring them that they will be treated honorably and justly. We wish him abundant success.

The Union Leather Measuring Machine Co. of this town, are sending circulars to all the trade, containing a copy of each of the certificates whereby all parties released to the new company their rights in any patents on the machines. Orders and enquiries are already being received in large numbers.

The veteran soldiers of the Grand Army of the Republic held a two days outing at the Point of Pines, on Wednesday and Thursday. There was a large gathering of posts. The encampment was visited by past and present officers of the Massachusetts Department, and by other prominent veterans.

Rev. Mr. Smith of the Methodist Church announced last Sunday that the series of Union love feasts between the churches here, in Tapleyville, Salem, and elsewhere in this vicinity would be renewed this fall. The first one is to be held this (Wednesday) evening with the Tapleyville church at 7.30 P. M.

The following is the report of the engineer of the pumping station for August:—Number of gallons pumped, 17,888,020; average per day, 577,032; pounds of coal used, 42,946; average pounds per day, 1385; gallons of water pumped per pound of coal, 416; running time per day 7 hours 7 minutes.

In the police court this morning Patrick McGrath for assaulting John Gunn went down for forty days, as he could not pay a fine of $10 and costs. John Lehan, second drunk, $5 and costs. Took forty days board with the county. Thomas Harrington, drunk, $5.83. Paid and said good-bye.

Miss Nettie Collins, one of the young lady type setters in the PRESS office, had a birth day party Monday evening, at which she received the congratulations of many of her friends. She received many presents, among them being a handsomely bound volume from the young ladies of this office.

The annual reunion of the Second Company Andrew's Sharpshooters was held at Oak Island, last Saturday. The following officers were elected: President, W. M. Ward; vice Presidents, J. Q. A. Sturtevant, and Stephen N. Green; Secretary and Treasurer, I. E. Green.

It is said that Horace A. Hart, Mr. George Stevens' able assistant, went down on the Empire State recently, and the patrol police aboard would not allow him in the part of the boat where there were signs which read, "minors not allowed." Wait till he gets his growth.

The report of Chief Peasley for the month of August is as follows:—Whole number of arrests, 28; drunkenness, 16; assaults, 3; using profane language on the streets, 3; non-support, 2; breaking and entering, 2; keeping liquor with intent to sell, 1; larceny, 1; lodgers, 1.

In the Summer League series of polo games the Woburns stand first, the Nantaskets second, and the Salems third. The Woburns have won 15 games and lost 9. The Nantaskets have won 11 games and lost 13. The Salems have won 10 games and lost 14.

Mr. John Facker, employed at the brick yard, recently caught a large bird known as the Night Heron near the river. It was nearly four feet tall, and its wings measured four feet and nine inches from tip to tip. It was bought by a taxidermist in Lynn.

Our enterprising neighbor, the Wakefield Citizen & Banner, is offering a kitten as a premium to new subscribers. If that don't fetch 'em brother, we will ship you a lot of stray cats with good strong lungs, and guarantee the supply will exceed the demand.

The portrait of President Garfield on the five-dollar bill is said to be one of the best engravings ever made of him. The picture on the five-cent stamp, however, is quite luxurious enough for the ordinary newspaper man.

The Boston & Maine car company at Lawrence are building five combination smoking and baggage cars. They are sixty feet long, and will accommodate forty-two passengers. They will be put on the road shortly.

It is said that the amount of bogus coin in circulation is alarming. Fifty cent pieces are so neatly split and filled that only a lack in weight betrays the deception. They are just as good for circulation, however, as long as the deception remains undiscovered.

If you want fruit and cannot purchase it, ask the owners of some of the fruit trees to give you some, offering to pay for it in work. Nine out of ten of them would prefer to give it to you free gratis, rather than to have you steal it.

Don't fail to examine the fine stock of School Shoes this week at Nugent's. *

SOUTH PEABODY.

Mrs. Henry Meader, a well known elderly resident of South Peabody died at her home on Lynnfield street last Wednesday.

On next Sunday afternoon at the Congregational Church, the Sunday School will give a Floral concert; and in the evening Mr. Arthur W. Tyler, of New York, will make an address upon the subject, "Why we observe the Lord's day as a day." This address is a reply to the position of the Seventh day Adventists, and was delivered in June and July in Lawrence, and Topeka, Kansas, to large audiences in the Congregational, Baptist, Methodist, and Presbyterian churches.

The chain to the railing on Ship rock is almost entirely gone, and should be replaced before an accident occurs. That at Lookout rock, near Spring pond, also needs repairs.

One day last week Deputy Marshal Thurston of Lynn, made his first trip to Peabody on the horse cars. As he looked around and saw Mr. Charles Simonds' stable, he recalled their first meeting more than fifty years ago.

One of the Bleachery houses recently purchased by Mr. A. B. Clark, after it had started, was found too wide to cross the open lot near the old wool factory and had to be cut in two parts.

A very large crowd of people visited the ruins of the Mackintosh fire last Sunday.

Mr. John Keith is spending his vacation in Lincoln, Me.

Communion services were held at the church last Sunday, Rev. J. W. Colwell officiating. In the evening a missionary concert was held in the vestry.

Miss Lillie Tudbury has entered the High School a post graduate.

Conductor Basford has resumed his duties on the road having fully recovered from his late accident.

Mr. Everett Shaw has started up his shoe stitching shop after a shut down of several months.

Mr. Perley Galeucia and Louis Putnam started over the road to Rochester, N. H., for a ten day's vacation.

The funeral of Mrs. Abigail Meade took place from her late residence last Sunday afternoon, Rev. Mr. Sperry officiating. The remains were buried in the family lot in Cedar Grove cemetery.

Last Tuesday a representative of the Knights of Labor visited the morocco factory of L. B. Southwick & Co. with a scale of prices, informing the firm that unless they were willing to adopt them the men in their employ would strike. The representative met with little encouragement, but visited the firm again the next day and the following. Mr. Southwick having declined to pay the men the price demanded—which was from $1.00 to $3.00 per week—the men left at 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon. Since this time a boy with a banner has been parading in front of the shop and around the square, warning morocco dressers to keep away from the factory. It is claimed by the Knights of Labor that the price demanded is no more than is paid in other shops. The firm on the other hand claim that they have not been making any money; that until very recently the business has been run at a loss, and that while keeping their shop running nearly all the time in the dull season, giving the men employment, it seems hard to be asked to raise the pay of the men just when there is a prospect of a slight remuneration for the years of dull trade. At present writing there seems no prospect of settlement and the situation excites general interest. The Knights of Labor have three assemblies in town numbering in all some 1100.

Last Saturday Miss Jennie Trask, daughter of Mr. Samuel Trask, observed the sixth anniversary of her birth by giving a children's party at which a large number of "little ones" were present, ranging in age from two to seven years. They were given the run of the house and games and dolls engrossed their attention till about five o'clock, when they marched to the dining room, where the tables had been spread with lots of dainties by "mamma," including the big birthday cake with its rich frosting and plums. The table was presided over by an elder sister and the Misses Hart, who helped the children snap their bon bons and passed the ice cream. Miss Jennie received numerous pretty souvenirs and birthday cards from her young friends. At an early hour they returned to their homes and will long remember the birthday party.

The next term of the Supreme Judicial Court in Essex county comes in at Salem on the first Tuesday in November, at which term the trial of Henry K. Goodwin for the murder of Albert D. Swan will take place, and promises to be one of the most exciting capital trials known in this country for many years.

All the best brands of B. P. Clark & Co's. cigars are for sale by Geo. Stevens. He is sole agent for this vicinity. Buy them and you will smoke no others. *

GREAT

BARGAINS THIS WEEK,

SPECIAL

BARGAINS

— ON —

Bargain Counter,

— AT —

Frank Cousins'

BEE-HIVE,

SALEM.

IF YOU DESIRE

A MEDICINE

To regulate and build up your system and purify the blood of all poisonous humor use

FERRATED HYGIENIC WINE

FOR SALE BY DRUGGISTS.

SPRING BARGAINS

— IN —

ROOM PAPERS.

Now is the time to paper your rooms, while goods are cheap. Room Papers for nearly half price for fifteen days only.

It will pay you to buy these goods, and lay by till spring, as you can save money by the operation.

LOOK AT THE PRICES.

4000 rolls 10c papers for 6c a roll.
3700 " 15c " " 10c "
2000 " 20c " " 12 1-2c "
Small lot 25c Satins for 15c a roll.

There is only a few patterns in this lot, and an early selection is necessary.

3500 rolls 50c gilts for 25c a roll.

Remnants at your own prices.

2c borders for 1c a yard. 5c borders for 2c yd. Gilt borders from 2c a yd upwards.

These bargains will not last long at these prices, and first customers will get the best trades.

MERRILL & MACKINTIRE.

220 ESSEX ST.,

SALEM.

WOOD FOR SALE.

I now offer at the Lowest Cash Price, Trash by the cord, $4. Hard by the cord, Pine by the cord.

Cord Wood sawed and split to order.

Also 12 bushels of pine or 10 bushels of hard, for $1.

All orders left with Daniel Goodrich, at N. W. Edson's, Main St., or at Samuel Trask's, Walnut St., will receive prompt attention.

SAMUEL TRASK,

WALNUT ST.,

PEABODY.

Barley Oats.

2 Cars Old Barley Oats.
CHAS. A. ROPES & SON.

Beans.

PRIM E Pea, Medium, and Yellow Eyed Beans
CHAS. A. ROPES & SON.

HATS.

Children's school Hats, Walking Hats, Dress Hats, etc., in the latest and best styles, just opened, at Peabody's Millinery dept,

VELVETS.

Black Velvets, nice ones $1, 1.25 and 1.50 per yard, also a line of colors, Brown, Old Gold, Garnet, Wine, Purple, etc.

RIBBONS.

All colors and widths, good goods at low prices, at Peabody's.

New Hamb's.

Choice new patterns of Hamburg Edging, at prices that will suit the smartest bargain hunters.

New Laces.

Trimming Laces in white, cream, and black, in all the best and choicest patterns, styles and widths.

YARNS.

A bargain in Knitting Yarn. All Wool and good quality, 8c per Skein. Ball Yarns are being put up, that weigh all the way from half an ounce up, so that it is not safe to buy unless you see the balls weighed. In skeins you can see it all, and know what you are paying for.

WALLETS.

We have this week a great drive in Leather Wallets, a dozen styles, at 25 cents each, sold on Essex street for 38 and 50 cents. Examine them, and you will say they are a decided bargain.

Our Prices.

Nickel Plated Safety Pins, per doz.	2 cts
Cabinet Hair Pins, per box,	3 cts
Pins, paper 2c, 3 papers for	5 cts
Nice Mourning Pins, per box,	2 cts
Good Button Hooks,	3 cts
Needles—Clark's Royal, paper	2 cts
Best Black Linen Thread spools	7 cts
500 yard Spool Cotton	5 cts
Good Lisle Gloves, Ladies,	5 cts
Fruit of the Loom bleached Cotton,	7 cts
Good yard wide Brown Cottons,	5 cts

— and so on —

— AT —

PEABODY'S,

SALEM.

STRAWBERRIES! STRAWBERRIES!

Next June,

By planting Strawberry Plants in August will secure a crop of fruit the coming season. Any good garden soil, well cultivated, enriched, etc., will answer. We have fine plants and best varieties.

ALL POTTED PLANTS AT LOW MARKET RATES.

Varieties—"Sharpless," "Miner's Prolific," "Chas. Downing," "Bidwell," "Jersey Queen" (P,) "Hervey Davis," etc.

Orders by mail will receive prompt attention. Goods can be sent by express to all points.

TERMS CASH.

Plants, Flowers, etc., to order from

E. & C. WOODMAN.

Florist and Garden Supplies,

DANVERS, MASS.

☞ Greenhouses, Holten St., Tapleyville. On line Salem & Danvers and Peabody and Danvers Horse Railroad.

Send for Circular.

HOTEL NAHANT,

NAHANT BEACH.

SAM'L SOULE & SON, Props.

IS NOW OPEN FOR GUESTS.

Horse cars from Salem and Peabody direct to the house,

Fish dinners a specialty.

Connected by Telephone.

P. O. Address, LYNN, MASS.

WM. M. HILL.

AUCTIONEER, REAL ESTATE

BROKER & APPRAISER.

HALE'S BLOCK.

223 ESSEX STREET, SALEM.

Mortgagees negotiated. Personal attention to all Real Estate matters.

Family Flour.

A Full stock of Spring Wheat patent process and Winter Wheat Family Flour, fresh ground from old wheat, and warranted.
CHAS. A. ROPES & SON.

At this season of the year it will profit you to use Ferrated Hygienic Wine, to cleanse your blood of all poisonous humor. tf

Health is of more consequence than wealth Many sick ones might be cured by using Ferrated Hygienic Wine, tf

W. B. GIFFORD & CO.,

77 & 79 MARKET ST., LYNN.

We now beg leave to announce our

FALL DRESS GOODS,

which have now arrived, consisting of Home Spuns, Combination Suitings, Plaids, Plain and Plaid, Ladies Cloths.

Also, we are constantly receiving

VELVETS, SILKS, ETC.

SPECIAL MENTION Grand Mark Down sale of Lawn Dresses, Dressing Sacques, Wrappers, etc., to make room for our New Fall and Winter Garments, Shawls, etc.

New Buttons, Clasps, Feather and Marabout Trimmings arriving every day.

Special attractions in our Corset, Glove, Toilet and Hosiery Departments.

W. B. Gifford & Co.

WE HAVE

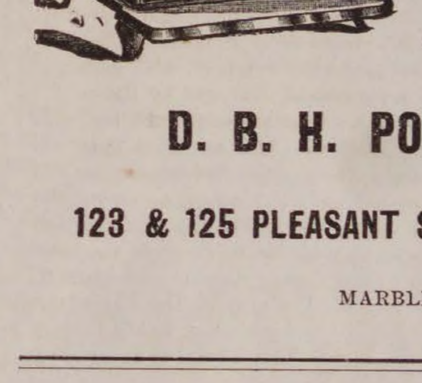
Just closed a contract with one of the largest manufacturers of Chamber furniture in the country for 2 car loads of

CHAMBER SETS,

consisting of Ash, Black Walnut, Cherry and Painted, which we shall offer to the citizens of Essx County this week, with

I CAR LOAD OF MATTRESSES,

at way down prices, either for cash or on our easy instalment plan, $1 down and $1 a week. We have the largest stock of



Stoves, Ranges,

Furniture, Carpets,

and Crockery,

In fact anything in the house furnishing line to be found in Essex county.

Goods delivered free. Horse and steam cars stop at door. Call and be convinced we can save you money. Send for catalogue price list. Balance of

Refrigerators, Oil Stoves,

and Children's Carriages,

at very low prices.

Curtains made and put up. Carpet made by hand by experienced workers.

D. B. H. POWER & CO.,

123 & 125 PLEASANT ST. 24 SCHOOL ST.,

MARBLEHEAD.

W. C. ROBINSON,

(Successor to Smith & Robinson.)

Dealer in all kinds of

STATIONERY AND

ARTISTS' MATERIALS.

Pictures and Picture Frames.

Everything to be found in a first class establishment.

— Everything in our line at Bottom Prices. —

The people of Peabody are cordially invited to look at our stock, and see our display of paintings and art work.

We are agents for the celebrated

ROGERS' GROUPS.

☞ Horse cars pass the door.

W. C. Robinson,

42 MARKET STREET, LYNN, MASS.

BUSHBY & MACURDY'S

CABINET PHOTOGRAPHS

At $3.00 per dozen are 100 per cent. better than any club-check photographs; and are guaranteed fully equal in

Posing, Lighting, Finish and Permanency

to any $10 cabinets made in Boston or New York.

The largest and best constructed operating studio in New England. 40,000 negatives preserved.

521 Washington St.,

BOSTON.

Elevator from the ground. feb 11—3m

MERRIAM & CO.,

DEALERS IN

WOOD AND COAL

Danversport, Mass.

Kohinoor Coal, Bear Ridge Coal, Sheao kin Coal, Genuine Franklin Coal, Cumberland Coal.

All the best quality. Try them.

For Cash lower than can be bought elsewhere

Orders can be left with B. F. Stevens, Peabody, or by telphone to N. P. Merriam, Tapleyville, and will be promptly attended to. em—

BATCHELDER & CO.,

DEALER IN

WOOD COAL HAY & STRAW.

Danversport and Peabody.

Cyrus P. Batchelder Chauncy S. Richards

OFFICE IN PEABODY:

7 ALLEN'S BLOCK, SQUARE.

GREAT

REDUCTION IN PRICE OF

COAL

— AT —

PICKERINGS

17 Peabody St., Salem, Mass

WHERE ALL FIRST-CLASS COALS CAN BE FOUND

Specialty made in Steam Coals.

Orders can be left at Office, 12 Front St., or at B. P. Pickering's Store, Salem.

SPECIAL RATES MADE FOR LARGE ORDERS

WHARF, 17 PEABODY STREET

WM. PICKERING, JR & CO.,

17 Peabody Street.

PATENTS.

R. H. EDDY,

No. 76 State St., oopposite Kilby, Boston;

Secures patents in the United States; also in Great Britain, France and other foreign countries. Copies of the claims of any patents furnished by remitting one dollar. Assignments recorded at Washington. No Agency in the United States possesses superior facilities for obtaining Patents or ascertaining the patentability of inventions. R. H. EDDY, Solicitor of patents.

TESTIMONIALS.

"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse."
CHAS. MASON, Commissioner of Patents.

"Inventors cannot employ a person more trustworthy or more capable of securing for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office."
EDMUND BURKE, late Com. of Patents.

BOSTON, Oct. 19, 1870.
R. H. EDDY, Esq.—Dear Sir: you procured for me, in 1870, my first patent. Since then you have acted for and advised me in hundreds of cases, and procured many patents, re-issues and extensions. I have occasionally employed the best agencies in New York, Philadelphia and Washington, but I still give you almost the whol of my business, in your line, and advise othehr o employ you.

Yours truly, GEORGE DRAPER.

Boston, January 1, 1885.—1 v

FOR SALE.

House and land on Aborn street belonging to the estate of the late P. L. WINCHESTER. The house is two and one-half stories, and contains fourteen rooms, and is in good condition. The land measures about 10,000 feet, and there is connected with the premises a good stable. For terms or further particulars apply to

GEORGE J. WINCHESTER,
dec19 Administrator

THE KEY OF DEATH.

In the collection of curiosities preserved in the arsenal of Venice, there is a key of which the following singular tradition is related :—

"About the year 1600 one of those dangerous men, in whom extraordinary talent is only the fearful source of crime and wickedness beyond that of ordinary men, came to establish himself as a merchant or trader in Venice. The stranger whose name was Tebaldo, became enamored of the daughter of an ancient house, already affianced to another. He demanded her hand in marriage, and was, of course, rejected. Enraged at this, he studied how to be revenged. Profoundly skilled in the mechanical arts, he allowed himself no rest until he had invented the most formidable weapon which could be imagined. This was a key of large size, the handle of which was so constructed that it could be turned round with little difficulty ; when turned it discovered a spring, which, on pressure, launched from the other end a needle or lancet of such subtle fineness that it entered into the flesh and buried itself there without leaving external trace. Tebaldo waited in disguise at the door of the church in which the maiden whom he loved was about to receive the nuptial benediction. The assassin sent the slender steel unperceived into the breast of the bridegroom. The wounded man had no suspicion of injury, but seized with a sudden and sharp pain in the midst of the ceremony he fainted, and was carried to his house, amid the lamentations of the bridal party. Vain was all the skill of the physicians, who could not devise the cause of this strange illness ; and in a few days he died. Tebaldo again demanded the hand of the maiden from her parents, and received a second refusal. They, too, perished miserably in a few days. The alarm which these deaths—which appeared almost miraculous—occasioned, excited the utmost vigilence of the magistrates ; and when, on close examination of the bodies, the small instrument was found in the gangrened flesh, terror was universal ; every one feared for his own life. The maiden thus cruelly orphaned had passed the first months of her mourning in a convent, when Tebaldo, hoping to bend her to his will, entreated to speak with her at the grate. The face of the foreigner had been ever displeasing to her, but since the death of all those most dear to her it had become odious (as though she had a presumption of his guilt), and her reply was most decisive in the negative. Tebaldo, beyond himself with rage, attempted to wound her through the grate, and succeeded ; the obscurity of the place prevented his movement being observed. On her return to her room the maiden felt a pain in her breast, and uncovering it, she found it spotted with a single drop of blood. The pain increased ; the surgeons who hastened to her assistance—taught by the past—wasted no time in conjecture, but, cutting deep into the wounded part, extracted the needle before any mortal mischief had commenced, and saved the life of the lady. The State inquisition used every means to discover the hand who dealt these insidious and irresistible blows. The visit of Tebaldo to the convent caused suspicion to fall heavily upon him. The house was carefully searched, the infamous invention discovered, and he perished on the gibbet.

* * *

A DEAD MINING TOWN.

There is in Victoria a town of ruined houses—Matlock. Its life began in 1864, with a rush of diggers. The last inhabitant left in 1879. In the fifteen years Metlock had found a fortune and seen it turned to dross. The diggers lost their wits as at Ballarat, lit their pipes with bank notes and played at skittles with bottles of wine. "On one occasion," says Mr. Sutherland, two lucky diggers laid a wager about which of them should treat the assembly to the largest 'shout!' The first ordered several dozens of the most expensive wines, far more than the company could be expected to drink with the utmost diligence. But the other completely eclipsed this effort by ordering out the landlords whole stock of champagne, amounting to about two hundred bottles. It was bought and disposed of in every absurd way that reckless ingenuity could invent. This sort of conduct ruined many of the diggers." Deeson, the poor man who went out one day with his children's cries of bread ringing in his ears, and returned with the nugget ("Welcome Stranger") that sold for ten thousand pounds, was a man of good personal habits, but he soon fell into poverty. He did not know when he had enough. He invested his fortune in machinery and lost it all. He toiled on through life in poverty a hundred yards from the spot where a single stroke of his pick turned up a fortune.

* * *

NAMES OF CITIES.

The "City of Churches" is Brooklyn, New York ; the "City of Masts" is London ; the "City of Monuments" is Baltimore Maryland ; the "City of Refuge" is Medina, Arabia, where Mohammed took refuge when driven by conspirators from Mecca ; the "City of the Sun" is Baalbec ; the "City of the Tribes" is Galway, Ireland, the residence in 1235 of thirteen tribes who settled there ; and the "cleanest city in the world" is Brok, in Holland.

* * *

THE CHEAP AND THE DEAR SELLER.

Is it not the first law of economics that the cheap seller will supersede the dear seller and get all his market away ? Certainly that is true in the long run, but it is not true in five minutes. The difficulties in the way of the "undercutter" or underseller are very great indeed. In the first place, "the trade" hate him, and the hatred of the trade is unpleasant—good assistants shunning the banned shops—or, in the strictly organized trades, intolerable. Effort after effort has been made to beat the bakers, who hold very closely together, but with very little result. They will let down pieces to a point, but no further, being quite aware that in all trades which take room there are limits to competition. Two half-pence on two loaves are not equal to a penny on one loaf when the ovens will only hold so many loaves. Then the buyer who cares about a fall of a penny is always wanting credit, and does not like to quit the man who will give it, and who regards desertion as the one unpardonable sin. Moreover, he, or rather she, believes in the customary price, and, whatever the newspapers may say, cannot get rid of the impression that somehow the underseller is giving her, in some way, inferior quality for her money—a belief diligently encouraged by the regular tradesman. And lastly, the underseller being anxious mainly for accidental custom, is neither so obliging nor so patient, nor so careful about deliveries as his established rival. So strongly do these three causes work together, that we have heard of instances in which bakers in populous neighborhoods have brought their underselling rivals stocks and sold them at their own prices without their customers either knowing or resenting the tax so directly levied. The force of habit, which even arrests downfalls in bread, is much stronger as to articles less needed and less accurately understood, till we arrive at cases in which, as in the milk trade, cheapness is positively suspected or disliked, as if it must of necessity be based upon some fraud. Of course, in the end, if wholesale prices are low the undersellers win, and the new price establishes itself, in which case woe to the retailers when wholesale prices rise. They have to endure a storm of inquiries, objurgations, and epithets which must take the sweetness of their previous gains quite out of them, and very often are compelled to yield and compensate themselves by unsuspected reductions in quality. As a rule, however, the demand that a customary and low price should be lower still comes with surprising slowness, and the distributors, when their wholesale market has given way, enjoy unexpected profits continuously for months. The public will not, in this instance, grudge the shopkeepers their gains, for they had previously been suffering greatly from different causes—one being the difficulty of meeting the competition of the stores ; but they certainly for some time past have had cause to bless the "general depression."

* * *

QUEER CANDY.

It would seem very strange, and perhaps not very pleasant, to my young readers to here a tallow candle or the shin bone of a reindeer called candy. And yet these things may really be considered as Esquimaux candy, because they would delight the children of the cold in precisely the way that a box of bonbons would delight you. There is a certain kind of water-fowl in arctic countries known as the dovekie. It is about the size of a duck, is quite black, has a prominent white stripe on its wings, and its webbed feet are of a brilliant red. When sitting in rows on the edge of greenish rock these little red feet are very conspicuous. Sometimes, when the men have killed a number of dovekies, the Esquimaux women cut off the bright red feet, draw out the bones, and, blowing into the skins, distend them as much as possible so as to form pouches. When these pouches are thoroughly dried they are filled with reindeer tallow, and the bright red packages, which I assure you look much nicer than they taste, are little Boreas's candy. In very cold weather the Esquimaux children eat great quantities of fat and blubber ; and this fatty food, which seems to us so uninviting, helps to keep them warm and well. The only other kind of candy that the Esquimaux children have is the marrow from the long leg or shin bone of the slaughtered reindeer. Of this also they are very fond. Whenever a reindeer is killed and the meat has been stripped from the bones of the legs these bones are placed on the floor of the igloo and cracked with a hatchet until the marrow is exposed. The bones are then forced apart with the hands and the marrow is dug out of the ends with a long, sharp, and narrow spoon made from a walrus's tusk. I have eaten this reindeer marrow frozen and cooked, and after one becomes accustomed to eating frozen meat raw it is really an acceptable tidbit ; while cooked and nicely served it would be delicacy anywhere.

* * *

An unchanging state of joy is not possible on earth as it now is, because evil and error are here. The soul must have its midnight hour as well as its sunlit seasons of joy and gladness.

A Great Victory

A Terrible Case of Scrofula Cured by

Hood's Sarsaparilla

"In the winter of 1879 I was attacked with Scrofula in one of the most aggravating forms. At one time I had no less than thirteen large abscesses over and around my neck and throat, continually exuding an offensive mass of bloody matter disgusting to behold, and almost intolerable to endure. It is impossible to fully describe my sufferings, as the case was complicated with Chronic Catarrh. After three years of misery, having been treated by three physicians, I was worse than ever. Finally, on the recommendation of W. J. Huntley, druggist, of Lockport, I was induced to try Hood's Sarsaparilla. And now, after having taken twelve bottles, within the last twelve months, the scrofulous eruptions have entirely ceased, and the abscesses have all disappeared, except the unsightly scars, which are daily becoming 'smaller by degrees, and beautifully less.' I do not know what it may have done for others, but I do know that in my case, Hood's Sarsaparilla has proved an effective specific indeed. As an evidence of my gratitude I send these facts unsolicited, and I am ready to verify the authenticity of this cure, by personal correspondence with any one who doubts it." CHARLES A. ROBERTS, East Wilson, N. Y.

This statement is confirmed by W. J. Huntley, druggist, of Lockport, N. Y., who calls the cure a great victory for Hood's Sarsaparilla. Send for book giving statements of many cures.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Sold by all druggists. $1; six for $5. Made only by C. I. HOOD & CO., Lowell, Mass.

100 Doses One Dollar.

KEEP IT PURE.

THE LIFE IS THE BLOOD—PREVENT DISEASE —SURGERY THE LAST RESORT—A TELLING LETTER.

Here is a fact for you to think over, viz.: Medical science proves that diseases, no matter how great a variety they seem to have, proceed from comparatively few causes. It is for this reason that some single medicines relieve or cure so wide a range of complaints—some of them appearing almost directly opposite in their natures. When a medical preparation acts at once upon the digestive and urinary organs, and also purifies the blood, the list of difficulties subject to its control is astonishing. But, while many things are said to possess this power, those which actually do exert it are very rare.

It is conceded that DR. KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY, of Rondout, N. Y., is the most effective preparation now in use for all diseases arising from a foul or impure state of the circulation. Hence it is more than likely that if the writer of the following letter had habitually taken "FAVORITE REMEDY" ten years ago, he would never have suffered from Cancer.

PITTSFIELD, MASS., March 22, 1884.

Dr. D. Kennedy, Rondout, N. Y.:

Dear Sir: About six years ago I was obliged to resort to external treatment for the removal of a cancerous growth on my lip. On my return home, I became sensible that my blood needed a thorough cleansing. My whole system, too, required toning up. While casting about for the best medicine to do this your "FAVORITE REMEDY" was so highly commended in my hearing that I resolved to try it. I did so, and the result surprised me, it was effected so quickly and completely. I soon got over the depression produced by the operation, and since the "FAVORITE REMEDY," which I have continued to take in small doses, has kept me in such health and strength as I never had before, nor expected to have. It is the best blood purifier in the world I am sure of that.

Yours, etc.,
MATTHEW FARRELL.
24 Adams Street.

In all cases when a consultation is deemed desirable.

Address, Dr. David Kennedy, Rondout, N. Y. But, if you have not done so, adopt "FAVORITE REMEDY" as a household friend.

MALARIA.

As an anti-malarial medicine

DR. DAVID KENNEDY'S

FAVORITE REMEDY

has won golden opinions. No traveler should consider his outfit complete unless it includes a bottle of this medicine. If you are exposed to frequent changes of climate, food and water, Favorite Remedy should always be within your reach. It expels malarial poisons, and is the best preventative of chills and malarial fever in the world. It is especially offered as a trustworthy specific for the cure of Kidney and Liver complaints, Constipation and all disorders arising from an impure state of the blood. To women who suffer from any of the ills peculiar to their sex Favorite Remedy is constantly proving itself an unfailing friend—a real blessing. Address the proprietor, Dr. D. Kennedy, Rondout, N. Y. $1 bottle, 6 for $5, by all druggists.

COMER'S COMMERCIAL COLLEGE,

666 Washington Street, BOSTON.

Thorough and Comprehensive Instruction in all Studies Essential to Success in Business.

Students may commence at any time, Receive Individual Instruction and progress according to ability and application. Separate department for Ladies.

☞ Graduates Aided to Employment. Young people receive instruction here that will insure a successful start in business, and that will benefit them throughout their business career. For 45th Annual Catalogue, Address C. E. COMER.

jy 15—13t

POLO.

This popular game adapted for home amusement to play on the table.

PRICE $1.00.

For sale by all dealers. Manufactured by

HORACE A. BROOKS,

BOOK BINDER AND BLANK BOOK MANUFACTURER,

226 Essex Street, Salem, Mass.

Agents Wanted
HOLY BIBLE REVISED VERSION.

Bibles at 1-2 and Old Testaments at less than 1-3 the prices of the English editions, and equal to the English in type, paper, printing and accuracy. First agent sent out reports an order at every call for two weeks. Rare chance for agents to make money. Send $1.00 for outfit. TERMS VERY LIBERAL. The Henry Bill Pub. Co., Norwich, Conn.

JAMES G. BLAINE'S GREAT HISTORY

Outsells all other books. Hon. J. S. Wise of Va., says: "Whoever takes it up, no matter whether he be Mr. Blaine's friend or enemy, will never put it down until he has read the whole." Hon. Allen G. Thurman, says: "A classic in our political history." Agents make from $200 to $1000 per month. Address, The Henry Bill Pub. Co., Norwich Conn.

Saving Institutions.

WARREN

FIVE CENTS SAVINGS BANK.

PEABODY

PRESIDENT.
Rufus H. Brown

Vice Presidents,

Stephen Blaney,	Geo. F. Osborne,
Lewis Allen,	Amos Merrill,
Chas. B. Farley,	John A. Lord.

Trustees,

Rufus H. Brown,	Alex. B. Merrill,
Stephen Blaney,	C. Warren Osborne,
Lewis Allen,	Geo. S. Osborne,
Chas. B. Farley,	Nathl. Symonds.
Geo. F. Osborne,	Aaron F. Clark,
Amos Merrill,	Albert A. Messer,
John A. Lord,	John Pinder,
Benj. S. Wheeler,	Wm. P. Clark,
Wm. H. Little,	Reuben G. Nelson,
Aaron W. Warren,	Albert H. Merrill.

Clerk,
Albert H. Merrill.

Committee of Investment.
Rufus H. Brown,

Lewis Allen,	Alex. B. Merrill
C. Warren Osborne.	Nathl. Symonds.

Dividends are credited to the depositor as soon as declared, and immediately put upon interest.

New deposits commence drawing interest on the third Wednesday of February, May, August and November.

Peabody, March 6, 1878.

SALEM

FIVE CENTS

SAVINGS

BANK.

Cor. Washington & Essex Sts.,

WILLIAM H. JELLY, President.

CHARLES H. HENDERSON, Treas.

REMOVAL.

F. A. WRUCK

Watchmaker and Jeweller,

Would inform his friends and the public generally that he has removed from 165 to

276 ESSEX STREET,

(Wheeler & Wilson's Sewing Machine Office)

Where he will be pleased to see his former customers and as many new ones as will favor him with their patronage.

FINE WATCH AND CLOCK REPAIRING AT REDUCED PRICES PERSONALLY ATTENDED TO

HAZEN A. SPAULDING,

DRUGGIST.

9 Allen's Block, Peabody, Mass.

Where can be found a first class assortment of Pure Drugs and Medicines; also a large assortment of Toilet Articles and Fancy Goods at moderate prices.

A large assortment of Imported and Domestic Cigars.

Physicians' Prescriptions a Specialty.

HAZEN A. SPAULDING

Store Connected by Telephone.

CENTRAL FISH MARKET

(Formerly Southwick's.

RALPH F. DODGE, Prop.

OYSTERS OYSTERS OYSTERS

In the shell or opened.

IPSWICH CLAMS FRESH EVERY DAY

A good selection of Norfolk, Providence River oysters a specialty. The famous Lynn Haven Bay Oysters.

A good assortment of Fresh, Salt, Smoked and Pickled Fish. Orders received and delivered promptly. Connected by telephone.

At the old stand on the Square, opposite the monument.

WIN more money than at anything else by taking an agency for the best selling book out. Beginners succeed grandly. None fail. Terms free. HALLETT BOOK CO., Portland, Me.

HELP for working people. Send 10 cents postage, and we will mail you free, a royal, valuable sample box of goods that will put you in the way of making more money in a few days than you ever thought possible at any business. Capital not required. You can live at home and work in spare time only, or all the time. All of both sexes, of all ages, grandly successful, 50 cents to $5 easily earned every evening. That all who want work may test the business, we make this unparalleled offer: To all who are not well satisfied we will send $1 to pay for the trouble of writing us. Full particulars, directions, etc., sent free. Immense pay absolutely sure for all who start at once. Don't delay. Address STINSON & Co., Portland, Me.

MUNROE & ARNOLD'S

PEABODY AND BOSTON

RAILROAD EXPRESS.

Express leaves Peabody	at	9 47 A. M
Freight " "	at	5 00 P. M
Express " Boston	at	3 30 P. M
Freight " "	at	4 00 P. M

OFFICE AT FREIGHT DEPOT, Peabody

Express Offices in Boston, 174 Washington and 15 New Devonshire Street.

Freight Office in Boston, 128 State Street

☞ Particular attention paid to removing Furniture, collecting Bills, Notes, Drafts &c., Smallest favors thankfully received.

B. M. HILLS'

PEABODY and SALEM

EXPRESS.

CHANGE OF TIME.

Connects with Eastern and No. Conway Trains Leaves Peabody at 7.30 A. M., and 1.30 P.M. Salem, at 10 A. M., and 4.45 P. M.

Order Boxes.—PEABODY, at Holman's, Pickering's, Bushby & Johnson's, Frost's Drug Store and Sutton's Wool Store.

SALEM, at Savory's Express Office, Roberts' Store corner Washington and Front Sts., and 15 Central Street.

B. M. HILLS' Express connects with the Eastern and Western Expresses

---

ESTES'

SALEM AND PEABODY EXPRESS.

Leaves Peabody at 7.30 A. M., 1.30 P. M.
Leaves Salem at 10.30 A. M., 4.30 P. M.

Order Slates in Peabody, at G. Stevens', G. H. Jacobs', L. Pratt's, B. B. Humphrey's, W. O. Batchelder's.

In Salem at J. V. & J. Hanson & Co's, Roberts Fruit Store, Henry Hale's, E. Heffernan's, J. J. Mullin, F. C. Radford's, C. A. Ropes & Son, Geo A. Wells & Co's., C. M. Buffum's.

Connects with Eastern Express. Also connects with No. Conway, and the Beverly, Ipswich and Marblehead Expresses.

All orders promptly attended to and satisfaction guaranteed.

CHAS. H. ESTES,

TOWNSEND'S

PEABODY & BOSTON

EXPRESS.

Leaves Peabody at 10 A. M. over the Wakefield Branch R. R.

Leaves the Boston Office, 32 Court Square, at 2 P. M.

All business entrusted to my care will be safely and carefully attended to. Daily and weekly papers supplied.

Order Slates:—At B. F. Stevens', Bushby's, Batchelder's, B. B. Humphrey's, E. S. Howard's, and Nugent Bros. stores.

JAMES F. FOYE.

THOMAS H. O'KEEFE.

JOBBING AND EXPRESSING

of all kinds promptly attended to.

Persons desiring the removal of furnitue or ashes, rubbish, you can have such work satisfactorily done by leaving orders at G., Stevens', Batchelder's, or addressing Box 545, Peabody.

NEW COUPE.

Henry C. Wilson would inform the public that he will run a

PUBLIC CARRIAGE

to and from each train, and will also attend to calls around town, and to late trains and entertainments in Salem. Will also attend to Baggage Expressing and Jobbing of all kinds. Terms Reasonable. Order slate at Depot.

HENRY C. WILSON,
Peabody Mass.

CROSS,

PHOTOGRAPHER.

☞ There having been demand or more Clubs, I have concluded to issue a limited number.

INDUCEMENTS:

Two dozen Cards and two Cabinets given to any one getting up a Club of ten persons. Price of Club, $20. Each person to have one dozen Cards and one Cabinet finished in any of the different styles desired.

IRA P. NADOR,

DEALER IN

CHOICE CONFECTIONERY

46 MARKET STREET LYNN

CHARLES SIMONDS,

LIVERY STABLE,

(HOTEL STABLE).

SAFE and Reliable Horses, and Easy Carriages of the best style, furnished at short notice, for Funerals, Weddings, Business or Pleasure Riding.

$200,000 in presents given away. Send us 5 cents postage, and by mail you will get free a package of goods of large value, that will start you in work that will at once bring you in money faster than anything else in America. All about the $200,000 in presents with each box. Agents wanted everywhere, of either sex, of all ages, for all the time, or spare time only, to work for us at their own home. Fortunes for all workers absolutely assured. Don't delay. H. HALLETT & Co., Portland, Maine.

Professional Cards.

THOMAS M. STIMPSON

Attorney and Counselor-at-Law.

194 ESSEX STREET SALEM

Residence Lowell Street, Peabody.

HENRY WARDWELL,

Attorney and Counselor-at-Law.

PEABODY,

And 35 Court St., Boston

FRANK E. FARNHAM,

Attorney and Counselor-at-Law.

REAL ESTATE, INSURANCE AND INVESTMENT AGENT,

ALLEN'S BLOCK Peabody Square,

REMOVAL.

B. C. PERKINS,

Counselor at Law,

Has removed to Kinsman's Block,

81 WASHINGTON STREET, SALEM.

Evening consultations at residence, Peabody.

EUGENE T. McCARTHY,

Attorney and Counsellor at Law.

NO. 8 ALLEN'S BLOCK,

PEABODY.

oct 29—1y

FREDERIC G. PRESTON,

Attorney and Counsellor at Law.

ALLEN'S BLOCK.

RESIDENCE, 171 BOSTON ST., SALEM.

CHARLES A. WEARE,

Attorney and Counsellor at Law.

ALLEN'S BUILDING,

PEABODY, MASS.

MISS MARY E. LYNCH

TEACHER OF

Piano and Organ.

South Peabody, Mass.

Terms of tuition 8 and 10 dollars Pupils visited at their homes if desired.

MISS ANNIE L. ORR,

TEACHER OF

VOCAL & INSTRUMENTAL MUSIC

Would solicit pupils. For terms apply to W P. Clark, or Miss Orr, No. 7 Palfry Place. Lynn, Mass. apr 29

Business Cards.

HENRY L. WHIDDEN,

PAINTER.

Orders left at A. H. Whidden's Store will be attended to.

J. H. ALLEN,

UNDERTAKER,

Removed to 36 St. Peter street, Salem

jan 11

W. S. OSBORNE,

TOWN UNDERTAKER & FURNISHER

Home, 96 Central St., Peabody. Office Second Door west of Hay Scales.

EDWIN B. BALCOM,

Architect and Builder.

Plans, Specifications and Estimates furnished at Short Notice. Contracts Made and Faithfully executed.

Shop on Walnut St. Residence, 78 Washington St.

PEABODY. MASS.

$1

13 WEEKS.

The POLICE GAZETTE will be mailed, securely wrapped, to any address in the United States for three months on receipt of

ONE DOLLAR.

Liberal discount allowed to postmasters, agents and clubs. Sample copies mailed free. Address all orders to

RICHARD K. FOX,
FRANKLIN SQUARE, N. Y.

TRY LYONS'

Hair Tonic.

It cleanses the scalp, removes dandruff, and promotes the growth of the hair.

Price 50 Cents per Bottle.

Put up and for sale only by

P. J. LYONS,

on the square.

Hale's Honey the great Cough cure, 25c., 50c. & $1
Glenn's Sulphur Soap heals & beautifies, 25c.
German Corn Remover kills Corns & Bunions
Hill's Hair and Whisker Dye—Black and Brown, 50c.
Pike's Toothache Drops cure in 1 Minute, 25c
Dean's Rheumatic Pills are a sure cure, 50c.
feb 18—1y

HEADQUARTERS !

FOR CIGARS.

THE BEST

to be found in the world? To prove it just call at the HORSE RAILROAD STATION on the Square, and see them

GEO. STEVENS,

PEABODY SQUARE,

Agent for the Naumkeag Laundry.

MAYO'S

Compound Vegetable Anæsthetic.

A safe and pleasant substitute for gas and ether.

"Discovered by Dr. N. K. Mayo of Boston, April 1883, subsequently administered by him in nearly two thousand cases, producing perfect slumber, being applicable to the child, the delicate sentitive woman as well as the hardy man. No ill effects have followed its use in any case, it acting rather as a vegetable tonic.

It controls the patient one-fourth longer than gas giving us time to remove from three to twenty teeth. It is with great confidence we have introduced it into our practice, giving very successful results.

DRS. FRIZZELL & WILLIAMS

DENTISTS.

LEE HALL

Opposite City Hall, Lynn, Mass.

Administered also at our branch office, Marblehead.

Dr. Williams' Toothache Drops at Druggists.

O. B. CHADWICK & CO.,

(SUCCESSORS TO CHAS. TAPLEY)

FIRE INSURANCE AGENTS

NO. 8 ALLEN'S BLOCK, PEABODY

Over $12,000,000 Cash Capital represented

Also Agents for Holyoke, Merrimac, Quincy, and Dorchester Mutual Fire Ins. Cos.

Particular attention given to insuring Household Furniture, Family Wearing Apparel, Musical Instruments, Libraries, and Merchandise of all kinds in sums of $100 and upward, for one, three or five years, at the lowest rates.

D. P. GROSVENOR.

PHARMACIST AND DRUGGIST,

Compounder of

Physicians Prescriptions

and dealer in

RELIABLE DRUGS.

35 MAIN STREET.

PEABODY, MASS.

PEABODY LAUNDRY.

Goods called for and delivered free of charge.

C. A. SANGER

7 LOWELL STREET,

UP STAIRS.

SWEETSER'S

DRUG STORE

NO, 37 MAIN STREET,

PEABODY

Drugs and Medicines of all kinds; Toilet Articles, Sponges, Brushes, Perfumery, &c., constantly on hand.

Prescriptions carefully and promptly prepared.

REMOVED TO

No. 241 Essex St..

PRICE BLOCK,

DANIEL T. SMITH,

Watchmaker.

CRAIG'S

KIDNEY CURE

The Genuine.

WILLIAM T. LEE

AGENT.

AGENTS WANTED for Twenty Years of Congress, 1861–1881, by James G. Blaine. Hon. J. S. Wise of Va. says: "Whoever takes it up, no matter whether he be Mr. Blaine's friend or enemy, will never put it down until he has read the whole." Agents make from $200 to $1000 per month. Address, The Henry Bill Pub. Co., Norwich, Conn.

Railroads.

OLD COLONY RAILROAD.

SEASON OF 1885.

Excursion Rates

FROM BOSTON.

To	Rates.
Barnstable and return	$2.90
Brant Rock and return	2.00
Brewster and return	3.60
Buzzard's Bay and return	2.15
Cataumet and return	2.40
Duxbury and return	1.50
East Brewster and return	3.70
East Marshfield and return	1.20
East Wareham and return	2.10
Eastham and return	3.90
Egypt and return	1.00
Falmouth and return	2.75
Fairhaven and return	2.30
Greenbush and return	1.10
Harwich and return	3.40
Hyannis and return	3.00
Kingston and return	1.50
Marshfield and return	1.40
Marion and return	2.00
Mattapoisett and return	2.20
Monument and return	2.20
Monument Beach and return	2.25
Nantucket and return	4.00
Newport and return	2.50
North Eastham and return	4.00
North Falmouth and return	2.45
North Harwich and return	3.30
North Sandwich and return	2.30
North Scituate and return	.95
North Truo and return	4.55
Oak Bluffs and return	3.00
Onset Bay and return	2.15
Orleans and return	3.75
Plymouth and return	1.50
Pocassett and return	2 35
Provincetown and return	4.80
Rock and return	1.55
Sandwich and return	2.50
Sea View and return	1.25
Scituate and return	1.05
South Dennis and return	3.25
South Duxbury and return	1.50
South Middleboro and return	1.65
South Truo and return	3.45
South Wareham and return	1.90
South Wellfleet and return	4.15
South Yarmouth and return	3.20
Tremont and return	1.80
Truo and return	4 40
Wareham and return	1.95
Wellfleet and return	4.25
West Barnstable and return	2.75
West Falmouth and return	2.55
West Sandwich and return	2.40
Woods Holl and return	2.85
Yarmouth and return	3.90

Tickets are limited to continuous passage only in either direction.

Tickets sold from June 1st to October 1st good to return until November 1st of year of date.

J. SPRAGUE, Jr.,
Gen.'l Pass. Agent.
J. R. KENDRICK,
Gen'l Manager.

BOSTON & LOWELL R. R.
JUNE 29, 1885.

PASSENGER SERVICE FROM SALEM:

Leave Salem for Lowell, and Lawrence at 7 10, 10 55 A. M., 4 40 P. M. Sunday 7 20 P. M.
Leave Lowell for Salem, at 7 35 A. M., 1 10, 6 P. M. Sunday 7 43 A. M.
Leave Lawrence for Salem, at 7 45 A. M., 1 05, 6 P. M. Sunday 7 45 A. M.
Leave Wilmington Junction for Salem, at 8 09 A. M., 1 38, 6 24 P. M. Sunday 8 13 A. M.
Leave North Reading for Salem, at 8 20 A. M., 1 48, 6 34 P. M. Sunday 8 24 A. M.
Leave West Peabody for Salem, at 8 34 A. M., 2, 6 45 P. M. Sunday 8 36 A. M.

The 7 10 A. M. and 4 40 P. M. trains from Salem connect at Wilmington Junction for Boston via B. & L. R. R.

Leave Boston (Boston & Lowell Depot) for Wilmington Junction and North Reading, at 1, 5 30 P. M.

All trains from Salem connect at Lowell for Nashua, Manchester and Concord, N. H.

The 7 10 A. M. train connects at Lowell for Peterboro, Keene and intermediate stations.

The 10 55 A. M. train connects at Ayer Junction for stations on W. & N. R. R., Springfield, Hartford, New Haven and New York; also for Troy, Albany and the West via Hoosac Tunnel Line.

C. S MELLEN, Gen'l Supt.
LUCIUS TUTTLE, Gen'l Pass. Agent.

Store and Window Awnings, Hammocks, Boatsails and Wagon Covers

Anton M. Liebsch

7 DERBY WHARF,

SALEM.

BURDETT Business COLLEGE

167 TREMONT ST., BOSTON.

Day and Evening Sessions.

Book-keeping, Business Arithmetic, Penmanship, Commercial Law, Business Correspondence, etc.

For complete information call at the College Office, or send for Journal.

y 15—2m

A PRESENT!

Our readers for 12 cents in postage stamps to pay for mailing and wrapping and names of two book agents, will receive FREE a Steel Finish Parlor Engraving of all OUR PRESIDENTS, including Cleveland, size 22x28 inch, worth $4. Address

ELDER PUB. CO., Chicago, Ill.

St. JACOBS OIL
TRADE MARK
THE GREAT
GERMAN REMEDY
FOR PAIN.

CURES

Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Sciatica,
Lumbago, Backache, Headache, Toothache,
Sore Throat, Swellings, Sprains, Bruises, Burns, Scalds, Frost Bites,
AND ALL OTHER BODILY PAINS AND ACHES.
Sold by Druggists and Dealers everywhere. Fifty Cents a bottle. Directions in 11 Languages.

THE CHARLES A. VOGELER CO.
(Successors to A. VOGELER & CO.) Baltimore, Md., U. S. A.

Boston & Maine R. R.

SEASHORE LINE.

— THE —

SHORTEST, QUICKEST and BEST ROUTE

— TO —

LAKE WINNIPESAUKEE

— AND THE —

WHITE MOUNTAINS.

FROM SALEM TO FABYANS.

The Centre of the White Mountain Region

65 Miles Shorter and nearly 2 hours Quicker

THAN ANY OTHER ROUTE.

Leave Salem	10.10 A. M.,	2.02 P. M.
Arr. Wolfboro	1.05 P M.,	5.20 P. M.
Arr. No. Conway	2 00 "	6.05 "
Arr. Crawford House	3.10 "	7.15 "
Arr. Fabyans	3 25 "	7.30 "
Arr. Bethlehem	4.28 "
Arr. Profile House	4.47 "

RETURNING,

Leave Fabyans at 9.35 A. M. and 2.10 P. M.
Arr. at Salem at 3.12 A. M. and 7.57 P. M.

Elegant Pullman Cars on all Trains Running Through to Fabyans.

EXCURSION RATES FROM SALEM

SPECIAL LIMITED.

Alton Bay	and Return,	$3.50
Wolfboro,	" "	4.00
Centre Harbor,	" "	4 00
Long Island,	" "	4.00
Weirs,	" "	4.00
Lake Village,	" "	4.00
Crawford House, good for the season,		10.00
Fabyans	and return "	10.50
Bethlehem	" " "	12.20
Profile House,	" " "	14.50

EXCURSION TICKETS

May be procured at the Salem Station.

PARLOR CAR SEATS

Send on application to

L. W. MARDEN, Ticket Agent.

JAS. T. FURBER, General Manager.
D. J. FLANDERS, Gen'l Pass. Agent.

BOSTON & LOWELL R. R.

MERRIMAC VALLEY ROUTE,

TO THE

White Mountains,
Montreal, Quebec,

AND ALL PARTS OF

Vermont,
New Hampshire
and Canada.

Accelerated Summer Service from Boston.

In Effect June 29, 1885.

8.30 A. M. Express for Weirs, Centre Harbor, Wolfboro' and Montreal, with through parlor cars via Plymouth and via White River Junction,

9.30 A. M. White Mountains Express, with through parlor cars to Weirs, Plymouth, Jefferson, Fabyan, Twin Mountain House and Mount Pleasant House; connecting for Maplewood, Bethlehem, Profile House Crawford and Mount Washington.

1.00 P. M. White Mountains and Montreal Express. With Mann Boudoir Car to Fabyan, etc., and parlor cars to Weirs, Plymouth and Montreal; connecting for Centre Harbor, Wolfboro', Maplewood, Bethlehem, Crawford's, Jefferson, etc.

3.00 P. M. Local train for Plymouth, White River Junction, Weirs, etc.

5.00 P. M. Fast Express for Lowell, Nashua, Amherst, Milford and Wilton.

7.00 P. M. Night Express for Montreal, via Plymouth and White River Junction, with Pullman Sleeping Cars.

Excursion tickets at lowest rates are procurable at the Company's offices, 218 Washington Street, third door South of Old State House, and at Causeway Street Station.

C. S. MELLEN, General Superintendent.
LUCIUS TUTTLE, Gen'l Pass. Agent.

ALLAN LINE

ROYAL MAIL STEAMSHIPS

Sailing from Quebec every Saturday for Liverpool.

SHORTEST OCEAN VOYAGE

Only five days from land to land.

Extra services from GLASCOW, GALWAY, QUEENSTOWN and LONDONDERRY to Boston direct for the convenience of Steerage passengers, to whom kind treatment is made a Specialty. Cabin, $70 and $80. Intermediate, $40. Steerage at Low Rates.

LEVE & ALDEN, Gen'l Pass. Agts,

15 State Street, Boston.

JOHN LINEHAN, Agt. for Peabody.

A CITY IN THE AIR.

Ninety miles west of Albuquerque, in New Mexico, is perhaps the most remarkable town in the United States. It is the pueblo of Acomas, placed on a butte four hundred feet above the valley. In inaccessibility it has for three centuries been a Gibraltar of safety to the Acomas. A correspondent of the Lawrence "Journal" thus describes the ascent: There are two means of ascent, one by a flight of steps cut into the wall, and rising at an angle of forty-five degrees, and the other by a fissure in the rocks, leading up into the mountain. Both ways have been trodden by hundreds of feet until the steps are hollow troughs. Either one is exceedingly difficult, and neither is tolerably safe. We choose the one along the fissure. With all the danger and fatigue, it is a laughable sight to see a person—some other person—make the ascent. One has to stride over the fissure, one foot on the right-hand side, and the other on the left, and at the same time press the hands alternately against the rocks for support. An Indian will throw a live sheep around his neck, and go up quite rapidly without touching either hand to the rocks; but I am satisfied I never could do it.

They told us of a pathetic incident that occurred on the outer stairway several generations ago. Several men started up, each with a sheep on his back. When nearly to the top, the sheep carried by the foremost man became restless, and the shepherd in trying to hold it fast lost his footing, and in falling swept his companions over the precipice, and they fell on the rocks at the foot in a lifeless heap. The Indians have carved a representation of the accident on a rock near where it occurred, which scarcely serves to steady the nerves of those who go by that route.

The top of the elevation is level, and contains an area of sixty or seventy acres. At one side stands the pueblo, a blunt pyramid of adobe and stone honeycombed with rooms; at the other the church and graveyard, and near the centre a pond of pure water thirty feet in depth, and several yards in extent.

The priest was made acquainted with the object of our visit, and the ringing of the church bell soon brought the inhabitants of the village around us. When they understood that the title to their lands was in question, and we had come to take testimony, they showed great interest, and discussed the various points involved with remarkable intelligence, considering their limited opportunities for a knowledge of law. As nightfall came on a number of the men who had been at work in the valley came up, bringing delicious peaches and grapes, which we were glad to accept, in view of the meagre preparations for supper. We slept in the church, wrapped up in our Navajo blankets, and never felt more secure or happier in our lives.

When the gray dawn peered through the little mica window-panes it revealed great roof-beams more than a foot in diameter, and thirty or forty feet long, and through the open tower a bell that was cast in 1710. How these immense timbers and this bell were brought up to the top of this cliff no one living knows. The Indians shake their heads, and the priest shakes his, but no one ventures an opinion. The timbers are there, however, as witnesses, and morning and night, as the seasons come and go, and generations pass away, the bell speaks for itself in the silvery tones that pleased its founder in far-off Spain, when King George was on the throne. The adobes—or the earth of which they were made—were brought up from the valley also, for the butte was a bald rock in the beginning. And the earth for the graves came the same way, requiring forty years, the priest said, to complete the graveyard. It is the only completed graveyard I have ever seen. The old priest seemed very happy in the charge of his flock, and his flock seemed happy in possession of him.

"MASHING" IN NAPLES.

In loitering through Italian towns nothing strikes the youthful stranger more than the extraordinary grace and beauty of the women, and he naturally desires to express his gratitude to those who have lent a new lovliness to live. In the North this is easy enough. "How beautiful she is!" echoes whereever small feet fall lightly on the pavement of any city from Venice to Florence, and now even to Rome. Dainty little ears hear the words not unkindly, and soft, sweet voices will sometimes argue not quite kindly as to whom they were intended for. But in Naples we must be silent and discreet. The noblemen have revolvers and the lazzaroni long knives hidden away somewhere out of sight of the police, but yet within easy reach. Let the young man be careful, and, if he must give vent to an admiration too passionate to be silenced, let him draw his right hand down his face from the cheekbones to the chin. That means, "Oh, how lovely she is!" and the slower the movement is, so long as it is clearly perceptible, the more deep and lasting is the impression supposed to be indicated. Every woman, be she peeress or peasant, understands this sign, and will go home the happier for having seen it. Whether it was of yore a symbol of worship for the old Etruscans we cannot tell. It is certainly one of the most sincere forms of adoration that modern Naples knows.

W. P. B. Brooks & Co.,

151 Hanover St., Boston.

Furniture, Carpets,

STOVES, CROCKERY, SILVER WARE.

And Everything in the Line, on Easy Terms.

☞ Always the Best Place to Trade

W. P. B. BROOKS. A. D. DAMON,
F. D. SPERRY.

E. R. MORSE SAFE CO.

MANUFACTURER OF

FIRE & BURGLAR PROOF SAFES, VAULT DOORS, STEEL CHESTS, SILVER SAFES, EXPRESS SAFES, FIRE AND THIEF PROOF JEWEL BOXES.

76 & 78 SUDBURY STREET, BOSTON.

Second hand SAFES.

SAFES bought and sold.

SAFES opened and repaired.

E. R. MORSE SAFE CO.
BOSTON

SAFES exchanged.

SAFES moved.

Combination LOCKS put on to Old Safes.

Our Safes have on a PATENT CONCEALED DIAL LOCK which is used as a day door and is a great protection in case of fire, as the dial cannot be melted or broken off.

E. R. MORSE.

Was established in business October 10th, 1844.

THE BRYANT & STRATTON
COMMERCIAL SCHOOL INK

BOSTON.

Largest & most Successful in the World,

Will Reopen Monday, Sept. 7th.

THE COURSE OF STUDY is thorough, complete and practical. Pupils are fitted for the duties and work of every day life.
THE FACULTY embraces a list of twenty teachers and assistants, elected with special reference to proficiency in each department.
THE STUDENTS are young people of both sexes, full of diligence and zeal.
THE DISCIPLINE is of the highest order and includes valuable business lessons.
THE PATRONAGE is the largest of any Commercial School in the world.
THE REPUTATION of this school for originality and leadership and as the Standard Institution of its kind is generally acknowledged.
THE SCHOOL BUILDING is centrally located and purposely constructed.
SPECIAL COURSE. Short Hand, Type Writing, Composition and Correspondence may be taken as a special course.
SITUATIONS in Business Houses furnished its pupils completes the varied inducements to attend this school.

On and after Aug. 24th, the Principal may be seen daily from 9 till 2 o'clock, at the School Building, 608 Washington street. Prospectus, containing full information, concerning course of study, terms, etc., post free

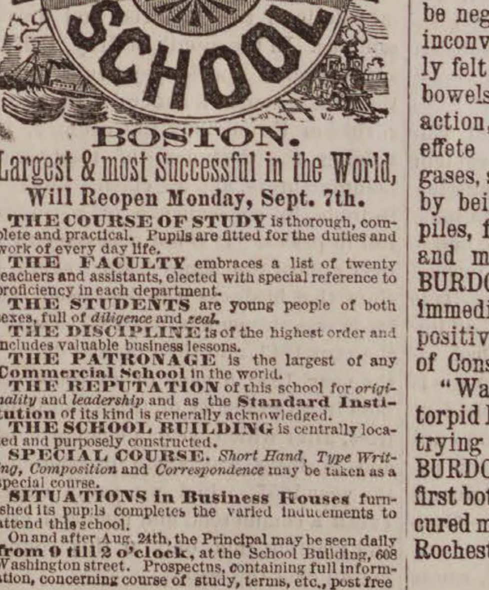
aug 5—6t

CONSTIPATION!

There is no medium through which disease so often attacks the system as by Constipation, and there is no other ill flesh is heir to, more apt to be neglected, from the fact material inconvenience may not be immediately felt from irregular action of the bowels. When there is not regular action, the retention of decayed and effete matter, with its poisonous gases, soon poisons the whole system by being absorbed into it, causing piles, fistula, headache, impure blood and many other serious affections. BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS will immediately relieve, and one bottle positively cure or relieve any case of Constipation.

"Was troubled for a year with torpid liver and indigestion, and after trying everything imaginable, used BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS. The first bottle revived me and the second cured me entirely."—J. S. Williamson, Rochester, N. Y.

ARTESIAN AND DRIVEN WELLS.



Cut showing the Driven Well flowing, pumped by Hand and Wind Power. Arranged with Set-Length, (anti-freezing), for Domestic, Farm and Irrigating purposes; where large amount of water is needed Steam Pumps are.

All of our

DRIVEN WELLS

for Domestic, Farm, or any other purpose well, receive prompt attention.

Thousands of these wells are being used in Tanneries, Breweries and other manufactories, where cool and better water is needed and also save water bills.

We are also prepared to

DRILL WELLS

six or eight inches in diameter through earth or rock, by steam power.

B. F. SMITH,

OFFICE,

266 WASHINGTON STREET,

Room 3, Boston

Conveyances.

BOSTON & MAINE RAILROAD On and after Monday, Je. 28, 1885 trains will run as follows,—

EASTERN DIVISION,

TRAINS LEAVE PEABODY FOR BOSTON AT 6 44, 7 25, 8 02, 8 31, 10 33, 11 07 A. M., 2 01, 3 37, 5 08, 6 46 P. M.
BOSTON FOR PEADODY, 8, 10 55 A. M., 1 M., 3, 4, 4 40, 5 15, 6 P. M.

LEAVE SALEM FOR

Lynn and Boston at 5 37, 6, 6,30, 7, 7 14, 7 35, 7 48, 7 51, 8 13, 8 34 (does not stop at Lynn), 8 40, 8 58, 9 20, 9 55, 10.48 A. M., 12 M., 12 30, 12 52, 2 15, 3 12, 3 45, 4 10, 4 25, 5 17, 5 48, 6 33, 6.58, 7 20, 7 57, 8 55, 9, 9 55 P. M. Sundays, 5.37, 8 40, 11 35 A. M., 1 05, 3 05, 5 40, 8 15, P. M.
Swampscott, 6, 6 30, 7 14, 7.48, 7 51, 8 40, 8 58, 10 48, A. M., 12 M, 12 52, 2 15, 3 45, 4 25, 5 17, 5 48, 6 33, 6 58, 7 20, 7 57, 9, 9 55, P. M. Sundays, 8 40 11 35 A. M., 1 05, 3 05, 5 40, 8 15 P. M.
Beverly, 6 53, 8 11, 8 40, 10 42, 11 20 A. M., 12 02, 1 05, 2 27, 2 47, 3 56, 4 05, 5 12, 5 57, 6 37, 7 05, 7 15, 7 45, 10 10, 11, P. M. Sundays 8 45 A. M.
Beverly Farms, Manchester and Gloucester—6 53, 8 40, 11 20 A. M., 2 47, 4 07, 5 35, 7 05, 7 45, 10 10 P M
Essex, 8 11 A. M., 3 56, 6 37 P. M.
Ipswich, 8 11, 9 35, 10 42 A. M., 1 05, 2 27, 3 56, 5 12, 6 37, 7 15 P. M. Sundays 8 45 A. M., 7 30 P. M.
Newburyport, 8 11, 9 35, 10, 10 42 A. M., 1 05, 2 02, 2 27, 3 56, 5 12, 6 37, 7 15 P. M. Sundays 8 45 A. M., 7 30 P. M.
Amesbury, 8 11, 10 42 A. M., 1 05, 3 56, 5.12 P. M.
Portsmouth—8 11, 9 35, 10, 10 42 A. M., 1 05, 2 02, 3 56, 5 12, †7 15 P. M. Sundays 8 45 A. M., 7 30 P. M.
Dover, 8 11, A. M., 2 02, 5 12 P. M.
Great Falls and Rochester, 8 11, 10 A. M., 2 02, 3 56 P. M.
Wolfboro—8 11, 10 A. M., 2 02, 3 56 P. M.
North Conway—8 11, 10 A M., 2 02 P. M.
Portland—8 11, 9 35 A M, 1 05, †7 15 P M. Sundays 7 30 P. M.
Augusta—9 35 A. M., 1 05, †7 15 P. M. Sundays 7 30 P. M.
Bangor—9 35 A. M., 1 05, †7 15 P. M. Sundays 7 30 P. M.
St. John and Halifax, 9 35 A. M. †7 15 P. M. Sundays, 7 30 P. M.
Montreal, 9 35 P. M.

And FOR SALEM—from

Montreal—10 15 P. M.
St. John—8 P. M. (daily except Saturday).
Bangor, 8 A. M., 1 30, 8 P. M. Sundays 8 P. M.
Augusta, 6, 10 A. M., 2 45, 10 55 P. M. Sundays 10 55 P. M.
Portland—2, 9 A M. 1, 6 P M. Sundays, 2 A. M.
North Conway—7 20, 11 A M, 3 30 P. M.
Wolfboro—6 05 (Mondays only), 8 15, 11 20 A M, 4 05 P M.
Rochester—7 22, 9 42 A. M., 1 05, 5 37 P. M.
Great Falls—7 38, 9 57 A. M, 1 18, 5 50 P. M.
Dover—7, 10 25 A. M., 4 30 P. M.
Portsmouth—4 05, 7 30, 7 35, 8 20, 10 50 A M, 1 55, 2 55, 5, 6 40, 7 40 P M, Sundays, 4 05 A. M, 4 P. M.
Amesbury—6 40, 8 40, 11 15 A. M., 1 30, 3 05, 5 20 P. M.
Newburyport—4 45, 6 30, 7, 8, 8 13, 9 05, 11 35 A. M. 2 35, 3 30, 3 38, 5 43, 7 20, 8 15 P. M. Sundays, 4 45 A. M., 4 45 P. M.
Ipswich—5 07, 6 48, 7 17, 8 15, 8 31, 9 25, 11 59 A. M., 2 49, 3 55, 6 06, 7 36 P. M. Sundays 5 07 A. M., 5 06 P. M.
Essex—7, 11 45 A. M, 5 45 P. M.
Rockport—6 05, 7 20, 8 30, 10 A. M., 1 20, 5, 6 10, 9 P. M. Sundays—7 45 A. M.
Gloucester—6 15, 7 29, 8 39, 10 08 A M, 1 30, 5 08* 6 20, 9 09 P M. Sundays—7 55 A. M.
Manchester—6 30, 7 42, 8 51, 10 21 A. M., 1 45, 5 22, 6 32, 9 23 P. M. Sundays, 8 09 A. M.
Beverly—6 50, 7 05, 7 40, 8 05, 8 50, 9 11, 9 45, 10 40 A. M., 12 20, 12 45, 2 05, 4 16, 5 40, 6 23, 6 50, 7 08, 7 50, 9 43, 11 10 P. M. Sundays 8 30 A. M., 5 30 P. M.
Swampscott,—6 44, 8 50, 10 34, 11 26, 11 54 A. M., 12 36, 2 19, 3 28, 4 31, 6 20, 6 28, 6 56, 8 29, 10, 10 49, 11 49 P. M. Sundays 8 36, 11 17 A. M., 1 57, 5 51, 10 11 P. M.
Lynn—6 40, 7 59, 8 30, 8 46, 9 25, 9 51, 10 30, 11 10, 11 23, 11 51 A M., 12 33, 12 55, 1 52, 2 15, 3 25, 3 45, 3 55, 4 28, 5 03, 5 24, 5 45, 6 16, 6 25, 6 52, 7 05, 7 35, 8 25, 9 55, 10 45, 11 45 P. M. Sundays 8 32, 11 14 A. M., 1 03, 5 47, 7 22, 10 06, P. M.
Boston—6 10, 7 30*, 8, 8 05, 9, 9 30, 10, 10 45, 10 55* 11 15 A. M. 12 M, 12 30, 1 30, 1 40, 2 15, 3, 3 20, 3 30, 4, 4 40, 5, 5 15, 5 40, 6, 6 20, 6 40, 7 10, 7 50, 9 20, 10 15, 11 15 P M. Sundays, 8, 10 40 A. M, 1 20, 5 10, 7, 9 30 P. M.

*Via Saugus Branch.
†Change at Newburyport.

MARBLEHEAD BRANCH.

Salem for Marblehead—6 50, 7 55, 8 40, 9 30 A M, 1, 2 30, 4 20, 5 15, 6 05, 7 20 P M.
Marblehead for Salem—6 30, 7 30, 8 15, 9 10, 10 15 A M, 2 3 20, 4 55, 5 40, 6 25 P M.

SOUTH READING BRANCH.

Trains leave the South Reading Depot in Salem for Boston, 7 25, 9 05 A. M., 1 40, 4 35 P. M.
Boston for Salem—7 40, 11 30 A M, 3 10, 5 15 P. M.
Wakefield for Salem—8 13 A M, 12 06, 3 43, 5 48 P M.
Lynnfield for Salem—8 24 A M, 12 16, 3 52, 5 59 P M.
Peabody for Salem—8 35 A M, 12 27, 4 02, 6 07 P M.

LAWRENCE BRANCH.

Salem for Lowell—7 A. M., 6 P. M.
Salem for Lawrence—7 09, 11 32 A M, 4 43, 6 P M.
Salem for Middleton—6 15, 7, 8 58, 11 35 A M, 3 36, 4 43, 6 P M.
Salem for Danvers—6 15, 7, 7 28, 8 58, 11 32 A M, 12 47, 3 36, 4 43, 5 20, 6, 6 42 P M.
Lowell for Salem—7 10, 9 45 A. M., 12 15, 5 15 P. M
Lawrence for Salem—7 40, 10 5 A M, 1, 5 50 P M.
Middleton for Salem—7, 8 07, 10 10, 10 45 A M, 1 35, 4 45, 6 27, P M.
Danvers for Salem—6 37, 7 15, 7 50, 8 31, 10 25, 11 A. M., 1 50, 3 30, 5, 5 50, 6 39, P M.
Peabody for Salem—6 44, 7 25, 8 02, 8 31, 10 33, 11 07 A M, 2 01, 3 37, 5 08, 5 58, 6 46 P M.

JAMES T. FURBER, General Manager.
Boston Je. 28, 1885.

NEW YORK & NEW ENGLAND

RAILROAD.

Shorter by twenty miles than any other Line between Boston and New York.

Now a Double Track Road to a Connection with the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad, West of Willimantic.

LEAVE BOSTON.

8.30 A. M. *DAY EXPRESS TRAIN for New York (via Middletown and New Haven); Pullman Cars Boston to New York. A part of this train runs through to Hartford, New Britain Waterbury, Danbury and Fishkill.

3.00 P. M. †NEW ENGLAND LIMITED for New York (via Air Line Route) running 86 miles without a stop. Due Grand Central Depot, New York, at 9.00 P. M. Connects week days at Willimantic with train for Hartford, New Britain and Waterbury.

3.30 P. M. *AFTERNOON MAIL for New York, (via Middletown and New Haven), due New York 11.25 P. M. A part of this train runs through to Hartford, New Britain and Bristol.

6.30 P. M. †PHILADELPHIA EXPRESS for Hartford, New Haven. Jersey City, Trenton, Philadelphia, Baltimore and Washington, connecting for Richmond and points South. Through Pullman cars to Washington.

6.30 P. M. *NORWICH LINE EXPRESS for New York, New London, Norwich, Danielsonville and Putnam. Train connects at New London with Steamer City of Worcester, or City of Boston.

Seats in Parlor Cars, Berths in Pullman Cars. State-rooms on Steamers, Tickets and information obtained at Office, 322 Washington St, or Depot, foot of Summer St.

BOSTON
A. C. KENDALL, Gen'l Pass. Agt.

BOSTON, REVERE BEACH & LYNN R.R. SUMMER TIME-TABLE.

June, 15, 1885.

Leave Boston at 6.50, 7.30, 8, 8.30, 9, 10, 11 A.M. 12 M.; 1, 2, 2.30, 3, 3.30, 4, 4.30, 5, 5.30, 6, §6.30, 7, 7.30, 8, 8.30, 9.20, 9.50, 10.50, 11.15 P. M.
Leave Lynn at §6.10, 6.50, 7, 7.30, 8, 8.30, 9, 10, 11 A.M. 12 M.; 1, 1.45, 2.15, 2.45, 3.15, 3.45, 4.15, 4.45, 5.15, 5.45, 6.15, 6.45, 7.15, 7.45, 8.40, 9.10, 9.40, 10.10, 10.30, P. M.

SUNDAY TRAINS.

Leave Boston at 10, 11 A. M.; 12 M.; 1, 2, 2.30, 3, 3.30, 4, 4.30, 5, 5.30, 6, 6.30, 7, 7.30, 8, 8.30, 9, 10, P. M.
Leave Lynn at 9, 10, 11 A. M.; 12 M.; 1, 1.45, 2.15, 2.45, 3.15, 3.45, 4.15, 4.45, 5.15, 5.45, 6.15, 6.45, 7.15, 7.45, 8.15, 9.15 P. M.

§Workingmen's train.

JOHN A. FENNO, G. T. A.
C. A. HAMMOND, Supt

CALL AT THIS OFFICE FOR FINE JOB PRINTING. Specimens given

OUR COMPETITOR EXHIBITS HIS CAT AND SO DO WE.

TAKE YOUR OWN COMPARISON

As our cat is pleasing and more contented looking than his, so our customers go away better satisfied with the fine quality of the boots and shoes purchased of us at lower prices than the same goods are sold by other dealers.

Call and see for yourselves.

F. W. Lucas & Co.,

1[illegible]6 ESSEX STREET,

Head of Central Street, Salem

SPARKS.

At 3.15 o'clock Saturday morning, the firemen were aroused from their beds by the ringing of the bell on the South church which was soon taken up by the bell on the fire stations. Turning out, the brilliant reflection of the sky in the direction of Lynnfield or West Peabody denoted a lively fire raging at some point in the town limits. Hose 1 was the first out and started for South Peabody, but Steamer 1, and H. & L. 1, thinking that the fire laid nearer West Peabody than South Peabody, started up Lowell street, discovering their mistake when in the "Kingdom," but kept on up Forest street, across Summit to Lynnfield street, where it was found to be the buildings of the Brook farm, formerly owned by C. S. Emmerton, but now the property of and occupied by George S. Mackintosh. Hose 1, 3, 5, and 2 had arrived some time previous to the steamer and truck, and by the time the engine had set at the brook, a few hundred feet from the fire, two lines of hose had been laid by Hose 1 and 3, and water was soon put on the burning structures, but not till the barn, a building about 50x30 feet, with a shed connecting it with the house, and one half the house had been burned. The barn contained five tons of hay, five cows, seven pigs, two horses, harnesses, carriages, farming machines and implements, and all were burned except the two horses, carriages, one set of harnesses and a mowing machine. The furniture of the house was entirely saved, even to the papers under the carpets, and in good order. The total loss will amount to about $3500, on which was an insurance of $3000, placed through the agency of O. B. Chadwick & Co., $1500 each in the Royal, and Imperial Companies. The family consists of George Mackintosh and wife, both deaf mutes, and two little children. When they retired that night the barn was locked up as usual, and everything was apparently all right, but at three o'clock the children were awakened by the light of the fire shining in their room, and looking out discovered that the shed and barn were in flames, the fire, which was evidently the work of an incendiary, having started in the shed and worked both ways. The parents were roused and the neighbors alarmed, who quickly assembled and removed the horses, carriages and the furniture. In the meantime a man had been sent to the Hose house in South Peabody, an alarm rung in, and the apparatus was soon on the spot, but as the nearest hydrant was 2350 feet from the fire nothing could be done but wait for the arrival of the steamer. What should have been done was to have sent a man on horseback to the Square and given the alarm direct, and in this case the house could have been saved, as the fire burned very slowly, on account of the precautions taken to keep the house closed as tightly as possible. The farm was purchased about a year ago by Mr. Mackintosh who has since resided there. The new wagon of No. 5. is said to have been blistered by the intense heat. The firemen were kept at work until nearly seven o'clock, and the Steamer was obliged to be sent up again in the course of the forenoon, the fire having broken out in the ruins. George N. Miller, a member of Steamer 2, while attempting to get on the seat of Steamer 1. to show the driver the way up Forest street, had his left foot run over by one of the forward wheels, receiving bruises which will disable him for some time to come. He was conveyed to his home in one of Eben U. King's teams and Dr. Pike called. He was a member of the Relief Association. Hose 4. did not turn out, thinking the fire out of town. A horse should be procured for Hose 2, as that company had to drag their carriage by hand, the whole distance, about two miles. Martin Brophy rung the bell of Hose 2, and it is said was in undress uniform. The firemen were given a collation of milk by Milkman Brown of South Peabody.

An alarm of fire was given in Salem Saturday morning, about 12.30, for a fire on Warren Street Court and this brought out a number of the Peabody firemen.

Complaint is made by the firemen that the bell on the South Church does not sound as it used to; that it is not heavy enough and fails to rouse them. Why not try the Universalist bell for a while?

Charles H. Kent has been appointed janitor of the new central fire station in Peabody. He is also engineman of Steamer 2. and will be permanently employed at the station.

The above appeared in the fire column of the Sunday Globe, and is evidently intended to refer to the newly appointed janitor of the Beverly engine house.

Fred Blake, of Hose 1, went to New York, last Saturday to be present at the Puritan—Genesta yacht race.

The buildings of the Brook farm had an additional insurance of $3500 placed in the Phœnix Company of Hartford, through the agency of William Northey of Salem.

The Board of Engineers will hold their regular monthly meeting this evening.

Just 1450 feet of hose was wet at the South Peabody fire.

Hose Company No. 3 at their August meeting set a record in laying hose and getting water which was considered quick work, but at their last meeting, on Monday night, they beat their previous record out of sight. Their driver, Arthur P. Bodge, was at home in bed, and his horse in his stable nearly an eighth of a mile away from the hose house on Endicott street. The signal was given by firing a gun or pistol on the Andover street bridge, time being taken then, and from the time of report to the time the carriage was hitched and ready to go out, was 1 1-4 minutes. The run was made to the hydrant near the Bowditch School, connections made, 100 feet of hose laid and water appeared at the nozzle in just 3 1-2 minutes from the firing of the pistol. This time cannot be beaten by any other company in this town, and we doubt if there is any in this vicinity that can do it. The company is made up of nearly the same men who were in it on the first year of the high service system, and they have been steadily reducing the working time until they have got it down to a fine point, every man having a certain part of the work to do, and attends to that work. These men are neither professional runners or hose couplers, but are regular approbated volunteer firemen who take an interest in their apparatus and quarters.

Mr. J. E. Ricker, engineer of Engine No. 4, has invented a convenient appliance to be attached to swinging harness in fire department stations. The device is affixed to the wall, and is operated by a piston movement, instead of heavy weights, now in vogue. It is noiseless in operation, and it is an improvement over other mechanical attachments, inasmuch as no damage is done to ceilings by the jarring incident to the fall of heavy weights as now applied. Mr. Ricker will exhibit his patent at the convention of fire engineers at Long Branch, next Tuesday.—Cambridge Press.

The old members of Hose 1, whose term of service expired May 1st, made a call on James Elliott, one of their members who has recently been married, last Friday evening, at his home on Tremont street and presented him with a very handsome French clock. A very pleasant evening was passed.

Hose company No. 1 were out for practice with the Lowery hydrant on the Square Monday evening.

Mrs. Ellen A. Duntly, mother of the driver of Steamer 1. and 2, residing in Church court, Lynn, has just received a pension from the United States government, amounting to $800.

* * *

The old established house of W. P. B. Brooks & Co., 151 Hanover street, Boston, is carrying for the fall trade a full line of furniture of latest styles, with a complete stock of household furnishings. The house is one of the oldest in Boston, the senior partner being the Nestor of the furniture trade in that city. His associates, consisting of Messrs. Alex. D. Damon and Fred D. Sperry, are young men with business energy and with a thorough knowledge of the trade. See advertisement.

* * *

Miss Clara A. Merrill, accountant at John P. Peabody's store, is enjoying a well earned vacation, visiting Amesbury at present, and soon to extend her jaunt to Maine.

The Causalities of Trade and Commerce.

MESSRS. EDITOR.—Will you allow us to present to your readers a slight sketch of the trade and commerce of our country, from the declaration of independence to the present time, to show that the present panic, or revulsion in trade and commerce, has not been without a parallel in the history of the Union. In the Report of Finances for 1854, '55, it is stated that from the adoption of the Federal Constitution in 1787 to the year 1798, no people enjoyed more happiness and prosperity than the people of the United States, nor did any country ever flourish more within that space of time. During all this time, and up to the year 1800, coin constituted the bulk of the circulation; after this year the banks came, and all things became changed; like the Upas tree, they have withered and impaired the healthful condition of the country, destroyed the credit and confidence which men had in one another, and inflicted on the people political and pecuniary diseases of the most deadly character. The bank-note circulation began to exceed the total specie in the country in the years of 1815, '16 and '17, and in the year 1818, the bank mania had reached its height; more than two hundred new banks were projected in various parts of the Union. The united issues of the United States Bank, and the local banks, drove specie from the country in large quantities, and in the year 1819, when the culmination in general business had been reached, and contraction of the currency began to be felt, multitudes of banks and individuals were broken. The panic produced a disastrous revulsion in trade, causing the failure of nine-tenths of all the merchants in this country, and others engaged in business, and spread ruin far and wide over the land. Two-thirds of the real estate passed from the hands of the owners to their creditors. A sudden and pressing scarcity of money prevailed in the spring of 1822; numerous and very extensive failures took place in 1825; there was a great revulsion among the banks and other monied institutions in 1826. The scarcity of money among the traders in 1827 was disastrous and alarming; 1828 was characterized by failures among the manufacturers and traders in all branches of business. After the year 1828 business continued to be depressed, vibrating according to circumstances until 1834, a year of extreme dulness in all branches of trade; after which our stock of precious metals increased very fast, business revived, and in the 1835 and '36, the imports of gold and silver increased to an enormous extent; as the banks increased their reserves of specie, they also correspondingly increased their issue of bank-notes, each increased issue of paper money led to the establishment of new banks.

The state banks that had numbered in 1830 only three hundred and twenty-nine, with a capital of one hundred and ten millions, increased, according to the treasury report, by the first of January, 1837, including branches, to seven hundred and eighty-eight, with a capital paid in of two hundred and ninety millions. In the month of May, 1837, a suspension of specie payments by all the banks, caused a general commercial revulsion throughout the country, involving the fortunes of merchants, manufacturers, and all classes engaged in trade, in consequence of a ruinous fall in prices. It is not necessary to go over almost the same history again to show that business was depressed, and trade was stagnant after 1837 down to the year 1843, and then up and down to the year 1850, a year of extreme dulness in all branches of trade and industries, after which year a change came, and business was again prosperous to the year 1857, when we again experienced a commercial and financial crisis and reaction, not only in this country but all over the world.

The general direction of business after the panic of 1857, was on the same downward grade that characterized the times after the panics of 1819, and 1837 until all business had culminated in a depression in the year 1861, after which trade again revived, and was very active during the war of the rebellion, and up to the year 1865, when a temporary reaction set in and trade continued semi-prosperous until 1870, after which year commercial activity was the order of the day, all branches of business and manufacture flourished and was prosperous; our railroad building was astonishing in the world in the years of 1871, '72, but in September 1873, we had the culmination, a crushing panic, in all trades and manufactures, railroads and industries, this depression continued till the year 1877, after this year we experienced a revival in our trades and industries, which continued till 1881, after this a general depression set in which is still going on; the signs of the times indicating that there will be no general revival of trades and manufactures till 1888. After the Presidential election in this year all our trades and industries; will "boom" and be prosperous till 1891, the end of the present panic cycle, and the commencement of a repetition of the same history. When the period arrives for a panic, any breeze or signal, no matter what reverses the engine, the times take the downward grade, and no political party, no legislative enactments, tariffs or currencies, no convertible or interchangeable bonds; no bribery of legislators or betrayal of constituents can arrest their course; or the causalities to trade and commerce.

M. W. GRAVES.

* * *

A BIG DAY'S BUSINESS.—The Boston, Revere Beach and Lynn Railroad although only a narrow guage road, is acquiring a reputation for carrying multitudes that will soon cause its big neighbors to look upon it with envy. A few days since, upon the occasion of the Revere Beach illumination, when the road handled between 26,000 and 27,000 people, its officials were of the opinion that high water mark had been, reached for the present. But the Sunday, when the attraction of the musical festivity at the Point of Pines was added to the other features of the road's Sunday traffic, such was the rush to the Pines ond other points upon the beach, that the officials of the road estimate that the number of passengers carried was some 30 per cent. above the traffic upon the day of the illumination, or considerably in excess of 30,000. That this huge crowd of people was handled so well as it was is very creditable to the management and the employes of the company. The Boston, Revere Beach and Lynn Road is only a short line, and consequently does not attract very much attention; yet, for all that, in nearly every respect the road without doubt is the model narrow gauge of the country. No pains or expense is spared to maintain the road and its equipment in the best condition, and the present season a new departure was inaugurated in the way of furnishing separate train service for its through and local traffic. In the morning four express trains leave Lynn for Boston, making the run in 25 minutes, while four local trains have been run from Crescent Beach and intermediate stations exclusively for local passengers. In the afternoon this arrangement has been reversed, giving quick and ample facilities from Boston to the Beach and to Lynn. This new arrangement has met with so much encouragement from the public that the management of the road have decided to continue it throughout the year, and in future seasons an extension of the service will probably be made. In fact, with the present outloook for growth along the line of the road between East Boston and Lynn and in the latter city itself it is probable that before long the company will find it feasible to run 15 minute trains each way during the summer and half hourly trains throughout the winter.

* * *

Many of the trains from the mountains are now brought down in two sections. The passenger traffic of the Boston and Lowell is unprecedented. The trains going north are still crowded and a big September business is expected. The Boston uptown office of the Lowell in August did the largest business on record, the increase over August, 1884, being fully 80 per cent. Saturday the train coming into Boston at 1.15 left the mountains with five parlor cars for Boston and two for Fall River and Providence.

* * *

John G. Whittier's schoolmates in the old Haverhill academy contemplate a reunion. Of the 120 pupils from 1827 to 1830, there are from twenty-five to thirty living, a large majority of whom have expressed their intention to be present. Rev. Charles Wingate, rector of St. Joseph's Church, has the matter in charge, and the reunion will probably be held about the middle of the next month, the date to be fixed by Mr. Whittier.

Notice is directed to the new advertisement of Charles J. Edmands, No. 12 Bromtied street, Boston. Mr. Edmands makes a specialty of artist's materials, and picture framing, and he is prepared to show novelties in these goods which can not be obtained elsewhere. Bromfield street is convenient of access to our readers who visit Boston, and we commend this store to their attention.

Brianza Cigars—the best ten cent cigar in the world,—10 cents straight at George Stevens'. *

Best line of Five Cent Cigars in town—Nothing like it, Principee. Clark's Best Five, and a dozen others at Geo. Stevens'. *

Marriages.

In Danvers, Aug. 29, by Rev. Mr. Ewing, Mr. Alfred A. Pitman to Miss Kate A. McKinnon; Sept. 2. by Rev. Mr. Ayres, Mr. Timothy Hawkes to Mrs. Persis G. Forbes.

In Salem, Sept. 3, at the residence of the bride's parents, by Rev. E. C. Bolles, D. D., Mr. Ernest M. Carpenter to Miss Lizzie B., daughter of George W. Estes, Jr.

Deaths.

In Peabody, Sept. 4, Mary, daughter of Thomas F. and Maria Q. Cullen, 5 mos. 2 days.

In Salem, Sept. 5, Mr. Thomas F. Williams, 71 yrs. 4 mos. 5 days.

CATARRH.

BY A. P. LIGHTHILL, M. D.

The earliest symptoms of Catarrh is a discharge from the head, consisting sometimes of a clear acid fluid, but oftener of a thick, fœtid, purulent yellow or greenish matter which is usually secreted in excessive abundance, and discharged through the nostrils for throat, and frequently by both channel.

The nature of this discharge varies in different cases, and even in the same individualat different times. In some it is copious, and of a loose or fluid character, while in others it is very viscid or gummy, adhering to the diseased membrane with glue-like tenacity; often this offensive matter concretes in dry, hard masses of crusts, which obstruct breathing and are very difficult to detach, their dislodgment requiring most violent efforts. Sometimes these incrustations come away in lumps of a deep green tint, but occasionally in broad and flat casts of a notable size, on which traces of blood mayat times be observed. This condition is very liable to run to serious ulceration, involving a loss of the bony structure of the nose and a subsequent flattening of that organ, and is invariably accompanied by a breath of exceedingly fœtid and sickening odor. In some cases it becomes so revoltingly offensive as to render the sufferer an object of disgust to himself as well as to others.

The nasal membrane is thickened and congested, causing the nose to be stopped up, sometimes on one side, sometimes on the other, and often on both, giving rise to a disagreeable, stuffy sensation in the head, and occasionally to violent paroxysms of sneezing.

A feeling of fullness, heat, irritation, soreness or pain is generally experienced in the nostrils, near the root of the nose, as well as in the upper part of the throat, above and below the soft palate. A distressing sensation of heavy weight or compression is usually complained of over the forehead, especially in the region immediately above and between the eyes. Sometimes the pain is obstinately fixed in one particular part, as in the temples, on top of the head, at the back of the neck, or behind the orbits; and occasionally it manifests itself in the face, of so severe a character that it is frequently mistaken for neuralgia.

The voice is generally affected, and becomes hoarse, weak and uneven, assuming a nasal character, or an unpleasant sniffling quality. Cough of variable severity is not unfrequently one of the symptoms and results of Catarrh.

The sense of smell is generally blunted or entirely lost, and a similar effect on taste may be occasionally observed. The eyes are apt to become irritable, and disposed to water excessively on exposure to the cold or wind, and a sense of weariness of sight is usually experienced after slight exertions. Hearing becomes frequently more or less impaired, and noises in the head very often add materially to the existing distress.

The stomach generally suffers more or less, and becomes weak and irritable; the appetite is capricious, and nearly always bad in the morning.

The patient often complains of lassitude and fatigue, an incapacity for either physical for mental exertions, and a constant disposition to drowsiness and sleep. The mental faculties are also sometimes slightly affected, toss of memory being not unfrequently experienced.

Catarrh may prove fatal, either by debilitating the system and wearing out the patient, or by travelling downward and producing consumption. This fact has been so repeatedly noticed that all experienced practitioners now look upon Catarrh as one of the earliest manifestations of this dreaded complaint. Among educated physicians in this or any other country, Dr. Lighthill was the first to devote his study and investigation to the cure of Catarrh and kindred diseases, and the happy results which attended his labor have been attested to by many of the most prominent citizens of Boston and vicinity. Cases abandoned as hopeless by other physicians have promptly yielded to his painless and effective treatment.

ASTHMA

For years Dr. Lighthill has made this distressing disease his special study, investigating carefully the causes that produce it; his labor was fully rewarded, for he not only established its true pathological condition, but also discovered a new and correct system of treatment for its cure. Hundreds of cases who have been under his care have found permanent relief from this wonderful discovery, from the beginning of this treatment prompt benefit is experienced which is ultimately followed by a complete and radical cure.

An experience of 30 years of constant practice enables Dr. Lighthill to decide on the first examination as to the cureability of any disease within specialty, and no case will be accepted for treatment unless the chances are for favorable results. His specialty comprises the cure of and affections of the Nervous system from whatever cause.

CATARRH, THROAT AFFECTIONS ASTHMA, CONSUMPTION, DEAFNESS DISCHARGE FROM THE EAR, DISEASES OF THE EYE, BLOOD, SKIN, LIVER AND KIDNEY

DR. LIGHTHILL,

Can be consulted

Every Thursday after noon and evening,

From 2 until 8.30 P. M.

AT THE

Essex House, Salem,

And every forenoon from 8 until 12, at his office.

OF 115 BOYLSTON ST., BOSTON.

CONSULTATION FREE.

EDW. C. ALMY & CO.

Prepare for School!

GREAT BARGAINS IN BOYS' CLOTHING.

We are ready to Name Prices and describe styles on our Fall Stock of Boys' Clothing, by far the largest and best selected assortment in the city. At our

OPENING SALE

We shall offer some of the greatest values ever known. We propose to meet competition at every point this season, and guarantee our prices the lowest or money refunded.

A BIG DRIVE!

Five Hundred Boys' Short Pant Suits, Norfolk or Plain Blouse, in Dark and Medium Plaids and Mixtures, all strongly made from durable fabrics,

$2, 2.50, 3, 3.50 and 4.00.

A BARGAIN WITHOUT PRECEDENT

We have taken a large number of our most desirable styles of All Wool Short Pant Suits, for Boys from 4 to 15 years of age, including all the choicest Plaids, Checks and Mixtures, made with Plain, Plaited, or Norfolk Blouse, and marked them at the uniform price.

FIVE DOLLARS

In this lot there is not a Suit that does not cost our neighbors six dollars.

BOYS' SUITS.

With Long Pants, for lads from 13 to 17 years of Age,

We unhesitatingly claim pre-eminence in style and perfection in fit for our Suits in these sizes, Our assortment embracing the most desirable patterns in Imported and American fabrics, made in a superior manner and in the latest Metropolitan shapes. All grades are represented and prices are

$4, 5, 6, 7, 7.50, 8. 9, 10 to 15.

BOYS' TROUSERS.

Both long and short, in great variety of patterns. 50c, 75c, $1.00, 1.50, 2.00 to 4.00.

A Full Assortment of Shirt Waists & Blouses.

The Best Styles. The Largest Stock. The Lowest Prices.

EDW. C. ALMY & CO.

163, 165 & 167 ESSEX ST., SALEM.

162 Westminster St., Providence.

Washington, cor. Essex Street, Boston.

Everything Selling Regardless of Cost at

WILMOT'S.

MEN'S PANTALOONS,

99c, $1.49, 2.00, 2.50 and 3.00. Marked down from $1.25,2.50, 3 and 4.50,

MEN'S ALL WOOL SUITS,

$4.87 1-2, 6, 8 and 10. Marked down from $8, 10, 12 and 16.00.

CHILDREN'S BLOUSE SUITS,

Warranted Fast Colors, $2.50. Former Price $5.

MEN'S CARPET SLIPPERS,

25 cents. Regular Price, 75 cents.

MEN'S LOW CUT SHOES,

87 1-2 cents. Regular price, $1.75.

BOYS' BASE BALL SHOES, 70 CENTS

WILMOT'S CLOTHING STORE,

252 & 254 ESSEX STREET, SALEM, MASS

J. FRANK BOYNTON, Manager

GENTS' LOW SHOES

TO BE CLOSED OUT.

$1.00 Low Shoes	.75
1.25 " "	$1.00
1.50 " "	1.25
1.75 " "	1.50
2.00 " "	1.75
2.50 " "	2.00
3.00 " "	2.50
3.50 " "	2.75
4.00 " "	3.25
4.75 " "	3.75

—AT—

J. E. HODGKINS' CASH STORE, 22 MARKET ST., LYNN

On Track—Old Eastern Hay,

ONE Car prime Old Eastern Hay.

CHAS. A. ROPES & SON.
41 to 47 Central street.

Read what the Naumkeag Clothing Co. say in their adv. on the first page.

AVOID

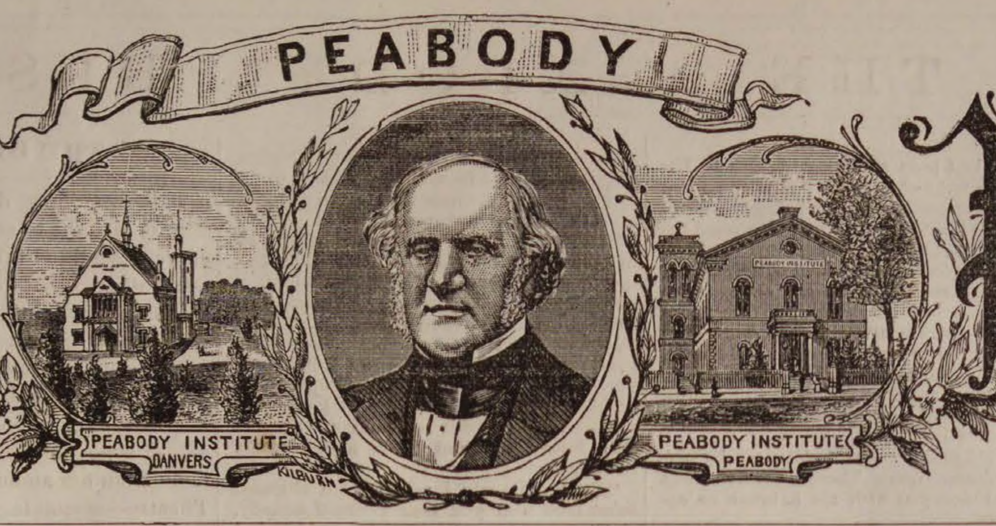
The Cholera by using Carbolat of Lime.

For cleansing out-houses, cesspools, sin drains, stables, etc. For sale in 10, 25 ar 50 lbs. bags, and by the barrel.

E. S. THAYER,
165 Derby Street

C. H. ESTES, Agent for Peabod

The PEABODY Press.



VOL. 26. PEABODY, MASS. WEDNESDAY EVENING SEPTEMBER 16, 1885. 37 NO. ~~40~~ 37

A COMPLETE REVOLUTION IN THE CLOTHING TRADE!

WILMOT

Paralyzes his high-priced competitors, with his wonderful sale of Winter Overcoats, Suits and Pantaloons, carried over from last season. We shall continue this sale for a short time. Don't delay, but come at once and get some of our wonderful bargains. Strike while the iron is hot.

Here are a few of our Bargains.

GENTLEMEN'S

Winter Overcoats,

At prices varying from $2 to 20.
Reduced from $3 to 10; according to quality.

GENTLEMEN'S

Winter Suits,

At prices varying from $4.75 to 15.
Reduced from $4 to 7; according to quality.

Gent's Winter Pantaloons,

At price varying from 99c to $3.50.
Reduced from 75c to $2.50; according to quality.

GENTLEMEN'S

Winter Underwear,

A big stock to be sold at Wholesale Prices, ranging from 25c. to $3 each.

150 Dozen Puff Ties,

New Fall Styles, 25c. each; Regular Price 50c,

Men's and Boy's Hats,

All the New Styles. in prices ranging from 50c. to $2.50.

BOYS'

Winter Overcoats,

At Prices varying from $3 to 8.
Reduced from $2 to 5; according to quality.

BOYS'

Winter Suits,

At prices ranging from $2 50 to 7.
Reduced from $2.50 to 5; according to quality.

Boys' Short Winter Pants,

50c. to $1.

Ladies' and Gents'

BOOTS AND SHOES,

Special inducement in this department.

Ladies' Elegant American Kid

Button Boot, $1.

A great variety of other grades and styles at $1, 1.25, 1.50, 1.75, 2 to 4.

Men's Imitation Hand Sewed Shoe,

Button, Lace or Congress, $1.75.
Hundreds of others at 87 1-2, 99c, $1.20, 1.45, 1.74, 2, 2.45 to 5.

Children's School Shoes, 65 cents,

A big assortment of Misses', Boys' and Children's Shoes for 50, 65, 75, 95c, $1, 1.25, 1.50 to 2.50.

WILMOT'S CLOTHING STORE,

252 & 254 ESSEX STREET, SALEM, MASS

J. FRANK BOYNTON, Manager.

LOCAL CONDENSATIONS.

Indian summer!

Grapes are turning!

Mountain travel is cheap!

Most everybody has a cold!

Most time for another rain!

Open cars are again popular!

Weary winter will hasten on!

Vaccination is being attended to!

Schools are now fairly underway!

The voting lists are being revised!

Mr. Jas. P. King is building a silo!

Have you built a fire in your furnace yet?

Excursion to Center Harbor to-morrow.

Bartlett pears are a drug in the market.

Barberries are plenty at ten cents a quart.

Birds of a feather are flocking—south.

The moon is still young, but brilliant.

The heat has been oppressive for a day or two.

Let us have a good business without strikes.

Carry your overcoat if you go to the mountains.

Put up your parlor stove you will soon want it.

Mrs. Brooks Bagley is rusticating at Ossipee, N. H.

Nature has tinted the summer foliage with red and gold.

The jingle of the school bell has a merry sound.

Pickles, preserves, plums, picalilly—hold us!

There isn't to be any fun in local politics this fall.

Rum cherries are plenty, more so than the rum.

There is a scarcity of growing peaches in this vicinity.

Mr. Calvin Pierce and wife have gone to Pepperell, N. H.

The circulation of the PRESS is increasing each week.

Call and see the new folding Clothes Horse at Samuel Trask's.

Mr. A. L. Ames is putting in a new 100 horse power engine.

A stone crusher is what this town should have another season.

The duties of the ice men are drawing to a close for the season.

Although this is an off year, there will be a good crop of apples.

The old bridge across Main street at Poole's hollow is being relaid.

L. & G. H. Poor have built a shed covering to their branch track.

The new truant officer is after the boys who are "playing hookey."

Lynnfield, Lowell and Central streets will have some new street lights.

Rev. W. G. Sperry preached at the So. Church, in Salem last Sunday.

It is about time for the roller skater to be longing for the rink to open.

Mr. R. H. Brown offers two desirable tenements to let on Oak street.

Cover your plants or the frosts will spoil them some of these cool nights.

Railway postal clerks have orders to wear caps and badges while on duty.

Girls invite your young man in. It is a little cool for comfort on the piazza.

Where is Shakespeare's boy "creeping like a snail unwillingly to school."

The cranberry crop promises to be very good and they are being gathered.

All the employes of the Boston & Lowell Railroad are to be vaccinated.

Mrs. Edward Meacom has gone to Saxonville Pa., on a visit to her sister.

A gentleman from Boston was in town last week buying apples for shipment.

Mr. W. S. Osborne and wife have gone to the White Mountains for a week.

The neighbors seem to be feeding the police on pears. The police don't object.

All over New England the people are fighting against the telephone extortion.

One of our gunners shot eight partridges last Friday in the Lynnfield woods.

There will be a partial eclipse of the moon on the twenty-fourth of this month.

There seems to be a continued demand for the autograph of our tax collector.

Ducks do best on a variety of food with plenty of grass and a little grain at night.

Look over your woolens and see how much the industrious little moth has left you.

The shoes that are bought at Nugent Bros. can be depended on for real down right wear.

Rev. W. G. Sperry will preach his farewell sermon at the South Church next Sunday.

The Naumkeag street railroad are running cars every fifteen minutes in the forenoon.

Mr. Millard Turner, who learned his trade at this office, is working on the Boston Globe.

Mr. Andrew D. Gray, and his mother left this morning for a trip to Augusta, and China, Me.

Brianza Cigars—the best ten cent cigars in the world,—ten cents straight at George Stevens'. *

Manager McCulfy will be tendered a complimentary benefit at the Willows to-morrow night.

Mr. William Donnell has an illuminated door-plate at his residence on Central street.

Ladies' Serge Congress for house wear only, 65 cents a pair at Nugent's Shoe Store. *

There is a case of scarlet fever on Union street, a boy named Fitzgerald being sick with it.

The signal service flags were displayed Monday for the first time. They are four feet square.

We were treated to the familiar hand organ and monkey attachment for two days last week.

The boys who broke into Sherry's grocery store have had their cases continued till Saturday.

Now is the time to get your commercial printing, and the place to get it is at the PRESS office.

We regret to learn that Mrs. Charles H. Tigh is quite sick at her home on Chestnut street.

Geo. O. P. Wilson and Henry Clay Wilson have gone on a visit to Somerville, Me.

We have a full line of Ladies' Goat Common Serge Boots, $2 a pair at Nugent Bros. *

Mr. J. M. Ward is filling his green houses with choice plants for the coming winter.

The B. & M. pay car went through here last week and since then the boys have been flush.

Mr. J. N. Burbeck has been treating his barn to a coat of pogy oil, preparatory to painting it later.

If horses are allowed to graze for an hour or so after the day's work they will be all the better for it.

A strolling orchestra of three pieces played the "last rose of summer" about the streets last Thursday.

Mr. George R. Norton is putting in a new furnace at C. B. Farley's residence on Main street.

Who will be the first youth to carve the initials of his name in the desks of the new school?

Forty dollars a night with several privileges reserved is the price asked for the skating rink.

The base ball season is about over. There has been little interest in the game here this season.

We have had plenty of rain of late and the ponds and the ground will be well filled before freezing.

Mr. Horace A. Hart, head salesman at George Stevens', informs us that he will soon visit Hancock, N. H.

Mr. J. S. Paul and wife returned from Asbury Grove last week and have gone on a visit to Elllott, Me.,

Read carefully the new advertisement of W. P. B. Brooks in this paper. It will pay. It is on the 7th page.

The price of meat is advancing, but Hallowell & Smiley are offering the best in the market at low prices.

Next Thursday evening the Edgewood Club of the Baptist Church will hold a peach festival in their vestry.

The old men of the Bleachery defeated the Sons of Rest at base ball last Saturday, by a score of 23 to 18.

Nugent Bros. are agents in the town for Queen Ann's Dressing. It is superior to any other. 25 cents a bottle.

Wild grapes are in the market at 25 cents a peck. Catawbas bring 7 and 10 cents a pound and Delawares 20 cents.

Petroleum is a good protection against the decay of outbuildings, fences, etc,. without the addition of paint.

Mr. Edward Trask has been exhibiting a curiosity at his market consisting of two ears of corn grown together.

Mr. George E. Spaulding and wife and A. A. Messer and wife have gone on a Raymond excursion to Saratoga.

Horace Verry, better known as "cupid" was found in Beverly and returned to his home at the Alms house.

Watermelons grow large this year and where the family is small it is rather hard work to make way with a whole one.

The board of registrars met last Thursday morning, and organized with the choice of Aaron F. Clark as Chairman.

Mr. George H. Little is putting in one of his steam heaters at E & C. Woodman's green houses at Tapleyville.

Mr. N. M. Quint is building the foundation for Batchelder's new ice houses on the border of Crowninshield's pond.

Mr. W. M. Ward has recently driven a well to supply his hennery, which yielded a good supply at twelve feet.

Mercury, Saturn, Neptune and Mars are morning stars this month, and Venus, Uranus and Jupiter evening stars.

In the police court Saturday John Shields, for second drunk, was sent to the House of Correction for two months.

Best line of Five Cent Cigars in town—Nothing like it, Principee. Clark's Best Five, and a dozen others at Geo. Stevens'. *

The firemen should remember that they can obtain Rubber Coats and Boots at less than Boston prices at Nugent Bros. *

Cholera infantum is around, and mothers are cautioned not to feed their little ones on milk from cows that feed green corn fodder.

One day last week thieves broke into a barn of N. M. Quint's where a quantity of goods belonging to Mrs. Pemberton were stored.

An enterprising farmer is protecting his melon patch by placing a number of campaign torches in the vicinity, making it light as day.

Mrs. J. A. Teague started for her western home at Detroit, Minn., last Friday, after a pleasant visit among relatives and friends here.

Mr. Charles Perkins has gone to Chicago, and Milwaukee, where he will attend the Convention of leather men in session there this week.

If you want to clear a field of underbrush turn in a flock of sheep. They will clear the roughest field of everything except laurel and sweet fern.

Mr. Fred A. Osgood, who was recently shot at Gloucester for being too intimate with the wife of Thomas Renshaw, was a native of this town.

Dr. Pike removed a stone from the ear of a six-year-old son of Robert G. Buxton. The stone was thrown by another boy and lodged there.

An entertainment was given last Friday evening at the Glen Ellis House, Jackson, N. H., under the direction of Mrs. S. A. Pope and Miss Annie Richmond.

All the best brands of B. P. Clark & Co's. cigars are for sale by Geo. Stevens. He is sole agent for this vicinity. Buy them and you will smoke no others. *

Mr. A. B. Clark has been obliged to board up his buildings which are about ready for moving on Foster street, to keep them from being stolen for kindling wood.

Farmers in this vicinity are very anxious as regards their corn crop, as it is hardly changing, on account of cool weather. A few days of this weather will bring it around.

Mrs. J. C. Rodgers, while on a visit to the Glen Ellis House last week, was taken dangerously ill, and a special car was chartered to remove her to her home in this town.

EXTRAORDINARY SALE

— OF —

Winter Overcoats.

565 WINTER OVERCOATS

COMPRISING

MEN'S, YOUTHS', BOYS' AND CHILDREN'S,

Carried over from last season, which we shall sell at

A GREAT SACRIFICE!

We guarantee each and every garment to be clean, perfect goods, just as stylish in cut, make and trimmings as any garments made this season. Our object in offering this great bargain sale of Overcoats so early in the season is that we need the counter room for our new goods which are now ready to be shipped from our Manufactory.

REMEMBER.

We mean just what we say: 565 Overcoats carried over from last season; all clean, perfect goods to be closed out in the next 15 days at a great Sacrifice. Buyers of Clothing now is your time to secure a Bargain.

We are selling Men's Fine, Heavy Overcoats for $10, 12 and 13.50. Men's Elegant Overcoats for $15, 16 and 18. Men's Heavy, all-wool Overcoats for $5, 6 and 8. Laboring Men's Heavy Overcoats for $2, 3 and 4. Men's Heavy Reefing Jackets, $3, 4, 5, 6 and 8. Boys' Fine, Heavy Overcoats for $6, 7 and 8, ages 12 to 17 years. Boys' Heavy, all-wool Overcoats, ages 12 to 17, for $4.50 and 5.00. B'soy Heavy Overcoats for $2, 3 and 4.00, ages 12 to 17 years. Children's Fine, Heavy Overcoats for $5, 6 and 7, ages 5 to 12 years. Children's all-wool, Heavy Overcoats for $3 and 4, ages 5 to 12 years Children's Heavy Overcoats for $1, 1.50, 2 and 2.50, ages 4 to 12 years.

This is a Bargain Sale.—If you think of Buying an Overcoat this Winter, Buy it now, and save 30 to 40 per cent.

Naumkeag Clothing Company,

177 & 179 ESSEX STREET, SALEM.

Z. A. GALLUP, Manager.

Dodge of the Central Fish Market is out with a new and handsome team, built by Gilman Andrews of Salem. This is evidence of increasing prosperity which we are glad to note.

Every clergyman who is not perfectly familiar with the marriage laws of this state should call on the Secretary of the Commonwealth and get a copy; they are furnished gratuitously.

A lumber team belonging to Langmaid of Salem was overturned on Main street the other day, by the wheels getting caught in the horse car track. No serious damage was done.

The street department have been employed lately in raising the grade and widening the upper part of Andover street, taking their gravel from that end of the Endicott street pit.

Last Thursday, Hannah O'Donnel, while riding on the Newburyport turnpike, was thrown from a team and had her shoulder badly injured. The horse was frightened by a bicycle.

Mr. George D. Tracy, the confectioner, has sold his route to E. A. Rich of this town, and is teaching him the route. Mr. Tracy was obliged to give up on account of ill health.

John S. Dwinell, formerly residing in this town, died Sunday in Wenham of heart disease, aged 65 years. He was formerly a fish dealer in this town and afterwards moved to Danvers.

The shipments of leather from Peabody and Salem for the week ending Sept. 12, were 5150 rolls, 892 sides, 180 bundles, 143 bags, 33 barrels, 2 cases of leather, 108 rolls, 2 barrels of skins.

Now that the hens are beginning to shed their feathers they require meat and bone in some form, as the growth of new feathers will cause general debility unless the wants of the hens are supplied.

"Elementary Physiology and Hygiene" has been adopted by the school committee as a text book, for the first classes in the grammar schools, and for oral instruction in the second and third classes.

Mr. Thomas H. McGrath and Mr. John Regan, have taken the rooms at 224 Essex Street, Salem, and stocked an office with all the latest styles of type and will conduct the job printing business there.

Mrs. Charles A. Reed, and Miss Jessie F. Beckett are spending their vacation in Dover, N. H.

Mrs. M. O. Stevens is announced to address the Centennial Temperance Conference to be held at Tremont Temple, Tuesday Sept 22, under the auspices of the Mass Total Abstinence Society.

Mr. E. C. Spofford is pleasantly located on a 160 acre farm in Idaho territory. He has built a house, and in company with a nephew, is engaged in cattle raising. He is about thirty miles from the railroad.

The 1.40 P. M. train from the Northern Depot in Salem, Skinner's train, connects direct at Wakefield Junction with a train for Lowell—a convenience for parties who desire to go to Lowell at that time of day.

The fare from Boston to Lynnfield, Peabody and Salem is thirty-five cents, and from Lynnfield to Salem, twenty-five cents. A person living in Lynnfield and buying a ticket from Boston, could visit Salem pretty cheap.

A complete list of the offices at which the new quick letter delivery goes into operation on the first of October has been received at the post office, where the public can learn all the particulars about the system.

The Union Leather Splitters' Association have closed up its affairs and turned the balance in the treasurer's hands over to Michael Hannon, who recently had his arm broken at the shop of J. A. Lord, Jr.

Mr. G. M. Fassett the station agent at Wenham, has been appointed agent for the Western Union Telegraph Company, with an office in the depot. A messenger boy has been engaged, and they are ready for business.

The police arrested Mary Thrope last Thursday, for drunkenness, and the next morning she was fined $5.83 for the fun. It took two officers to bring her to the police station, and about 500 children followed in the rear of the officers.

Mr. James Howley, the tailor, has returned from his European trip with a fine line of goods for autumn and winter. By importing them direct and doing the buying for several other houses, he can offer a fine line of goods at a low price.

Mr. D. W. Andrews, who lives at West Peabody, has a fine orchard of plum trees, thirty or forty in number. As he keeps about 3000 hens and they run under the trees, they keep them free from bugs and insects and they are in a flourishing condition.

Patrick McCarthy was arraigned before Judge Merrill last Friday afternoon, charged with keeping liquor with intent to sell. There was not evidence enough to convict, and he was discharged. C. H. Symonds Esq for defendant.

Mr. Charles O'Connor, who has recently returned from Ireland, was visited by a large number of friends last Friday evening who presented him with a watch chain. Charles did the square thing and furnished both solid and liquid refreshments.

The boys have turned their attention to kite flying with the coming of September, and three or four of their aerial travelers can be seen towering above the town from almost any locality during the hours of daylight, when the schools are not in session.

Mr. George H. Norman, president; G. Norman Weaver, treasurer; and Hugh K. Norman have incorporated the New England Construction Company of Boston with a capital of $100,000 to carry on the business of constructing public and private works.

The pharmacy board authorized by the Legislature has been appointed by Gov. Robinson, and all retail druggists in the state must now be registered as pharmacists, while those who have not had three consecutive years of experience in the business must be examined.

It is announced that the Peabody Polo team for the coming season, will consist of Hill and Reed of the Salems, McKay and Dunning of the Woburns, and Seelye and Hargrave of the Nantaskets. This will make about the strongest team possible, if the arrangements are carried out.

As Mr. James Donaldson of Salem was driving down Grove street last Friday a number of section hands came along with a hand car and were nearly run into by Mr. Donaldson. His horse shied on one side and continued on his way at a rapid rate. It might have been more serious.

Poet's Corner.

1827. Reunion. 1885.

The following poem was read at the reunion of the pupils of Haverhill Academy, class of 1827—30, Sept. 10th, of which John G. Whittier was a member. It was composed by Mr. Whittier for the occasion.

The gulf of seven and fifty years
We stretch our welcoming hands across;
The distance but a pebble's toss
Between us and our youth appears.

For in life's school we linger on
The remnant of a once full list,
Conning our lessons, undismissed,
With faces to the setting sun.

And some have gone the unknown way,
And some await the call to rest;
Who knoweth whether it is best
For those who went or us who stay?

And yet, despite of loss and ill,
If Faith, and Love and Hope remain,
Our length of days is not in vain,
And life is well worth living still.

Still to a gracious Providence
The thanks of grateful hearts are due
For blessings when our lives were new
For all the good vouchsafed us since.

The pain that spared us sore hurt,
The wish denied, the purpose crossed,
And pleasure's fond occasions lost,
Were mercies to our small desert.

'Tis something that we wander back,
Gray pilgrims, to the ancient ways
And tender memories of old days
Walk with us by the Merrimac.

That even in life's afternoon
A sense of youth comes back again,
As through this cool September rain,
The still green woodlands dream of spring.

The eyes, grown dim to present things,
Have keener sight for bygone years,
And, sweet and clear, in deafening ears
The bird that sang at morning sings.

Dear comrades, scattered wide and far,
Send from their homes the kindly word;
And dearer ones, unseen, unheard,
Smile on us from some heavenly star.

For life and death with God are one,
Unchanged by seeming change, his care
And love are round us here and there;
He breaks no thread his hands have spun.

Soul touches soul, the muster roll
Of life eternal has no gaps;
And after half a century's lapse
Our school day ranks are closed and whole.

Hail and farewell! We go our way,
Where shadows end we trust in light;]
The star that ushers in the night
Is herald also of the day!

Going A Berrying.

With broad, flat bonnet, to ward off the sun,
Eleanor goes to the fields away;
The pressing tasks of the morning are done,
And the breakfast dishes are set away.

The air is sweet at this early hour,
The birds are singing in bush and tree,
And Eleanor stops to pick a flower;
But one who follows she does not see.

Along the fence the blackberries grow,
Their numbers never seem to fail;
And picking fast, or picking slow,
Will serve at length to fill her pail.

Over her shoulder, so round and fair,
A shadow falls, and a step is heard;
Only a lover so closely would dare
To go—and whisper so tender a word.

Now two are picking the plump, black fruit,
But one is telling a tender tale—
For while he picks he presses his suit,
While the berries fall in a single pail.

Ah, why is the earth so green and fair?
And why is the sky so blue above?
Because through this pure, elastic air
Has swept the messenger of love!

Homeward they go, with loitering gait,
Not as the pretty maiden planned;
For, prompted by benignant fate,
She yields to him her heart and hand!

John Benton in the Critic.

Day Dreams.

BY CHARLES MACKAY.

Dozing in the sunshine
'Mid the summer grass,
O'er my eyes half opened
Gorgeous visions pass;
Through my teeming fancy
Vagabond and free,
Stream in endless lustre
Worlds of gramarye!
In a long procession
Float majestic halls,
Cities bright as amber
Girt with golden walls;
Realms of magic splendor,
Mine to have and hold,
And enjoy undoubting
Till the tale is told;
Sirens, houris, angels,
Beautiful and kind,
Flit, and fly, and hover
Through the careless mind!
Kaiser! is thine empire
Half as rich as mine?
King! canst thou surpass me
With thy glare and shine?
Crœsus! hast thou riches
That with mine can vie?
Pope! hast thou dominion
Absolute as I?

—New York Independent.

For Fever and Ague, and all miasmatic diseases, Ayer's Ague cure is a positive remedy. Warranted.

A PARIS MYSTERY

told him that he was about to make a journey, the duration of which was uncertain. He then paid three months' rent for the garret, remarking that it served very well to store his effects in, and that he would take the key with him. Since that day the Japanese has been neither seen nor heard of.

"Messieurs, to men of your intelligence the story is now plain. A young Japanese nobleman comes to Paris, and wastes in profuse extravagance all the wealth he has brought with him. This young Japanese has in his possession a jewel of immense value, a pearl, which is an heirloom in his family. Reduced to the direst straits, he pledges it to the usurer who has been his ruin. His debts swallow up the sum he has received from the money-lender; starving and desperate, he finally puts an end to his life. Before this, however, he has written to his brother in Yeddo telling him that the family heirloom is in Meissner's hands, probably adjuring him to recover it. This brother, Kiosaka, comes to Paris; he desires to recover the pearl; but more eagerly still, as his actions show, he desires revenge. He takes up his abode in the garret where his brother put an end to his life, that he may be constantly reminded of the duty of vengeance. Messieurs, I have not told you that Mlle. Duchastre was asked by the Japanese where his brother had been buried. The grave of Sangura is in Mont Parnasse; I visited it myself; on the tombstone erected by Mlle. Duchastre certain words have been cut in the Japanese character. I have made a copy of these words, and obtained a translation. Their meaning is, 'My brother, rest in peace; thou shalt be avenged.' That inscription, cut in the stone by Kiosoka's order, expresses his fixed purpose; in the murder of Joseph Meissner he carried that purpose into execution."

I drew a long breath of relief as M. Blery finished. At last the mystery of the Passage de Mazarin had been made clear!

"I may be called away at any moment," said the detective; "copies of this portrait have been sent to every seaport in France, and to the towns on the frontier. Before many hours have passed I shall be on the trail of the assassin."

While we were still talking a telegram was handed in. M. Blery ran his eyes over it.

"From the chief of police at Marseilles," he said; "I go there at once. Your friend, M. Marsal, is now as good as liberated. In a few hours, or days, another will be confined in his place. What a disappointment to my friend Py!"

CHAPTER XII.

The evidence which Sapinaud was able to lay before the imperial procurator proved sufficient to secure Raoul's immediate release. All the necessary steps were taken by Sapinaud; the office of bearing the joyful news to the prisoner devolved upon me.

I found Raoul in his prison chamber, lying half asleep on his pallet. The light of the solitary candle falling on his face showed what the effect of three weeks' imprisonment had been; his former associates might have had difficulty in recognizing him. His features were wan and haggard; black rings surrounded his eyes; an untrimmed beard covered the lower part of his face. I do not think I had realized until then what Raoul had borne in confinement.

As I entered he sprang from the truckle bed on which he had been lying.

"Ah, Paul, my friend," he cried; "it is you—you again!"

Then, releasing my hand, he took a step backward, and fixed on me a surprised, almost a startled look. This surprise was, indeed, natural. I was in evening dress; there was a bouquet in my buttonhole; my features, I suppose, betrayed my excitement, my elation. I saw Raoul's lip quiver; I fancied that he trembled. I seized both his hands in mine.

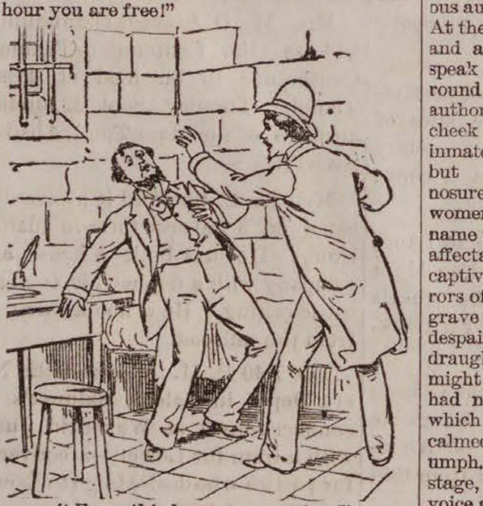
"Raoul," I half whispered, "be brave; I am going to tell you something——"

"There is hope?" he cried, with trembling eagerness, as I hesitated. "They have discovered something? My innocence——"

"Is proved, Raoul—proved! There is no longer the shadow of a doubt! More than that——"

"More than that?" he repeated, and his voice was weak and shaking.

"Yes," I cried, "more than that—from this hour you are free!"



"From this hour you are free!"

Raoul fell back on his bed; he had fainted. The warder who had accompanied me ran for water, and I sprinkled it on Raoul's face. In a few minutes he revived, and looked at me with a smile.

"The shock has been too much for you," I said.

"Gabrielle"—he answered—"does she know I am innocent?"

"I have but now left her. You shall yourself see her this night."

"Ah, Paul," he said, "you are indeed a friend—but now tell me what has been discovered—tell me all—I can bear it."

"I shall tell you all afterward. In the meantime you must come with me. But—expect surprises—Raoul, do you think you are strong enough to bear excitement?"

"I will go with you at once to Gabrielle. I am strong again, my friend. Ah, Paul, if you had passed such weeks of horror, you would not wonder at my weakness—you would know all that is meant by that little phrase—I am free!"

I do not very well know how I got out of that prison. I only know that Raoul leaned on my arm, and that I walked beside him in an ecstasy of joy. A cab was waiting for us at the gate. Raoul took his seat without asking any question. He seemed to confide himself silently to my direction. It was as if he lived and moved in a dream. At last, when we had driven some distance, he spoke:

"How is it that we are not yet at Gabrielle's. I thought you were to take me to her at once?"

"Patience, patience, my dear Raoul," I answered; "you forget you are not as yet looking like yourself. Your confinement, your suffering, have altered you. We shall see Mlle. Dumaine soon. But, first, you must be made once more like the Raoul of former days. At present you are unshaven, you are not dressed properly. The sight of you, so changed, might alarm Gabrielle; who knows?"

"You are right, Paul," he said; "you are more considerate than I. But can you wonder at my impatience?"

First I took him to a hairdresser's on the Boulevard St. Michel. Here his long black hair was trimmed and the last week's growth of beard removed. Then we drove to the Rue Dauphine and entered our old chamber, where we had been so happy together, and where I had been so wretched alone. The honest servant and his wife Nannette poured out their congratulations, but Raoul seemed scarcely to hear them. When he crossed the threshold he shuddered and passed his hand before his eyes, as if to shut out a sight of horror. I fancied that some shape—some scene that he had beheld in that room in his dreams, had again arisen before him. Then he once more relapsed into a kind of stupor. I confess I began to feel alarmed about Raoul.

When the servant and his wife had left us, I showed Raoul a suit of evening dress, laid out on his bed.

"Now," I said, "you will oblige me by putting on these at once. There is not a moment to spare unless you wish me to break an appointment."

Raoul gave me a puzzled look.

"What does this mean?" he said; "I do not understand."

"You will soon. Remember your promise—you were to obey me in everything for this one night. If you do not, I warn you, Raoul, I shall not be the only one whom you will disappoint."

Raoul asked no further questions, but allowed events to develop themselves as I wished.

When he had dressed, we went downstairs. The cab was still waiting, and we again entered it. In a few minutes it drew up before a large building, the front of which was one blaze of light. There we dismissed the cab.

"It is the Odeon Theatre," said Raoul. "Ah—I see—but Gabrielle?"

I allowed him no time for reflection. I led him up the staircase and through the corridor to the stage-boxes. I knocked at the door of one of these, opened it, and half-pushed Raoul within. Then I closed the door and waited.

After an interval of a few minutes the door was reopened, and Raoul drew me into the box. I found myself with my friend and Gabrielle Dumaine. The light was dim, for the curtains of the box were drawn, but it was not so dim that I could not discern the change that had come over the faces of these two since I had last looked upon either. Gabrielle was radiant with happiness, the serene, pure happiness which is born only of sorrow. I had seen her before in her moments of gayety and in her time of anguish, but I had never seen her looking so lovely as she did then. It seemed as if her trial had not only tested her heart, but had in some subtile way heightened her beauty and given it a new dignity and sweetness—a soft witchery, a calm, spiritual rapture born of deepened thought and proved devotion.

I need not repeat here what Gabrielle and Raoul said to me as we three sat, holding each other by the hand, in the darkened box in the Odéon. Suffice it to say that they so exaggerated my share in restoring Raoul to liberty that, I protest, it was almost a relief to me when the door opened, and there appeared M. Sapinaud, leading in Mme. Dumaine. Then there were fresh congratulations, and we were still in the midst of a conversation, joyful, but on the part of the ladies tearful also, when a bell rang and a hush succeeded to the hum that had filled the theatre.

Then I drew back the curtain of our box, and looked, for the first time, on the audience that had assembled to witness Raoul's play. The house was crowded from floor to ceiling. I looked from the circle, from the beauty and rank that filled it—from the snowy, lustrous dresses, the brilliant uniforms, the sparkling jewels, the flowers, the white-gloved fingers toying with fans or raising lorgnettes—I looked from the circle to the stalls, to the black-coated gentlemen among whom, I knew, were seated the keenest dramatic critics of Paris. The thought that they were there filled me with exultation. I had no fear for the success of Raoul's comedy. I had no doubt that before the night was over several of the brightest pens in the most critical city of the world would be running swiftly in his praise.

Many eyes were turned to our box that night. The evening papers had already announced the fact of Raoul's liberation, and a rumor that he was present in the theatre had circulated through the house. But it was not merely to the romantic experiences of its author that the comedy owed its success. Its power, its pathos and its wit would of themselves have insured that. It was so strong that it held that brilliant, that fastidious audience from the first scene to the last. At the close of the second act M. Desnouettes and a great critic—one of those who can speak in golden pieces, if they will—came round to our box to congratulate the author. The color came back to Raoul's cheek and his eye sparkled. From the inmate of a prison-cell—from a man all but condemned—to become the cynosure of Paris! The men and women who had but yesterday mentioned his name with a cynical indifference or a flippant affectation of horror, were now the willing captives of his genius—the unconscious mirrors of his moods, as the dialogue shifted from grave to gay. Raoul had drunk of the cup of despair; he was now to taste of the sparkling draught of fame. I feared the revulsion might be too great. And so, indeed, it might, had not Gabrielle been there. But the love which had sustained Raoul in his hour of agony calmed and steadied him in his hour of triumph. His eyes were turned less often to the stage, where his ideas were finding body and voice and clothing themselves in new power, than to Gabrielle. As for Gabrielle, she passed the time in a charmed distraction between her lover and the creatures of his imagination.

For my own part, I am afraid I could not that evening have given a very clear account of all that passed on the stage of the Odeon. Indeed, nowhere, perhaps, in all the theatre was Raoul's comedy followed with less intelligent attention than in the box occupied by the author and his friends. But it was the happiest hour of my life, and the thought which always came to me was—What a wonderful thing is this love! It has lifted Raoul out of the shadow of a terror worse than death; it has made him strong to receive with composure an ovation from the elite of Paris.

For it was, in truth, an ovation. I need scarcely remark that Parisian audiences are not, as a rule, prone to enthusiasm. But, when the curtain fell that evening on Raoul's comedy, the house fairly rose at him. A great shout of "Author! Author!" went up from all parts of the theatre. Then, for the first time, Raoul turned pale and trembled slightly.

"It is too much," he said, "let us go."

We hurried to the cloak-room, the roar of the theatre resounding in our ears. M. Desnouettes, as we learned afterward, came forward and assured the audience that the author was deeply grateful for the reception they had given his piece, and that only the state of his health prevented his appearing in answer to their call.

When we came out of the Odeon I said:

"You have borne yourself bravely, my dear Raoul, but your trials are not yet ended. Even a Moliere is not privileged to break his promises. You have conquered Paris, but you must obey me—you must still follow."

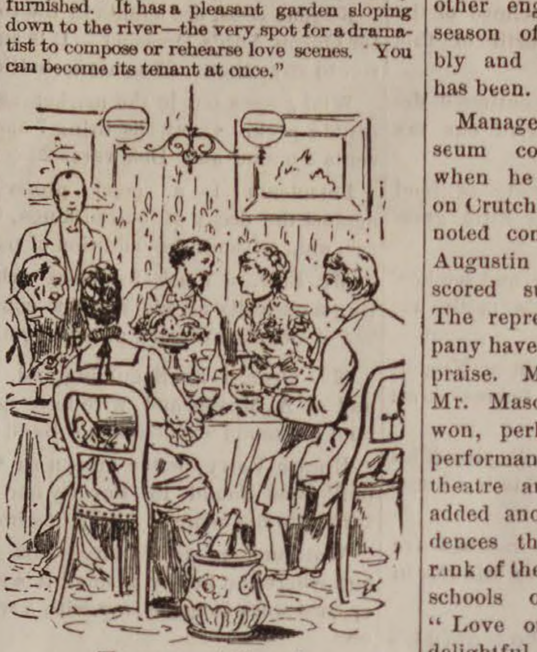
"Are we not to go back to the Rue de l'Odeon?" said Gabrielle. "What do you mean?"

"I mean that since Raoul has to-night provided so well for the mind, it is for me to provide for the body"—and I led the little party to Bignon's.

What a supper that was! We laughed—we grew witty—at least some of us did—we congratulated one another, we basked in the fame of our dramatist, we were eloquent, childish, whimsical, satirical, sentimental—we uttered a thousand absurdities—and we were wildly, supremely happy. But if our talk was beaded with the bubbles of frivolity, its current flowed from the deep places of the heart. Our light words were often only the mask of our up-welling emotion.

The honors of the evening were carried off by Sapinaud, who relieved his feelings in a speech of surpassing eloquence—indeed, it was so ingenious, so thrilling, so ornate, that I had an idea it must have been intended for delivery at the trial—the trial that was never to take place. Then I had to tell Raoul the story of his liberation. When I had ended Gabrielle, who was seated next me, seized my hand and kissed it before I could prevent her. Need I say that I felt myself richly rewarded?

"My dear Raoul," I said, "I am charmed to see how well you bear yourself already. Retirement for a little while in the society of Gabrielle is all that is necessary to complete the cure. The past will soon be forgotten, believe me. Mme. Dumaine and I have this day seen a villa at Auteuil, which we think will suit you perfectly. It is handsomely furnished. It has a pleasant garden sloping down to the river—the very spot for a dramatist to compose or rehearse love scenes. You can become its tenant at once."



The supper at Bignon's.

"My dear Paul, what do you mean? You forget I am not a Rothschild, but only a poor student of law."

"My dear Raoul, let me have the felicity of informing you that you are an exceedingly rich man."

"Most certainly," said Sapinaud, answering Raoul's look of incredulity; "you are the legal heir of your uncle. He died in the possession of great wealth; all that is yours."

"Not to speak of the comedy," I added, "which will of itself bring you no trifle."

It had never occurred to Raoul that his uncle's riches would now be his. He seemed at first overcome by the intelligence. Then he said:

"I will accept this wealth only on one condition, Paul—we must share good fortune as well as bad; we must divide in the future as well as in the past."

"I shall certainly," I said, "go to my money-eyed friend rather than to that wolfish Israelite, Levi Jacob."

"As for that," put in Sapinaud, "our friend Paul is never likely to want money, unless he means to live like a Lucullus. His reputation is made at the Prefecture. I see in him a future judge of instruction—it makes me giddy to look higher."

"And the marriage?" I asked, "when is that to take place?"

"To-morrow," answered Raoul, "if Mme. Dumaine and Gabrielle do not object."

Madame did not object, and Gabrielle assented with a blush. I became very envious of my friend's good fortune.

"We shall take the villa at Auteuil," said Raoul, "and before long these weeks will be to me like a bad dream, which one forgets in the morning; only I shall always remember the constancy and devotion of my friends."

CHAPTER XIII.

CONCLUSION.

The following extract from The Figaro will form the conclusion of my story:

MYSTERY OF THE PASSAGE DE MAZARIN.

We have to record this morning the closing scene in the extraordinary drama of revenge and crime which takes its name from the Passage de Mazarin. This scene equals in romantic interest any that has gone before it. Our readers have been already told how the Japanese, Kiosaka, after the murder of Joseph Meissner, immediately left Paris. The detective Blery, who has in this case displayed such singular ability, at once started in pursuit of the assassin. A clew was found at Marseilles, through a photograph of Kiosaka's brother, which had been sent to all the seaports, there being a close family resemblance between the brothers. M. Blery ascertained that Kiosaka had certainly gone to Marseilles, probably meaning to ship from that port; but having in the meantime heard of the arrest of M. Girard, the author of "The Gold of Toulouse," he seems to have changed his intention and returned to Paris, where he remained during the whole inquiry conducted by M. Roguet. Kiosaka had artfully concealed his hiding place in Paris, and it was not until a few days ago that M. Blery succeeded in tracing him out. It was then found that the Japanese had left Paris precipitately, immediately after the innocence of M. Girard had been proved, and the hue and cry raised against himself. He adopted various disguises, but in the end M. Blery succeeded in tracing him to Nantes. By this time his money appears to have been nearly exhausted, as he could not satisfy the demands of the captain of a merchant vessel trading to England, where he intended to take refuge. After this the unfortunate man wandered aimlessly from village to village, avoiding all towns and buying just as much food as would keep him in life. The detective meantime followed him closely, sometimes losing the trail, but always recovering it by his ingenuity and indefatigable perseverance.

Three days ago the Japanese was heard of at a small hamlet near Poictiers; but in none of the neighboring villages had he been seen after that time. The frost had been exceedingly keen in the district, and from these facts M. Blery drew an inference which proved correct. Under his direction the country people made a careful search of the woods lying round the village which the Japanese had last visited, and a party led by M. Blery himself discovered the corpse of the ill-starred Kiosaka lying stark and stiff among the brushwood. He had succumbed to the severe cold, which his natural constitution and the privations he had lately undergone rendered him unable to resist. On the person of the Japanese, hung in a little bag round his neck, was found the pearl which the old money-lender had obtained from the Japanese Sangura, and for the recovery of which he was murdered by Kiosaka. This pearl, which is of great beauty and very considerable value, passes into the possession of M. Girard, as heir of Joseph Meissner. The reward of five thousand francs offered by the authorities for the discovery of the assassin, together with the twenty thousand lately added to that amount by M. Girard, will be made over to M. Blery, who cannot be too highly complimented on the skill and energy which he has displayed in the affair of the Passage de Mazarin.

THE END.

THE DRAMA.

The charming drama of "M'liss", affords delight to all classes of theatre-goers. Annie Pixley is now as ever a fascinating comedienne and charming songstress, and her support is given by a company of unusual excellence. It can certainly be said that never were Miss Pixley and "M'liss" so well worth seeing as now. The new budget of songs meets with every mark of favor from her audiences at the Boston Theatre—assemblages which, more than once or twice, have tested the capacity of the spacious temple of the drama. "M'liss" can be seen during the present week only, however, as other engagements must cut short the season of Miss Pixley here, remarkably and deservedly prosperous as it has been.

Manager Field paid the Boston Museum company a high compliment when he intrusted them with "Love on Crutches," a play identified with the noted company organization of Mr. Augustin Daly, which had already scored success here with the play. The representations by the home company have won many a warm word of praise. Miss Clark and Mr. Barron, Mr. Mason and Mrs. Vincent have won, perhaps, especial honors in a performance that has been worthy the theatre and its reputation, and has added another to the long list of evidences that go to establish the high rank of the Museum company in all the schools of worthy dramatic work. "Love on Crutches" now goes with delightful smoothness. It can, however, hold the stage for only a few more performances, and these should find appreciation from the largest of audiences.

"Lord Tatters" will come to the Park, with the prestige of decided success in Portland and other New England cities. Monday of next week will introduce Mr. D. J. Maguinnis in his new role. This week Rose Etyinge and a splendid company play "Niagra."

The Bijou opens its doors on Monday of next week. "A Tin Soldier," Mr. Hoyt's latest success in comedy, is to be presented, with George W. Wilson as the plumber, James T. Powers as the boy, Amy Ames as the maid, Paul Arthur and a number of favorites in the chief roles. New music will enliven the piece, which, with its new cast, is likely to be a great and instant success.

"Featherbrain," the Wyndham success in London, is to be given its first production in America on Monday night of next week at the Museum It will be cast to the strenth of the company. Previous to the comedy, the pretty piece, "A Sheep in Wolf's Clothing," is to be performed, the curtain rising on "Featherbrain" nightly at 8.30 o'clock.

The Kiralfys will bring "Around the World in Eighty Days," out in grand style at the Boston Theatre the week of September 21, with fine scenery and splendid dancing. Jefferson's "Shadows of a Great City" will follow it.

Five new scenes have been painted by Magnam, of Florence, expressly for the production of "Around the World" at the Boston Theatre, and the Kiralfys have imported a live elephant to be used in the spectacle.

Nora Desmond, one of the new members of the Boston Museum company, has been and is still quite ill in England. She is on the road to recovery, but will not be able to make her debut here for some weeks.

Napier Lothian's familiar figure once more occupies the place on the director's stand at the Boston Theatre during the entr'actes.

Magnificent will be the costumes in "Romeo and Juliet" when Margaret Mather appears as the heroine of Verona at the Union Square, New York City.

The places at which to trade are the ones where the most desirable goods can be found, and the way to discover these places is through the columns of your local paper. An enterprising merchant who has a fine line of goods will be sure to let the public know it. There are some merchants who do not think it pays to advertise when business is dull. This is like neglecting to add fuel to a fire which is dying out. When trade begins to slacken in the summer, the shrewd business man announces his specialties and bargains in his local paper, and sells a dollar's worth of goods where his neighbor, who has taken out his advertisement because it does not pay, only disposes of 75 cents worth. A merchant in this town who has steadily advertised in the PRESS since the dull season began, says his trade was never better during the summer, and that not a day passes but that he has calls for some of the specialties which he announces every week.

Erysipelas and Salt Rheum was driven entirely away from Mrs. J. C. Anderson-Peshtigo, Wis., by Burdock Blood Bitters. No equal as a blood purifier.

A. B. & W.

New Dress Goods
FOR AUTUMN.

Rich, Rare, Elegant Novelties.

Below is a Partial List:

HOMESPUN NOVELTIES, CANVAS CLOTHS,
INDIA TWILLS,
BYRON SERGES,
CASHMERES.
ENGLISH HOMESPUN,
PLAIN CAMEL'S HAIR,
JERSEY CAMEL'S HAIR,
TUFTED NOVELTIES,
WHIPCORDS.
PIN CHECKS,
HINDOO CASHMERES,
TRICOT CLOTHS,
AFGHAN SUITINGS,
BOURETT SUITINGS.

Our Dressmaking Rooms are now open. From present indications we shall soon be very busy in our Custom Tailor Dressmaking Department, and we earnestly request our patrons to leave their orders as early as possible.

ALMY, BIGELOW & WASHBURN.

194 Essex Street, Salem.

"CANDEE" RUBBER BOOTS GIVE DOUBLE WEAR ON THE BOTTOM.
GREATEST IMPROVEMENT EVER MADE IN RUBBER BOOTS.
TWO YEARS TEST.
A COMMON SENSE IDEA
DOUBLE THICK BALL.

CANDEE.

Rubber BOOTS
—WITH—
DOUBLE THICK BALL.

Ordinary Rubber Boots always wear out first on the ball. The CANDEE Boots are double thick on the ball, and give

DOUBLE WEAR.

Most economical rubber Boot in the market. Lasts longer than any other boot, and the

PRICE NO HIGHER.

Call and examine the goods.

FOR SALE BY

SAGE & CO.,
Wholesale Agents Candee Co.,
BOSTON, MASS.

LADIES!

FOR MILLINERY,
Go to Browne's.
FOR SUNSHADES,
Go to Browne's.
FOR KID GLOVES,
Go to Browne's.
FOR SILK GLOVES,
Go to Browne's.
FOR INFANTS' CAPS,
Go to Browne's.
FOR COLLARS,
Go to Browne's.

153 and 155 Essex St., Salem.

FOR LACE-GOODS,
Go to Browne's.
FOR CORSETS,
Go to Browne's.
FOR RUCHINGS,
Go to Browne's.
FOR TOILET ARTICLES,
Go to Browne's.
FOR PERFUMERY,
Go to Browne's.
FOR HAIR GOODS,
Go to Browne's.

For all the Novelties of the season be sure and go to

Mrs. J. H. Browne

153 & 155 ESSEX ST.,

SALEM.

ESTIMATES CHEERFULLY GIVEN ON ALL KINDS OF PRINTING.

HALLOWELL & SMILEY,

Canned Corn Beef
AND TONGUE

For Picnics and Family Use.

MEATS AND PROVISIONS,

will always be found the best in the market at the LOWEST CASH PRICES.

Flour, Teas, Groceries, etc., at bottom prices.

Hallowell & Smiley

16 CALLER ST., PEABODY.

SMOKERS

Having secured a large lot of the very Best Tobacco in the market we feel justified in saying the

MON AMI AND PLANTER

are the Best Havana Cigars in the town of Peabody. We have also the Electric, Harvard and El Sol de Cuba Brands.

FOR A 5C. SMOKE

Try the Brunette, it is a good one. The Heart's Ease, Sociable, Purity, Gun Club and E. H. S., are fine goods.

Collins' Cigar Store,
4 Allen's Block.

TOBACCO WHOLESALE & RETAIL.

NOW IS THE TIME

TO GET

ASTERS,

And all the strong and hardy plants,

WARD'S GREENHOUSES,

Cor. Endicott and Warren Sts., Peabody.

AMERICAN RUDGE.

The only first-class wheel listed at a low price, fitted with all the latest improvements.

Price, 50 in., Enamel and Nickel, $107.50.

Call and Examine or send for Catalogue.

STODDARD, LOVERING & CO.,
152 Congress St., Boston.

Now is the time to rid the system of humors and all Blood Impurities. Ferrated Hygienic Wine is a most effective remedy. tf

TWICE A DAY

HATHAWAY'S ORIGINAL

CREAM HOME MADE BREAD

Hot Morning and Afternoon. Best of goods in our line comprising

Crackers, Bread, Cake and Pastry,

Also rich Bride, Angel and Wedding Cake to order. Fine ornamental work for Wedding, Birthday and Party Cake a specialty.

C. F. Hathaway,

50 LOWELL ST., PEABODY.

Our Competitors Keep Their Backs Up.

Because Our Prices are so Low,
Our Stock is so Large and
Our Patronage So Great.

WE ARE NOT TO BLAME

If an undeviating adherence to Low Prices, Fine Goods and Polite Treatment have won for us the largest trade of any retail boot and shoe store in Essex county, we shall continue to offer the same genuine inducements that have won for us the victory.

TRY THE MATCHLESS BOOT.

PRE-EMINENTLY THE BEST $2 BOOT IN THE MARKET.

Superb in style, elegant in fit and exquistte in design, they are marvels of grace and beauty and it is now within the means of every lady in Peabody to wear a most attractive boot at the

MARVELOUSLY LOW PRICE OF $2.

All horse cars from Peabody pass our Market street store and by transfer our West Lynn store, and any lady can, by trading with us, save on one pair of boots more than enough to pay for one of the most delightful rides imaginable.

WELLMAN OSBORN,

84 MARKET ST., 23 MARKET SQUARE,

LYNN, MASS.

B. A. ATKINSON & CO.,

NASSAU HALL, 827 Washington St., cor. Common Street, and 54 Shawmut Ave., cor. Pleasant Street, BOSTON, MASS.

CORNER PEARL AND MIDDLE STREETS, PORTLAND, ME.

THE LARGEST HOUSE FURNISHING STORES IN NEW ENGLAND.

102,550 square feet of floor room in the Nassau Hall Building is filled with all kinds of

USEFUL HOUSEHOLD GOODS,

which will be sold Cheap for CASH or on INSTALLMENTS.

SPECIAL ANNOUNCEMENT to the housekeepers of New England.—During the month of September we shall sell all kinds of household furnishings cheaper than ever before.

FURNITURE, CARPETS, BEDDING, STOVES, RANGES, &c.

Buy of the MANUFACTURERS and save one profit.

PARLOR FURNITURE (our own make).

Hair Cloth Parlor Suites, 7 Pieces, $35.00, $40.00, $45.00, $50.00 $60.00, $75.00, $80.00. Covered in Embossed Mohair Plush for $15 extra, 4 colors. SUITES in all grades of Mohair and Silk Plush from $50.00 to $300.00. Also Suites in Fancy Goods. We carry an enormous line of Plushes and Upholstery Goods, and any person can select their goods and have their Suites or Odd Chairs or Couches made to order, at same Prices. Continually on hand 75 to 80 different styles. Our Factory is taxed to its utmost Capacity.

CHAMBER FURNITURE.

In this department we have an Enormous Line.
Ash Chamber Suites, at $18.00, $20.00, $25.00, $30.00, $35.00 to $75.00.
Cherry Chamber Suites, at $30.00, $40.00, $50.00 to $100.00.

SOLID BLACK WALNUT CHAMBER FURNITURE.

No. 1 is a 10 Piece Marble Top Suite, nicely Moulded and Beaded, a beauty, $40.00.
No. 2 is a 10 Piece, Bevel Mirror, finely Polished, best Italian Marble Tops, and worth $65.00. Price, $50.00.
No. 3 is one of the Handsomest Suites in the market, comprising 10 pieces, large Bevel Glass, Brace Arm Chairs, large Table, and Warranted in every Particular, $60.00.
We have over 50 DIFFERENT PATTERNS, all set up on one floor to select from.

ALSO, A FULL LINE OF PINE PAINTED FURNITURE.

Mahogany Furniture.

All kinds of Odd Furniture—Odd sized Bedsteads, Cribs, Cradles, Car Beds, Cabinet Beds, Mantle Beds, Bed Lounges, Sofa Beds, Spring Beds, Feather Beds.

STOVES AND RANGES IN GREAT VARIETY.

Our stock is complete, some of the finest RANGES in America; a nice Range and Ware for $15.00, $20.00, $22.50, $25.00, $30.00 and up to $50.00.
PARLOR STOVES in great variety, from $4.00 to $40.00.

☞ Special pains have been taken in this Department.

CARPETS.

The Finest Line in New England, comprising Marquetts, Velvets, Body Brussels, Tapestry Brussels, Ingrains and Oil Cloths in great variety of quality and price.

Tapestry Brussels,	60c to $1.00.	Ingrains,	25c to $1.25.
Body Brussels,	95 " 1.50.	Velvets,	95 " 1.50.

Mats and Rugs.—An enormous quantity just received, selling at cost to produce.
Window Shades, Lace Curtains, Drapery Curtains, Poles, and Cornices all set up.
Everything in our stock will be sold on the Installment Plan if desired. Square dealing is our motto. Come well recommended—we want honest people for our customers. Send for our circulars showing how we do the Installment Business. Your Obedient Servants,

B. A. ATKINSON & CO.,

NASSAU HALL, 827 Washington St., cor. Common Street, and 54 Shawmut Ave., cor. Pleasant Street, BOSTON, MASS.

CORNER PEARL AND MIDDLE STREETS, PORTLAND, ME.

The Old House on the New Street.

BY THE AUTHOR OF JOHN HALIFAX, GENTLEMAN.

It used to be so quiet,
 It looked so pretty and green;
The larks hymned high in its clear blue sky,
 With thrushes' notes between,
And from its doors and windows
 Life's morning songs were heard,
As pure as bluest heaven,
 As blythe as any bird.

Can those be the self-same windows,
 And that the very door?
And this full street our green lane, where feet
 Once walked—that will walk no more?
And that old grapevine, struggling
 To put forth town-bred leaves,
Did I once, once gather its clusters
 Beneath our happy eaves?

O poor old house of my girlhood!
 O strange, ghost-haunted way!
Here street by street the tall mansions meet,
 But the hedgerows, white with May,
The scent of the August evenings,
 The nightingale's soft June song,
Gone—gone! All are dead and departed,
 Like the days when we were young.

Yet by the old house I linger,
 And my heart grows faint and weak;
The carriages roar like a sea without shore,
 And the railway engine shriek;
And I'm tired, tired, tired of the noises,
 With the lifelong silence below;
And I almost wish I had followed
 The way all the rest did go.

And I would I had tears, but they come not,
 The smooth smiles come instead.
Oh, the careless words that cut like swords!
 Oh, the stones we get for bread!
So I take up the old, old burthen:
 Long carrying makes it sweet:
And silently go on my journey
 To the House where all paths meet.

* * *

The Lost Obligation.

Some men seem to take naturally to whatever promises to be unfortunate to them, and it must have been in a blind obedience to this law that Charles Day insisted on regarding Jonas Terry as his friend. There was nothing in common between the men but a love for Josie Merritt, and such a circumstance is not usually conducive to a friendly feeling.

Charles had wavy brown hair, a pleasant face, and a fine tenor voice. Jonas kept his hair cut after some penitentiary fashion, his features were thick and commonplace, and he had a short, stumpy figure. Their mental differences were quite as great; Charles was rapid and bright, Jonas slow and secretive; Charles also was affectionate and prodigal, Jonas saving and prudent, and inclined to make a merit of always looking out for himself. Both were young men of some fortune and positon, but Jonas alone was in business. Charles lived upon the rents of his property, and devoted his time to the ladies in general, and to Josie Merritt in particular.

One evening in June they sat together in the library of Charles' fine house. They had been discussing some summer plans, and Charles said:

Leave off grinding at that money mill of yours, Jonas, and come with me; we shall have a pleasant month's cruise.

I cannot possibly do it. To tell the truth, I am in a very tight place, and it's a bad time for raising money.

How much do you want?

About twelve thousand.

Will ten thousand do?

Yes; ten would put me out of straits. In fact, ten thousand now might be worth fifty thousand to me.

Charles walked to his secretary and unlocking it, counted out the amount in bills, and handed them to his friend, saying;

Just give me your I. O. U., Jonas, for two months after date. Will that be long enough?

You don't mean this, Charles?

Why, yes, I do, old fellow. It is not much of a kindness, after all. You see, Merritt paid me my quarter's rents to-day, and I shall be sure to spend all before the quarter is over if I keep the money where I can get at it. In two months I shall be out of funds and in the height of the season. It is a plan of mine to secure ten thousand for clearing up in September.

Thank you, Charles. I will accept the loan with pleasure, and if you should need it before, why, just drop me a line. I shall be out of trouble long before September.

The young man then drew a pen and some paper toward him, wrote out the I. O. U., and handed it to his friend, observing as he did so, allow me to say, Charles, that it is foolish to keep so much money here. Put it with your banker.

Certainly. Merritt paid me this afternoon. It was so hot when he left I thought I would not go down town till the morning. There is no danger. Nobody but you and Merritt and myself knows anything about it.

Then he filed the I. O. U., glanced at it and rose to put it in his secretary; but as he was crossing the room, Jonas said, I heard to-day that Josie Merritt is to marry Lieutenant Pierce.

In an instant the young man's thoughts were diverted from his money affairs. He was much excited at the information, refused to believe it, and went over and over, with a passionate earnestness, his reasons for being certain that such a thing could not be.

Why, he kept repeating, I have known her ever since she was a little bit of a girl. I carried her books to school; I went with her to the dancing class; her father has been my lawyer and adviser; I have been as much at home in Merritt's house as in my own. Pooh! the thing is impossible. Josie never would treat me like that. I won't believe it.

Go and ask her a straightforward question.

I can't. It is too late to-night, and I leave by the noon train tomorrow. I intended to have that matter fully understood this summer but I was in no hurry. A love affair is all spoiled when papa and mamma and the lawyer and the world come into it. I have told Josie that, and she and I understood one another. Will you be calling there soon, Jonas?

I will try, if you wish it.

They leave town in a few days, but call before, if you can, and send me word if you see anything of the Lieutenant.

I will. Lock up your secretary, Charles; I see it is still open. I am very much obliged—very much.

All right. You are very welcome. I am just putting ten thousand safely away for when I need it.

Charles was much annoyed at what he heard, but he did not forget his secretary. It had a secret drawer, and was capable of being fastened with three intricate locks. He carefully secured all three, and then sat down to smoke and think over again the absurdity of Josie caring for any one but himself. In half an hour he was satisfied that the thing was impossible, and he rose rather wearily, determnied to sleep upon his faith in her love.

As he passed the table he saw a piece of paper that attracted him; it was Jonas' I. O. U. He had forgotten to put it away, and it was too much trouble to unlock the secretary again. He hesitated a moment where to secure it, but almost instantly selected a place he considered singularly safe, deposited it there, and then went to bed and to sleep

The next day he went to Newport, and there waited patiently the advent of the Merritts. Before he got any letter from Jonas, Josie herself had satisfied him. They had a charming stroll together, in which everything was talked over, and which left Charles in what he considered a very happy and enviable position.

Nothing marred the heaven of their next two months. At the end of that time the reckless lover began to be in want of funds, and as he had heard nothing from Jonas, he determined to go to New York and collect his I. O. U. He had not a care on his heart about it until he had searched his secretary again and again, and failed to find the paper. He lit a cigar and sat down to think. Then he suddenly remembered that he had found the paper after he had left the secretary, and that he had hid it. He even remembered the little laugh of delight with which he had put it in such a capital place. But what place? He could not remember that.

The room, as said before, was the library, and the walls were covered to a considerable height with books, the top of the shelves being ornamented with busts, Indian boxes, and Chinese cabinets and jars. He looked behind all the books, opened those within easy reach, rifled the boxes and cabinets, and peeped into all the vases. The search was continued half through the night, but the paper was not found.

He tried to think that it was of no consequence, but somehow his heart failed him. Early next day he went to the office of Jonas Terry, and found him there. Jonas was busy writing, but he lifted his head with a smile, and rose heartily to greet his friend. Jonas, said Charles, with a puzzled, eager look, that I. O. U.—I have lost it. Searched everywhere all night for it, and can't lay my hands on it.

What I. O. U.?

The one you gave me for the ten thousand dollars I lent you in June. After you went I sat down to think about Josie Merritt, and when I was getting sleepy I found it on the table. I was too lazy to unlock my secretary again, and I hid it somewhere, or else I thought I hid it, and left it about, and the servants swept it away. However, I will give you an acknowledgment that will cover all possible claim if ever it should turn up. That will do, you know.

You must be dreaming, Charles. I know nothing about an I. O. U., and I don't at all see what you are drifting at.

Jonas! You could not be such a scoundrel! You are joking, of course.

Mr. Day, I request you to leave my office at once, sir. I am not to be bullied or blackmailed in this way, I assure you.

Then Charles struck the scoundrel, and there was such an uproar of words and blows that the police were called in, and the affair became sufficiently public, and, indeed, went into the Courts. Of course, Charles got the worst of it every way. He had no particle of evidence to show for his claim; he was fast, fashionable and extravagant, while Jonas was universally spoken of as estimable and reliable. Society turned the cold shoulder toward him, and mothers forbade their daughters to ride in his company or accept him for a partner in the dance. But then, as Mrs. Merritt shrewdly said, his engagement to our Josie has just become known.

It was remarkable that after this quarrel Jonas Terry's business grew with amazing rapidity. Perhaps the saving of that ten thousand had been the turning point of his fortune. We all know how the want of a $5 bill can lose us an amount amazingly disproportionate. Socially, too, his success was very great. He married a beautiful, stylish woman, who fully shared his antipathy to the Days, and who never lost an opportunity of mortifying them; and social slights are bitter enough to those whose whole life turns upon social success. In fact, Mr. and Mrs. Jonas Terry, with their grand house and exclusive entertainments and fine turnout, were the Mordecai sitting in the gate of all Charles' and Josie's happiness.

Many a time the two had gone together over everything in the room, taking every book from the shelves, and examined every crevice in the cases, but all in vain. The I. O. U. was evidently lost, and Charles said, after every fresh search and disappointment, No use, Josie, I tell you, everything goes against honor and virtue. If you want to be pointed out as a pattern of all excellencies, you must be in secret a natural and practical villain.

So the years went by—fifteen of them. The I. O. U. was not forgotten. They lived in a society where people have little else to do but remember the antecedents of its members, and Charles Day and his wife very often felt the influence of Jonas' accusation. The two men never spoke. If they passed each other on the drive, Jonas cracked his whip offensively, or Mrs. Terry looked scornfully at the shrinking couple; but they had long ago said all to each other that it was possible to say.

In the fifteenth summer after the loan Charles went yachting, and on one memorable night was shipwrecked. Almost by a miracle, and after he had sunk thrice, he was rescued. The first words he uttered to his wife, were: Josie, I have found the I. O. U. Write down just what I say: Shakespeare, Knight's Edition, vol. iv, page 213, fourth compartment, fourth shelf, fourth book.

Josie wrote it down; but Charles was so restless lest anything should now happen to the library that he returned to New York as soon as there was the least safety in doing so. When he arrived at home he went straight to the library, and putting his hand on a certain volume, opened it at the page he had indicated, and there was the lost I. O. U.

When I was drowning, Josie, the last time I sank, everything I ever did became in a moment's flash clear as day to me, and I saw myself putting the note in the place I found it. It is wonderful. But it is true, and Josie dear, thank God! my name will be cleared at last.

The clearing of his name was Charles' first thought, but after it came the very satisfactory one of making Jonas pay the principal and interest due him. And after that is done, Josie, I shall sue him for defamation of character, and make him pay for every insolence.

This was no idle threat. The next morning Charles' lawyer confronted the false-hearted scoundrel with his I. O. U., and entered proceedings at once to recover. Jonas at first tried to compromise, but this offer Charles indignantly rejected. I want the world to see, he said, that though punishment for a cowardly, wicked deed be long delayed, it is sure to come.

And perhaps the social and commercial world in which these two men moved never had a more vivid illustration of this truth. The business that had been built upon a fraud and a wrong crumbled away as if touched by some withering blight. The Court awarded Charles Day principal and full interest, and a subsequent action for defamation gave him, in reparation for his fifteen years' slandered name, $50,000.

But by that time the firm of Jonas Terry was unable to meet such a claim. He shut his doors in dishonor, and fled in the darkness of night from the thousands whom he had robbed.

It is a great punishment, said Josie sorrowfully; and he has four little boys.

It was a great crime, Josie; and the wrong to my purse was the least part of the wrong.

But Mrs. Terry, sitting in her wrecked home, took a different view of the case. Charles Day is entirely to blame, she said; his weakness and his laziness threw the temptation in Jonas' way. It is the weak men that make the wicked ones.

* * *

Frank Leslie's Sunday Magazine for October opens with the first installment of a new serial by Fannie Aymar Mathews entitled "Dilettante Days," a bright and taking story of travel. The three chapters given take the reader across the Atlantic, through Liverpool, Chester and Warwick; the illustrations are appropriate and truthful. The two stories, "Love's Harvest," by Farjeon, and "What She Made of Her Life," by Mrs. Farmer, go on entertainingly. The Rev. Edward A. Rand contributes a pleasant and readable article "An Autumn Pilgrimage," and there is a good sketch, with extracts and illustrations, of Tennyson's latest dramatic poem, "Becket." There are also many interesting shorter articles and poems. Published by Mrs. Frank Leslie, 53, 55 and 57 Park Place, New York city, at 25 cents a number or $2.50 a year, postpaid.

Three Peculiarities

Hood's Sarsaparilla, the great blood purifier and regulating medicine, is characterized by three peculiarities, namely:

1st: The combination of the various remedial agents used.

2d: The proportion in which the roots, herbs, barks, etc., are mixed.

3d: The process by which the active medicinal properties are secured.

The result is a medicine of unusual strength and curative power, which effects cures heretofore unequalled. These peculiarities belong exclusively to Hood's Sarsaparilla, and are

Unknown to Others

Hood's Sarsaparilla is prepared with the greatest skill and care, by pharmacists of education and long experience. Hence it is a medicine worthy of entire confidence. If you suffer from scrofula, salt rheum, or any disease of the blood, dyspepsia, biliousness, sick headache, or kidney and liver complaints, catarrh or rheumatism, do not fail to try

Hood's Sarsaparilla

"I recommend Hood's Sarsaparilla to all my friends as the best blood purifier on earth." WM. GAFF, druggist, Hamilton, O.

"Hood's Sarsaparilla has cured me of scrofulous humor, and done me worlds of good otherwise." C. A. ARNOLD, Arnold, Me.

A book containing many additional statements of cures will be sent to all who desire.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Sold by all druggists. $1; six for $5. Made only by C. I. HOOD & CO., Lowell, Mass.

100 Doses One Dollar.

FULL WEIGHT
ROYAL BAKING POWDER
ABSOLUTELY PURE
ROYAL
BAKING POWDER

ROYAL BAKING POWDER

Absolutely Pure.

This powder never varies. A marvel of purity, strength and wholesomeness. More economical than the ordinary kinds, and cannot be sold in competition with the multitude of low test, short weight, alum or phosphate powders. Sold only in cans. ROYAL BAKING POWDER Co., 106 Wall street, N. Y.

NOW FOR

Base Ball,

and the place to get

BASE BALLS
AND BATS,

at the lowest prices is of

DANIEL J. SWEENEY

Next to the Old Hotel on the Square.

Here can also be found a good assortment of

Fruit,
Confectionery,
Cigars and Tobacco.

Principee, Electric,
Serenader, Leader,

5 CENTS.

Harvard and Boat Club,

10 CENTS.

DANIEL J. SWEENEY.

IF YOU DESIRE

A MEDICINE

To regulate and build up your system and purify the blood of all poisonous humor use

FERRATED HYGIENIC WINE

FOR SALE BY DRUGGISTS.

RATES REDUCED.

MAPLE HOUSE,

JEFFERSON, N. H.

The proprietors having in view that the great land slide which occurred on July 10th, 1885, will attract a great many people to Jefferson, during September and October, offer to entertain people during that time at from

$7.00 to 8.00 per week,

in all parts of the house. Send for descriptive circular.

Coaches connect with all trains at Jefferson Station.

Open till Nov. 1st.

MRS. M. H. BOWLES & SON.

A PRIZE Send six cents for postage, and receive free, a costly box of goods which will help you to more money right away than anything else in this world. All, of either sex, succeed from first hour. The broad road to fortune opens before the workers, absolutely sure. At once address, TRUE & Co., Augusta, Me.

PEOPLE'S POPULAR PRICES

— FOR —

BOOTS and SHOES.

Misses' Grain Button, 11 to 2,	$ .75
Children's Lace School Shoes, 7 to 11,	.50
" Spring Heel Button,	.75
Ladies' Serge Buskins,	.25
" Kid Opera Slippers,	.50
" Glove Top Kid Foxed Button,	1.25
" Serge Congress,	.75
" Grain Button,	1.25
Men' Button Boots, sewed,	1.50
" Kip Bals, Tap Sole,	1.25
" Slippers,	.40
" Fine Calf Button, Bals & Cong.	2.50
Boy's Bals and Congress,	1.00
" Button, sewed, 1 to 5 1-2,	1.25
Men's Kip Plow Shoes, Batchelder's best,	1.50

Rubber Goods at Lowest Prices.

All our Low Cut Shoes will be sold at cost.

Cheap and Reliable Goods make Cheerful Buyers.

We invite the attention of all those to whom

"Money is an Object!"

to the extremely low prices we have placed on our really first-class and desirable grades of goods.

NUGENT BROS.

PEABODY SQUARE.

The Peabody Press.

JOHN P. FERNALD ALBERT VITTUM,
Editors and Publishers.

Current rumors to the effect that telephone rates would soon be raised here and the fact that rates in neighboring towns have taken a jump, have put Milford telephone subscribers on their guard, and a reduction of rates might prove to be of more financial benefit to the company than a raise. Raising telephone rates is not half as profitable as raising tobacco and early vegetables. —Milford Gazette.

A number of Lynn subscribers to the telephone will discontinue the use of their instruments when the rates advance, October 1.—Lynn Union.

It is the same story everywhere. Protest after protest is made by the local press against the raise of telephone rates. Yet we are credibly informed that the new rates will be enforced—without regard to loss of subscribers. This is what might have been anticipated from the beginning. They are making the assertion every where that the service is not remunerative—and this despite their own published report, which shows such a statement to be utterly false. The telephone is a valuable institution; no business man wants the use of it, the press would not protest against an advance in rates, did they believe that the Telephone Company could not afford to perform the service at present rates. The fact is, the statements made in this direction by the company are not believed by the public. And the more so, when the Company take no measures to substantiate their position. They say every telephone costs $44.13 to maintain, but they don't prove it. They make other statements about the lack of remuneration; then comes their report showing that they have made an enormous profit. Why they do not declare dividends we showed, we think, very conclusively last week. The press has, in this vicinity, made offers to the managers of the Telephone Co., to prove their position, to show by figures wherein they have been losing money. The columns of this paper are open to them at any time. If they are right and we are wrong, why don't they avail themselves of this offer, and others which have been made them by our cotemporaries in this vicinity?

We want, next year, to see the bill, restricting the rates to be paid this company, pass the Legislature. Such a bill will surely be introduced, in the interest of anti-monopoly. Last year it came so near to a passage, that the Telephone people were badly frightened. Surely the State, which grants this very valuable franchise, should have some power to protect its citizens from extravagant charges. No one questions its right; whether it will exercise it depends mainly on the complexion of the next Legislature. The power of the press everywhere should be exerted for the election of men who are not in league with rings or monoplies of any sort. Such men will not be bought or bribed by any company; they can be relied upon to work for the best interests of the business men, whose prosperity means also the prosperity of the laboring man.

◆

It has been authoritatively stated that the New York & New England railroad will probably be turned over to the stockholders, the road's business having increased to such an extent as to make this possible. This is indeed highly gratifying, and a still greater increase of business undoubtedly awaits the road, which has been exceedingly prosperous under the management of Receiver Clark.

Rev. W. G. Sperry Resigns.

At the close of Rev. Dr. Atwood's sermon last Sunday at the South Church here, he read the letter of resignation of Rev. Mr. Sperry. The decision of the latter gentleman had been anxiously awaited, and the appearance ot Dr. Atwood in the pulpit partially prepared the congregation for what was coming. Mr. Sperry leaves to take charge of a church in Manchester, N. H. At a Church meeting last evening his resignation was accepted and the concurrence of the Society desired. When this is obtained a council will be called to dissolve the pastoral relations. Mr. Sperry leaves with the best wishes of the church and congregation for his future prosperity. The following is the letter in full:

Peabody, Mass., Sept. 12, 1885.

To the So. Church and Society.

Dear Brethren: It is known to all of you that recently I received a call to the pastorate of the First Congregational Church of Manchester, N. H. This call, unsought and unexpected, it has been my duty to consider. In striving to reach the right decision, touching this matter, I have been led to look backward across the seven years so quickly gone since I was ordained to the "ministry of the word;" and many reasons have presented themselves in favor of a longer pastorate with you.

First among them let me place the promptings of my own heart. When I came among you, I was assured of a warm welcome from many friends, who were ready to aid me in every good work, and to judge charitably and kindly my first labors as your pastor and teacher. This assurance you have more than satisfied. The prophecy of a former pastor of the church, made at the beginning of my work, that I should have an increasing love and respect for the people of this parish, as I came to know them better, has been fulfilled.

Except in times of discouragement, which, now and then, fall to the lot of every Christian minister, I have never been restless here. I have never sought a better place. To me there could be no better place. Amidst many friends, I have lived contentedly, loving, and constantly reminded of your love.

If inclination then were to decide, my choice would be made, at once and gladly, to remain with you.

2. In looking at the history of these years upon the spiritual side, I have found greater reasons for gratitude and gladness than for regret. I believe that the kingdom of Christ has been set up in many hearts, that Christians have been strengthened, and that in some good degree God has owned and honored the preaching of "the word."

And I cherish the hope that the personal ministrations which it has been my privilege to render going "from house to house" have been a means of blessing to many needy hearts. But if I have been able to help any of you onward in the Christian way, be assured that you also have helped me. The prayers, example and counsels of those of mature Christian life, have been an inspiration to me. You have educated and trained me for the work of the ministry as the schools could not.

3. And besides all this, I have been deeply moved by the expressions of love and confidence conveyed to me in the resolutions of both the church and the Society. Accept my heartiest thanks for them.

But, on the other hand, it has been my duty to set over against such considerations the reasons in favor of trying a new work in another place. I doubt whether they will be as potent with you as they are with me, yet let me try to state them.

And first, I hold the theory that a man's first pastorate ought not to be greatly prolonged. Instructors in our seminaries are accustomed to advise their classes to this effect. After a few years a change benefits both pastor and people. No exact limit of time can be fixed; but the limit of time comes, sooner or later.

But, second, the pastor who preaches with increasing helpfulness in every added year to those who accept the Gospel and yield unreservedly to the truth which he presents, preaches against an ever increasing resistance in the hearts of those who fail to heed his words.

I have a longing desire that many in this congregation who have listened to my words during all these years and yet have given me no sign that they choose to become the followers and servants of Jesus Christ, should listen to the Gospel of God's grace presented by another and a more persuasive voice.

And, third, the opportunity which has now come to me is one in which I may fairly hope for a ministry of larger usefulness.

In regard to my fitness for the pastorate of a larger church I have had no opinion, and my feeling has been that of one shrinking from greater responsibilities.

But when I have sought advice from many disinterested men, who are competent to judge, all of them have counseled me to make the change. The call to this new field of work is unanimous and urgent, and the prospect is specially inviting.

But more than all I have waited patiently to know the will of the Lord in this matter. For a long time I was in great perplexity, standing irresolute at the place where the path divides. At last I have reached a clear conviction of duty.

In accordance with this deep conviction I ask you, dear brethren, to give me your benediction and to let me go. I now resign the pastorate of this church and society. Let this resignation take effect upon the twenty-second day of the present month. I invite the church to meet me on Tuesday evening in the ladies' room to make arrangements for a council of dismissal.

Commending "you to God and to the word of His Grace, which is able to build you up, and to give you an inheritance among them that are sanctified," I am in Christian love,

Sincerely yours,
WILLARD G. SPERRY.

◆

SOUTH PEABODY.

Several street lamps have been put up on Lynnfield street, between the brook and Brown's corner.

About 1300 passengers were carried on this end of the L. & B. road last Sunday.

Mr. Geo. F. Shaw is failing very fast and no hopes are entertained for his recovery.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert P. Brown are the happy parents of a daughter.

Miss Josie Conrad has gone to Nova Scotia to visit friends.

One of the horses of the L. & B. road died at the Wyoma stable last night.

Mr. John Larrabee has improved the looks of his house on Lynnfield street, by painting.

Mr. Benj. Parker has one of the best fields of onions there is in this section of the town.

Mr. O. B. Chadwick has had his burial lot in Cedar Grove cemetery graded and otherwise improved. J. A. Trask did the work.

Conductor Williams of the L. & B. road has gone on his vacation, and will pass it in Vermont.

Mrs. M. A. Basford has a hydrangea in full bloom on her lawn, on Washington street, that is very beautiful.

The squash vines in the field of Major Lewis Allen are all drying up, having been killed by the frost.

Mr. S. Wesley Williams will superintendent the construction of a new summer residence at Beverly Farms. He takes the work from the contractor, William Poor, of Boston, a former resident.

The gypsies who are camping at So. Peabody, have pitched their tents since the cool weather came on, and sleep in them instead of the wagons.

The floral concert, which was postponed from the last Sunday in August, was held in the audience room of the church last Sunday. The service was a success every way, and reflected great credit upon the superintendent, Mr. W. Fred Wiggin, and his assistants, as well as upon those who took part in the service. The floral decorations were profuse, and were arranged with tasteful effect. A frame, entwined with Clematis and wild flowers, stood upon the platform. From this frame hung three banners, upon which appeared the words, "The Unspeakable Gift," "The Giver," "The Receiver." Above this frame and on the platform below bouquets of cut flowers were placed, while at the rear of the platform and here and there in conspicuous places large bunches of golden rod, asters and other flowers of the field were massed. The exercises, which consisted chiefly in recitations and singing, were very interesting. The main feature was recitations by a number of girls, each one of whom placed a letter on one of the banners, so that they bore the added words of "Jesus," "God" and "Man," respectively. For the evening service the flowers were rearranged. Mr. A. W. Tyler gave a carefully prepared lecture upon the topic "Why we observe the Lord's Day as a day of Rest and Worship." The lecturer refuted the position of the Seventh Day Adventists, and showed exegetically and historically that the assertions of the tracts which they are scattering east and west are wide of the truth. The lecture displayed deep research, was effectively planned and was delivered with great earnestness. This lecture should be given in all our churches and should be heard by all who desire truth with respect to this important subject.

◆

Last Thursday evening the horse and open buggy of Mr. Ward Felton was standing in front of John M. Berry's residence on Washington street, when a two horse barge containg a lot of fellows from Lynn who had been to Chebacco, and whom it is alleged were intoxicated, drove into the buggy making a complete wreck of it, and also injuring the horse. The owners of the barge have been found and will be asked to pay for the damage done.

THE KNIGHTS OF LABOR.

A FEW FACTS ABOUT THE ORDER THAT ARE OF PUBLIC INTEREST.

The recent labor troubles at the factory of L. B. Southwick & Co., and the satisfactory settlement of the same by arbitration, has brought before the public an organization, of the existence of which many were ignorant. So quietly has this work been done that a person naturally is surprised when told they number nearly a thousand working men in this town, and are only a branch of a great brotherhood, which extends all over this country. They are daily extending the field of their efforts, and in our large manufacturing towns the growth has been wonderful. In our own town thirty-four members were initiated last week to one assembly and applications were received from many more. The state assemblies now number upwards of 150. It was rather a difficult matter to obtain information in regard to the order, but from its friends we learn that the first assembly in this town was instituted a little over two years ago. An organization was formed under the name of the Tanners and Curriers Union, with headquarters in Blaney's Block, and afterwards they formed the first assembly of the Knights of Labor. From this has grown the Morocco Dressers branch, which is the largest at the present time, and the Mixed Assembly consisting of working men of all trades. The Tanners and Curriers meet in the hall in Essex Block and the Mixed assembly in Ashland Hall. Their application for membership has printed upon it the words in black letters: "No application can be received from a lawyer, banker, rumseller or professional gambler." Weekly meetings are held by each assembly when the time is occupied with the discussion of important labor topics or anything that will be for the advantage of working men. These meetings have brought out several speakers who have given considerable study to the subject of labor and whose names we should be pleased to give, but the rules of the order provide that no member shall give the name of any other member, though he himself is at liberty to acknowledge his connections with the body. By a constant attendance at these meetings the members keep well posted on the questions of the day that touch their welfare most intimately, and are thus enabled to influence their associates in uniting with them. They are not a unit politically and the discussion of polities in their meetings is not allowed. But they do profess to do all in their power toward shaping legislation in their behalf. In fact they are now sending all over the state marked lists of all members of both houses of the Legislature, showing their record on all questions involving the status of the laborer, as a guide toward political action among the workingmen this fall. The reason for keeping secret the membership of the Knights of Labor as far as is done, is due to the unwillingness of many employers to allow their workmen to belong to the order. A glimpse at its methods and aims reveals nothing objectionable in themselves. Their object as set forth in their preamble states that they are organized "for the purpose of directing the power of the industrial masses—for the benefit of the whole people; to secure to the workers the full enjoyment of the wealth they create and enable them to share in the gains and honors of advancing civilization." Further it says "we demand of the State the establishment of Bureaus of Labor Statistics; the abrogation of all laws that do not bear equally upon capital and labor; the recognition by incorporation of trades unions, orders and such other associations as may be organized by the working masses to improve their condition, and protect their rights; to compel corporations to pay their employes weekly; the abolition of the contract system of labor, etc."

One of the principal things which the Knights are broaching to the law makers at the present time is the matter of a court of arbitration between labor and capital, "in order that the bonds of sympathy between them may be strengthened and that strikes may be rendered unnecessary." Every effort is made to keep members of the order employed. In each room is a slate containing the names of those out of employment and another where a list of those wanting help is kept, and when a brother Knight learns of a place where they want help he reports to headquarters or asks for the job for the brother. So well is this looked after that it is almost impossible for a man not a member to get a job. We were told of one instance where a man tried daily for six weeks to get work but could not, and in two days after joining the assembly he was at work. In many labor troubles of the present time difficulties have been bridged over by arbitration. The men are not allowed by their by-laws to strike, but must commit their grievances to the arbitration committee for settlement. They will not order a strike in any shop until they have taken evidence and not even then if it can be settled by arbitration, nor will they sustain a member who goes out of his own free will. They have head men in the different districts who are paid a salary and who treat with the employer so that none of the men are brought prominently forward in case of a difference between them. The requirements for membership are simple. Any woman 16 years old or any man 18 is eligible except those named above. At least three-fourths of every local assembly must be composed of wage-workers or farmers. It requires ten members to organize an assembly. The laws of the order provide that the initiatory fee cannot be less than $1 for men and 50 cents for women. There are no women in the assemblies in this town, but there are several in Salem. The order has a badge consisting of a solid triangle in a skeleton circle, the monogram "K. L." being within the triangle, and the whole suspended by a ribbon. A great work has been done and a large amount of knowledge disseminated by the general agents of the Union, such as R. F. Trevellick of Detroit, Mich., who visited this town last Spring. The quarterly convention is another means of learning the amount of work being done. At the latter reports from each assembly and district are read, and the delegates in return carry back to the local assembly their impression of the spread of the order in particular districts or as a whole. The next convention will be held in Boston in October, and it is said that 30 or 40 new assemblies have been formed since the July meeting at Haverhill. That they are destined to have a large influence over the affairs of this country in the future there seems to be little doubt. The assessments are 25 cents per month, and the strikers at any place are sustained by voluntary contributions from the brothers in the Order in different places.

◆

Mr. [and Mrs. George D. Hill will spend their vacation in Weirs, N. H.

The shifter jumped the track in the freight yard this morning.

Mr. Samuel Trask lost a horse by colic at his brick yard last night.

Mrs. T. H. Jackman and Mrs. Marsh of Lynn are at the White Mountains.

There is a girl 13 years of age going to school in this town who weighs 213 pounds.

Our neighbors of Mount Pleasant are now favored with high service water.

Mrs. John Reith, Jr., and Mrs. Edmund Woodbury have gone to Leominster on a visit.

H. F. Walker, of the Lowell R. R., is on a trip to Canada, combiuing business with plearsure.

Mr. David T. Winter has bought the Hardy house, in the rear of Elm street, of Mr. W.N. Osgood, on private terms.

The Peabody Bicycle Club will give an entertainment and dance in the Skating Rink, Thursday evening, Sept 24th.

Rev. Mr. Hudson and wife, and Mr. Nathaniel Symonds, are attending the Minister's Institute in session at Newport, R. I.

New cars No. 20. and 21 have been received by the Danvers Horse R. R. They were built by the Philadelphia Car Co.

The Lynn road now runs a car from Wyoma at 6 A. M., returning from Peabody to Lynn at 6.30, for the better accommodation of the workmen.

George P. Ward has oiled and grained the sashes in the windows of the Warren National Bank building improving the appearance of the front.

A new style of bicycle known as the Victor, was exhibited on the square last Saturday, by a fellow from Cambridge. It has a gearing like the Star, but is much less cumbersome, being in a small box at the side from which the propelling lever runs backward. It also had a system of cog wheels.

The early peach is daily peddled round by vendors, who, with unmelodious sound, yell out, as with old rags they wipe, "Delaware peaches now, all ripe, all ripe!" Oh, base prevaricators are you all; we can't believe the story that you call. We're sure that you like us are well aware those bullets never came from Delaware!

Our business men, surely, will be interested in the annoucnement of W. C. Packard & Co., in this issue. He advertises roll top desks for $30.00—something unheard of in the price of these goods. The lowest price has been about $45.00. Mr. Packard never does anything half way, and a visit to his large furnishing rooms in Salem, will disclose bargains in other goods.

J. Frank Boynton, the popular manager of Wilmot's Clothing Store, has in the window of his store a moving panorama showing in detail the bargains to be obtained in the different departments of his store. It attracts much attention. Mr. Boynton has a new advertisement on the first page, to which the attention of our reades is directed.

CUSTOM TAILORING.

The undersigned have this day placed on their counters, a fine line of

FOREIGN & DOMESTIC WOOLENS

— OF —

OUR OWN IMPORTATION,

which enables us to offer them to the public at

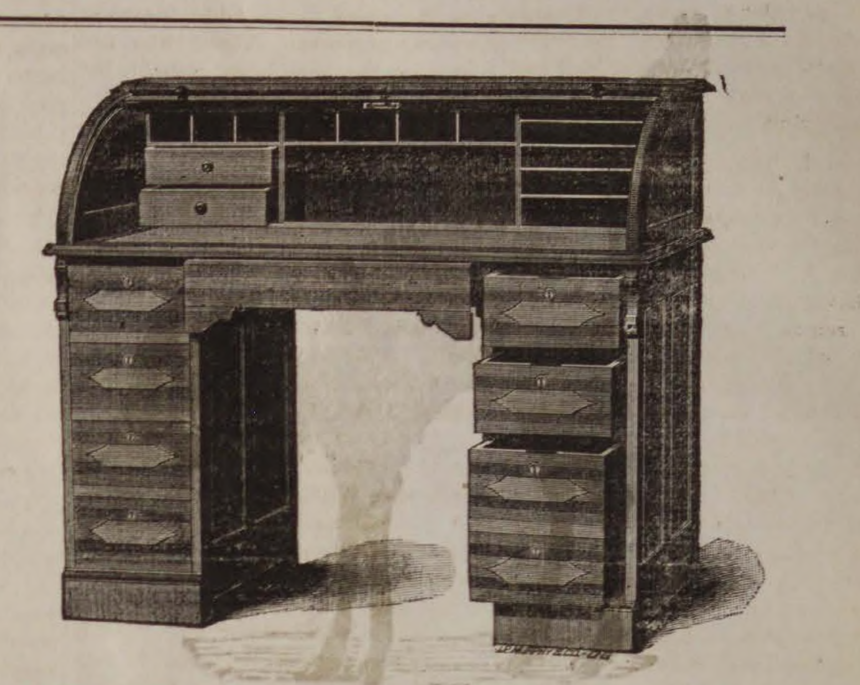
REMARKABLY LOW PRICES.

Employing none but first class journeymen tailors, a perfect fit is guaranteed. Call and examine the goods.

Howley & Brennan,

MAIN STREET,

OVER WARREN TRASK'S STORE.



Roll Top Desks, $30, Cherry or Walnut.

10 New Styles ot Chamber Sets.

New Styles in Parlor Suits, Cherry and Mahogony.

W. C. Packard & Co.

281 ESSEX STREET. SALEM.

Mr. William Y. Ober of Lynn, having invented a car ventilator, a company has been formed with George M. Frost, M. D., as President, Wm. P. Clark, vice president, Charles E. Teague, Sec'y., and W. Y. Ober, treasurer and general manager. The Boston & Lowell railroad will give the new invention a trial. The projectors are very confident of its success.

◆

The Voice of the People.—The people, as a whole, seldom make mistakes, and the unanimous voice of praise which comes from those who have used Hood's Sarsaparilla fully justifies the claims of the proprietors of this great medicine. Indeed, these very claims are based entirely on what the people say Hood's Sarsaparilla has done for them. Read the abundant evidence of its curative powers and give it a fair, honest trial. (c.)

New Advertisements.

BY CHAS. ODELL, Auctioneer,
85 WASHINGTON STREET.

ADMINISTRATOR'S SALE

— OF —

CARRIAGES, WAGONS, TOOLS, ETC.

AT AUCTION.

Will be sold at public auction FRIDAY, September 18, 1885, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon, at the Tannery of the late Isaac Hardy on Walnut street, Peabody.

12 Wagons and Carts, 7 Pungs, 1 Carryall, several Harnesses, Root Cutter, Chest, Scales, 7 Wheelbarrows, Skimmers, Rakes, Scrapers, Shaving Stakes. Beams, Knives, Stores, Tools, etc.

Terms of sale cash.

PROBATE NOTICE.

Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

Essex, ss. Probate Court.

To the Heirs-at-law, Next of Kin, and all other Persons interested in the Estate of ABIGAIL MEADER, late of Peabody, in said county (wife of Henry Meader), deceased, Greeting:

WHEREAS, a certain instrument purporting to be the last will and testament ot said deceased has been presented to said Court for Probate, by Sarah Lizzie Ellsworth, who prays that letters testamentary may be issued to her the executrix therein named, and that she may be exempt from giving a surety or sureties on her bond, for the reasons alleged in said petition. You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court to be held at Salem, in said county of Essex, on the first Monday of October, next, at nine o'clock, before noon, to show cause, if any you have, against the same.

And said Sarah Lizzie Ellsworth is hereby directed to give public notice thereof, by publishing this citation once a week, for three successive weeks, in the newspaper called the Peabody Press, printed at Peabody, the last publication to be two days at least before said Court.

Witness, George F. Choate, Esquire, Judge of said Court, this fifteenth day of September, in the year one thousand eighty hundred and eighty-five.

J. T. MAHONEY, Register.

sept 16--3t

PROBATE NOTICE.

Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

Essex, ss. Probate Court.

To the widow, Heirs-at-law, Next of Kin, and all other Persons interested in the Estate of DANIEL BUXTON, Junior, late of Peabody, in said county, seedsman, deceased, Greeting:

WHEREAS, a certain instrument purporting to be the last will and testament of said deceased has been presented to said Court for Probate, by James E. Stone, who prays that letters testamentary may be issued to him the executor therein named, and that he may be exempt from giving a surety or sureties on his bond, for the reasons alleged in said petition. You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court to be held at Salem, in said said county of Essex, on the first Monday of October, next, at nine o'clock, before noon, to show cause, if any you have, against the same.

And said James E. Stone is hereby directed to give public notice thereof, by publishing this citation once a week, for three successive weeks, in the newspaper called the Peabody Press, printed at Peabody, the last publication to be two days at least before said Court.

Witness, George F. Choate, Esquire, Judge of said Court, this ninth day of September, in the year one thousand eight hundred and eighty-five.

J. T. MAHONEY, Register.

sept 16—3t

PROBATE NOTICE.

Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

Essex ss. Probate Court.

To the widow, Heirs-at-law, Next of Kin, and all other Persons interested in the Estate of JAMES H. THOMAS, late of Peabody, in said county, insurance-agent, deceased, Greeting:

WHEREAS, a certain instrument purporting to be the last will and testament of said deceased has been presented to said Court for Probate, by Michael Kelly, who prays that letters testamentary may be issued to him the executor therein named, and that he may be exempt from giving a surety or sureties on his bond, for the reasons alleged in said petition. You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court to be held at Salem, in said county of Essex, on the first Monday of October, next, at nine o'clock, before noon, to show cause, if any you have, against the same.

And said Michael Kelly is hereby directed to give public notice thereof, by publishing this citation once a week, for three successive weeks, in the newspaper called the Peabody Press, printed at Peabody, the last publication to be two days at least before said Court.

Witness, George F. Choate, Esquire, Judge of said Court, this tenth day of September, in the year one thousand eight hundred and eighty-five.

J. T. MAHONEY, Register.

sept 16—3t

E. V. EMILIO,

PIANO FORTE TUNER,

287 ESSEX ST.,

SALEM.

Hen Feed.

A FULL VARIETY of Hen Feed, consisting of Wheat, Wheat Screenings, Barley, Buckwheat. Oats, Corn, Beef Scraps and ground Oyster Shells. CHAS. A. ROPES & SON.

Winter Wheat Shorts.

ONE Car heavy Winter Wheat Shorts.
CHAS. A. ROPES & SON.

TO LET.

An upper and lower tenement in a house on Oak street. Seven rooms each with modern conveniences. Inquire of
R. H. BROWN.

The Peabody Press.

Wednesday Evening, Sept, 16, 1885

HOME HAPPENINGS.

The Essex Agricultural society will old their Annual fair at Newbury-ort Sept. 22, 23, 1885. The following s the programme: Tuesday, 10 o'clock he Society, Committees and Marshals meet at City Hall, and at 11 o'clock, Choice of Officers; 2 o'clock, Drawing match on Pond street, near Fair Grounds; 4 o'clock, Ploughmen draw lots at Secretary's Office Court House. Wednesday, 10 o'clock Ploughing Match on farm of David Smith, Parker street; 11.30 o'clock, Procession formed in front of City Hall to proceed to Pleasant Street Church, to hear the Annual Address. After which the procession will move from the Church to City Hall, where the Annual Dinner will be served, and addresses made by distinguished gentlemen,and Awards of Premiums announced by the Secretary. Show grounds on the Mall and exhibition of fruits, vegetables etc., at the skating rink.

Rev. O. S. Butler, of Georgetown, formerly of this town, who has been postmaster for the past sixteen years, has been displaced by a youth named Sylvester A. Donoghue. The Georgetown Advocate in speaking of it says: "The removal of Mr. Butler was wholly political, being one of the results of a change of administration. A year hence a repubiican in an office worth having will be phenomenal. All will go whether offensive or inoffensive partisans. Mr. Butler has been neither; he has adhered to the principles of his party and we presume voted for its candidates, but as for being an offensive partisan he has not, either by speech or actions. During the sixteen years he has been in charge of the Georgetown office we have never heard a complaint of discourtesy, or neglect of duty."

The sixteenth meet and third annua race meeting of the League of Essex County Wheelmen will be held at the Danvers trotting park, Saturday afternoon, September 19, beginning at 2 o'clock. Prizes to the amount of $150 will be given. There will be seven races as follows:—One-mile, three-mile (L. E. C. W. members only), one-half-mile, two-mile handicap, one-mile league championship (L. E. C. W. members only), five-mile, and tug-of-war (open to all Essex County clubs.) The races with the exception of those otherwise designated are open to all amateur bicyclers. Entries may be made to M. F. Emilio, 287 Essex street, Salem, before 12 o'clock, noon, on Thursday next. Should the weather prove unpleasant, the races will be postponed to the following Saturday.

The police arrested last evening Rudolph Meyer, a resident of Washington street, and he was arraigned in the police court this morning charged with obtaining money under false pretenses. The warrant charged that Meyer went to Mrs. Wm. Hayes and obtained $250 from her, on April 30th, claiming that her husband had sent him, and that the money was to be used for securing a mitigation of the sentence of her husband, "Billy" Hayes, who was then on trial before the Superior Court at Lawrence. The indictment further charges that Hayes did not desire or request the services of Myers, and that he obtained the money without his knowledge. As the case was not ready for trial it was continued one week, and Myers was held in the sum of $1000, Richard Cullen and Fred. Wagner standing as bondsmen.

The school committee had a meeting Friday and provided for relieving the Center School of its over crowded rooms. They decided to extend the boundary line of the Wallis district, from Dalton's Court, to the centre of Swampscott Avenue, through the center of Lowe street, across Washington, taking in the southerly side of that street, and including Sherman and Hancock streets and one side of Swampscott Avenue. The boundary of the district for the new school, was enlarged to include scholars living on both sides of Union street, and Love Lane as far as Dennis street.

The attention of our readers is directed to the fact, announced in another column, that the new store of William G. Webber & Co. will be opened Thursday, Sept. 24th. The store will open under favorable auspices. Everything will be new. Mr. Webber and his partners have the goods all purchased and ready for the counters, and his friends both here and in Salem are very numerous. The building which has been erected for him will be an elegant affair, and the experience of Mr. Webber in the business will enable him to place on the market the choicest goods that can be obtained. Of course all our lady readers will give him a call.

Charles Odell will sell at action some wagons, tools, etc., belonging to the estate of the late Isaac Hardy, Friday, Sept. 18th, on the premises. See adv. in another column.

The Boston & Lowell R. R. will run an excursion to Lake Winnipisaukee via Wiers to-morrow, at the low rate of $1.50. The excursion will include a sail on the Lake, on the steamer Lady of the Lake, and if this fine weather continues it will be as pleasant a trip as one could desire. A special train will leave Peabody at 7.17 A. M. arriving at Weirs at 11.30. A special train returning will leave Weirs at 5 P. M. Tickets are good to return on this special train the same day or on any regular train the following day. The hotels at Weirs will furnish dinner for 50 cents, or lunch can be had at the restaurants. Remember only $1.50 for the round trip.

The town of Revere has petitioned the legislature for permission to use Sontaug lake, or Humphrey's pond as it is better known, for a water supply for that town. They will save themselves a deal of trouble if they will read Section 3 of chapter 171 of the Acts and Resolves of 1881. This act gives the use of the pond to Peabody for water purposes. Those who are posted say the pond is not suitable for the purpose anyway as it is not supplied by a water shed or by springs. In dry seasons the pond gets very low.

The Father Matthew C. T. A. Society elected officers last Wednesday evening as follows:—President, John J. Carbrey; Vice President, Edward O'Rourke; Rec. Sec., James Rahilley; Cor. Sec., Daniel Mullane; Treas., Daniel Rahilley; Collector, Charles Smith; Librarian, John Daley; Directors, James Crehan, Thomas Travers, Daniel J. O'Connor, Jeremiah Sheehey, Thomas Shea; Investigating Committee, William McCarthy, Daniel F. Bresnaham; Spiritual Director, Rev. P. Masteron.

One of our school teachers wishing to tell the little ones about George Washington asked whose birthday this country honored by giving the children a holiday every year. "Christ's," came the answer from several little throats. "Yes," said the teacher, "that is right, but can't you think of some other good man whose birthday we keep. Now think children of some good man." There was silence for a moment when it was broken by one of the smallest in the room who lisped out, "Santhy Claus."

The Standard Thermometer Company under the management of Mr. Edgar Upton, have out grown their present quarters in Upton's building, and will extend their works to take in the dining room and dance hall. The hall has been used for dances and social parties for a number of years, and was the only public hall for the purpose in town, till the building of the new town house, when the lower hall was then used for dancing parties. It is so poorly ventilated that it is hardly suitable for the purpose.

Mr. H. B. Hooper, the popular manager, besides owning a half interest in the "Little Corinne" combination, has leased the skating rink at Gloucester and fitted it up at an expense of several hundred dollars as a theatre and is playing companies there on sharing terms, giving week stands mostly. Mr. Hooper has had considerable experience in the direction of catering for the amusement of the public, and no doubt will do a large business.

A physician says that he has known many men, and women, too, who from various causes had become so much affected by nervousness that when they stretched out their hands they shook like aspen leaves on a windy day, and by a moderate daily use of celery as a salad they became as strong and steady as anybody. He also recommends it for palpitation of the heart. This may simply be a free puff for the celery man but if the price would come down a little, people might give it a fair test.

The labor troubles were settled by arbitration at L. B. Southwick & Co's. last Thursday, and the firm agreed to prices a little less than those offered by the Knights of Labor. The men returned to work, Monday, but owing to a slight misunderstanding they went out again, but resumed work yesterday.

The Fourth Annual excursion of the Suburban Press Association will take place Saturday of this week. It will be a four days' trip to the Franconia mountains, remaining over Sunday at the celebrated Pemigiwasset House in Plymouth. The entire expense will be $13.50. The Rhode Island Press Association will participate in the excursion.

Mr. E. V. Emilio has now coming in a large number of pianos which he has rented for the summer and which he will sell at very low prices for cash, in order to make room. These pianos, many of them, have been used but little and in many respects are equal to new pianos. He will sell a new Upright piano for $200. Mr. Emilio is agent for the Chickering pianos in this vicinity, whose reputation is beyond question the best. He will make low prices on these first class instruments, and would be pleased to see any who are looking for a piano or organ.

Last Wednesday afternoon two boys named Wallace and McGeary were out in a sail boat on Sontaug Lake, near the Saltonstall estate, when the boat was upset and both boys thrown into the water. Wallace clung to the boat and also attempted to save his companion but could not keep him above water and he was drowned. McGeary was a steady, industrious boy and the main support of an invalid father. The Peabody police were notified and the officers with grappling irons, assisted by the neighbors, were at work dragging the pond for several days. Mr. Saltonstall offered a reward for the recovery of the body and employed divers to search for it last Saturday. Last Monday the body came up and was found by Daniel Stanatt, a farm hand employed by Mr. Saltonstall.

Rev. Mr. Sprague preached a sermon last Sunday at the Unitarian Church on Home and its influence on the individual, the community and nation. We regret very much that the subject had not previously been announced and more people, especially young people, been induced to attend. Every young man and woman in town ought to hear it, and we hope Rev. Mr. Sprague will repeat it some evening in his own or some other church.

Farmers hereabouts say that although the rowen was slow to start on account of drouth during the first two weeks after the first crop was cut the recent abundant rains have brought it forward so that a fair yield will be harvested. A few pieces of corn have been cut and stacked, but a week or two of warm weather is needed to carry the crop beyond the danger from frost.

The peddler is an itinerant wanderer who calls upon you, shows his goods hastily, pockets your money with alacrity, and vanishes, never to be seen by you again. Buy your goods of the merchant who lives in your midst, keeps a supply of everything you need, invites your inspection, advertises in the PRESS, contributes to all the local improvements and deserves and earns your patronage.

Last Wednesday a colored man named Sumpter, in the employ of C. H. Goulding, was passing through Walnut street, near Wallis, when he was struck on the head by a stone, thrown by some unknown person, cutting a bad gash. The police afterwards arrested Cornelius Ronan and he was convicted and sent to the house of correction for three months.

Now is the time when the returning summer tourist entertains his friends with an account of his travels, the delightful people he has met, and the good times he has had. He keeps shady on the subject of flies, mosquitoes, sour bread, and soggy potatoes, which may have occupied prominent places on his summer programme.

One of Julyn's ice teams collided with a buggy at the corner of Aborn street, last Sunday, and four spokes were broken from one wheel of the buggy. It was done so quickly that the driver of the ice team did not know he had struck the other until he was told of it. The occupant of the buggy was a lady whose name we did not learn.

The transfer tickets sold on the Lynn R. R. to Salem via the Naumkeag R. R. are good also on the Danvers road from Peabody to Salem, and will be accepted by the conductors the same as Naumkeag tickets to Salem are accepted by the Danvers road. This is as it should be, and it is well to know it, as it is not generally so understood.

A large audience greeted Little Corrinne, at town hall last Thursday evening, who gave a good entertainment keeping the audience in good humor, all the time. The Salem Cadet Orchestra furnished the music. The company as now organized has twenty-eight people, and is stronger and better than ever before.

Thomas Hayes, a boy about twelve years of age, found $25 near the Franklin street crossing last Thursday. It was taken from him by two other boys who made way with it and are known to the police. The money was the property of a man who boarded at Mrs. Dunney's and was raised to send him to Ireland.

The lecture of A. W. Tyler, at South Peabody, last Sunday evening, was an able and interesting discourse. We think it could profitably be listened to by the people in this part of the town, and we feel sure Mr. Tyler would deliver it should an invitation be extended to him to do so.

It is said that Mr. Wm. H. Brown contemplates in the near future the erection of a fine brick block, on the site of his present building occupied by Mr. Duffy's stove store. It will have a frontage considerable wider and take in a part of the passageway between it and B. F. Hutchinson's store.

Hallowell & Smiley keep the best of provisions and groceries of all kinds at the very lowest prices. Their teams are in nearly every portion of the town each morning, and they will be glad to furnish any of our readers with a card to put in their window, ensuring a call.

New and Elegant

STORE

IN SALEM.

Wm G. Webber & Co.

Take pleasure in announcing to the Ladies and Gentlemen of Salem and Vicinity, that they will open their new store for the sale of

CHOICE

Dry Goods, Furnishing Goods, Millinery, etc.,

THURSDAY, SEPT. 24.

NEW ENDICOTT BUILDING,

Essex & Washington Streets.

SOMETHING NEW.

THE PATENT

Folding Clothes Horse

It is the best thing manufactured. It has 15 drying bars and can be folded up, and takes but a small space when folded. It has 5 arms which can be set at any angle desired.

IT HAS NO EQUAL.

Do you know that we sell the Universal Wringer for

$2.75, Former Price $3.50.

Brass Bird Cages at cost, Wire Flower Pot Stands at great bargains, Apple Parers and Potato Slicers, at

SAMUEL TRASK'S

WALNUT ST.,

PEABODY.

GO TO

B. F. STEVENS

— FOR —

BANJOS,
ACCORDEONS,
HARMONICAS,

And all kinds of musical goods,

The best Violin and Banjo Strings.

AGENT FOR

E. V. EMILIO.

THEODORE M. OSBORNE,

Attorney and Counsellor at Law,

Has resumed practice at

81 Washington St., Salem.

Boston Office, 54 Devonshire St., Room 27, sept 9—2m

HATS.

Children's school Hats, Walking Hats, Dress Hats, etc., in the latest and best styles, just opened, at Peabody's Millinery dept,

VELVETS.

Black Velvets, nice ones $1, 1.25 and 1.50 per yard, also a line of colors, Brown, Old Gold, Garnet, Wine, Purple, etc.

RIBBONS.

All colors and widths, good goods at low prices, at Peabody's.

New Hamb's.

Choice new patterns of Hamburg Edging, at prices that will suit the smartest bargain hunters.

New Laces.

Trimming Laces in white, cream, and black, in all the best and choicest patterns, styles and widths.

YARNS.

A bargain in Knitting Yarn. All Wool and good quality, 8c per Skein. Ball Yarns are being put up, that weigh all the way from half an ounce up, so that it is not safe to buy unless you see the balls weighed. In skeins you can see it all, and know what you are paying for.

WALLETS.

We have this week a great drive in Leather Wallets, a dozen styles, at 25 cents each, sold on Essex street for 38 and 50 cents. Examine them, and you will say they are a decided bargain.

Our Prices.

Nickel Plated Safety Pins, per doz.	2 cts
Cabinet Hair Pins, per box,	3 cts
Pins, paper 2c, 3 papers for	5 cts
Nice Mourning Pins, per box,	2 cts
Good Button Hooks,	3 cts
Needles—Clark's Royal, paper	2 cts
Best Black Linen Thread spools	7 cts
500 yard Spool Cotton	5 cts
Good Lisle Gloves, Ladies,	5 cts
Fruit of the Loom bleached Cotton,	7 cts
Good yard wide Brown Cottons,	5 cts

— and so on —

— AT —

PEABODY'S,

SALEM.

STRAWBERRIES! STRAWBERRIES!

Next June,

By planting Strawberry Plants in August will secure a crop of fruit the coming season. Any good garden soil, well cultivated, enriched, etc., will answer. We have fine plants and best varieties.

ALL POTTED PLANTS AT LOW MARKET RATES.

Varieties—"Sharpless," "Miner's Prolific," "Chas. Downing," "Bidwell," "Jersey Queen" (P,) "Hervey Davis," etc.

Orders by mail will receive prompt attention. Goods can be sent by express to all points.

TERMS CASH.

Plants, Flowers, etc., to order from

E. & C. WOODMAN,

Florist and Garden Supplies,

DANVERS, MASS.

☞ Greenhouses, Holten St., Tapleyville. On line Salem & Danvers and Peabody and Danvers Horse Railroad.

Send for Circular.

TOWN OF PEABODY.

Town Collector's Notice.

The owners and occupants of the following described parcels of real estate, situated in the town of Peabody, in the county of Essex, and commonwealth of Massachusetts, and the public, are hereby notified that the taxes thereon assessed for the years hereinafter specified, according to the list committed to me as Collector of Taxes for said town, by the assessors of taxes, remain unpaid, and that said parcels of real estate will be offered at public auction for sale, at the office of the Collector at the Town House in said Town of Peabody, on

Wednesday, Oct. 7th, 1885,

At 9 o'clock A. M. for the payment of said taxes together with the costs and charges thereon, unless the same shall be previously discharged.

A lot of land bounded northwardly by land of Bushby, eastwardly by land of Shaw, southwardly by land of Margaret Galeucia, westwardly by a private way leading to Lynn street, containing about 14,500 square feet. Taxed to Heirs of Betsey Bowers for 1884, $1.64; for 1885, $1.56.

WM. M. HILL.

AUCTIONEER, REAL ESTATE

BROKER & APPRAISER.

HALE'S BLOCK.

223 ESSEX STREET, SALEM.

Mortgagees negotiated. Personal attention to all Real Estate matters.

SOUTH DANVERS MUTUAL FIRE INSURANCE CO.

The members of this company are hereby notified that their annual meeting for the election of a Board of Directors for the ensuing year, and the transaction of such other business as may come before them, will be held at the room of the South Danvers National Bank, in Peabody, on Monday, October 5, 1885, at 7 o'clock P. M.

G. M. FOSTER, Sec.

Peabody, Sept. 7, 1885.

Family Flour.

A Full stock of Spring Wheat patent process and Winter Wheat Family Flour, fresh ground from old wheat, and warranted.

CHAS. A. ROPES & SON.

Artists' Materials of every Description.

DECORATIVE ART GOODS OF ALL KINDS.

ART POTTERY.

Supplies for Oil Color, Water Color, China and Lustra Painting.

PICTURE FRAMING

OF EVERY DESCRIPTION

PLUSH WORK a specialty. Plush Frames and Plush Plaques made to order.

Charles J. Edmands

12 BROMFIELD ST., BOSTON.

W. B. GIFFORD & CO.,

77 & 79 MARKET ST., LYNN.

We now beg leave to announce our

FALL DRESS GOODS,

which have now arrived, consisting of Home Spuns, Combination Suitings, Plaids, Plain and Plaid, Ladies Cloths.

Also, we are constantly receiving

VELVETS, SILKS, ETC.

SPECIAL MENTION Grand Mark Down sale of Lawn Dresses, Dressing Sacques, Wrappers, etc., to make room for our New Fall and Winter Garments, Shawls, etc.

New Buttons, Clasps, Feather and Marabout Trimmings arriving every day.

Special attractions in our Corset, Glove, Toilet and Hosiery Departments.

W. B. Gifford & Co.

WE HAVE

Just closed a contract with one of the largest manufacturers of Chamber furniture in the country for 2 car loads of

CHAMBER SETS,

consisting of Ash, Black Walnut, Cherry and Painted, which we shall offer to the citizens of Essx County this week, with

I CAR LOAD OF MATTRESSES,

at way down prices, either for cash or on our easy instalment plan, $1 down and $1 a week. We have the largest stock of

Stoves, Ranges,
Furniture, Carpets,
and Crockery,

In fact anything in the house furnishing line to be found in Essex county.

Goods delivered free. Horse and steam cars stop at door. Call and be convinced we can save you money. Send for catalogue price list. Balance of

Refrigerators, Oil Stoves,
and Children's Carriages,

at very low prices.

Curtains made and put up. Carpet made by hand by experienced workers.

D. B. H. POWER & CO.,

123 & 125 PLEASANT ST. 24 SCHOOL ST.,

MARBLEHEAD.

GREAT

BARGAINS THIS WEEK,

SPECIAL

BARGAINS

— ON —

Bargain Counter,

— AT —

Frank Cousins'

BEE-HIVE,

SALEM.

SPRING BARGAINS

— IN —

ROOM PAPERS.

Now is the time to paper your rooms, while goods are cheap. Room Papers for nearly half price for fifteen days only.

It will pay you to buy these goods, and lay by till spring, as you can save money by the operation.

LOOK AT THE PRICES.

4000 rolls 10c papers for 6c a roll.
3700 " 15c " " 10c "
2000 " 20c " " 12 1-2c "
Small lot 25c Satins for 15c a roll.

There is only a few patterns in this lot, and an early selection is necessary.

3500 rolls 50c gilts for 25c a roll.

Remnants at your own prices.

2c borders for 1c a yard. 5c borders for 2c yd. Gilt borders from 2c a yd upwards.

These bargains will not last long at these prices, and first customers will get the best trades.

MERRILL & MACKINTIRE.

220 ESSEX ST.,

SALEM.

At this season of the year it will profit you to use Ferrated Hygienic Wine, to cleanse your blood of all poisonous humor. tf

Health is of more consequence than wealth Many sick ones might be cured by using Ferrated Hygienic Wine, tf

BUSHBY & MACURDY'S

CABINET PHOTOGRAPHS

At $3.00 per dozen are 100 per cent. better than any club-check photographs; and are guaranteed fully equal in

Posing, Lighting, Finish and Permanency

to any $10 cabinets made in Boston or New York.

The largest and best constructed operating studio in New England. 40,000 negatives preserved.

521 Washington St.,

BOSTON.

Elevator from the ground. feb 11—3m

MERRIAM & CO.,

DEALERS IN

WOOD AND COAL

Danversport, Mass.

Kohinoor Coal, Bear Ridge Coal, Sheaokin Coal, Genuine Franklin Coal, Cumberland Coal.

All the best quality. Try them.

For Cash lower than can be bought elsewhere

Orders can be left with B. F. Stevens, Peabody, or by telphone to N. P. Merriam, Tapleyville, and will be promptly attended to. em—

BATCHELDER & CO.,

DEALER IN

WOOD COAL HAY & STRAW.

Danversport and Peabody.

Cyrus T. Batchelder　Chauncy S. Richards

OFFICE IN PEABODY:

7 ALLEN'S BLOCK, SQUARE.

GREAT

REDUCTION IN PRICE OF COAL

— AT —

PICKERINGS

17 Peabody St., Salem, Mass

WHERE ALL FIRST-CLASS COALS CAN BE FOUND

Specialty made in Steam Coals.

Orders can be left at Office, 12 Front St., or at B. P. Pickering's Store, Salem.

SPECIAL RATES MADE FOR LARGE ORDERS

WHARF, 17 PEABODY STREET

WM. PICKERING, Jr & CO.,

17 Peabody Street.

PATENTS.

R. H. EDDY,

No. 76 State St., opposite Kilby, Boston,

Secures patents in the United States; also in Great Britain, France and other foreign countries. Copies of the claims of any patents furnished by remitting one dollar. Assignments recorded at Washington. No Agency in the United States possesses superior facilities for obtaining Patents or ascertaining the patentability of inventions. R. H. EDDY, Solicitor of patents.

TESTIMONIALS.

"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse."

CHAS. MASON, Commissioner of Patents.

"Inventors cannot employ a person more trustworthy or more capable of securing for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office."

EDMUND BURKE, late Com. of Patents.

BOSTON, Oct. 19, 1870.

R. H. EDDY, Esq.—Dear Sir: you procured for me, in 1870, my first patent. Since then you have acted for and advised me in hundreds of cases, and procured many patents, re-issues and extensions. I have occasionally employed the best agencies in New York, Philadelphia and Washington, but I still give you almost the whole of my business, in your line, and advise others to employ you.

Yours truly, GEORGE DRAPER.

Boston, January 1, 1885.—1 y

FOR SALE.

House and land on Aborn street belonging to the estate of the late P. L WINCHESTER. The house is two and one-half stories, and contains fourteen rooms, and is in good condition. The land measures about 10,000 feet, and there is connected with the premises a good stable. For terms or further particulars apply to

GEORGE J. WINCHESTER,

1dec19　Administrator

From the Fireside Favorite.)

We have enjoyed a brief visit to the Lamson farm at Windham, N. H. We went by the way of Lawrence, leaving the train at Windham Junction, where the genial and rotund proprietor of the farm greeted us with a hearty hand shake and escorted us to a canopy top wagon which took us to the farm, over three miles of natural country road, with forests on either side, with now and then a hill to climb at the foot of which we would find a little brook filled with bright cardinal flowers and fragant with the perfume of thousands of other smaller and less showy flowers, "born to blush unseen." Arriving at the farm we were welcomed by the accomplished wife of the proprietor, who knows just how to make guests happy and contented.

The farm is located on the sides of a typical New Hampshire hill on the brow of which is the villa occupied by the proprietor, which is fitted and furnished with all the modern conveniences and appliances that can be found in the best city homes. From the piazza unobstructed views of the mountains form a back ground for the hills and pretty villages which nestle in the valleys between, all combining to make a picture not to be forgotten by the visitor who sees them from this lookout. In the near foreground almost under our feet can be seen Goss's Pond with its placid mirror-like surface dotted thickly with white pond lilies, where later we saw a merry party angling for, and catching pickerel. One angler also caught a ducking, whereat there was much merriment not all confined to the party of which he was a component part. A pleasant drive in another direction brought us to Butterfield's rock, a large boulder on a hill in the woods, twenty feet or more in height and twenty-five or thirty feet long, under which it is said a hermit once domiciled. The natives would like to know how the rock came there. On the under side of the rock is a curious indentation, oval in shape, two or three feet deep, as if worked out of the solid rock, for use as a boiler, it being about the size of the old fashioned iron kettle used by our grandmothers for soap making. Next we turn our attention to the farm buildings. A visit to the well ordered barn, built in the side hill with its three floors each with its entrance level with the ground, lessens the labor of storing away hay, taking from it the hardest and most cordially hated part of farm work, that of pitching it high above the head and stowing it away upon the old scaffolds. The registered Jersey cattle, the seven horses, fine harnesses and carriages, and the many new appliances for the comfort of the animals, and the convenience of help all come in for examination, and the great number of labor saving implements and conveniences found here was a surprise to us. Next we visit the poultry yard, in which we find all the best breeds of hens and chickens, (hatched by incubators) of all ages, colors, and kinds, from those just out to the demure old rooster who has a granted lease of life, because he happened to be the first born of the first incubator owned by Mr. Lamson. Ducks and turkeys are included in this mammoth poultry yard. The piggery is one of the institutions of the farm, and no one will miss seeing it, if they are under the escort of the happy owner. It is a model stye, and contains swine of all ages and sizes, in numbers way up in the hundreds. As they are fed on grain and skimmed milk, the pork must be as clean and healthful as pork can be.

Butter making is the principal business of the farm, and the creamery is an interesting study. Two horse teams, which pick up the milk in the adjoining towns, are constantly arriving with well filled cans, which are deftly transferred to a room on the second floor, when their contents are poured into a large hopper strainer through which it runs to the room below, being separated on its journey, coming out cream into one receptacle and skimmed milk in another. The cream is then transferred to a large rotary churn, revolved by steam, where three hundred pounds of butter are made at one churning—the work of about forty minutes. 550 lbs of butter were made the day we were there, though the average is but 350 lbs day. From the churn it goes to the worker—then to the packer. During the whole process it is not touched by hands and when it is ready for the market, it is as clean and appetizing as butter can be. From this creamery the skimmed milk is carried by underground pipes to the piggery a quarter of a mile away, and the balance is used upon the land as a fertilizer, and it is astonishing to note its effect, the wide and marked difference between that portion of a field thus treated, and that not thus enriched, being as easily discerned as it is when different fertilizers are tested in alternate rows in a field. Enriching land with milk was new to us. There is also a steam saw mill, blacksmith shop, boarding house (for the farm hands), and manager's residence on the premises. A well 103 feet in depth, supplies pure cold water for all the buildings. A windmill does the pumping, and it is distributed through pipes as it is in city houses.

Mr. Lamson was at one time a resident of this city, but is better known here, and all over the commercial world, as the inventor and patentee of the Lamson cash carrier, the system in such common use, in this and other cities. We hope the products of his farm will become as well known and as popular as the railway, and that the profits of this venture be second only to that.

SMALLPOX SPECIFIC.—Ex-Rev. W. H. H. Murray, who resides in Montreal, writes as follows to some of the local papers:

SIR: Some years ago, when in the south, where the smallpox was prevalent, as indeed it generally is where the lower class of Mexicans can be found, we clipped the following from a San Antonio paper, Texas. We understood that the remedy proved in many cases most efficacious there and became popular. Believing that it can work no harm, and may prove a measureless benefit, we insert it here. We would like the opinion of some local physician upon it:

I herewith append the recipe, says a noted Paris physician, which has been used to my knowledge in hundreds of cases. It will prevent or cure the smallpox though the pittings are filling. When Jenner discovered cowpox in England, the world of science hurled an avalanche of fame upon his head, but when the most scientific school of medicine in the world, that of Paris, published this recipe as a panacea for smallpox, it passed unheeded. It is as unfailing as fate, and conquers in every instance. It is harmless when taken by a well person. It will also cure scarlet fever. Here is the recipe as I have used it and cured my children of scarlet fever; here it is as I have used it to cure smallpox; when learned physicians said the patient must die, it cured:

One grain sulphate of zinc;
One grain foxglove (digitalis)
Half teaspoonful of sugar, mix with two tablespoonfuls of water. When thoroughly mixed, add four ounces of water. Take a spoonful every hour. Either disease will disappear in 12 hours. For a child, smaller doses, according to age. If counties would compel their physicians to use this there would be no need of pest houses. If you value advice and experience, use this for that terrible disease.　W. H. H. MURRAY.

A NAUGHTY BOY'S GRACE.—The following incident is vouched for by parties well acquainted with the "boy," now a young professor in one of our large cities. He was the son of a clergyman, and though only five years old, bright and clear beyond his years. It was at a dinner given by his mother for a few intimate friends. Master W. was allowed his usual place at table, but becoming unruly, was, by way of punishment, transferred to a side table, whither nurse had removed his little plate, knife and fork by mamma's order.

No sooner was the little fellow seated in his high chair again than, bowing his head and clasping his hands on his soiled bib, he lisped with apparent reverence and great gravity. "O Lord, I thank Thee that Thou has prepared a table for me in the presence of mine enemies." It was with difficulty that the "grown ups" kept their smiles from becoming audible.—Harper's Magazine.

We are glad to be able to say that, on every hand in Boston, we observe an improvement in the administration of the liquor laws since the new Commission came into office. There are fewer places open on Sunday. They close more promptly at the appointed hour at night. Fewer minors are supplied with liquor in saloons. There is less disorder about these places than formerly. There is trepidation among the liquor dealers where it has not heretofore been witnessed. The new Commission is working well. It is the duty of all good citizens to lend its members whatever assistance lies in their power to report violations of law coming to their notice, and to uphold their hands in every way in which they are able. Citizens having complaints to make will be assisted in every way possible by the officers of the Law and Order League if they will make their cases known at the office of the League. —Law and Order.

In the list of recent post-office appointments, the following are in this county: Asbury Grove, Mary Ann Putnam; Manchester, Wm. J. Johnson (vice Julius F. Rabardy, who lost a leg while serving in the famous Webster regiment); Groveland, Samuel Perley.

The Salem and Danvers St. R. R. Company., has issued a neat little pamphlet, containing an excellent set of rules and regulations, purposed to govern conductors and drivers employed on the road.

A MOTHER'S FEARS.—E. W. C.—We know that many children have died from the use of cough mixtures containing morphia or opium. But the new remedy Red Star Cough Cure—is entirely vegetable and harmless, and eminent physicians testify as to its curative powers.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral

Should be kept constantly at hand, for use in emergencies of the household. Many a mother, startled in the night by the ominous sounds of Croup, finds the little sufferer, with red and swollen face, gasping for air. In such cases Ayer's Cherry Pectoral is invaluable. Mrs. Emma Gedney, 159 West 128 st., New York, writes: "While in the country, last winter, my little boy, three years old, was taken ill with Croup; it seemed as if he would die from strangulation. Ayer's Cherry Pectoral was tried in small and frequent doses, and, in less than half an hour, the little patient was breathing easily. The doctor said that the Pectoral saved my darling's life." Mrs. Chas. B. Landon, Guilford, Conn., writes: "Ayer's Cherry Pectoral and also the life of my little son. As he is troubled with Croup, I dare not be without this remedy in the house." Mrs. J. Gregg, Lowell, Mass., writes: "My children have repeatedly taken Ayer's Cherry Pectoral for Coughs and Croup. It gives immediate relief, followed by cure." Mrs. Mary E. Evans, Scranton, Pa., writes: "I have two little boys, both of whom have been, from infancy, subject to violent attacks of Croup. About six months ago we began using Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and it acts like a charm. In a few minutes after the child takes it, he breathes easily and rests well. Every mother ought to know what a blessing I have found in Ayer's Cherry Pectoral." Mrs. Wm. C. Reid, Freehold, N. J., writes: "In our family, Ayer's medicines have been blessings for many years. In cases of Colds and Coughs, we take

Saved My Life,

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral,

and the inconvenience is soon forgotten."

PREPARED BY

Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass.

Sold by all Druggists.

KEEP IT PURE.

THE LIFE IS THE BLOOD—PREVENT DISEASE—SURGERY THE LAST RESORT—A TELLING LETTER.

Here is a fact for you to think over, viz.: Medical science proves that diseases, no matter how great a variety they seem to have, proceed from comparatively few causes. It is for this reason that some single medicines relieve or cure so wide a range of complaints—some of them appearing almost directly opposite in their natures. When a medical preparation acts at once upon the digestive and urinary organs, and also purifies the blood, the list of difficulties subject to its control is astonishing. But, while many things are said to possess this power, those which actually do exert it are very rare.

It is conceded that DR. KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY, of Rondout, N. Y., is the most effective preparation now in use for all diseases arising from a foul or impure state of the circulation. Hence it is more than likely that if the writer of the following letter had habitually taken "FAVORITE REMEDY" ten years ago, he would never have suffered from Cancer.

PITTSFIELD, MASS., March 22, 1884.

Dr. D. Kennedy, Rondout, N. Y.:

Dear Sir: About six years ago I was obliged to resort to external treatment for the removal of a cancerous growth on my lip. On my return home, I became sensible that my blood needed a thorough cleansing. My whole system, too, required toning up. While casting about for the best medicine to do this your "FAVORITE REMEDY" was so highly commended in my hearing that I resolved to try it. I did so, and the result surprised me, it was effected so quickly and completely. I soon got over the depression produced by the operation, and since the "FAVORITE REMEDY," which I have continued to take in small doses, has kept me in such health and strength as I never had before, nor expected to have. It is the best blood purifier in the world I am sure of that.

Yours, etc.,

MATTHEW FARRELL.

24 Adams Street.

In all cases when a consultation is deemed desirable.

Address, Dr. David Kennedy, Rondout, N. Y. But, if you have not done so, adopt "FAVORITE REMEDY" as a household friend.

MALARIA.

As an anti-malarial medicine

DR. DAVID KENNEDY'S

FAVORITE REMEDY

has won golden opinions. No traveler should consider his outfit complete unless it includes a bottle of this medicine. If you are exposed to frequent changes of climate, food and water, Favorite Remedy should always be within your reach. It expels malarial poisons, and is the best preventative of chills and malarial fever in the world. It is especially offered as a trustworthy specific for the cure of Kidney and Liver complaints, Constipation and all disorders arising from an impure state of the blood. To women who suffer from any of the ills peculiar to their sex Favorite Remedy is constantly proving itself an unfailing friend—a real blessing. Address the proprietor, Dr. D. Kennedy, Rondout, N. Y. $1 bottle, 6 for $5, by all druggists.

COMER'S COMMERCIAL COLLEGE,

666 Washington Street, BOSTON.

Thorough and Comprehensive Instruction in all Studies Essential to Success in Business.

Students may commence at any time, Receive Individual Instruction and progress according to ability and application. Separate department for Ladies. Graduates Aided to Employment. Young people receive instruction here that will insure a successful start in business, and that will benefit them throughout their business career. For 45th Annual Catalogue, Address C. E. COMER.

jy 15—13t

POLO.

This popular game adapted for home amusement to play on the table.

PRICE $1.00.

For sale by all dealers. Manufactured by

HORACE A. BROOKS,

BOOK BINDER AND BLANK BOOK MANUFACTURER,

226 Essex Street, Salem, Mass.

Saving Institutions.

WARREN

FIVE CENTS SAVINGS BANK.

PEABODY

PRESIDENT.

Rufus H. Brown

Vice Presidents,

Stephen Blaney,	Geo. F. Osborne,
Lewis Allen,	Amos Merrill,
Chas. B. Farley,	John A. Lord.

Trustees,

Rufus H. Brown,	Alex. B. Merrill,
Stephen Blaney,	C. Warren Osborne,
Lewis Allen,	Geo. S. Osborne,
Chas. B. Farley,	Nathl. Symonds.
Geo. F. Osborne,	Aaron F. Clark,
Amos Merrill,	Albert A. Messer,
John A. Lord,	John Pinder,
Benj. S. Wheeler,	Wm P. Clark,
Wm. H. Little,	Reuben G. Nelson,
Aaron W. Warren,	Albert H. Merrill.

Clerk,

Albert H. Merrill.

Committee of Investment.

Rufus H. Brown,

Lewis Allen,	Alex. B. Merrill
C. Warren Osborne.	Nathl. Symonds.

Dividends are credited to the depositor as soon as declared, and immediately put upon interest.

New deposits commence drawing interest on the third Wednesday of February, May, August and November.

Peabody, March 6, 1878.

SALEM

FIVE CENTS SAVINGS BANK.

Cor. Washington & Essex Sts.,

WILLIAM H. JELLY, President.

CHARLES H. HENDERSON, Treas.

REMOVAL.

F. A. WRUCK

Watchmaker and Jeweller,

Would inform his friends and the public generally that he has removed from 165 to

276 ESSEX STREET,

(Wheeler & Wilson's Sewing Machine Office)

Where he will be pleased to see his former customers and as many new ones as will favor him with their patronage.

FINE WATCH AND CLOCK REPAIRING AT REDUCED PRICES PERSONALLY ATTENDED TO

HAZEN A. SPAULDING,

DRUGGIST.

9 Allen's Block, Peabody, Mass.

Where can be found a first class assortment of Pure Drugs and Medicines; also a large assortment of Toilet Articles and Fancy Goods at moderate prices.

A large assortment of Imported and Domestic Cigars.

Physicians' Prescriptions a Specialty.

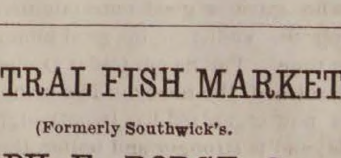
HAZEN A. SPAULDING

Store Connected by Telephone.

CENTRAL FISH MARKET

(Formerly Southwick's.

RALPH F. DODGE, Prop.



OYSTERS OYSTERS OYSTERS

In the shell or opened.

IPSWICH CLAMS FRESH EVERY DAY

A good selection of Norfolk, Providence River oysters a specialty. The famous Lynn Haven Bay Oysters.

A good assortment of Fresh, Salt, Smoked and Pickled Fish. Orders received and delivered promptly. Connected by telephone.

At the old stand on the Square, opposite the monument.

WIN more money than at anything else by taking an agency for the best selling book out. Beginners succeed grandly. None fail. Terms free. HALLETT BOOK Co., Portland, Me.

HELP for working people. Send 10 cents postage, and we will mail you free, a royal, valuable sample box of goods that will put you in the way of making more money in a few days than you ever thought possible at any business. Capital not required. You can live at home and work in spare time only, or all the time. All of both sexes, of all ages, grandly successful, 50 cents to $5 easily earned every evening. That all who want work may test the business, we make this unparalleled offer: To all who are not well satisfied we will send $1 to pay for the trouble of writing us. Full particulars, directions, etc., sent free. Immense pay absolutely sure for all who start at once. Don't delay. Address STINSON & Co., Portland, Me.

MUNROE & ARNOLD'S

PEABODY AND BOSTON

RAILROAD EXPRESS.

Express leaves Peabody at	9 47 A. M
Freight " " at	5 00 P. M
Express " Boston at	3 30 P. M
Freight " " at	4 00 P. M

OFFICE AT FREIGHT DEPOT, Peabody

xpress Offices in Boston, 174 Washington and 15 New Devonshire Street.

Freight Office in Boston, 128 State Street

Particular attention paid to removing Furniture, collecting Bills, Notes, Drafts &c., Smallest favors thankfully received.

B. M. HILLS'

PEABODY and SALEM

EXPRESS.

CHANGE OF TIME.

Connects with Eastern and No. Conway Trains Leaves Peabody at 7.30 A. M., and 1.30 P. M. Salem, at 10 A. M., and 4.45 P. M.

Order Boxes.—PEABODY, at Holman's, Pickering's, Bushby & Johnson's, Frost s Drug Store and Sutton's Wool Store.

SALEM, at Savory's Express Office, Roberts' Store, corner Washington and Front Sts., and 15 Central Street.

B. M. HILLS' Express connects with the Eastern and Western Expresses

---

ESTES'

SALEM AND PEABODY EXPRESS.

Leaves Peabody at 7.30 A. M., 1.30 P. M.
Leaves Salem at 10.30 A. M., 4.30 P. M.

Order Slates in Peabody, at G. Stevens', G. H. Jacobs', L. Pratt's, B. B. Humphrey's, W. O. Batchelder's.

In Salem at J. V. & J. Hanson & Co's, Roberts Fruit Store, Henry Hale's, E. Heffernan's, J. J. Mullin, F. C. Radford's, C. A. Ropes & Son, Geo A. Wells & Co's., C. M. Buffum's.

Connects with Eastern Express. Also connects with No. Conway, and the Beverly, Ipswich and Marblehead Expresses.

All orders promptly attended to and satisfaction guaranteed.

CHAS. H. ESTES,

TOWNSEND'S

PEABODY & BOSTON

EXPRESS.

Leaves Peabody at 10 A. M. over the Wakefield Branch R. R.

Leaves the Boston Office, 32 Court Square, at 2 P. M.

All business entrusted to my care will be safely and carefully attended to. Daily and weekly papers supplied.

Order Slates:—At B. F. Stevens', Bushby's, Batchelder's, B. B. Humphrey's, E. S. Howard's, and Nugent Bros. stores.

JAMES F. FOYE.

THOMAS H. O'KEEFE.

JOBBING AND EXPRESSING

of all kinds promptly attended to.

Persons desiring the removal of furnitue or ashes, rubbish, you can have such work satisfactorily done by leaving orders at G., Stevens', Batchelder's, or addressing Box 545, Peabody.

NEW COUPE.

Henry C. Wilson would inform the public that he will run a

PUBLIC CARRIAGE

to and from each train, and will also attend to calls around town, and to late trains and entertainments in Salem. Will also attend to Baggage Expressing and Jobbing of all kinds. Terms Reasonable. Order slate at Depot.

HENRY C. WILSON,
Peabody Mass.

CROSS, PHOTOGRAPHER.

There having been demand or more Clubs, I have concluded to issue a limited number.

INDUCEMENTS:

Two dozen Cards and two Cabinets given to any one getting up a Club of ten persons. Price of Club, $20. Each person to have one dozen Cards and one Cabinet finished in any of the different styles desired.

IRA P. NADOR,

DEALER IN

CHOICE CONFECTIONERY

46 MARKET STREET LYNN

CHARLES SIMONDS,

LIVERY STABLE,

(HOTEL STABLE).

SAFE and Reliable Horses, and Easy Carriages of the best style, furnished at short notice, for Funerals, Weddings, Business or Pleasure Riding.

$200,000 in presents given away. Send us 5 cents postage, and by mail you will get free a package of goods of large value, that will start you in work that will at once bring you in money faster than anything else in America. All about the $200,000 in presents with each box. Agents wanted everywhere, of either sex, of all ages, for all the time, or spare time only, to work for us at their own home. Fortunes for all workers absolutely assured. Don't delay. H. HALLETT & Co., Portland, Maine.

Professional Cards.

THOMAS M. STIMPSON'

Attorney and Counselor-at-Law.

194 ESSEX STREET SALEM

Residence Lowell Street, Peabody.

HENRY WARDWELL,

Attorney and Counselor-at-Law.

PEABODY,

And 35 Court St., Boston

FRANK E. FARNHAM,

Attorney and Counselor-at-Law.

REAL ESTATE, INSURANCE AND INVESTMENT AGENT,

ALLEN'S BLOCK　Peabody Square,

REMOVAL.

B. C. PERKINS,

Counselor at Law,

Has removed to Kinsman's Block,

81 WASHINGTON STREET, SALEM.

Evening consultations at residence, Peabody.

EUGENE T. McCARTHY,

Attorney and Counsellor at Law.

NO. 8 ALLEN'S BLOCK,

PEABODY.

oct 29—1y

FREDERIC G. PRESTON,

Attorney and Counsellor at Law.

ALLEN'S BLOCK.

RESIDENCE, 171 BOSTON ST., SALEM.

CHARLES A. WEARE,

Attorney and Counsellor at Law.

ALLEN'S BUILDING,

PEABODY, MASS.

MISS MARY E. LYNCH

TEACHER OF

Piano and Organ.

South Peabody, Mass.

Terms of tuition 8 and 10 dollars. Pupils visited at their homes if desired.

MISS ANNIE L. ORR,

TEACHER OF

VOCAL & INSTRUMENTAL MUSIC

Would solicit pupils. For terms apply to W P. Clark, or Miss Orr, No. 7 Palfry Place. Lynn, Mass.　apr 29

Business Cards.

HENRY L. WHIDDEN,

PAINTER.

Orders left at A. H. Whidden's Store wil be attended to.

J. H. ALLEN,

UNDERTAKER,

Removed to 36 St. Peter street, Salem

jan11

W. S. OSBORNE,

TOWN UNDERTAKER & FURNISHER

Home, 96 Central St., Peabody. Office Second Door west of Hay Scales.

EDWIN B. BALCOM,

Architect and Builder.

Plans, Specifications and Estimates furnished at Short Notice. Contracts Made and Faithfully executed.

Shop on Walnut St. Residence, 78 Washington St.

PEABODY. MASS.

$1

13 WEEKS.

The POLICE GAZETTE will be mailed, securely wrapped, to any address in the United States for three months on receipt of

ONE DOLLAR.

Liberal discount allowed to postmasters, agents and clubs. Sample copies mailed free. Address all orders to

RICHARD K. FOX,

FRANKLIN SQUARE, N Y.

TRY LYONS'

Hair Tonic.

It cleanses the scalp, removes dandruff, and promotes the growth of the hair.

Price 50 Cents per Bottle.

Put up and for sale only by

P. J. LYONS,

on the square.

Hale's Honey the great Cough cure, 25c., 50c. & $1
Glenn's Sulphur Soap heals & beautifies, 25c.
German Corn Remover kills Corns & Bunions
Hill's Hair and Whisker Dye—Black and Brown, 50c.
Pike's Toothache Drops cure in 1 Minute, 25c
Dean's Rheumatic Pills are a sure cure, 50c.

feb 18—1y

HEADQUARTERS !

FOR CIGARS.

THE BEST

to be found in the world? To prove it just call at the HORSE RAILROAD STATION on the Square, and see them

GEO. STEVENS,

PEABODY SQUARE,

Agent for the Naumkeag Laundry.

MAYO'S

Compound Vegetable Anæsthetic.

A safe and pleasant substitute for gas and ether.

Discovered by Dr. N. K. Mayo of Boston, April 1883, subsequently administered by him in nearly two thousand cases, producing perfect slumber, being applicable to the child the delicate sentitive woman as well as the hardy man. No ill effects have followed its use in any case, it acting rather as a vegetable tonic.

It controls the patient one-fourth longer than gas giving us time to remove from three to twenty teeth. It is with great confidence we have introduced it into our practice, giving very successful results.

DRS. FRIZZELL & WILLIAMS

DENTISTS.

LEE HALL

Opposite City Hall, Lynn, Mass.

Administered also at our branch office, Marblehead.

Dr. Williams' Toothache Drops at Druggists.

O. B. CHADWICK & CO.,

(SUCCESSORS TO CHAS. TAPLEY)

FIRE INSURANCE AGENTS

NO. 8 ALLEN'S BLOCK, PEABODY

Over $12,000,000 Cash Capital represented

Also Agents for Holyoke, Merrimac, Quincy, and Dorchester Mutual Fire Ins. Cos.

Particular attention given to insuring Household Furniture, Family Wearing Aparel, Musical Instruments, Libraries, and Merchandise of all kinds in sums of $100and upward, for one, three or five years, at the owest rates.

D. P. GROSVENOR.

PHARMACIST AND DRUGGIST,

Compounder of

Physicians Presciptions

and dealer in

RELIABLE DRUGS.

35 MAIN STREET.

PEABODY, MASS.

PEABODY

LAUNDRY.

Goods called for and delivered free of charge.

C. A. SANGER

7 LOWELL STREET,

UP STAIRS.

SWEETSER'S

DRUG STORE

NO, 37 MAIN STREET,

PEABODY

Drugs and Medicines of all kinds; Toilet Articles, Sponges, Brushes, Perfumery, &c., constantly on hand.

Prescriptions carefully and promptly prepared.

REMOVED TO

No. 241 Essex St..

PRICE BLOCK,

DANIEL T. SMITH,

Watchmaker.

CRAIG'S

KIDNEY CURE

The Genuine.

WILLIAM T. LEE

AGENT.

AGENTS WANTED for Twenty Years of Congress.
1861—1881,
by James G. Blaine.

Hon. J. S. Wise of Va., says: "Whoever takes it up, no matter whether he be Mr. Blaine's friend or enemy, will never put it down until he has read the whole." Agents make from $200 to $1000 per month. Address, The Henry Bill Pub. Co., Norwich, Conn.

Railroads.

OLD COLONY RAILROAD.

SEASON OF 1885.

Excursion Rates

FROM BOSTON.

To	Rates
Barnstable and return	$2.90
Brant Rock and return	2.00
Brewster and return	3.60
Buzzard's Bay and return	2.15
Cataumet and return	2.40
Duxbury and return	1.50
East Brewster and return	3.70
East Marshfield and return	1.20
East Wareham and return	2.10
Eastham and return	3.90
Egypt and return	1.00
Falmouth and return	2.75
Fairhaven and return	2.30
Greenbush and return	1.10
Harwich and return	3.40
Hyannis and return	3.00
Kingston and return	1.50
Marshfield and return	1.40
Marion and return	2.00
Mattapoisett and return	2.20
Monument and return	2.20
Monument Beach and return	2 25
Nantucket and return	4.00
Newport and return	2.50
North Eastham and return	4.80
North Falmouth and return	2.45
North Harwich and return	3.30
North Sandwich and return	2.30
North Scituate and return	.95
North Truo and return	4.55
Oak Bluffs and return	3.00
Onset Bay and return	2.15
Orleans and return	3.75
Plymouth and return	1.50
Pocassett and return	2.35
Provincetown and return	4.80
Rock and return	1.55
Sandwich and return	2.50
Sea View and return	1.25
Scituate and return	1.05
South Dennis and return	3.25
South Duxbury and return	1.50
South Middleboro and return	1.65
South Truo and return	3.45
South Wareham and return	1.90
South Wellfleet and return	4.15
South Yarmouth and return	3.20
Tremont and return	1.80
Truo and return	4 40
Wareham and return	1.95
Wellfleet and return	4.25
West Barnstable and return	2.75
West Falmouth and return	2.55
West Sandwich and return	2.40
Woods Holl and return	2.85
Yarmouth and return	3.00

Tickets are limited to continuous passage only in either direction.

Tickets sold from June 1st to October 1st good to return until November 1st of year of date.

J. SPRAGUE, Jr.,
Gen.'l Pass. Agent.
J. R. KENDRICK,
Gen'l Manager.

BOSTON & LOWELL R. R.

JUNE 29, 1885.

PASSENGER SERVICE FROM SALEM:

Leave Salem for Lowell, and Lawrence at 7 10, 10 55 A. M., 4 40 P. M. Sunday 7 20 P. M.
Leave Lowell for Salem, at 7 35 A. M., 1 10, 6 P. M. Sunday 7 43 A. M.
Leave Lawrence for Salem, at 7 45 A. M., 1 05, 6 P. M. Sunday 7 45 A. M.
Leave Wilmington Junction for Salem, at 8 09 A. M., 1 38, 6 24 P. M. Sunday 8 13 A. M.
Leave North Reading for Salem, at 8 20 A. M., 1 48, 6 34 P. M. Sunday 8 24 A. M.
Leave West Peabody for Salem, at 8 34 A. M., 2, 6 45 P. M. Sunday 8 36 A. M.

The 7 10 A. M. and 4 40 P. M. trains from Salem connect at Wilmington Junction for Boston via B. & L. R. R.

Leave Boston (Boston & Lowell Depot) for Wilmington Junction and North Reading, at 1, 5 30 P. M.

All trains from Salem connect at Lowell for Nashua, Manchester and Concord, N. H.

The 7 10 A. M. train connects at Lowell for Peterboro, Keene and intermediate stations.

The 10 55 A. M. train connects at Ayer Junction for stations on W. & N. R. R., Springfield, Hartford, New Haven and New York; also for Troy, Albany and the West via Hoosac Tunnel Line.

C. S MELLEN, Gen'l Supt.
LUCIUS TUTTLE, Gen'l Pass. Agent.

Store and Window Awnings,
Hammocks,
Boatsails and
Wagon Covers

Anton M. Liebsch

7 DERBY WHARF,

SALEM.

BURDETT
Business
COLLEGE

167 TREMONT ST., BOSTON.

Day and Evening Sessions.

Book-keeping, Business Arithmetic, Penmanship, Commercial Law, Business Correspondence, etc.

For complete information call at the College Office, or send for Journal.

y 15—2m

A PRESENT!

Our readers for 12 cents in postage stamps to pay for mailing and wrapping and names of two book agents, will receive FREE a Steel Finish Parlor Engraving of all OUR PRESIDENTS, including Cleveland, size 22x28 inch, worth $4. Address

ELDER PUB. CO., Chicago, Ill.

RED STAR

TRADE RED STAR MARK.

COUGH CURE

Absolutely
Free from Opiates, Emetics and Poisons.

A PROMPT, SAFE, SURE CURE

For Coughs, Sore Throat, Hoarseness, Influenza, Colds, Bronchitis, Croup, Whooping Cough, Asthma, Quinsy, Pains in Chest, and other affections of the Throat and Lungs.

Price 50 cents a bottle. Sold by Druggists and Dealers. Parties unable to induce their dealer to promptly get it for them will receive two bottles, Express charges paid, by sending one dollar to

THE CHARLES A. VOGELER COMPANY,
Sole Owners and Manufacturers,
Baltimore, Maryland, U. S. A.

AYER'S

SUGAR

CATHARTIC

COATED

PILLS

CURE

Headache, Nausea, Dizziness, and Drowsiness. They stimulate the Stomach, Liver, and Bowels, to healthy action, assist digestion, and increase the appetite. They combine cathartic, diuretic, and tonic properties of the greatest value, are a purely vegetable compound, and may be taken with perfect safety, either by children or adults. E. L. Thomas, Framingham, Mass., writes: "For a number of years I was subject to violent Headaches, arising from a disordered condition of the stomach and bowels. About a year ago I commenced the use of Ayer's Pills, and have not had a headache since." W. P. Hannah, Gormley P. O., York Co., Ont., writes: "I have used Ayer's Pills for the last thirty years, and can safely say that I have never found their equal as a cathartic medicine. I am never without them in my house." C. D. Moore, Elgin, Ill., writes: "Indigestion, Headache, and Loss of Appetite, had so weakened and debilitated my system, that I was obliged to give up work. After being under the doctor's care for two weeks, without getting any relief, I began taking Ayer's Pills. My appetite and strength returned, and I was soon enabled to resume my work, in perfect health."

Ayer's Pills,

PREPARED BY
Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass.
Sold by all Druggists.

BOSTON & LOWELL R. R.

MERRIMAC VALLEY ROUTE,

TO THE

White Mountains,
Montreal, Quebec,
AND ALL PARTS OF Vermont,
New Hampshire
and Canada.

Accelerated Summer Service from Boston.

In Effect Jnne 29, 1885.

8 30 A. M. Express for Weirs, Centre Harbor, Wolfboro' and Montreal, with through parlor cars via Plymouth and via White River Junction,

9.30 A. M. White Mountains Express, with through parlor cars to Weirs, Plymouth, Jefferson, Fabyan, Twin Mountain House and Mount Pleasant House; connecting for Maplewood, Bethlehem, Profile House Crawford and Mount Washington.

1.00 P. M. White Mountains and Montreal Express. With Mann Boudoir Car to Fabyan, etc., and parlor cars to Weirs, Plymouth and Montreal; connecting for Centre Harbor, Wolfboro', Maplewood, Bethlehem, Crewford's, Jefferson, etc.

3.00 P. M. Local train for Plymouth, White River Junction, Weirs, etc.

5.00 P. M. Fast Express for Lowell, Nashua, Amherst, Milford and Wilton.

7.00 P. M. Night Express for Montreal, via Plymouth and White River Junction, with Pullman Sleeping Cars.

Excursion tickets at lowest rates are procurable at the Company's offices, 218 Washington Street, third door South of Old State House, and at Causeway Street Station.

C. S. MELLEN, General Superintendent.
LUCIUS TUTTLE, Gen'l Pass. Agent.

ALLAN LINE

ROYAL MAIL STEAMSHIPS

Sailing from Quebec every Saturday for Liverpool.

SHORTEST OCEAN VOYAGE

Only five days from land to land.

Extra services from GLASCOW, GALWAY, QUEENSTOWN and LONDONDERRY to Boston direct for the convenience of Steerage passengers, to whom kind treatment is made a Specialty. Cabin, $70 and $80. Intermediate, $40. Steerage at Low Rates.

LEVE & ALDEN, Gen'l Pass. Agts.

15 State Street, Boston.

JOHN LINEHAN, Agt. for Peabody.

Items of Interest.

There are 60,000 trees in the streets of Washington.

New Bedford (Mass.) carpenters shingled one side of the roof of a house before they discovered they were working on the wrong building.

An epicurean doctor says that in order to obtain the full flavor of butter the bread upon which it is spread should be introduced into the mouth with the buttered surface downward.

An additional picture for nearly every day in the year was placed last year in the "rogues' album" in the Berlin Criminal Police Court. During the year the collection served to identify 124 criminals.

In noticing a new medical work entitled "Palatable Prescribing," a scientific journal makes the curious and highly suggestive error, for which it apologizes of calling the book "Palatable Poisoning."

The ideal Christian community would seem to be in Iowa, where, under one pastor, Presbyterians, Baptists, Congregationalists, and others are harmoniously working together. The Sunday school superintendent and two of the Bible class teachers are Baptists, one of the elders is a Congregationalist, and another is a Lutheran.

A farmer of Peacock, N. J., while ploughing recently, lost his watch out of his pocket and "turned it under." He did not miss it until night, and next morning he commenced ploughing the ground over again, and soon ploughed it up. The watch had been under the ground eighteen hours, and was still running.

It is said to be quite the custom now for French ladies to carry revolvers. At a fashionable dinner party lately, a gentleman was observed hesitating whether to sit on the right or left of a handsome young widow. At length he said, with a very polite bow, "Pardon me, madam, but will you kindly say on which side you wear your revolver?"

A young farmer of Westford, Otsego county, N. Y., was struck recently in the face by the tail of a cow which he was milking, and became so enraged thereby that he procured an axe and chopped off the tails above the switch of every cow in his stable—six in number. The Proceeding finally came to the ears of outsiders, and the tiller of the soil was fined ten dollars.

The birds of Louisiana, papers of that State say, will soon be exterminated. The colored people there not only make birds an article of food, but have begun to use their eggs for the same purpose. The eggs of partridges, robins, wrens, mocking birds, and all others that they can get their hands on are eaten.

Abram Hanson, a negro boy of Lawrence, Kan., can pick up a piece of clay and model it in a few minutes to almost any form that suggests itself to his mind, with a life likeness truly astounding. From the common clay there found in abundance, without tools of any kind, without models or designs, he forms men and beasts with a wonderful reality and no inconsiderable artistic talent.

The old story about a recitation of the Lord's prayer by the elder Booth to a company of clergymen, who were affected to the point of hysteria thereby, has started on a new round in the religious journals. "Such a performance by a play actor dealing with sacred language,' says Edwin Booth, "could not possibly have moved orthodox ministers to any other tears than those of regret. A recitation, to be so effective, must have favoring circumstances."

Walnut, once so much in demand for furniture, has lost its prominence, and dealers in wood report a large falling off in the demand. Mahogany is coming again into its old-time prominence, and Boston dealers say that the demand is increasing daily. Stained cherry is much used for imitations of mahogany in furniture, but this wood in its natural color is handsome enough, and is at present very popular.

When a chief dies in Sitka his wives pass to his next heir, and, unless these relicts purchase their freedom with blankets, they are united to their grandson or nephew as a matter of course. High-strung young Siwashes sometimes scorn these legacies, and then there is war, all the widows resenting such an outrage of decency and established etiquette. It is said, however, that henpecking is too small a word to describe the way in which the wives bully their lords. Woman's rights have reached a development among the Sitkans that would astonish the woman suffrage leaders.

A letter from Barnum has been published recently in an English newspaper, in which he says that twenty years ago, when he began the management of his traveling show with 500 persons, it was made a condition that they should be discharged and forfeit five dollars if they were not total abstainers from strong drink during the season of seven months. Nearly every one complied, and at the end of that time he offered to invest their savings and guarantee them the principal with interest at six per cent. if they would still continue to abstain. Over 400 accepted the offer, and most of them to-day have several thousand dollars safely invested.

For all scrofulous disorders, for syphilitic and mercurial diseases, the best remedy is Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

W. P. B. Brooks & Co.,

151 Hanover St., Boston.

Furniture, Carpets,

STOVES, CROCKERY,
SILVER WARE.

And Everything in the Line, on Easy Terms.

☞ Always the Best Place to Trade

W. P. B. BROOKS, A. D. DAMON,
F. D. SPERRY.

E. R. MORSE SAFE CO.

MANUFACTURER OF

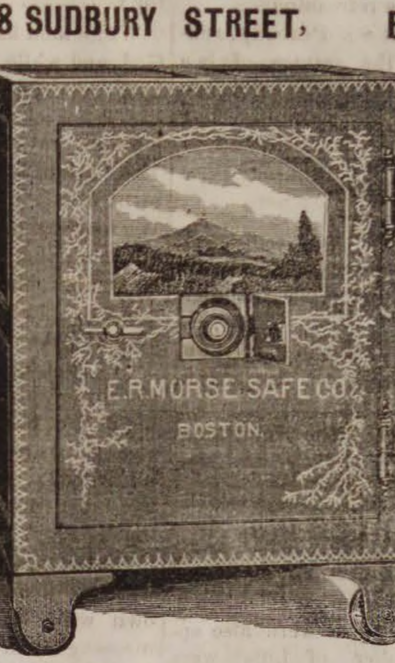
FIRE & BURGLAR PROOF SAFES, VAULT DOORS, STEEL CHESTS, SILVER SAFES, EXPRESS SAFES, FIRE AND THIEF PROOF JEWEL BOXES.

76 & 78 SUDBURY STREET, BOSTON.

Second hand SAFES.

SAFES bought and sold.

SAFES opened and repaired.



E. R. MORSE SAFE CO.
BOSTON.

SAFES exchanged.

SAFES moved.

Combination LOCKS put on to Old Safes.

Our Safes have on a PATENT CONCEALED DIAL LOCK which is used as a day door and is a great protection in case of fire, as the dial cannot be melted or broken off.

E. R. MORSE.

Was established in business October 10th, 1844.

THE BRYANT & STRATTON
COMMERCIAL SCHOOL

BOSTON.

Largest & most Successful in the World,

Will Reopen Monday, Sept. 7th.

THE COURSE OF STUDY is thorough, complete and practical. Pupils are fitted for the duties and work of every day life.

THE FACULTY embraces a list of twenty teachers and assistants, elected with special reference to proficiency in each department.

THE STUDENTS are young people of both sexes, full of diligence and zeal.

THE DISCIPLINE is of the highest order and includes valuable business lessons.

THE PATRONAGE is the largest of any Commercial School in the world.

THE REPUTATION of this school for originality and leadership and as the Standard Institution of its kind is generally acknowledged.

THE SCHOOL BUILDING is centrally located and purposely constructed.

SPECIAL COURSE. Short Hand, Type Writing, Composition and Correspondence may be taken as a special course.

SITUATIONS in Business Houses furnished its pupils completes the varied inducements to attend this school.

On and after Aug. 24th, the Principal may be seen daily from 9 till 2 o'clock, at the School Building, 608 Washington street. Prospectus, containing full information, concerning course of study, terms, etc., post free

aug 5—6t

BUY IT AND TRY IT.

Try it for earache,
Try it for headache,
Try it for toothache,
Try it for backache.

For an ache or a pain Thomas' Eclectric Oil is excellent.—Chas. F. Medler, box 274, Schenectady, N. Y.

Thomas' Eclectric Oil is the best thing going, pa says. Cured him of rheumatism and me of earache—two drops.—Master Horace Brenizer, Clinton, Iowa.

Try it for a limp,
Try it for a lameness,
Try it for a pain,
Try it for a strain.

From shoulder to ankle joint, and for three months, I had rheumatism which yielded to nothing but Thomas' Eclectric Oil. Thomas' Eclectric Oil did what no physician seemed able to accomplish. It cured me.—John N. Gregg, Supt. of Railway Construction, Niagara Falls.

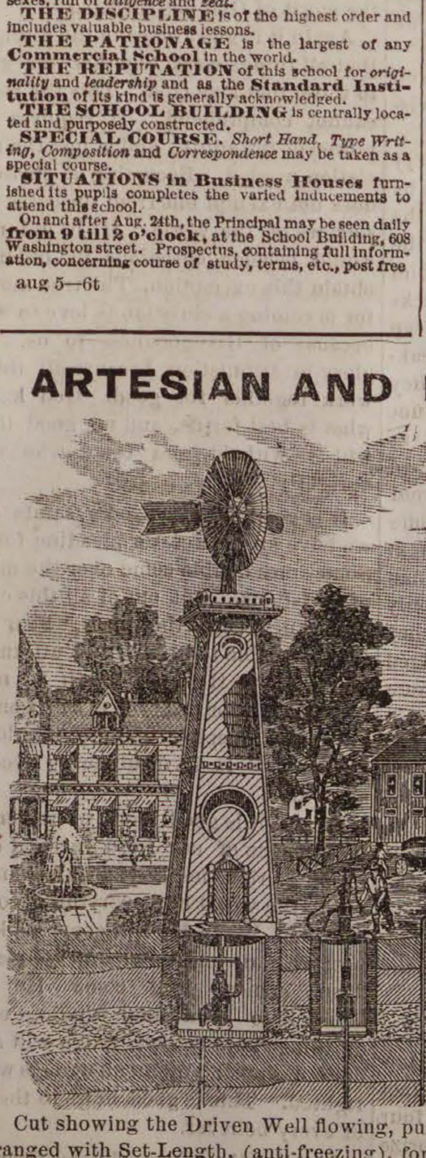
Try it for a scald,
Try it for a cut,
Try it for a bruise,
Try it for a burn.

Price 50 cts. and $1.00.

FOSTER, MILBURN & CO., Prop's.

BUFFALO, N. Y.

ARTESIAN AND DRIVEN WELLS.



Cut showing the Driven Well flowing, pumped by Hand and Wind Power. Arranged with Set-Length, (anti-freezing), for Domestic, Farm and Irrigating purposes; where large amount of water is needed Steam Pumps are.

All of our

DRIVEN WELLS

for Domestic, Farm, or any other purpose well, receive prompt attention.

Thousands of these wells are being used in Tanneries, Breweries and other manufactories, where cool and better water is needed and also save water bills.

We are also prepared to

DRILL WELLS

six or eight inches in diameter through earth or rock, by steam power.

B. F. SMITH,

OFFICE,

266 WASHINGTON STREET,

Room 3, Boston

Conveyances.

BOSTON & MAINE RAILROAD

On and after Monday, Je. 28, 1885 trains will run as follows,—

EASTERN DIVISION,

TRAINS LEAVE PEABODY FOR BOSTON AT 6 44, 7 25, 8 02, 8 31, 10 33, 11 07 A. M, 2 01, 3 37, 5 08, 6 46 P. M.

BOSTON FOR PEABODY, 8, 10 55 A. M., 1 M., 3, 4, 4 40, 5 15, 6 P. M.

LEAVE SALEM FOR

Lynn and Boston at 5 37, 6, 6,30, 7, 7 14, 7 35, 7 48, 7 51, 8 13, 8 34 (does not stop at Lynn), 8 40, 8 58, 9 20, 9 55, 10.48 A. M., 12 M., 12 30, 12 52, 2 15, 3 12, 3 45, 4 10, 4 25, 5 17, 5 48, 6 33, 6.58, 7 20, 7 57, 8 55, 9, 9 55 P. M. Sundays, 5.37, 8 40, 11 35 A. M., 1 05, 3 05, 5 40, 8 15, P. M.
Swampscott, 6, 6 30, 7 14, 7.48 7 51, 8 40, 8 58, 10 48, A. M., 12 M, 12 52, 2 15, 3 45, 4 25, 5 17, 5 48, 6 33, 6 58, 7 20, 7 57, 9, 9 55, P. M. Sundays, 8 40 11 35 A. M., 1 05, 3 05, 5 40, 8 15 P. M.
Beverly, 6 53, 8 11, 8 40, 10 42, 11 20 A. M., 12 02, 1 05, 2 27, 2 47, 3 56, 4 05, 5 12, 5 57 6 37, 7 05, 7 15, 7 45, 10 10, 11, P. M. Sundays 8 45 A. M.
Beverly Farms, Manchester and Gloucester—6 53, 8 40, 11 20 A. M., 2 47, 4 07, 5 35, 7 05, 7 45, 10 10 P M
Essex, 8 11 A. M., 3 56, 6 37 P. M.
Ipswich, 8 11, 9 35, 10 42 A, M., 1 05, 2 27, 3 56, 5 12, 6 37, 7 15 P. M, Sundays 8 45 A. M., 7 30 P. M.
Newburyport, 8 11, 9 35, 10, 10 42 A. M., 1 05, 2 02, 2 27, 3 56, 5 12, 6 37, 7 15 P. M. Sundays 8 45 A. M., 7 30 P. M.
Amesbury, 8 11, 10 42 A. M., 1 05, 3 56, 5.12 P. M.
Portsmouth—8 11, 9 35, 10, 10 42 A. M., 1 05, 2 02, 3 56, 5 12, ‡7 15 P. M. Sundays 8 45 A. M., 7 30 P. M.
Dover, 8 11, A. M., 2 02, 5 12 P. M.
Great Falls and Rochester, 8 11, 10 A. M., 2 02, 3 56 P. M.
Wolfboro—8 11, 10 A, M., 2 02, 3 56 P. M.
North Conway—8 11, 10 A M., 2 02 P. M.
Portland—8 11, 9 35 A M, 1 05, ‡7 15 P M. Sundays 7 30 P. M.
Augusta—9 35 A. M., 1 05, †‡7 15 P. M. Sundays 7 30 P. M.
Bangor—9 35 A. M., 1 05, †7 15 P. M. Sundays 7 30 P. M.
St. John and Halifax, 9 35 A. M. †7 15 P. M. Sundays, 7 30 P. M.
Montreal, 9 35 P. M.

And FOR SALEM—from

Montreal—10 15 P. M.
St. John—8 P. M. (daily except Saturday).
Bangor, 8 A. M., 1 30, 8 P. M. Sundays 8 P. M.
Augusta, 6, 10 A. M., 2 45, 10 55 P. M. Sundays 10 55 P. M.
Portland—2, 9 A M, 1, 6 P M. Sundays, 2 A. M.
North Conway—7 20, 11 A M, 3 30 P. M.
Wolfboro—6 05 (Mondays only), 8 15, 11 20 A M, 4 05 P M.
Rochester—7 22, 9 42 A. M., 1 05, 5 37 P. M.
Great Falls—7 38, 9 57 A. M, 1 18, 5 50 P. M.
Dover—7, 10 25 A. M., 4 30 P. M.
Portsmouth—4 05, 7 30, 7 35, 8 20, 10 50 A M, 1 55, 2 55, 5, 6 40, 7 40 P M, Sundays, 4 05 A. M, 4 P. M.
Amesbury—6 40, 8 40, 11 15 A. M., 1 30, 3 05, 5 20 P. M.
Newburyport—4 45, 6 30, 7, 8, 8 13, 9 05, 11 35 A. M. 2 35, 3 30, 3 38, 5 43, 7 20, 8 15 P. M. Sundays, 4 45 A. M., 4 45 P. M.
Ipswich—5 07, 6 48, 7 17, 8 15, 8 31, 9 25, 11 59 A. M., 2 49, 3 55, 6 06, 7 36 P. M. Sundays 5 07 A. M., 5 06 P. M.
Essex—7, 11 45*A. M., 5 45 P. M.
Rockport—6 05, 7 20, 8 30, 10 A. M., 1 20, 5, 6 10, 9 P. M. Sundays—7 45 A. M.
Gloucester—6 15, 7 29, 8 39, 10 08 A M, 1 30, 5 08* 6 20, 9 09 P M. Sundays—7 55 A. M.
Manchester—6 30, 7 42, 8 51, 10 21 A. M., 1 45, 5 22, 6 32, 9 23 P. M. Sundays, 8 09 A. M.
Beverly—6 50, 7 05, 7 40, 8 05, 8 50, 9 11, 9 45, 10 40 A. M., 12 20, 12 45, 2 05, 4 16, 5 40, 6 23, 6 50, 7 08, 7 50, 9 43, 11 10 P. M. Sundays 8 30 A. M., 5 30 P. M.
Swampscott,—6 44, 8 50, 10 34, 11 26, 11 54 A. M., 12 36, 2 19, 3 28, 4 31, 6 20, 6 28, 6 56, 8 29, 10, 10 49, 11 49 P. M. Sundays 8 36, 11 17 A. M., 1 57, 5 51, 10 11 P. M.
Lynn—6 40, 7 59, 8 30, 8 46, 9 25, 9 51, 10 30, 11 10, 11 23, 11 51 A M., 12 33, 12 55, 1 52, 2 15, 3 25, 3 45, 3 55, 4 28, 5 03, 5 24, 5 45, 6 16, 6 25, 6 52, 7 05, 7 35, 8 25, 9 55, 10 45, 11 45 P. M. Sundays 8 32, 11 14 A. M., 1 03, 5 47, 7 22, 10 06, P. M.
Boston—6 10, 7 30*, 8, 8 05, 9, 9 30, 10, 10 45, 10 55* 11 15 A. M. 12 M, 12 30, 1 30, 1 40, 2 15, 3, 3 20, 3 30, 4, 4 40, 5, 5 15, 5 40, 6, 6 20, 6 40, 7 10, 7 50, 9 20, 10 15, 11 15 P M. Sundays, 8, 10 40 A. M, 1 20, 5 10, 7, 9 30 P. M.

*Via Saugus Branch.
†Change at Newburyport.

MARBLEHEAD BRANCH.

Salem for Marblehead—6 50, 7 55, 8 40, 9 30 A M, 1, 2 30, 4 20, 5 15, 6 05, 7 20 P M.
Marblehead for Salem—6 30, 7 30, 8 15, 9 10, 10 15 A M, 2 3 20, 4 55, 5 40, 6 25 P M.

SOUTH READING BRANCH.

Trsins leave the South Reading Depot in Salem for Boston, 7 25, 9 05 A. M., 1 40, 4 35 P. M.
Boston for Salem—7 40, 11 30 A M, 3 10, 5 15 P. M.
Wakefield for Salem—8 13 A M, 12 06, 3 43, 5 48 P M.
Lynnfield for Salem—8 24 A M, 12 16, 3 52, 5 59 P M.
Peabody for Salem—8 35 A M, 12 27, 4 02, 6 07 P M.

LAWRENCE BRANCH.

Salem for Lowell—7 A. M., 6 P. M.
Salem for Lawrence—7 00, 11 32 A M, 4 43, 6 P M.
Salem for Middleton—6 15, 7, 8 58, 11 35 A M, 3 36, 4 43, 6 P M.
Salem for Danvers—6 15, 7, 7 28, 8 58, 11 32 A M, 12 47, 3 36, 4 43, 5 20, 6, 6 42 P M.
Lowell for Salem—7 10, 9 45 A. M., 12 15, 5 15 P. M
Lawrence for Salem—7 40, 10 5 A M, 1, 5 50 P M.
Middleton for Salem—7, 8 07, 10 10, 10,45 A M, 1 35, 4 45, 6 27, P M.
Danvers for Salem—6 37, 7 15, 7 50, 8 31, 10 25, 11 A.M. 1 50, 3 30, 5, 5 50, 6 39, P M.
Peabody for Salem—6 44, 7 25, 8 02, 8 31, 10 33, 11 07 A M, 2 01, 3 37, 5 08, 5 58, 6 46 P M.

JAMES T. FURBER, General Manager.
Boston Je. 28, 1885.

NEW YORK & NEW ENGLAND RAILROAD.

Shorter by twenty miles than any other Line between Boston and New York.

Now a Double Track Road to a Connection with the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad, West of Willimantic.

LEAVE BOSTON.

8.30 A. M. *DAY EXPRESS TRAIN for New York (via Middletown and New Haven); Pullman Cars Boston to New York. A part of this train runs through to Hartford, New Britain Waterbury, Danbury and Fishkill.

3.00 P. M. †NEW ENGLAND LIMITED for New York (via Air Line Route) running 86 miles without a stop. Due Grand Central Depot, New York, at 9.00 P. M. Connects week days at Willimantic with train for Hartford, New Britain and Waterbury.

3.30 P. M. *AFTERNOON MAIL for New York, (via Middletown and New Haven), due New York 11.25 P. M A part of this train runs through to Hartford, New Britain and Bristol.

6.30 P. M. †PHILADELPHIA EXPRESS for Hartford, New Haven, Jersey City, Trenton, Philadelphia, Baltimore and Washington, connecting for Richmond and points South. Through Pullman cars to Washington.

6.30 P. M. *NORWICH LINE EXPRESS for New York, New London, Norwich, Danielsonville and Putnam. Train connects at New London with Steamer City of Worcester, or City of Boston.

Seats in Parlor Cars, Berths in Pullman Cars, State-rooms on Steamers, Tickets and information obtained at Office, 322 Washington St, or Depot, foot of Summer St.

BOSTON.
A. C. KENDALL, Gen'l Pass. Agt.

BOSTON, REVERE BEACH & LYNN R.R. SUMMER TIME-TABLE.

June, 15, 1885.

Leave Boston at 6.50, 7.30, 8, 8.30, 9, 10, 11 A.M. 12 M.; 1, 2, 2.30, 3, 3.30, 4, 4.30, 5, 5.30, 6, §6.30, 7, 7.30, 8, 8.30, 9.20, 9.50, 10.50, 11.15 P. M.
Leave Lynn at §6.10, 6.50, 7, 7.30, 8, 8.30, 9, 10, 11 A.M. 12 M.; 1, 1.45, 2.15, 2.45, 3.15, 3.45, 4.15, 4.45, 5.15, 5.45, 6.15, 6.45, 7.15, 7.45, 8.40, 9.10, 9.40, 10.10, 10.30, P. M.

SUNDAY TRAINS.

Leave Boston at 10, 11 A. M.; 12 M.; 1, 2, 2.30, 3, 3.30, 4, 4.30, 5, 5.30, 6, 6.30, 7, 7.30, 8, 8.30, 9, 10, P. M.
Leave Lynn at 9, 10, 11 A. M.; 12 M.; 1, 1.45, 2.15, 2.45, 3.15, 3.45, 4.15, 4.45, 5.15, 5.45, 6.15, 6.45, 7.15, 7.45, 8.15, 9.15 P. M.

§Workingmen's train.

JOHN A. FENNO, G. T. A.
C. A. HAMMOND, Supt

CALL AT THIS OFFICE FOR FINE JOB PRINTING. Specimens given

OUR COMPETITOR EXHIBITS HIS CAT AND SO DO WE.

TAKE YOUR OWN COMPARISON

As our cat is pleasing and more contented looking than his, so our customers go away better satisfied with the fine quality of the boots and shoes purchased of us at lower prices than the same goods are sold by other dealers.

Call and see for yourselves.

F. W. Lucas & Co.,

186 ESSEX STREET,

Head of Central Street, Salem

MUSICAL NOTES.

The Worcester Musical Festival is now considered the leading musical event in Massachusetts. To perform at this festival, to be engaged as one of the soloists, is the mecca of many an ambitious student, and with good reason. For the audience to whom they perform are gathered from all portions of this state and other states. Miss Emma Juch made her first appearance there last year on her return from Europe. She was remarkably successful. At once her services were in demand for all other Festivals and Star Concerts, and she had all the engagements she could reasonably fill.

This year the management have made arrangements for a Great Festival. To those who are interested in music in this vicinity, the journey to Worcester is well worth their while. The festival opens next Monday, Sept. 21st, and will consist of eight concerts and seven rehearsals—to all of which the season tickets admit, the price of which is $5. The hotels at Worcester make reduced rates for strangers attending the Festival, and assistance will be rendered by the committee to those who desire accommodations elsewhere. Rehearsals begin Monday morning, but the first concert will be given Tuesday afternoon, at which the Utrecht Jubilate, which was given last season by our Salem Oratorio Society, will be performed—with Mrs. Belle Cole, of New York, contralto; Geo. W. Want, tenor; James A. Metcalf, bass. Tuesday evening the Bride of Dunkerron will be given with Emma Juch, Geo. J. Parker and A. E. Stoddard as soloists, together with full chorus and orchestra. The Wednesday afternoon concert will introduce Miss Sopha C. Hall and Elene Buffinton Kehew, both of whom are known in this vicinity. Wednesday evening will introduce Miss Hattie J. Clapper, of New York, who sang at the Messiah in Salem, Mr. Whitney Mockridge the English tenor and Mr. Babcock, bass, in different selections, closing with Rossini's Stabat Mater. Thursday afternoon will introduce Charles F. Webber, Mr. C. M. Loeffler, the celebrated violinist, and Miss Helen M. Howland. Miss Howland sang at one of the concerts of the Salem Schubert club last season, and is now soprano of a leading church in Worcester. Thursday evening is a miscellaneous concert by leading artists—Mme. Blanche Stone Barton, Stoddard, Want, and Miss Juch appearing in selections. Friday afternoon Miss Kate Percy Douglass will sing "Hear ye, Israel," and "From Mighty Kings" and the "Tower of Babel," by Rubinstein, will be given with M. W. Whitney as one of the soloists. The final concert will be a grand performance of Handel's Messiah with Mme. Fursch-Madi, Miss Clapper, Mr. Mockridge and Mr. Whitney, as soloists.

Mr. Edward K. Hood, of Lynn, has announced his Star Course in Odd Fellows' Hall, Lynn, beginning Thursday evening, Oct. 1. It will be a brilliant opening with Neuendorff's popular Orchestra of Boston, M'lle Zelie de Lussan, and Walter Emerson. His course includes a grand ballad concert, the Meigs Sisters Quartette, Salem Cadet Orchestra, the Ruggles street Quartette, Signor Liberati, the great cornetist, and others which we shall announce from time to time. These concerts can be enjoyed by our people as they are through in season to take the train arriving in Salem at 10.10 P. M.

It is now time for the local musical organizations to begin their work. Rehearsals will soon be in order for the Salem Oratorio Society, and the Salem Schubert Club, due notice of which will be given in this column. Musical people in New York and elsewhere are predicting a successful season. We trust this may prove the case in this vicinity.

We think it strange that a course of five or more first class concerts and entertainments, either in Peabody or Salem, could not be supported. We have no concerts, to speak of, in either place, outside of those given by the local societies. Experience in the past, however, has shown that they have not been made a success.

The choir at Grace church, Salem, will sing without Mr. Wilson until Oct. 1st, out of respect to the memory of the late Dr. Tuckerman.

The music at the Unitarian church, with Miss Howard and Mr. MacGregor, is a vast improvement over that of last year. Despite the wretched organ, we think it excels anything in town. The rendering last Sabbath of the response "Blessed are the pure in heart," without accompaniment, was better than anything we have heard in that church for many a day.

Last Sunday, at the Unitarian church, the hymn before the sermon was not sung to a double meter tune. This was as unusual as it was refreshing.

A chorus choir, at So. Peabody, render the music of the service. It is a volunteer choir of the young ladies and gentlemen in the society, and they sing very well.

SPARKS.

Hose 5 have received their new swing harness from the maker, T. F. Hutchinson, and have put it in place at their house.

The carriage of Hose 3 has been put into Dole & Osgood's carriage manufactory for repairs. One of the springs was weak, and dropped the reel against the wheels. The company are running a jumper while the carriage is being repaired.

The Board of Engineers held a meeting last Wednesday evening, and voted to put a stove in the house of Hose 2.

The by-laws of Hose 5 were also approved. A number of bills were approved.

In all probability one set of the new swing harnesses at the Central Station will be put in place this week.

The six new hydrants to be put down around town, will be set by Daniel B. Lord.

Monday evening, William R. Austin gave the members of Hose 2, and a few invited guests a clam chowder, at his dining rooms on Foster street. The tables were set for about twenty, and presented a very tempting appearance. After the supper speeches were made by Engineer Johnson, Foreman Farrington and others. The party broke up about 11.30, well pleased with the evening's enjoyment.

Hoodlums set fire to the barn on Lowe street belonging to the Elliott estate last Friday noon. They stuffed grass and paper into one corner of the building and set it on fire, and but for the presence of men on the street an alarm would have been given.

The Directors of the Relief Association will hold a meeting Thursday evening at 7.30 o'clock, at the Engine House.

The driver of Steamer 3 of Lowell and another fireman from that city visited the Central Station Tuesday.

It looks now as though the injury to George H. Miller's foot, caused by being run over while answering the alarm from South Peabody, on the morning of the 5th., would confine him to the house for at least three weeks longer. Splints were put on to keep the bones in place yesterday. Speaking of accidents to firemen, and they are many and severe, why should not the State pension all such firemen as are, by reason of injuries sustained while doing fire duty, prevented from earning a living at their trades? Some such law should be passed at the next legislature. As it is now, if a fireman is in any way badly injured, the only help he can expect is from his brother firemen, as a town or city is not obliged to do anything to help him, any more than as a common pauper or town's poor. If a fireman is killed, in discharge of his duty, he will get a burial by his comrades, and possibly his heirs, if needy, would get some aid from the same source, but there are very few volunteer fire companies that could afford, however willing they might be, to render aid to any extent. We should like to see the pension movement boomed by the firemen of the State.

* * *

Mr. L. L. Perry, on High street, has raised a squash that measured six feet two inches in circumference and four feet thick. He expects to take a prize from a Philadelphia firm of whom he bought the seed.

THE CHURCHES.

Last Sabbath Rev. Mr. Shipman preached for the first time since his vacation, to his people. His text was Proverbs 25:25; "As cold waters to a thirsty soul, so is good news from a far country." The preacher in opening referred to the refreshing influence of cold water to a ship's crew when lost at sea, to the soldier wounded on the field of battle, to Hagar, when the supply from the bottle, with which Abraham had furnished her, had become exhausted. As refreshing as is this cold water, so is news from a far country. The news from the battle field when the loved ones at home heard that their brother or husband was safe; news by mail, from a loved one journeying to a distant land, that their destination had been safely reached—this is as cold water to the thirsty soul. Such news, however, is limited. But the Gospel news is unlimited. The news from the battle field was good news to you, but what did the world care? The Gospel news is for everyone. All should be interested concerning these things of vital importance. To the unsaved, God has sent down encouraging communications to those who have wandered far from home, and will not have this man Christ to reign over them. God pities such. The parable of the prodigal son represents the true attitude of God to the sinner who is unsaved. It is the same feeling Christ had when leaving Jerusalem. It is good news—that He cares for you.

While men have wandered away from God, and while there is an impassible gulf between them and Him, God would not let man be lost without providing a way by which he could return. This again is good news. The atonement makes it possible for all to return. We may not be able to answer all the questions that may arise respecting the atonement, but there is the fact which remains. It has bridged the gulf—and all may pass over.

God not only remembers and pities the sinner, and has provided a way for his return, but he sends out messengers to plead with him. He leaves no stone unturned. Everyone who is finally lost must trample under foot the bleeding body of Christ. He will be lost because there was no power in the universe able to save him against his own will. The King invites. God's messengers are in the highways and hedges inviting, "Come all ye ends of the earth and be saved." There is no other religion where God thus goes out to the unsaved. This is good news from a far country.

What are we to do with this good news? To reject it is to reject the cold water when thirsty; to receive it is to be refreshed, as was the wounded soldier on the field of battle.

There is, again, most glorious news received for God's saints. As soon as a soul is converted, God enters at once into private communication with him, as He does not to the world. The promises of Christ are that He will lead you into all truth. The people of God discern whispers from on high designed only for the disciple of Christ. In the rebellion the leaders had signals, by which they could communicate with each other, such as a rocket discharged at night. It meant nothing to the common soldier, but to the Generals who understood it, it meant everything. So the world may read the revelation of the Word, but only God's disciple can go down deep and understand what the spirit of God has revealed.

Again it is good news to the disciples that all things work together for good to those that love God. This the world cannot comprehend. It requires the power of the spirit, and is just the revelation needed. Becoming a christian does not exempt one from the cares and sorrows of the world. If it did men would become christians in order to obtain this exemption. The true motive for becoming a christian is love to God because of His goodness to us. We glory in tribulation because all things work together for good. God knows what is best for us, and no good thing will He withold from them who walk uprightly.

It is good news to God's saints that we have an Intercessor pleading for us. Sometimes doubts come over the minds of christians. But out of all this cloud of darkness come the words, "Fear not; for He is able to save to the uttermost, seeing that He ever liveth to make intercession for us." We can commit all to His keeping. There should be no doubt. It is dishonoring God to allow this.

Again, it is good news to remember the promise of our Lord's second coming in glorious majesty. This is nothing to the world but everything to the disciple. When He will come we know not; we wait and watch and wonder till Jesus comes. But come He will. There is to be a final winding up of all things here below; Satan will desecrate nations no more; all wrongs will be righted. This is good news to the soul of every believer.

Finally, there is good news from this country to that; from earth to heaven. Jacob saw a ladder mounted to heaven, and angels going and coming. The Church militant and church triumphant are one great family. It is good news to heaven when a sinner is saved. Heaven knows such a place as the earth. Some of its members have visited it; they have been sent down as messengers. Christ has been here. When one has repented it is transmitted as good news to heaven. It is good news, also, when heaven sees that God's people are honoring him and living in harmony and unity. It is good news when the angels have brought home another spirit. It is a loss here but a gain to heaven.

STREET GOSSIP,
AS GLEANED BY
Mulcahy
NOTES

I notice that our police like to attend a show, which is all right. But I would like to suggest that they would earn their admission and also the blessings of the patrons if they would clear out the gang of hoodlums who "roost" on the curb stone near the entrance and spit tobacco juice on the side walks and pollute the air with their vile language and profanity.

Another dirty trick of the lawyer(?) I was speaking about a short time ago was to try and get a man with whom he had had some trouble into a scrape. The man kept a little store and being fond of a cigar kept a box on hand for his own use. This fellow asked him for one, one day, and threw down five cents on the counter to pay for it, which was refused, but as he insisted on paying for it the store keeper put the money in his pocket. A short time after, the officials were notified that he was selling tobacco without a license. When the matter was explained they refused to prosecute.

I fear the young man who did the lithographing for "Little Corinne" show was a joker. At least there is a laugh going the rounds, about the three sheet lithograph of Jennie Kimball in the Bank building with the startling announcement "to let" in front of it.

I do not approve of "gags" on local parties by traveling shows, but the one by the Little Corinne Company was so good and so well appreciated by the large audience, I must give it to your readers. "Who owns the town?" asked the Professor. "Charlie Hills of the Salem News" came the quick reply while the audience roared. The fellow who coached the actor knew Charles' weakness and had sized him up well.

Last summer a young man from this town went on a vacation and borrowed a bicycle shirt from a friend, and as he did not return to town, the owner of the shirt wrote for his property, which was sent him with express charges amounting to thirty cents. Some folks are ungrateful.

I read in the paper the other day of two New England pastors who exchanged pulpits, and one delivered a sermon which the congregation within a month had heard from the other. This reminded me that the sexton of one of our churches picked up the manuscript of a minister who was exchanging with the pastor a short time ago, and on the fly leaf was written in pencil, "Preached this sermon at such and such a place on such a date," giving a dozen or fifteen different places where the same sermon had been preached.

* * *

Ventilation in church is a good thing, but in our judgment the particular time of holding service is not the time to do it. Last Sabbath, at the Unitarian Church, both doors in the front of the church, all the doors leading to the rear entry, as well as the outside doors, were open, making a clear current of air directly up and down the aisles. The saint or sinner who could stand this is proof against all the severities of this or any other climate.

Marriages.

In Salem, Aug. 11, by Rev. Mr. Ray, Mr. George H. Creso to Miss Carrie F. Richardson, all of Salem; 31st, by Rev. Mr. Ray, Mr Edward N. Reed to Miss Ella F. Higgins; Sept. 5, by Rev. Mr. Ray, Mr. Charles L. Creso to Miss Julia A. Ramsdell.

In Newton, Sept. 13, by Rev. T. F. Boyle, Mr. Michael Sherry of Peabody, to Miss Maggie Byrne of Newton.

Deaths.

In Peabody, Sept. 6, Mr. P. W. Duffy, 39 yrs.

9th, Patrick Geary, 14 yrs. 4 mos,

10th, Mrs. Catherine McCarthy, 48 yrs. 4 mos.

In Danvers, Sept. 12, Mrs. Laura A., wife of Mr. Fred C. Brown, 36 yrs. 1 mo. 9 days.

In Salem, Sept. 9, Mr. Charles E. Tirrell 32 yrs. 5 mos. 22 days; 11th, Alfred M., son of the late Alfred M. and Mary C. Farley, 40 yrs.

CATARRH.

BY A. P. LIGHTHILL, M. D.

The earliest symptoms of Catarrh is a discharge from the head, consisting sometimes of a clear acid fluid, but oftener of a thick, fœtid, purulent yellow or greenish matter which is usually secreted in excessive abundance, and discharged through the nostrils for throat, and frequently by both channel.

The nature of this discharge varies in different cases, and even in the same individual at different times. In some it is copious, and of a loose or fluid character, while in others it is very viscid or gummy, adhering to the diseased membrane with glue-like tenacity; often this offensive matter concretes in dry, hard masses of crusts, which obstruct breathing and are very difficult to detach, their dislodgment requiring most violent efforts. Sometimes these incrustations come away in lumps of a deep green tint, but occasionally in broad and flat casts of a notable size, on which traces of blood may at times be observed. This condition is very liable to run to serious ulceration, involving a loss of the bony structure of the nose and a subsequent flattening of that organ, and is invariably accompanied by a breath of exceedingly fœtid and sickening odor. In some cases it becomes so revoltingly offensive as to render the sufferer an object of disgust to himself as well as to others.

The nasal membrane is thickened and congested, causing the nose to be stopped up, sometimes on one side, sometimes on the other, and often on both, giving rise to a disagreeable, stuffy sensation in the head, and occasionally to violent paroxysms of sneezing.

A feeling of fullness, heat, irritation, soreness or pain is generally experienced in the nostrils, near the root of the nose, as well as in the upper part of the throat, above and below the soft palate. A distressing sensation of heavy weight or compression is usually complained of over the forehead, especially in the region immediately above and between the eyes. Sometimes the pain is obstinately fixed in one particular part, as in the temples, on top of the head, at the back of the neck, or behind the orbits; and occasionally it manifests itself in the face, of so severe a character that it is frequently mistaken for neuralgia.

The voice is generally affected, and becomes hoarse, weak and uneven, assuming a nasal character, or an unpleasant sniffling quality. Cough of variable severity is not unfrequently one of the symptoms and results of Catarrh.

The sense of smell is generally blunted or entirely lost, and a similar effect on taste may be occasionally observed. The eyes are apt to become irritable, and disposed to water excessively on exposure to the cold or wind, and a sense of weariness of sight is usually experienced after slight exertions. Hearing becomes frequently more or less impaired, and noises in the head very often add materially to the existing distress.

The stomach generally suffers more or less, and becomes weak and irritable; the appetite is capricious, and nearly always bad in the morning.

The patient often complains of lassitude and fatigue, an incapacity for either physical for mental exertions, and a constant disposition to drowsiness and sleep. The mental faculties are also sometimes slightly affected, loss of memory being not unfrequently experienced.

Catarrh may prove fatal, either by debilitating the system and wearing out the patient, or by travelling downward and producing consumption. This fact has been so repeatedly noticed that all experienced practitioners now look upon Catarrh as one of the earliest manifestations of this dreaded complaint. Among educated physicians in this or any other country, Dr. Lighthill was the first to devote his study and investigation to the cure of Catarrh and kindred diseases, and the happy results which attended his labor have been attested to by many of the most prominent citizens of Boston and vicinity. Cases abandoned as hopeless by other physicians have promptly yielded to his painless and effective treatment.

ASTHMA

For years Dr. Lighthill has made this distressing disease his special study, investigating carefully the causes that produce it; his labor was fully rewarded, for he not only established its true pathological condition, but also discovered a new and correct system of treatment for its cure. Hundreds of cases who have been under his care have found permanent relief from this wonderful discovery, from the beginning of this treatment prompt benefit is experienced which is ultimately followed by a complete and radical cure.

An experience of 30 years of constant practice enables Dr. Lighthill to decide on the first examination as to the cureability of any disease within specialty, and no case will be accepted for treatment unless the chances are for favorable results. His specialty comprises the cure of and affections of the Nervous system from whatever cause.

CATARRH, THROAT AFFECTIONS ASTHMA, CONSUMPTION, DEAFNESS DISCHARGE FROM THE EAR, DISEASES OF THE EYE, BLOOD, SKIN, LIVER AND KIDNEY

DR. LIGHTHILL,

Can be consulted

Every Thursday afternoon and evening,

From 2 until 8.30 P. M.

AT THE

Essex House, Salem,

And every forenoon from 8 until 12, at his office.

OF 115 BOYLSTON ST., BOSTON.

CONSULTATION FREE.

EDW. C. ALMY & CO.

Prepare for School!

GREAT BARGAINS IN BOYS' CLOTHING.

We are ready to Name Prices and describe styles on our Fall Stock of Boys' Clothing, by far the largest and best selected assortment in the city. At our

OPENING SALE

We shall offer some of the greatest values ever known. We propose to meet competition at every point this season, and guarantee our prices the lowest or money refunded.

A BIG DRIVE!

Five Hundred Boys' Short Pant Suits, Norfolk or Plain Blouse, in Dark and Medium Plaids and Mixtures, all strongly made from durable fabrics,

$2, 2.50, 3, 3.50 and 4.00.

A BARGAIN WITHOUT PRECEDENT

We have taken a large number of our most desirable styles of All Wool Short Pant Suits, for Boys from 4 to 15 years of age, including all the choicest Plaids, Checks and Mixtures, made with Plain, Plaited, or Norfolk Blouse, and marked them at the uniform price.

FIVE DOLLARS

In this lot there is not a Suit that does not cost our neighbors six dollars.

BOYS' SUITS.

With Long Pants, for lads from 13 to 17 years of Age,

We unhesitatingly claim pre-eminence in style and perfection in fit for our Suits in these sizes, Our assortment embracing the most desirable patterns in Imported and American fabrics, made in a superior manner and in the latest Metropolitan shapes. All grades are represented and prices are

$4, 5, 6, 7, 7.50, 8, 9, 10 to 15.

BOYS' TROUSERS.

Both long and short, in great variety of patterns. 50c, 75c, $1.00, 1.50, 2.00 to 4.00.

A Full Assortment of Shirt Waists & Blouses.

The Best Styles. The Largest Stock. The Lowest Prices.

EDW. C. ALMY & CO.

163, 165 & 167 ESSEX ST., SALEM.

162 Westminster St., Providence.

Washington, cor. Essex Street, Boston.

W. C. ROBINSON

(Successor to Smith & Robinson.)

Dealer in all kinds of

STATIONERY AND ARTISTS' MATERIALS.

Pictures and Picture Frames.

Everything to be found in a first class establishment.

Everything in our line at Bottom Prices.

The people of Peabody are cordially invited to look at our stock, and see our display of paintings and art work.

We are agents for the celebrated

ROGERS' GROUPS.

☞ Horse cars pass the door.

W. C. Robinson,

42 MARKET STREET, LYNN, MASS.

On Track—Old Eastern Hay,

ONE Car prime Old Eastern Hay.

CHAS. A. ROPES & SON.
41 to 47 Central street.

Read what the Naumkeag Clothing Co. say in their adv. on the first page.

AVOID

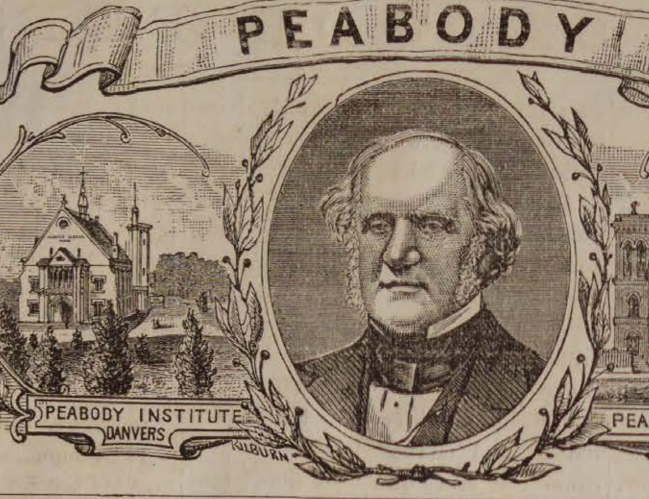
The Cholera by using Carbolate of Lime.

For cleansing out-houses, cesspools, sink-drains, stables, etc. For sale in 10, 25 and 50 lbs. bags, and by the barrel.

E. S. THAYER,
165 Derby Street.
C. H. ESTES, Agent for Peabody.

PEABODY

The Press.



VOL. 26. PEABODY, MASS. WEDNESDAY EVENING SEPTEMBER 23, 1885. 38 NO. ~~40~~

A COMPLETE REVOLUTION IN THE CLOTHING TRADE!

WILMOT

Paralyzes his high-priced competitors, with his wonderful sale of Winter Overcoats, Suits and Pantaloons, carried over from last season. We shall continue this sale for a short time. Don't delay, but come at once and get some of our wonderful bargains. Strike while the iron is hot.

Here are a few of our Bargains.

GENTLEMEN'S

Winter Overcoats,

At prices varying from $2 to 20. Reduced from $3 to 10; according to quality.

GENTLEMEN'S

Winter Suits,

At prices varying from $4.75 to 15. Reduced from $4 to 7; according to quality.

Gent's Winter Pantaloons,

At price varying from 99c to $3.50. Reduced from 75c to $2.50; according to quality.

GENTLEMEN'S

Winter Underwear,

A big stock to be sold at Wholesale Prices, ranging from 25c. to $3 each.

150 Dozen Puff Ties,

New Fall Styles, 25c. each; Regular Price 50c,

Men's and Boy's Hats,

All the New Styles, in prices ranging from 50c. to $2.50.

BOYS'

Winter Overcoats,

At Prices varying from $3 to 8. Reduced from $2 to 5; according to quality.

BOYS'

Winter Suits,

At prices ranging from $2.50 to 7. Reduced from $2.50 to 5; according to quality.

Boys' Short Winter Pants,

50c. to $1.

Ladies' and Gents'

BOOTS AND SHOES,

Special inducement in this department.

Ladies' Elegant American Kid

Button Boot, $1.

A great variety of other grades and styles at $1, 1.25, 1.50, 1.75, 2 to 4.

Men's Imitation Hand Sewed Shoe,

Button, Lace or Congress, $1.75. Hundreds of others at 87 1-2, 99c, $1.20, 1.45, 1.74, 2, 2.45 to 5.

Children's School Shoes, 65 cents,

A big assortment of Misses', Boys' and Children's Shoes for 50, 65, 75, 95c, $1, 1.25, 1.50 to 2.50.

WILMOT'S CLOTHING STORE,

252 & 254 ESSEX STREET, SALEM, MASS

J. FRANK BOYNTON, Manager.

LOCAL CONDENSATIONS.

Little cooler!

Send us two dollars!

No political speeches yet!

This is the harvest moon!

Autumn began yesterday!

Good bye ice cream season!

Look out for shooting stars!

Furnace fires begin to burn!

Trade is beginning to pick up!

The grapes don't ripen very fast!

The great and only Jumbo is dead!

Cattle show at Newburyport to-day!

Our farmers are still cutting pickles!

The foliage on the maples look finely!

Tenement to let on Oak street. See adv.

The leaves have begun to lose their grip.

Have you got an exhibit at the cattle show?

Mrs. Sally Pickering is visiting at Brookfield.

The 8th regiment parade in Salem to-morrow.

Lots of valuable reading on our inside pages.

Delightful weather for church goers last Sunday.

The surprise party season opened early this year.

Peabody has had quite a boom in the pavement line.

A case of scarlet fever is reported on Caller street.

Mr. R. E. Gibson and wife are visiting in Maine.

The black straw hats of the firemen are over-ripe.

Democratic caucus at town hall, Friday evening.

The last rose of summer now bloometh into autumn.

Mrs. Sarah Mudgett, of Worcester, is visiting in town.

Mr. Walter Baker, of Metheun, was in town Friday.

Some promising horse flesh is being driven about town.

Kate Claxton in Called Back, at Mechanic Hall to-night.

Send your job work to this office and have it neatly done.

Young squirrels are good eating now but hard to get.

The luminous sunsets have again put in an appearance.

Not quite so much talk about yacht races as there was.

Mr. Thomas Swanton is on a visit from Minneapolis, Minn.

The county commissioners were in town last week.

Mr. B. D. Blaisdell is rusticating at Lake Village, N. H.

Read what the registrars have to say in another column.

Mrs. Jacob Osborn started for the Rangeley Lakes last week.

Only a few more flavors of syrup left in the soda fountain.

Now is the time to plant fall advertising to reap a full benefit.

Geo. H. Little will pipe W. H. Brown's new glue factory.

Rev. J. W. Hudson preached at the East Church, Salem, last Sunday.

No one seemed anxious to go to the state conventions this year.

As the corn ripens the nights grow older. Nature is considerate.

It was forty-two years ago yesterday since the big fire in this town.

Mr. Isaac Dennison has gone on a fishing trip to Moosehead Lake.

Next week the roller skate will resume its merry hum at the rink.

Vaccination should be done free and paid for by the Board of Health.

Partial eclipse of the moon tomorrow morning, from 1.15 to 4.22 o'clock.

Mr. Calvin Pierce has the contract for building Baldwin's new stable.

Mr. Roger Gill is building an addition to his factory on Foster street.

The Board of Registrars added fifteen names to the voting lists last evening.

Miss May Lizzie Smith has returned to her school at Washington, D. C.

The Peabody bicycle club will open the skating rink to-morrow evening.

Never did the lawns look greener and fresher at this season of the year.

The rubber sling has again become a nuisance in the hands of the small boy.

Read what the Naumkeag Clothing Co. say in their adv. on the first page.

Oh, for a thousand tongues to tell of the elegant goods at John P. Peabody's.

Good housekeepers are looking their coal-bins over and putting up their stoves.

There is at our Alms House a baby whose mother is white and father is black.

Dole & Osgood have made a set of grappling irons for the police department.

Mr. James Cook and wife, have been to Sandwich, N. H. during the past week.

Peter Sim & Sons will settle with their creditors by paying fifty-five cents on a dollar.

If our population continues to grow we shall need a new primary school each year.

It is evident that the women of this town don't care about voting for school committee.

Mr. Daniel Putnam living on Prospect street, lost a horse by colic last Friday night.

Rev. Mr. Butler, of Beverly, perached at the Unitarian Church last Sunday afternoon.

Mr. Frank H. Stevens has gone to Bethel, Me., where he will spend a week or two.

A French Missionary from China delivered a sermon at St. John's church last Sunday.

The weather that we have been experiencing of late is death on the frisky house flies.

Howley & Brennan have the latest and nobbiest styles in pantaloon goods at all prices.

Wheel your baby in one of those elegant baby carriages to be found at W. C. Packard's.

Mr. Thomas F. Murray has sold the schooner yacht Excelsior to Stephen Power of Salem.

Chas. D. Howard has been elected a delegate to the Republican State Convention from Natick.

Mr. John Dempsey is working in the Wakefield skating rink and will play with the polo team.

Sportsmen find gray squirrels scarce and partridges plenty. Several foxes have been observed recently.

One poor woman exchanged four bushels of peas for a dollar's worth of sugar the other day.

We don't want any Coates (or ulsters for that matter), for County Commissioners this year.

Brianza Cigars—the best ten cent cigars in the world,—ten cents straight at George Stevens'. *

The Warren National Bank have declared a dividend of three per. cent. payable Oct. 1, 1885.

About sixteen hundred passengers were carried on the Peabody branch of the Lynn road last Sunday.

A break in the new water pipe near Pike & Whipple's was repaired last Thursday by D. B. Lord.

Large quantities of potatoes are coming in and there is no chance for higher prices this season.

The kids will get themselves disliked if they don't stop throwing stones into the horse chesnut trees.

A large number from this town have attended the excursions to New Hampshire during the past week.

Charles A. Weare, Esq., and wife, and Mr. W. C. Munroe will attend the Maine state fair this week.

One of our farmers has agreed to ship 300 barrels of apples to the Boston market for $1.25 a barrel.

Mr. Arthur K. Brown has changed his address from Chicago to Evanston Ill. It is a suburb of Chicago.

The popular demand is for five cent cigars, and the best in town can be found at Collins' cigar store.

Our young ladies have commenced thus early to do their knitting and crocheting for Christmas presents.

The Great Heywood's Mastodons and Picturesque Uncle Tom's Cabin Company want a date at town hall.

Emerson says: "you send your child to the school master, but 'tis the school boys who educate him."

A gentleman named Morrill from Lynn has leased the cottage of Capt. W. F. Wiley on Kosciusko street.

We are glad to know that Mr. David B. Loud has so far recovered from his lameness as to use his foot a little.

Remember you can get a good assortment of durable school shoes for children, at F. W. Lucas & Co's., Salem.

Mr. B. D. Hill will furnish the floral decorations for the opening of W. G. Webber & Co's new store to-morrow.

The long hair pin which the ladies have been in the habit of jabbing into their back hair, is going out of fashion.

The Montauks were victorious in a game of base ball with the Mascots of Danvers last Saturday. Score 5 to 2.

"Our Boy" says he wished he could make arrangements whereby his summer girl could be with him all the year round.

An old silver coin dated 1737 was found by the workmen while relaying the covers to the brook under Main street.

"It seems in our New England clime
Each season has its ills;
We're drawing very near the time
When icemen send their bills"

Will some Democrat arise and tell an anxious country what the Democratic administration has done for the wage-worker?

It is the opinion of everybody that the weather signal flags should be displayed from the staff on the town house.

The weather of an evening, still impresses one that he ought to get his great coat in repair, ready for business.

Best line of Five Cent Cigars in town—Nothing like it, Principee. Clark's Best Five, and a dozen others at Geo. Stevens'. * *

Miss Ida Louise Copp, of Wolfboro, N. H., is spending the present month with her uncle, J. L. Colcord, of West Peabody.

Patrick Garvey father of the Garvey boys, died at his home on Midway street last Wednesday. He was over 80 years of age.

Emerald Court C. O. F. visited Lafayette Court of Lynn last Wednesday evening and a pleasant evening was spent.

This week the Danvers Mirror will be sixteen years old. It is a good paper and we trust will live "steen" years longer.

This is the season when the man of the house, begins to inquire of his better half, where his thick underflannels are.

Our dealers commenced handling fresh oysters as soon as the season opened, and are already buying them in the shell.

The Parsonage society of the Baptist church will meet in the Ladies' parlor to-morrow afternoon to sew for the coming fair.

Smoking cubeb cigars will relieve catarrh or a cold in the head. Draw the smoke into the mouth and emit it through the nose.

It is probable that Mr. Arthur W. Littlefield will be tendered the position of Superintendent of the Unitarian Sunday school.

Mr. J. M. Ward has a new adv. in this issue, and those who want house plants or a fernery filled should call on him.

It is expected that two and a half millions of silver dollars will be put into circulation this month. They haven't reached here yet.

What are our gunners doing? The Ipswich Chronicle says Lewis Stone killed thirty-one plovers at the Neck last Thursday.

E. S. Trask of Beverly has taken the carriage painting establishment at the carriage shop of E. D. Cook on Central street.

Mr. Samuel Trask is closing out his line of hardware and cutlery, at prices that cause customers to wonder at his generosity. Call and see.

The Salem and Danvers street railway will sell coupon tickets good from Salem to Lynn for fifteen cents.

We are enjoying warmer weather this week, and it will gladden the farmer's heart to see his corn fill out and winter vegetables ripen off.

The members of the Baptist Church and neighbors, held a prayer meeting at the home of Luther French, on Lynn street, last evening.

The 1885 census returns give Salem a population of 28,084—a gain of 521 in five years. Peabody will probably gain as many as Salem.

EXTRAORDINARY SALE

38

—OF—

Winter Overcoats.

565 WINTER OVERCOATS

COMPRISING

MEN'S, YOUTHS', BOYS' AND CHILDREN'S,

Carried over from last season, which we shall sell at

A GREAT SACRIFICE!

We guarantee each and every garment to be clean, perfect goods, just as stylish in cut, make and trimmings as any garments made this season. Our object in offering this great bargain sale of Overcoats so early in the season is that we need the counter room for our new goods which are now ready to be shipped from our Manufactory.

REMEMBER.

We mean just what we say: 565 Overcoats carried over from last season; all clean, perfect goods to be closed out in the next 15 days at a great Sacrifice. Buyers of Clothing now is your time to secure a Bargain.

We are selling Men's Fine, Heavy Overcoats for $10, 12 and 13.50. Men's Elegant Overcoats for $15, 16 and 18. Men's Heavy, all-wool Overcoats for $5, 6 and 8. Laboring Men's Heavy Overcoats for $2, 3 and 4. Men's Heavy Reefing Jackets, $3, 4, 5, 6 and 8. Boys' Fine, Heavy Overcoats for $6, 7 and 8, ages 12 to 17 years. Boys' Heavy, all-wool Overcoats, ages 12 to 17, for $4.50 and 5.00. B'soy Heavy Overcoats for $2, 3 and 4.00, ages 12 to 17 years. Children's Fine, Heavy Overcoats for $5, 6 and 7, ages 5 to 12 years. Children's all-wool, Heavy Overcoats for $3 and 4, ages 5 to 12 years Children's Heavy Overcoats for $1, 1.50, 2 and 2.50, ages 4 to 12 years.

This is a Bargain Sale.—If you think of Buying an Overcoat this Winter, Buy it now, and save 30 to 40 per cent.

Naumkeag Clothing Company,

177 & 179 ESSEX STREET, SALEM.

Z. A. GALLUP, Manager.

Mr. Charles P. Elligott caught a boy stealing from him at his store on Main street, last Wednesday, and turned him over to officer Johnson.

Mr. W. P. Wilkinson has been acting as superintendent of the frying pan and kettle, with a party of gentlemen at Grape Island during the week.

Commencing the first Sunday in October, the services at the Baptist Church will be held in the afternoon, instead of morning as at present.

Hallowell & Smiley have been selling sweet potatoes at the rate of twelve pounds for a quarter. Other dealers sold eight for the same money.

Mrs. Campbell of Lynnfield entertained a party of friends last Thursday which included a number from this town. A pleasant day was spent.

The horse of Carlton, the Danvers expressman fell while crossing the railroad track on the Square, last Saturday and broke the shaft and cut the animal.

The recent rains have made an abundance of fall pasture, and the bareness of grazing fields will not afford an excuse for raising the price of butter.

Dame rumor has it that one of our enterprising farmers "up in the lane" will be married next month, taking for a bride an accomplished Boston lady.

The Vaughn Morocco Machine Company have received orders for four new improved machines this week. Two for Philadelphia and two for Lynn.

The whooping cough is making its appearance in some parts of the town thus early. Why not quarantine the houses as in other contagious diseases?

Rev. F. W. Sprague of the Universalist church will exchange next Sunday with Rev. W. S. Williams, the new pastor of the Universalist church at Danvers.

All the best brands of B. P. Clark & Co's. cigars are for sale by Geo. Stevens. He is sole agent for this vicinity. Buy them and you will smoke no others. *

Rev. O. F. Safford, of Cambridgeport, formerly pastor of the Universalist Church in this town, has resigned his pastorate.

It is understood that the annual spring conference to which the Methodist churches of this vicinity are attached, will be held in Newburyport in 1886.

One of Thomas' box wagons struck a telephone wire on Foster street, last evening, breaking the wire, and cutting of the connection with John Linehan's telephone.

We notice that the Salem & Danvers R. R. management have honored Peabody by giving two of their new cars the names of George Peabody and Thomas Read.

The Universalist Mass. State Convention will meet in Charlestown, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday. The parish here is represented by the pastor and delegates.

Daniel B. Lord has just set a new hydrant on Grove street, about twenty feet from the corner of Main street, and the old one on the corner was taken out.

A course of ten free lessons will be given the coming winter at the Teachers' School of Science of the Boston Society of Natural History, in Huntington Hall, Boston.

Mr. J. L. Colcord left town Monday for the Maine State Fair at Lewiston, Me., where he will exhibit his machinery and take orders for the best wind mill in the country.

Residents of Lowell street have been deprived of the horse cars this week owing to the delay at Poole's Hollow. They missed the cars more than they hought they would.

One of Joseph H. Poor's horses, while standing over a vat of hot liquor at his tannery, last Friday, moved away a plank that covered it, letting one leg in and severely scalding it,

Mr. S. S. Littlefield and C. C. Hills will take a trip through the west leaving town next week to be gone a month or more. They will visit Mr. Edward Francis before their return.

A very pretty fashion prevails for young girls, that of wearing bright ribbons about the neck tied in long bows and ends. Also wide illusion lace tied on one side in large fluffy bows.

Miss Maud Newton and sister Miss Carrie are on a visit to this town from Ohio, to get acquainted with several relatives and view the place their father trod in the days of Auld Lang Syne. They will probably spend the winter here.

The boiler of the Centre School has been inspected and found to be all right.

S. S. Bruce will spend his vacation at Augusta, Me.

The shipments of leather from Peabody and Salem for the week ending Sept. 19, were 5259 rolls, 264 sides, 137 bundles, 13 barrels, 4 cases of leather; 88 rolls, 4 casks, 3 bundles and 1 bale of skins.

Miss Minna B. Noyes, formerly a teacher in our High School, spent Sunday in town and visited the High School on Monday. She will probably accept a position in the Boston High School.

It would be very gratifying to the polo loving public if the directors of Massachusetts leagues would decide to commence all league games at 8.30 o'clock instead of nine o'clock as heretofore.

We learn that a young man of this town, in company with a member of a large Boston house, have offered to hire the store in the Warren Bank Building and will engage in the furniture business.

The new quick letter delivery service will afford a most convenient method for sending of messages. You won't have to hunt for a boy, but just drop it in the post office, and it will be sent right off.

Mr. C. F. Worthen, formerly of this town, must be in the hen business. The Amesbury News says he killed five chickens that weighed, dressed, twenty-four pounds and were only four and one half months old.

Remember the third grand assembly of the D. B. Associates, will be held at town hall to-morrow evening. A large number of tickets have been disposed of and a good time is assured. Music by the Cadet Orchestra.

A couple of stray horses were picked up by the police yesterday forenoon after they had made neighborly calls on most of the people living in the vicinity of the town house. They were the property of William Perkins.

"I was never exactly buried," said an old clerk recounting his experience, "but I once worked in a store that did not advertise. When I came out my hair was almost as white as you see it. Solitary confinement did it."

Poet's Corner.

Growing Old.

ELLA C. G. PAGE.

The fairest lilies droop at eventide,
The sweetest roses fall from off the stem;
The rarest things on earth cannot abide,
And we are passing, too, away like them;
We're growing old.

We had our dreams—those rosy dreams of youth;
They faded, and 'twas well. This afterprime
Hath brought us fuller hopes; and yet forsooth,
We drop a tear now in this later time
To think we're old.

We smile at those poor fancies of the past—
A saddened smile, almost akin to pain;
Those high desires, those purposes so vast,
Ah, our poor hearts! they cannot come again;
We're growing old.

Old? Well, the heavens are old; this earth is, too;
Old wine is best, maturest fruit most sweet;
Much have we lost, more gained, although 'tis true
We tread life's way with most uncertain feet.
We're growing old.

We move along, and scatter, as we pace,
Soft graces, tender hopes on every hand;
At last with gray streaked hair and hollow face,
We step across the boundary of the land
Where none are old.

◆

Farewell.

CELIA THAXTER.

The crimson sunset faded into gray;
Upon the murmurous sea the twilight fell;
The last warm breath of the delicious day
Passed with a mute farewell.

Above my head in the soft purple sky,
A wild note sounded like a shrill-voiced bell;
Three gulls met, wheeled, and parted with a cry
That seemed to say, "Farewell!"

I watched them; one sailed east, and one soared west,
And one went floating south; while, like a knell,
That mournful cry the empty sky possessed—
"Farewell, farewell, farewell!"

"Farewell!" I thought. It is the earth's one speech;
All human voices the sad chorus swell;
Though mighty Love to heaven's high gate may reach,
Yet must he say, "Farewell!"

The rolling world is girdled with the sound
Perpetually breathed from all who dwell
Upon its bosom, for no place is found
Where is not heard "Farewell!"

"Farewell, farewell,"—from wave to wave 'tis tossed,
From wind to wind; earth has one tale to tell;
All other sounds are dulled, and drowned, and lost,
In this one cry, "Farewell!"

◆

In Summer.

[Life.]

The twilight deepened into gloom,
A slender moon slipped up the sky,
And thro' the threads of swinging bloom
Peered down into the silent room,
Where we two loitered—she and I.

Lightly the breeze blew in and stirred
The red gold tangles of her hair,
And in the distant copse we heard
The cry of some belated bird,
Blown softly out upon the air.

Some spell was on us, strange and sweet,
Too strange for words, too sweet for tears,
Our trembling glances dared not meet,
For in our heart there throbbed and beat
A sudden host of hope and fears.

And so we sat, apart, alone,
With cheeks that burned we knew not why,
Nor guessed that as the hour flew on
A flash of wings had come and gone,
And Love himself had passed us by.

◆

The Light That Is Felt.

BY JOHN G. WHITTIER.

A tender child of summers three,
Seeking her little bed at night,
Paused on the dark stair timidly.
"Oh, mother! Take my hand," said she,
"And then the dark will all be light."

We older children grope our way
From dark behind to dark before;
And only when our hands we lay,
Dear Lord, in Thine, the night is day
And there is darkness nevermore.

Reach downward to the sunless days
Wherein our guides are blind as we,
And faith is small and hope delays;
Take Thou the hands of prayer we raise,
And let us feel the light of Thee.
—St. Nicholas.

◆

Hall's Hair Renewer makes the hair moist, soft, and glossy, and is unsurpassed as a hair dresser.

Selected Story.

Becky's Dark Hours.

It's no use, Becky, said the little lame cobbler, dropping his head upon his hands and looking, as he felt, the personification of despair. I've offended the Lord, somehow, and he won't let me have a chance to keep a home over your heads, I know I'm not all I ought to be, and I'm punished.

Becky went across the room and patted her husband on the back.

Now don't take on, Nick, don't, she said. That can't be, for He as knows all knows how good you are. Better times'll come. They're sure to; and you'll be rewarded for all your patience yet. The darkest hour is just before day.

The cobbler shook his head.

I've gi'n up hope, Becky, he said, what with the rent and the bill for medicine. It was like me to get sick just at the worst, and no work coming in; and the new shop with the gilt sign tempting folks from our shabby basement even for the mending of their old shoes. I'm crushed down. Why, you are as thin and white as a ghost. You haven't tasted meat this week, Becky.

No more have you, said Becky. But la, why there is folks thinks meat is unhulsome. Wegetarians, Nick, they call 'em; where I lived out once I saw one.

Did he say bread was unholsome, too? asked Nick. Oh, gal, I wish I'd left ye living out at service, rosy, bright and happy! but I meant to do better, I did. If I was an able-bodied man I'd work somehow and somewhere but it's the last or nothing with me. Becky, why didn't you take Tim. Rolf, the wheelwright, and send the little limping cobbler about his business?

I don't like Tim, said Becky, and I just knew how nice and cosy we'd be together. Never a quarrel, Nick. And how we used to go to Hoboken and have lemonade in the garden, and come home after dark an afternoon, and how we used to go to church Sunday morning in clothes as good as any one's.

Used, sighed poor Nick.

Why, it can't be all up hill, said Becky. I haven't time to go out gallivanting now, but la, I don't miss it. We're steady married folks now, you know.

Oh, Becky! said the cobbler, you try to keep up heart, but you know it's come to starving.

They looked at each other, and then Becky put her arms about her husband. She did not weep upon his bosom; she was so big and strong and he so small and frail that it only seemed natural to reverse matters. She hugged him up to her shoulder and covered his head over with her apron, and put her cheek down beside the bundle thus made, and smoothed and patted him as if he had been a baby. But she cried, too, and the apron was wet through in no time.

It was a bad state of things. No money, no food, no fire, and winter at its coldest; the children sent to school breakfastless for the warmth and comfort of the schoolhouse; no work to be had; the little cobbler as helpless as man could well be, except at his trade, and Becky's washing stopped, for Heaven only knew how long, by a great felon in the palm of her right hand.

But Becky loved the queer little mortal she had married so well that she stopped crying first, and picked up his hand and patted it, and kissed him between the eyes—great, frightened, light blue eyes, that seemed made for crying.

You stay home and mind the place, she said. I'm going out a while. Perhaps there'll be a bit of luck—who knows.

She put on her bonnet and shawl—such a thin little shawl, which had been used for an ironing cloth, and had an iron-shaped scorch between the shoulders—and took up a basket.

The cobbler looked at her.

Becky! he said, hoarsely; Becky!

She knew just what he meant.

The little children, Nick, she said; we could starve—but them poor little critters, Nick, it won't seem like begging when it's for them.

Then the door shut behind her, and poor Nick limped after her, then paused and flung himself down upon the floor, wishing he were under the ground beneath it.

God forgive the man that marries a woman to starve her, he sobbed. Why, if I'd known it would have come to this I'd never have courted her. It's time I was dead.

Perhaps, being a strange, impulsive little fellow, there might have been a tragic end to this scene but that the children came in from school and began to cry, partly at the sight of their prostrate father, partly because of hunger, and Nick forgot himself to do what he could for them.

He had no dinner, but he had a great deal of love to give them, and some pieces of red kid. Only the youngest chewed the kid. And the fact that "mother" and the basket were gone together impressed them with the hope of provisions.

Meanwhile, Becky had gone a-begging. It would be horrible, no doubt, she thought, to take from strangers; but she found there was one thing even more terrible—not to take it.

Door after door was slammed in her face. Once a dog was set at her, or she thought so. Professional beggars had made themselves nuisances to many people, and how were they to know real poverty when it asked alms? Men whom they pitied as paupers proved to be owners of real estate. Cripples and blind men whom they had aided were found to have bound up strong limbs and glued their eyes together—so they were hard upon real distress and refused it broken bread.

At six that evening Becky stood at a street corner with one crust in her basket—no more.

Beyond lay a pawnbroker's shop, and Becky looked at its golden balls and at her wedding ring. She had worn it fifteen years, and it was thin and frail, but pure gold. Through all she had kept it until now. Must it go? The thought was worse than begging.

Becky took a step forward, another back. Then she began to cry a little. Nick's ring that he put on her hand so long ago—oh dear, oh dear!

But she grew brave again, and walked into the shop and pawned the ring. It was not much that they gave her for it, but it would buy supper and perhaps she could get it back. That was a very faint "perhaps," however.

A woman was in the pawnshop as she waited, bargaining with the proprietor over a suit of little girl's clothing—costly things, strangely out of place in her hands. Becky noticed this, saying to herself they were never fairly come by. But she had forgotten all about it when coming out of the baker's a little voice fell on her ear, and looking down, she saw a barefoot child of four, in wretched rags, sobbing piteously.

Becky was soft of heart; but in poor quarters, crying children were common enough, and her own were waiting for the loaves in her basket. She walked on hastily, and so upset the toddler. Then Becky must needs stop and pick her up.

Why don't you go home to your mother this night-time, she said and not stand here to be knocked down?

A little silver thread of a voice answered—I can't find mamma. I can't find my home. Where is mamma? Oh, mamma!

Becky knelt down. A white head of crumpled curls and a pair of blue eyes swimming in tears she could just make out.

But the child could tell nothing; it was plainly lost. Becky took it in her arms and made inquiries at the corner grocery, where she bought a slice of ham, but no one knew the child. It was growing late, too, and Becky could not leave it to its fate.

I'll take it home, said she, and to-morrow find its folks.

So, when the cobbler and his children saw the door open at last, there entered by it not only their mother and a basket, but a baby also.

A new baby came frequently to this establishment, and the children in their juvenile view of such matters, opined that they had another little sister.

It's a poor lost child, said Becky. I'm going to keep it to-night. It's parents are poorer than we are; you can see by its bare feet and only one little frock, poor thing! Now hold her, Nick, while I cook supper, I didn't beg it Nick, so don't fret.

And then, keeping her ring finger out of sight, Becky fried the ham, and made gravy, and cut the bread, and sent for two cent's worth of milk, which diluted made a quart of milk and water, and tried to be cheerful.

The lost child cried, but Becky fed it, and coaxed it to talk, then came the story of a " bu dess" and a " nassy woman."

The youngest, who had chewed the red kid, acted as interpreter. Soon it was discovered that some woman, described as " nasty," had taken away the child's blue dress and other garments, and had also beaten her.

Becky listened intently.

That dress was blue, Nick, she cried. I knew it warnt hers—a tipsy, ragged woman; and folks that own them things don't come to pawn. I—

Then she paused; the secret was out. Nick's eyes had danced to her wedding ring, and back to her face.

Oh, Becky! he cried, now. Becky, we didn't think—

Becky flushed scarlet.

I didn't mean to tell, she said; but now it's out; I'm married all the same, thank God. It was at the pawnshop I saw the blue dress, and she told them of the woman she had watched and of her suspicions.

The child has been stole you see, Nick. It's a genteel child; and if we can but find its name out, we may save some one trouble we've never had. Think of one of ours being gone all night, Nick.

The baby's name seemed to be Minnie Smith, although " M. S." might be anything else; and putting the children all to bed, all in a row, like the little orges in the fairy tales, save that they had no crowns on, Nick and his wife started off to the pawnbroker's shop. The man looked at the garments. They were marked M. S.

I'm right, then, said Becky. They are the child's and they were stole. And if we can but find its poor mother, we'll save her more than any but a mother can tell.

But think of all the Smiths, said the pawnbroker. There's thousands of 'em.

And thousands, said Becky. But these men—the police—they may know.

And out went Nick and Becky to question the guardians of the night, until at last, despairing of an answer, they were returning homeward, when a blaze of light from an open door fell over them, and they saw on the steps a weeping woman and a tall, handsome man.

Hush! we will find her if she is alive, said the man.

My precious child! cried the woman.

Then Nick and Becky gave a sort of little cheer in unison.

It's them, said Becky; them, certain sure. Oh, mum, if your name is Smith, and you've lost a little girl, we've found her.

And then the cobbler and his wife were pounced upon and the story told.

In half an hour the six poor little orges without crowns were aroused from their slumbers by an arrival, and the odd baby in their midst was taken out to their distress and consternation, for they counted on keeping her.

And Nick and Becky forgot their own troubles in the parent's joy. And Nick said it was like poetry, and Becky said it was like a play.

And so it was, one with a happy ending, for what should the lady do but beg and pray Becky to tell her what she should like best, and Becky confessed to have her wedding ring back was the hope of her life; and this led to the cause of its pawning and all the story of poverty and sorrow. Then the dark hours ended and day broke; and there was food in the house and fire; and as it happened that baby Minnie's father needed just such an honest man for such work as poor Nick could do, he gave the place to the cobbler; and from that day there was enough and to spare in the little home, because of the simple kindness shown to baby Minnie.

So it's never time thrown away to do a kindness to any one, says Becky often, for somehow you are always rewarded for it. If I'd left the little lost beggar's child, as I thought it, in the street, and never stopped to care for it—as I might have done in such trouble—where would Nick have been, and the children, and me this night? Not that I did anything but what a Christain ought, but see how we paid for it.

◆

MOROCCO JOURNEYMEN'S PRICES.—The Committee of Morocco Journeymen of the Knights of Labor in Lynn have agreed upon the following list for work. It has been adopted by many manufacturers.

MOROCCO WORKER'S PRICE LIST.
K. OF L. OF D. A. 77, Lynn, Mass.
To Govern the Morocco Trade Until Jan. 1, 1887.

APPRENTICES.

There will be one apprentice to every shop and one for every seven journeymen employed on an average throughout the year. In small shops, where less than seven journeymen are employed, an apprentice will be allowed for the majority fraction of seven.

PRICE LIST FOR BRUSH KID, HAND GLAZE.

Kid and Brush Glaze.

All skins, under 36 feet	per doz. $1.00
" " 36 and under 54	1.25
" " 54 " " 72	1.50
" " 72 " " 96	1.75
" " 96 and over	2.00

Brush Kid Sheep.

All skins not put out under Putting Out Machine, per. doz.	$1.30
All do., taken from machine	1.17 1-2
Finished after being put out	82 1-2

Where skins are softened with slicker 15 cts. extra.

INDIA GOAT, BRUSH KID.

Brush Kid, white	per. doz. $1.50
" colored	1.50
Finished after being put out	1.00

Journeymen to get skins as they run

PEBBLE GOAT AND SHEEP.

All skins under 96 feet, after being put out,	per. doz. 1.00
96 feet and over	1.25

50 cents extra for putting out

GLAZED KID.

The same as brush kid, with 25 cts. off for glazing
Hand glazed brush kid 25 cents extra.

WEEK WORK FOR FIRST CLASS FINISHERS.

For finishing brush kid, glazed kid, brush goat and pebbles	$13.00
Putting out blacks	12.00
For finishing imitation French kid	12.00
" " brush sheep	13.00
Putting out imitation French and brush sheep	12.00

IMITATION FRENCH, PIECE WORK.

All skins under 60 feet	per. doz. $1.00
" 60 feet and over	1.25

SHAVING.

All skins under 72 feet	per doz. 20c.
" 72 feet and over	26c.
Backing sheep and lamb skins	12 1-2c.
Wide backing	15c.
Where machines are used, all skins	25c

No deduction for wetting down

Beamsters and tanners, $11.50 per week.

No apprentices to be employed unless competent and satisfactory journeymen cannot be found, the employers to be the judge in each case.

◆

The recent report of the Grand Lodge of Mass. shows Odd Fellowship to be very strong in Essex County. The following are the names of the lodges, the number of members and what was paid out for relief during the last term:

Lodge.	Location.	Members.	Relief.
Essex,	Salem,	371	$ 915 00
Hope,	Methuen,	139	58 00
Quascacunq'n,	Newburyport,	375	1128 81
Bay State	Lynn,	710	1680 09
Agawam,	Ipswich,	110	197 50
Atlantic,	Marblehead,	393	1192 00
West Lynn,	Lynn,	208	301 14
Mutual Relief,	Haverhill,	412	523 00
Powow River,	Amesbury,	220	246 00
Ocean,	Gloucester,	389	681 00
Holten	Peabody,	173	680 00
R. W. Drown,	Lynn,	329	707 00
Wauminet,	No. Andover,	65	66 00
Fraternity,	Salem,	295	45 90
United Bros.,	Lawrence,	324	682 12
Granite,	Rockport,	203	375 00
Bass River,	Beverly,	385	934 00
Monadock,	Lawrence,	300	346 78
Protection,	Georgetown,	173	134 76
Magnolia,	Manchester,	85	67 56
Lawrence,	Lawrence,	208	246 00
Mrypah,	Haverhill,	261	547 00
Danvers,	Danvers,	137	305 00
Fountain,	Topsfield,	44	87 54
Providence,	Lynn,	404	927 22
Riverside,	Merrimac,	128	33 50
		6841	$13,513 92

◆

FIRE! FIRE! FIRE!

Wait, wait. Store will remain closed for six days to separate the damaged from the undamaged goods caused by the fire in our other store. Cut this out and wait until Thursday, Sept. 24, at 3 o'clock, when a great fire sale will commence in the large building 32 Bromfield street, between Washington and Tremont streets, Boston. Some of these goods are only slightly damaged from moving at the time of the fire, and many of them are warranted perfect. The stock consists of over $100,000 worth of fine clothing, hats and furnishing goods. As the time of this great fire sale is limited to six days everything will go rapidly. The stock will be sold at retail. Goods that are perfect will be sold 50 per cent. less than actual cost, and those that are slightly damaged at a greater sacrifice. Cut this out, wait, bring it with you, and ask for the following great bargains, which are warranted perfect, and remember this great sale will only last six days. Men's fine beaver overcoats, warranted perfect, $2.85 and guaranteed worth $15 or money returned. You can keep this coat home four days and if not worth $15 bring it back and get your $2.85. Extra fine quality silk and satin lined, and over 6000 different kinds of overcoats. A splendid suit of men's winter clothes $3.75, warranted perfect, and worth $13 or money returned. You can keep this suit home four days, and if you don't think it worth $13 we hereby bind ourselves and agree to return the $3.75. Men's elegant winter pants $1, warranted perfect and worth $4 or money returned. Over 10,000 different kinds of silk and satin lined suits, and the finest quality of suits. Men's latest style hats 31 cents, worth $1.50, men's woolen jackets 69 cents,' worth $2, fine white shirts 38 cents, worth $1, umbrellas 27 cents, worth $1.50, extra quality undershirts and drawers 45 cents each, worth $2 or money returned. Handkerchiefs, and a large lot of other goods we cannot mention here, to be sold, commencing Thnrsday, Sept. 24, at 32 Bromfield street, between Washington and Tremont streets, Boston. Remember this great fire sale commences Thursday, Sept. 24, at 3 o'clock, and will only last six days. No goods sold until Thursday, Sept. 24, at 3 o'clock. During this great fire sale store will remain open till 9 at night.

A Notable Event in Salem.

ALMY, BIGELOW & WASHBURN.

Our New Store will be opened for Public Inspection,

THURSDAY, SEPT. 24,

AT 7 P. M.

We shall be closed from 4 to 7 P. M.

We invite judgment on the immense area of our store. It is the largest in the country when compared with the number of the population.

We are also disposed to boast of the light which fills the store from the immense front of glass—from 15 skylights, and 57 large windows, the latter arranged so as to receive the Northern and Western light.

Please look at the arrangement of the store; each of the 18 Grand Departments being a distinct store.

Our ample stocks of Merchandize, of course, are the chief objects of interest. They represent every manufacturing country. The qualities are the best of their kind, and the prices are fixed with only one profit between the Manufacturer and Consumer.

The good taste of our Selections has been complimented by visitors from all sections of the country. We are always free to say that it is not so much to OUR credit as to the fact that we have for so many years been schooled in the refined taste of Salem and Essex County.

As to the future enlargements of our business we cannot now say. Our success in the past has been due, not to an ambition to " make haste to be rich" from large profits, but from a fixed purpose to make our store desirable to the public. Enlargements have always been made without hesitation, or regard to cost—when public necessity for them has appeared. There is room on this estate to double our present capacity, and we shall increase as occasion requires.

ALMY, BIGELOW & WASHBURN.

194 Essex Street, Salem.

THE
Mason & Hamlin Co.
Now have ready a new style
Upright Pianoforte,
No. 5,
Which is offered at the very moderate price, $300.

IMPROVEMENTS IN UPRIGHT PIANOS.

Improvements in the construction of upright pianos have been invented and introduced by the Mason & Hamlin Co., of Boston, New York, and Chicago, which add materially to the value of these instruments, rendering them capable of tones of extraordinary purity and beauty, and much increasing their durability; overcoming in large degree the tendency to fall from the pitch and get out of tune, which has been the most serious practical difficulty in the pianoforte.—Scientific American.

100 STYLES ORGANS, $22. to $900, for Cash, Easy Payments, or Rented.

THE MASON & HAMLIN CO.,
154 Tremont Street, Boston.
sept 23--6t

COMER'S
COMMERCIAL
COLLEGE,
666 Washington Street, BOSTON.

Thorough and Comprehensive Instruction in all Studies Essential to Success in Business.

Students may commence at any time, Receive Individual Instruction and progress according to ability and application. Separate department for Ladies. ☞Graduates Aided to Employment. Young people receive instruction here that will insure a successful start in business, and that will benefit them throughout their business career. For 45th Annual Catalogue, Address C. E. COMER.

jy 15—13t

POLO.

This popular game adapted for home amusement to play on the table.

PRICE $1.00.

For sale by all dealers. Manufactured by

HORACE A. BROOKS,
BOOK BINDER AND BLANK BOOK MANUFACTURER,
226 Essex Street, Salem, Mass.

AMERICAN RUDGE.

The only first-class wheel listed at a low price, fitted with all the latest improvements.

Price, 50 in., Enamel and Nickel, $107.50.
Call and Examine or send for Catalogue.

STODDARD, LOVERING & CO.,
152 Congress St., Boston.

HALLOWELL & SMILEY,
Canned Corn Beef
AND TONGUE
For Picnics and Family Use.

MEATS AND PROVISIONS,

will always be found the best in the market at the LOWEST CASH PRICES.

Flour, Teas, Groceries, etc., at bottom prices.

Hallowell & Smiley
16 CALLER ST., PEABODY.

LADIES!

FOR MILLINERY,
Go to Browne's.
FOR SUNSHADES,
Go to Browne's.
FOR KID GLOVES,
Go to Browne's.
FOR SILK GLOVES,
Go to Browne's.
FOR INFANTS' CAPS,
Go to Browne's.
FOR COLLARS,
Go to Browne's.

153 and 155 Essex St., Salem.

FOR LACE-GOODS,
Go to Browne's.
FOR CORSETS.
Go to Browne's.
FOR RUCHINGS,
Go to Browne's.
FOR TOILET ARTICLES,
Go to Browne's.
FOR PERFUMERY,
Go to Browne's.
FOR HAIR GOODS,
Go to Browne's.

For all the Novelties of the season be sure and go to

Mrs. J. H. Browne
153 & 155 ESSEX ST.,
SALEM.

ESTIMATES CHEERFULLY GIVEN ON ALL KINDS OF PRINTING.

Now is the time to rid the system of humors and all Blood Impurities. Ferrated Hygienic Wine is a most effective remedy. tf

TWICE A DAY

HATHAWAY'S ORIGINAL

—CREAM HOME MADE BREAD—

Hot Morning and Afternoon. Best of goods in our line comprising

Crackers, Bread, Cake and Pastry,

Also rich Bride, Angel and Wedding Cake to order. Fine ornamental work for Wedding, Birthday and Party Cake a specialty.

C. F. Hathawav,

50 LOWELL ST., PEABODY.

Our Competitors Keep Their Backs Up.

Because Our Prices are so Low,
Our Stock is so Large and
Our Patronage So Great.

WE ARE NOT TO BLAME

If an undeviating adherence to Low Prices, Fine Goods and Polite Treatment have won for us the largest trade of any retail boot and shoe store in Essex county, we shall continue to offer the same genuine inducements that have won for us the victory.

TRY THE MATCHLESS BOOT.

PRE-EMINENTLY THE BEST $2 BOOT IN THE MARKET.

Superb in style, elegant in fit and exquistte in design, they are marvels of grace and beauty and it is now within the means of every lady in Peabody to wear a most attractive boot at the

MARVELOUSLY LOW PRICE OF $2.

All horse cars from Peabody pass our Market street store and by transfer our West Lynn store, and any lady can, by trading with us, save on one pair of boots more than enough to pay for one of the most delightful rides imaginable.

WELLMAN OSBORN,

84 MARKET ST., 23 MARKET SQUARE,

LYNN, MASS.

B. A. ATKINSON & CO.,

NASSAU HALL, 827 Washington St., cor. Common Street, and 54 Shawmut Ave., cor. Pleasant Street, BOSTON, MASS.

CORNER PEARL AND MIDDLE STREETS, PORTLAND, ME.

THE LARGEST HOUSE FURNISHING STORES IN NEW ENGLAND.

102,550 square feet of floor room in the Nassau Hall Building is filled with all kinds of

USEFUL HOUSEHOLD GOODS,

which will be sold Cheap for CASH or on INSTALLMENTS.

SPECIAL ANNOUNCEMENT to the housekeepers of New England.—During the month of September we shall sell all kinds of household furnishings cheaper than ever before.

FURNITURE, CARPETS, BEDDING, STOVES, RANGES, &c.

Buy of the MANUFACTURERS and save one profit.

PARLOR FURNITURE (our own make).

Hair Cloth Parlor Suites, 7 Pieces, $35.00, $40.00, $45.00, $50.00 $60.00, $75.00, $80.00. Covered in Embossed Mohair Plush for $15 extra, 4 colors. SUITES in all grades of Mohair and Silk Plush from $50.00 to $300.00. Also Suites in Fancy Goods. We carry an enormous line of Plushes and Upholstery Goods, and any person can select their goods and have their Suites or Odd Chairs or Couches made to order, at same Prices. Continually on hand 75 to 80 different styles. Our Factory is taxed to its utmost Capacity.

CHAMBER FURNITURE.

In this department we have an Enormous Line.
Ash Chamber Suites, at $18.00, $20.00, $25.00, $30.00, $35.00 to $75.00.
Cherry Chamber Suites, at $30.00, $40.00, $50.00 to $100.00.

SOLID BLACK WALNUT CHAMBER FURNITURE.

No. 1 is a 10 Piece Marble Top Suite, nicely Moulded and Beaded, a beauty, $40.00.
No. 2 is a 10 Piece, Bevel Mirror, finely Polished, best Italian Marble Tops, and worth $65.00. Price, $50.00.
No. 3 is one of the Handsomest Suites in the market, comprising 10 pieces, large Bevel Glass, Brace Arm Chairs, large Table, and Warranted in every Particular, $60.00.
We have over 50 DIFFERENT PATTERNS, all set up on one floor to select from.

ALSO, A FULL LINE OF PINE PAINTED FURNITURE.

Mahogany Furniture.

All kinds of Odd Furniture—Odd sized Bedsteads, Cribs, Cradles, Car Beds, Cabinet Beds, Mantle Beds, Bed Lounges, Sofa Beds, Spring Beds, Feather Beds.

STOVES AND RANGES IN GREAT VARIETY.

Our stock is complete, some of the finest RANGES in America; a nice Range and Ware for $15.00, $20.00, $22.50, $25.00, $30.00 and up to $50.00.
PARLOR STOVES in great variety, from $4.00 to $40.00.

☞Special pains have been taken in this Department.

CARPETS.

The Finest Line in New England, comprising Marquetts, Velvets, Body Brussels, Tapestry Brussels, Ingrains and Oil Cloths in great variety of quality and price.

Tapestry Brussels, 60c to $1.00.	Ingrains,	25c to $1.25.
Body Brussels, 95 " 1.50.	Velvets,	95 " 1.50.

Mats and Rugs.—An enormous quantity just received, selling at cost to produce.
Window Shades, Lace Curtains, Drapery Curtains, Poles, and Cornices all set up.
Everything in our stock will be sold on the Installment Plan if desired. Square dealing is our motto. Come well recommended—we want honest people for our customers. Send for our circulars showing how we do the Installment Business. Your Obedient Servants,

B. A. ATKINSON & CO.,

NASSAU HALL, 827 Washington St., cor. Common Street, and 54 Shawmut Ave., cor. Pleasant Street, BOSTON, MASS.

CORNER PEARL AND MIDDLE STREETS, PORTLAND, ME.

STREET
GOSSIP
AS GLEANED
BY Mulcahy
NOTES

I heard a pretty good story the other day about a young fellow in this town, and will try and give it to your readers as I heard it. The youth has attempted several trades and after working a short time jumps off into something else. Among other things he set out to be a great railroad man, and visions of the mantle of Vanderbilt falling upon him haunted his midday dreams. He was engaged at the railroad station, and after working a few weeks the time came for him to put into practice what he had learned. He had overheard his superiors say that a red flag was a sign of danger and when it was displayed an engineer was bound to stop his engine at sight of it. A stranger walked into the station one day a few minutes after the train had gone and wanted to go to Danvers, and when told that there was not another passenger train till after nine o'clock he was loud in his lamentations, and expressed his mind freely to the boy, who happened to be the only one in the office at the time. This was the would-be-Vanderbilt's opportunity; he told the stranger that while there was no passenger train still he should be provided for, only allow him to attend to it. A little later there is a freight train that passes through Peabody at a rapid rate, and as the engineer approached the depot he saw a youth vigorously swinging a red flag. In an instant his hand was on the throttle valve and the shreik of the steam whistle called for "down brakes" and like a snail the long train crept slowly into the depot, while engineer, fireman and brakemen with anxious faces inquired what was the matter. This was a proud moment for the youth, and with uncovered head he approached the engineer and with a bland smile said, "I have a passenger for you. This man lost the train to Danvers and I thought he might ride with you." The engineer forgot in his wrath his early religious training, as he with many cuss words refused the stranger a ride, started his engine and gave the boy who "knew it all" some pretty wholesome advice, and I will wager a good sum that he could not be induced to stop another freight train. "I should think that engineer was mad," remarked a party who had watched the proceedings as the engineer started in to make up lost time.

I often think there is little good comes to some men who receive a pension. But again I am reminded that it is the man every time and whatever his nature is and tastes are they will crop out in these times of temporary prosperity. Take the case of the party on Berry street, who called in his relatives to celebrate the event with him last Friday night, and where such disgraceful scenes are alleged to have been enacted that officer Goodwin was obliged to stop the revelry which was continued long into the night, much to the disturbance of the neighbors. That is one case, here is another. A well known man living not half a mile from the one above, also received a pension. When he received it he was in debt, he had been unfortunate, had had a great deal of sickness. As soon as he got his money he went and paid every dollar that he owed, a part of it had been standing so long that it was out lawed, yet he knew it was an honest bill and he paid it. Nearly the whole sum was spent in this way. You need not wonder which is the happier of the two.

Our ex-chief engineer is paying considerable attention to farming. I hear he was at the Hardy auction and not content with buying a market wagon, he wanted to buy a cultivator, but being undecided whether the machine was a cultivator or a plow, he consulted Mr. James P. King, and acting on his advice did not bid. The only thing that was modern about the machine was the handles, and as the ex-chief grasped these and looked around among the crowd, he resembled the picture of Gen. Grant in his early pioneer life.

There is a sad case recently reported by the police. A young woman, who until a few years ago, worked out and had saved several hundred dollars, was married and went to housekeeping and for a year everything went smoothly and then her husband took to drink and squandered not only his own wages but the little money his wife had saved. She was compelled to go out washing to provide for her little ones. Her husband who had recently been released from jail, was again arrested about a fortnight ago, and sent back for two months. In the meantime the woman has been unable to work and has given birth to an infant. But for the kindness of neighbors the family would have suffered for the necessaries of life.

THE DRAMA.

Brilliant spectacle will hold possession of the stage at the Boston Theatre this week. The Kiralfy Brothers will bring the famous piece, "Around the World in Eighty Days." All the scenes are to be new, the costumes brilliant, the appointments gorgeous. The grand ballet will be led by Mlle. Consuelo la Bruyere (a famous premiere, who makes here her debut on the American stage) and Mlle. Milon, the famous. There will be grotesque dancing by M. Arnold. The Mignani family, musical street pavers, who created a furore in New York, are to appear, with the Jersey Light Guard and the Indian elephant, El Mahdi. "Around the World" will be presented every night and on Wednesday as well as Saturday afternoons, for a brief period.

At the Park Theatre, Mr. Dan Maguinnis, the favorite comedian and "everybody's friend" will appear in "Lord Tatters; or, An Irishman's Honor," and to be produced on this occasion for the first time in Boston. Mr. Maguinnis has a capital character in Dan Murphy, nicknamed "Lord Tatters," and one particularly well suited to his abilities, affording him opportunities for the display of his rollicking humor and the introduction of his ever popular songs. He has a strong support.

At the Boston Museum "Featherbrain," a comedy by Mr. Jas. Albery, will be produced this week, for the first time in this country. The French piece had a long run at the Paris Vaudeville, and the adaptation ran through the greater part of last season at the Criterion in London, where it was acted by Mr. Charles Wyndham's company. The title comes from the nickname given a giddy wife, who plays with fire in her flirtations with her sheepish cousin, and with a fiery Portuguese nobleman who has fallen in love with her as she bathes at Boulogne. The wife hoodwinks the husband, the lovers deceive one another, either intentionally or by chance, and a large portion of the time of the whole party is spent in falling into and scrambling out of what a Yankee would call "scrapes." This piece will be preceded by the charming comedy-drama, "A Sheep in Wolf's Clothing," and the casts of the two will include Misses Annie Clark, Blanche Thompson, May Davenport, Messrs. Charles Barron, J. B. Mason, W. P. Owen, Alfred Hudson, William Seymour.

At the Bijou Theatre the preliminary season will be opened with the reproduction of Mr. Charles H. Hoyt's very amusing piece, "A Tin Soldier," which will be represented in a reconstructed form by a reconstructed company. Mr. George W. Wilson, this season, plays the plumber, Prof Vilas Canby, and has made a great "hit" in the part; Willie Steele, the plumber's apprentice, is now acted by Mr. James T. Powers, who reappears in Boston after several very successful seasons in the London theatres. This pair of comedians ought to get all the fun that is possible out of their respective roles. They will be ably seconded by a very strong cast.

"Shadows of a Great City" will be seen at the Boston Theatre on Oct. 5, and a fortnight thereafter. Messrs. Jefferson and Shewell's company this season includes Miss Edna Carey, Miss Annie Ward Tiffany, Mr. Nelson Wheatcroft add Mr. George Edeson.

Miss Margaret Mather's season at the Union Square, in New York, will begin Oct. 13, the day following Miss Anderson's opening. "Romeo and Juliet" will be the first play produced, and Miss Mather will have the following support; Romeo, Mr. Frederick Paulding; Mercutio, Mr. Milnes Levick; Paris, Mr. J. Pironet; Tybalt, Mr. Edwin Cleary; Benvolio, Mr. Edward Wilson; Friar Lawrence, Mr. H. A. Weaver, Sr.; Capulet, Mr. Harry Eytinge; Nurse, Mrs. Carrie Jameson; Lady Capulet, Miss Jennie Harrold, and Rosalind, Miss Grace Raven.

"Wives as They Were" will be included in the repertory of Mr. John Gilbert's engagement, opening at the Boston Museum a fortnight from Monday.

John Howson and Louise Lester will introduce "Putting on Style" to Boston audiences next week. The Park is to be the scene of the musical comedy production.

MUSICAL NOTES.

It is expected that the rehearsals of the Salem Schubert Club will begin about November 1st. Arthur Foote is to be conductor—a wise selection of the Board of Government. The price of tickets to associate members has been reduced to three dollars, and for active membership to one dollar and a half. At this price there should be all the members desired by the club.

The Salem Symphony Club, with F. Clayton Record, director, will begin rehearsals the second week in October. Two concerts will be given and the price of honorary tickets will be three dollars, securing two admissions to each concert and to all the rehearsals.

Miss Minnie Hayden, of Boston, is singing contralto at the Barton Square Church, Salem, this month. She is a pupil of Mrs. Edna A. Hall.

Miss Helen M. Howland, one of the soloists at the Worcester Festival this week, is a pupil of Mrs. Hall.

Alice Mae Esty, well known in Salem, has been engaged with the Camilla Urso Concert Company.

Miss Annie Liebsch sings in Lyceum Hall, Salem, this week, under the management of Norris and Semons.

The seventh annual festival of the Southeastern Massachusetts Musical Association will be held at Taunton on Oct. 21, 22 and 23. Handel's "Judas Maccabæus," Berlioz's "The Flight Into Egypt," and the finale to Mendelssohn's unfinished opera, "Loreley," are the chief works on the programme. The artists engaged are Mrs. E. Aline Osgood and Belle Cole, Misses Emma Thursby, Emma Juch, Emily Winant and Henrietta Beebe, and Messrs. G. J. Parker, D. M. Babcock, Wilbur Gunn and A. E. Stoddard.

Januschowsky makes her rentree at the Bijou in the second production of the Neuendorff season — Maillart's "Hermit's Bell." She will appear as Rose Triquet, last portrayed here by Aimee.

Adamowski, the celebrated violinist, has been stopping at Mr. J. H. Blake's residence in Beverly.

The Salem Oratorio Society will begin rehearsals under Carl Zerrahn, with the Oratorio of St. Paul. A fair will be held in November which should be well patronized, and it doubtless will be. This Society should be encouraged and supported by all in the vicinity of Salem. To it the musical people look for whatever of first class entertainment is given the public. Its chorus will be the nucleus for a Musical Convention, if the time ever comes when some one will have the courage to organize such an event.

Geo. A. Shepard, the efficient secretary of the Salem Oratorio Society, is on a vacation this week.

This is the week of the Worcester Musical Festival. The tickets have had a large sale and its success will be greater than ever before. Its programme is crowded full of the choicest selections. We shall have something further to say regarding it next week.

The Chickering Musical Bureau of Boston has issued a catalogue of their artists with portraits of forty-eight people connected with the bureau. It is well gotten up and cannot fail to accomplish the end desired—the advertisement of the merits of the artists and the work of the Bureau itself. The management are both first rate fellows, and purpose dealing squarely and honorably with all.

The promenade concerts will be continued until October 3, when they will close with a well deserved benefit to Conductor Adolf Neuendorff.

A. D. Saxon has decided not to accept the position offered him at Syracuse, N. Y., but will remain in Boston and accept engagements for concerts and oratorio.

The Lotus Glee Club includes George E Devoll, tenor; Charles L. Lewis, baritone; Harry G. Snow, second tenor; Clifton F. Davis, basso.

F. C. Record, the well known violinist, has returned from Old Orchard, where he was leader of the band at the Old Orchard House.

* * *

Purify your blood, tone up the system, and regulate the digestive organs by taking Hood's Sarsaparilla. Sold by all druggists.

An "anxious inquirer" wants to know how he can obtain work. He will have no trouble in finding work, if he will follow the example of editors and work for nothing.

"Quinsy troubled me for twenty years Since I started using Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil, have not had an attack. The Oil cures sore throat at once." Mrs. Letta Conrad, Standish, Mich.

100 Doses

One Dollar. Hood's Sarsaparilla is the only medicine of which this can be truly said; and it is an unanswerable argument as to the strength and positive economy of this great medicine. Hood's Sarsaparilla is made of roots, herbs, barks, etc., long and favorably known for their power in purifying the blood; and in combination, proportion, and process, Hood's Sarsaparilla is peculiar to itself.

"For economy and comfort we use Hood's Sarsaparilla." MRS. C. BREWSTER, Buffalo.

"Hood's Sarsaparilla takes less time and quantity to show its effect than any other preparation I ever heard of. I would not be without it in the house." MRS. C. A. M. HUBBARD, North Chili, N. Y. 100 Doses

One Dollar

Hood's Sarsaparilla cures scrofula, salt rheum, all humors, boils, pimples, general debility, dyspepsia, biliousness, sick headache, catarrh, rheumatism, kidney and liver complaints, and all affections caused by impure blood or low condition of the system. Try it.

"I was severely afflicted with scrofula, and for over a year had two running sores on my neck. I took five bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and consider myself entirely cured." C. E. LOVEJOY, Lowell, Mass.

"Hood's Sarsaparilla did me an immense amount of good. My whole system has been built up and strengthened, my digestion improved, and my head relieved of the bad feeling. I consider it the best medicine I have ever used, and should not know how to do without it." MARY L. PEBLE, Salem, Mass.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Sold by all druggists. $1; six for $5. Made only by C. I. HOOD & CO., Lowell, Mass

100 Doses One Dollar.

ROYAL

FULL WEIGHT
ROYAL BAKING POWDER
ABSOLUTELY PURE TRADE MARK
ROYAL
BAKING POWDER

BAKING POWDER

Absolutely Pure.

This powder never varies. A marvel of purity, strength and wholesomeness. More economical than the ordinary kinds, and cannot be sold in competition with the multituds of low test, short weight, alum or phosphate powders. Sold only in cans. ROYAL BAKING POWDER Co., 106 Wall street, N. Y.
2as

AVOID

The Cholera by using Carbolate of Lime.

For eansing out-houses, cesspools, sink-drains, stables, etc. For sale, in 10, 25 and 50 lbs. bags, and by the barrel.

E. S. THAYER,

165 Derbv Street.

C. H. ESTES, Agent for Peabody.

SMOKERS

Having secured a large lot of the very Best Tobacco in the market we feel justified in saying the

MON AMI AND PLANTER

are the Best Havana Cigars in the town of Peabody. We have also the Electric, Harvard and El Sol de Cuba Brands.

FOR A 5C. SMOKE

Try the Brunette, it is a good one. The Heart's Ease, Sociable, Purity, Gun Club and E. H. S., are fine goods.

Collins' Cigar Store,

4 Allen's Block.

TOBACCO WHOLESALE & RETAIL.

WM. M. HILL.

AUCTIONEER, REAL ESTATE

BROKER & APPRAISER.

HALE'S BLOCK.

223 ESSEX STREET, SALEM.

Mortgagees negotiated. Personal attention to all Real Estate matters.

W. C. ROBINSON

(Successor to Smith & Robinson.)

Dealer in all kinds of

STATIONERY AND

ARTISTS' MATERIALS.

Pictures and Picture Frames.

Everything to be found in a first class establishment.

—Everything in our line at Bottom Prices.—

The people of Peabody are cordially invited to look at our stock, and see our display of paintings and art work.

We are agents for the celebrated

ROGERS' GROUPS.

☞ Horse cars pass the door.

W. C. Robinson,

42 MARKET STREET, LYNN, MASS.

W. B. GIFFORD & CO.,

77 & 79 MARKET ST., LYNN.

We now beg leave to announce our

FALL DRESS GOODS,

which have now arrived, consisting of Home Spuns, Combination Suitings, Plaids, Plain and Plaid, Ladies Cloths.

Also, we are constantly receiving

VELVETS, SILKS, ETC.

SPECIAL MENTION Grand Mark Down sale of Lawn Dresses, Dressing Sacques, Wrappers, etc., to make room for our New Fall and Winter Garments, Shawls, etc.

New Buttons, Clasps, Feather and Marabout Trimmings arriving every day.

Special attractions in our Corset, Glove, Toilet and Hosiery Departments.

W. B. Gifford & Co.

PEOPLE'S POPULAR PRICES

— FOR —

BOOTS and SHOES.

Misses' Grain Button, 11 to 2,	$ .75
Children's Lace School Shoes, 7 to 11,	.50
" Spring Heel Button,	.75
Ladies' Serge Buskins,	.25
" Kid Opera Slippers,	.50
" Glove Top Kid Foxed Button,	1.25
" Serge Congress,	.75
" Grain Button,	1.25
Men' Button Boots, sewed,	1.50
" Kip Bals, Tap Sole,	1.25
" Slippers,	.40
" Fine Calf Button, Bals & Cong.	2.50
Boy's Bals and Congress,	1.00
" Button, sewed, 1 to 5 1-2,	1.25
Men's Kip Plow Shoes, Batchelder's best,	1.50

Rubber Goods at Lowest Prices.

All our Low Cut Shoes will be sold at cost.

Cheap and Reliable Goods make Cheerful Buyers.

We invite the attention of all those to whom

"Money is an Object!"

to the extremely low prices we have placed on our really first-class and desirable grades of goods.

NUGENT BROS.

PEABODY SQUARE.

The Peabody Press.

JOHN P. FERNALD ALBERT VITTUM,
Editors and Publishers.

A SUBSCRIBER to the Telephone Exchange in town, whose instrument had been removed by his orders, hinted to Mr. W. J. Denver that at the old rates he might put the telephone back. He received a reply declining to do so, and explaining to the subscriber why the raise in rates was necessary. As it is so lucid, and is just what we and others have been so long waiting to hear, we give the portion pertaining to that matter entire:

> The matter of an advance in rates has been a bone of contention in the Directory of this company for the last 2 years, and has at last been determined upon as the only course left them to pursue. If the lines once up could be depended upon to remain in good condition, and if the inside apparatus in use in offices and in subscribers' places never needed removal we could go on indefinitely at the old rates, but you know that we cannot keep the lines and apparatus in good order unless we spend money on them. Your telephone would not be of much use to you if the lines were in bad condition; the only way to do the business is to give the best possible service. There are difficulties and troubles inherent to the business which no one can eliminate. All we can do is to keep on trying and live in hopes that we will learn more as we grow older. In regard to the Bell Co., they have paid and are paying fortunes to lawyers to defend their patents, and as the patent expires in 8 years they must make their money in that time. I may have difficulty in making you see these matters with our eyes, but I can assure you that the advance in rentals is a necessity, and the only possible way for us. We cannot do business always at a loss; it is not for the interest of the subscribers any more than for the company's that we should do business at a loss.
>
> Yours very truly,
> W. J. DENVER,
> Asst. Gen. Mang'r.

The point of the above is just here. "I may have difficulty in making you see these matters with our eyes, but I can assure you that the advance in rentals is a necessity." This letter is only a repetition of what he told us in person, what he has told everywhere. He has learned his lesson well. "Gentlemen," he says, "the exchange does not pay. The exchange here (he uses the word here everywhere he goes) does not pay. We are losing money all the time. We can't stand it. The New England Telephone stock is going down and has never paid a cent. Therefore we must advance the rates."

Now there is no satisfaction in these statements, nor in the letter given above, to any fair minded person. "You must believe what I tell you," Mr. Denver says in substance, "simply because I say so. I can't prove it; but it is so."

We do not desire to trouble our readers much further with this telephone difficulty. The reply to the letter and to every statement thus far made by Mr. Denver, can be condensed in a few sentences. The New England Telephone Co., are not doing business at a loss, according to their own published financial statement. They are not paying a dividend because the Bell Co. will not let them, and the Bell Co., own sixty per cent. of their stock. They also own the Western Electric Light Co., of whom all supplies are bought and furnished to the sub-companies for repairs. If they do pay fortunes to lawyers, they are able to pay fifteen per cent. dividend, and could pay more. It is true the Bell Co., and the New England Co., are not the same in name. But when one owns sixty per cent. of the other, the other forty per cent. must be held responsible, also, for the acts of the Company. We have no doubt in our mind that the Bell Co. is responsible for the advance, that the minority of New England Telephone Co. stockholders, who might be disposed to do the fair thing by the public, are held in abeyance by the sixty per cent., which is the Bell Co. We cannot blame Mr. Denver personally. He is only a tool in their hands. He is employed to do just the work he is doing. There is only one remedy; pass a law at the next Legislature limiting the rates for rental to be charged by any company in the State.

◆

REV. MR. SPERRY preached for the last time Sunday to his parishioners here, and will go at once to Manchester, N. H. The call to his new field is very urgent; the church is larger than here—nearly double the membership—and the opportunities of usefulness, for a pastor, proportionately greater. At the same time he leaves with the hearty God speed of his people here. It is not every pastor who finds two churches standing with open arms awaiting his decision.

Rev. Mr. Sperry has been pastor of this church seven years. It was his first settlement after graduating at Andover. He has made many friends here, not only in the Church and Congregation with which he has been connected, but throughout the town. He was twice elected on the School Board, for which service his experience as teacher of a High School fitted him peculiarly; and in this capacity he did good service to the town. He has been prominent in the temperance work in town and is greatly interested in the success of the Law and Order League. He is an easy and fluent speaker; an able preacher, liberal and independent in thought and action. He was a prominent member of the Congregational Club of this vicinity, and an essay delivered by him, "Church Doors—open and shut," attracted considerable attention at the time. During the seven years of his ministry the membership of the church has increased and the attendance on public worship has increased.

We present in another column a synopsis of his discourse last Sabbath. For the kind manner in which he referred to this paper in connection with the work of the Law and Order League in this town we are very grateful. We have tried to do our duty in this as in all other matters pertaining to the welfare of the town, as we saw it. We have no sympathy with the policy of many country weeklies which seem to have no opinion on subjects of public weal. We have tried to be fair and honorable to those who differed from us while stating our own views in no uncertain manner. This course we shall continue to maintain.

◆

The movement in Marblehead, Lynn and other towns in favor of the nomination of W. H. Coates of Marblehead for county commissioner has a purpose behind it. That purpose is to have a truant school and have it in this section of the county. Lynn and Marblehead were the first to ask for the school. They asked some year and a half ago and have not received any answer.

As we hear it, they now fear that the school, if it is ever established, will be located at the other end of the county. They seek the nomination of a man representing their views.—Salem Telegram.

We have seen the substance of the above statement in other papers, and it has been urged that Mr. Bishop, who is from Haverhill, should not therefore be nominated. It has also been stated that he is responsible for the non-establishment of the truant school.

Now we do not agree with these people who are bringing forward the name of Mr. Coates, of Marblehead, because they want the truant school in this part of the county. In the first place, Mr. Bishop is no more responsible for the delay than are the others, and we do not believe he would ignore any claims which this part of the county would put forth. In the second place, we do not think the people of this end of the county want the truant school established here. At all events that is the feeling here. They would prefer that it should be at the other end. Our teachers and School Board all feel that the school would be much more effective against truancy were it at a longer distance from home than it would be in this vicinity. They would have some dread of being sent there.

This argument would apply elsewhere, of course, and we are therefore content to leave the matter in the hands of the Commissioners. But we shall never urge Mr. Coates in place of Mr. Bishop because of a desire to see the school in this end of the county. We hope to see Mr. Bishop re-nominated. There is no reason, that we know of, why he should not be. The Board, as at present constituted, understand well the needs of the county, and have proved themselves worthy of the support of all good citizens. And no one of them is more worthy of such support than Mr. Bishop. We want to see him nominated and elected.

◆

Prof. Daniel B. Hagar, is one of the vice-presidents of the tenth annual meeting of Episcopal Church, Congress, to be held at New Haven, Conn., in the latter part of October.

THE CHURCHES.

At the South Church last Sabbath morning, Rev. W. G. Sperry preached his closing sermon to the Society, taking his text from Phillippians I:3-4-5-27. "I thank my God upon every remembrance of you. Always in every prayer of mine for you all making request with joy, for your fellowship in the gospel from the first day until now; Only let your conversation be as it becometh the gospel of Christ; that whether I come and see you, or else be absent, I may hear of your affairs; that ye stand fast in one spirit, with one mind striving together for the faith of the gospel." The preacher said this was the closing message of a good pastor to a good people. It was first a reminiscence, and second counsel in the future that was to come. It was appropriate in its message to what the preacher desired to say, and to these words of Paul he desired to add a word of caution. The expression of thankfulness comes from the heart, not from the mind. Paul speaks of every remembrance with thankfulness. Were we to ask him if there were no painful recollections, reminding him of his words in the same chapter referring to a quarrel between two women, he would doubtless reply that he had not stopped to weigh his words; that they came from the thankfulness in his heart, and that all other feelings would be unworthy of utterance.

The preacher said he had similar feelings of thankfulness with reference to his earliest ministrations. The change from the seminary to the pulpit was great. It was like a change from Arabia to Jerusalem. He feared this pulpit. It had been filled by strong men of great spiritual power, and he feared that the people would have become fastidious. He would not have been surprised if they had gone out from his preaching never to return. But he soon learned that this people came not for criticism but to receive whatever he was able to bring to them. He was cheered by the love of the Gospel which he found in the leaders of Christian thought.

He was grateful that in the early part of his ministry the distance between the pulpit and the pews had been lessened, and the platform had been removed. It was disheartening at first to see often the empty space between him and any of his congregation. There were in the gallery, outside of the singers, only eight, and there they seemed to remain. He often wondered if there would ever be nine, or more than eight. The steps to the old pulpit were precipitous and the ascent perilous, but once behind it he was safe. He could see all the congregation and none of them could see him. He had time to gather courage to go on. He was troubled at the attentive audience before him, listening to what he had to say, and wondered what they thought of his utterances, until after the change in the house of worship was made he saw nearer to him responsive faces; he learned to look for them and to encourage him in his work. As the distance was lessened, he had more freedom in utterance. The change in the order of service had been very helpful,—a responsive service in which all could fittingly engage. The new hymn and tune book was also a help. He could not say much of the effort in favor of Congregational singing. They ought to have done better. Perhaps some new pastor could baptise them into new life in this direction.

It was also a source of great satisfaction to him at seeing the improvement made in the house of worship, at seeing the business of the society faithfully done by the Committees in charge, so that he was relieved from any responsibility or any anxiety regarding the treasury of the Church. In this respect he deemed himself more fortunate than many pastors. He was pleased at the work of the Social Circle in fitting up the ladies' room and the pastor's room. More room should be given to the infant department of the Sabbath School, and more hymn books should be provided for the use of the Congregation. In estimating the work of these seven years, we should remember that contributions have been made for the assistance of the church in Rockville and also in West Peabody. It was a pleasure to know that all the enterprises of the church had been prosperous.

In reviewing the principles by which he had been guided in the work of preparing sermons, he recalled that when he came from the Seminary he had a vast storehouse from books which he intended bringing out. At the end of these seven years he must confess that he had made no use of them at all. A few ideas had guided him, one or two of which he would call up for remembrance.

He found many people whose lives were respectable adopting ideas of duty from which God was entirely left out. There seemed to be with them no difficulty in lives with God left out. Holiness is a relation which the soul sustains to God. It had been his duty to teach a system of holiness in God through Christ, and to look with disparagement upon lives which were apart from God.

With some also the thought of immortality seemed to be powerless. To him it was a matter of astonishment that any reasonable being could shape all his plans of business without reference to the life that was to come. They seemed to take it for granted that the next world would be in a measure the same as this. This was unbelief in that immortality of which the Bible speaks. His object had been to teach that the warnings of the Bible were such as to be feared.

Of the results of his preaching he could not speak. They are known only to God. It had been to him a matter of great joy when any have commenced to take up the life of faith in Christ. There were many now living—some dead—who had done so. It had been a burden to him because many had not received his words. A pastor of a church is in an anomalous position; there are many in the Congregation who give him a hearty welcome to their homes, but who disregard his words. These half converted people are misery to a preacher. For this reason, partly, he deemed it better that the gospel of God's grace should be preached by another voice.

Of his past labors he had little to say. Of the making of pastoral visits there was no end. He sometimes thought he had paid too much attention to society; that he had often erred on the side of reticence when he had desired to speak. Perhaps a few persons had been scared away because he had spoken. "Who is sufficient for these things?"

He had wished that this people might be leaders in the cause of temperance. No work had given him greater pleasure. He had reason to fear that this people would not appreciate the great deliverance which had come to this town. The Law and Order League had now very little to do. But he hoped the organization would be maintained as he believed it would be. Between the friends and foes of temperance there was an irrepressibe conflict. No good citizen ought to refuse to enter the lists. It would be a disgrace to lose the vantage ground already gained. In this connection it had been a satisfaction to note the attitude of the local press, especially the PEABODY PRESS. A local paper was under great temptation to be non-committal on the subject. In this case, however, the PRESS has had convictions, and has had courage to express them and is worthy of great praise. It was a healthy sign to see the press committed to the cause of temperance.

The future of this Church was in the hands of God. It was far from a calamity to change pastors. We should not look backward but forward. We should keep the unity of the Spirit and have one mind. This Church has not listened to its best preacher, or done its best work. Christ's Church can have no fear. God has made ready some good servant of his to stand in the present pastor's place. He should pray for the Church to have more power, and it cannot wish for more encouragement.

◆

Special attention is called to the announcement of W. G. Webber & Co. His store will open to-morrow morning at 9 o'clock. Men have been at work night and day for several weeks getting things in shape. The ladies of this vicinity have been anxiously awaiting this event, and that everybody will be there goes without saying. No goods will be sold either day or evening, but all are invited to visit the store. We shall give a description of the new store and some of the events of the opening in our next issue.

Our readers perhaps have noticed, in passing the store of Merrill & Mackintire, that the windows of the next store to the one so long occupied by them, have been filled with choice designs in room paper. This store the firm purpose to occupy in connection with the other and it will be opened to the public to-morrow, where Messrs. Merrill & Mackintire will be pleased to see their friends and will have a choice line of goods for their inspection.

Frank Cousins will make a special display to-morrow in the windows of his Bee Hive, in Salem. Every department will be a bargain counter, and he will display at his several counters the new fall and winter goods. Don't forget Mr. Cousins, but call in and see how elegantly his store is arranged from one end to the other.

The Lynn Union purpose giving next week the first of three illustrated articles, reproducing the leading events of the great strike of 1860 in that city. The Union is a wide-awake sheet, and is giving constant evidence of prosperity.

Gen. Wm. Cogswell, who was Colonel of the gallant Second Regiment during the Atlanta campaign and Sherman's march to the sea, was one of the speakers at the annual reunion on Thursday, at Tyng's Island, and received a most cordial welcome from the survivors of his old command.

Carried to a Higher Court.

RUDOLPH MEYER COMMITS SUICIDE WHILE HIS COUNSEL IS MOVING TO QUASH THE CASE.

The case of Rudolph Meyer came up by continuance in the police court this morning. This was the case in which he was charged with obtaining money under false pretences. The particulars as told by Mrs. Hayes, are that while her husband was in Lawrence jail awaiting trial, Meyer came to her and said that if he had $250, he could secure his release, as he was on intimate terms with Attorney Gen. Sherman and General Cogswell. He showed receipts from different parties, which he claimed were those whom he paid the money to. He had had $50 borrowed money before and Mrs. Hayes lost faith in him and charged him with defrauding her. He owned up and asked her not to prosecute, but as he took no steps to pay her he was arrested a week ago. When the case was called this morning Meyer did not put in an appearance, and his counsel, C. H. Simonds, Esq., asked the court first to wait for the senior counsel in the case, Stillman B. Allen of Boston, and afterwards he moved to "quash" as the warrant gave the name of the complainant as Helen Hayes, when her name was Ellen. E.T. McCarthy, Esq., appeared for Mrs. Hayes and while the counsel were wrangling over it, Chief Peasley stepped up to the Judge, and announced that Meyer had shot himself at the Willows and was dead.

Inquiry at the Juniper House revealed the fact that Meyer came there yesterday and said the doctor had ordered him to go to the seashore; that he had been to Hampton Beach but did not like there, and wanted to engage a week's board at the hotel. He was given a room and took his meals there yesterday and seemed in good spirits, retiring early. He arose about seven o'clock this morning and took a walk about the yard, and was laughing and joking with Mr. Moses Woodfin, the proprietor. Afterwards he went in the house and they thought to his room. There were a number of men in the bar-room who thought they heard a pistol shot in the smoking room across the hall, and the bar tender, Mr. Smith, looked in and saw Meyer in the middle of the floor, and he came toward him as if he was coming out, but he did not, and a few minutes later two more pistol shots were heard, and also a heavy fall. On opening the door Meyer was found lying on his back, with a bullet wound in his breast. The bullet entered close beside the left nipple, in the region of the heart, and a few feet from him was a five shot 32 calibre revolver with four chambers empty.

This was about 8.25 o'clock and Mr. Woodfin immediately notified Medical Examiner Carlton and Assistant Marshal Skinner, who shortly reached the place. Meyer was alive at the time, but unconscious. He lived till about nine o'clock. The room in which the deed was done was a smoking room in the southwest corner of the house across the hall from the bar room and is about 12x17 feet. It was furnished with a sofa, table and one or two chairs. On one side was a large mirror and Meyer must have stood before this when he fired the revolver. One shot went through a square of glass on the west side and another through the window on the south side. In his coat pocket was found a box of cartridges and in his room were some papers, on one of which it said,

"My home is 96 Washington street, Peabody." RUDOLPH MEYERS.

The other was addressed to his boarding mistress, Mrs. Cullen, bidding her good bye, and asking her to give his love to her husband and ask him to forgive him for what he was about to do, also give his love to Frankie. He thanked them both for what they had done for him and hoped he would meet them "over there."

Not much is known of Meyer he came to this town about five years ago and was employed as overseer in the white goods packing room at the Danvers Bleachery. He was nearly sixty years of age, a German and a fine linguist. His friends offered to settle the case for him, and only a few days ago Mrs. Hayes' counsel offered to take his notes for the amount and withdraw the case from court. It is said that he had quite a heavy insurance on his life. He was a member of the Royal Arcanum and a member of other co-operative companies and these were made payable to his executor named in his will. Undertaker W. S. Osborne took charge of the remains and his funeral will take place from the house of Richard J. Cullen next Friday afternoon.

◆

As this present week is the "Centennial Temperance" week, there will be a gathering of children in the vestry of the Cong. Church, Saturday, Sept. 26, at 2.30 P. M., to listen to Temperance Chalk-Talks, to be given by Mr. N. S. Greet, of Somerville. Children and adults are invited. The Salem Bethel Band of Hope will be present.

Munroe & Arnold's employes have formed a polo team.

The School Committee held an adjourned meeting last evening. The sub-committee of the Wallis and Endicott schools were instructed to take action to relieve the surplus in some classes in the above named schools. Messrs. Hudson, Farnham and Osgood were appointed a committee to present plans to rearrange classes and courses of study in the primary and grammar schools, with the view of reducing the years of schooling about two years. The following resolutions were adopted:

RESOLVED, That the inexplicable delay of our County Commissioners in establishing a Truant School, for the relief of the flagrant evil of Truancy in this and neighboring towns, has injuriously affected the efficiency of our schools and will if continued, injure them in a marked degree.

RESOLVED, That it is the opinion of this committee that prompt and vigorous action in relief of this oppressive burden to schools and school officers, by the present Board of County Commissioners, is necessary to entitle them to ask a re-election to their responsible office.

The meeting adjourned for one week.

Intelligence has been received of the death of Mrs. Elizabeth R., wife of Geo. W. Putnam of New York, at the home of her sister in Groton. She is the daughter of the late B. F. Edwards, and resided with Mrs. Geo. S. Osborne until her marriage less than a year ago. She had many friends here and in the vicinity and was a member of the Salem Schubert Club. She had been in feeble health of late, but left this town whence she had came from New York a few weeks ago for Groton.

We have been asked by several of our readers why we did not club the PRESS with the leading magazines. The only reason we do not and have not years ago is that the periodicals are largely the stock in trade of Mrs. Gilson who is trying to get an honest living and we believe in the motto "Live and let live."

Last Friday afternoon a boy named Day, employed at Geo. W. Pepper's confectionery establishment, caught his right hand in the cog wheels of a coanut grinder, crushing them so badly that they were amputated, and also one finger of his left hand. Dr. Foster attended him.

People passing along Aborn street in the afternoon, linger a moment to watch some of our young ladies in flannel suits prancing about on the lawn tennis grounds beyond the Old Ladies Home. The young people find it a pleasant and convenient ground for their sport.

Democrats are beginning to wear happy smiles once more. Assistant Postmaster General Stevenson is swinging his official axe right and left, and the way in which Republican postmasters are being kicked out would lead one to suppose that the Democrats were successful at the last election.

Mr. A. L. Ames and W. T. Dole left a sixteen foot corn stalk at our office yesterday, that they had brought as a sample from eighteen acres of it raised by Mr. C. S. Emmerton. The only way we account for this prolific growth is that Mr. Emmerton used Ames fertilizer.

Miss S. J. C. Needham was last night elected an assistant teacher in the Boston girls' high school.

At this season of the year it will profit you to use Ferrated Hygienic Wine, to cleanse your blood of all poisonous humor. tf

Health is of more consequence than wealth Many sick ones might be cured by using Ferrated Hygienic Wine, tf

New Advertisements.

MORTGAGEE'S SALE.

By virtue of the power of sale contained in a deed of mortgage given by Charles G. Folsom to the Warren Five Cents Savings Bank in Peabody dated the twenty-fifth day of February, A. D. 1880, and recorded at Essex South District Registry of Deeds in Book 1031, leaf 265, said mortgagee will sell by public auction at the premises on THURSDAY, the fifteenth day of October, A. D. 1885, at three o'clock in the afternoon, all and singular the premises conveyed by said mortgage deed, to wit:—

A lot of land situated in said Peabody, with the dwelling house thereon, bounded thus, viz: Easterly by Central street eighty-eight feet and three inches; Southerly by Warren street three hundred and fifty-one feet and two inches; Westerly by land formerly of Joshua Buxton, seventy-nine feet and four inches; and Northerly by other land of said Folsom three hundred and forty-six feet and one inch.

Terms made known at sale.

ALBERT H. MERRILL. Treas.
Of the Warren Five Cents Savings Bank.
Peabody, Sept. 23, '85.

TO LET.

From Oct. 1st, House No. 6 Holten street, Peabody, containing 13 rooms. Apply to
T. M. OSBORNE,
6 Carpenter St., Salem. sept 23

TO LET.

An upper and lower tenement in a house on Oak street. Seven rooms each with modern conveniences. Inquire of
R. H. BROWN.

Bedding Straw.

PRIME New York Rye Straw, by the Ton, or single bale.
CHAS. A. ROPES & SON.

Oat Meal.

FRESH Ground and Out Oat Meal.
CHAS. A. ROPES & SON.

Paste Flour.

50 Bbls. Strong Working Paste Flour.
CHAS. A. ROPES & SON.

SOMETHING NEW.

THE PATENT

Folding Clothes Horse

It is the best thing manufactured. It has 15 drying bars and can be folded up, and takes but a small space when folded. It has 5 arms which can be set at any angle desired.

IT HAS NO EQUAL.

Do you know that we sell the Universal Wringer for

$2.75, Former Price $3.50.

Brass Bird Cages at cost, Wire Flower Pot Stands at great bargains, Apple Parers and Potato Slicers, at

SAMUEL TRASK'S

WALNUT ST.,

PEABODY.

NEW TOY STORE

— AT —

216 Essex Street.

Largest stock of Tin and Wooden Toys in Essex county.

Games of all kinds for young and old.

Musical Instruments of all kinds Tuned and Repaired.

MERRILL & MACKINTIRE.

216 & 220 ESSEX ST.,

SALEM.

ROSE BUDS AND PINKS.

— AT —

WARD'S GREENHOUSES,

Cor. Endicott and Warren Sts., Peabody.

NOTICE TO VOTERS.

Notice is hereby given that meetings of the Board of Registrars, for the purpose of receiving evidence of the qualifications of persons claiming a right to vote at the State election, to be held on Tuesday, the third day of November, 1885, and for correcting and revising the lists of voters, will be held in the Selectmen's Room, Town House, as follows:—

On TUESDAYS, Sept. 22 and 29, and Oct. 27, from 7 to 9 p. m.

On THURSDAYS, Oct. 8, 15 and 22d, from 1 to 5 p. m.

On SATURDAYS, Oct. 10, 17 and 24th, from 8 to 9 p. m.

On WEDNESDAY, Oct. 28, from 1 to 5 and from 7 to 10 p. m.

Registration will cease on Wednesday, October 28th, 1885, at 10 o'clock p. m.

The lists of voters will be posted Oct. 1st, after which time no name can be added thereto, unless the applicant for registration appears in person before the registrars and proves his claim to be registered.

All persons whose names were on the lists of voters of last year, and who fail to pay a tax of 1884 or 1885, prior to Oct 1st, will thus be required to register in person.

All persons appearing for registration must exhibit a paid tax bill for 1884 or 1885, and if of foreign birth, a certificate of naturalization.

AARON F. CLARK,
LYMAN OSBORN,
RICHARD LYONS,
NATHAN H. POOR,
} Board of Registrars.

E. V. EMILIO,

PIANO FORTE TUNER,

287 ESSEX ST.,

SALEM.

THEODORE M. OSBORNE,

Attorney and Counsellor at Law,

Has resumed practice at

81 Washington St., Salem.

Boston Office, 54 Devonshire St., Room 27.
sept 9—2m

SOUTH DANVERS MUTUAL FIRE INSURANCE CO.

The members of this company are hereby notified that their annual meeting for the election of a Board of Directors for the ensuing year, and the transaction of such other business as may come before them, will be held at the room of the South Danvers National Bank, in Peabody, on Monday, October 5, 1885, at 7 o'clock P. M.

G. M. FOSTER, Sec.
Peabody, Sept. 7, 1885.

The Peabody Press.

Wednesday Evening, Sept, 23, 1885

HOME HAPPENINGS.

Union Post 50, G. A. R., in common with other Posts, has received from S. S. Burdett, commander-in-chief of the Grand Army, an order suggesting that a sum nearly equal to 15 cents for each member of the organization be raised for a monument to Gen. Grant, this amount, in order to expedite matters, to be appropriated from the post funds, the treasury afterward being reimbursed by individual contributions. Also that neatly written rolls be prepared on blanks, which shall contain the name, rank, regiment and post of each donor, these to be bound into volumes and properly cared for, and that provision be made to furnish each post a lithographic engraving of the finished monument. Gen. Burdett says in the course of his order: Our self-imposed task has in view the erection of a monument, which, avoiding all exaggeration or mere motive of display, shall be in keeping with the simplicity of the life and character of our great leader, and of such intrinsic excellence as shall commend it to the care of the nation, and thus, through all succeeding generations, be our memorial as well as a monument to his fame.

The residents in the vicinity of Wallis street near Elm, were startled at an early hour last Wednesday morning by the outcry of females at the house of Miss Lizzie Carleton, a deaf old lady. The story as told is to the effect that a young lady, about 17 years of age, woke up suddenly and "saw within the moonlight in her room," a stranger who was amusing himself by tickling her feet and rubbing his hand on her ankle. She immediately gave an alarm and the horrid man went away. An investigation showed that the doors had been opened and the police think that the intruder was remarkably familiar with the premises. The theory is advanced that the person entered by means of a ladder, but there are no marks on the house or anything else to indicate it. The police have no clue to work on. We learn since the above was in type that the young lady has returned to her home in Derry, N. H.

The Republicans held a caucus at town hall last evening, at which there was a slim attendance. Frank C. Merrill was elected chairman, and Arthur Elliot Secretary. A committee of three was appointed to retire and select the names of four delegates to the State Convention at Springfield. The following names were reported and accepted: Franklin Osborn, B. F. Southwick, Reuben G. Nelson and J. P. Fernald. A committee of four reported the following names for town committee for the ensuing year. J. F. Ingraham, Franklin Osborn, Edward W. Abbott, Jos. F. Wiggin, George M. Foster, Henry Wardwell, and Cyrus T. Batchelder. While the committee were out, Mr. J. Fred Ingraham entertained the audience with a speech on tariff, prohibition, woman suffrage, civil service, and the iniquity of the Democratic party.

At the convention of the National Association of Tanners and Hide and Leather Dealers at Chicago, Thursday, a mutual fire company was organized to reduce the cost of insurance. The following directors were elected for the first year:—Thomas E. Proctor, of Boston; J. W. Oakley, Chicago; Jackson S. Scultz, New York; H. H. Bechel, Newport, Ky.; David France, Louisville; David Keck, New York; James H. Smith, Buffalo; Frederick Vogel, Milwaukee; James Callerit, Pittsburg, Adolph Goetzmeyer, Allegheny City, Pa.; James E. Mooney, Cincinnati; Anthony Kessler, St. Louis; Thomas Deford, Baltimore; Colonel Lewis Baugh, Philadelphia; and E. S. Ward, Newark, N. J.

The Selectmen went over the boundary lines between Peabody and Salem Tuesday. Several changes will have to be made in the line between Tremont and Main streets, as the course of the brook, has been changed, and also a part of Harmony Grove having been added to Salem. At Spring pond the boundary stone was found in the pond where it had been either thrown by hoodlums, or knocked down by a falling till. It was evident from appearances that the pond had been used at this point all summer for bathing. New boundary stones will be required at several points.

Mrs. Susan, wife of Mr. Joseph Jacobs, was stricken with a shock of paralysis at her home on Main street last Wednesday evening, from the effects of which she died Friday morning. She was born in this town March 21, 1810, and was a sister to Mr. Warren Wilson. Mrs. Jacobs has always led a quiet Christian life, being a member of the South Church for a long term of years. She was a kind and loving mother, and devoted her life to her family who have the sympathy of the community in the sudden and great loss. A husband, four sons and two daughters survive her.

It will be well and wise for people to examine their chimneys before setting up stoves this fall. If this was done every season, and a careful examination made of cracks and crevices, there would be less fires and destruction of property.

John P. Peabody will keep his store open to-morrow evening and will celebrate the event by making special prices for that evening only. Those who visit his establishment that evening will find bargains to repay them for going.

We beg to call the attention of our readers, surely not to forget to see the great cyclorama of the Battle of Gettysburg when in Boston. Save fifty cents from your shopping to see this wonderful painting and you will always be glad we called your attention to it.

O. B. Chadwick & Co. have been furnishing a card with the weather signals on them. There was such a demand that a new design has been purchased and by the last of the week he will have plenty of them for distribution.

At a meeting of the Essex South District Medical Society to be held at the Essex House next Tuesday, Dr. Geo. S. Osborne of this town will read a paper translated from the German entitled "Two Perforating Pistol Shots of the Brain."

Mr. David Nason, the veteran conductor of the Eastern railroad, will complete his thirtieth year of service in the employ of the company with this month. He is good for another ten years, being now only sixty-six years of age.

A fine photograph of engine No. 139, and J. C. Brainard, engineer, was taken at the engine house at the Eastern division station, a few days ago, by an amateur photographer friend of Mr. Brainard's, from Salem.—Danvers Mirror.

A pair of horses, the property of J. B. Thomas, belonging to his four horse box team, attempted to run away in Charlestown, last Friday afternoon, throwing down one of the other pair and dragging him quite a distance, badly cutting him.

Engine 73, Lawrence train, up Tuesday evening at 4.50, lost the key of one of the connecting rods between Peabody and Salem, and was disabled. Another engine was sent to take the train to Lawrence. A delay of 25 minutes was caused.

The Puritan beat the Genesta on Monday 16 m. 47s. actual time, and 16 m. 19 s. corrected time. On Wednesday the Puritan beat the Genesta 2m. 9s. actual time, and 1m. 38s. corrected time, and the cup remains in America.

A gentlemen living on the outskirts of the town neglected to take his fruit garden into the house last Sunday night, and found on the following morning that some one had kindly picked all of his fall pears for him and carried them off.

Mr. Isaac E. Fellows, of this town, will sell at public auction a number of house lots in the town of Orange, Sept. 25. Mr. F. in company with others bought a large farm last summer and cut it up into house lots which will be disposed of as above.

Governor Robinson has appointed the five delegates to represent the State in the national forestry congress, as requested by the Legislature. Francis H. Appleton, Esq., of this town, and Hon. George B. Loring, of Salem, were appointed from this vicinity.

It has been noticed that the B. & M. railroad are running some pretty poor cars on this branch of late. This was explained by one of the conductors yesterday, who said that they were put on for the exclusive use of the Salem Normal School girls, who are said to be death on cushions.

Officer Goodwin had a hard tussle with a drunken man, named McCarty, better known as the cow boy, near Pierce's cork sole factory this forenoon, but with the aid of the twisters and one of Munroe & Arnold's express wagons, he landed his prisoner in the station house.

Now is the season of the year when the average school boy and girl ap pear quite numerous upon our streets. As they wend their way along, and one catches the glitter in the apples of their eyes, he beholds, as it were, the very picture of contentment, then wishes he were young again.

Thomas Brown, who moved from, this town to Chicago, about 1858 and engaged in the paper business, met with a terrible death at Putney, Vt. last week. He fell into a large revolving water wheel he was inspecting, and was so seriously injured that he died a few minutes after he was taken out.

An exchange publishes an article dealing on the subject of "How to act when caught by a tornado." This is published exclusively for the benefit of bachelors, as the average Benedict knows exactly what to do under such circumstances. He puts on his hat and takes a stroll until the storm blows over.

SOUTH PEABODY.

Mr. Warren Shaw has gone to Lewiston, Me., to attend the state fair at that place.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Annis have gone to Wells, Me., for a few weeks vacation.

Mr. A. T. Parker is laying the foundation for a new house in the rear of Lynn street.

The Lynn & Boston Co. carried 1600 passengers last Sunday.

This evening Mr. Charles Newhall will be united in marriage to Miss Lizzie Buxton, daughter of S. Harvey Buxton of Andover street. Rev. F. W. Sprague will officiate. The happy couple will go on a bridal tour to Hancock, N. H.

Rev. J. W. Colwell preached to the children last Sunday afternoon and the sermon was very interesting throughout, and we were sorry there were not more present to have heard it. We hope that the boys who were present will bear in mind what he said, and when they are playing ball in the neighboring fields will not use so much vulgar and profane language as they have the past few weeks.

Mr. Thomas Larrabee has removed into the house recently finished off by Mrs. Hannah Stone on Lynn street.

Mr. F. L. Newhall has purchased the Geo. Shillaber farm of Mr. Jonathan King at private sale.

Mr. John Curtis of Keene, N. H., spent last Sunday with his sister, Mrs. D. S. Roberts, on Brown street.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Wheeler are receiving congratulations. It is a boy.

Mr. Joseph Wormwood has moved into Haskell's block on Lynn street.

POLICE COURT.—John Hughes was one of those fellows that thought we didn't mean what we said, when he was told that the police were after unlicensed dogs and so he didn't pay the tax. He was arrested, however, last Thursday and the tax had increased to $15 and costs or $20.83 total.

Monday morning Timothy Cochrane paid the usual fine for being drunk, $5.83.

Edward Fitzpatrick thought he could out rival Sullivan in beating his wife and for that offense was fined $10 and costs.

John McAuliffe assaulted Timothy Lane, and as Tim didn't care to prosecute, John paid the costs and was discharged.

Tuesday Morning—Michael Roach, Thomas Duffy and James Maloney all settled with His Honor for one dollar each and costs for being drunk. Edward Kelly for assault on Honora O'Connell, was fined $10 and costs. Appealed. Mrs. O'Connell for assault some time ago, withdrew her appeal, her bondsman having withdrawn, and was sentenced to 40 days in the House of Correction.

On account of the difficulties arising in the enforcement of labor laws, the members of the Knights of Labor in this State, have been requested to report all violations of the ten-hour law, or the law for protection to life and limb in manufactories, to the officers of their assemblies, and they will in turn transmit the same to the D. A. executive board.

A letter mailed in a hotel envelope, which fails to reach the person addressed, is sent at once to the dead letter office, notwithstanding the ten days return notice on the corner. Therefore if you stop at a hotel and use its envelopes always mark out the hotel name and insert your own, if you want your letter again in case it fails to reach the person addressed.

Hog cholera having broken out among a lot of hogs belonging to Thos. C. Durkee, at West Peabody, the Selectmen acting on the advice of the cattle commissioners' have appointed Bowman Viles, Daniel A. Small and Aaron F. Danforth as appraisers to ascertain the value of them. They will all be killed, about thirty in number.

The following is the State ticket put in nomination by the prohibitionists:—For Governor, T. S. Lothrop of Taunton; Lieutenant Governor, Charles B. Knight of Worcester; Secretary of State, Geo. Kempton of Sharon; Treasurer, Chas. B. Travis of Natick; Attorney General, Samuel M. Fairfield of Malden; Auditor, Wm. Sherman of Lowell.

"Does your boy study much?" inquired a Peabody lady who called on a friend one day this week. "Study much? why he's always at it! He reads those historical novels. Only this morning I caught him working on "Big-boned Ben, or the Serpentine Skating Rink Detective. Oh, he's a student!"

It is pitiable to see how the sheep, when they come from the cars, will stop for a little muddy water. There is usually some water about the drinking fountain on Central street, and they will not be driven away until they drink it all up.

Fred. P. Williams, clerk for Hallowell & Smiley, has gone to Wolfboro for a vacation.

Wm G. Webber & Co.

THURSDAY, SEPT. 24

AT 9 A.M., DAY & EVENING,

We shall make a preliminary opening of our Stores in the

NEW ENDICOTT BUILDINGS.

DEPARTMENTS.

SILKS,
VELVETS,
BLACK DRESS GOODS,
COLORED DRESS GOODS,
MILLINERY,
LACES,
HOSIERY,
GLOVES,
UNDERWEAR,
CORSETS,
ART EMBROIDERIES,
CLOAKS, SHAWLS,
INFANTS' WEAR,
HOUSEKEEPING GOODS,
GENTS' FURNISHING GOODS.
NOTIONS, ETC.

CORDIAL GREETING:—

It is with pleasure we extend this greeting and cordially invite our friends and the public generally to an examination of the New Store and Goods in all our several departments. In establishing ourselves in this new and central location, we have resolved to give an article of merited value and every way fulfill the requirements of a first class Dry Goods Store. Having had an experience of eighteen, eleven and seven years respectively in the various markets of our trade in this country and Europe, and in direct contact with the wants of the people of Essex County, we feel fully able to meet the strongest competition, and assure our patrons positive satisfaction in all their dealings with us. We shall handle only the BEST MAKES OF GOODS,

Sell them at a reasonable profit,

allow no misrepresentation. and treat all equally well. We believe the desired result—success—can be sooner reached by selling large amounts at a small profit, rather than depending upon a limited business at a large percentage. Such being the case, our highest ambition is to retain and if possible increase the esteem in which our friends and patrons hold us. Knowing full well from long trial, that every one is seeking a market where the most may be obtained for the money, we exert every effort to secure the choicest values. In this we are greatly aided by business experience, ample capital and unblemished credit.

In making mention of our several departments, it is not our intention at present to dwell upon the special articles offered therein; suffice it to say that we have established a uniform low price and propose to adhere strictly to the principles of fair dealings. Our facilities in connection with the importer and manufacturer enable us to offer the article appertaining to every feature of our trade with such a feeling of security that will insure your satisfaction, otherwise we are willing to refund the purchasers their money, and thus uphold the principles whereby your confidence can be sustained.

A PLAIN STATEMENT.

The advertisers' dialect so abounds in extravagant adjectives, that readers are naturally suspicious of business announcements in general.

We intend to do our best to correct this tendency to exaggeration, by confining our statements to simple facts, plainly expressed, and therefore we expect credence will be given to what we say on this particular and all occasions.

Realizing that prices tell, we shall place all the goods in our various departments on our counters and mark them at figures so as to compel the consideration of the purchasing public, and we therefore ask the people in to see for themselves.

The announcement of our GRAND OPENING, when our buildings shall have been fully completed and furnished, will be made early in October, which will include the latest importation and our own manufactures in Trimmed Bonnets and Round Hats.

Respectfully,
WM. G. WEBBER,
STEPHEN BURGER,
WM. B. MANSFIELD,

W. G. WEBBER & CO.
NEW ENDICOTT BUILDINGS,
238 & 240 ESSEX STREET,
94 & 96 WASHINGTON ST.,
SALEM.

Bee-Hive
OPENING.
THURSDAY, SEPT. 24.

Grand Opening
—FOR—INSPECTION OF NEW FALL AND WINTER
GOODS.

Store open
THURSDAY EVENING

EVERY DEPARTMENT
A Bargain Counter.

FRANK COUSINS'
BEE-HIVE,
SALEM.

PEABODY will open his Store Thursday Evening, with a line of Special Bargains, for that Evening only.

Artists' Materials of every Description.

DECORATIVE ART GOODS OF ALL KINDS.
ART POTTERY.

Supplies for Oil Color, Water Color, China and Lustra Painting.

PICTURE FRAMING
OF EVERY DESCRIPTION

PLUSH WORK a specialty. Plush Frames and Plush Plaques made to order.

Charles J. Edmands,
12 BROMFIELD ST., BOSTON.

GRAND ARRIVAL.

2 CAR LOADS OF NEW HUB &
Glenwood Ranges.

1 CAR LOAD OF
PARLOR STOVES

To be sold on our Instalment Plan.

$1 Down and $1 a Week.

We make our own Parlor Stoves and use nothing but the best of Russia iron. We know what we are selling and can show you what you are buying. We have all the leading Ranges and Parlor Stoves in the market from the lowest to the highest prices.

Send for Catalogue and Price List.

Old Stoves taken in exchange.

We have the largest stock of

FURNITURE, CARPETS, CROCKERY, BEDDING, SILVER AND WOODEN WARE

To be found in Essex County, in fact everything needed to furnish a house either on a small or large scale. All goods delivered free. Discounts to any wishing to pay cash.

We should be pleased to see you or refer you to responsible parties in your town with whom we have and are still doing business; shall be pleased to send our agent and collector to explain our system of doing our business on the credit system. It will cost you nothing to examine our stock and you will always find one of the firm in attendance, from whom you can get prices and terms on any amount of goods you may wish to buy. We know we can save you money and can refer you to parties who after looking at goods and getting prices in Salem, Lynn, Boston and other places, have returned to us and selected their goods.

D. B. H. POWER & CO.,
123 & 125 PLEASANT ST. 24 SCHOOL ST.,
MARBLEHEAD

EDW. C. ALMY & CO.

Important Announcement!

FALL STYLES.

We are now displaying an elegant assortment of Fall Styles, comprising the choicest patterns of the new designs, in best Imported and American fabrics. Our garments are all cut on perfectly adjusted patterns, are made by "Jour" tailors, are faultless in fit and indistinguishable from the best custom work.

The Lowest Prices.

Being the largest retailers of Clothing in New England, paying cash for all purchases, and conducting our immense business on true principles of economy, we are able to name prices that would mean bankruptcy to a concern of more limited resources.

GENTLEMEN'S FALL SUITS.

We are all ready now with an unrivalled variety of handsome Styles in all grades of All Wool Suits, from

$6, 8, 10, 12, 15 to $25.00

GENTLEMEN'S FALL OVERCOATS.

In this department we are unusually busy, having a magnificent stock at popular prices. Our stock includes all grades of American and Imported Overcoatings, made in the Latest Styles and ranging in price from $5, 8, 10, 12, to 20.00.

NOTE:—We invite your inspection of our mammoth assortment of Winter Overcoats, which we shall open on the 26th of this month.

BOYS' DEPARTMENT.

We invite every one having boys to clothe to inspect our stock. Our assortment is larger, our styles better, our prices lower, than any other establishment in this city. Our garments are all made in the strongest and most substantial manner from durable fabrics only.

GENTLEMEN'S FURNISHING GOODS.

New Styles in Neckwear; New Styles in Hosiery and Gloves; Bargains in Underwear, etc.

THE LARGEST ASSORTMENT.
THE BEST STYLES.
THE LOWEST PRICES.

EDW. C. ALMY & CO.
163, 165 & 167 ESSEX ST., SALEM.
162 Westminster St., Providence.
Washington, cor. Essex Street, Boston.

BUSHBY & MACURDY'S

CABINET PHOTOGRAPHS

At $3.00 per dozen are 100 per cent. better than any club-check photographs; and are guaranteed fully equal in

Posing, Lighting, Finish and Permanency

to any ·1· cabinets made in Boston or New York.

The largest and best constructed operating studio in New England. 40,000 negatives preserved.

521 Washington St.,

BOSTON.

Elevator from the ground. feb.11—3m

MERRIAM & CO.,

DEALERS IN

WOOD AND COAL

Danversport, Mass.

Kohinoor Coal, Bear Ridge Coal, Sheaokin Coal, Genuine Franklin Coal, Cumberland Coal.

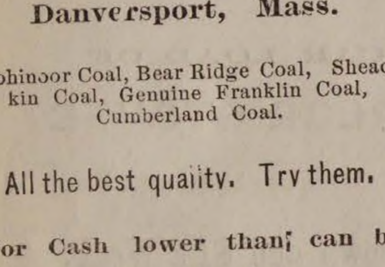
All the best quality. Try them.

For Cash lower than can be bought elsewhere

Orders can be left with B. F. Stevens, Peabody, or by telphone to N. P. Merriam, Tapleyville, and will be promptly attended to.
em—

BATCHELDER & CO.,

DEALER IN



WOOD COAL HAY & STRAW.

Danversport and Peabody.

CyrusT.Batchelder ChauncyS.Richards

OFFICE IN PEABODY:

7 ALLEN'S BLOCK, SQUARE.

GREAT

REDUCTION IN PRICE OF

COAL

— AT —

PICKERINGS

17 Peabody St., Salem, Mass

WHERE ALL FIRST-CLASS COALS CAN BE FOUND,

Specialty made in Steam Coals.

Orders can be left at Office, 12 Front St., or at B. P. Pickering's Store, Salem.

SPECIAL RATES MADE FOR LARGE ORDERS

WHARF, 17 PEABODY STREET

WM. PICKERING, JR & CO.,

17 Peabody Street.

PATENTS.

R. H. EDDY,

No. 76 State St., opposite Kilby, Boston,

Secures patents in the United States; also in Great Britain, France and other foreign countries. Copies of the claims of any patents furnished by remitting one dollar. Assignments recorded at Washington. No Agency in the United States possesses superior facilities for obtaining Patents or ascertaining the patentability of inventions. R. H. EDDY, Solicitor of patents.

TESTIMONIALS.

"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse."
CHAS. MASON, Commissioner of Patents.

"Inventors cannot employ a person more trustworthy or more capable of securing for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office."
EDMUND BURKE, late Com. of Patents.

BOSTON, Oct. 19, 1870.

R. H. EDDY, Esq.—Dear Sir: you procured for me, in 1870, my first patent. Since then you have acted for and advised me in hundreds of cases, and procured many patents, re-issues and extensions. I have occasionally employed the best agencies in New York, Philadelphia and Washington, but I still give you almost the whole of my business, in your line, and advise others to employ you.
Yours truly, GEORGE DRAPER.

Boston, January 1, 1885.—1 y

FOR SALE.

House and land on Aborn street belonging to the estate of the late P. L. WINCHESTER. The house is two and one-half stories, and contains fourteen rooms, and is in good condition. The land measures about 10,000 feet, and there is connected with the premises a good stable. For terms or further particulars apply to
GEORGE J. WINCHESTER,
Administrator

dec 19

CATARRH.

BY A. P. LIGHTHILL, M. D.

The earliest symptoms of Catarrh is a discharge from the head, consisting sometimes of a clear acid fluid, but oftener of a thick, fœtid, purulent yellow or greenish matter, which is usually secreted in excessive abundance, and discharged through the nostrils for throat, and frequently by both channel.

The nature of this discharge varies in different cases, and even in the same individual at different times. In some it is copious, and of a loose or fluid character, while in others it is very viscid or gummy, adhering to the diseased membrane with glue-like tenacity; often this offensive matter concretes in dry, hard masses of crusts, which obstruct breathing and are very difficult to detach, their dislodgment requiring most violent efforts. Sometimes these incrustations come away in lumps of a deep green tint, but occasionally in broad and flat casts of a notable size, on which traces of blood may at times be observed. This condition is very liable to run to serious ulceration, involving a loss of the bony structure of the nose and a subsequent flattening of that organ, and is invariably accompanied by a breath of exceedingly fœtid and sickening odor. In some cases it becomes so revoltingly offensive as to render the sufferer an object of disgust to himself as well as to others.

The nasal membrane is thickened and congested, causing the nose to be stopped up, sometimes on one side, sometimes on the other, and often on both, giving rise to a disagreeable, stuffy sensation in the head, and occasionally to violent paroxysms of sneezing.

A feeling of fullness, heat, irritation, soreness or pain is generally experienced in the nostrils, near the root of the nose, as well as in the upper part of the throat, above and below the soft palate. A distressing sensation of heavy weight or compression is usually complained of over the forehead, especially in the region immediately above and between the eyes. Sometimes the pain is obstinately fixed in one particular part, as in the temples, on top of the head, at the back of the neck, or behind the orbits; and occasionally it manifests itself in the face, of so severe a character that it is frequently mistaken for neuralgia.

The voice is generally affected, and becomes hoarse, weak and uneven, assuming a nasal character, or an unpleasant sniffling quality. Cough of variable severity is not unfrequently one of the symptoms and results of Catarrh.

The sense of smell is generally blunted or entirely lost, and a similar effect on taste may be occasionally observed. The eyes are apt to become irritable, and disposed to water excessively on exposure to the cold or wind, and a sense of weariness of sight is usually experienced after slight exertions. Hearing becomes frequently more or less impaired, and noises in the head very often add materially to the existing distress.

The stomach generally suffers more or less, and becomes weak and irritable; the appetite is capricious, and nearly always bad in the morning.

The patient often complains of lassitude and fatigue, an incapacity for either physical for mental exertions, and a constant disposition to drowsiness and sleep. The mental faculties are also sometimes slightly affected, toss of memory being not unfrequently experienced.

Catarrh may prove fatal, either by debilitating the system and wearing out the patient, or by travelling downward and producing consumption. This fact has been so repeatedly noticed that all experienced practitioners now look upon Catarrh as one of the earliest manifestations of this dreaded complaint. Among educated physicians in this or any other country, Dr. Lighthill was the first to devote his study and investigation to the cure of Catarrh and kindred diseases, and the happy results which attended his labor have been attested to by many of the most prominent citizens of Boston and vicinity. Cases abandoned as hopeless by other physicians have promptly yielded to his painless and effective treatment.

ASTHMA

For years Dr. Lighthill has made this distressing disease his special study, investigating carefully the causes that produce it; his labor was fully rewarded, for he not only established its true pathological condition, but also discovered a new and correct system of treatment for its cure. Hundreds of cases who have been under his care have found permanent relief from this wonderful discovery, from the beginning of this treatment prompt benefit is experienced which is ultimately followed by a complete and radical cure.

An experience of 30 years of constant practice enables Dr. Lighthill to decide on the first examination as to the cureability of any disease within specialty, and no case will be accepted for treatment unless the chances are for favorable results. His specialty comprises the cure of and affections of the Nervous system from whatever cause.

CATARRH, THROAT AFFECTIONS ASTHMA, CONSUMPTION, DEAFNESS DISCHARGE FROM THE EAR, DISEASES OF THE EYE, BLOOD, SKIN, LIVER AND KIDNEY

DR. LIGHTHILL,

Can be consulted

Every Thursday afternoon and evening,

From 2 until 8.30 P. M.

— AT THE —

Essex House, Salem,

And every forenoon from 8 until 12, at his office.

OF 115 BOYLSTON ST., BOSTON.

CONSULTATION FREE.

Book Notices.

The Bay State Monthly for September opens with a brief biography accompanied by an excellent steel plate portrait of that genial and popular statesman, John D. Long. One of the best local sketches ever given in this magazine is on Hingham, contributed to this number by Francis H. Lincoln. Among the illustrations is one of the "Old Meeting House," the oldest house for public worship, in present use, in the United States. "The Conspiracy of 1860-61" by Dr. G. L. Austin, is an article which will be read with deep interest, because it is preliminary to the important series of papers on New England in the Civil War, to be initiated in the October issue of the Bay State. "Two Reform Mayors of Boston" treats of the first and last executives of that city—John Phillips by the Editor and Hugh O'Brien by Col. Chas. H. Taylor, and both articles are well worth reading. There are excellent portraits of both Phillips and O'Brien, the last from a steel plate. Other contributions are "The House of Ticknor, with a glimpse at the 'Old Corner Bookstore,'" illustrated; a memoir of Helen Hunt Jackson, and another instalment of Miss Sparhawk's colonial romance, "Elizabeth." Three poems, and several pages of fresh, vigorous editorials, book reviews, and a historical record complete what may be fairly called a brilliant number of this popular magazine. Bay State Monthly Company, 43 Milk St., Boston. $3.00 a year, in advance. 25 cents a number.

Ballou's Magazine for October is a choice number, and worthy the attention of the reading public. First, there is an illustrated article on the Society Islands, in the Pacific, and near the now famous Caroline Islands claimed by Germany. Then follows that thrilling story, "Lewey and I; or Sailor Boys' Wanderings," by Wm. H. Thomes. In this part of "Lewey and I," the adventurers are passed into Captain Fremont's camp, and have an interview with the explorer on Hawke's Peak, near Monterey, California, and the information which is imparted has a very important bearing on the fortunes of the Americans. Then there are short stories poetry, household matters, etc., all for 15 cents per copy, or $1.50 per year. Published by Thomes & Talbot, 23 Hawley St., Boston, Mass. Ask at the news depots for it.

Frank Leslie's Popular Monthly for October opens with a paper by Richard B. Kimball, entitled "The Governing Powers of the United States." It does not deal with the President nor with Congress, as might be supposed, but with the railroad magnates, and has portraits of C. P. Huntington, Commodore Vanderbilt, W. H. Vanderbilt, J. W. Garrett, George B. Roberts, Alvin Adams (founder of Adams Express) and Jay Gould. "A Summer Day at Stratford-on-Avon" has with it ten Shakespeare pictures; and "Jaunts with Dickens," brings us six characteristic illustrations of that writer's scenes and characters. "A Piece of Black-lead," by F. W. Rudler, is one of those articles on familiar science for which this magazine is famous. It has eight illustrations. The element of fiction is well kept up in the serial "Of two Evils," and several short stories, and the miscellany is abundant and entertaining. Published by Mrs. Frank Leslie, 53, 55 and 57 Park Place, New York City, at 25 cents a number, or $3.00 a year, postage paid.

The October number of the North American Review contains twenty-three Articles by as many different contributors—among whom are an English Cardinal, an American Admiral, two American Major-Generals, two American ex-Ministers to European Courts, an American Artist, an N. Y. Assemblyman, an ex-United States Senator, the Mayor of New York, an ex-Governor of New York, two distinguished American Men of Letters, and a famous American Financier—Manning, Ammen, Ben. Butler, Fitz John Porter, Elihu B. Washburne, Wm. Waldorf Astor, (his first appearance in literature), J. B. Eustis, of Louisiana, Wm. R. Grace, of New York, Theodore Roosevelt, Horatio Seymour, E. P. Whipple, Charles T. Congdon, Dorman B. Eaton, and some others less known. There is also a very characteristic private letter from Gen. Grant to his father, written from Milliken's Bend, just two days before he started in the Vicksburgh Campaign. It is contributed by Col. Fred. Grant.

Lippincott's Magazine for October opens with a well-written article, by E. C. Reynolds, describing the methods of sheep-raising in Texas, and the incidental experiences of ranch-life in that section. "The Philosophy of the Short-Story," by Brander Matthews, is the literary article of the number,—a bone thrown to the critics,—while female readers will find a number of important details on the subject of dressmaking in Theodore Child's account of the great Parisian couturiers There is also a short account of General Grant's visit to Frankfort, with other minor papers. Among the stories, "The Lady Lawyer's First Client," a story in two parts, by Thomas Wharton, is strictly urban, and has the piquancy suggested by its title.

The Magazine of American History for October will contain the fac-simile of an important autograph letter of General Grant (never before published), on the character of Alexander H. Stephens, Vice-President of the Confederacy.

General Wm. Farrar Smith, familiarly known among military men as "Baldy" Smith, will publish in the Magazine of American History, beginning with October, a series of papers on the "Kentucky Campaign of 1861—62" one of the unique features of which is the author's ingenious method of allowing the military leaders to tell their own stories—through their official correspondence. Some curious revelations may be expected.

Lincoln as a Congressman.—Elihu B. Washburne, our late Minister to France, in an article entitled "Abraham Lincoln in Illinois," published in the North American Review for October, thus speaks of the martyred President at the period of his election to Congress:

"Mr. Lincoln took his seat in Congress on the first Monday in December, 1847. He sat in the old hall of the House of Representatives, and for the long session was so unfortunate as to draw one of the most undesirable seats in the hall. He participated but little in the active business of the House, and made the personal acquaintance of but few members. He was attentive and conscientious in the discharge of his duties, and followed the course of legislation closely. When he took his seat in the House, the campaign of 1848 for President was just opening."

"I was again in Washington part of the winter of 1849 (after the election of General Taylor), and saw much of Mr. Lincoln. A small number of mutual friends—including Mr. Lincoln—made up a party to attend the inauguration ball together. It was by far the most brilliant inauguration ball ever given. Of course Mr. Lincoln had never seen anything of the kind before. One of the most modest and unpretending persons present, he could not have dreamed that like honors were to come to him almost within a little more than a decade. He was greatly interested in all that was to be seen, and we did not take our departure until three or four o'clock in the morning. When we went to the cloak and hat room, Mr. Lincoln had no trouble in finding his short cloak, which little more than covered his shoulders, but after a long search was unable to find his hat. After an hour he gave up all idea of finding it. Taking his cloak on his arm he walked out into Judiciary Square, deliberately adjusting it on his shoulders, and started off bareheaded for his lodgings. It would be hard to forget the sight of that tall and slim man, with his short cloak thrown over his shoulders, without any hat on, starting for his long walk home on Capitol Hill at four o'clock in the morning. And this incident is akin to one related to me by the librarian of the Supreme Court of the United States. Mr. Lincoln came to the library one day for the purpose of procuring some law books which he wanted to take to his room for examination. Getting together all the books he wanted, he placed them in a pile on a table. Taking a large bandana handkerchief from his pocket, he tied them up; and putting a stick which he had brought with him through a knot he had made in the handkerchief, adjusting the package of books to his stick, he shouldered it, and marched off from the library to his room. In a few days he returned the books in the same way."

◆

Ayer's Sarsaparilla is highly concentrated, and the most economical blood purifier that can be used.

YOUR HAIR

should be your crowning glory. Ayer's Hair Vigor will restore the vitality and color of youth to hair that has become thin and faded; and, where the glands are not decayed or absorbed, will cause a new growth on bald heads.

MAY the youthful color and vigor of the hair be preserved to old age? Read the following, from Mrs. G. Norton, Somerville, Mass.: "I have used Ayer's Hair Vigor for the past 30 years; and, although I am upwards of 60, my hair is as abundant and glossy to-day as when I was 25."

BE assured, that a trial of Ayer's Hair Vigor will convince you of its powers. Mrs. M. E. Goff, Leadville, Col., writes: "Two years ago, my hair having almost entirely fallen out, I commenced the use of Ayer's Hair Vigor. To-day my hair is 29 inches long, fine, strong, and healthy."

RENEWED and strengthened by the use of Ayer's Hair Vigor, the hair regains its youthful color and vitality. Rev. H. P. Williamson, Davidson College, Mecklenburg Co.; N. C., writes: "I have used Ayer's Hair Vigor for the last ten years. It is an excellent preservative."

BY the use of Ayer's Hair Vigor, Geo. A. Dadman, Waterloo, Mo., had his hair restored to its original healthy condition. He was nearly bald, and very gray. He writes: "Only four bottles of the Vigor were required to restore my hair to its youthful color and quantity."

USING Ayer's Hair Vigor cures diseases of the scalp. F. H. Foster, Princeton, Ind., writes: "I had been troubled for years with a disease of the scalp; my head was covered with dandruff, and the hair dry and harsh. Ayer's Hair Vigor gave me immediate relief, cleansed the scalp, and rendered the hair soft and pliable."

Ayer's Hair Vigor,

PREPARED BY

Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass., U. S. A.
For sale by all Druggists.

A PRIZE Send six cents for postage, and receive free, a costly box of goods which will help you to more money right away than anything else in this world. All, of either sex, succeed from first hour. The broad road to fortune opens before the workers, absolutely sure, At once address, TRUE & Co., Augusta, Me.

Saving Institutions.

WARREN

FIVE CENTS SAVINGS BANK.

PEABODY

PRESIDENT.
Rufus H. Brown

Vice Presidents,

Stephen Blaney,	Geo. F. Osborne,
Lewis Allen,	Amos Merrill,
Chas. B. Farley,	John A. Lord.

Trustees,

Rufus H. Brown,	Alex. B. Merrill,
Stephen Blaney,	C. Warren Osborne,
Lewis Allen,	Geo. S. Osborne,
Chas. B. Farley,	Nathl. Symonds.
Geo. F. Osborne,	Aaron F. Clark,
Amos Merrill,	Albert A. Messer,
John A. Lord,	John Pinder,
Benj. S. Wheeler,	Wm. P. Clark,
Wm. H. Little,	Reuben G. Nelson,
Aaron W. Warren,	Albert H. Merrill.

Clerk,
Albert H. Merrill.

Committee of Investment.
Rufus H. Brown,

Lewis Allen,	Alex. B. Merrill
C. Warren Osborne.	Nathl. Symonds.

Dividends are credited to the depositor as soon as declared, and immediately put upon interest.

New deposits commence drawing interest on the third Wednesday of February, May, August and November.

Peabody, March 6, 1878.

SALEM

FIVE CENTS

SAVINGS BANK.

Cor. Washington & Essex Sts.,

WILLIAM H. JELLY, President.

CHARLES H. HENDERSON, Treas.

REMOVAL.

F. A. WRUCK

Watchmaker and Jeweller,

Would inform his friends and the public generally that he has removed from 165 to

276 ESSEX STREET,

(Wheeler & Wilson's Sewing Machine Office)

Where he will be pleased to see his former customers and as many new ones as will favor him with their patronage.

FINE WATCH AND CLOCK REPAIRING AT REDUCED PRICES PERSONALLY ATTENDED TO

HAZEN A. SPAULDING,

DRUGGIST.

9 Allen's Block, Peabody, Mass.

Where can be found a first class assortment of Pure Drugs and Medicines; also a large assortment of Toilet Articles and Fancy Goods at moderate prices.

A large assortment of Imported and Domestic Cigars.

Physicians' Prescriptions a Specialty.

HAZEN A. SPAULDING

Store Connected by Telephone.

CENTRAL FISH MARKET

(Formerly Southwick's.

RALPH F. DODGE, Prop.

OYSTERS OYSTERS OYSTERS

In the shell or opened.

IPSWICH CLAMS FRESH EVERY DAY

A good selection of Norfolk, Providence River oysters a specialty. The famous Lynn Haven Bay Oysters.

A good assortment of Fresh, Salt, Smoked and Pickled Fish. Orders received and delivered promptly. Connected by telephone

At the old stand on the Square, opposite the monument.

WIN more money than at anything else by taking an agency for the best selling book out. Beginners succeed grandly. None fail. Terms free. HALLETT BOOK CO., Portland, Me.

HELP for working people. Send 10 cents postage, and we will mail you free, a royal, valuable sample box of goods that will put you in the way of making more money in a few days than you ever thought possible at any business. Capital not required. You can live at home and work in spare time only, or all the time. All of both sexes, of all ages, grandly successful, 50 cents to $5 easily earned every evening. That all who want work may test the business, we make this unparalleled offer: To all who are not well satisfied we will send $1 to pay for the trouble of writing us. Full particulars, directions, etc., sent free. Immense pay absolutely sure for all who start at once. Don't delay. Address STINSON & Co., Portland, Me.

MUNROE & ARNOLD'S

PEABODY AND BOSTON

RAILROAD EXPRESS.

Express leaves Peabody at			9 47 A. M
Freight "	"	at	5 00 P. M
Express "	Boston	at	3 30 P. M
Freight "	"	at	4 00 P. M

OFFICE AT FREIGHT DEPOT, Peabody

Express Offices in Boston, 174 Washington and 15 New Devonshire Street.

Freight Office in Boston, 128 State Street

☞ Particular attention paid to removing Furniture, collecting Bills, Notes, Drafts &c., Smallest favors thankfully received.

B. M. HILLS'

PEABODY and SALEM

EXPRESS.

CHANGE OF TIME.

Connects with Eastern and No. Conway Trains Leaves Peabody at 7.30 A. M., and 1.30 P. M. Salem, at 10 A. M., and 4.45 P. M.

Order Boxes.—PEABODY, at Holman's, Pickering's, Bushby & Johnson's, Frost s Drug Store and Sutton's Wool Store.
SALEM, at Savory's Express Office, Roberts' Store, corner Washington and Front Sts., and 15 Central Street.
B. M. HILLS' Express connects with the Eastern and Western Expresses

---

ESTES'

SALEM AND PEABODY EXPRESS.

Leaves Peabody at 7.30 A. M., 1.30 P. M.
Leaves Salem at 10.30 A. M., 4.30 P. M.

Order Slates in Peabody, at G. Stevens', G. H. Jacobs', L. Pratt's, B. B. Humphrey's, W. O. Batchelder's.

In Salem at J. V. & J. Hanson & Co's, Roberts Fruit Store, Henry Hale's, E. Heffernan's, J. J. Mullin, F. C. Radford's, C. A. Ropes & Son, Geo A. Wells & Co's., C. M. Buffum's.

Connects with Eastern Express. Also connects with No. Conway, and the Beverly, Ipswich and Marblehead Expresses.

All orders promptly attended to and satisfaction guaranteed.

CHAS. H. ESTES,

TOWNSEND'S

PEABODY & BOSTON

EXPRESS.

Leaves Peabody at 10 A. M. over the Wakefield Branch R. R.

Leaves the Boston Office, 32 Court Square, at 2 P. M.

All business entrusted to my care will be safely and carefully attended to. Daily and weekly papers supplied.

Order Slates:—At B. F. Stevens', Bushby's, Batchelder's, B. B. Humphrey's, E. S. Howard's, and Nugent Bros. stores.

JAMES F. FOYE.

THOMAS H. O'KEEFE.

JOBBING AND EXPRESSING

of all kinds promptly attended to.

Persons desiring the removal of furnitue or ashes, rubbish, you can have such work satisfactorily done by leaving orders at G., Stevens', Batchelder's, or addressing Box 545, Peabody.

NEW COUPE.

Henry C. Wilson would inform the public that he will run a

PUBLIC CARRIAGE

to and from each train, and will also attend to calls around town, and to late trains and entertainments in Salem. Will also attend to Baggage Expressing and Jobbing of all kinds. Terms Reasonable. Order slate at Depot.

HENRY C. WILSON
Peabody Mass.

CROSS,

PHOTOGRAPHER.

☞ There having been demand or more Clubs, I have concluded to issue a limited number.

INDUCEMENTS:

Two dozen Cards and two Cabinets given to any one getting up a Club of ten persons. Price of Club, $20. Each person to have one dozen Cards and one Cabinet finished in any of the different styles desired.

IRA P. NADOR,

DEALER IN

CHOICE CONFECTIONERY.

46 MARKET STREET LYNN

CHARLES SIMONDS,

LIVERY STABLE,

(HOTEL STABLE).

SAFE and Reliable Horses, and Easy Carriages of the best style, furnished at short notice, for Funerals, Weddings, Business or Pleasure Riding.

$200,000 in presents given away. Send us 5 cents postage, and by mail you will get free a package of goods of large value, that will start you in work that will at once bring you in money faster than anything else in America. All about the $200,000 in presents with each box. Agents wanted everywhere, of either sex, of all ages, for all the time, or spare time only, to work for us at their own home. Fortunes for all workers absolutely assured. Don't delay. H. HALLETT & Co., Portland, Maine.

Professional Cards.

THOMAS M. STIMPSON

Attorney and Counselor-at-Law.
194 ESSEX STREET SALEM
Residence Lowell Street, Peabody.

HENRY WARDWELL,

Attorney and Counselor-at-Law.
PEABODY,
And 35 Court St., Boston

FRANK E. FARNHAM,

Attorney and Counselor-at-Law.
REAL ESTATE, INSURANCE AND INVESTMENT AGENT,
ALLEN'S BLOCK Peabody Square,

REMOVAL.

B. C. PERKINS,
Counselor at Law,
Has removed to Kinsman's Block,
81 WASHINGTON STREET, SALEM.
Evening consultations at residence, Peabody.

EUGENE T. McCARTHY,

Attorney and Counsellor at Law.
NO. 8 ALLEN'S BLOCK,
PEABODY.
oct 29—1y

FREDERIC G. PRESTON,

Attorney and Counsellor at Law.
ALLEN'S BLOCK.
RESIDENCE, 171 BOSTON ST., SALEM.

CHARLES A. WEARE,

Attorney and Counsellor at Law.
ALLEN'S BUILDING,
PEABODY, MASS.

MISS MARY E. LYNCH

TEACHER OF
Piano and Organ.
South Peabody, Mass.
Terms of tuition 8 and 10 dollars. Pupils visited at their homes if desired.

MISS ANNIE L. ORR,

TEACHER OF
VOCAL & INSTRUMENTAL MUSIC
Would solicit pupils. For terms apply to W P. Clark, or Miss Orr, No. 7 Paltry Place. Lynn, Mass. apr 29

Business Cards.

HENRY L. WHIDDEN,

PAINTER.

Orders left at A. H. Whidden's Store will be attended to.

J. H. ALLEN,

UNDERTAKER,

Removed to 36 St. Peter street, Salem
jan 11

W. S. OSBORNE,

TOWN UNDERTAKER & FURNISHER

Home, 96 Central St., Peabody. Office Second Door west of Hay Scales.

EDWIN B. BALCOM,

Architect and Builder.

Plans, Specifications and Estimates furnished at Short Notice. Contracts Made and Faithfully executed.

Shop on Walnut St. Residence, 78 Washington St.

PEABODY, MASS.

$1

13 WEEKS.

The POLICE GAZETTE will be mailed, securely wrapped, to any address in the United States for three months on receipt of

ONE DOLLAR.

Liberal discount allowed to postmasters, agents and clubs. Sample copies mailed free. Address all orders to

RICHARD K. FOX,
FRANKLIN SQUARE, N Y.

TRY LYONS'

Hair Tonic.

It cleanses the scalp, removes dandruff, and promotes the growth of the hair.

Price 50 Cents per Bottle.

Put up and for sale only by

P. J. LYONS,

on the square.

Hale's Honey the great Cough cure, 25c., 50c. & $1
Glenn's Sulphur Soap heals & beautifies, 25c.
German Corn Remover kills Corns & Bunions
Hill's Hair and Whisker Dye—Black and Brown, 50c.
Pike's Toothache Drops cure in 1 Minute, 25c
Dean's Rheumatic Pills are a sure cure, 50c.
feb 18--1y

HEADQUARTERS !

FOR CIGARS.

THE BEST

to be found in the world? To prove it just call at the HORSE RAILROAD STATION on the Square, and see them

GEO. STEVENS,

PEABODY SQUARE,

Agent for the Naumkeag Laundry.

MAYO'S

Compound Vegetable Anæsthetic.

A safe and pleasant substitute for gas and ether.

Discovered by Dr. N. K. Mayo of Boston, April 1883, subsequently administered by him in nearly two thousand cases, producing perfect slumber, being applicable to the child, the delicate sensitive woman as well as the hardy man. No ill effects have followed its use in any case, it acting rather as a vegetable tonic.

It controls the patient one-fourth longer than gas giving us time to remove from three to twenty teeth. It is with great confidence we have introduced it into our practice, giving very successful results.

DRS. FRIZZELL & WILLIAMS

DENTISTS.

LEE HALL

Opposite City Hall, Lynn, Mass.

Administered also at our branch office, Marblehead.

Dr. Williams' Toothache Drops at Druggists.

O. B. CHADWICK & CO.,

(SUCCESSORS TO CHAS. TAPLEY)

FIRE INSURANCE AGENTS

NO. 8 ALLEN'S BLOCK, PEABODY

Over $12,000,000 Cash Capital represented

Also Agents for Holyoke, Merrimac, Quincy, and Dorchester Mutual Fire Ins. Cos.

Particular attention given to insuring Household Furniture, Family Wearing Aparel, Musical Instruments, Libraries, and Merchandise of all kinds in sums of $100and upward, for one, three or five years, at the owest rates

---

D. P. GROSVENOR.

PHARMACIST AND DRUGGIST.

Compounder of

Physicians, Prescriptions

and dealer in

RELIABLE DRUGS.

35 MAIN STREET.

PEABODY, MASS.

PEABODY

LAUNDRY.

Goods called for and delivered free of charge.

C. A. SANGER

7 LOWELL STREET,

UP STAIRS.

SWEETSER'S

DRUG STORE

NO, 37 MAIN STREET,

PEABODY

Drugs and Medicines of all kinds; Toilet Articles, Sponges, Brushes, Perfumery, &c., constantly on hand.

Prescriptions carefully and promptly prepared.

REMOVED TO

No. 241 Essex St..

PRICE BLOCK,

DANIEL T. SMITH,

Watchmaker.

CRAIG'S

KIDNEY CURE

The Genuine.

WILLIAM T. LEE

AGENT

NOW FOR

Base Ball,

and the place to get

BASE BALLS

AND BATS

at the lowest prices is of

DANIEL J. SWEENEY

Next to the Old Hotel on the Square.

Here can also be found a good assortment of

Fruit,
Confectionery,
Cigars and
Tobacco.

Principee, Electric,
Serenader, Leader,

5 CENTS.

Harvard and Boat Club,

10 CENTS.

DANIEL J. SWEENEY.

HYGEIA

IF YOU DESIRE

A MEDICINE

To regulate and build up your system and purify the blood of all poisonous humor use

FERRATED HYGIENIC WINE

FOR SALE BY DRUGGISTS.

ALLAN LINE

ROYAL MAIL STEAMSHIPS

Sailing from Quebec every Saturday for Liverpool.

SHORTEST OCEAN VOYAGE

Only five days from land to land.

Extra services from GLASCOW, GALWAY, QUEENSTOWN and LONDONDERRY to Boston direct for the convenience of Steerage passengers, to whom kind treatment is made a Specialty. Cabin, $70 and $80. Intermediate, $40. Steerage at Low Rates.

LEVE & ALDEN, Gen'l Pass. Agts.

15 State Street, Boston.

JOHN LINEHAN, Agt. for Peabody.

BOSTON & LOWELL R. R.
JUNE 29, 1885.

PASSENGER SERVICE FROM SALEM:

Leave Salem for Lowell, and Lawrence at 7 10, 10 55 A. M., 4 40 P. M. Sunday 7 20 P. M.
Leave Lowell for Salem, at 7 35 A. M., 1 10, 6 P. M. Sunday 7 43 A. M.
Leave Lawrence for Salem, at 7 45 A. M., 1 05, 6 P. M. Sunday 7 45 A. M.
Leave Wilmington Junction for Salem, at 8 09 A. M., 1 38, 6 24 P. M. Sunday 8 13 A. M.
Leave North Reading for Salem, at 8 20 A. M., 1 48, 6 34 P. M. Sunday 8 24 A. M.
Leave West Peabody for Salem, at 8 34 A. M., 2, 6 45 P. M. Sunday 8 36 A. M.

The 7 10 A. M. and 4 40 P. M. trains from Salem connect at Wilmington Junction for Boston via B. & L. R. R.

Leave Boston (Boston & Lowell Depot) for Wilmington Junction and North Reading, at 1, 5 30 P. M.

All trains from Salem connect at Lowell for Nashua, Manchester and Concord, N. H.

The 7 10 A. M. train connects at Lowell for Peterboro, Keene and intermediate stations.

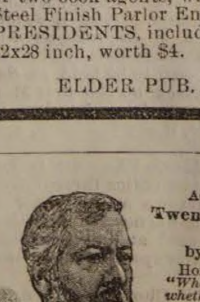
The 10 55 A. M. train connects at Ayer Junction for stations on W. & N. R. R., Springfield, Hartford, New Haven and New York; also for Troy, Albany and the West via Hoosac Tunnel Line.

C. S MELLEN, Gen'l Supt.
LUCIUS TUTTLE, Gen'l Pass. Agent.

A PRESENT!

Our readers for 12 cents in postage stamps to pay for mailing and wrapping and names of two book agents, will receive FREE a Steel Finish Parlor Engraving of all OUR PRESIDENTS, including Cleveland, size 22x28 inch, worth $4. Address

ELDER PUB. CO., Chicago, Ill.



AGENTS WANTED for
Twenty Years of Congress,
1861—1881,
by James G. Blaine.

Hon. J. S. Wise of Va. says: "Whoever takes it up, no matter whether he be Mr. Blaine's friend or enemy, will never put it down until he has read the whole." Agents make from $200 to $1000 per month. Address, The Henry Bill Pub. Co., Norwich, Conn.

St. JACOBS OIL
TRADE MARK

THE GREAT GERMAN REMEDY
FOR PAIN.
CURES
Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Sciatica,
Lumbago, Backache, Headache, Toothache,
Sore Throat, Swellings, Sprains, Bruises, Burns, Scalds, Frost Bites,
AND ALL OTHER BODILY PAINS AND ACHES.
Sold by Druggists and Dealers everywhere. Fifty Cents a bottle.
Directions in 11 Languages.
THE CHARLES A. VOGELER CO.
(Successors to A. VOGELER & CO.) Baltimore, Md., U. S. A.

Happiness

results from that true contentment which indicates perfect health of body and mind. You may possess it, if you will purify and invigorate your blood with Ayer's Sarsaparilla. E. M. Howard, Newport, N. H., writes: "I suffered for years with Scrofulous humors. After using two bottles of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, I great relief. It has entirely restored me to health." James French, Atchison, Kans., writes: "To all persons suffering from Liver Complaint, I would strongly recommend Ayer's Sarsaparilla. I was afflicted with a disease of the liver for nearly two years, when a friend advised me to take this medicine. It gave prompt relief, and has cured me." Mrs. H. M. Kidder, 41 Dwight st., Boston, Mass., writes: "For several years I have used Ayer's Sarsaparilla in my family. I never feel safe even without it. As a liver medicine and general purifier of the blood, it has no equal." Mrs. A. B. Allen, Winterpock, Va., writes: "My youngest child, two years of age, was taken with Bowel Complaint, which we could not cure. We tried many remedies, but he continued to grow worse, and finally became so reduced in flesh that we could only move him upon a pillow. It was suggested by one of the doctors that Scrofula might be the cause of the trouble. We procured a bottle of and commenced giving it to him. It surely worked wonders, for, in a short time, he was completely cured."

Found

At Home

AYER'S Sarsaparilla

Sold by all Druggists.

Price $1; Six bottles, $5.

Prepared by Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass., U. S. A.

RATES REDUCED.

MAPLE HOUSE,

JEFFERSON, N. H.

The proprietors having in view that the great land slide which occurred on July 10th, 1885, will attract a great many people to Jefferson, during September and October, offer to entertain people during that time at from

$7.00 to 8.00 per week,

in all parts of the house. Send for descriptive circular.

Coaches connect with all trains at Jefferson Station.

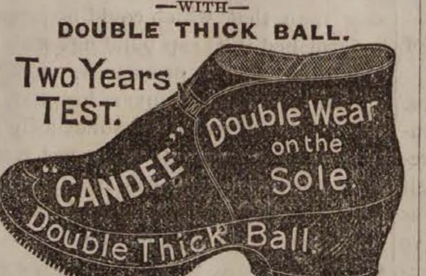
Open till Nov. 1st.

MRS. M. H. BOWLES & SON.

"CANDEE" ARCTICS

—WITH—

DOUBLE THICK BALL.



Two Years TEST.
"CANDEE"
Double Wear on the Sole.
Double Thick Ball.

The "CANDEE" RUBBER Co. give a better Rubber than can be obtained elsewhere for the same money, with their great improvement of the DOUBLE THICK BALL. The extra thickness of rubber right under the tread, gives DOUBLE WEAR.

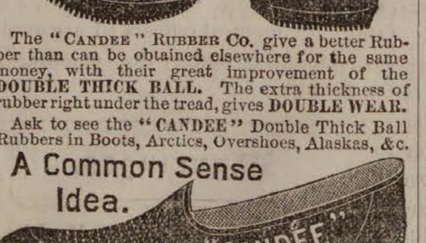
Ask to see the "CANDEE" Double Thick Ball Rubbers in Boots, Arctics, Overshoes, Alaskas, &c.



A Common Sense Idea.
"CANDEE"
Double Thick Ball.

NUGENT BROS.,

Agents Candee Co.

PEABODY, MASS.

Family Flour.

A Full stock of Spring Wheat patent process and Winter Wheat Family Flour, fresh ground from old wheat, and warranted.

CHAS. A. ROPES & SON.

PHARMACY COMMISSIONERS.—The new Board of Registration in Pharmacy, is to consist of five skilled pharmacists, resident in the Commonwealth who have had ten consecutive years of practical experience in the compounding and dispensing of physicians' prescriptions; they are to enter upon their terms of office on October 1, and on that date of each year thereafter one of them is to retire unless reappointed for a term of five years. Of the members of this board the compensation is to be $5 for each day of actual service, together with travelling and incidental expenses. After their organization they are to register for fifty cents all persons and firms who for three consecutive years have been engaged in the business of retailing or dispensing drugs, medicines, chemicals or poisons; any other persons who desire to engage in this business must pass a satisfactory examination and pay for his certificate a fee of $5. Every person who receives a certificate of registration must display it conspicuously in his place of business.

At a meeting of the executive council Wednesday, Governor Robinson nominated for pharmacy commissioners, Samuel A. D. Sheppard of Newton for five years, Henry M. Whiting of Lawrence for four years, Freeman H. Butler of Lowell for three years, John H. Manning of Pittsfield for two years and Henry A. Estabrook of Fitchburg for one year.

Mr. Sheppard, who is one of the best known Boston druggists, was born in Salem, and is about 42 years of age. He attended the public schools there, after leaving which he entered the employ of C. H. & J. Price, druggists, with whom he stayed about nine years. From there he went to Boston, and established the store which he now occupies at 1129 Washington Street, corner of Dover. He has been president of the College of Pharmacy, and is now its treasurer. He was a graduate of the college years ago.

Mr. Estabrook, the last-named member of the commission, was also for years a resident of Salem, and was here engaged in the drug business with the same firm as Mr. Sheppard, the two serving as clerks together. He is esteemed as a very reliable man, thoroughly competent to deal with questions of pharmacy. He is now in business at Fitchburg, where he has been established about three years.

* * *

WHY BUTLER DIDN'T WANT TO BE NOMINATED.—In an article in the North American Review, General Butler says that it was very much desired that he should take the republican nomination for Vice President in 1864, and he tells why he didn't take it:—

> Being made to sit as presiding officer over the senate, to listen for four years to debates more or less stupid, in which I can take no part or say a word, nor even be allowed to vote upon any subject which concerns the welfare of the country, except when my enemies might think my vote would injure me in the estimation of the people, and therefore, by some parliametary trick, make a tie on such a question, so I should be compelled to vote; and then, at the end of four years(as nowadays no Vice President is ever elected President), and because of the dignity of the position I had held, not to be permitted to go on with my profession, and therefore with nothing left for me to do save to ornament my lot in the cemetery tastefully, and get into it gracefully and respectably as a Vice President should do.

That is about as near the truth as Butler ever gets.

It is true that his name was proposed for Vice President in 1864. It is also true that he heard of it, and objected to the plan, not for the reasons he now gives, but beause he "didn't want to run on the ticket with Abe Lincoln."

That this was the ground for his refusal to take the nomination, in case it should be offered to him, was well known to those who were informed of the exact state of affairs at the time.

Perhaps the knowledge of the fact that Butler, in the last days of the war, uttered an insult to the President who was shortly to be made a martyr, may help him in boosting himself once more into public notice; but we doubt whether the whole truth of the 1864 story would help him much with the public.—Boston Record.

* * *

At this season of the year if you are gathering autumn leaves and get poisoned by ivy, one of the simplest remedies is to wash the afflicted parts in water as hot as can be borne. This may be repeated several times a day, and if promply done before the blisters have come out will prevent their appearance, and even afterwards will stop the itching.

* * *

OUR ENGLISH COUSINS.—London.—In a recent trade mark suit it was shown by sworn evidence that over nine million bottles of St. Jacobs Oil had been sold here during the past few years. Leading chemists certify that the sale of this remedy exceeds that of all others, and that it is being recognized as the best pain cure ever discovered. In serious rheumatism it has accomplished astonishing results.

W. P. B. Brooks & Co.,

151 Hanover St., Boston.

Furniture, Carpets,

STOVES, CROCKERY, SILVER WARE.

And Everything in the Line, on Easy Terms.

☞ Always the Best Place to Trade

W. P. B. BROOKS, A. D. DAMON,
F. D. SPERRY.

E. R. MORSE SAFE CO.

MANUFACTURER OF

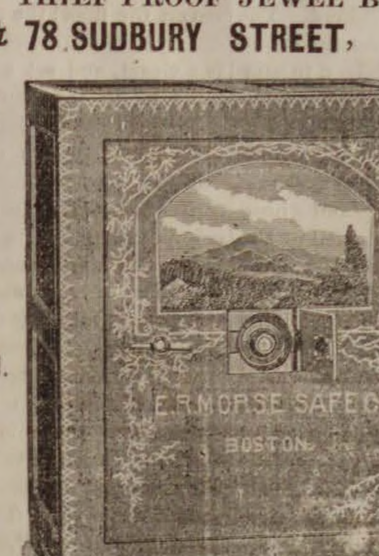
FIRE & BURGLAR PROOF SAFES, VAULT DOORS, STEEL CHESTS, SILVER SAFES, EXPRESS SAFES, FIRE AND THIEF PROOF JEWEL BOXES.

76 & 78 SUDBURY STREET, BOSTON.

Second hand SAFES.

SAFES bought and sold.

SAFES opened and repaired.



E. R. MORSE SAFE CO.
BOSTON.

SAFES exchanged.

SAFES moved.

Combination LOCKS put on to Old Safes.

Our Safes have only PATENT CONCEALED DIAL LOCK which is used as a day door and is a great protection in case of fire, as the dial cannot be melted or broken off.

E. R. MORSE.

Was established in business October 10th, 1844.

Store and Window Awnings,
Hammocks,
Boatsails and
Wagon Covers

Anton M. Liebsch

7 DERBY WHARF,

SALEM.

BURDETT
Business
COLLEGE

167 TREMONT ST., BOSTON.

Day and Evening Sessions.

Book-keeping, Business Arithmetic, Penmanship, Commercial Law, Business Correspondence, etc.

For complete information call at the College Office, or send for Journal

v 15—2m

BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS!

BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS FOR That Ache in Small of Back.

BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS RELIEVES Weary, Aching Bones.

BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS CURES Dyspepsia.

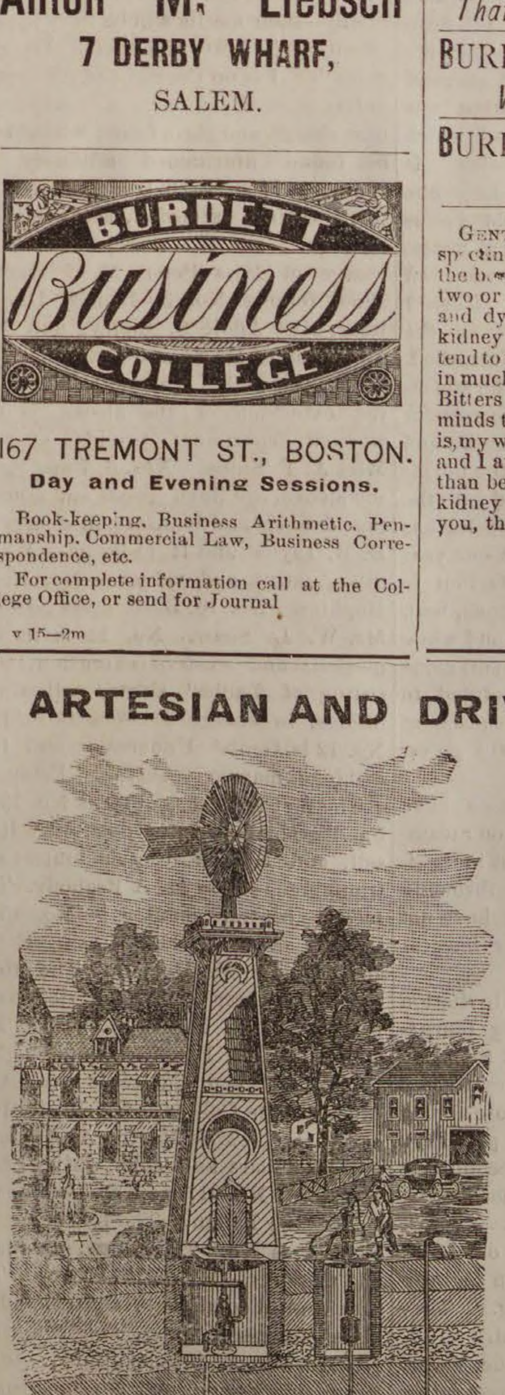
Dyspepsia.

GENTS:—I feel it my duty to say respecting Burdock Blood Bitters, that it is the best medicine I ever took. I suffered two or three years from stomach troubles and dyspepsia, as well as from liver and kidney complaint. I was not able to attend to my business. My wife was afflicted in much the same way. We read of your Bitters in the papers and made up our minds that we would try them. The result is, my wife and I began to improve at once, and I am now able to do more hard work than before in ten years. It relieved my kidney troubles as well. We both wish you, the makers of it, Godspeed.

JOSEPH LANDON,
Chelsea, Vt.

ARTESIAN AND DRIVEN WELLS.



All of our

DRIVEN WELLS

for Domestic, Farm, or any other purpose well, receive prompt attention.

Thousands of these wells are being used in Tanneries, Breweries and other manufactories, where cool and better water is needed and also save water bills.

We are also prepared to

DRILL WELLS

six or eight inches in diameter through earth or rock, by steam power.

B. F. SMITH,

OFFICE,

266 WASHINGTON STREET,

Room 3, Boston

Cut showing the Driven Well flowing, pumped by Hand and Wind Power. Arranged with Set-Length, (anti-freezing), for Domestic, Farm and Irrigating purposes; where large amount of water is needed Steam Pumps are.

Conveyances.

BOSTON & MAINE RAILROAD On and after Monday, Je. 28, 1885 trains will run as follows,—

EASTERN DIVISION

TRAINS LEAVE PEABODY FOR BOSTON AT 6 44, 7 25, 8 02, 8 31, 10 33, 11 07 A. M., 2 01, 3 37, 5 08, 6 46 P. M.
BOSTON FOR PEABODY, 8, 10 55 A. M., 1, M., 3, 4, 4 40, 5 15, 6 P. M.

LEAVE SALEM FOR

Lynn and Boston at 5 37, 6, 6,30, 7, 7 14, 7 35, 7 48, 7 51, 8 13, 8 34 (does not stop at Lynn), 8 40, 8 58, 9 20, 9 55, 10.48 A.M., 12 M., 12 30, 12 52, 2 15, 3 12, 3 45, 4 10, 4 25, 5 17, 5 48, 6 33, 6.58. 7 20, 7 57, 8 55, 9, 9 55 P. M. Sundays, 5.37, 8 40, 11 35 A. M., 1 05, 3 05, 5 40, 8 15, P. M.
Swampscott, 6, 6 30, 7 14, 7.48. 7 51, 8 40, 8 58, 10 48, A. M.. 12 M, 12 52, 2 15, 3 45, 4 25, 5 17, 5 48, 6 33, 6 58, 7 20, 7 57, 9, 9 55, P. M. Sundays, 8 40 11 35 A. M., 1 05, 3 05, 5 40, 8 15 P. M
Beverly, 6 53, 8 11, 8 40, 10 42, 11 20 A. M., 12 02, 1 05, 2 27, 2 47, 3 56. 4 05, 5 12, 5 57. 6 37, 7 05, 7 15, 7 45, 10 10, 11, P. M. Sundays 8 45 A. M.
Beverly Farms, Manchester and Gloucester—6 53, 8 40, 11 20 A. M., 2 47, 4 07, 5 35, 7 05, 7 45, 10 10 P M
Essex, 8 11 A. M., 3 56, 6 37 P. M.
Ipswich 8 11, 9 35, 10 42 A, M., 1 05, 2 27, 3 56, 5 12, 6 37. 7 15 P. M, Sundays 8 45 A. M., 7 30 P. M.
Newburyport, 8 11, 9 35, 10, 10 42 A. M., 1 05, 2 02, 2 27, 3 56. 5 12, 6 37, 7 15 P. M. Sundays 8 45 A. M., 7 30 P. M.
Amesbury, 8 11, 10 42 A. M.. 1 05, 3 56, 5.12 P. M.
Portsmouth—8 11, 9 35, 10, 10 42 A. M.. 1 05, 2 02, 3 56, 5 12, ‡7 15 P. M. Sundays 8 45 A. M., 7 30 P. M.
Dover, 8 11, A. M., 2 02, 5 12 P. M.
Great Falls and Rochester, 8 11, 10 A. M., 2 02, 3 56 P. M.
Wolfboro—8 11, 10 A, M., 2 02, 3 56 P. M.
North Conway—8 11, 10 A M., 2 02 P. M.
Portland—8 11, 9 35 A M, 1 05, ‡7 15 P M. Sundays 7 30 P. M.
Augusta—9 35 A. M., 1 05, †7 15 P. M. Sundays 7 30 P. M.
Bangor—9 35 A. M., 1 05, †7 15 P. M. Sundays 7 30 P. M.
St. John and Halifax, 9 35 A. M. †7 15 P. M. Sundays, 7 30 P. M.
Montreal, 9 35 P. M.

And FOR SALEM—from

Montreal—10 15 P. M.
St. John—8 P. M. (daily except Saturday).
Bangor, 8 A. M., 1 30, 8 P. M. Sundays 8 P. M.
Augusta, 6, 10 A. M., 2 45, 10 55 P. M. Sundays 10 55 P. M.
Portland—2, 9 A M, 1, 6 P M. Sundays, 2 A. M
North Conway—7 20 11 A M, 3 30 P. M.
Wolfboro—6 05 (Mondays only), 8 15, 11 20 A M, 4 05 P M.
Rochester—7 22. 9 42 A. M., 1 05, 5 37 P. M.
Great Falls—7 38, 9 57 A. M, 1 18, 5 50 P. M.
Dover—7, 10 25 A. M., 4 30 P. M.
Portsmouth—4 05, 7 30, 7 35, 8 20, 10 50 A M, 1 55, 2 55, 5, 6 40, 7 40 P M, Sundays, 4 05 A. M, 4 P. M.
Amesbury—6 40, 8 40, 11 15 A. M, 1 30, 3 05, 5 20 P. M.
Newburyport—4 45. 6 30, 7, 8. 8 13. 9 05, 11 35 A. M. 2 35, 3 30, 3 38. 5 43, 7 20, 8 15 P. M. Sundays, 4 45 A. M., 4 45 P. M.
Ipswich—5 07, 6 48, 7 17, 8 15, 8 31, 9 25, 11 59 A. M., 2 49, 3 55, 6 06, 7 36 P. M. Sundays 5 07 A. M., 5 06 P. M.
Essex—7, 11 45 A. M, 5 45 P. M.
Rockport—6 05, 7 20, 8 30, 10 A. M., 1 20, 5, 6 10, 9 P. M. Sundays—7 45 A. M.
Gloucester—6 15, 7 29, 8 39, 10 08 A M, 1 30, 5 08 6 20, 9 09 P M. Sundays—7 55 A. M.
Manchester—6 30, 7 42, 8 51, 10 21 A. M., 1 45, 5 22, 6 32, 9 23 P. M. Sundays, 8 09 A. M.
Beverly—6 50, 7 05, 7 40, 8 05, 8 50, 9 11, 9 45, 10 40 A. M., 12 20, 12 45, 2 05, 4 16, 5 40, 6 23, 6 50, 7 08, 7 50, 9 43, 11 10 P. M. Sundays 8 30 A. M. 5 30 P. M.
Swampscott,—6 44, 8 50, 10 34, 11 26, 11 54 A. M., 12 36. 2 19. 3 28, 4 31, 6 20, 6 28, 6 56, 8 29, 10, 10 49, 11 49 P. M. Sundays 8 36, 11 17 A. M., 1 57, 5 51, 10 11 P. M.
Lynn—6 40, 7 59, 8 30, 8 46, 9 25, 9 51, 10 30, 11 10, 11 23, 11 51 A. M., 12 33, 12 55. 1 52, 2 15, 3 25, 3 45, 3 55, 4 28, 5 03, 5 24, 5 45. 6 16, 6 25, 6 52, 7 05, 7 35, 8 25, 9 55, 10 45, 11 45 P. M. Sundays 8 32, 11 14 A, M, 1 03, 5 47. 7 22, 10 06, P. M.
Boston—6 10, 7 30*, 8, 8 05, 9, 9 30, 10. 10 45, 10 55 11 15 A. M. 12 M, 12 30, 1 30, 1 40, 2 15, 3, 3 20, 3 30, 4, 4 40, 5, 5 15, 5 40, 6, 6 20, 6 40, 7 10, 7 50, 9 20, 10 15, 11 15 P M. Sundays, 8, 10 40 A. M, 1 20, 5 10, 7, 9 30 P. M.

*Via Saugus Branch.
†Change at Newburyport.

MARBLEHEAD BRANCH.

Salem for Marblehead—6 50, 7 55, 8 40, 9 30 A M, 1, 2 30, 4 20, 5 15, 6 05, 7 20 P M.
Marblehead for Salem—6 30, 7 30, 8 15, 9 10, 10 15 A M, 2 3 20, 4 55, 5 40, 6 25 P M.

SOUTH READING BRANCH.

Trains leave the South Reading Depot in Salem for Boston, 7 25, 9 05 A. M., 1 40, 4 35 P. M.
Boston for Salem—7 40, 11 30 A M, 3 10, 5 15 P. M.
Wakefield for Salem—8 13 A M, 12 06, 3 43, 5 48 P M.
Lynnfield for Salem—8 24 A M, 12 16, 3 52, 5 59 P M.
Peabody for Salem—8 35 A M, 12 27, 4 02, 6 07 P M.

LAWRENCE BRANCH.

Salem for Lowell—7 A. M., 6 P. M.
Salem for Lawrence—7 09, 11 32 A M, 4 43, 6 P M.
Salem for Middleton—6 15, 7, 8 58, 11 35 A M, 3 36, 4 43, 6 P M.
Salem for Danvers—6 15, 7. 7 28, 8 58, 11 32 A M, 12 47, 3 36, 4 43, 5 20. 6. 6 42 P M.
Lowell for Salem—7 10, 9 45 A. M., 12 15, 5 15 P. M
Lawrence for Salem—7 40, 10 5 A M, 1. 5 50 P M.
Middleton for Salem—7, 8 07, 10 10, 10 45 A M, 1 35, 4 45, 6 27, P M.
Danvers for Salem—6 37, 7 15, 7 50, 8 31, 10 25, 11 A. M, 1 50, 3 30, 5, 5 50, 6 39, P M.
Peabody for Salem—6 44, 7 25, 8 02, 8 31, 10 33, 11 07 A M. 2 01, 3 37, 5 08, 5 58, 6 46 P M.

JAMES T. FURBER, General Manager.
Boston Je. 28, 1885.

NEW YORK & NEW ENGLAND

RAILROAD.

Shorter by twenty miles than any other Line between Boston and New York.

Now a Double Track Road to a Connection with the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad, West of Willimantic.

LEAVE BOSTON.

8.30 A. M. *DAY EXPRESS TRAIN for New York (via Middletown and New Haven); Pullman Cars Boston to New York. A part of this train runs through to Hartford, New Britain Waterbury, Danbury and Fishkill.

3.00 P. M. †NEW ENGLAND LIMITED for New York (via Air Line Route) running 86 miles without a stop. Due Grand Central Depot. New York, at 9.00 P. M. Connects week days at Willimantic with train for Hartford, New Britain and Waterbury.

3.30 P. M. *AFTERNOON MAIL for New York, (via Middletown and New Haven), due New York 11.25 P. M. A part of this train runs through to Hartford, New Britain and Bristol.

6.30 P. M. †PHILADELPHIA EXPRESS for Hartford, New Haven. Jersey City, Trenton, Philadelphia, Baltimore and Washington, connecting for Richmond and points South. Through Pullman cars to Washington.

6.30 P. M. *NORWICH LINE EXPRESS for New York, New London, Norwich, Danielsonville and Putnam. Train connects at New London with Steamer City of Worcester, or City of Boston.

Seats in Parlor Cars, Berths in Pullman Cars. State-rooms on Steamers, Tickets and information obtained at Office, 322 Washington St, or Depot, foot of Summer St.

BOSTON
A. C. KENDALL, Gen'l Pass. Agt.

BOSTON, REVERE BEACH & LYNN R.R. FALL & WINTER TIME-TABLE.

June, 15, 1885.

Leave Boston at 6.50, 7.30, 8, 8.30, 9, 10, 11 A.M. 12 M.; 1, 2, 3, 3.30, 4, 4.30, 5, 5.30, 6, §6.30, 7.30, 9.30, 11.15 P. M.
Leave Lynn at §6.10, 6.50, 7, 7.30, 8. 8.30, 9, 10, 11, A.M. 12 M.; 1, 2. 2.45, 3.15, 3.45, 4.15, 4.45, 5,15, 5.45, 6.30 8.45, 10.15, P. M.

SUNDAY TRAINS.

Leave Boston at 10, 11 A. M.; 12 M.; 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8. 9, 10, P. M.
Leave Lynn at 9, 10, 11 A. M.; 12 M.; 1. 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9.15 P. M.

§Workingmen's train.

JOHN A. FENNO, G. T. A.
C. A. HAMMOND, Supt

CALL AT THIS OFFICE FOR FINE JOB PRINTING. Specimens given

OUR COMPETITOR EXHIBITS HIS CAT AND SO DO WE.

TAKE YOUR OWN COMPARISON

As our cat is pleasing and more contented looking than his, so our customers go away better satisfied with the fine quality of the boots and shoes purchased of us at lower prices than the same goods are sold by other dealers.

Call and see for yourselves.

F. W. Lucas & Co.,

186 ESSEX STREET,

Head of Central Street, Salem

AT THE TOWN FARM.

A VISIT TO THE "SILO" AND A FEW FACTS ABOUT "ENSILAGE".

A silo only a few years ago was not heard of in this country and although they are quite common now, there are many of our readers who have never seen fodder for cattle put up in this way. A silo has been defined as a pit, vat, or cistern, the sides and bottom being made water-tight with an open top. The silo at the town farm was built about a year ago by Mr. N. M. Quint, is 36 feet long 12 feet wide and 12 feet deep, and is made of stone and cemented on each side and the bottom. This year an addition of about six feet is being built above the stone work, and this will be sheathed, making it water tight the same as the rest. The whole is protected by a shed roof in which there are several windows. This silo is located at the rear end of the barn. While in some silos Hungarian grass, clover, rye, etc., are preserved, in most of them in this vicinity, the forage is corn. This matter is called "ensilage." Superintendent George F. Drew planted about nine acres of fodder corn, using Southern White and Blunt's Prolific, and has raised a handsome crop giving him not only enough to fill his silo but sufficient to feed to the stock right along. Some of the corn stocks have grown to the height of 16 feet and the whole field will average 12 feet. This corn is cut and carted to the silo and large piles of it were distributed about. The work of cutting the corn was very interesting. There was a large cutter gauged to cut the corn stocks in inch pieces, and it was like feeding a bark mill, and kept Mr. Drew constantly engaged in feeding it, and it seemed as if it was hungry all the time. The cutter was placed against an opening and the corn followed a wide trough into the silo. Here after it was cut, four or five men were engaged constantly in treading and spreading it. The power was furnished by horses, and the work went rapidly along. It is estimated that a two horse tread-power would cut forty or fifty tons a day. Mr. Drew only has time to attend to it with other duties, and it will probably take seven days to fill the silo as it holds about 170 tons.

After the silo is filled, the top is covered with two inch plank laid crosswise, leaving a half inch or so play on each end of the plank, to allow it to settle with the corn fodder. On top of these planks are placed a quantity of good-sized stones about a foot deep, and as this heavy weight settles, perhaps two or three feet, it becomes air tight. While in this condition a slight chemical change takes place, but when the silo is open, the contents have the sweet and natural taste of the corn fodder. Cattle thrive on it and it is the most economical way to feed it to stock, because there is no waste as there is to fodder, fed whole. At the town farm ensilage will be fed to the stock about the middle of November, from the silo. It is a great saving in hay. The stock consists of 17 cows, four calves and five horses. A number of persons have visited the farm since the work has been in operation. Another improvement that has been made at the farm, is the placing of a windmill on the top of the barn for the purpose of pumping water from a brook a hundred feet away to a tank on the scaffold, which contains 2000 gallons, and from this a good head of pure water* is secured for use about the premises. The windmill was one of the "Champion" and was furnished by J. L. Colcord, and the plumbing was done by Mr. D. B. Lord. The inmates about the institution looked contented and happy, and everything seems to be prospering under the management of the present superintendent and matron.

SPARKS.

At 2.45 o'clock Monday morning an alarm was given in town for a fire, which proved to be in the barber shop connected with the Washington House, at the corner of Watson and Boston streets, Salem. The night watch heard the Salem bells, but thought it was either Hose 3 or 5 in town and so rang in the alarm from the bell on the South church and the Central Station, and in a very short space, Hose 1, Steamer 1. and H. & L 1., Hose 3. and 4 were on their way to the scene of the conflagration. Hose 1., on reaching the Salem line, saw that the fire was only a few steps away, and acting under orders of Engineer Buxton, kept on their way, arriving on the spot nearly as soon as Hose 4 of Salem. They attached to the chuck of the above company, laid a line and secured second water, doing good service. Steamer 1 stopped at the line but the rest of the apparatus kept on, the truck arriving fully five minutes before the Salem trucks, with Hose 3 and 4 just behind. The truck furnished ladders for the use of the firemen and were obliged to stop until past five o'clock. The fire originated in the lower part of the L occupied as a barber shop by J. W. Walsh, and was discovered by a Mr. Tobin, who lives over the shop and whose family were nearly suffocated by the smoke, barely escaping with their lives, their clothing and household goods being destroyed. The building was occupied by Mrs. Thomas Millea as a liquor saloon down stairs, and Walsh's barber shop; upstairs by John Mulvaney and Michael Tobin. The building had a double roof, and the fire getting into this made it a very stubborn one to fight. By poor management on the part of some one, the fire was allowed to get into the house of Joseph Meredith about 20 feet distant from the barber shop, and the whole side, and roof were badly burned and broken in, the plastering water soaked, and furniture spoiled. This house was insured in the South Danvers Mutual for $2000, and is damaged about $500 worth. Walsh had an insurance of $200 on his shop and stock of tools, cigars, etc. The damage to the Washington House, owned by William Hayes of this town, will reach over $1000, while the damage to Mrs. Millea's furniture, stock and fixtures is about the same. The insurance on the building was placed through the agency of the late James H. Thomas, but it is thought that it had run out. It is thought that the fire was of an incendiary origin. A can which held about four gallons was full of oil Sunday, and this can was found after the fire with the cap off. One feature of the fire was the burning of what was either a lot of oil or liquor which seemed to be stored in the attic. It would burst through the roof near one of the chimneys, and would be as promptly put out by a stream of water, but as soon as the stream was taken off it would burst forth again. Hose 1 worked until after 5 o'clock in the morning. A collation was furnished.

Driver Joseph Duntley of the steamers, has been appointed a permanent driver in the Lynn fire department, and will handle the ribbons over the horses on Steamer No. 4, stationed at the Broad street house. Mr. Duntley has been in this department about one year and has given perfect satisfaction to all. He has made many friends, both in and out of the department and while Peabody loses a good driver Lynn gains one. Robert Tauch was appointed to the vacancy and has taken his place at the house. Mr. Duntley will go on duty next Monday.

One set of swing harnesses have been delivered and are in use on Steamer 1. They have not been put in position as yet, as the springs for throwing the backbone to the ceiling have not yet been finished. The other harness will be finished this week.

Hose 3 have received an invitation to take part in the hose racing tournament at Keene, N. H., on Sept. 30. The conditions of the race are to run 200 yards, lay 300 feet of hose, break and make couplings. The prizes are $75 for first, and $25 for second best time. The company have not as yet decided whether to go or not.

Chief Moody and son, of Lynn fire department, were in town on business last Thursday morning. They drove over in the chief's team.

The sixth convention of the Massachusetts State Firemen's association will convene at New Era Hall, Boston, October 18, at 5 p. m. This will probably be the largest convention yet held. Each active fire company in this state is entitled to two delegates, whom they are requested to elect at once.

Almy, Bigelow & Washburn.

It is a source of gratification to a firm to see their business constantly outgrowing the quarters which they occupy. Such must be the feelings of Almy, Bigelow & Washburn as they contemplate the enlargements and improvements they have been obliged to make from time to time. The change recently made, however, outshines them all, and is especially noticeable to the public because visible to all passers by. An addition was made to the frontage by taking in the alley this side of the store, and the walls have been removed, making a clean glass front the entire entrance. A handsome vestibule has been built and a grand stair case leading directly up stairs to the cloak room has been erected. The glass front is as elaborate and ornate affairs as is on the street, and while these frontage improvements may not appear so important to the reader who has not seen them, they have entirely changed the appearance of the entrance to this store. A stranger would wonder if this could be the old store of Almy, Bigelow & Washburn.

Up stairs in the cloak room the improvement is scarcely less noticeable. A change has been made in the arrangement of the counters, and in the rear of this room an elegant parlor has been provided for the lady patrons of the store. Entrance is made through a rich portiere, to a vision of loveliness. An expensive Wilton carpet covers the floor; the room is finished in cherry, and handsomely frescoed; there is a closet, and set marble lavatory; a table is in the center, and an open grate with gas fire log will add warmth and cheer to the other adornments. Not the least noticeable are the cathedral windows, of the most expensive colored glass. It is a room that the ladies will appreciate, and is another evidence of the wise forethought of this firm in catering to the comfort of the patrons. Here the ladies are invited to make their headquarters in their purchasing tours. From this cloak room there is entrance also to the ladies' custom tailoring department of no small importance as garments are now made. This is under the management of P. H. Shirley, with Mr. W. C. Morse as cutter, and Miss Stella Alden as fitter and draper. Across the main landing is the tailoring department for gentlemen, which has been so long under the efficient management of Mr. Nettles, with R. V. Stuart as cutter. In the east end of the cloak room is the custom millinery department, with a private room for the taking of orders. This is a new departure, as the untrimmed and sale millinery has been removed down stairs. Both of these millinery departments are in charge of Miss Sadie Bushby and Mrs. A. C. Washburn.

Descending to the lower floor again we find that there are many changes in the arrangement of the departments, of which there are thirty-one in all, each in charge of a competent head. We have only space to enumerate them briefly—their merits will be fully appreciated by the hosts of buyers. Department No. 1 is on the right of the main entrance with an elegant counter of new design and glass front, where will be found untrimmed millinery in charge of Miss H. H. Glidden. No. 2, in the eastern extension, is the corset, hoop skirt and bustle department, in charge of Miss Persis M. Pomeroy. Then follows No. 3—Ladies' Underwear, Miss Addie S. Sibley, and No. 4—Hamburg Edges and Cotton Underwear, Miss Nellie Holland. No. 5, in the extension of the alcove, is the worsted department, presided over by Miss A. F. Stone. Nos. 6, 7 and 8, in the alcove, are linen goods and domestics, flannels and blankets, in charge of D. B. Taylor and H. Osborne. No. 9, Silks, satins and velvets,—Mr. N. F. Hopkins. No. 10, Black dress goods—Mr. W. L. Shaw. No. 11 is in the northern and western extension, consisting of Ladies' skirts, satins and linings, in charge of Wm. Babbidge. No. 12 is Gents' Underwear and furnishings, manager, Austin S. Estey.

The first central counter is No. 13,—handkerchiefs, etc.,—Miss Eunice Russell, and No. 14, passementaries and trimmings,—Miss M. A Peabody. The second central counter is No. 15,—Colored dress goods,—Messrs. E. J. and George W. Duggan. The third central counter is No. 16, ribbons,—Miss Carrie E. Mower, No. 17, Kid Gloves,—Miss Fannie Putnam, No. 18, Ladies' and children's hosiery,—Miss Maggie Collins, No. 19, buttons and thread,—Miss Martha A. Bredeen, No. 20, collars and cuffs,—Miss Laura Moulton, No. 21, laces and veilings,—Miss Sallie Fallon. The fourth central counter is No. 22,—prints, ginghams and cheviots,—Mr. F. A. Carron. The fifth central counter is constructed of glass and cherry wood, and comprises No. 23,—bags, jewelry, fans, etc.,—Miss Josie Young, and No. 24, soaps, toilet articles and small wares,—Miss Lena Shaw.

No's. 25 and 26 are on the second floor and comprise shawls, cloaks and suits, under the charge of James McKean. Nos. 27, 28 and 29 are the Ladies' custom tailoring, the millinery and the Gents' tailoring, of which mention has been made. No. 30 is the Carpet department, in charge of Mr. E. A. Annable. No. 31 is the Upholstery department, in charge of Mr. E. N. Reed.

To-morrow everything will be ready for the inspection of the public, who are invited to attend their opening. The store will be closed from 4 to 7 P. M., and no goods will be sold during the evening.

* * *

An important decision has been rendered in the case of Parker P. Clark et al against the Eastern R. R., in reference to the destruction of trunks belonging to the plaintiffs at the fire when the depot in Salem was burned. These trunks contained samples and were taken to the depot in Salem by the plaintiffs the night of the fire, and left in the baggage room. At the trial before the Superior Court, the jury were instructed to find a verdict for the defendant, and exceptions were taken by the plaintiffs. These exceptions have now been overruled by the Supreme Court, which decides the case in favor of the Eastern R. R. The following is the abstract of opinion:

C. ALLEN, J. The plaintiff's case rests on the proposition that the baggage-room provided by the defendant was not a suitable place for the storage of trunks, with reference to safety from fire, and that the defendant did not provide proper means for extinguishing fires. Such omission is not of itself gross negligence for which a liability can be imposed on a gratuitous bailee to make good a loss happening from an accidental fire. The defendant in point of fact appears to have put the plaintiff's trunks in the only place it had for the purpose of keeping trunks; and certainly it was under no obligation to the plaintiffs to furnish a better place. In this view it is not necessary to consider the further proposition of the defendant that, since the plaintiff's property was put into the defendant's custody without its consent, and solely through the wrongful and fraudulent conduct of the plaintiffs themselves all the consequences must be borne by them exclusively.

* * *

The proprietors of South Church hold a meeting to-morrow night.

Nugent Bros. have a full line of Boston and Candee Rubber Boots in stock. *

Frank J. Proctor sailed Saturday from Germany to resume his studies at Harvard.

Men's Rubber Boots tapped and heeled, using leather inner soles, for $1 at Nugent's. *

The South Danvers National Bank have declared a dividend of 3 per cent. payable October 1st.

A Centennial Temperance Sunday School concert will be given in the Cong. Vestry next Sunday evening.

Sidney Dalton, of late clerk for Geo. A. Collins, has re-entered the employ of Starr C. Hewitt in Portsmouth, N. H.

Mr. E. Pope Barrett on Central street is extending the connection between his house and barn and making other improvements.

The meeting of the W. C. T. U. will be omitted this week, as the "Neighborhood Meeting" is to be held in Swampscott, Friday, P. M. at 2.30, in the Vestry of the Cong. Church. All are invited to attend it.

Mr. Warren Trask has bought the estate adjoining his own on the corner of Liberty and Gardner streets, put a new fence around it and will remodel the house and let it. It will be a great improvement to the neighborhood.

Last Saturday Mr. William H. Little passed his 77th birthday and is hale and hearty still, and we trust he will live another score of years at least. He was born in the house which he now occupies on Main street.

Whoever from Peabody heard Mrs. M. O. Stevens yesterday at the Centennial Temperance Conference at Tremont Temple, might justly have felt proud of her production, which was one of the best, and most instructive papers presented at the two days Conference.

Daniel J. Sweeney keeps the Harvard cigar—3 for 25 cents—which is equal to anything in the market. Also all the brands of Knights of Labor cigars. They are good cigars, and those who are not Knights of Labor will find they are equal to anything made by the large manufacturers. Try some of them.

The Elijah Upton house on Holten street is being remodeled, and partitions taken down to make room for double parlors with portieres. The front parlor is arranged in the prevailing style. A maroon colored border has been painted on the floor, and covering the rest of the floor is an elegant Turkish rug. The fire place is arranged with blue and white tiles with brass andirons and fenders. The room is furnished with antique and modern furniture. Dame rumor says there is shortly to be a wedding there.

THE MEDICAL and Surgical Journal has a valuable article in reference to the increase of insanity, and dwells particularly on the fact, which seems to be undisputed, that there is much overcrowding in the Asylums of Massachusetts. This overcrowding leads to lack of classification which is necessary in the treatment of the insane. The remarks made by that paper regarding the Danvers Asylum, are of much interest and although somewhat lengthy, we feel that our readers would like to know them.

"We speak in moderation of what is known to have been the condition of the Danvers Hospital for more than a year past, when we say that, in spite of most excellent management on the part of the physicians, it has been a disgrace to the Commonwealth. That hospital receives a much larger number of new cases than any other in the State, and is equalled, in this respect, by very few in the world. It, therefore, cannot properly bear even a slight crowding that might not seriously inconvenience an unchanging chronic population. But the fact has been that, during the time mentioned, the number of patients has been so great that from 100 to nearly 200 have been obliged to occupy beds placed upon the floors of the wards at night, and to suffer corresponding inconveniences by day, personal privacy has been interfered with, proper classification has been made impossible, attendants and physicians have been wearied, and their time consumed in meeting unnecessary difficulties. Moreover, the patient who has been sent to the hospital "for rest and quiet" has the daily rountine of his life filled with annoyances and irritations as preliminary to all treatment. Now it is to be considered that this crowded population does not consist of reasonable people, who have voluntarily come together for pleasure or profit, and can lessen their discomforts by mutual forbearance, but of those who have lost reason and self control and are forcibly detained by a power which they usually deem unjust.

It probably is true that many of the patients sent there bear these troubles easily, either because they are too much demented to appreciate them, because they have not been accustomed to comfortable homes, or because they belong to the less disturbed class of patients who are not likely to irritate one another and who are able to adapt themselves to circumstances very much like sane people. But this does not lessen the suffering and injury of those who are appreciative and excitable, as is the case with a large proportion of those who present the best prospect of restoration to health, and to whom the treatment of a hospital can be most valuable. It is a disgrace to the State that the officers of its hospitals are obliged to state that they have no place where these patients can receive the care and treatment which their condition demands. The existence of this evil is not wholly a necessity arising from the increased number of the insane, but is partly due to a lack of any system of selection of cases which need the special structural provisions of our hospitals for the insane for treatment in them, and of proper provisions for those who do not, elsewhere. The function which the lunatic hospital is now made to perform is not only that of caring for those who are dangerous to society and of furnishing remedial treatment for mental disease, but it is used as a convenient dumping ground for all cases of degenerative nervous diseases attended with mental failure, which are disagreeable to care for elsewhere, or whose care costs more than $3.25 per week. This class is very large in the crowded population of eastern Massachusetts, and if all the feeble, broken down cases, not needing other care and nursing than that which could be properly furnished in cheap buildings with no special structural provisions, were removed from the Danvers hospital, its overcrowding would be sufficiently relieved to enable it to do proper remedial work for those who need the special and expensive structural arrangements of a hospital for the insane—a work which it is impossible for any staff of medical officers to accomplish satisfactorily under the existing circumstances.

Marriages.

In Danvers, Sept. 16, by Rev. Mr. Rice, assisted by Rev. Mr. Colcord of Bedford, N. H., Mr. Christopher S. Sanborn of Newport, N. H., to Miss Mary B., daughter of Hon. Augustus Mudge of D.

In Salem, Sept. 16, by Rev. Mr. Ray, Mr. William H. Barnes to Miss Hattie E. Osborn; by Rev. Dr. Bolles, Mr. John H. Carey of Salem, to Miss Almeda Cressey of Brookfield, Me.

In Newton, Sept. 13, by Rev. Mr. Boyle, Mr. Michael Sherry of Peabody to Miss Maggie Byrne of N.

Deaths.

In Peabody, Sept. 18, Mrs. Susan, wife of Mr. Joseph Jacobs, 75 yrs. 5 mos. 25 days.

In Salem, Sept. 18, Mrs. Mary L., widow of Mr. Michael E. Ames, 65 yrs. 1 mo. 14 days; 19th, Mr. John Linehan, 70 yrs.; Mr. John Riley, 62 yrs, 5 mos.

CUSTOM TAILORING.

The undersigned have this day placed on their counters, a fine line of

FOREIGN & DOMESTIC WOOLENS

—— OF ——

OUR OWN IMPORTATION,

which enables us to offer them to the public at

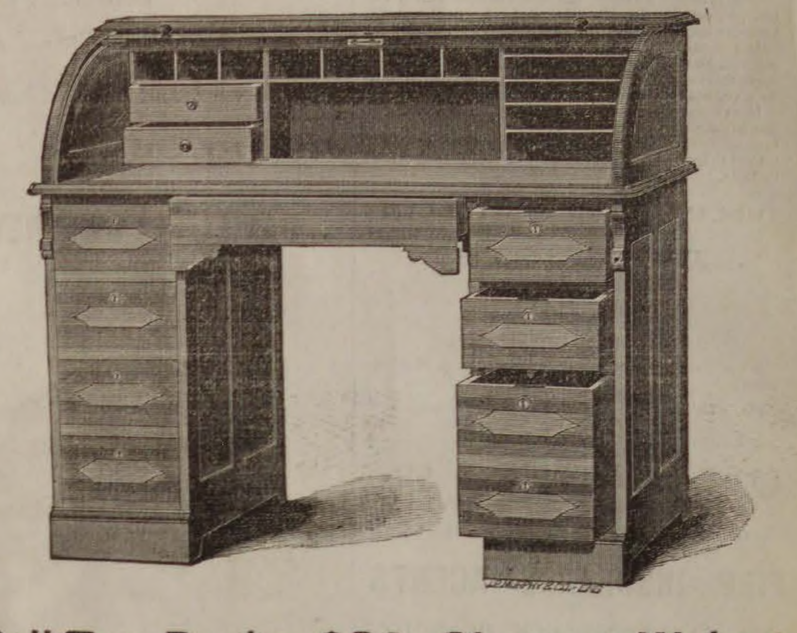
REMARKABLY LOW PRICES.

Employing none but first class journeymen tailors, a perfect fit is guaranteed. Call and examine the goods.

Howley & Brennan,

MAIN STREET,

OVER WARREN TRASK'S STORE.



Roll Top Desks, $30, Cherry or Walnut.

10 New Styles ot Chamber Sets.

New Styles in Parlor Suits, Cherry and Mahogany.

W. C. Packard & Co.

281 ESSEX STREET. SALEM.

GO TO

B. F. STEVENS

— FOR —

BANJOS,

ACCORDEONS,

HARMONICAS,

And all kinds of musical goods,

The best Violin and Banjo Strings.

AGENT FOR

E. V. EMILIO.

STRAWBERRIES! STRAWBERRIES!

Next June,

By planting Strawberry Plants in August will secure a crop of fruit the coming season. Any good garden soil, well cultivated, enriched, etc., will answer. We have fine plants and best varieties.

ALL POTTED PLANTS AT LOW MARKET RATES.

Varieties—"Sharpless," "Miner's Prolific," "Chas. Downing," "Bidwell," "Jersey Queen" (P,) "Hervey Davis," etc.

Orders by mail will receive prompt attention. Goods can be sent by express to all points.

TERMS CASH.

Plants, Flowers, etc., to order from

E. & C. WOODMAN

Florist and Garden Supplies,

DANVERS, MASS.

☞ Greenhouses, Holten St., Tapleyville. On line Salem & Danvers and Peabody and Danvers Horse Railroad.

Send for Circular.

PROBATE NOTICE.

Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

ESSEX, SS. PROBATE COURT.

To the Heirs-at-law, Next of Kin, and all other Persons interested in the Estate of ABIGAIL MEADER, late of Peabody, in said county (wife of Henry Meader), deceased, GREETING:

WHEREAS, a certain instrument purporting to be the last will and testament of said deceased has been presented to said Court for Probate, by Sarah Lizzie Ellsworth, who prays that letters testamentary may be issued to her the executrix therein named, and that she may be exempt from giving a surety or sureties on her bond, for the reasons alleged in said petition. You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court to be held at Salem, in said county of Essex, on the first Monday of October, next, at nine o'clock, before noon, to show cause, if any you have, against the same.

And said Sarah Lizzie Ellsworth is hereby directed to give public notice thereof, by publishing this citation once a week, for three successive weeks, in the newspaper called the Peabody Press, printed at Peabody, the last publication to be two days at least before said Court.

Witness, George F. Choate, Esquire, Judge of said Court, this fifteenth day of September, in the year one thousand eighty hundred and eighty-five.

J. T. MAHONEY, Register,

sept 16--3t

PROBATE NOTICE.

Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

ESSEX, SS. PROBATE COURT.

To the widow, Heirs-at-law, Next of Kin, and all other Persons interested in the Estate of DANIEL BUXTON, Junior, late of Peabody, in said county, seedsman, deceased, GREETING:

WHEREAS, a certain instrument purporting to be the last will and testament of said deceased has been presented to said Court for Probate, by James E. Stone, who prays that letters testamentary may be issued to him the executor therein named, and that he may be exempt from giving a surety or sureties on his bond, for the reasons alleged in said petition. You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court to be held at Salem, in said said county of Essex, on the first Monday of October, next, at nine o'clock, before noon, to show cause, if any you have, against the same.

And said James E. Stone is hereby directed to give public notice thereof, by publishing this citation once a week, for three successive weeks, in the newspaper called the Peabody Press, printed at Peabody, the last publication to be two days at least before said Court.

Witness, George F. Choate, Esquire, Judge of said Court, this ninth day of September, in the year one thousand eight hundred and eighty-five.

J. T. MAHONEY, Register.

sept 16—3t

PROBATE NOTICE.

Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

ESSEX SS. PROBATE COURT.

To the widow, Heirs-at-law, Next of Kin, and all other Persons interested in the Estate of JAMES H. THOMAS, late of Peabody, in said county, insurance-agent, deceased, GREETING:

WHEREAS, a certain instrument purporting to be the last will and testament of said deceased has been presented to said Court for Probate, by Michael Kelly, who prays that letters testamentary may be issued to him the executor therein named, and that he may be exempt from giving a surety or sureties on his bond, for the reasons alleged in said petition. You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court to be held at Salem, in said county of Essex, on the first Monday of October, next, at nine o'clock, before noon, to show cause, if any you have, against the same.

And said Michael Kelly is hereby directed to give public notice thereof, by publishing this citation once a week, for three successive weeks, in the newspaper called the Peabody Press, printed at Peabody, the last publication to be two days at least before said Court.

Witness, George F. Choate, Esquire, Judge of said Court this tenth day of September, in the year one thousand eight hundred and eighty-five.

J. T. MAHONEY, Register.

sept 16—3t

TOWN OF PEABODY.

Town Collector's Notice.

The owners and occupants of the following described parcels of real estate, situated in the town of Peabody, in the county of Essex, and commonwealth of Massachusetts, and the public, are hereby notified that the taxes thereon assessed for the years hereinafter specified, according to the list committed to me as Collector of Taxes for said town, by the assessors of taxes, remain unpaid, and that said parcels of real estate will be offered at public auction for sale, at the office of the Collector at the Town House in said Town of Peabody, on

Wednesday, Oct. 7th, 1885,

At 9 o'clock A. M. for the payment of said taxes together with the costs and charges thereon, unless the same shall be previously discharged.

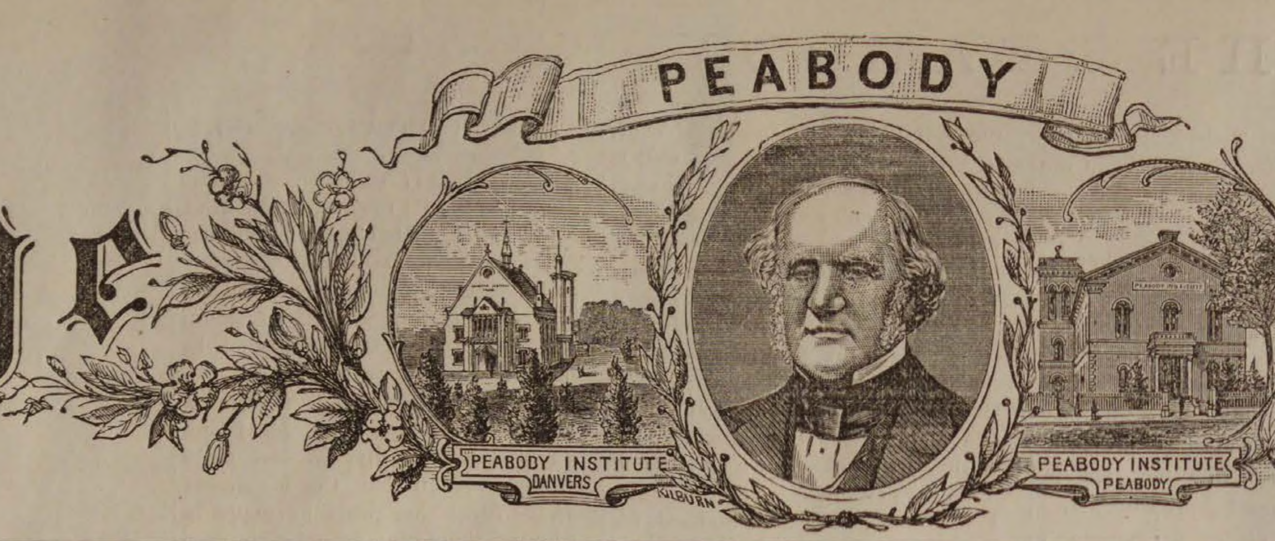
A lot of land bounded northwardly by land of Bushby, eastwardly by land of Shaw, southwardly by land of Margaret Galeucia, westwardly by a private way leading to Lynn street, containing about 14,500 square feet. Taxed to Heirs of Betsey Bowers for 1884, $1.64; for 1885, $1.56.

On Track—Old Eastern Hay,

ONE Car prime Old Eastern Hay.

CHAS. A. ROPES & SON.
41 to 47 Central street.

The PEABODY Press.



VOL. 26. PEABODY, MASS. WEDNESDAY EVENING SEPTEMBER 30, 1885. 39 NO. ~~40~~ 39

The Big SIX Departments

— AT —

WILMOT'S.

The most extraordinary bargains in each of our several departments.

SPECIAL SALES. SPECIAL BARGAINS.

DEPARTMENT 1.

Men's Overcoats, Suits and Pantaloons.

Men's Winter Overcoats,	$2, 2.50, 4.50, 5, 6, 7.50, 8, 9, 10.
Men's Winter Suits	$4.75, 6, 8, 10, 12, 14, 15.
Men's Winter Pantaloons,	99c, $1.50, 2, 2.50, 2.75, 3.

☞ The above are in most cases garments carried over from last season, but as we need all the room possible for our new Fall and Winter stock, we have put special prices on the above.

☞ Come and see our new Fall and Winter Styles in Overcoats. Suits and Pantaloons. THEY WILL PLEASE YOU.

DEPARTMENTS 2 AND 3.

Boys' & Children's Overcoats, Suits & Pantaloons

Boys' Long Pant Suits,	$2.87 1-2, 3.34, 4.50, 5, 6, 8.
Children's Short Pant Suits,	$2, 2 50, 3, 3.50, 4, 4.50, 5.
Children's Short Pants,	50c, 60c, 65c, 75c, $1.

☞ Every garment a great bargain and styles that will please you.

DEPARTMENT 4.

Gents' Furnishing Goods.

—Special Sale of Winter Underwear.—

All our underwear is bought direct from the MANUFACTURERS and we guarantee to undersell all competitors.

Examine the goods and they will speak for themselves.

Men's All Wool Blue Rib Shirts and Drawers, 50c, 75c, $1, 1.25, 1.45.
Men's Merino Shirts and Drawers, (white or colored) 25c, 50. 75c, $1.
Men's Genuine Camels Hair Shirts and Drawers, 95c., regular Price $1.25. All grades at the lowest prices.

DEPARTMENT 5.

HATS AND CAPS.

Men's and Boys' Hats, all the New Styles in prices ranging from 50 Cts. to $2.50.

DEPARTMENT 6.

Ladies' and Gentlemen's Boots and Shoes.

Special inducement in this department.

Ladies' Elegant American Kid, Button Boot,	$1.00
A great variety of other grades and styles at $1, 1.25, 1.50, 1.75, 2 to 4.
Men's Imitation Hand Sewed Shoe, Button, Lace or Congress,	$1.75
Hundreds of others at 87 1-2, 99c, $1.20, 1.45, 1.75, 2.00, 2.45 to 5.
Children's School Shoes,	65c
A big assortment of Misses', Boys' and Children's Shoes for 50, 65, 75, 95c., $1, 1.25, 1.50 to 2.50.

WILMOT'S CLOTHING STORE,
252 & 254 ESSEX STREET, SALEM, MASS

J. FRANK BOYNTON, Manager.

LOCAL CONDENSATIONS.

This is fallish!

In fashion—colds!

Peaches still linger!

Turnips are growing well!

Plant your fall advertising!

Fall flowers are very beautiful!

Cranberries are very abundant!

The trees are changing color daily!

The moon is offering his last quarter

Put your straw hat away for next season.

Will the gale last week pass for the liner?

Summer is really packing up her robes.

There is a brisk demand for tenements.

Collecting dry leaves by the boys has begun.

Officer Goodwin looks after the storm signals.

Political topics begin to disturb the waters.

With colder weather comes the tramp.

Cauliflowers are seen in the provision stores.

Mr. W. H. Little has gone to the Mountains.

Farmers are getting a good price for cabbages.

Did the high winds leave any fruit on your trees?

A little fire in the house at night feels good.

Sore arms abound among the juveniles.

Lovely sunsets continue to delight our vision.

The price of meal has dropped ten cents on a bag.

The mountains of New England are covered with snow.

This hasn't been much of a summer for snake stories.

The pretty dahlias are now blooming in all their glory.

Did you see the eclipse of the moon Thursday morning?

Mr. James McMurray has moved his family to Worcester.

The postal card famine in this country has been broken.

The song of the tax collector should be "I gather them in."

Holten Lodge I. O. O. F. initiated four new members last night.

The Democratic town committee will organize to-morrow night.

Pope night November 5. This is still celebrated in Marblehead.

It isn't any too early to be picking out your man for Representative.

A profuse agricultural bounty is diffused on hill and valley.

Cranberry pilferers are sharing the laurels with the fruit thieves.

Mr. John H. Tibbetts will open a dining saloon on Foster street.

James Brogan for being drunk was fined $1 and costs last Saturday.

There is talk of starting a co-operative grocery and provision store.

The new time table on the Eastern division goes into operation Oct. 4.

There are about forty-five persons now being fed at our Alms House.

The White Mountain express on the Lowell will be taken off next week.

The caucuses have been held and the politicians will begin to "brace up."

Phalen and Clothey have been playing polo with the Wakefields lately.

Rev. Mr. Hosmer, of Salem, preached at the Unitarian church last Sunday.

It looks as if no one need be out of employment in this town this winter.

Patrick G. McCarthy was fined $1 and costs, last Thursday, for being drunk.

Those who had keen eyesight detected specks of snow in the air last Wednesday.

You have till the 12th of October to pay your taxes before interest will be charged.

Letters of administration have been granted on the estate of Patrick W. Duffy.

We suppose they call it the "silver moon" because there are four quarters to it.

You couldn't have asked for better weather than that of Saturday and Sunday.

Many poor families at this season gather dry leaves and fill beds with them.

Mr. J. F. Morland has been deputy assistant at Batchelder & Co's coal office.

Bring the squashes up to the house where they can be easily protected from frost.

The demand for cotton and woolen fabrics has not been so heavy for sometime past.

Mr. Ira Foster is having a concrete walk in front of his residence. It is fashionable.

Don't think it is a ghost. It is only a white cloth thrown over the plants for protection.

A man has been selling a patent galvanic belt around town this week. It is shocking.

Mr. John Perkins and his son Albert have been on a trip to Maine, taking in the State fair.

Major Lewis Allen is quite comfortable at his home but does not go down stairs but little.

There are likely to be fewer telephones in use in Peabody in the future than in the past.

The Salem & Danvers street railway company will pay a dividend of 2 per cent., Oct. 1.

Brianza Cigars—the best ten cent cigars in the world,—ten cents straight at George Stevens'. *

A man never wants to laugh when a fly lights on his nose, nevertheless he is greatly tickled.

One of the prettiest sights on a moonlight evening is to see a couple swinging on a gate.

The woman who effectually subdues her husband with a broomstick certainly gains a sweeping victory.

A new and handsome "Howard" regulator has been put into the store of Mr. Geo. A. Collins.

Mr. John A. Lord Jr's. tannery is running on fall and winter time, from 6.30 A. M. to 5.30 P. M.

Twenty-eight names were added to the voting list last night, making in all about 43 new ones thus far.

Father Time, though he tarries for none, often lays his hand lightly on those who have used him well.

S. F. Blaney, Geo. W. Bancroft and William Blaney, started for a week's fishing in Maine, last Friday.

A large number from this town were in attendance at the cattle show at Newburyport last week.

Mr. Urban Roberts, the popular driver of Hathaway's baker team, has gone on a two weeks' trip to Maine.

Why not display the storm signals on Sunday? "Our boy" wants to know whether to go fishing or not.

Ladies' Machine and hand sewed Congress only 65 and 75 cents per pair at Nugent's Bargain Shoe Store. *

A striker on the shifter got a black eye from a coupling pin last Friday morning, while shackling cars.

Mr. W. T. Dole says that Mr. C. S. Emmerton has an onion bed with onions that will weigh a pound.

A hand organ in a cart with a disabled soldier at the crank picked up a lot of pennies in town last week.

A large number of claims are being sent in from Lawrence against the estate of the late Rudolph Meyers.

Rev. W. G. Sperry will assume the duties of pastor of the Cong. Church at Manchester, N. H., on October 18th.

What is that piece of string hanging from the back side of the soldiers monument? Is the goddess going to hang herself?

If you ever want to get a crowd together just induce the police to arrest a drunken man. It will draw every time.

Rev. Joseph Candlin, of Malden, preached at the Methodist church last Sunday in exchange with Rev. S. N. Smith.

The Peabody and Salem High School boys played the Bowdoins of Dorchester last Saturday, but were defeated by 10 to 6.

The season of the year is here, when lovely woman preserves pretty much everything excepting her equanimity.

Mr. J. K. Cole of this town will address the Danvers teachers meeting at the Park street school house this afternoon.

Perfect weather for vacation trips; the atmosphere is full of health-giving vigor, and the scenery was never more delightful.

Best line of Five Cent Cigars in town—Nothing like it, Principee. Clark's Best Five, and a dozen others at Geo. Stevens'. *

There is a case of scarlet fever in the house corner of Wallis and Tremont street, and the house has been quarentined.

Among the patents granted is one to T. E. Proctor, Robinson Whittaker and H. P. Reed for a conveying apparatus for bark.

Parties are formed almost every day to hunt the graceful clematis well laden with its flossy-seed vessels to be used in inside decorations.

A neighborhood prayer meeting was held with Mr. Oliver Emerson, on Wallis street, last night by members of the Baptist society.

The gentle odor of preserves and piccalili now steals out of the kitchen doors, and the average house smells like a vinegar laboratory.

Mrs. Eliza Sutton as usual made an exhibit of short horn cows and Catswold sheep at the Belknap County fair at Laconia, N. H., last week.

Farmers in this vicinity are using petroleum as a protection against the decay of out-buildings, fences, etc., without the addition of paint.

Postmaster Ward has appointed Foster Beggs as special letter carrier. He has been in the employ of D. P. Grosvenor as messenger boy.

It is believed that while our population has increased several hundred during the past five years it has been mostly in the natural way.

It is understood that our tax collector, Mr. Levi Preston, is booked for a position in the Boston Custom House, if Saltonstall gets the appointment.

The new ten cent special delivery service goes into effect October 1st. Remember it applies to drop letters as well as those sent through the mails.

Willie Bartlett, while at play in Little's field the other evening, captured a red bat, about the size of a robin. They are not very common.

> "From beach and mountains, families
> Are going home in dozens,
> And from the kitchen, servant maids
> Are clearing out their cousins."

There was a hundred yard foot race on the Ipswich Poor Farm last Saturday evening, between John Clark of Peabody and John Ward of Ipswich.

It is said that a strip of tarred paper, such as roofers use, is a sure preventive of moths when placed under the edge of a carpet. It don't cost much to try it.

The price of flour is going up. Mr. C. F. Hathaway, our baker, has some eight or ten carloads ordered ahead. They average about 150 barrels to a car load.

All the best brands of B. P. Clark & Co's. cigars are for sale by Geo. Stevens. He is sole agent for this vicinity. Buy them and you will smoke no others. *

Mr. George Clerk, Jr., employed as brakeman on the New York, Hartford and New Haven railroad, had his hand badly jammed while shackling cars Monday.

The ladies of the Baptist parsonage society will meet to sew at their parlors to-morrow afternoon. The fair will take place about the 10th and 11th of November.

The Ladies' Circle of the Universalist parish begin their regular meetings this evening—elect officers and make arrangements for a fair, to be held Dec. 9th and 10th.

James Lellis, a youth who attends the Bowditch School, while attempting to catch on a Salem & Danvers car last Friday was thrown to the ground and considerably bruised.

The West Peabody Farmers' Club, have a harvest festival and fair this afternoon and evening. After the fair there will be a dance. Music by Alden's Orchestra of Lynn.

EXTRAORDINARY SALE

— OF —

Winter Overcoats.

565 WINTER OVERCOAT'S

COMPRISING

MEN'S, YOUTHS', BOYS' AND CHILDREN'S,

Carried over from last season, which we shall sell at

A GREAT SACRIFICE!

We guarantee each and every garment to be clean, perfect goods, just as stylish in cut, make and trimmings as any garments made this season. Our object in offering this great bargain sale of Overcoats so early in the season is that we need the counter room for our new goods which are now ready to be shipped from our Manufactory.

REMEMBER.

We mean just what we say: 565 Overcoats carried over from last season; all clean, perfect goods to be closed out in the next 15 days at a great Sacrifice. Buyers of Clothing now is your time to secure a Bargain.

We are selling Men's Fine, Heavy Overcoats for $10, 12 and 13.50. Men's Elegant Overcoats for $15, 16 and 18. Men's Heavy, all-wool Overcoats for $5, 6 and 8. Laboring Men's Heavy Overcoats for $2, 3 and 4. Men's Heavy Reefing Jackets, $3, 4, 5, 6 and 8. Boys' Fine, Heavy Overcoats for $6, 7 and 8, ages 12 to 17 years. Boys' Heavy, all-wool Overcoats, ages 12 to 17, for $4.50 and 5.00. B'soy Heavy Overcoats for $2, 3 and 4.00, ages 12 to 17 years. Children's Fine, Heavy Overcoats for $5, 6 and 7, ages 5 to 12 years. Children's all-wool, Heavy Overcoats for $3 and 4, ages 5 to 12 years Children's Heavy Overcoats for $1, 1.50, 2 and 2.50, ages 4 to 12 years.

This is a Bargain Sale.—If you think of Buying an Overcoat this Winter, Buy it now, and save 30 to 40 per cent.

Naumkeag Clothing Company,

177 & 179 ESSEX STREET, SALEM.

Z. A. GALLUP, Manager.

It is reported that H. M. Merrill, of the firm of C. C. Farwell & Co., has been to New Hampshire to examine the inducements offered by parties for shoe firms to locate there.

Mr. R. F. Dodge has bought out the good will of John H. Tibbets' fish market. Considerable alteration is being made in his own, it having been lathed and plastered.

A lady who came to Peabody from Salem and took the eleven o'clock car for Lynn, last Friday forenoon, was seen to pick up a pocket book near the entrance to Charlie Elligott's store.

A man moved his family to South Boston from this town about two weeks ago taking along the family cat. The neighbors say that puss is back again at her old home on Harris street.

Mr. R. S. D. Symonds is taking out the old boiler at his factory and replacing it with a 50 horse power one, and making extensive repairs for his increasing business which demands it.

An agent of the Knights of Labor was in town last week and presented a list of prices for green shaving to Joseph H. Poor, Henry Wilson, and George J. Winchester which were accepted.

Nugent Bros. aim to succeed by having at all times a full line of the very best goods and latest styles, at the lowest possible prices. An examination cannot fail to satisfy the closest buyers. *

Mr. H. N. McCully, manager of the Skating Rink, has gone to Orange Park, Florida, where he owns an orange grove. During his absence the rink will be looked after by his partner, Mr. C. A. Thomas.

The shipments of leather from Peabody and Salem, for the week ending Sept. 26, were 2237 rolls, 841 sides, 160 bundles, 24 barrels, 24 bags, 5 bales, 2 cases of leather, 45 rolls and 7 casks of skins.

At the So. Church Concert last Sabbath evening, the "Centennial Temperance Service" was used, in which the Primary Class had an interesting part. Miss Lina McPherson read very impressively—also Miss Nellie Messer, Miss Alice Layton, and Henry Melcher. Earnest remarks were made by Rev. W. G. Sperry, and Mr. J. K. Cole, the superintendent.

Some one stole a geranium from the flower garden of Mr. Joseph Osborne on Washington street recently. The plant had been in the family fourteen years. Other more valuable flowers were undisturbed.

The Annual Meeting of the Mass. W. C. T. Union is to be held in the Baptist Church, Clinton, Oct. 6, 7, and 8. Miss M. J. Floyd, and Miss H. M. Saunders are the delegates from the Peabody Union.

A first class family row took place on Lowell street, last Thursday, and all because the wife would not save the dishwater for the pigs. The neighbors threatened to call the police before quiet was secured.

A party from Marblehead passed through town last Thursday evening in a Lynn horse car drawn by four spirited gray horses. The party numbered about forty and were taking a sleigh-ride on wheels.

"The light of the fire is miles away," remarked the Superintendent of a Sunday school, while the bells were warning the public of the fire at P. T. Nelson's last Sunday night. Not so many miles either.

Wide awake active boys go through Boots and Shoes at an alarming rate, and parents will consult their interests by making their purchases from Nugent Bros., strong, wear resisting, well made goods. *

Mr. P. J. Lyons, the barber, has invented a new sea foam shampoo. It is known as camphorated sea foam and is more cooling and evaporates quicker than common sea foam and does not leave the hair sticky.

The annual meeting of the Essex County S. S. Teachers' Institute will be held with the Cong'l. church, North Andover, Wednesday, Oct. 21st. This Institute includes all Evangelical Sunday schools of Essex County.

Never skip the advertisement when reading a newspaper. They show just who the live business men are and everyone who has trading of any kind to do will find that it pays to trade with those who advertise.

Mr. G. T. Swazey of Dakota, was in town last Saturday and was thinking of opening an office in this vicinity. He represents the Northwestern and Red River Land Co., and their purpose is to sell mortgages on western land.

The "devil's buzz," the latest juvenile instrument of torture, will soon be heard everywhere, delighting the heart of the small boy, and driving older heads quite frantic. It is fashioned somewhat like a watchman's rattle.

In gathering autumn leaves it is well for people to be careful to avoid the poison ivy. The leaves of this vine are usually brilliantly tinted and oftentimes mistakes are made in gathering it that causes them great inconvenience.

Last Thursday evening Rev. S. N. Andriance, of Lowell, was at the So. Church Vestry and organized a young People's Society of Christian Endeavor. Twenty-one members were enrolled. Arthur F. Poole was elected President.

Mr. Francis H. Appleton was appointed one of a committee of twelve for the New England States by the American Forestry Congress, last Thursday, to secure such legislation in the several states as will prevent forest fires.

The Methodist Society at a meeting last Friday evening, passed resolutions of regret on the resignation of Rev. W. G. Sperry, of the South Church, and extended their thanks for the many favors they have received at his hands.

Mr. Byram Chester and family who moved into town last July from Gilmanton, N. H., will make another move next week. This time they start for Santa Barbara, Cal., where they are compelled to go for the benefit of Mr. Chester's health.

Last Thursday evening the Danvers Bleachery Associates held their annual assembly and it was well attended, there being as many sets as could comfortably be formed at the town hall. The Salem Cadet Orchestra furnished the music and a delightful evening was enjoyed.

John O'Shea, Richard Hayes and Michael Sweeney, three boys under 12 years of age, stole a team from in front of a residence on Washington street, took a ride and then returned the team. They were arrested and Sweeney and O'Shea were put on probation and Hayes sent to the Lyman School for boys during his minority. State Agent Hart, of Fall River, appeared in behalf of the boys.

Poet's Corner.

(Written for the Press.)

Duty.

As the hardy oat is growing,
Howso'er the wind may blow;
As the untired stream is flowing,
Whether shines the sun or no:
Thus, though storm winds rage about it,
Should the strong plant, Duty, grow;
Thus, with beauty or without it,
Should the stream of being flow.

EDWARD SEXTON.

When Jack is Tall and Twenty.

When Jack is tall and twenty,
We know what Jack will do,
With girls so sweet and plenty,
He'll find him one to woo.
And soon the lover's twilight
Will hear a story told,
And Jack will die or fly sky high
For sake of hair of gold.
Hearken, Jack, and heed me—
Ponder what I say!
'Tis fools are sold for locks of gold,
For gold will turn to gray.

But Jack, if truth be spoken,
Is simple Jack no more;
If gold his heart has broken:
'Tis scarce the gold of yore.
He wots of dower for daughters
Not all in ringlets roll'd;
To beauty steeled, his heart will yield
To stamped and minted gold.
Hearken, Jack, and heed me—
Ponder what I say!
If gold hath wing, as poets sing,
Then gold may fleet away.

When Jack goes forth a-wooing,
If Jack has heart or head,
And would not soon be rueing
The hour that saw him wed,
He will not pine for graces,
Nor cringe for wealth to hold,
But strive and dare by service fair
To win a heart of gold.
Hearken, Jack, and heed me—
Ponder what I say!
The gear will fly, the bloom will die,
But love will last for aye.

—Frederick Langbridge in Good Words.

As Joseph Was A-Walking.

As Joseph was a-walking,
He heard an angel sing:
"This night shall be the birth-night
Of Christ the Heavenly King;
His birth-bed shall be neither
In house nor in hall.
Nor in the place of Paradise,
But in the oxen's stall."
As Joseph was a-walking,
Thus did the angel sing,
And Mary's son at midnight
Was born to be our King.

"He neither shall be rocked
In silver nor in gold
But in the wooden manger
That lieth on the mold:
He neither shall be clothed
In purple nor in pall,
But in the fair white linen
That usen babies all."
As Joseph was a-walking,
Thus did the angel sing;
And Mary's son at midnight
Was born to be our King!

"He neither shall be washen
With white wine nor with red,
But with the fair spring water
That on you shall be shed.
Then be you glad, good people,
At this time of the year,
And light you up your candles,
For his star shineth near."
As Joseph was a-walking,
Thus did the angel sing:
And Mary's son at midnight
Was born to be our King!

The Huckleberry.

The Hon. Edward J. Phelps, recently appointed minister to England, is a poet—perhaps not as great a poet as James Russell Lowell, but still a poet. His verses on "The Huckleberry" are a pretty fair sample of his best vein:—

The huckleberry is a fruit
That fills my soul with joy;
I used to revel in its charms
When I was but a boy.

I picked it from its native bush
And took it home with me,
And put it in the earthen bowl
When I sat down to tea.

And then I broke some bread and poured
The milk up to the brim—
The huckleberry floated 'round
Until I needed him.

How hard and fat and sweet he was,
How full of toothsome joy—
Oh, he was one of life's delights
When I was but a boy.

And, still, though I am old in years,
And gray and feeble, too,
The huckleberry cheers my soul
As it did use to do.

—Chicago News.

A Kerchief.

BY CLINTON SCHOLLARD.

A filmy fabric, it is true,
As soft as down and bright as amber,
Brocaded with gay threads as blue
As flowers that up to my trellis clamber.

Upon one silky side behold,
Embroidered near some blooming roses,
While on the other, flecked with gold,
A bright-winged butterfly reposes.

And though 'Tis but a trifle, yet,
A something sweet upon it lingers;
'Tis neither rose nor mignonette,
But the faint touch of fairy fingers.

Selected Story.

What Tom Didn't Say.

Tom was in a dilemma.

He sat on the rocks overlooking the sea, in the very spot to which he had been attracted two hours before by the sight of a scarlet jacket, and thought over his perplexities, and wondered how it would turn out.

Plague take the girl, he said, with rather more emphasis than politeness, as he ground a pebble into the earth under his heel, I'd like to know how to get the start of her.

That was just it! How to get the start of Janet Stafford was what puzzled him more than anything he had attempted in a long time. He had tried, in more ways than one, to accomplish the feat, and every attempt had been a failure. He was getting discouraged.

The way of it all was this: Tom Winters had met Janet Stafford a year ago, and had straightway fallen in love with her. Now Miss Stafford was something of a flirt, a regular, born flirt was Tom's way of putting it, and she liked to tantalize the men, and especially Tom, it seemed to him. Time and again he had opened his mouth to propose, but she always seemed to know what was coming, and by adroit tact would turn the conversation upon some other topic, and talk on and on, until poor Tom would get disgusted, and conclude that he would wait for some other opportunity to declare his love. In no way could he determine whether she cared for him or not. He thought she did, however, and that kept him following her around as faithfully as her shadow, watching for an opportunity to put his fate to the test, and "Win or lose it all."

He had seen her sitting on the rocks that afternoon, reading, and of course he joined her. He wouldn't have been Tom Winters if he hadn't.

Janet knew, before he had been five minutes by her side, that she was verging toward a proposal. She could tell it by his face, and the awful silence which seemed to settle down about him, as he concentrated his courage for the momentous crisis which he hoped was at last at hand.

Suddenly she started up.

I'm getting absent-minded, I think, she laughed, promised to go boat-riding with Jack Devere this afternoon, and I had forgotten all about it till this minute. I'm sorry to leave you, Mr. Winters, but a promise is a promise, you know, and has to be kept; and with that she was gone, and poor Tom swallowed the words that were sticking in his mouth, and sighed dolefully, while he thought unutterable things about Jack Devere, who was his special aversion, because he was a good deal more attentive to Miss Stafford than Tom thought he ought to be.

I wish Devere was in—China, growled Tom, getting up and brushing the dust off his clothes, preparatory to going back to the hotel.

What did you say, Mr. Winters? asked a voice at his side, and there was Miss Stafford again. I left my book here somewhere, and came back after it.

Don't go boat-riding to-day, pleaded Tom, growing desperate under the laughing glance she gave him, I—I've something particular to say to you.

I must go, she answered, though I'd like to stay ever so much. But I'll have to keep my promise.

But one doesn't keep all the promises one makes, said Tom. Do stay here with me, please.

If I had promised to go boat-riding with you, and didn't keep my word, I wonder what you'd think of me? asked Miss Stafford. Think how disappointed Jack would be if I shouldn't come.

He'd get over it; answered Tom. And as I said, I've something particular to say—

It will keep till some other day, answered Miss Stafford, biting her lips to keep back the laugh that always came when Tom's face put on that lugubrious look. There are more days coming, you know.

I suppose so, Tom had to admit. But—but you never give me a chance to say what I want to. I really believe you know what I want to say, but you won't let me say it, just to torment me.

There comes Jack, exclaimed Miss Stafford, as a whistle was heard down the path leading from the beach to the cliffs. Some other time you may tell me the "something particular" if you get a chance.

That was it! If he got a chance!

It's a downright shame for her to treat me so, said Tom, watching her and Jack Devere, as they went down the bay. Sometimes I think she does it to bother me, and sometimes I think she does it because she likes me and wants to make me jealous, so that I'll be sure to propose. But it can't be that, either, for she won't let me propose. Hanged if I know what she does mean by it.

Poor perplexed Tom sat down and took a newspaper out of his pocket, and tried to forget his trials in its accounts of murders and accidents and other cheerful matters of that sort. Finding them dull, he turned to the story department. There was a little sketch there called "Washed Ashore." Tom read it. It was about a man who loved a woman—as he loved Miss Stafford—and singular coincidence, he couldn't find out whether she loved him or not. One day he was out rowing and lost his hat. The waves washed it ashore. The woman he loved found it. She thought he must be drowned, and to the poor, inanimate thing, she confessed the love she had borne for its owner. The supposed dead man happened to be near at hand, and heard her tardy confession of love—then and there all his troubles ended—or began.

Why couldn't I try such an experiment on Janet! thought Tom. If I could only contrive to make her think I was drowned, I might find out whether she cares for me or not. I don't see as I'm ever likely to find out in any other way. I'll try it.

He went down to the beach and engaged a boat. He saw Devere coming as he went down the bay, and Miss Stafford waved him a passing greeting with her sunshade.

That's lucky, thought Tom. She's seen me going out on the water. I'll leave the boat somewhere along the shore, and it'll be found, and I'll be missing, and she will be sure to think I fell in, and was drowned, or committed suicide, and when she thinks that, she'll be likely to say or do something that'll give herself away, and I'll know what to do.

It looks squally in the west, Devere sung out after him. You'd better not go far, Winters.

Thank you, answered Tom; but I'll look out for myself, and he was soon out of hearing of Miss Stafford's merry laugh and Jack Devere's jokes at his expense.

A peak jutted out into the bay, and Tom concluded that a boat abandoned there would be pretty sure to float back to the hotel when the tide came in. Accordingly he left the boat to the mercy of the waves, and started back a round-about-way to the hotel over the rocky cliffs.

The sky was overclouded by this time, and the wind began to blow. To add to Tom's discomfort the rain soon began to pour down in great torrents, and he was drenched to the skin before he could find shelter.

The sun was going down before the storm abated.

It was quite well along in the evening before he got back to the vicinity of the hotel. He was thoroughly chilled in his wet garments, he was hungry, and he was afraid that his plan would prove a failure. Therefore he was not in a very pleasant frame of mind when he saw Janet Stafford's red jacket just a little way ahead of him, as he came down the beach. The sight of that jacket, in itself, was not very disagreeable, but the sight of Jack Devere's broad brimmed straw hat, looking in the moonlight like an aureole about his rival's head, made him very angry.

Deuce take his impertinence, growled Tom. He's a puppy! I suppose he answers her, but I'd like to punch his head for my amusement. They're coming this way. Now's my time to produce a sensation.

The waves were tumbling in on the beach. Tom threw his hat among them, knowing they would wash it in, and that the couple coming toward him would be quite sure to see it on the sand. Then he hid behin

I haven't seen Winters come back yet, Miss Stafford was saying, when they came within hearing distance. She's thinking about me, said Tom, and that shows she's—she's— well it shows she's thinking about me, anyway, if it doesn't show anything else, and this was some consolation to the poor fellow. Perhaps they won't recognize the hat as mine, but if I keep shady tonight and the boat is found, then they'll think that I must be lost and we'll see what she'll say.

He may have been cast away on some island along the shore, laughed Jack Devere. Maybe he'll turn hermit and end his days and troubles there.

I hope not, said Miss Stafford, for if that should happen I should never know what "something particular" was that he wanted to say to me. Then she laughed, and the sound of her merriment made the listener's ears tingle.

Poor fellow, said Devere, but his tone didn't seem to have as much pity in it as his words did. You're really too hard on him. What's that at your feet? A hat, isn't it?

Sure enough, said Miss Stafford stooping to pick it up. Why, Jack, I do believe it's Tom Winters' for here's a bunch of blackberry leaves sticking in the band, and I remember giving him some I gathered yesterday. He begged so hard for them that I couldn't refuse him. Oh, Jack! do you suppose he is drowned?

I wouldn't wonder at all if he was, answered Jack. It made Tom's blood run cold to hear his rival's matter-of-fact tone. "He was a perfect muff with a boat, and never ought to have been allowed two rods from shore in one.

I hope he isn't drowned, said Miss Stafford, and Tom listened delightfully to the sigh that accompanied the words. It proves that she must care something for him.

Just wait till she hears of the boat, chuckled Tom. I presume she'd give way to her feelings now over the hat if he wasn't by.

Poor Tom!

Oh, Jack! exclaimed Miss Stafford, a moment later, if he is drowned I shall never listen to that "something particular" shall I, and then she laughed.

Tom could hardly credit his senses. Looking at it from their standpoint, in all probability he was dead.

Heartless creature, thought Tom, disgusted with all the world. I wouldn't have believed it of her. She didn't care two buttons for me. What a fool I've been. I wish somebody would kick me.

I don't want gentlemen saying "something particular" to my promised wife, said Jack, and then he kissed Miss Stafford, and she kissed him back, and said she'd do just as he thought best, only it was such fun to bother the silly fellow.

His promised wife!

Tom didn't want to hear anything more. He didn't want to see anything more. He had heard and seen enough already.

I don't know but we'd better go back and get some one to turn out and look for Winters, he heard Jack say.

They needn't bother themselves about me, thought Tom, making his way up the rocks as fast as he could. I'm afraid, Tom Winters, you've made a great fool of yourself, and that your experiment was a failure. And yet, after all, he added, as he stopped to take breath on the summit of the cliff, it wasn't, for now you've found out what she thinks of you.

It is hardly necessary to say that Tom's "something particular" was never said; at least never to Miss Stafford.

◆

Last Thursday the firm of Almy Bigelow & Washburn opened their complete establishment to the public. We gave a full description of the elegant store last week; and no one who read the account, failed to have their most sanguine expectations realized. Their store was thronged from morning till night. They had advertised to close their store from 4 until 7 in the evening, but such was the rush of people that they were unable so to do. At five o'clock the firm, with the invited guests, representatives of the dry goods trade in Boston, New York, and elsewhere, with many friends in Salem and vicinity, and gentlemen of the press, sat down to one of Wentworth's best spreads at Willows Pavilion. After cigars had been passed, remarks were made by Mayor Huntington, who emphasized the value to the city of Salem of such firms as Almy, Bigelow & Washburn. The growth of their business was the growth of the city. He wished Salem had more men devoted to the business prosperity of the city. Remarks were also made by Rev. Dr. Bolles, Mr. McAuslam, of Providence, A. Swan Browne of N. Y., and Hon. N. A. Horton, of Salem.

◆

WORKS OF ART.—We have received from the publishers, Root & Tinker of New York, a fine engraving of the great lexicographer, Noah Webster, surrounded by his greatest works. It is entitled "Noah Webster, the Schoolmaster of the Republic," and is particularly appropriate for the school room and library. The price is only 50 cents a copy.

D. B. H. POWER & CO.

In the year 1877 this firm started in business in the old town of Marblehead, with a capital of $400 and a determined effort to succeed, and by a strict attention to business, honorable dealing and a liberal use of printers' ink, their annual business that was then reckoned by hundreds has now reached thousands of dollars and theirs is fast becoming known as the leading house furnishing store in Essex County. A few years ago they inaugurated the instalment plan for furnishing goods to people in moderate circumstances on such easy terms as to reach all classes. They were the first to advertise to sell goods on the plan of "one dollar down and one dollar a week." Their store is located on Pleasant street with an entrance on School street. On the Pleasant street side the horse cars pass the door and the steam cars stop at the entrance on Pleasant street. Entering the store from Pleasant street on the right are well arranged counters and shelves filled with every description of hardware. A center counter contains fancy goods, wedding presents, silverware, albums, etc. On the left is the crockery and earthern ware department, where such a variety is carried as to suit almost any taste. Overhead are numerous hanging lamps, in beautiful designs. Beyond these and on the left is their shoe finding and tin ware department, paints, oils, etc. The rest of the room is devoted to stoves and ranges, and a large stock is constantly on hand, including the "New Hub," "Elmwood," "Magee," "Crawford" and numerous others. A little idea may be formed of the number they handle, when we say they last week received two car loads of the Hub and Elmwood ranges alone. In their parlor stoves they have every variety. They buy the castings and make the stoves themselves, using none but the best Russia iron, and at the same time offer their goods below market price. This room is 80x40 feet. Leading from this room is the work shop, where orders for all kinds of piping, plumbing, steam fitting and tin work are executed. Leading from the work shop is a small room used exclusively for blacking stoves and two men are employed the year round in this work, and even then they can't black them sufficiently fast to keep ahead. The rest of the basement is used for storing stoves, oils, etc. Passing up a short flight of stairs, we enter the furniture room which opens on School street. This room is 40x76 feet and is filled with the better quality of furniture, including plush easy chairs, willow and rattan chairs, black walnut chamber sets, camp chairs, and parlor suits in goods elegantly made up. A part of this room is devoted to the display of carpets, including woolens and oil cloths of every description, mats and oriental rugs. In this department also will be found curtain fixtures in every variety, which are made and put up when ordered. Three women are employed in making carpets, which are put down in all parts of the county. In the room above is a large stock of a cheaper grade of furniture, with painted sets ranging in price from $15 upward. In still another room is a large number of sewing machines, and almost every variety of stove grate and lining. This is very convenient as it saves delays that are occasioned by sending to Boston, when anything happened to a range or parlor stove. The firm use the upper story for storing mattresses, and their sales have amounted to a car load a month during the past year. The firm employ 17 persons about the premises and it takes five delivery wagons to carry out the orders. It is not unfrequently that a young person who is about to be married will buy his whole outfit in this store. So much do they sell on the instalment plan that a man is employed who does nothing else but look after the collections in the different towns. They have a perfect and original system of keeping these accounts, the lease having been made with coupons so that a receipt is given for each dollar and the original document will show the number not paid. The firm are connected by telephone and it will well repay one to visit their store. Remember the firm, D. B. H. Power & Co., 123 and 126 Pleasant street, or 24 School street, Marblehead.

◆

BALMY SLEEP.—The Infirmarian of Mount St. Clements College, Maryland, writes that Red Star Cough Cure has given much satisfaction in that institution. In a severe case of consumption it gave great relief, and after its use restless nights and night sweats disappeared.

There is a whole almanac in the word. The roll of that "r" brings in the oyster, the turkey, the roaring fire the county fair, the sleighride and the winter starlight and ushers out the summer surf, the rural recreation rackets and other out door reminders that now become reminiscences.

Never neglect a constipated condition of the bowels, or serious results surely follow, such as piles, impure blood, and many chronic complaints. [Burdock Blood Bitters.

A. B. & W.

SILK DEPARTMENT.

Our confidence to recommend our Silk Department arises from the success that has attended our efforts to make it the First of the Grand Departments of the Business To carry the finest and largest stock that can be obtained with experience and money, and to sell at the Lowest Prices, is our Motto. To give satisfaction to every customer is our determination, and to this end we select only such goods as we can warrant or recommend.

In this Department, as in every other in our Store, we refund the money for purchases not satisfactory as represented.

BLACK SILKS.

THE FAMOUS HASKELL, or SACARAPPA BLACK SILKS. We are the only party in Salem who buy them direct from the manufacturer. A written guarantee is given with every dress.

CHENEY BROS'. BLACK SILKS. These are also warranted.

We have in our stock full lines of the above Black Silks, in all widths and qualities.

GUINET BLACK SILKS. The most noted Lyons' make.
SATIN RHADAMES. SATIN DUCHESSE.
BENGALINE. A New and Elegant Fabric.

COLORED SILKS.

COL'D GROS GRAIN SILKS.
COL'D SATIN RHADAMES.
COL'D SURAHS.

We make a specialty in Evening Shades.
PARISIAN NOVELTIES in great variety.
The latter is a new feature outside of the great cities.

Be sure and inspect our Display of Novelties.

PLAIN VELVETS, BROCADE VELVETS.
PLAIN PLUSHES, BROCADE PLUSHES.

We carry a very large stock of Velvets and Plushes. We own them as low as as the largest jobbers.

We devote an entire section of our Silk Department to these goods.

Our Velvet and Silk Department is one of the lightest alcoves of our strongly lighted store.

ALMY, BIGELOW & WASHBURN.

THE
Mason & Hamlin Co.
Now have ready a new style
Upright Pianoforte,
No. 5,
Which is offered at the very moderate price, $300.

IMPROVEMENTS IN UPRIGHT PIANOS.

Improvements in the construction of upright pianos have been invented and introduced by the Mason & Hamlin Co., of Boston, New York, and Chicago, which add materially to the value of these instruments, rendering them capable of tones of extraordinary purity and beauty, and much increasing their durability; overcoming in large degree the tendency to fall from the pitch and get out of tune, which has been the most serious practical difficulty in the pianoforte.—Scientific American.

100 STYLES ORGANS, $22. to $900, for Cash, Easy Payments, or Rented.

THE MASON & HAMLIN CO.,
154 Tremont Street, Boston.
sept 23--6t

COMER'S
COMMERCIAL
COLLEGE,
666 Washington Street, BOSTON.

Thorough and Comprehensive Instruction in all Studies Essential to Success in Business.

Students may commence at any time, Receive Individual Instruction and progress according to ability and application. Separate department for Ladies. ☞Graduates Aided to Employment. Young people receive instruction here that will insure a successful start in business, and that will benefit them throughout their business career. For 45th Annual Catalogue, Address C. E. COMER.

jy 15—13t

POLO.

This popular game adapted for home amusement to play on the table.

PRICE $1.00.

For sale by all dealers. Manufactured by

HORACE A. BROOKS,
BOOK BINDER AND BLANK BOOK MANUFACTURER,
226 Essex Street, Salem, Mass.

AMERICAN RUDGE.

The only first-class wheel listed at a low price, fitted with all the latest improvements.

Price, 50 in., Enamel and Nickel, $107.50.

Call and Examine or send for Catalogue.

STODDARD, LOVERING & CO.,
THE RUDGE. 152 Congress St., Boston.

HALLOWELL & SMILEY,

Canned Corn Beef

AND TONGUE

For Picnics and Family Use.

MEATS AND PROVISIONS,

will always be found the best in the market at the LOWEST CASH PRICES.

Flour, Teas, Groceries, etc., at bottom prices.

Hallowell & Smiley
16 CALLER ST., PEABODY.

LADIES!

FOR MILLINERY,
Go to Browne's.
FOR SUNSHADES,
Go to Browne's.
FOR KID GLOVES,
Go to Browne's.
FOR SILK GLOVES,
Go to Browne's.
FOR INFANTS' CAPS,
Go to Browne's.
FOR COLLARS,
Go to Browne's.

153 and 155 Essex St., Salem.

FOR LACE GOODS,
Go to Browne's.
FOR CORSETS,
Go to Browne's.
FOR RUCHINGS,
Go to Browne's.
FOR TOILET ARTICLES,
Go to Browne's.
FOR PERFUMERY,
Go to Browne's.
FOR HAIR GOODS,
Go to Browne's.

For all the Novelties of the season be sure and go to

Mrs. J. H. Browne
153 & 155 ESSEX ST.,
SALEM.

ESTIMATES CHEERFULLY GIVEN ON ALL KINDS OF PRINTING.

Now is the time to rid the system of humors and all Blood Impurities. Ferrated Hygienic Wine is a most effective remedy. tf

TWICE A DAY

HATHAWAY'S ORIGINAL

—— CREAM HOME MADE BREAD ——

Hot Morning and Afternoon. Best of goods in our line comprising

Crackers, Bread, Cake and Pastry,

Also rich Bride, Angel and Wedding Cake to order. Fine ornamental work for Wedding, Birthday and Party Cake a specialty.

C. F. Hathaway,

50 LOWELL ST., PEABODY.

GRAND ARRIVAL.

2 CAR LOADS OF

NEW HUB & Glenwood Ranges.

1 CAR LOAD OF

PARLOR STOVES

To be sold on our Instalment Plan.

$1 Down and $1 a Week.

We make our own Parlor Stoves and use nothing but the best of Russia iron. We know what we are selling and can show you what you are buying, We have all the leading Ranges and Parlor Stoves in the market from the lowest to the highest prices.

Send for Catalogue and Price List.

Old Stoves taken in exchange.

We have the largest stock of

FURNITURE, CARPETS, CROCKERY, BEDDING, SILVER AND WOODEN WARE

To be found in Essex County, in fact everything needed to furnish a house either on a small or large scale. All goods delivered free. Discounts to any wishing to pay cash.

We should be pleased to see you or refer you to responsible parties in your town with whom we have and are still doing business; shall be pleased to send our agent and collector to explain our system of doing our business on the credit system. It will cost you nothing to examine our stock and you will always find one of the firm in attendance, from whom you can get prices and terms on any amount of goods you may wish to buy. We know we can save you money and can refer you to parties who after looking at goods and getting prices in Salem, Lynn, Boston and other places, have returned to us and selected their goods.

D. B. H. POWER & CO.,

123 & 125 PLEASANT ST. 24 SCHOOL ST.,

MARBLEHEAD

Our Competitors Keep Their Backs Up.

Because Our Prices are so Low,

Our Stock is so Large and

Our Patronage So Great.

WE ARE NOT TO BLAME

If an undeviating adherence to Low Prices, Fine Goods and Polite Treatment have won for us the largest trade of any retail boot and shoe store in Essex county, we shall continue to offer the same genuine inducements that have won for us the victory.

TRY THE MATCHLESS BOOT.

PRE-EMINENTLY THE BEST $2 BOOT IN THE MARKET.

Superb in style, elegant in fit and exquistte in design, they are marvels of grace and beauty and it is now within the means of every lady in Peabody to wear a most attractive boot at the

MARVELOUSLY LOW PRICE OF $2.

All horse cars from Peabody pass our Market street store and by transfer our West Lynn store, and any lady can, by trading with us, save on one pair of boots more than enough to pay for one of the most delightful rides imaginable.

WELLMAN OSBORN,

84 MARKET ST., 23 MARKET SQUARE,

LYNN, MASS.

STREET GOSSIP
AS GLEANED BY
NOTES

A Peabody young lady it is told went away for the summer to a fashionable watering place, and the newspapers gave the news among the personals. One of her friends who had envied her good fortune, succeeded in inducing her papa to let her go to the same place. She left anticipating a very pleasant time with her friend, and thinking to give her a surprise, did not write her of her intended visit. She arrived late at night and when she went to breakfast the next morning imagine her surprise when in giving her order she recognized in the waiter girl her friend whom she had come to see. It was rather embarassing but it couldn't be helped, and no doubt the second young lady fared as well as any of the guests at the hands of her friend.

There is a young man living not far from Tremont street, who received a terrible fright the other night. He was going up Wallis street from a club room to which he belongs, at about eleven o'clock, when he saw near the cemetery two fellows standing and cross the street was another. As he approached he heard one of them say to the other, "Here he comes," and the one on the other side of the street crossed over. The young man knew they had designs against him and he turned round and rapidly retraced his steps. Where to go he did not know but it was certain he couldn't go home, so he went back to the club room, locked himself in and remained there all night. He had received such a shock he could not sleep and the hours dragged slowly along till daylight when he returned to his anxious family.

The boys who sell papers are in the habit of running through the train with them while Foye's express bundles are being unloaded. The other day a little fellow not over six years of age came into the car behind an older one who seemed to get the most of the business, and as the barefooted little fellow was leaving he was heard to remark to his larger rival, "Perhaps you think I don't know this racket as well as you, I worked this train before you did."

A man that will write anything under an assumed name, and then bore other people by praising his own work, must have an everlasting amount of conceit. Some men are born fools.

One of our young men who has a reputation for careless driving, hired a buggy in Salem recently, and when he returned with it, it was a sorry looking vehicle. The driver wasn't in a condition to explain how it happened, but the stable keeper made his calculation from the quantity of broken glass found under the seat. It cost $16.50 to repair it.

While getting shaved at one of our barber shops recently, I noticed a number of men come in and black their boots. On inquiry I learned that the barber had a large number of customers who came in regularly and treated themselves to a shine. So large is their patronage that the "dauber" is in constant demand, and in the course of a year considerable blacking goes this way. Most every kind of business has to furnish its "special privileges" now a days.

I was at the cattle show last week at Newburyport, and to me an hour's amusement was found in reading the cards placed on the exhibits. Some of the spelling would have disgraced a southern negro who had learned the alphabet.

There is a prospect of an interesting divorce suit being brought by a married man, which is liable to make a commotion. The charge is adultery, and the plaintiff will give many names of young and married men in this town, who have got a foot over the trace. When the papers are made out, it is possible we will hear of some of our citizens going west.

"I was a little surprised to receive that by mail to day," said a lady to me yesterday, as she showed me a fashionable scented envelope with her name neatly written on the address side. "There was nothing in it, and why any one should try to fool me I don't see." This was afterwards explained by her receiving an invitation for her little girl to attend a child's party. The mother in sending off her invitations, had sent only the addressed envelopes to about twelve persons, but she couldn't tell who drew the blanks, and so new invitations were sent to all.

* * *

Ayer's Ague Cure is warranted to cure all cases of malaria. Sold by all druggists. Price one dollar.

The consul at Nice, Mr. Thomas Wilson, wants Congress to adopt resolutions calling upon the states of the Union to legislate relative to the marriage of Americans to French. He says: "I desire to call the attention of the department to this subject, in the hope that some mode be found to prevent citizens of the United States marrying French citizens from being unwittingly entrapped (that is the right word) into making a marriage which is good enough in the United States or where made, but is a mock marriage in France. It seems to me this matter calls for the intervention of the government, for a government can have no higher duty to its citizens than to throw such protection around them as that they may not be thus entrapped, or, if they will marry, that it will not be done in the belief that the marriage, because valid according to the laws of his or her own country—the United States, where it is performed—is, therefore, valid in France, the country of which the other party is a citizen. That these things occur and are productive of great misery to American citizens who are in a condition least able to bear it is, alas, too manifest in the number of American (and English) women who are in France, the cast-off and discharged wives of Frenchmen. I do but state a fact well known to everybody except, apparently, to those girls (and their parents or guardians) who are about to marry Frenchmen and the minister of the gospel authorized to marry them. I regard it as useless to attempt to make any treaty or other arrangements with the French government by which all marriages made in the United States, even though in strict accordance with its laws, shall here be recognized as legal. The customs and law of France and its conservatism concerning the etat civil of its citizens, the necessity for publicity of the marriage, and the opportunity required to prevent it, if illegal, together with the recognized authority of the parent over the family, are too strong to be overborne and set aside in order to do justice to those foreigners who may have put their foot in it by marrying French citizens in another country. Another reason exists why no such arrangement can ever be made with France. Frenchmen (as well as some others) are shocked at the rapidity and flippancy, not to mention the clandestinity, with which marriages are not unfrequently contracted in the United States. They do not believe they are, or ought to be, valid. A clandestine acquaintance or courtship, ending in a runaway match, inaugurated with a ladder and a lantern, a midnight flight, a hurried marriage en deshabille, and a furious father arriving a few minutes too late, to call this a valid marriage may do in the United States, but to ask the law of France to do so would be to ask impossibilities. It would be regarded as but a youthful escapade, not a serious matter, one to be overlooked and excused, and his family would justify and protect him, when, after sowing his wild oats, gotten tired of eating husks in a foreign land, he returned to his home to take his proper place in society. The objects of the institution of marriage are so different in the two countries that their different customs cannot be reconciled."

* * *

Last Thursday being opening day among the store keepers of Salem there was a large crowd of people on the street and in the stores. At John P. Peabody's there was a rushing trade requiring the services of an extra cashier. The goods consisted of, besides the regular staple articles, fancy handkerchiefs, vaces, cups and saucers, majolica ware, etc. Many things were offered at special bargains, such as a beautiful lace collar for twenty-five cents that had been selling for half a dollar. Hamburg edging was offered for four cents a yard and upward. All linen towels were sold for twenty-five cents a pair, and a fine quality of velvet for $1 a yard. These were only a few of the great many bargains, and as the good natured crowd elbowed their way from one counter to another it was a lively scene. It showed that when the country trade came into the city they did not forget the old reliable house they have been accustomed to trade with. In the windows were a line of goods within the reach of all, marked in plain figures, such as would induce a person to buy for future use even if not in want of the articles at the time. These are only a sample of the bargains offered daily, and the store of John P. Peabody is sure of a liberal patronage.

* * *

Also from the same publishers, we have received No. 3 of the series of "Men of Mark," the same being a fine picture of Col. Richard M. Hoe, inventor of the Hoe printing press. The price of the picture is but 25 cents postage paid. Address Root & Tinker, publishers, Tribune Building, New York.

The poor chap that stands in the front picture of an almanac with fish and scorpions, and balls and twins, etc. around him—did you notice that he was naked and had nothing in his stomach? Well, that poor fellow used to edit a paper and take his pay in "I'll pay my subscription next week."

THE DRAMA.

"Around the World in Eighty Days" has more than renewed at the Boston Theatre its old-time success with the public. The spacious stage of this house offers every advantage and convenience for scenic display and effect. The ballet led by those skilled artists, Mlles. Consuelo, La Bruyere and Milon, is one of the largest the Kiralfys have ever brought into requisition, and in general the cast of the Verne production is remarkably good. Other engagements prevent the continuance of the spectacular season beyond Saturday in spite of the great success of the piece. There will be a matinee on Wednesday, as well as Saturday, with the usual evening representations.

At the Park Theatre a comedy in three acts, "Putting on Style" will be performed this week by Mr. John Howson and a strong supporting company. The composition is original, but it does not consist of specialties or features. Mr. Howson presents five original musical numbers, four of which are from his own pen; the music composed by Mr. Frank A Howson, the musical director of the Madison Square Theatre, New York, who has also written the incidental orchestral music. Heading the list of the ladies of the company is Miss Louise Lester, whose brilliant soprano voice is of rare quality and cultivation, and whose repertory in the leading roles of comic opera is not exceeded by any artist of her years. Mr. Charles Coote, who made such a success last season as the "Private Secretary," with the Madison Square Theatre Company, has a strong comedy part, that of an old Doctor. The balance of the company are all ladies and gentlemen of recognized ability. "Putting on Style," can be played this week only, seats for any performance of which may now be secured at the ticket office.

Mr. Charles H. Hoyt has excellent reason to feel satisfied with the appreciation manifested by the public of Boston for his latest satirical comedy skit. "A Tin Soldier" has nightly attracted applauding assemblages at the Bijou Theatre; and as the present week marks the limit of the season of the piece here, the attendance will doubtless tax at every performance the seating capacity of this "parlor theatre of Boston." George Wilson as the hard-working plumber has pleased all his old friends and admirers, and all do their share towards making a "A Tin Soldier" a decided go.

Although "Feartherbrain" is in the full tide of success at the Boston Museum Manager Field's arrangements necessitate the withdrawal of the sparkling comedy after next Saturday night. The piece has been considerably condensed since the opening representation, and now the curtain falls on the denouement at a seasonable hour. Everybody likes "Featherbrain" and the way in which the Museum company present the Wyndham success. Tom Taylor's little play, "A Sheep in Wolf's Clothing," with Mr. Barron, Miss Clark and Mr. Owen in the more important roles, is to precede "Featherbrain" at every representation of the week.

The sale of seats for the entire first week of Mr. John Gilbert's engagement, opening Monday, October 5, at the Museum, have begun. The following plays will be produced: Monday and Tuesday evenings, also Wednesday afternoon, "The School for Scandal"; Wednesday and Thursday evenings, "Old Heads and Young Hearts"; Friday and Saturday evenings, also Saturday afternoon, "Wives as They Were and Maids as They Are" (first time in eleven years). There will be an entire change of bill for second and last week of his engagement, opening Monday, October 12, with "The Road to Ruin."

The Madison Square "May Blossom" company is to appear at the Park a week from Monday.

Rheumatism

It is an established fact that Hood's Sarsaparilla has proven an invaluable remedy in many severe cases of rheumatism, effecting remarkable cures by its powerful action in correcting the acidity of the blood, which is the cause of the disease, and purifying and enriching the vital fluid.

It is certainly fair to assume that what Hood's Sarsaparilla has done for others it will do for you. Therefore, if you suffer the pains and aches of rheumatism, give this potent remedy a fair trial.

A Positive Cure.

"I was troubled very much with rheumatism in my hips, ankles, and wrists. I could hardly walk, and was confined to my bed a good deal of the time. Being recommended to try Hood's Sarsaparilla, I took four bottles and am perfectly well. I cheerfully recommend Hood's Sarsaparilla as one of the best blood purifiers in the world." W. F. WOOD, Bloomington, Ill.

For Twenty Years

I have been afflicted with rheumatism. Before 1883 I found no relief, but grew worse. I then began taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, and it did me more good than all the other medicine I ever had." H. T. BALCOM, Shirley, Mass.

"I suffered from what the doctors called muscular rheumatism. I took Hood's Sarsaparilla and am entirely cured." J. V. A. PROUDFOOT, letter carrier, Chicago, Ill.

We shall be glad to send, free of charge, to all who may desire, a book containing many additional statements of cures by

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Sold by all druggists. $1; six for $5. Made only by C. I. HOOD & CO., Lowell, Mass.

100 Doses One Dollar.

ROYAL
FULL WEIGHT
ROYAL BAKING POWDER
ABSOLUTELY PURE
ROYAL
BAKING POWDER
BAKING

POWDER

Absolutely Pure.

This powder never varies. A marvel of purity, strength and wholesomeness. More economical than the ordinary kinds, and cannot be sold in competition with the multitude of low test, short weight, alum or phosphate powders. Sold only in cans. ROYAL BAKING POWDER Co., 106 Wall street, N. Y.

AVOID

The Cholera by using Carbolate of Lime.

For cleansing out-houses, cesspools, sink-drains, stables, etc For sale in 10, 25 and 50 lbs. bags, and by the barrel.

E. S. THAYER,

165 Derby Street.

C. H. ESTES, Agent for Peabody.

SMOKERS

Having secured a large lot of the very Best Tobacco in the market we feel justified in saying the

MON AMI AND PLANTER

are the Best Havana Cigars in the town of Peabody. We have also the Electric, Harvard and El Sol de Cuba Brands.

FOR A 5C. SMOKE

Try the Brunette, it is a good one. The Heart's Ease, Sociable, Purity, Gun Club and E. H. S., are fine goods.

Collins' Cigar Store,

4 Allen's Block.

TOBACCO WHOLESALE & RETAIL.

WM. M. HILL.

AUCTIONEER, REAL ESTATE

BROKER & APPRAISER.

HALE'S BLOCK.

223 ESSEX STREET, SALEM.

Mortgagees negotiated. Personal attention to all Real Estate matters.

W. C. ROBINSON

(Successor to Smith & Robinson.)

Dealer in all kinds of

STATIONERY AND ARTISTS' MATERIALS.

Pictures and Picture Frames.

Everything to be found in a first class establishment.

—— Everything in our line at Bottom Prices. ——

The people of Peabody are cordially invited to look at our stock, and see our display of paintings and art work.

We are agents for the celebrated

ROGERS' GROUPS.

☞ Horse cars pass the door.

W. C. Robinson,

42 MARKET STREET, LYNN, MASS.

W. B. GIFFORD & CO.,

77 & 79 MARKET ST., LYNN.

We now beg leave to announce our

FALL DRESS GOODS,

which have now arrived, consisting of Home Spuns, Combination Suitings, Plaids, Plain and Plaid, Ladies Cloths.

Also, we are constantly receiving

VELVETS, SILKS, ETC.

SPECIAL MENTION Grand Mark Down sale of Lawn Dresses, Dressing Sacques, Wrappers, etc., to make room for our New Fall and Winter Garments, Shawls, etc.

New Buttons, Clasps, Feather and Marabout Trimmings arriving every day.

Special attractions in our Corset, Glove, Toilet and Hosiery Departments.

W. B. Gifford & Co.

SHOE SONG.

Air, "Ben Bolt."

Many have tried in vain, kind friends!]
But their efforts can never compare
To the crowds that throng into Nugent's store,
To secure the great bargains there.
There's a change in the times I know, kind friends!
They have changed from the old to the new,
And I feel in the depth of my pocket the truth
That prices have changed with them too.
Many years have passed and gone, kind friends!
Since Nugent's store first was hailed
As a popular place for elegant styles,
And fits that never have failed.

The Largest and Best selected stock of Boots, Shoes, Rubbers, etc.,
at Lowest Prices, at
NUGENT BROS.
PEABODY SQUARE.

The Peabody Press.

JOHN P. FERNALD ALBERT VITTUM,
Editors and Publishers.

A MOVEMENT which has found favor in the West, with reference to the sale of intoxicants, which is being agitated in New York State, and to some extent here, finds the liquor dealer and the prohibitionist united in its opposition. We refer to what is known as high license. It is a curious state of affairs when the rumseller and his life long opponent are willing to shake hands in opposition to a measure leading to the restriction of the rum traffic. What is there in the measure so odious to both?

Let us see. The liquor dealer, from his position, is not in favor of any restriction in the sale of liquor. Least of all is he in favor of a license so high that it would drive three-fourths of the dealers out of the business. Competition in this, as in other branches of business, is the life of trade; and the saloon keeper, whatever else he may say, does not usually care much for an increase of competitors. The more saloons, usually, the more rum will be sold. The prohibitionist will tell you that the principle of license is wrong, any way. High license is just as bad as low license. If the law is going to license any one, give all the dealers an equal chance. They will not favor any kind of a license. Prohibition, they say, is the only method of suppressing the rum traffic.

Now there is a class of citizens, and they are rapidly increasing, who believe in the restriction of the liquor traffic by any and all methods. Some of them would favor prohibition, if it could be enforced; some of them are opposed to the principle of prohibition. They are in favor of a restriction of the sales of intoxicants, and are considering very seriously whether high license is not the best method of such restriction.

We do not think that the class of prohibitionists, who are unwilling to favor any measure leading towards temperance, save their own pet hobby, is on the increase. But many strong temperance men, who have previously acted with the rigid prohibitionist, are beginning to see that half a loaf is better than no bread. They are willing to advocate measures leading up to their idea, and to take the best law they can get.

We confess that the prohibitionist who will not sanction by law the sale of liquor, stands upon high ground. But the ideal is not always the real. We have got to take things in this world, to some extent, as they exist. Now it is a settled fact that prohibition in Massachusetts cannot be strictly enforced. It can be in small towns, apparently, but not in large cities. It would be foolish to say in this town, well as is the law enforced, that no liquor is sold here. But the ideal prohibitionist will do nothing to aid in the enforcement of a law which is not prohibitory to the last degree; and while he is making speeches, carrying long petitions to the State House, and congratulating himself that their cause is in the hands of an Almighty Ruler, the enemy is sowing tares, and has been, in this and other states, reaping an abundant harvest.

In New York State the temperance leaders are moving towards high license. They also make a distinction between the licensee who sells hard liquors and the dealer who sells only beer or malt liquors. In the one case they purpose making the fee $1000, in the other $100. This is in accordance with the well known fact that the more malt liquors are sold to the exclusion of hard liquors, the less drunkenness exists. More drunkenness exists in prohibitory towns for this same reason; there is less risk attached to the illegal sales of hard liquors than to the malt liquors which must be kept on draught. And while the drinker would purchase ale or beer, if he had the opportunity, he can get none, and must have hard liquor or none at all.

Rev. Henry Ward Beecher thus speaks on the subject of high license: "I am in favor of the insertion of a high-license plank in the platform of the coming Republican State Convention, because absolute prohibition is an absolute impossibility. High license is possible, feasible and equitable. The moral sense of the community will sustain the demand. The result will be a greater protection from the evil of liquor selling than by any other method that can be enforced."

In the town of Milford, recently, the clergymen were desired to preach to the business men of that town with regard to a greater protection to their interests from the evils of the traffic in intoxicants. Rev. Mr. Witherbee, the leading Congregationalist minister there, and whom we see quoted more frequently in the Milford papers than any other clergyman, leading us therefore to suppose, without personal knowledge, that his words are more influential there than others, takes similar ground, and came out squarely in favor of high license.

We are decidedly opposed to any change in the present law in Massachusetts. But in cities and towns where licenses are granted, the fees for licenses can be increased and the high license be given a fair trial. No law is of avail unless enforced. And in this town, for example, with a high license, we should want to see our Law and Order League work actively, as it has in the past, towards the enforcement of the law.

In this discussion between the advocates of high license, prohibition and free rum, the Law and Order League has no part. It is because of this stand that the organization is tenable. "We ask only obedience to law."

* * *

THE REMARKS of A. Swan Browne on the occasion of the spread given at the Willows by Almy, Bigelow & Washburn, although impromptu, are worthy of mention. Mr. Browne has been in times past a dry goods "drummer." Yet in spite of all the opprobrium attached to this name by people who should know better, his words are entitled to more than ordinary consideration; and in connection with the opening of one new dry goods store in Salem, and the remodeling of others, are worthy of enlargement and commendation. Mr. Browne was for many years connected with the house of H. B. Claflin & Co. of New York City—the largest wholesale establishment in that metropolis,— extending several blocks, occupying five stories including a basement, and distributing its goods from Maine to California. He is now the head of the Syndicate Trading Co. in the same city, and knows personally the representative houses in the New England cities in the retail dry goods trade. He visits their stores and knows their methods of doing business. He also attends to their needs when they or their representatives visit the great Metropolis to purchase goods.

Mr. Browne said that dry goods merchants had been accused of trickery and sharp practice—driving what was called a sharp bargain with customers. Such might have been the custom in times past, but it was not countenanced now. If there was any business in the country characterized by fair and honorable dealing it was the dry goods trade of to-day. The old time practice of the merchant marking his goods with only one price, and that a supposed cost price—not however the actual cost, but marked up all the way from 15 to 25 per cent.—leaving it for his clerks to get us much profit as possible above that, more or less, as he could,—has passed away. To-day one price prevails, from which there is allowed no sensible variation. There is not allowed any misrepresentation of the quality of the goods. Cotton goods, cotton and wool goods, strictly all wool goods, are sold for just what they are. No first class dry goods house, says Mr. Browne, allows any variation from these principles, and he spoke from his experience with the different houses with whom he dealt.

It will be a healthy sign for the prosperity and business welfare of this country when such words can truly be said of all trades. The dry goods trade of this country is a large and increasingly successful branch of traffic. If Mr. Browne's words are true, it has verified the old adage that "honesty is the best policy." It has paid in the long run. Trickery and deception may cause a house to spring into notice like the mushroom, but its end is sure to be ruin.

While the reference in these remarks was to the dry goods trade in general, we cannot but feel to emphasize the words of Mr. Browne as characteristic of our merchants in this vicinity. A leading dry goods merchant told us, not long since, that there was no use in putting what were once called "jobs" before the public. He could not sell trash at any price. Good, reliable, regular goods at reasonable prices were what the public wanted, and what he purposed putting before them. We know no merchant who advertises in this paper who has not adopted the principles enunciated by Mr. Browne—one price and no misrepresentation of goods. It is, therefore, with confidence that we can recommend them to our readers.

* * *

THE BOSTON Sunday Globe has found out that opium dens exist in Boston, and it takes occasion, in a vigorous editorial, to upbraid the Police Commissioners for allowing them to exist. Now we will go as far as the Sunday Globe in calling for the suppression of these dens, but the animus of the editorial will be seen in a few extracts which we shall make.

The Globe says: "We have plenty of law on the statute books, the citizens generally are anxious that it shall be enforced, yet despite the law and public sentiment it proves that these haunts of death are allowed to continue almost without interruption within our very midst."

These words exactly express the state of affairs in Boston, with reference to the liquor law, gambling saloons and houses of ill fame, as it existed previous to the appointment of the new Police Commissioners. Every word is the exact truth. But did the Globe give vent to any such remarks relative to these other evils? Not at all. It claimed that the Metropolitan police bill was an outrage; that the laws were well enough enforced and that no necessity existed for the measure.

The Globe further says: "No trouble seems to be found in detecting technical violations of the liquor and other laws (notice how carefully the word 'violations' is guarded.) An old drone caught selling a gill of rum illegally is sure to be found out and punished, but when it comes to opium joints, etc."

It is easy enough to see where the shoe pinches. The new Metropolitan Commissioners are beginning to do some work. The result has shown that the police of Boston were willing to enforce the law, if only they could be upheld by the Commissioners in so doing. The law is being enforced. The liquor sellers in Boston who have been selling illegally, either violating the provisions of their license or selling without one, belong to a party of which the Globe is the confessed organ. The same may be said with reference to proprietors of gambling dens. And these people are voters. They do not wish the liquor law or the law against gambling to be enforced, and while the Globe would not dare to uphold them in this desire, it is very careful not to say anything strongly in favor of the enforcement of these laws. The opium dens are run by Chinese, usually, who are not voters. Furthermore, although they are bad enough, and we heartily second the wish of the Globe to have them suppressed, there are probably one hundred illegal violators of the liquor law to one opium joint.

We have little doubt that the Police Commissioners will attend to the opium dens in good time. It must be remembered that they found a police force instructed to wink at violations of all these laws we have mentioned, except where the violation was so open as to give them no alternative. They cannot be expected to reform such a system all at once. They are entitled to great praise for what they have already accomplished—and it has been enough to make the violators of the law and their supporters uneasy.

* * *

General Carr was not good enough for the New York Republican gubernatorial candidate, you know, because he was an Irishman and a Catholic. But he was good enough to be put in second place, to catch votes. How the Republican party does love the Irish.—Boston Globe.

A paper of the reputation of the Globe ought to be ashamed to print such stuff as this. If a journal in the Republican party should even hint at anything prejudicial to our adopted citizens, what a howl would go up from the Globe? The above is untrue, and the Globe knows it. The nomination in New York was anyone's fight, as is well known. Mr. Davenport developed unusual strength on the first ballot, and was nominated because of his evident apparent availability. It is because Mr. Carr is an Irishman and a Catholic and does not belong to the Globe's party that they see an opportunity to descend to a slur that no respectable sheet would countenance.

* * *

TOO MUCH praise cannot be given for the promptness with which our firemen have rallied, and the efficient manner in which the fires have been handled during the week that is past. All of them had a good headway and gave promise of serious business, but they were so well handled that the loss in each case was comparatively small. We believe we have the best Fire Department, for a volunteer department, anywhere around. And we feel sure we voice the sentiment of our citizens when we say we are proud of them and their work.

SOUTH PEABODY.

The suicide of Mr. Samuel Stone continues to be the all absorbing topic in this part of the town, and the feeling is one of genuine sorrow, as Mr. Stone was honored and respected by the whole community. There have been several exaggerated accounts of the affair in which it was said that it was a "religious monomania," that "he had been crossed in love" and numerous other reasons were asssigned for the act. The particulars seem to be that Mr. Stone, who resided with his mother-in-law a Mrs. Carleton, and a housekeeper, Mrs. Parker, and a seven year old daughter, being of a sensitive nature had been considerably disturbed by his domestic affairs, and dwelt upon them to such an extent as to turn his brain. There were many things for the past three weeks that lead his folks to consider him not in sound mind, and last Saturday he attempted to swallow a dose of oil of vitrol, but was prevented by the sudden entrance of his housekeeper, Mrs. Parker, an estimable lady to whom the deceased was engaged to be married. Dr. F. S. Worcester was sent for and advised the sending of him to a place of confinement. On Sunday morning he seemed quite rational and the family thought he was better, but Mrs. Parker caught him in the act of attempting to cut his throat with a carving knife. A relative from Lynn was sent for and after he arrived a walk to Cedar Grove Cemetery was proposed and Mrs. Parker, a little daughter, and the gentleman from Lynn, all went with him, although he objected to the presence of the gentleman. While there he made several attempts to enter the bushes, but was followed. What his own fate would have been and possibly those who were with him had not the gentleman accompanied them, one can only conjecture. Returning home he excused himself a minute to enter the water-closet, when he took a large razor and cut his throat from ear to ear. A minute later his friends burst in the door and were met by the ghastly sight. Messrs. Geo. E. Parker and Sylvester Needham removed him to the house. Dr. Worcester was already there, having previously called to see his patient, and Dr. Foster was sent for and his wounds were dressed, although they knew his life was of short duration. Before he died he signified that he would like to have Mr. Needham take his child and educate her. Mr. Stone was a shoe maker by trade and worked in Lynn. During the war he enlisted in Company H. 19th Reg. Mass. Vols. and was a member of Gen. Lander Post 5. G. A. R. of Lynn. He was a member of the Chestnut Street Church in Lynn and a teacher in the Sunday School at South Peabody. He was kind hearted and generous and respected by all who knew him. His funeral took place yesterday afternoon from his late residence and was attended by over 200 people, Gen. Lander Post G. A. R. attending in a body. Rev. J. W. Colwell conducted the services at the house and feelingly and elegantly payed tribute to the many good qualities of the deceased. The Post took charge of the services at the grave. There was a profusion of elegant flowers. The deceased was insured in the Glenmere Mutual Benefit Association and his daughter will receive about $700.

Mr. Samuel Brown was 76 years of age on the 21st of this month, and on that day completed the second large mill stone that had been ordered for a cream tartar factory at Chelsea. Mr. Brown is still hearty and we trust will live many years to enjoy life, as he does, surrounded by a loving family.

Rumor has it that a rubber company is negotiating to get control of the water privilege and mill at Newell's crossing, that has not been flourishing of late years.

The George Shillaber farm at South Peabody has been sold by Mr. Jonathan King to F. L. Newhall.

A runaway horse, drawing a buggy containing two drunken women, created a sensation on Lynn street last Thursday. The women were screeching at the top of their voice and a farmer at work in a field, attempted to stop the horse when it shied, throwing the buggy against the wall and wrecking the top of it. The females were too drunk to get badly hurt, and after a little while they started for Cliftondale where they claimed to belong.

Mr. J. B. Thomas has a gang of twenty men employed in clearing up the Richardson farm. This work was partly done last year, and will probably be completed this.

There will be a reception to the pastor, Rev. J. W. Colwell, at the Rockville Church this evening. It is the tenth anniversary of his marriage.

Mr. Orlando Newhall, is building an eight foot addition to his green houses, and preparing for the winter season.

Mr. Samuel Brown, of South Peabody, is making a headstone for one of our citizens to be sent to Albany, N. Y. It is of granite and will match a monument he made for the same party fourteen years ago.

SPARKS.

The past week has been the liveliest known in the fire department for some years, four working fires having taken place. The first was for the fire in the Washington House, Salem, Monday morning the 21st, the second in Peabody, and the third in Salem, and the fourth in Peabody. Last Thursday evening at about 8.50 o'clock some one of the residents of Union street, discovered fire in the roof of A. B. Clark's stable and gave an alarm, which was taken up and sounded from the whistle at Webster & Co's tannery. A prompt response was made by the department, and in less than five minutes from the first blowing of the whistle, Hose 1 had a stream of water on the burning building from the hydrant near Proctor's shop, on Webster street, soon followed by water from Steamer 1, Hose 3, 2 and 4, and at 9.20 o'clock the fire was all out, the roof still standing, and the hook and ladder men were busy pitching over the hay and straw. It is thought that the fire was of incendiary origin, as a man was seen to run from the building a short time before the fire was discovered, and to run under a house which was being removed. Mr. Clark and several others had been in the stable about twenty minutes before the alarm, but had discovered no signs of fire. He was in the morocco shop at the time of the alarm, and immediately ran to the stable, getting out the three horses, seven cows and fifteen pigs, safely. The wagons and harnesses were also got out. The hay loft contained several tons of hay and straw, and a quantity of grain all of which were destroyed by fire or water. A valuable shepherd dog in the hay loft was burned to death. A number of pigeons were seen to fly from the fire after water had been put on. The loss was about $300, partially insured through the agency of H. A. Brown of Salem. The whole roof was in flames before the department arrived on the spot, and the condition of the building after the fire was extinguished shows that it was well handled by Chief Tibbetts and the firemen. One of Hose 3's lines got away from the pipemen and made things lively for a few minutes. Quick time was made in getting out, from the Central Station, the apparatus being timed as they passed the PRESS office, the time being taken from the first sound of the whistle. Hose 1 passed in 1 minute 6 seconds, H. & L. 1 in 2 minutes, 3 seconds and Steamer 1 in 2 minutes 5 seconds. This is very good time considering that only one swing harness is in position as yet. After the fire a collation was furnished at the Central Station. 1600 feet of hose was in use at this fire. Hose 2 drew their carriage the whole distance by hand, making good time. Hose 5 came down as far as the Square.

Sunday morning at 12.45 o'clock, the department was again called out by an alarm given by the bell on Hose 2, by officer Grady. A brilliant reflection in the direction of Dublin, showed the fire to be in the neighborhood of Tremont street, and the apparatus and firemen went racing in that direction, finding that the large barn formerly owned by the late Eben S. Poor situated in the rear of Tremont street. The building was all in flames when the apparatus arrived, and nothing could be saved. Hose 1 was the first to lay hose, but could not reach the fire. Hose 3 got the first water, followed by Hose 6 of Salem, Steamer 1 and Hose 4 of Peabody, and the Salem apparatus also had streams on. The end of the barn fronted on the dividing line between Peabody and Salem. The barn was let to Owen Hanlon who used it as a stable, and as a store house for vegetables, of which he had a number of tons in store. He lost two horses, one of them being taken out, but had to be shot it was so badly burned. His loss was $600, insured for $100. Buffum & Poor, stable keepers of Salem, had a number of sleighs and carriages stored in the barn. Their loss is $1500, insured for $1000. The Naumkeag horse railroad company had three barges, which were valued at $200 each, destroyed. No insurance. The total loss on building and contents is over $4000. The building was built 35 years ago, and was evidently set on fire. The Peabody firemen returned to quarters shortly after 2 o'clock in the morning.

At just 6.45 o'clock Sunday evening, just eighteen hours after the Poor fire, the whistle on L. & G. H. Poor's tannery sounded an alarm for what appeared to be a brisk fire in the tannery of Philip Nelson, situated on a lane leading from Lowell street to the railroad tracks. The department rallied promptly, Hose 1 putting two streams on the burning building, from the hydrant on Crowninshield street, followed by Hose 3 and Steamer 2, and in about twenty minutes all signs of fire was gone. The building was used as a tan shed and had a quantity of trash wood piled up against the westerly side between two large double doors. The fire was set on the outside in such a way that it worked into the wood pile and then into the building, and when the apparatus arrived was creeping along, both inside and out toward the bark mill, but a few minutes' work ensured the safety of the mill and main tannery buildings. The loss will reach about $150. The tannery is insured for $2000 in the Queens' of London, and the London, Liverpool and Globe companies, through the agency of A. H. Merrill. It is thought that this fire was set by boys, as a number were seen in that vicinity just before the fire broke out. The whole department turned out. Steamer 2 was taken to the hydrant on Lowell street, but was not fired up. The firemen feel as though they would like a little rest before any more alarms are given. The Nelson fire was well handled, and reflects great credit upon Chief Tibbetts and his assistants.

The insurance on the buildings of George Mackintosh, burned in South Peabody on the morning of September 5, has been adjusted through the agency of O. B. Chadwick & Co. The total is $2770, of which $1500 is on the house, $1210 on barn, and $60 on outbuildings.

The South Danvers Mutual Insurance Company have adjusted the loss on the house of Joseph Meredith, burned in Salem, Monday, Sept. 21, for $575.

Old hydrants have been taken out the past week at the corner of Foster and Oak streets, on Main, at the foot of Park, and on Park street, and new ones put in their place.

Chief Engineer John H. Tibbetts has sold out his fish business to R. F. Dodge, and has started a first class dining and oyster saloon in Blaney's block, where the fish market was.

The fire in the Poor barn on Tremont street, broke out anew Monday noon, and Hose 6 and the H & L, of Salem, were called out to extinguish it.

Driver George Morgan received his set of swing harness for the H & L, Monday, and has fitted them to his horses. Both sets will be hung up some time this week.

George H. Miller, of Steamer 2, who was injured at the fire of Sept. 5th, is able to get out around the street, but is obliged to use a cane. It was quite a serious accident for him.

Proctor's whistle, when blown for the fire Sunday morning, was heard in Malden.

Lots of the "boys" got their best clothes wet at the fires of Thursday and Sunday evenings.

The last few fires have demonstrated the fact that this department should own another pair of horses, or if not own them, some arrangement should be made by which a pair could be placed in the stable for the use of the relief steamer, as in case of an alarm, while the rest of the machines are on duty. At the fire of Sept. 5, in South Peabody, everything with the exception of Steamer 2, and Hose 4, was present at the scene of the fire. Steamer 2 sat in the house, with no horses, in case it should be required to be called out. This town is abundantly able to put another pair of horses into the stable and maintain them there, and as cold weather is coming on it should be done.

Steamer 2 goes on duty at 12 o'clock to-night, and Steamer 1 goes on relief.

William F. Leary, of the Poughkeepsie N. Y. News-Press, was in town yesterday. He is also a member of the Poughkeepsie fire department, and takes a great interest in fire matters. He is visiting friends in Salem.

There are 163 hydrants, including the Lowery and the old hydrant on the Square, in this town. Z

* * *

The board of government of the Essex County union of C. T. A. Societies paid an official visit to the Father Matthew's Society last Monday evening and an eloquent address was delivered by the president of the union, John H. Watson of Beverly. Vice president, Danaceum of Lynn and Cummings of Salem, also gave words of encouragement to the young men to stick to the temperance cause and try and induce others to enroll themselves under their banner. The meeting was very successful.

The Ipswich Chronicle says:—"A case of considerable interest to sportsmen has been decided at the present term of the Superior Court. Peabody parties have claimed the exclusive right to gun on Ipswich Neck, and last year Mr. Orland Brown of Haverhill, was presented a bill from J. B. Thomas of Peabody, who claims to be the lessee. Brown refused to pay, and suit was brought against him, but the case has never come to trial, and, after delaying from one court to another, the plaintiff was finally non-suited at the court in Newburyport, thus virtually admitting they had no just grounds for a suit.

The pupils in the over crowded rooms in the Wallis school have been transferred to the new school house, and a new grade has been established in Miss Estys' room to correspond to the grade in the Wallis school.

On the big opening day in Salem last Thursday, Frank Cousins' Bee Hive came in for a liberal share of praise. His windows were attractively arranged. In one was an immense stock of blankets with the prices marked in plain figures, and another contained a fine display of millinery, flowers, etc., tastefully arranged, and on the corner was a display of gents' furnishing goods. Inside, the store was very prettily arranged, there were arches made from different colored ribbon and the pillars were trimmed with rich laces and delicate ribbons, while baskets of artificial flowers mingled with the gorgeous plumes and heads of foreign birds made a pleasing effect. There was a lively trade in the numerous departments and a crowd six or eight deep at the "bargain" counter. The counters were loaded with rich goods, but they were not a quarter part of the stock carried by Mr. Cousins, who has the floor above crowded from floor to ceiling with a duplicate stock. These goods are all marked and are drawn upon daily. In the basement is another lot equally as compact. This is the secret of Mr. Cousins' success, he buys for cash in such large quantities he is enabled to offer his customers extra bargains at all seasons of the year.

At this season of the year it will profit you to use Ferrated Hygienic Wine, to cleanse your blood of all poisonous humor. tf

Health is of more consequence than wealth Many sick ones might be cured by using Ferrated Hygienic Wine, tf

New Advertisements.

PROBATE NOTICE.

Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

ESSEX, SS. PROBATE COURT.

To the Heirs-at law, Next of Kin, and all other Persons interested in the Estate of RUDOLPH MEYER late of Peabody, in said county, overseer, deceased, GREETING:

WHEREAS, certain instruments purporting to be the last will and testament and a codicil of said deceased have been presented to said Court for Probate, by Richard J. Cullen, who prays that letters testamentary may be issued to him the executor therein named, and that he may be exempt from giving a surety or sureties on his bond, for the reasons alleged in said petition. You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court to be held at Salem, in said county of Essex, on the third Monday of October, next, at nine o'clock, before noon, to show cause, if any you have, against the same.

And said Richard J. Cullen is hereby directed to give public notice thereof, by publishing this citation once a week, for three successive weeks, in the newspaper called the Peabody Press, printed at Peabody, the last publication to be two days at least before said Court.

Witness, George F. Choate, Esquire, Judge of said Court, this twenty-fourth day of September, in the year one thousand eight hundred and eighty-five.

J. T. MAHONEY, Register.

sept 30—3t

PROBATE NOTICE.

Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

ESSEX, SS. PROBATE COURT.

To the Heirs-at-law, Next of Kin, and all other Persons interested in the Estate of SUSAN JABOBS, late of Peabody, in said county, (wife of Joseph Jacobs) deceased, GREETING.

WHEREAS, a certain instrument purporting to be the last will and testament of said deceased has been presented to said Court for Probate, by Joseph Jacobs, who prays that letters testamentary may be issued to him the executor therein named, and that he may be exempt from giving a surety or sureties on his bond, for the reasons alleged in said petition. You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court to be held at Salem, in said county of Essex, on the third Monday of October, next at nine o'clock, before noon, to show cause, if any you have, against the same.

And said Joseph Jacobs is hereby directed to give public notice thereof, by publishing this citation once a week, for three successive weeks, in the newspaper called the Peabody Press, printed at Peabody, the last publication to be two days at least before said Court.

Witness, George F. Choate, Esquire, Judge of said Court, this twenty-ninth day of September, in the year one thousand eight hundred and eighty-five.

J. L. MAHONEY, Register.

sept 30—3t

MORTGAGEE'S SALE.

By virtue of the power of sale contained in a deed of mortgage given by Charles G. Folsom to the Warren Five Cents Savings Bank in Peabody dated the twenty-fifth day of February, A. D. 1880, and recorded at Essex South District Registry of Deeds in Book 1031, leaf 265, said mortgagee will sell by public auction at the premises on THURSDAY, the fifteenth day of October, A. D. 1885, at three o'clock in the afternoon, all and singular the premises conveyed by said mortgage deed, to wit:—

A lot of land situated in said Peabody, with the dwelling house thereon, bounded thus, viz: Easterly by Central street eighty-eight feet and three inches; Southerly by Warren street three hundred and fifty-one feet and two inches; Westerly by land formerly of Joshua Buxton, seventy-nine feet and four inches; and Northerly by other land of said Folsom three hundred and forty-six feet and one inch.

Terms made known at sale.

ALBERT H. MERRILL, Treas.
Of the Warren Five Cents Savings Bank.
Peabody, Sept. 23 '85.

SOUTH DANVERS MUTUAL FIRE INSURANCE CO.

The members of this company are hereby notified that their annual meeting for the election of a Board of Directors for the ensuing year, and the transaction of such other business as may come before them, will be held at the room of the South Danvers National Bank, in Peabody, on Monday, October 5, 1885, at 7 o'clock P. M.

G. M. FOSTER, Sec.
Peabody, Sept. 7, 1885.

TO LET.

From Oct. 1st, House No. 6 Holten street, Peabody, containing 13 rooms. Apply to
T. M. OSBORNE,
6 Carpenter St., Salem.
sept 23

CARD OF THANKS,

The undersigned would take this method of extending his thanks to the members of the Peabody Fire Department for their prompt efforts in saving his property from totol destruction by fire on the evening of September 27th. PHILLIPS T. NELSON.

The Peabody Press.

Wednesday Evening, Sept, 30, 1885

HOME HAPPENINGS.

A very pleasing Sunday school concert was held at the Baptist church last Sunday evening, and was enjoyed by a large audience. The church about the pulpit was beautifully trimmed with flowers, with a harp for a centre piece. On each side were large boquets and stands of flowers. The exercises consisted of the usual recitations and singing, and special features being the seating of boys with banners on the platform, with words representing the seasons, and the singing by the two little Doughty children. The Superintendent and Pastor made some pleasing remarks. The former giving a few statistics of the progress of the school which was started 42 years ago with 28 pupils. The school had steadily increased till in 1872 there were 1888 pupils, and last year there was a membership of 190. Miss Alice C. Hart, treasurer, reported as follows: Balance on hand Oct. 1, 1884, $31.12; Collected for the year $94.92, and from entertainment, $14.50; American Baptist Publishing Society, $30.05 making a total of $170.59. Paid out $120.70, leaving a balance of $49.89. Mr. Ira Vaughn, Secretary, reported as follows: Officers and teachers 23; scholars 172; Total 195; average attendance of officers and teachers, 20; average attendance of scholars, 117. Total average attendance, 138. Baptisms during the year, 4; Deaths, 3. Mr. A. P. Chute, librarian, reported: Number of volumes in Adult department 333; taken out through the year, 1820; average for Sunday, 35. Number of volumes in Primary department, 140; number taken out during the year, 1092; average per Sunday, 21: Total number of volumes in Sunday School, 473. Total taken during the year, 2912; average per Sunday, 50.

The pulse of business indicates a healthy condition in this vicinity and as times improve the greatest need is confidence. The leather business is having quite a boom and small firms are starting up in different parts of the town, and factories that have been idle for several years are again in operation. There is a good demand for splits and some firms are making a specialty of them. Among them Wiley & Poor, who have hired the Jacobs' factory on Foster street for the purpose, and Newman Perkins who is employing some forty hands on splits at the O'Shea factory. At their regular factory the former firm are turning out about 450 sides of leather a day. George P. Osborne & Son are at work on splits at their factory and other small firms are doing a good business. At the same time the larger firms are doing double the business of a few years ago. It was given us yesterday as the opinion of one of our leading manufacturers that as much leather is being manufactured to-day as at any previous time in the history of the town. The prices realized for the leather is not near so large as at one time, but a sufficient profit is guaranteed to encourage business in the future.

The Democrats held their caucus at town hall last Friday evening, and S. S. Littlefield was elected chairman and Eugene T. McCarthy secretary, and the following delegates were elected to the State convention: Thomas J. Relihan, Thomas Carroll, Eugene T. McCarthy, William H. Brown, William Mitchell, S. A. Southwick, Levi Preston. Alternates, — Nathan Bushby, John Linehan, Thomas Clothey, J. B. Newhall, Stephen Mills, J. Lawrence Smith, James U. Ames. To the County and Senatorial conventions: Nathan Bushby, T. J. Relihan, William F. Pingree, Frank Winchester, John Linehan, Eugene T. McCarthy, Charles Carlin and William J. McCarthy. The following gentlemen were elected a town committee for the ensuing year: William Mitchell, Stephen Mills, Levi Preston, Nathan Bushby, John Murray, W. J. McCarthy, James Fallon, T. J. Relihan, J. B. Newhall, Thomas Lyons, F. Winchester, S. A. Southwick, S. S. Littlefield, James Rodie, John Donohue, Thomas Davies, Charles Carlin, Asa C. Sawyer, John Linehan, R. H. Brown, W. H. Brown, Daniel J. Conroy, John H. Tibbetts, Eugene T. McCarthy.

Mr. Charles P. Preston declined a re-election as Secretary of the Essex Agricultural Society after a faithful service of twenty-five years, and David W. Lowe of Gloucester was chosen his successor. The other officers are President, Benj. P. Ware; Vice Presidents, Geo. B. Loring, J. J. H. Gregory, Thomas C. Thurlow and James P. King. George B. Loring, Rev. C. S. Butler and Francis H. Appleton were chosen a committee to draft resolutions expressive of the Society's appreciation of Mr. Preston's services as Secretary.

If Prof. Wiggin is correct, next winter will be one of exceptional cold and storms. He bases the prediction on the fact that Jupiter, Saturn, Uranus and Neptune are near their perihelion.

The funeral of the late Rudolph Meyers, whose tragic end we chronicled last week, took place from the residence of Richard J. Cullen, on Washington street, last Friday, the Rev. W. G. Sperry officiating. He was born in Switzerland, not Germany as reported, and was about 57 years of age. In his own country he was an ordained minister of the Swiss State Church, and after the death of his mother he came to this country with a small fortune, but quickly lost it through poor investments. He engaged in teaching the languages in a private school. About five years ago he came to this town and entered the employ of the Danvers Bleachery, and boarded with Mr. Cullen, with whom he was acquainted before coming to town. He had a mania for getting his life insured and at the time of his death there was insurance on his life amounting to about $72,000, most in co-operative companies. This is left to the executor of his will, Richard J. Cullen, with the exception of one policy which was made in favor of another party to the amount of $10,000. His will was drawn by H. P. Moulton, Esq., of Salem. His will has been filed and is dated Sept. 15, 1885. In it are bequests of life insurance policies in the Massachusetts Benefit Association, the Home Mutual Aid Society and the Royal Arcanum to Richard J. Cullen of Peabody. Another policy in the Home Mutual Aid Association, the Massachusetts Benefit Association and the New England Relief Association he leaves to Delia Cullen, wife of Richard J. Cullen. To their son, James Frances Cullen, he leaves his personal property and all money due from the Knights of Honor, Merrimac Lodge, No. 160, of which he was a member. The will named Richard J. Cullen and Howard Fallon, of Peabody, as executors, but a codicil dated four days later, Sept. 19, makes Richard J. Cullen sole executor of the will. It is expected there may be some law suits before the case is finely settled. Mr. Cullen is a one armed man, industrious and deserving, and his friends are glad that the property goes to him.

A meeting of the proprietors of the South Church was held Thursday evening, and it was voted to concur with the action of the society in accepting the resignation of Rev. W. G. Sperry. The following committee were appointed to unite with the committee appointed by the church to arrange the council of Dismissal: Franklin Osborne, Rufus H. Brown, Arthur F. Poole. The church committee were George F. Osborne, Richard Smith, Dr. C. C. Pike. Another committee to supply the pulpit was appointed as follows: Franklin Osborne, T. M. Stimpson, George H. Poor, B. N. Moore, H. H. Proctor and C. C. Pike. The ecclesiastical council met yesterday at the church to dissolve the pastoral between Mr. Sperry and the church. Rev. E. S. Atwood of Salem, was moderator and Rev. Mr. Eddy of Beverly, was scribe. The churches represented were the South and Tabernacle, Salem; Dame Street, Beverly; First church and Maple street church, Danvers, and the Rockville church, South Peabody. The council voted to recommend that the pastoral relations be dissolved, and to recommend the pastor as a faithful, able and wise Christian preacher and pastor.

An audience numbering six or seven hundred were present at the opening of the rink last Thursday evening. Skating continued till nine o'clock, when an exhibition of fancy bicycle riding was given by the Alden Bros. This was followed by a three-mile race on roller skates. There were ten entries and it was won by J. Finn, of Salem, in 15 minutes and 35 seconds. Then followed an obstacle race, which was quite amusing and was won by a Mr. Thissel of Beverly. Dancing followed till 12 o'clock.

The following premiums were awarded by the Essex Agricultural Society to persons in this town:—Poor & Littlefield, $5 on colored goat skins; James N. Estes, $8, first premium on cold house grapes; A. J. Hubbard, $4, first premium on assorted fruits; M. F. Batchelder, $3 on yellow flat turnips, $3 on cauliflower, also $2 on Nutmeg melon. On Marie Louise pears, A. J. Hubbard received $1, on Beuere Claugot, $1, and Paradise d'Automne, $3.

At the annual meeting of the Baptist Sunday school, held last Monday evening, the following officers were elected: Supt., P. W. Perkins; Vice Supt., Walter Stanley; Secretary, Ira Vaughn; Librarian, Albert P. Chute; Treasurer, Alice C. Hart. The different committees of last year were re-elected and the Superintendent was given power to fill vacancies. No special business came before the meeting and the usual appropriations were made.

At Crowninshield's pond yesterday the driver of Quint's team, Mr. Manax, while backing around got his team into the water and by some means got on top of the cart which was on its side and held the horses head out of the water by the reins till relief came. A man had to swim out and relieve the horse who was blind.

The Danvers Mirror says: "The carriages of Charles H. Odell, of Salem and Chas. P. Kerans of Danvers, collided near the corner of Conant and Maple streets, last Saturday evening, smashing a wheel of Mr. Kerans' vehicle, but doing no damage to the other. As it was Odell's fault, he offered to settle for the damage, but Mr. Kerans refused to take pay, saying that accidents are liable to happen. Such men are very scarce.

The Hoosac tunnel line announces a trip to New York and return, starting on Thursday, Oct. 1. The route is via the Tunnel line to Troy and Albany, where there will be some four hours for sight seeing; and thence down the Hudson "by daylight" to New York, where a day can be passed before the return to Boston via the ever popular Fall River line. The fare for this trip is but $5.00, a sufficient inducement for all who care to take it in.

On last Thursday evening a number of friends of Patrick Cronan met at his house in Dublin for the purpose of making memorable his birthday. It was a complete surprise to Pat and he "killed the fatted calf" and laid in a good stock of the "crater" for the occasion. The crowd grew more boisterous as the hours slipped by and it was after midnight when the neighbors heard Pat's loud "come again" as they were departing.

A precept has been issued by Gov. Robinson for the election of a clerk of courts for Essex County for the unexpired term of the Hon. A. A. Abbott, deceased, whose term would have expired on the first Wednesday of January, 1887. The position is temporarily filled by the appointment of Dean Peabody, who is the prominent candidate in the election, which will take place November 3.

The St. John's C. T. A. Society will hold a grand skating party and dance in the Skating Rink, Monday evening, Oct. 12. Two bands will be in attendance. There will be skating the first part of the evening, followed by a game of polo between the Danvers team and the St. John's of this town. After this there will be dancing until 2 A. M. Tickets 50 cents for gentlemen, 25 cents for ladies.

The Chalk Talks given by Mr. N. S. Greet, of Somerville, in the Cong. vestry, Saturday afternoon, were much enjoyed by children of a larger growth, as well as by the large audience of the little ones. Mr. Waldron, city missionary of Boston, has assigned to Mr. Greet the charge of Bethesda Mission; Gospel Temperance work, by use of the blackboard and chalk, is his specialty.

Arrangements are being made for a grand dance, to take place at the lower town hall, October 23, for the benefit of Mr. Daniel J. Galven, who has been sick for a long time with rheumatism. The Salem Band Orchestra will furnish music. The matter is in charge of his fellow boarders, and a liberal patronage should be extended them. The tickets will be placed at 50 cents.

"I wish you were more like the Puritan, George," said a Central street girl to her best young man, Wednesday night. "In what respect?" asked George. "Why, the newspapers say the Puritan hugged the Genesta all the way down the bay yesterday." George took a reef in his topsail and came alongside at once.

Edward P. Brown of Boston, who gained prominence by defending the Marsh family in the famous Tewksbury investigation, and thereby gained the name of Tewksbury Brown, has disappeared. He is wanted by deputy sheriffs on two executions. It is feared that he is insane, as insanity runs in the family.

Although the Eastern is leased to the Boston & Maine, the rolling stock of the two roads is kept separate so far as possible. The shops of the Eastern at Salem and of the Maine at Lawrence have been unusually busy this summer, making repairs and building a good many new cars to accommodate the increasing traffic.

At a meeting of the Springfield District Ministerial Association at Northampton, yesterday, Rev. V. M. Simonds, formerly of this town, read an essay entitled, "Do we find such verbal deficiencies in our book of discipline as to make its administration a difficulty."

The sixth convention of the Massachusetts State Firemens' association will convene at New Era Hall, Boston, Oct. 18, at 5 p. m. This will probably be the largest convention yet held. Each active fire company in this state is entitled to two delegates, whom they are requested to elect at once.

John F. Moore, the degenerate ex-chief of police of this town, who disposed of mortgaged property at Woburn and fled to New Hampshire to avoid arrest, was brought to Woburn last week on a requisition from Governor Robinson. The case was placed on file and he paid the costs.

The days and nights are of equal length, the sun rising and setting about 5.35.

Wm G. Webber & Co.

THURSDAY, SEPT. 24

We made a preliminary opening of our Stores in the

NEW ENDICOTT BUILDINGS.

DEPARTMENTS.

- SILKS,
- VELVETS,
- BLACK DRESS GOODS,
- COLORED DRESS GOODS,
- MILLINERY,
- LACES,
- HOSIERY,
- GLOVES,
- UNDERWEAR,
- CORSETS,
- ART EMBROIDERIES,
- CLOAKS, SHAWLS,
- INFANTS' WEAR,
- HOUSEKEEPING GOODS,
- GENTS' FURNISHING GOODS.
- NOTIONS, ETC.

CORDIAL GREETING:—

It is with pleasure we extend this greeting and cordially invite our friends and the public generally to an examination of the New Store and Goods in all our several departments. In establishing ourselves in this new and central location, we have resolved to give an article of merited value and every way fulfill the requirements of a first class Dry Goods Store. Having had an experience of eighteen, eleven and seven years respectively in the various markets of our trade in this country and Europe, and in direct contact with the wants of the people of Essex County, we feel fully able to meet the strongest competition, and assure our patrons positive satisfaction in all their dealings with us. We shall handle only the BEST MAKES OF GOODS, allow no misrepresentation, and treat all equally well. We believe the desired result—success—can be sooner reached by selling large amounts at a small profit, rather than depending upon a limited business at a large percentage. Such being the case, our highest ambition is to retain and if possible increase the esteem in which our friends and patrons hold us. Knowing full well from long trial, that every one is seeking a market where the most may be obtained for the money, we exert every effort to secure the choicest values. In this we are greatly aided by business experience, ample capital and unblemished credit.

Sell them at a reasonable profit,

In making mention of our several departments, it is not our intention at present to dwell upon the special articles offered therein; suffice it to say that we have established a uniform low price and propose to adhere strictly to the principles of fair dealings. Our facilities in connection with the importer and manufacturer enable us to offer the article appertaining to every feature of our trade with such a feeling of security that will insure your satisfaction, otherwise we are willing to refund the purchasers their money, and thus uphold the principles whereby your confidence can be sustained.

A PLAIN STATEMENT.

The advertisers' dialect so abounds in extravagant adjectives, that readers are naturally suspicious of business announcements in general.

We intend to do our best to correct this tendency to exaggeration, by confining our statements to simple facts, plainly expressed, and therefore we expect credence will be given to what we say on this particular and all occasions.

Realizing that prices tell, we shall place all the goods in our various departments on our counters and mark them at figures so as to compel the consideration of the purchasing public, and we therefore ask the people in to see for themselves.

The announcement of our GRAND OPENING, when our buildings shall have been fully completed and furnished, will be made early in October, which will include the latest importation and our own manufactures in Trimmed Bonnets and Round Hats.

Respectfully,
WM. G. WEBBER,
STEPHEN BURGER,
WM. B. MANSFIELD,

W. G. WEBBER & CO.

NEW ENDICOTT BUILDINGS'

238 & 240 ESSEX STREET,

94 & 96 WASHINGTON ST.,

SALEM.

HATS.

Children's Hats, Walking Hats, Dress Hats, etc., in the latest and best styles, just opened, at Peabody's Millinery dept,

VELVETS.

Black Velvets, nice ones $1, 1.25 and 1.50 per yard, also a line of colors, Brown, Old Gold, Garnt Wine, Purple, etc.

RIBBONS.

All colors and widths, good goods at low prices, at Peabody's.

New Hamb's.

Choice new patterns of Hamburg Edging, at prices that will suit the smartest bargain hunters.

New Laces.

Trimming Laces in white, cream and black, in all the best and choicest patterns, styles and widths.

YARNS.

A bargain in Knitting Yarn. All Wool and good quality, 8c per Skein. Ball Yarns are being put up, that weigh all the way from half an ounce up, so that it is not safe to buy unless you see the balls weighed. In skeins you can see it all, and know what you are paying for.

WALLETS.

We have this week a great drive in Leather Wallets, a dozen styles, at 25 cents each, sold on Essex street for 38 and 50 cents. Examine them, and you will say they are a decided bargain.

Our Prices.

Nickel Plated Safety Pins, per doz.	2 cts
Cabinet Hair Pins, per box,	3 cts
Pins, paper 2c, 3 papers for	5 cts
Nice Mourning Pins, per box,	2 cts
Good Button Hooks,	3 cts
Needles—Clark's Royal, paper	2 cts
Best Black Linen Thread spools	7 cts
500 yard Spool Cotton	5 cts
Good Lisle Gloves, Ladies,	5 cts
Good yard wide Brown Cottons,	5 cts

— and so on —

— AT —

PEABODY'S,

SALEM.

NEW

TOY

STORE

— AT —

216 Essex Street.

Largest stock of Tin and Wooden Toys in Essex county.

Games of all kinds for young and old.

Musical Instruments of all kinds Tuned and Repaired.

MERRILL & MACKINTIRE.

216 & 220 ESSEX ST.,

SALEM.

NOTICE TO VOTERS.

Notice is hereby given that meetings of the Board of Registrars, for the purpose of receiving evidence of the qualifications of persons claiming a right to vote at the State election, to be held on Tuesday, the third day of November, 1885, and for correcting and revising the lists of voters, will be held in the Selectmen's Room, Town House, as follows:—

On TUESDAYS, Sept. 22 and 29, and Oct. 27, from 7 to 9 p. m.

On THURSDAYS, Oct. 8, 15 and 22d, from 1 to 5 p. m.

On SATURDAYS, Oct. 10, 17 and 24th, from 8 to 9 p. m.

On WEDNESDAY, Oct. 28, from 1 to 5 and from 7 to 10 p. m.

Registration will cease on Wednesday, October 28th, 1885, at 10 o'clock p. m.

The lists of voters will be posted Oct. 1st, after which time no name can be added thereto, unless the applicant for registration appears in person before the registrars and proves his claim to be registered.

All persons whose names were on the lists of voters of last year, and who fail to pay a tax of 1884 or 1885, prior to Oct 1st, will thus be required to register in person.

All persons appearing for registration must exhibit a paid tax bill for 1884 or 1885, and if of foreign birth, a certificate of naturalization.

AARON F. CLARK,
LYMAN OSBORN,
RICHARD LYONS,
NATHAN H. POOR,
Board of Registrars.

TO LET.

An upper and lower tenement in a house on Oak street. Seven rooms each with modern conveniences. Inquire of
R. H. BROWN.

Bedding Straw.

PRIME New York Rye Straw, by the Ton, or single bale.
CHAS. A. ROPES & SON.

Oat Meal.

FRESH Ground and Out Oat Meal.
CHAS. A. ROPES & SON.

Paste Flour.

50 Bbls. Strong Working Paste Flour.
CHAS. A. ROPES & SON.

Artists' Materials of every Description.

DECORATIVE ART GOODS OF ALL KINDS.

ART POTTERY.

Supplies for Oil Color, Water Color, China and Lustra Painting.

PICTURE FRAMING

OF EVERY DESCRIPTION

PLUSH WORK a specialty. Plush Frames and Plush Plaques made to order.

Charles J. Edmands,

12 BROMFIELD ST., BOSTON.

BEE-HIVE

BARGAINS!

LADIES' COLORED SILK HDKF'S.

34 cts., 39 cts., and 48 cts.,

— AT

Frank Cousins'

BEE-HIVE,

SALEM.

E. V. EMILIO,

PIANO FORTE TUNER,

287 ESSEX ST.,

SALEM.

THEODORE M. OSBORNE,

Attorney and Counsellor at Law,

Has resumed practice at

81 Washington St., Salem.

Boston Office, 54 Devonshire St., Room 27.

sept 9—2m

FOR THE NEXT

30 DAYS

we will offer

DISSTON'S BEST WOOD SAWS

For 75 cents, former price $1.00.

Mrs. Pott's Cold Handle

SAD IRONS

Polished and Plain at a reduced price.

Bird Seed,	8 cents a Pckg.
Frazer's Axle Grease,	10 " " Box.
1 Hoyt's Lifting Tacks,	65 cents

Buy the

Beacon Sifters,

they are the best.

New stock of 5 and 10 cent goods.

— AT —

SAMUEL TRASK'S

WALNUT ST.,

PEABODY.

ROSE BUDS

AND PINKS.

— AT —

WARD'S GREENHOUSES,

Cor. Endicott and Warren Sts., Peabody.

EDW. C. ALMY & CO.

Important Announcement!

FALL STYLES.

We are now displaying an elegant assortment of Fall Styles, comprising the choicest patterns of the new designs, in best Imported and American fabrics. Our garments are all cut on perfectly adjusted patterns, are made by "Jour" tailors, are faultless in fit and indistinguishable from the best custom work.

The Lowest Prices.

Being the largest retailers of Clothing in New England, paying cash for all purchases, and conducting our immense business on true principles of economy, we are able to name prices that would mean bankruptcy to a concern of more limited resources.

GENTLEMEN'S FALL SUITS.

We are all ready now with an unrivalled variety of handsome Styles in all grades of All Wool Suits, from

$6, 8, 10, 12, 15 to $25.00

GENTLEMEN'S FALL OVERCOATS.

In this department we are unusually busy, having a magnificent stock at popular prices. Our stock includes all grades of American and Imported Overcoatings, made in the Latest Styles and ranging in price from $5, 8, 10, 12, to 20.00.

NOTE:—We invite your inspection of our mammoth assortment of Winter Overcoats, which we shall open on the 26th of this month.

BOYS' DEPARTMENT.

We invite every one having boys to clothe to inspect our stock. Our assortment is larger, our styles better, our prices lower, than any other establishment in this city. Our garments are all made in the strongest and most substantial manner from durable fabrics only.

GENTLEMEN'S FURNISHING GOODS.

New Styles in Neckwear; New Styles in Hosiery and Gloves; Bargains in Underwear, etc.

THE LARGEST ASSORTMENT.
THE BEST STYLES.
THE LOWEST PRICES.

EDW. C. ALMY & CO.

163, 165 & 167 ESSEX ST., SALEM.

162 Westminster St., Providence.

Washington, cor. Essex Street, Boston.

BUSHBY & MACURDY'S

CABINET PHOTOGRAPHS

At $3.00 per dozen are 100 per cent. better than any club-check photographs; and are guaranteed fully equal in

Posing, Lighting, Finish and Permanency

to any cabinets made in Boston or New York.

The largest and best constructed operating studio in New England. 40,000 negatives preserved.

521 Washington St.,

BOSTON.

Elevator from the ground. feb 11—3m

MERRIAM & CO.,

DEALERS IN

WOOD AND COAL

Danversport, Mass.

Kohinoor Coal, Bear Ridge Coal, Sheaokin Coal, Genuine Franklin Coal, Cumberland Coal.

All the best quality. Try them.

For Cash lower than can be bought elsewhere

Orders can be left with B. F. Stevens, Peabody or by telphone to N. P. Merriam, Tapleyville, and will be promptly attended to.
em—

BATCHELDER & CO.,

DEALER IN

WOOD COAL HAY & STRAW.

Danversport and Peabody.

Cyrus P. Batchelder Chauncy S. Richards

OFFICE IN PEABODY:

7 ALLEN'S BLOCK, SQUARE.

GREAT

REDUCTION IN PRICE OF

COAL

— AT —

PICKERINGS

17 Peabody St., Salem, Mass

WHERE ALL FIRST-CLASS COALS CAN BE FOUND.

Specialty made in Steam Coals.

Orders can be left at Office, 12 Front St. or at B. P. Pickering's Store, Salem.

SPECIAL RATES MADE FOR LARGE ORDERS

WHARF, 17 PEABODY STREET

WM. PICKERING, JR & CO.,

17 Peabody Street.

PATENTS.

R. H. EDDY,

No. 76 State St., opposite Kilby, Boston.

Secures patents in the United States; also in Great Britain, France and other foreign countries. Copies of the claims of any patents furnished by remitting one dollar. Assignments recorded at Washington. No Agency in the United States possesses superior facilities for obtaining Patents or ascertaining the patentability of inventions. R. H. EDDY, Solicitor of patents.

TESTIMONIALS.

"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse."
CHAS. MASON, Commissioner of Patents.

"Inventors cannot employ a person more trustworthy or more capable of securing for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office."
EDMUND BURKE, late Com. of Patents.

BOSTON, Oct. 19, 1870.

R. H. EDDY, Esq.—Dear Sir: you procured for me, in 1870, my first patent. Since then you have acted for and advised me in hundreds of cases, and procured many patents, re-issues and extensions. I have occasionally employed the best agencies in New York, Philadelphia and Washington, but I still give you almost the whole of my business, in your line, and advise others to employ you.

Yours truly, GEORGE DRAPER.

Boston, January 1, 1885.—1 y

FOR SALE.

House and land on Aborn street belonging to the estate of the late P. L. WINCHESTER. The house is two and one-half stories, and contains fourteen rooms, and is in good condition. The land measures about 10,000 feet, and there is connected with the premises a good stable. For terms or further particulars apply to

GEORGE J. WINCHESTER,
Administrator

dec 19

CATARRH.

BY A. P. LIGHTHILL, M. D.

The earliest symptoms of Catarrh is a discharge from the head, consisting sometimes of a clear acid fluid, but oftener of a thick, fœtid, purulent yellow or greenish matter which is usually secreted in excessive abundance, and discharged through the nostrils for throat, and frequently by both channel.

The nature of this discharge varies in different cases, and even in the same individual at different times. In some it is copious, and of a loose or fluid character, while in others it is very viscid or gummy, adhering to the diseased membrane with glue-like tenacity: often this offensive matter concretes in dry, hard masses of crusts, which obstruct breathing and are very difficult to detach, their dislodgment requiring most violent efforts. Sometimes these incrustations come away in lumps of a deep green tint, but occasionally in broad and flat casts of a notable size, on which traces of blood may at times be observed. This condition is very liable to run to serious ulceration, involving a loss of the bony structure of the nose and a subsequent flattening of that organ, and is invariably accompanied by a breath of exceedingly fœtid and sickening odor. In some cases it becomes so revoltingly offensive as to render the sufferer an object of disgust to himself as well as to others.

The nasal membrane is thickened and congested, causing the nose to be stopped up, sometimes on one side, sometimes on the other, and often on both, giving rise to a disagreeable, stuffy sensation in the head, and occasionally to violent paroxysms of sneezing.

A feeling of fullness, heat, irritation, soreness or pain is generally experienced in the nostrils, near the root of the nose, as well as in the upper part of the throat, above and below the soft palate. A distressing sensation of heavy weight or compression is usually complained of over the forehead, especially in the region immediately above and between the eyes. Sometimes the pain is obstinately fixed in one particular part, as in the temples, on top of the head, at the back of the neck, or behind the orbits; and occasionally it manifests itself in the face, of so severe a character that it is frequently mistaken for neuralgia.

The voice is generally affected, and becomes hoarse, weak and uneven, assuming a nasal character, or an unpleasant snuffling quality. Cough of variable severity is not unfrequently one of the symptoms and results of Catarrh.

The sense of smell is generally blunted or entirely lost, and a similar effect on taste may be occasionally observed. The eyes are apt to become irritable, and disposed to water excessively on exposure to the cold or wind, and a sense of weariness of sight is usually experienced after slight exertions. Hearing becomes frequently more or less impaired, and noises in the head very often add materially to the existing distress.

The stomach generally suffers more or less, and becomes weak and irritable; the appetite is capricious, and nearly always bad in the morning.

The patient often complains of lassitude and fatigue, an incapacity for either physical for mental exertions, and a constant disposition to drowsiness and sleep. The mental faculties are also sometimes slightly affected, loss of memory being not unfrequently experienced.

Catarrh may prove fatal, either by debilitating the system and wearing out the patient, or by travelling downward and producing consumption. This fact has been so repeatedly noticed that all experienced practitioners now look upon Catarrh as one of the earliest manifestations of this dreaded complaint. Among educated physicians in this or any other country, Dr. Lighthill was the first to devote his study and investigation to the cure of Catarrh and kindred diseases, and the happy results which attended his labor have been attested to by many of the most prominent citizens of Boston and vicinity. Cases abandoned as hopeless by other physicians have promptly yielded to his painless and effective treatment.

ASTHMA

For years Dr. Lighthill has made this distressing disease his special study, investigating carefully the causes that produce it; his labor was fully rewarded, for he not only established its true pathological condition, but also discovered a new and correct system of treatment for its cure. Hundreds of cases who have been under his care have found permanent relief from this wonderful discovery, from the beginning of this treatment prompt benefit is experienced which is ultimately followed by a complete and radical cure.

An experience of 30 years of constant practice enables Dr. Lighthill to decide on the first examination as to the cureability of any disease within specialty, and no case will be accepted for treatment unless the chances are for favorable results. His specialty comprises the cure of and affections of the Nervous system from whatever cause.

CATARRH, THROAT AFFECTIONS ASTHMA, CONSUMPTION, DEAFNESS DISCHARGE FROM THE EAR, DISEASES OF THE EYE, BLOOD, SKIN, LIVER AND KIDNEY

DR. LIGHTHILL,

Can be consulted

Every Thursday after noon and evening,

From 2 until 8.30 P. M,

— AT THE —

Essex House, Salem,

And every forenoon from 8 until 12, at his office.

OF 115 BOYLSTON ST., BOSTON.

CONSULTATION FREE.

Book Notices.

A second installment of Henry James's curious and interesting story, "The Princess Casamassima," is the opening paper in the October number of The Atlantic Monthly. Mrs. Oliphant and Dr. Holmes each give additional chapters of their serials, and there is a clever and pretty little Canadian story, "The Orge of Ha Ha Bay," by Octave Thanet. Mr. Warner continues his travels in the papers called "On Horseback," and incidentally describes the town of Asheville, North Carolina, a place known as a health resort. Reviews of Stanley's "Congo," of Roosevelt's "Hunting Trips of a Ranchman," of Howell's "Silas Lapham" and some other new novels, with the usual departments, complete the number. Houghton, Mifflin & Co., Boston.

The Art Interchange of September 10 contains a brilliant water color sketch in color by the well-known artist Harry Chase, entitled A Shore Scene. It shows a vessel with sail spread at anchor, a stretch of beach, with two or three figures in brilliant coloring. The other sketches are a full size design of dogwood blossoms for mirror frame; design of roses for fan mount; a clever Japanesque model for oyster soup plates; a beautiful design of pansies for cup and saucer decoration; and a charming composition for lamp shade ornamentation, the motive being insects. Published by Wm. Whitlock, 37 and 39 West 22d Street, New York.

The Art Amateur for October contains attractive designs for China painting,—a dessert plate (coreopsis) and a panel (begonia), two excellent working designs for the centers of embroidered altar frontals, and several other floral and figure designs for minor decorative purposes. There are specially entertaining articles on the Boston Museum, and home decoration ("A Modest Little Nest"), and others of much practical value on pastel painting, pencil drawing, costume classes, scene painting, gold embroidery stitches, and color in dress: while the "Art Notes and Hints," "Notes on Decoration," and answers to correspondents are particularly full of useful suggestions to amateurs. The Art Amateur is certainly indispensable to every lover of art. Price $4.00 a year; per number 35 cents. Montague Marks, Publisher, 23 Union Square, New York.

The Young Ladies Journal for September has been received from the International News Company of New York. This number contains all the latest Paris styles in ladies cloaks and dresses. The usual mammoth supplement of fashion plates and the colored fashion supplement are filled to overflowing with pretty things for the ladies. Besides these there is a very neat pattern for worsted work slippers, which is very seasonable just now as the holidays are approaching. Get a copy at the Peabody News Co.'s

MASON & HAMLIN PIANOS.—Mason & Hamlin bid fair to become as famous for their upright pianos as they have long been for their world-renowned cabinet organs. The distinguishing feature about the "Mason & Hamlin Upright" is an important improvement in the method of holding the strings of the piano, which originated in their own factory. The strings are secured by metallic fastenings, instead of by the friction of pins set in wood, as has been the case, and the advantages resulting are numerous and highly important. Among them are the following: Wonderful beauty and musical quality of tone; far less liability of getting out of tune; greater reliability in trying climates; and greater solidity of construction and durability. Mason & Hamlin have made 150,000 organs. They can hardly expect to make as many pianos, but they will doubtless be called upon for a very large number. Indeed, their piano department is now running to its utmost capacity, and the Company is behind orders. So great is the demand that the Company is now arranging for a large additional factory building.

Our Superior court terms have been held for several years in April, June and October, but to facilitate litigation, as well as to discourage suits supposed to be brought for annoyance, the Legislature of last year passed an important act, known as chapter 384 of the acts of 1885, which went into effect this week. By the provisions of the act, writs are returnable on each Monday of every month of the year, in every county in the Commonwealth. The regular terms heretofore observed are abolished, and the effect of the law is to have a term of the Supreme and Superior court in every county once a month, which will compel parties to complete pleadings and put all cases in readiness for a speedy disposition. Another important feature is that a suit can be begun on Sunday if a judge should decide that there was such a pressing necessity as to warrant it.

After a sea diet, to prevent boils and eruptions, and assist acclimation, use Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

Brushes, Hair, Nail, Teeth and flesh brushes, also, soap, bay-rum, hair oils etc., at Peabody's.

Experience.

BY NORAH PERRY.

Sad is her voice, but sweet,
Low doth she speak to greet
Those that do come to meet
And walk her ways.

Low doth she speak with stress
That ofttimes pitiless
Doth seem to new distress,
But when the days

Pass on to make the years,
And, one by one, youth's fears
And penalty of tears
Begin to cease.

Then doth she turn and sing,
"Courage, for lo, the King
Cometh at last to bring Thy glad release!"

—Congregationalist.

WHAT SUSAN WOULD DO.—"If I was managing this world I would do it on the plan of nothing for nothing and no trust. I'd give no man a dollar until he had earned it, and for those who would not work I would have a plantation and a workhouse where they would be taught industry with a good whip, and pay them for their work when it was done. I'd make all felons work and pay them; and those who could not be taught to be decent members of society I'd put in a big bag with a stone, take them out on the ocean and drop them overboard."—Susan B. Anthony.

It is probable that by the new census Peabody will maintain her reputation as the haven of the "anxious and aimless," as Gov. Andrew termed the maiden ladies.

INDIGESTION

To strengthen the stomach, create an appetite, and remove the horrible depression and despondency which result from Indigestion, there is nothing so effective as Ayer's Pills. These Pills contain no calomel or other poisonous drug, act directly on the digestive and assimilative organs, and restore health and strength to the entire system. T. P. Bonner, Chester, Pa., writes: "I have used Ayer's Pills for the past 30 years and am satisfied I should not have been alive to-day, if it had not been for them. They me of Dyspepsia when all other remedies failed, and their occasional use has kept me in a healthy condition ever since." L. N. Smith, Utica, N. Y., writes: "I have used Ayer's Pills, for Liver troubles and Indigestion, a good many years, and have always found them prompt and efficient in their action." Richard Norris, Lynn, Mass., writes: "After much suffering, I have been cured of Dyspepsia and Liver troubles

Cured

By Using

Ayer's Pills. They have done me more good than any other medicine I have ever taken." John Burdett, Troy, Iowa, writes: "For nearly two years my life was rendered miserable by the horrors of Dyspepsia. Medical treatment afforded me only temporary relief, and I became reduced in flesh, and very much debilitated. A friend of mine, who had been similarly afflicted, advised me to try Ayer's Pills. I did so, and with the happiest results. My food soon ceased to distress me, my appetite returned, and I became as strong and well as ever."

Ayer's Pills,

PREPARED BY

DR. J. C. AYER & CO., Lowell, Mass.

For sale by all Druggists.

SALEM & DANVERS STREET RAILWAY CO.

TIME TABLE.

NEW SUMMER ARRANGEMENT.

Leave Putnamville for Peabody and Salem 6.45, 7.45, 8.45, 9.45, 10.45, 11.45 A. M., 12.45, 1.15, 1.45, 2.15, 2.45, 3.15, 3.45, 4.15, 4.45, 5.15, 5.45, 6.15, 6.45, 7.15, 7.45, 8.15, 8.45, 9.15 P. M.

Leave Peabody for Salem, 7.25, 8.25, 9.25, 10.25, 11.25 A. M., 12.25, 1.25, 1.55, 2.25, 2.55, 3.25, 3.55, 4.25, 4.55, 5.25, 5.55, 6.25, 6.55, 7.25, 7.55, 8.25, 8.55, 9.25, 9.55 P. M.

Leave Salem for Danvers, Danversport Putnamville, Tapleyville and Danvers Centre, 7.45, 8.45, 9.45, 10.45, 11.45 A. M., 12.45 1.45, 2.15, 2.45, 3.15, 3.45, 4.15, 4.45, 5.15, 5.45 6.15, 6.45, 7.15, 7.45, 8.15, 8.45, 9.15, 9.45 10.15 P. M.

Leave Tapleyville for Salem via Danversport, 6.45, 7.45, 8.45, 9.45, 10.45, 11.45 A. M., 12.45, 1.15, 1.45, 2.15, 2.45, 3.15, 3.45, 4.15, 4.45, 5.15, 5.45, 6.15, 6.45, 7.15, 7.45, 8.15, 8.45, 9.15 P. M.

Leave Danvers Square for Salem via Peabody and Salem via Danversport, 9.55, 7.55, 8.55, 9.55, 10.55, 11.55 A. M., 12.55, 1.25, 1.55, 2.25, 2.55, 3.25, 3.55, 4,25, 4.55, 5.25, 5.55, 6.25, 6.55, 7.25, 7.55, 8.25, 8.55, 9.25, P. M.

Leave Salem for Peabody and Danvers, 7.45, 8.45, 9.45, 10,45, 11.45 A. M., 12.45, 1.45, 2.15, 2.45, 3.15, 3.45, 4.15, 4.45, 5.15, 5.45, 9.15, 6.45, 7.15, 7.45, 8.15, 8.45, 9.15, 9.45, 10.15 P. M.

Leave Peabody for Danvers, Danvers Centre and Putnamville, 8.05, 9.05, 10.05, 11.05, A. M., 12.05, 1.05, 2.05, 2.35, 3.05, 3.35, 4.05, 4.35, 5.05, 5.35, 6.05, 6.35, 7.05, 7.35, 8.05, 8.35 9.05, 9.35, 10.05, 10.35 P. M.

Putnamville and Tapleyville cars meet in the Square and transfer passengers going either to Salem or Peabody,

All cars make connections for Tapleyville Danvers Centre and Putnamville.

SUNDAY TIME.

Sunday time same as above, with this exception—the first trip from each point is omitted.

DAVID N. COOK Supt.

A PRIZE Send six cents for postage, and receive free, a costly box of goods which will help you to more money right away than anything else in this world. All, of either sex, succeed from first hour. The broad road to fortune opens before the workers, absolutely sure, At once address, TRUE & Co., Augusta, Me

Saving Institutions.

WARREN

FIVE CENTS SAVINGS BANK.

PEABODY

PRESIDENT.

Rufus H. Brown

Vice Presidents,

Stephen Blaney,	Geo. F. Osborne,
Lewis Allen,	Amos Merrill,
Chas. B. Farley,	John A. Lord.

Trustees,

Rufus H. Brown,	Alex. B. Merrill,
Stephen Blaney,	C. Warren Osborne,
Lewis Allen,	Geo. S. Osborne,
Chas. B. Farley,	Nathl. Symonds.
Geo. F. Osborne,	Aaron F. Clark,
Amos Merrill,	Albert A. Messer,
John A. Lord,	John Pinder,
Benj. S. Wheeler,	Wm P. Clark,
Wm. H. Little,	Reuben G. Nelson,
Aaron W. Warren,	Albert H. Merrill.

Clerk,
Albert H. Merrill.

Committee of Investment.

Rufus H. Brown,

Lewis Allen,	Alex. B. Merrill
C. Warren Osborne.	Nathl. Symonds.

Dividends are credited to the depositor as soon as declared, and immediately put upon interest.

New deposits commence drawing interest on the third Wednesday of February, May, August and November.

Peabody, March 6, 1878.

SALEM

FIVE CENTS SAVINGS BANK.

Cor. Washington & Essex Sts.,

WILLIAM H. JELLY, President.
CHARLES H. HENDERSON, Treas.

REMOVAL.

F. A. WRUCK

Watchmaker and Jeweller,

Would inform his friends and the public generally that he has removed from 165 to

276 ESSEX STREET,

(Wheeler & Wilson's Sewing Machine Office)

Where he will be pleased to see his former customers and as many new ones as will favor him with their patronage.

FINE WATCH AND CLOCK REPAIRING AT REDUCED PRICES PERSONALLY ATTENDED TO

HAZEN A. SPAULDING,

DRUGGIST.

9 Allen's Block, Peabody, Mass.

Where can be found a first class assortment of Pure Drugs and Medicines; also a large assortment of Toilet Articles and Fancy Goods at moderate prices.

A large assortment of Imported and Domestic Cigars.

Physicians' Prescriptions a Specialty.

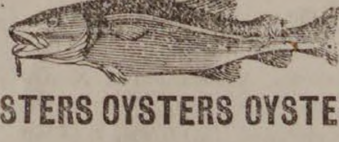
HAZEN A. SPAULDING

Store Connected by Telephone.

CENTRAL FISH MARKET

(Formerly Southwick's.

RALPH F. DODGE, Prop.



OYSTERS OYSTERS OYSTERS

In the shell or opened.

IPSWICH CLAMS FRESH EVERY DAY

A good selection of Norfolk, Providence River oysters a specialty. The famous Lynn Haven Bay Oysters.

A good assortment of Fresh, Salt, Smoked and Pickled Fish. Orders received and delivered promptly. Connected by telephone.

At the old stand on the Square, opposite, the monument.

WIN more money than at anything else by taking an agency for the best selling book out. Beginners succeed grandly. None fail. Terms free. HALLETT BOOK Co., Portland, Me.

HELP for working people. Send 10 cents postage, and we will mail you free, a royal, valuable sample box of goods that will put you in the way of making more money in a few days than you ever thought possible at any business. Capital not required. You can live at home and work in spare time only, or all the time. All of both sexes, of all ages, grandly successful, 50 cents to $5 easily earned every evening. That all who want work may test the business, we make this unparalleled offer: To all who are not well satisfied we will send $1 to pay for the trouble of writing us. Full particulars, directions, etc., sent free. Immense pay absolutely sure for all who start at once. Don't delay. Address STINSON & Co., Portland, Me.

MUNROE & ARNOLD'S

PEABODY AND BOSTON

RAILROAD EXPRESS.

Express leaves Peabody		at	9 47 A. M
Freight "	"	at	5 00 P. M
Express "	Boston	at	3 30 P. M
Freight "	"	at	4 00 P. M

OFFICE AT FREIGHT DEPOT, Peabody

Express Offices in Boston, 174 Washington and 15 New Devonshire Street.

Freight Office in Boston, 128 State Street

☞ Particular attention paid to removing Furniture, collecting Bills, Notes, Drafts &c., Smallest favors thankfully received.

B. M. HILLS'

PEABODY and SALEM

EXPRESS.

CHANGE OF TIME.

Connects with Eastern and No. Conway Trains Leaves Peabody at 7.30 A. M., and 1.30 P. M. Salem, at 10 A. M., and 4.45 P. M.

Order Boxes.—PEABODY, at Holman's, Pickering's, Bushby & Johnson's, Frost s Drug Store and Sutton's Wool Store.

SALEM, at Savory's Express Office, Roberts' Store corner Washington and Front Sts., and 15 Central Street.

B. M. HILLS' Express connects with the Eastern and Western Expresses

ESTES'

SALEM AND PEABODY EXPRESS.

Leaves Peabody at 7.30 A. M., 1.30 P. M.
Leaves Salem at 10.30 A. M., 4.30 P. M.

Order Slates in Peabody, at G. Stevens', G. H. Jacobs', L. Pratt's, B. B. Humphrey's, W. O. Batchelder's.

In Salem at J. V. & J. Hanson & Co's, Roberts Fruit Store, Henry Hale's, E. Heffernan's, J. J. Mullin, F. C. Radford's, C. A. Ropes & Son, Geo A. Wells & Co's., C. M. Buffum's.

Connects with Eastern Express. Also connects with No. Conway, and the Beverly, Ipswich and Marblehead Expresses.

All orders promptly attended to and satisfaction guaranteed.

CHAS. H. ESTES,

TOWNSEND'S

PEABODY & BOSTON

EXPRESS.

Leaves Peabody at 10 A. M. over the Wakefield Branch R. R.

Leaves the Boston Office, 32 Court Square, at 2 P. M.

All business entrusted to my care will be safely and carefully attended to. Daily and weekly papers supplied.

Order Slates:—At B. F. Stevens', Bushby's, Batchelder's, B. B. Humphrey's, E. S. Howard's, and Nugent Bros. stores.

JAMES F. FOYE.

THOMAS H. O'KEEFE.

JOBBING AND EXPRESSING

of all kinds promptly attended to.

Persons desiring the removal of furnitue or ashes, rubbish, you can have such work satisfactorily done by leaving orders at G., Stevens', Batchelder's, or addressing Box 545, Peabody.

NEW COUPE.

Henry C. Wilson would inform the public that he will run a

PUBLIC CARRIAGE

to and from each train, and will also attend to calls around town, and to late trains and entertainments in Salem. Will also attend to Baggage Expressing and Jobbing of all kinds. Terms Reasonable. Order slate at Depot.

HENRY C. WILSON.
Peabody Mass.

CROSS,

PHOTOGRAPHER.

☞ There having been demand or more Clubs, I have concluded to issue a limited number.

INDUCEMENTS:

Two dozen Cards and two Cabinets given to any one getting up a Club of ten persons. Price of Club, $20. Each person to have one dozen Cards and one Cabinet finished in any of the different styles desired.

IRA P. NADOR,

DEALER IN

CHOICE CONFECTIONERY!

46 MARKET STREET LYNN

CHARLES SIMONDS,

LIVERY STABLE,

(HOTEL STABLE).

SAFE and Reliable Horses, and Easy Carriages of the best style, furnished at short notice, for Funerals, Weddings, Business or Pleasure Riding.

$200,000 in presents given away. Send us 5 cents postage, and by mail you will get free a package of goods of large value, that will start you in work that will at once bring you in money faster than anything else in America. All about the $200,000 in presents with each box. Agents wanted everywhere, of either sex, of all ages, for all the time, or spare time only, to work for us at their own home. Fortunes for all workers absolutely assured. Don't delay. H. HALLETT & Co., Portland, Maine.

Professional Cards.

THOMAS M. STIMPSON

Attorney and Counselor-at-Law.

194 ESSEX STREET SALEM

Residence Lowell Street, Peabody.

HENRY WARDWELL,

Attorney and Counselor-at-Law.

PEABODY,

And 35 Court St., Boston

FRANK E. FARNHAM,

Attorney and Counselor-at-Law.

REAL ESTATE, INSURANCE AND INVESTMENT AGENT,

ALLEN'S BLOCK Peabody Square,

REMOVAL.

B. C. PERKINS,

Counselor at Law,

Has removed to Kinsman's Block,

81 WASHINGTON STREET, SALEM.

Evening consultations at residence, Peabody.

EUGENE T. McCARTHY,

Attorney and Counsellor at Law.

NO. 8 ALLEN'S BLOCK,

PEABODY.

oct 29—1y

FREDERIC G. PRESTON,

Attorney and Counsellor at Law.

ALLEN'S BLOCK.

RESIDENCE, 171 BOSTON ST., SALEM.

CHARLES A. WEARE,

Attorney and Counsellor at Law.

ALLEN'S BUILDING,

PEABODY, MASS.

MISS MARY E. LYNCH

TEACHER OF

Piano and Organ.

South Peabody, Mass.

Terms of tuition 8 and 10 dollars. Pupils visited at their homes if desired.

MISS ANNIE L. ORR,

TEACHER OF

VOCAL & INSTRUMENTAL MUSIC

Would solicit pupils. For terms apply to W. P. Clark, or Miss Orr, No. 7 Paltry Place. Lynn, Mass. apr 29

Business Cards.

HENRY L. WHIDDEN,

PAINTER.

Orders left at A. H. Whidden's Store will be attended to.

J. H. ALLEN,

UNDERTAKER,

Removed to 36 St. Peter street, Salem

jan 11

W. S. OSBORNE,

TOWN UNDERTAKER & FURNISHER

Home, 96 Central St., Peabody. Office Second door west of Hay Scales.

EDWIN B. BALCOM,

Architect and Builder.

Plans, Specifications and Estimates furnished at Short Notice. Contracts Made and Faithfully executed.

Shop on Walnut St. Residence, 78 Washington St.

PEABODY. MASS.

$1

13 WEEKS.

The POLICE GAZETTE will be mailed, securely wrapped, to any address in the United States for three months on receipt of

ONE DOLLAR.

Liberal discount allowed to postmasters, agents and clubs. Sample copies mailed free. Address all orders to

RICHARD K. FOX,

FRANKLIN SQUARE, N. Y.

TRY LYONS'

Hair Tonic.

It cleanses the scalp, removes dandruff, and promotes the growth of the hair.

Price 50 Cents per Bottle.

Put up and for sale only by

P. J. LYONS,

on the square.

Hale's Honey the great Cough cure, 25c., 50c. & $1
Glenn's Sulphur Soap heals & beautifies, 25c.
German Corn Remover kills Corns & Bunions
Hill's Hair and Whisker Dye—Black and Brown, 50c.
Pike's Toothache Drops cure in 1 Minute, 25c
Dean's Rheumatic Pills are a sure cure, 50c.
feb 18—1y

HEADQUARTERS !

FOR CIGARS.

THE BEST

to be found in the world? To prove it just call at the HORSE RAILROAD STATION on the Square, and see them!

GEO. STEVENS,

PEABODY SQUARE,

Agent for the Naumkeag Laundry.

MAYO'S

Compound Vegetable Anæsthetic.

A safe and pleasant substitute for gas and ether.

Discovered by Dr. N. K. Mayo of Boston, April 1883, subsequently administered by him in nearly two thousand cases, producing perfect slumber, being applicable to the child, the delicate sentitive woman as well as the hardy man. No ill effects have followed its use in any case, it acting rather as a vegetable tonic.

It controls the patient one-fourth longer than gas giving us time to remove from three to twenty teeth. It is with great confidence we have introduced it into our practice, giving very successful results.

DRS. FRIZZELL & WILLIAMS

DENTISTS.

LEE HALL

Opposite City Hall, Lynn, Mass.

Administered also at our branch office, Marblehead.

Dr. Williams' Toothache Drops at Druggists.

O. B. CHADWICK & CO.,

(SUCCESSORS TO CHAS. TAPLEY)

FIRE INSURANCE AGENTS

NO. 8 ALLEN'S BLOCK, PEABODY

Over $12,000,000 Cash Capital represented

Also Agents for Holyoke, Merrimac, Quincy, and Dorchester Mutual Fire Ins. Cos.

Particular attention given to insuring Household Furniture, Family Wearing Aparel, Musical Instruments, Libraries, and Merchandise of all kinds in sums of $100 and upward, for one, three or five years, at the lowest rates

D. P. GROSVENOR.

PHARMACIST AND DRUGGIST,

Compounder of

Physicians, Prescriptions

and dealer in

RELIABLE DRUGS.

35 MAIN STREET,

PEABODY, MASS.

PEABODY

LAUNDRY.

Goods called for and delivered free of charge.

C. A. SANGER

7 LOWELL STREET,

UP STAIRS.

SWEETSER'S

DRUG STORE

NO, 37 MAIN STREET,

PEABODY

Drugs and Medicines of all kinds; Toilet Articles, Sponges, Brushes, Perfumery, &c., constantly on hand.

Prescriptions carefully and promptly prepared

REMOVED TO

No. 241 Essex St..

PRICE BLOCK,

DANIEL T. SMITH,

Watchmaker.

CRAIG'S

KIDNEY CURE

The Genuine.

WILLIAM T. LEE,

AGENT

NOW FOR

Base Ball,

and the place to get

BASE BALLS

AND BATS

at the lowest prices is of

DANIEL J. SWEENEY

Next to the Old Hotel on the Square.

Here can also be found a good assortment of

Fruit,
Confectionery,
Cigars and
Tobacco.

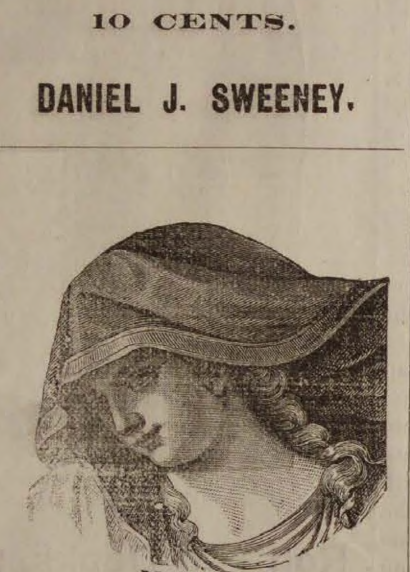
Principee, Electric,
Serenader, Leader,

5 CENTS.

Harvard and Boat Club,

10 CENTS.

DANIEL J. SWEENEY.



IF YOU DESIRE

A MEDICINE

To regulate and build up your system and purify the blood of all poisonous humor use

FERRATED HYGIENIC WINE

FOR SALE BY DRUGGISTS.

ALLAN LINE

ROYAL MAIL STEAMSHIPS

Sailing from Quebec every Saturday for Liverpool.

SHORTEST OCEAN VOYAGE

Only five days from land to land.

Extra services from GLASCOW, GALWAY, QUEENSTOWN and LONDONDERRY to Boston direct for the convenience of Steerage passengers, to whom kind treatment is made a Specialty. Cabin, $70 and $80. Intermediate, $40. Steerage at Low Rates.

LEVE & ALDEN, Gen'l Pass. Agts.

15 State Street, Boston.

JOHN LINEHAN, Agt. for Peabody.

BOSTON & LOWELL R. R.
JUNE 29, 1885.

PASSENGER SERVICE FROM SALEM:

Leave Salem for Lowell, and Lawrence at 7 10, 10 55 A. M., 4 40 P. M. Sunday 7 20 P. M.
Leave Lowell for Salem, at 7 35 A. M., 1 10, 6 P. M. Sunday 7 43 A. M.
Leave Lawrence for Salem, at 7 45 A. M., 1 05, 6 P. M. Sunday 7 45 A. M.
Leave Wilmington Junction for Salem, at 8 09 A. M., 1 38, 6 24 P. M. Sunday 8 13 A. M.
Leave North Reading for Salem, at 8 20 A. M., 1 48, 6 34 P. M. Sunday 8 24 A. M.
Leave West Peabody for Salem, at 8 34 A. M., 2, 6 45 P. M. Sunday 8 36 A. M.

The 7 10 A. M. and 4 40 P. M. trains from Salem connect at Wilmington Junction for Boston via B. & L. R. R.

Leave Boston (Boston & Lowell Depot) for Wilmington Junction and North Reading, at 1, 5 30 P. M.

All trains from Salem connect at Lowell for Nashua, Manchester and Concord, N. H.

The 7 10 A. M. train connects at Lowell for Peterboro, Keene and intermediate stations.

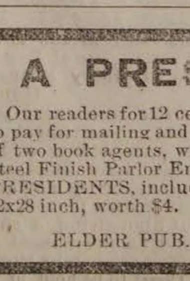
The 10 55 A. M. train connects at Ayer Junction for stations on W. & N. R. R., Springfield, Hartford, New Haven and New York; also for Troy, Albany and the West via Hoosac Tunnel Line.

C. S. MELLEN, Gen'l Supt.
LUCIUS TUTTLE, Gen'l Pass. Agent.

A PRESENT!

Our readers for 12 cents in postage stamps to pay for mailing and wrapping and names of two book agents, will receive FREE a Steel Finish Parlor Engraving of all OUR PRESIDENTS, including Cleveland, size 22x28 inch, worth $4. Address

ELDER PUB. CO., Chicago, Ill.



AGENTS WANTED for
Twenty Years of Congress,
1861—1881,
by James G. Blaine.

Hon. J. S. Wise of Va. says: "Whoever takes it up, no matter whether he be Mr. Blaine's friend or enemy, will never put it down until he has read the whole." Agents make from $200 to $1000 per month. Address, The Henry Bill Pub. Co., Norwich, Conn.

RED STAR
TRADE RED STAR MARK.
COUGH CURE
Absolutely Free from Opiates, Emetics and Poisons.
A PROMPT, SAFE, SURE CURE
For Coughs, Sore Throat, Hoarseness, Influenza, Colds, Bronchitis, Croup, Whooping Cough, Asthma, Quinsy, Pains in Chest, and other affections of the Throat and Lungs.
Price 50 cents a bottle. Sold by Druggists and Dealers. Parties unable to induce their dealer to promptly get it for them will receive two bottles, Express charges paid, by sending one dollar to
THE CHARLES A. VOGELER COMPANY,
Sole Owners and Manufacturers,
Baltimore, Maryland, U. S. A.

Be Warned

in time. Kidney diseases may be prevented by purifying, renewing, and invigorating the blood with Ayer's Sarsaparilla. When, through debility, the action of the kidneys is perverted, these organs rob the blood of its needed constituent, albumen, which is passed off in the urine, while worn out matter, which they should carry off from the blood, is allowed to remain. By the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, the kidneys are restored to proper action, and Albuminuria, or is prevented. Ayer's Sarsaparilla also prevents inflammation of the kidneys, and other disorders of these organs. Mrs. Jas. W. Weld, Forest Hill st., Jamaica Plain, Mass., writes: "I have had a complication of diseases, but my greatest trouble has been with my kidneys. Four bottles of Ayer's Sarsaparilla made me feel like a new person; as well and strong as ever." W. M. McDonald, 46 Summer st., Boston, Mass., had been troubled for years with Kidney Complaint. By the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, he not only the disease from assuming a fatal form, but was restored to perfect health. John McLellan, cor. Bridge and Third sts., Lowell, Mass., writes: "For several years I suffered from Dyspepsia and Kidney Complaint, the latter being so severe at times that I could scarcely attend to my work. My appetite was poor, and I was much emaciated; but by using my appetite and digestion improved, and my health has been perfectly restored."

Bright's Disease

Prevented

AYER'S Sarsaparilla

Sold by all Druggists.

Price $1; Six bottles, $5.

Prepared by Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass., U. S. A.

RATES REDUCED.

MAPLE HOUSE,

JEFFERSON, N. H.

The proprietors having in view that the great land slide which occurred on July 10th, 1885, will attract a great many people to Jefferson, during September and October, offer to entertain people during that time at from

$7.00 to 8.00 per week,

in all parts of the house. Send for descriptive circular.

Coaches connect with all trains at Jefferson Station.

Open till Nov. 1st.

MRS. M. P. BOWLES & SON.

CANDEE.

Rubber BOOTS
—WITH—
DOUBLE THICK BALL.

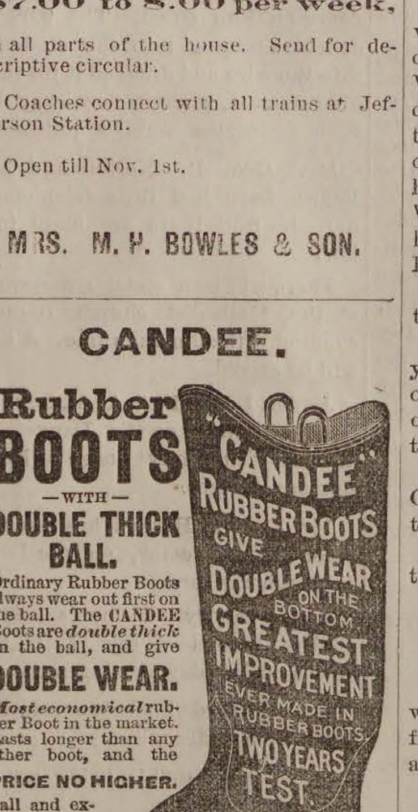
Ordinary Rubber Boots always wear out first on the ball. The CANDEE Boots are double thick on the ball, and give

DOUBLE WEAR.

Most economical rubber Boot in the market. Lasts longer than any other boot, and the

PRICE NO HIGHER.

Call and examine the goods.



FOR SALE BY

NUGENT BROS.,

Agents Candee Co.

PEABODY, MASS.

Family Flour.

A Full stock of Spring Wheat patent process and Winter Wheat Family Flour, fresh ground from old wheat, and warranted.
CHAS. A. ROPES & SON.

A RASCALLY COW.

No man in this country is more truthful than John Hilfern. He would rather tell a truth than to tell a lie. This peculiarity has given to his Character an oddity that causes vague mutterings in the neighborhood. No one ever saw John take a drink of whisky. Yet when he came to town last week he was so drunk that he could not have slapped the face of the earth with a horse blanket. I was greatly shocked, for I had confidence in John. I was not willing that he should escape censure, so the next time we met I drew him to one side and said:

"John, we are all pained to know that you have been drunk. During many years you have been a shining example. Now, our confidence in you is shaken—we are hurt."

Affectionately placing his broad hand on my shoulder, he replied:

"I do not deny that I was drunk. It is an almost incredible story. Let us sit down and I will tell you."

When we had sat down, John continued: "The other day as I rode along toward town I began to notice that there was something curious the matter with me. I felt a disposition to yell at everything I saw; and, strange as it may seem, I began to get hungry for a fight of some sort. Well, by the time I got to town I was as drunk as a fool. I couldn't understand it, for I had drunk nothing. When I returned home my perplexity was increased, for I found my wife and brother-in-law so drunk that they couldn't have walked round a straw hat."

"You don't tell me so."

"Yes, I do. They swore that they hadn't drank a drop.'

"How do you account for it?"

"Just wait a minute. The next morning we were all sober, but after breakfast we were all drunk again."

"You don't say so!"

"Of course I do. If I didn't you would'nt know anything about it. Well, we sobered up a little, but sir"—here his voice sank to a whisper—"after dinner we were all so drunk that we wouldn't have known the President from a deputy constable."

"How do you account for it?"

"You just wait a minute. The affair was so strange that I began to investigate. After awhile it was all as clear as daylight."

"What was it that made you drunk?"

"Milk."

"Milk!" I exclaimed.

"Yes, milk."

"How can you explain it?"

"You just wait a minute. Several days before, I had bought a ringtail cow, the most peculiar animal of her species, and I discovered that she had gone to a distillery and had drank the slop."

"Well, that is remarkable."

"Yes, rather. I soon found out that the ringtail cow is the only illicit distiller among the entire cow family. People came for miles to look at her."

"What did you do with her, kill her?"

"Bless you, no. A deputy United States marshal arrested her, but, upon examination, the judge said that there was no statute to fit the case. I took the cow home and sold her for three hundred dollars."

"So large a sum as that?"

"Yes, a temperance lecturer bought her. I saw him the other day and he told me that he wouldn't take a thousand for her. Said that he never did see so much fun. Well, I must go."

John is a poor man, but he is truthful. He would rather tell the truth than to break a colt.

NO THIRD OF TWO WITH HIM.

A story is told of a farmer in Schley who rented some land last year to a colored man for a third of the crop. When the drought came on his corn and cotten were affected by it. He gathered two bales of cotton and two wagon loads of corn. The latter he penned up for his own use and the cotton was sold. When the landlord called for his share he was told there was none for him. He was thunderstruck and asked:

"Didn't I rent you my land for a third of the crop?"

"Yes, boss," said the darkey, "but, you see, dar was no third. Dar was only two bales of cotton and two loads of corn; all mine, and nuffin' for you by the contract."

And the landlord could not make Cuffee believe any other way. He left the premises, saying:

"No d—n rascal can make me say dat two am three, nairy time."

YORK GIRLS VERY FAST.

"I always thought them York gals was very fast," said Mrs. Orthodox to a friend the other day, "but now they are getting awful, simply awful."

"What's the matter now?"

"Why, they run races at regular race tracks, three-quarters of a mile! Of course they can't wear trains, and I guess to run that far they must go bare legged. Think of it! running around a track that way in front of a parcel of men and gamblers and people like that! Here it is, right here in this paper," and she handed the following to her friend:

NEW YORK, June 3.—The first race at Brighton Beach to-day was for maidens of all ages; three-quarters of a mile.

"Now," she went on, "I was going to send Mary Jane to New York to get an education, but before I'll have her trapesin' around like that there, I'll send her out to the colored school."

Cabinet Hair Pins, assorted boxes, 3 cents at Peabody's.

W. P. B. Brooks & Co.,

151 Hanover St., Boston.

Furniture, Carpets,

STOVES, CROCKERY, SILVER WARE.

And Everything in the Line, on Easy Terms.

☞ Always the Best Place to Trade

W. P. B. BROOKS. A. D. DAMON, F. D. SPERRY.

E. R. MORSE SAFE CO.

MANUFACTURER OF

FIRE & BURGLAR PROOF SAFES, VAULT DOORS, STEEL CHESTS, SILVER SAFES, EXPRESS SAFES, FIRE AND THIEF PROOF JEWEL BOXES.

76 & 78 SUDBURY STREET, BOSTON.

Second hand SAFES.

SAFES bought and sold.

SAFES opened and repaired.

E. R. MORSE SAFE CO.
BOSTON

SAFES exchanged.

SAFES moved.

Combination LOCKS put on to Old Safes.

Our Safes have on a PATENT CONCEALED DIAL LOCK which is used as a day door and is a great protection in case of fire, as the dial cannot be melted or broken off.

E. R. MORSE.

Was established in business October 10th, 1844.

Store and Window Awnings,
Hammocks,
Boatsails and
Wagon Covers

Anton M. Liebsch

7 DERBY WHARF,

SALEM.

BURDETT
Business
COLLEGE

167 TREMONT ST., BOSTON.

Day and Evening Sessions.

Book-keeping, Business Arithmetic, Penmanship, Commercial Law, Business Correspondence, etc.

For complete information call at the College Office, or send for Journal

v 15—2m

LAKE MAHOPAC, N. Y.
MY DAUGHTER WAS VERY BAD OFF ON ACCOUNT OF A COLD AND PAIN ON HER LUNGS. DR. THOMAS' ECLECTRIC OIL CURED HER IN 24 HOURS. ONE OF THE BOYS WAS CURED OF A SORE THROAT. THE MEDICINE HAS WORKED WONDERS IN OUR FAMILY, ALVAH PINCKNEY.

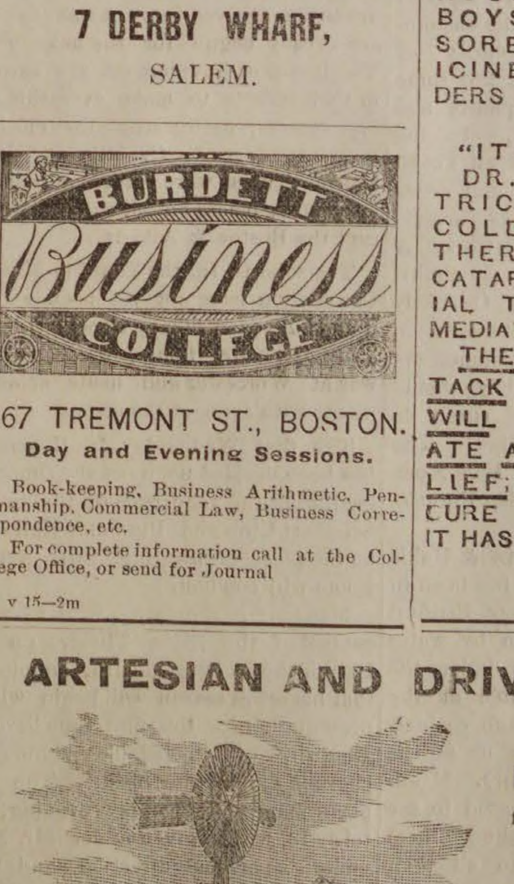
"ITS SPECIALTIES."
DR. THOMAS' ECLECTRIC OIL FOR COUGHS, COLDS, CROUP, DIPHTHERIA, SORE THROAT, CATARRH, AND BRONCHIAL TROUBLES GIVES IMMEDIATE RELIEF.

THE MOST VIOLENT ATTACK OF NEURALGIA WILL RECEIVE IMMEDIATE AND PERMANENT RELIEF; IN FACT, AS A CURE FOR NEURALGIA IT HAS NEVER FAILED.

ARTESIAN AND DRIVEN WELLS.



All of our

DRIVEN WELLS

for Domestic, Farm, or any other purpose well, receive prompt attention.

Thousands of these wells are being used in Tanneries, Breweries and other manufactories, where cool and better water is needed and also save water bills.

We are also prepared to

DRILL WELLS

six or eight inches in diameter through earth or rock, by steam power.

B. F. SMITH,

OFFICE,

266 WASHINGTON STREET,

Room 3, Boston

Cut showing the Driven Well flowing, pumped by Hand and Wind Power. Arranged with Set-Length, (anti-freezing), for Domestic, Farm and Irrigating purposes; where large amount of water is needed Steam Pumps are.

Conveyances.

BOSTON & MAINE RAILROAD
On and after Monday, Je. 28, 1885 trains will run as follows.—

EASTERN DIVISION

TRAINS LEAVE PEABODY FOR BOSTON AT 6 44, 7 25, 8 02, 8 31, 10 33, 11 07 A. M., 2 01, 3 37, 5 08, 6 46 P. M.
BOSTON FOR PEABODY, 8, 10 55 A. M., 1 M., 3, 4, 4 40, 5 15, 6 P. M.

LEAVE SALEM FOR

Lynn and Boston at 5 37, 6, 6,30, 7, 7 14, 7 35, 7 48 7 51, 8 13, 8 34 (does not stop at Lynn), 8 40 8 58, 9 20, 9 55, 10.48 A.M., 12 M., 12 30, 12 52 2 15, 3 12, 3 45, 4 10, 4 25, 5 17, 5 48, 6 33, 6.58 7 20, 7 57, 8 55, 9, 9 55 P. M. Sundays, 5.37, 8 40, 11 35 A. M., 1 05, 3 05, 5 40, 8 15, P. M.
Swampscott, 6, 6 30, 7 14, 7.48 7 51, 8 40, 8 58, 10 48, A. M., 12 M, 12 52, 2 15, 3 45, 4 25, 5 17, 5 48, 6 33, 6 58, 7 20, 7 57, 9, 9 55, P. M. Sundays, 8 40 11 35 A. M., 1 05, 3 05, 5 40, 8 15 P. M
Beverly, 6 53, 8 11, 8 40, 10 42, 11 20 A. M., 12 02, 1 05, 2 27, 2 47, 3 56, 4 05, 5 12, 5 57 6 37, 7 05, 7 15, 7 45, 10 10, 11, P. M. Sundays 8 45 A. M.
Beverly Farms, Manchester and Gloucester—6 53, 8 40, 11 20 A. M., 2 47, 4 07, 5 35, 7 05, 7 45, 10 10 P M
Essex, 8 11 A. M., 3 56, 6 37 P. M.
Ipswich, 8 11, 9 35, 10 42 A, M., 1 05, 2 27, 3 56, 5 12, 6 37, 7 15 P. M. Sundays 8 45 A. M., 7 30 P. M.
Newburyport, 8 11, 9 35, 10, 10 42 A. M., 1 05, 2 02, 2 27, 3 56, 5 12, 6 37, 7 15 P. M. Sundays 8 45 A. M., 7 30 P. M.
Amesbury, 8 11, 10 42 A. M., 1 05, 3 56, 5.12 P. M.
Portsmouth—8 11, 9 35, 10, 10 42 A. M., 1 05, 2 02, 3 56, 5 12, ‡7 15 P. M. Sundays 8 45 A. M., 7 30 P. M.
Dover, 8 11, A. M., 2 02, 5 12 P. M.
Great Falls and Rochester, 8 11, 10 A. M., 2 02, 3 56 P. M.
Wolfboro—8 11, 10 A, M., 2 02, 3 56 P. M.
North Conway—8 11, 10 A M., 2 02 P. M.
Portland—8 11, 9 35 A M, 1 05, ‡7 15 P M. Sundays 7 30 P. M.
Augusta—9 35 A. M., 1 05, †7 15 P. M. Sundays 7 30 P. M.
Bangor—9 35 A. M., 1 05, †7 15 P. M. Sundays 7 30 P. M.
St. John and Halifax, 9 35 A. M. †7 15 P. M. Sundays, 7 30 P. M.
Montreal, 9 35 P. M.

And FOR SALEM—from

Montreal—10 15 P. M.
St. John—8 P. M. (daily except Saturday).
Bangor, 8 A. M., 1 30, 8 P. M. Sundays 8 P. M.
Augusta, 6, 10 A. M., 2 45, 10 55 P. M. Sundays 10 55 P. M.
Portland—2, 9 A M. 1, 6 P M. Sundays, 2 A. M
North Conway—7 20, 11 A M, 3 30 P. M.
Wolfboro—6 05 (Mondays only), 8 15, 11 20 A M, 4 05 P M.
Rochester—7 22, 9 42 A. M., 1 05, 5 37 P. M.
Great Falls—7 38, 9 57 A. M, 1 18, 5 50 P. M.
Dover—7, 10 25 A. M., 4 30 P. M
Portsmouth—4 05, 7 30, 7 35, 8 20, 10 50 A M, 1 55, 2 55, 5, 6 40, 7 40 P M, Sundays, 4 05 A. M, 4 P. M.
Amesbury—6 40, 8 40, 11 15 A. M., 1 30, 3 05, 5 20 P. M.
Newburyport—4 45, 6 30, 7, 8, 8 13, 9 05, 11 35 A. M. 2 35, 3 30, 3 38, 5 43, 7 20, 8 15 P. M. Sundays, 4 45 A. M., 4 45 P. M.
Ipswich—5 07, 6 48, 7 17, 8 15, 8 31, 9 25, 11 59 A. M., 2 49, 3 55, 6 06, 7 36 P. M. Sundays 5 07 A. M., 5 06 P. M.
Essex—7, 11 45*A. M, 5 45 P. M.*
Rockport—6 05, 7 20, 8 30, 10 A. M., 1 20, 5, 6 10, 9 P. M. Sundays—7 45 A. M.
Gloucester—6 15, 7 29, 8 39, 10 08 A M, 1 30, 5 08, 6 29, 9 09 P M. Sundays—7 55 A. M.
Manchester—6 30, 7 42, 8 51, 10 21 A. M., 1 45, 5 22, 6 32, 9 23 P. M. Sundays, 8 09 A. M.
Beverly—6 50, 7 05, 7 40, 8 05, 8 50, 9 11, 9 45, 10 40 A. M., 12 20, 12 45, 2 05, 4 16, 5 40, 6 23, 6 50, 7 08, 7 50, 9 43, 11 19 P, M. Sundays 8 30 A. M. 5 30 P M.
Swampscott,—6 44, 8 50, 10 34, 11 26, 11 54 A. M., 12 36, 2 19, 3 28, 4 31, 6 20, 6 28, 6 56, 8 29, 10, 10 49, 11 49 P. M. Sundays 8 36, 11 17 A. M., 1 57, 5 51, 10 11 P. M.
Lynn—6 40, 7 59, 8 30, 8 46, 9 25, 9 51, 10 30, 11 10, 11 23, 11 51 A. M., 12 33, 12 55, 1 52, 2 15, 3 25, 3 45, 3 55, 4 28, 5 03, 5 24, 5 45, 6 16, 6 25, 6 52, 7 05, 7 35, 8 25, 9 55, 10 45, 11 45 P. M. Sundays 8 32, 11 14 A, M, 1 03, 5 47, 7 22, 10 06, P. M.
Boston—6 10, 7 30*, 8, 8 05, 9, 9 30, 10, 10 45, 10 55 11 15 A. M, 12 M, 12 30, 1 30, 1 40, 2 15, 3, 3 20, 3 30, 4, 4 40, 5, 5 15, 5 40, 6, 6 20, 6 40, 7 10, 7 50, 9 20, 10 15, 11 15 P M. Sundays, 8, 10 40 A. M, 1 20, 5 10, 7, 9 30 P. M.

*Via Saugus Branch.
†Change at Newburyport.

MARBLEHEAD BRANCH.

Salem for Marblehead—6 50, 7 55, 8 40, 9 30 A M, 1, 2 30, 4 20, 5 15, 6 05, 7 20 P M.
Marblehead for Salem—6 30, 7 30, 8 15, 9 10, 10 15 A M, 2 3 20, 4 55, 5 40, 6 25 P M.

SOUTH READING BRANCH.

Trains leave the South Reading Depot in Salem for Boston, 7 25, 9 05 A. M., 1 40, 4 35 P. M.
Boston for Salem—7 40, 11 30 A M, 3 10, 5 15 P. M.
Wakefield for Salem—8 13 A M, 12 06, 3 43, 5 48 P M.
Lynnfield for Salem—8 24 A M, 12 16, 3 52, 5 59 P M.
Peabody for Salem—8 35 A M, 12 27, 4 02, 6 07 P M.

LAWRENCE BRANCH.

Salem for Lowell—7 A. M., 6 P. M.
Salem for Lawrence—7 09, 11 32 A M, 4 43, 6 P M.
Salem for Middleton—6 15, 7, 8 58, 11 35 A M, 3 36, 4 43, 6 P M.
Salem for Danvers—6 15, 7, 7 28, 8 58, 11 32 A M, 12 47, 3 36, 4 43, 5 20, 6, 6 42 P M.
Lowell for Salem—7 10, 9 45 A. M., 12 15, 5 15 P. M
Lawrence for Salem—7 40, 10 5 A M, 1, 5 50 P M.
Middleton for Salem—7, 8 07, 10 10, 10 45 A M, 1 35, 4 45, 6 27, P M.
Danvers for Salem—6 37, 7 15, 7 50, 8 31, 10 25, 11 A. M. 1 50, 3 30, 5, 5 50, 6 39, P M.
Peabody for Salem—6 44, 7 25, 8 02, 8 31, 10 33, 11 07 A M, 2 01, 3 37, 5 08, 5 58, 6 46 P M.

JAMES T. FURBER, General Manager.
Boston Je. 28, 1885.

NEW YORK & NEW ENGLAND
RAILROAD.

Shorter by twenty miles than any other Line between Boston and New York.

Now a Double Track Road to a Connection with the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad, West of Willimantic.

LEAVE BOSTON.

8.30 A. M. *DAY EXPRESS TRAIN for New York (via Middletown and New Haven); Pullman Cars Boston to New York. A part of this train runs through to Hartford, New Britain Waterbury, Danbury and Fishkill.

3.00 P. M. †NEW ENGLAND LIMITED for New York (via Air Line Route) running 86 miles without a stop. Due Grand Central Depot, New York, at 9.00 P. M. Connects week days at Willimantic with train for Hartford, New Britain and Waterbury.

3.30 P. M. *AFTERNOON MAIL for New York, (via Middletown and New Haven), due New York 11.25 P. M. A part of this train runs through to Hartford, New Britain and Bristol.

6.30 P. M. †PHILADELPHIA EXPRESS for Hartford, New Haven, Jersey City, Trenton, Philadelphia, Baltimore and Washington, connecting for Richmond and points South. Through Pullman cars to Washington.

6.30 P. M. *NORWICH LINE EXPRESS for New York, New London, Norwich, Danielsonville and Putnam. Train connects at New London with Steamer City of Worcester, or City of Boston.

Seats in Parlor Cars, Berths in Pullman Cars, State-rooms on Steamers, Tickets and information obtained at Office, 322 Washington St, or Depot, foot of Summer St.

BOSTON
A. C. KENDALL, Gen'l Pass. Agt.,

BOSTON, REVERE BEACH & LYNN R.R. FALL & WINTER TIME-TABLE.

June, 15, 1885.

Leave Boston at 6.50, 7.30, 8, 8.30, 9, 10, 11 A. M. 12 M.; 1, 2, 3, 3.30, 4, 4.30, 5, 5.30, 6, §6.30, 7.30, 9.30, 11.15 P. M
Leave Lynn at §6.10, 6.50, 7, 7.30, 8, 8.30, 9, 10, 11, A. M. 12 M.; 1, 2, 2.45, 3.15, 3.45, 4.15, 4.45, 5,15, 5.45, 6.30 8.45, 10.15, P. M.

SUNDAY TRAINS.

Leave Boston at 10, 11 A. M.; 12 M.; 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, P. M.
Leave Lynn at 9, 10, 11 A. M.; 12 M.; 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9.15 P. M.

§Workingmen's train.

JOHN A. FENNO, G. T. A.
C. A. HAMMOND, Supt

CALL AT THIS OFFICE FOR FINE JOB PRINTING. Specimens given

ASBURY GROVE.

WHAT WAS SEEN BY A VISIT THERE LAST SATURDAY.

A representative of the Press invited himself to visit Asbury Grove last Saturday. It was one of those delightful autumn days, when one feels like roaming in the woods and resting under the shade of forest trees, whose foliage is just tinged by the early frost. Arriving at Wenham depot, in place of the clumsy barge that had connected with the trains earlier in the season, there was a cosy wagonette just large enough to hold half a dozen passengers. This was filled by five of us and behind one of Putnam's family horses, we start for the grove, passing en-route the broad acres of well cultivated lands where the farmer was gathering his bountiful harvest. Stopping at the farm house at the entrance of the grove, we find Mr. C. O. Putnam and family, the sole occupants, the summer boarders and the little group of cottagers who are wont to gather there when the barge came in, are all gone to their winter homes. Even inside, the little post office with its old fashioned wheel covered with creton had a deserted look and the few remaining letters that were uncalled for looked lonesome and dusty, as if they realized that their destination was the dead letter office at Washington and that they never would cheer the heart of those for whom they were intended.

A stroll to the stable where a few weeks ago there was a daily demand for the large number of driving horses kept by Mr. Putnam, showed them all comfortably stalled and contentedly eating their dinner. Mr. Putnam has a fine lot of family horses here and as it will not pay him to keep them through the winter he will dispose of some of them at a low price this fall. During the "season" at Asbury Grove the residents there have taken a great interest in the pigs, as the swill was gathered from each cottage daily for their consumption. This interesting feature is situated some distance from the farm house and is in a large open field of two or three acres. The drove consists of a dozen or fifteen breeders and sixty or seventy-five little porkers from a month old upward. The old ones are confined to a large pen, which includes about one-eighth of the field, while the little ones have the run of the whole place and as a consequence are very thrifty looking. They are a breed that have been very prolific at the Danvers Asylum and are highly spoken of. It is probable that the Asylum folks will have some of these, but most of them will be sold to farmers to be fatted for killing this winter. Mr. Putnam and his family will occupy the farm house during the winter. They will naturally find it a little quiet, but are connected by telephone, which puts them in easy communication with the surrounding towns. At the Grove, a half dozen families still linger as if loth to leave the quiet home, where so many pleasant weeks have been spent. Most of the avenues have a deserted appearance many of them not having even a single cottage occupied.

The grocery and provision store where a few weeks ago the cottagers bought the necessaries of life, and where the children spent their pennies for painted candy and prize pop corn, is still open and will remain so till all have gone. It was the intention of the managers to spend a fair amount of money this fall in regrading the Avenues, and doing other work to add to the attractiveness of the place, but the appropriation will have to be curtailed as $400 or $500 will have to be spent in rebuilding the oven at the bake house, which was burned out at the time of the fire and it was supposed but slight damage was done. Saturday was a rare day for a trip of this kind, and as one walked through the quiet grove, there was a delicious feeling of restfulness, hard to describe—a quietness almost sabbatic seemed to reign. You are completely shut in and only the tops of the tall pines and the blue sky overhead can be seen from the "circle." On the outskirts are beautiful tinted maples and large oaks. In the Parks are pretty pictures formed by the nimble little squirrels who are chattering merrily as they gather their store of sweet acorns, and keep their eye on the deserted cat, left to starve by the family that petted it during the summer.

The foot path through the swamp to "Idlewood" is lined on both sides with a changing foliage of gorgeous colors, and from the hills can be obtained a fine view of the Lake fringed at the water's edge with vines and wild flowers. There can be no doubt of the increasing growth and popularity of Asbury Grove, if the management will only meet the coming tide of travel another season with improvements in the shape of a hotel, and less red tape in regard to little things about the grounds. Any of our readers who have the time would find a trip to Asbury Grove a pleasant one to take.

The leaves have begun to lose their grip.

WM. G. WEBBER & CO.

The new store in Endicott Block, which had been built for W. G. Webber & Co., in Salem, was opened to the public Thursday morning. It was evident that all was not in readiness, but Mr. Webber did not wish to disappoint the public, and thus made his preliminary opening—proposing to have another one early in October when everything will be in full running order. The lower floor on the entrance was in shape for the display of many of his goods in the departments there to be kept, and the showing was at once tasteful and agreeable to the ladies who examined the goods. The appearance of the store excited much admiration, particularly the fine light to be obtained. This is an important consideration, as customers can see for themselves just what they are purchasing. The second floor is now in good condition, where are to be kept cloaks, suits and shawls, worsted goods, corsets and skirts. The entire four floors wil be utilized by the firm when they have all their arrangements completed.

The firm are ready for business, though, and customers find no difficulty in supplying their wants. We shall be unable to do justice to this elegant store, by a description, until their regular opening, but desire now to call the attention of our readers to one department which is complete in its stock, and of especial interest to the ladies at this time. We mean the worsted goods department on the second floor. Here this firm intend to keep an assortment of everything desirable for art needlework second only to the establishment of R. H. Stearns & Co., of Boston. They will have patterns for the stamping of all the newest designs in fancy needlework, with all the materials thereto pertaining, and young ladies in charge who know the business and can impart desired information to the patrons. Such a department is needed in this vicinity and will be welcome news to the ladies. The worsteds and yarns are from the celebrated establishment of Wm. H. Horstmann & Sons, of New York City, the largest importers of these goods in the United States. The arrangement of the department has been made by S. H. Littlefield, the New England representative of this firm, who has spent several days in Salem in the interest of Messrs. Webber & Co. Mr. Littlefield's experience with these goods in all the large cities of New England enables him thus to give the department a start which could not else be so easily obtained. One of the characteristics of Columbia yarns, which is the trademark of this firm, is their full weight. This includes all the Germantown wools, shetlands and worsteds. When a lady buys a two ounce skein of yarn she gets two ounces; she don't get a skein which is called two ounces, but falling short of it, more or less, in weight. The same is true of worsteds. A pound is a pound full weight. And while the quality of these goods of Horstmann's is superior to anything in the market, the customer has the additional security of getting full weight goods at the same price charged for inferior quality and lighter weight of goods. In the department are canvases of all kinds, feltings, satines, plush balls and ornaments, Pearsall's english silks,—everything desired for art needlework. A line of linen goods, such as tray cloths, etc., can also be seen here. Our lady readers will be epecially interested in this line of goods as Christmas approaches, and we desire they should look at them, as they will surely do without a second invitation. The department is in charge of Miss Nowland and Miss Merritt of San Francisco, with able assistants.

The firm will use Martin & Hall's cash carrier system, which has been in successful operation in New Bedford and other cities. It is run by water power, the operation is under the counters, being only visible at the entrance to the desk of the cashier. Due notice will be given by us of the regular opening at this store. Meanwhile, the firm will be pleased to see all their friends and show them some special bargains in all their departments.

THERE IS an article in another column referring to marriages contracted by American ladies with Frenchmen, to which we invite the attention of our readers. It was written by our consul at Nice, and the especial point is that France does not recognize the validity of a marriage ceremony performed in this country. This the Frenchman knows; but often the young lady, who is being deceived, does not. A marriage with a foreigner is not to be commended in any event; but some of our young ladies are so infatuated with a foreign title that they care little for either money or brains. Repentance comes late. It is well to know the consequences, and that these alliances with Frenchmen, especially, mean nothing to the latter.

Men's all wool grey socks 25 cents per pair at Peabody's.

MUSICAL NOTES.

The success of the Worcester Musical Festival was greater this year than ever before. More money was realized at the outset from premiums on sales of season tickets than last year; at many performances every ticket was sold long before the opening of the doors, and good seats commanded a handsome premium. Financially, therefore, it was all that could be desired. Musically, also, it was as much of a success. The list of artists comprised the best in the profession—both vocal and instrumental, and to those who were privileged to attend the week's concerts it was a treat rarely obtainable at any price. It is the leading festival in this country. To it come organizers of conventions elsewhere, to get new ideas, to hear the artists, and to incorporate the knowledge there obtained into succeeding Conventions of their own. No artist obtaining an assured success there fails of obtaining engagements at others Conventions, as well as others at numerous concerts given all over the country. We have not space in this column to enumerate the points of the several concerts or to criticize in any detail the different artists. This has been well done by the Worcester press and that of other cities. Of course there were a few performers who have been heard in this vicinity—who had friends here—and of whose success we are glad to know. And not the least of these was that of the young soprano, Miss Helen M. Howland. Miss Howland didn't do herself justice when she sung in Salem at the Schubert Club. She had received good training—she could not do otherwise under Mrs. Edna A. Hall—but she was nervous and it was her first appearance in Cantata work. Her selection for a solo, was unfortunate. She gave satisfaction, though, and it is a pleasure to know that she scored a success at Worcester. She appeared in Macfarren's May Day, and we have not seen an unfavorable notice. She is a favorite in Worcester, singing in one of the finest churches there. Miss Kehew was also favorably received, and this despite a sore throat with which she was suffering, and which prevented her from appearing in "Stronghold Sure." Miss Kehew has been engaged for the Taunton Festival. Miss Sopha Hall, formerly of the Concert Co., to which F.C Record belonged, had some good notices, and evidently placed herself in a position to command recognition from other organizations. Of course the leading artists, Fursch-Madi, Miss Juch and others were abundantly successful. Their reputation was already established before the Festival. One of the most immediate successes was that of the English tenor, Whitney Mockridge. He was the least known of any of the artists at the opening—at the close it is not too much to say he was perhaps the best known. We hope he will be heard in this vicinity before the season closes. Mr. Geo. W. Want received much applause, and his sweet tenor voice gave much pleasure to the Convention. Arrangements are already begun for the next year. The Board of Government are earnest in their efforts to make everything a big success, particularly the efficient secretary, Mr. A. C. Munroe. Free return tickets were given attendants from other places on all the roads except the Boston & Albany.

The soloists for the Taunton Musical Convention have not yet been settled upon. As soon as may be we will give a full list. Mr. Soule, the secretary, was at Worcester and made arrangements with some of the artists.

The first Wednesday in November has been decided upon as the time for beginning the rehearsals of the Salem Schubert Club and Plummer Hall will be the place of meeting. Mr. Arthur Foote will conduct.

Manager Neuendorff, who assumes control of the Bijou Theatre on the 12th of the coming month, announces that his opera season will begin with a presentation for the first time here in English, of "Stradella," Flotow's charming romantic opera. The first performance on Tuesday evening, October 13, will be given under Mr. Neuendorff's personal direction, and with Miss Rosalba Beecher, Messrs. W. H. Fessenden, Carl Pflueger, D. M. Babcock, and Signor Brocolini in the cast. The box office sale for the opening night will begin on Thursday, October 8. Much interest is being shown in the season of operatic performances announced by Manager Neuendorff, who promises to make the Bijou a place of entertainment corresponding to the Opera Comique of Paris.

Edward K. Hood's Course in Lynn opens to-morrow evening in Odd Fellows Hall. Neuendorff's Orchestra, the popular, will be the attraction, assisted by Mlle. De Lussan, the new soprano of the Boston Ideals, and Walter Emerson, the cornetist. Mr. Hood has sold nearly all his tickets and the success of the Course is already assured.

Gent's Vest chains in fine gold plate, new patterns at low prices at Peabody's.

THE NEW YORK Sun contends that the Democratic party is in favor of true civil service reform—not the civil service reform prated about so much by the "mugwumps," but true civil service reform. This the Sun defines as "turning the rascals out," meaning the Republicans, who are all corrupt, and putting in the Democrats who are all honest men.

The Democratic party, and this is specially the case in New York, denounce civil service reform as a humbug. They do not hesitate to proclaim their old motto, "To the victors belong the spoils." They are not in sympathy with the administration—or with the President. For the words of President Cleveland and the actions of his cabinet officers and subordinates do not tally at all. Hence the mugwumps in New York are returning to the Republican party. They still profess allegiance to Cleveland, but will not support a party which denounces the administration and their pet theory.

There is a deal of trash about civil service reform. The mugwumps are finding out that there was and is to-day more of it in the Republican party than in the Democratic. When the latter party have filled all the offices and turned out the Republicans, they, too, will favor civil service reform. Just now they don't care to hear much about it.

We think the Republican nominees in this state will receive the undivided vote of both Republicans and Mugwumps. The latter do not yet, particularly after the action of the New York Democrats, see the necessity of voting the Democratic ticket to endorse Cleveland. The Republicans to-day are more ready to support Cleveland than the Democrats are. They are far from being ready to support the acts of his administration. They ought to be one and the same thing, but there is as much difference between the last letter of Cleveland on civil service reform, and the acts of his administration, as between the Republican and Democratic party.

* * *

BURIED CAPITALS.—The names of twelve capitals of states are concealed in the following sentences. The letters come in regular order, and the names are found by understandingly connecting them. They are plain before your eyes if you only look at them.

On the 10th of August, a fervid day, A. and B. started for Indiana. "Polish your epaulets," said A. "Make your plan. Sing, 'Good-by, Sweetheart.' Pay that rent on your habitation. All scandal ban. Yet keep the eagle and the dove ready."

"I would take the oath on the sacrament, or give Alexander's universal empire, that all A. has seen is a chimera only," said B.

They started, but shattered their wheel in going a mile. A. took out his chart for direction, and found that they were only six furlongs from Jackson's Middlebo stone quarry. Mad is only too demulcent a word to image their disgust.

* * *

Rev. Cyrus A. Bartol is a clergyman of transcendental qualities in Boston; but in a sermon on Gen. Grant he rather goes beyond the bound of discretion. "Two things in the rebellion," says Dr. Bartol, "should not be forgotten—Lincoln's proclamation and the power of Grant's sword."

But ought we to forget the great, magnanimous, devoted, heroic and ever ready American people? Were they not after all, of more importance in suppressing the rebellion than Grant's sword, or any other sword?—New York Sun.

Well, "the great magnanimous, devoted, heroic and ever-ready American people" did not amount to much when they were directed by McClellan, Hooker, Burnside and Pope. Lee threw "the great, magnanimous, devoted, heroic and ever-ready" North on its back over and over again, and it went to success only when Grant and Sherman and Sheridan were possessed of autocratic powers. Dana should write less and think more.—Boston Herald.

* * *

A number of strangers drove up in front of our soldiers monument last Thursday in a barouche, and one of them who had traveled a great deal, spoke in warm terms of admiration of the monument, commending the simple beauty of the shaft and graceful attitude of the figure on top.

Secretary L. Edwin Dudley, of the Law and Order League, has asked the attorney general to compel the district attorney of Suffolk county to bring the perjury cases of the liquor spotters, Noyes and Giquel, to trial. Attorney General Sherman declines to interfere in the matter.

Mr. C. L. Beckett sent a trio of his premium fowls to Bethel, Conn., yesterday.

The Lynn and Boston road carried 1568 through passengers on the Peabody branch, Sunday.

The 8.35 train yesterday morning for Boston, killed a dog belonging to John Morgan, while passing the Caller street crossing.

A writer in the Bridgeport Standard relates that, some years ago, when Rev. Robert Collyer and Rev. Robert Laird Collier were both pastors in Chicago, a prominent Western judge visiting that city, one Sunday morning asked the hotel clerk to direct him to "Rev. Mr. Collyer's church." "There are two Collyers preaching in Chicago," was the reply. "I want to hear the Rev. Robert Collyer." "They are both the Rev. Robert Collyer." "I mean the Unitarian Collyer." "They are both Unitarians." "I mean the Rev. Robert Collyer who was formerly a Methodist clergyman." "They were both formerly Methodist clergymen." "Is it possible!" exclaimed the judge. "Well, I want to hear the Rev. Robert Collyer who was formerly a blacksmith, and who studied his open books while working at the forge."

One of the most difficult jobs the street department has had for a long time will probably be completed to-day. That is the re-building of the covering to the brook that crosses Main street at Poole's Hollow. It is just two weeks to-day since the derrick was put up. There was a number of pipes and blow-offs centering there which had to be handled very carefully. There were two gas pipes, two water pipes, a piece of the log of the old Danvers Acqueduct which was chopped off, two or three gates, a hydrant pipe and several blowoffs. The whole job has been completed without an accident under the care of Supt. Besse.

Last Sunday, while John Gunn, of West Peabody, was walking on the railroad track below Clark's mill, he was set upon by three roughs who attempted to rob him. They kicked him till he was nearly senseless, but were frightened away before they accomplished their purpose. Officer Ruth went to the man's assistance, and the Salem police notified. Gunn's ankle was so badly sprained, he was taken away in the police ambulance.

There are a party of young misses living in the Wallis district, who have banded together to raise a little money for the benefit of the Old Ladies' Home. They have some five or six dollars in the treasury, and last Saturday secured about $2.50 of it at a lawn party, given by the Misses Bessie and Mabel Bancroft, who are members. They had a very pleasant time on the lawn and carried out their arrangements as well as old folks could have done.

Improvements are the order of the day, and as a man grows wealthy, he squanders his money on new machinery. We are lead to this remarks by hearing that Mr. A.W. Jones has recently added a new five foot grind stone to his extensive factory on Wallis street.

The school committee met last night and voted to raise the pay of Miss Georgie Hart and Miss Gee of the Bowditch school to $11 a week after October 2d, and they discussed the question of a new grade by which they would reduce the years of scholarship from 11 to 9.

The house being moved through Walnut street, struck the wire of the telephone connecting the office of Munroe & Arnold with Mr. Munroe's residence on Elm street. The 9.08 train as it was coming into the station run into the wire and dragged it till the engine stopped, when it flew away like a flash, giving the engineer quite a scare.

Mr. Geo. R. Norton and R. H. Brown have had their telephones removed. Still there are more to follow.

There will be a social entertainment at the Methodist church to-morrow evening with admission free. A supper will be served.

Jordan Lodge F. & A. M. have chartered a horse car on the Danvers road and will visit Amity Lodge of Danvers to-morrow night.

Mr. Geo. F. Haskell, has taken a position as conductor, on the Lynn & Boston horse cars.

The Peabody Women's Suffrage Club will meet at the W. C. T. U. rooms on Monday evening next.

Mr. Edward Poole has returned to town from Clifton.

A new bark mill is being put in at L. & G. H. Poor's.

Marriages.

In Peabody, Sept. 23, by Rev. Mr. Sprague, Charles R. Newhall to Miss M. Lizzie Buxton of Peabody.

23d, by Rev. J. W. Colwell, Mr. Frank G. Brown to Miss Annie B. Meek, both of Peabody.

In East Cambridge, Sept. 16, by Rev. Mr. Sprague, Levi W. Parker to Miss Bertha A. Staudinger, both of Cambridge.

Deaths.

In South Peabody, Sept. 27, Samuel Stone, a well known shoemaker, committed suicide. He was 47 years of age, a widower, with one daughter aged 6 years.

In Danvers, Sept 21, Mrs. Kate E., wife of William Dowdell, 30 yrs. 2 mos. 21 days.

In Salem, Sept. 24, Mr. Patrick Durkin, 21 years.

CUSTOM TAILORING.

The undersigned have this day placed on their counters, a fine line of

FOREIGN & DOMESTIC WOOLENS

—OF—

OUR OWN IMPORTATION,

which enables us to offer them to the public at

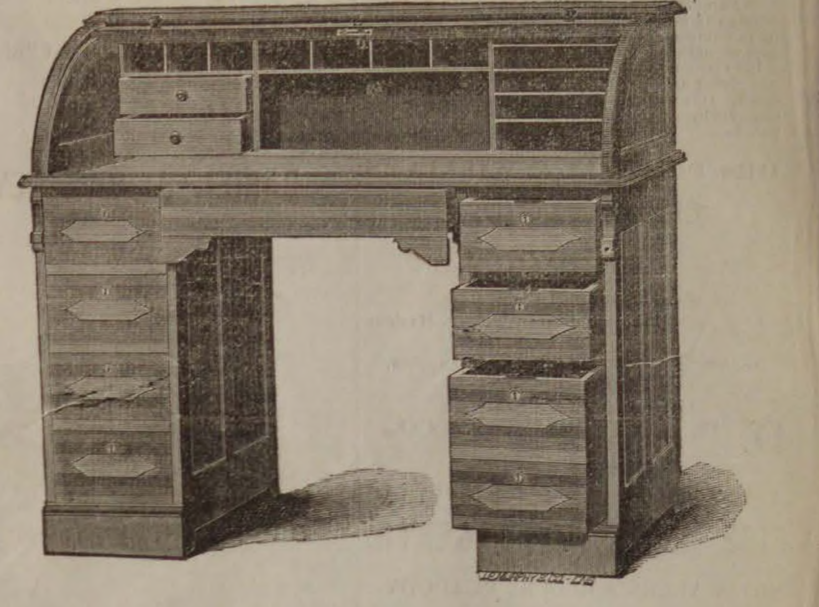
REMARKABLY LOW PRICES.

Employing none but first class journeymen tailors, a perfect fit is guaranteed. Call and examine the goods.

Howley & Brennan,

MAIN STREET,

OVER WARREN TRASK'S STORE.



Roll Top Desks, $30, Cherry or Walnut.

10 New Styles of Chamber Sets.

New Styles in Parlor Suits, Cherry and Mahogony.

W. C. Packard & Co.

281 ESSEX STREET. SALEM.

GO TO

B. F. STEVENS

— FOR —

BANJOS,
ACCORDEONS,
HARMONICAS,

And all kinds of musical goods,

The best Violin and Banjo Strings.

AGENT FOR

E. V. EMILIO.

STRAWBERRIES! STRAWBERRIES!

Next June,

By planting Strawberry Plants in August will secure a crop of fruit the coming season. Any good garden soil, well cultivated, enriched, etc., will answer. We have fine plants and best varieties.

ALL POTTED PLANTS AT LOW MARKET RATES.

Varieties—"Sharpless," "Miner's Prolific," "Chas. Downing," "Bidwell," "Jersey Queen" (P,) "Hervey Davis," etc.

Orders by mail will receive prompt attention. Goods can be sent by express to all points.

TERMS CASH.

Plants, Flowers, etc., to order from

E. & C. WOODMAN

Florist and Garden Supplies,

DANVERS, MASS.

☞ Greenhouses, Holten St., Tapleyville. On line Salem & Danvers and Peabody and Danvers Horse Railroad.

Send for Circular.

PROBATE NOTICE.

Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

ESSEX, ss. PROBATE COURT.

To the widow, Heirs-at-law, Next of Kin, and all other Persons interested in the Estate of DANIEL BUXTON, Junior, late of Peabody, in said county, seedsman, deceased, GREETING:

WHEREAS, a certain instrument purporting to be the last will and testament of said deceased has been presented to said Court for Probate, by James E. Stone, who prays that letters testamentary may be issued to him the executor therein named, and that he may be exempt from giving a surety or sureties on his bond, for the reasons alleged in said petition. You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court to be held at Salem, in said said county of Essex, on the first Monday of October, next, at nine o'clock, before noon, to show cause, if any you have, against the same.

And said James F. Stone is hereby directed to give public notice thereof, by publishing this citation once a week, for three successive weeks, in the newspaper called the Peabody Press, printed at Peabody, the last publication to be two days at least before said Court.

Witness, George F. Choate, Esquire, Judge of said Court, this ninth day of September, in the year one thousand eight hundred and eighty-five.

J. T. MAHONEY, Register.

sept 16—3t

PROBATE NOTICE.

Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

ESSEX ss. PROBATE COURT

To the widow, Heirs-at-law, Next of Kin, and all other Persons interested in the Estate o JAMES H. THOMAS, late of Peabody, i said county, insurance-agent, deceased, GREETING

WHEREAS, a certain instrument purport ing to be the last will and testament of sai deceased has been presented to said Court fo Probate, by Michael Kelly, who prays tha letters testamentary may be issued to hin the executor therein named, and that he ma be exempt from giving a surety or sureties o his bond, for the reasons alleged in said pe tition. You are hereby cited to appear at Probate Court to be held at Salem, in sai county of Essex, on the first Monday of Oc tober, next, at nine o'clock, before noon, t show cause, if any you have, against th same.

And said Michael Kelly is hereby directe to give public notice thereof, by publishin this citation once a week, for three successiv weeks, in the newspaper called the Peabod Press, printed at Peabody, the last publica tion to be two days at least before said Cour Witness, George F. Choate, Esquire, Judg of said Court, this tenth day of Septembe in the year one thousand eight hundred an eighty-five.

J. T. MAHONEY, Register

sept 16—3t

PROBATE NOTICE.

Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

ESSEX, ss. PROBATE COURT.

To the Heirs-at-law, Next of Kin, and all other Persons interested in the Estate of ABIGAIL MEADER, late of Peabody, in said county (wife of Henry Meader), deceased, GREETING:

WHEREAS, a certain instrument purporting to be the last will and testament of said deceased has been presented to said Court for Probate, by Sarah Lizzie Ellsworth, who prays that letters testamentary may be issued to her the executrix therein named, and that she may be exempt from giving a surety or sureties on her bond, for the reasons alleged in said petition. You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court to be held at Salem, in said county of Essex, on the first Monday of October, next, at nine o'clock, before noon, to show cause, if any you have, against the same.

And said Sarah Lizzie Ellsworth is hereby directed to give public notice thereof, by publishing this citation once a week, for three successive weeks, in the newspaper called the Peabody Press, printed at Peabody, the last publication to be two days at least before said Court.

Witness, George F. Choate, Esquire, Judge of said Court, this fifteenth day of September, in the year one thousand eighty hundred and eighty-five.

J. T. MAHONEY, Register.

sept 16—3t

TOWN OF PEABODY.

Town Collector's Notice.

The owners and occupants of the following d scribed parcels of real estate, situated in the tow of Peabody, in the county of Essex, and Commo wealth of Massachusetts, and the public, are her by notified that the taxes thereon assessed for t years hereinafter specified, according to the li committed to me as Collector of Taxes for sa town, by the assessors of taxes, remain unpai and that said parcels of real estate will be offer at public auction for sale, at the office of the C lector at the Town House in said Town of Pe body, on

Wednesday, Oct. 7th, 1885,

At 9 o'clock A. M. for the payment of said ta together with the costs and charges thereon, u less the same shall be previously discharged.

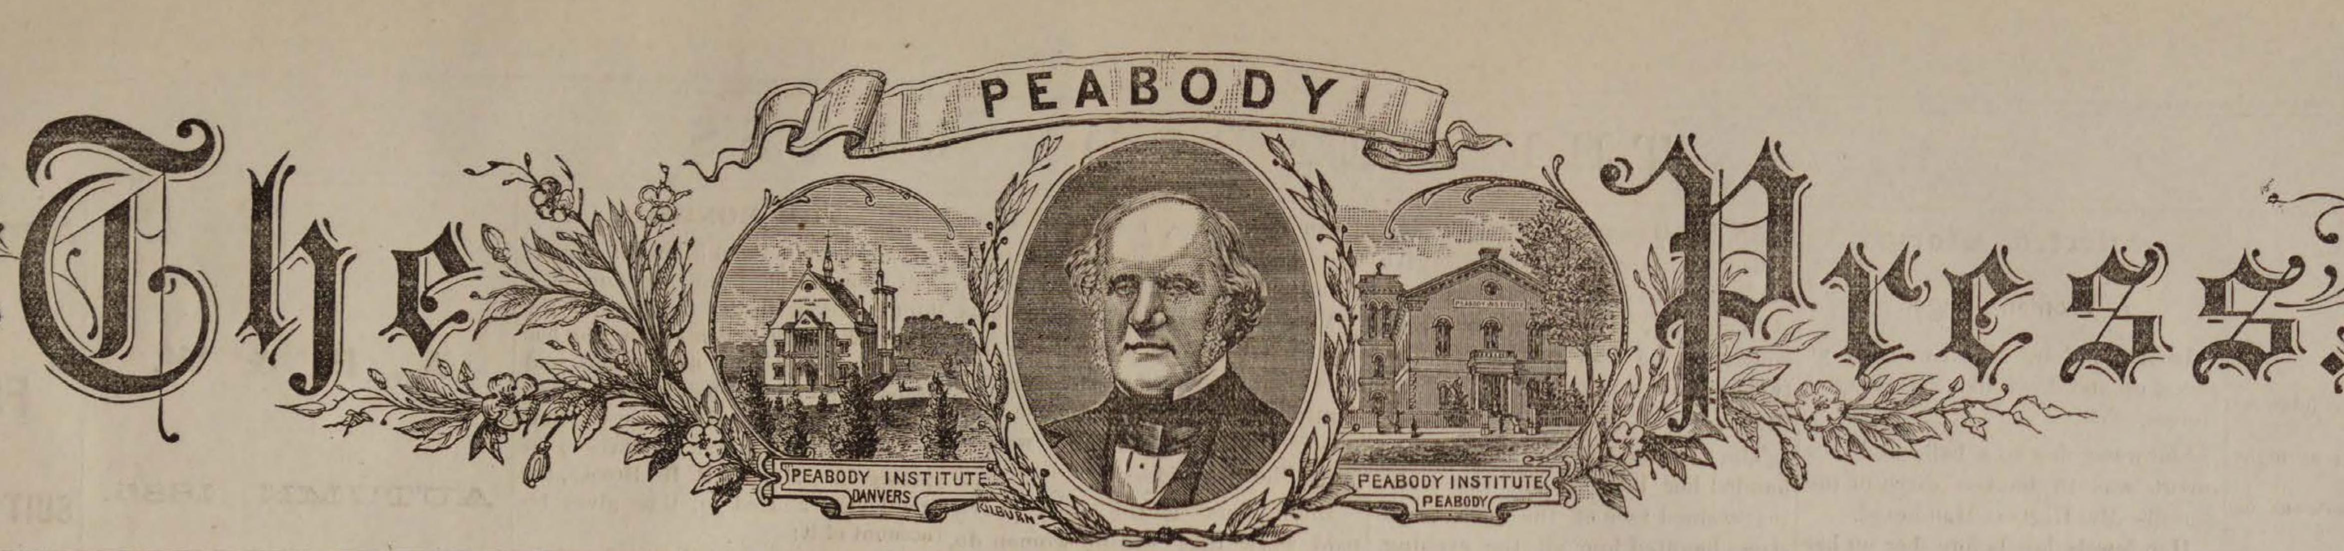
A lot of land bounded northwardly by land Bushby, eastwardly by land of Shaw, southwa ly by land of Margaret Galencia, westwardly b private way leading to Lynn street, containi about 14,500 square feet. Taxed to Heirs of B sey Bowers for 1884, $1.64; for 1885, $1.56.

On Track—Old Eastern Hay,

ONE Car prime Old Eastern Hay.

CHAS. A. ROPES & SON.
41 to 47 Central stree

The PEABODY Press.



VOL. 26. PEABODY, MASS. WEDNESDAY EVENING OCTOBER 7, 1885. 40 NO. ~~41~~ 40

The Big SIX Departments

—— AT ——

WILMOT'S.

The most extraordinary bargains in each of our several departments.

SPECIAL SALES. SPECIAL BARGAINS.

DEPARTMENT 1.

Men's Overcoats, Suits and Pantaloons.

Men's Winter Overcoats,	$2, 2.50, 4.50, 5, 6, 7.50, 8, 9, 10.
Men's Winter Suits	$4.75, 6, 8, 10, 12, 14, 15.
Men's Winter Pantaloons,	99c, $1.50, 2, 2.50, 2.75, 3.

☞ The above are in most cases garments carried over from last season, but as we need all the room possible for our new Fall and Winter stock, we have put special prices on the above.

☞ Come and see our new Fall and Winter Styles in Overcoats. Suits and Pantaloons. THEY WILL PLEASE YOU.

DEPARTMENTS 2 AND 3.

Boys' & Children's Overcoats, Suits & Pantaloons

Boys' Long Pant Suits,	$2.87 1-2, 3.34, 4.50, 5, 6, 8.
Children's Short Pant Suits,	$2, 2 50, 3, 3.50, 4, 4.50, 5.
Children's Short Pants,	50c, 60c, 65c, 75c, $1.

☞ Every garment a great bargain and styles that will please you.

DEPARTMENT 4.

Gents' Furnishing Goods.

——Special Sale of Winter Underwear.——

All our underwear is bought direct from the MANUFACTURERS and we guarantee to undersell all competitors.

Examine the goods and they will speak for themselves.

Men's All Wool Blue Rib Shirts and Drawers, 50c, 75c, $1, 1.25, 1.45.
Men's Merino Shirts and Drawers, (white or colored) 25c, 50. 75c, $1.
Men's Genuine Camels Hair Shirts and Drawers, 95c., regular Price $1.25. All grades at the lowest prices.

DEPARTMENT 5.

HATS AND CAPS.

Men's and Boys' Hats, all the New Styles in prices ranging from 50 Cts. to $2.50.

DEPARTMENT 6.

Ladies' and Gentlemen's Boots and Shoes.

Special inducement in this department.

Ladies' Elegant American Kid, Button Boot,	$1.00
A great variety of other grades and styles at $1, 1.25, 1.50,1.75, 2 to 4.
Men's Imitation Hand Sewed Shoe, Button, Lace or Congress,	$1.75
Hundreds of others at 87 1-2, 99c, $1.20, 1.45, 1.75, 2.00, 2.45 to 5.
Children's School Shoes,	65c
A big assortment of Misses', Boys' and Children's Shoes for 50, 65, 75, 95c., $1, 1.25, 1.50 to 2.50.

WILMOT'S CLOTHING STORE,
252 & 254 ESSEX STREET, SALEM, MASS

J. FRANK BOYNTON, Manager.

LOCAL CONDENSATIONS.

Autumn!

Longer evenings!

Gorgeous October!

Bad news travels fast!

Business is picking up!

Vaccination is "taking!"

Cooler weather is predicted!

Fruit pickers have been busy!

Beautiful days and cool nights!

Is you name on the voting list?

Cranberries are cheap this year!

W. H. Fellows has a new team!

Duck shooting is the next thing!

The excursion season has ended!

Summer engagements are now off!

Open hearth fires are cheerful now!

Fatten your fowls for Thanksgiving!

The Banks are paying the dividends!

Show business in this town is quiet!

The water bills have been sent out!

Samuel Towne is taking a vacation!

Almanacs for 1886 are already with us.

Walnuts will be plentiful this season.

Has Mrs.———got through preserving?

Business is not brisk in the police court.

There is a good demand for tenements.

Cider and cider vinegar will be plenty.

The peanut trade revives with cool weather.

Apples for winter consumption are being gathered.

The horse cars don't run to the Willows now.

Three hours and thirty-two minutes less of day.

Goldsmith Maid, the queen of the turf, is dead.

Shall Representative Brown have his second year?

"Old duffers predict an early winter" says "Our boy."

Politicians are beginning to hold parlor caucuses.

Have you received a letter by the new special delivery?

Ice formed last night. Put up the coal wave flag.

Calvin Pierce is re-building the barn of Alex. B. Clark.

The brilliant foliage of autumn decorates the woodland.

The labors of the town committees will be light this year.

Mr. David T. Winter removed yesterday from Marblehead.

Open horse cars are death on people with a delicate constitution.

The smell of camphor will linger about the thick clothing.

Next Monday is the last day on taxes before interest is charged.

Chestnuts have appeared on the peanut stands this week.

Call at Geo. H. Jacobs' and see the special bargains he is offering.

Rev. Mr. Sperry's furniture was moved to Manchester to-day.

The Sons of Veterans of this state will parade at Salem October 9th.

Slippers for Rubber Boots 15 cents per pair at Nugent's Shoe Store.

The coal trade in general is now better than it has been for a long time.

Jack Frost has not as yet left the imprint of his icy fingers on the flowers.

The supply of liquor kept at the ockup has not been replenished lately.

The New York Sun is sending sample copies to nearly everybody in town.

Good-by ice cream—we are seeing the iceman with his little bill just now.

At Mechanic Hall this evening, Mr. John Howson in "Putting on Style."

Gent's nobby Button Boots, only $2.00 at Nugent's Bargain Shoe Store. *

For a good cigar go to Collins' cigar store. They manufacture their own goods.

An ear of corn was picked at Taylor's at West Peabody that had 1108 kernals.

A lot of children's grain Boots, 7 to 10-1-2 only 75 cents at Nugent's Shoe Store. *

Peabody still holds the honor of being the largest town in old Essex County.

An addition is being built to the Tapleyville morocco shop of H. A. Southwick.

Messrs. Clerk & Lennox have removed their business to Wilmington, Delaware.

Mr. John Osborn was drawn as juror for the Superior Criminal Court at Lawrence.

Charles L. Ball, with a friend from Burlington, Vt., have gone on a fishing trip to Ontario.

"Dick" Warner and "Gus" Littlefield are contemplating a trip to Springvale, Me.

George Stevens put in stock about 20,000 cigars last week. George keeps only the best.

Ladies' Glove, Grain, or Kid Button, only $1.25 at Nugent's Shoe Store. *

Nugent Bros. have a fine line of Ladies and Misses' Skating Boots at lowest prices. *

Mr. Benj. Beckett made a trip to the White Mountains last week, returning yesterday.

The agricultural fairs are about over and in their places come church festivals and concerts.

Rev. Dr. A. A. Robbins, of Muscatine, Iowa, preached at the South Church last Sunday.

Brianza Cigars—the best ten cent cigars in the world,—ten cents straight at George Stevens'. *

Almost everybody reads the PRESS so if you have anything to advertise you know where to call.

Mr. Frank Prescott, at the railroad station, is being congratulated on the arrival of a girl baby last week.

Mrs. Eliza Sutton and Mrs. Annie Clement have returned from their summer sojourn at Centre Harbor.

A new social society of young people of the Methodist Church, has been formed for home missionary work.

The weekly meeting of the W. C. T. U. will commence hereafter at 2.30 instead of 3 o'clock, Friday P. M.

In the civil term of the Superior Court at Salem, the case of Barry vs Cuddire will come up this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Mason are happy over the arrival of a little female suffragist that came to stay Monday.

Daniel B. Lord's men were engaged in shifting the hydrant in Poole's Hollow all day Sunday. Work of necessity.

Miss Teresa R. Hickey, second assistant at George Stevens' store, is spending a short vacation at Waltham.

A new club room is being fitted up in Sutton's block by a number of young men from the Exchange News Room.

James P. King, Esq., of this town, made an after-dinner speech at the Agricultural dinner at Amesbury last week.

Chas. H. Simonds, Esq., was in town this forenoon on a liquor case but the police were all at Court and there was no trial.

Last Sunday was quite summerish. The weather was warm enough to point the moral of the most severe preacher's discourse.

Mr. Charles Allen had a valuable cow badly injured by a barbed wire fence enclosing the pasture where the cow was kept.

The eating house of James Blanchard on Foster street has been closed up, and J. B. Reith has removed the awning.

Mrs. Joseph Larrabee living on County street, caught her heel and fell down stairs yesterday, badly spraining her ankle.

Best line of Five Cent Cigars in town—Nothing like it, Principee. Clark's Best Five, and a dozen others at Geo. Stevens'. *

Officers Peasley, Crowley and Goodwin with Lewis Foan, are before the Grand jury at Lawrence to-day on the Burglary case.

"Tom" Dudley, who formerly worked for Winslow in the clothing business, has bought out a milk route at Danvers.

If you want to know what the storm signals mean, send or call at O. B. Chadwick & Co.'s for a card which explains it all.

Mr. W. M. Ward sent two coops of light Brahmas and one coop of Wyandotte fowls, by Foye's express, to Philadelphia.

Mr. S. S. Littlefield and Charlie Hills are supposed to be gunning for prairie chickens out in distant Kansas just now.

Mr. William Sweeney badly sprained his knee, last Saturday, by stepping on a rolling stone. He gets around by the aid of a cane.

It is said that the late George Peabody made a practice of writing all letters which required to be done personally, after midnight.

The Eastern railroad conductors will not be given a weeks vacation with full pay this year, as was the custom under the old manage ment.

Mrs. Henry W. Moulton and daughters, grandchildren of William H. Harrington, have come on from the West and will reside here.

If any one has a silver dollar they wish to get rid of, bring it to this office and we will give them paper for it.—For six months.

If a pupil gets twelve demerit marks at the Peabody High school he is suspended. As a consequence, several have been suspended.

Mrs. John M. Berry living on Washington street, lost her shopping bag last Thursday. It contained her purse with $14 in it.

When a Massachusetts postmaster gets a letter addressed to somebody, "Kpan," he at once chucks it into the mail bag for Cape Ann.

Mr. Chas. A. Enos employed at T. E. Wilson's machine shop, got a piece of steel in his eye last week, and it was removed by Dr. Coggin.

"There is a pumpkin vine on a West Peabody farm that has produced 218 pumpkins by actual count," says a neighbor who has seen them.

The Rand boys, while full, drove their horse over the fence at Corbett's, on Tremont street, last Saturday. No serious damage was done.

If you can't find an errand boy just drop your letter in the post office with the new delivery stamp on it and it will shortly reach its destination.

Dr. C. C. Pike represented the South Church at Manchester N. H., yesterday. The occasion was the installation of Rev. W. G. Sperry.

The Democratic town committee met to organize last night but decided to adjourn till Friday night. They will meet at Eugene McCarthy's office.

John Brewer, of Salem, formerly of this town, has received a pension of $16 a month. He was a member of Co. D., 1st Mass. Heavy Artillery.

A visiting delegation from this town witnessed the initiation of ten new members to the order of United Workmen at Danvers last Friday evening.

Since Gen. Butler has declared that nine-tenths of the laborers "would sell their vote for $2 a piece," the laborers are freeing their minds about "Old Ben."

Miss Abbie D. Esty resigned as teacher of the Endicott school, last Saturday, to take effect immediately. Mrs. R. H. Wilkinson is supplying the vacancy.

People who patronize papers should purpose to pay promptly, for the pecuniary prospects of the press have a peculiar power to push forward public prosperity.

The season for "the silken cord that binds two willing hearts" is approaching rapidly. There are several on the tapis. Let the willing hearts think about this.

An empty bark car at the tannery of L. & G. H. Poor was thrown across the Lowell track by being struck by a full car. It was quickly cleared by the noon freight.

Bartholomew Kiley, who has one short leg and wears an iron, while coming from the shop in which he is employed at Beverly, recently, fell and broke his hip.

Twelve French Canadians came to town last Friday. They stopped in Salem and the Board of Health found that they had been vaccinated before leaving Canada.

EXTRAORDINARY SALE

—OF—

Winter Overcoats.

565 WINTER OVERCOATS

COMPRISING

MEN'S, YOUTHS', BOYS' AND CHILDREN'S,

Carried over from last season, which we shall sell at

A GREAT SACRIFICE!

We guarantee each and every garment to be clean, perfect goods, just as stylish in cut, make and trimmings as any garments made this season. Our object in offering this great bargain sale of Overcoats so arly in the season is that we need the counter room for our new goods which are now ready to be shipped from our Manufactory.

REMEMBER.

We mean just what we say: 565 Overcoats carried over from last season; all clean, perfect goods to be closed out in the next 15 days at a great Sacrifice. Buyers of Clothing now is your time to secure a Bargain.

We are selling Men's Fine, Heavy Overcoats for $10, 12 and 13.50. Men's Elegant Overcoats for $15, 16 and 18. Men's Heavy, all-wool Overcoats for $5, 6 and 8. Laboring Men's Heavy Overcoats for $2, 3 and 4. Men's Heavy Reefing Jackets, $3, 4, 5, 6 and 8. Boys' Fine, Heavy Overcoats for $6, 7 and 8, ages 12 to 17 years. Boys' Heavy, all-wool Overcoats, ages 12 to 17, for $4.50 and 5.00. B'soy Heavy Overcoats for $2, 3 and 4.00, ages 12 to 17 years. Children's Fine, Heavy Overcoats for $5, 6 and 7, ages 5 to 12 years. Children's all-wool, Heavy Overcoats for $3 and 4, ages 5 to 12 years Children's Heavy Overcoats for $1, 1.50, 2 and 2.50, ages 4 to 12 years.

This is Bargain Sale.—If you think of Buying an Overcoat this Winter, Buy it now, and save 30 to 40 per cent.

Naumkeag Clothing Company,

177 & 179 ESSEX STREET, SALEM.

Z. A. GALLUP, Manager.

All the best brands of B. P. Clark & Co's. cigars are for sale by Geo. Stevens. He is sole agent for this vicinity. Buy them and you will smoke no others. *

Peabody, Mass., people are bragging about a primary school girl in that town who weighs 213 pounds, but who believes the yarn anyweigh?—Chelsea Telegraph.

Mr. Simon P. Buxton of this town will be united in marriage this evening to an estimable young lady of Boston. We extend congratulations and the best wishes of the PRESS.

Several young men have hired the rink for a private skating party for the evening of October 15. The proceeds will be for the benefit of the Edgewood Club of the Baptist church.

Frank, a young son of Levi Hutchinson, fell from a tree while gathering nuts on the Eben Poor farm, last Wednesday, a distance of 25 feet. His skull was badly fractured.

When a newspaper devotes three columns of space in a painful effort to be funny, it is like listening to the stale jokes of a 4th class minstrel show while the public cries "chestnuts."

The members of the Methodist churches of Marblehead, Beverly, Peabody, Danvers and Salem will hold a union love feast in the Wesley M. E. Church this evening.

To-day is Opening Day at the store of Almy, Bigelow & Washburn—in their millinery and cloak and suit department. Our readers will not make a mistake in being on hand.

Business is booming at Dodge's Fish Market, and why not? Dodge is wide awake, and has everything the market affords. It does one good to look at his tempting display of fish.

Mr. Harry Hardy was visited last Thursday evening, at his home on Aborn street, by brothers of Niagara Council O. U. A. M., and presented with an illustrated chart of the order.

The Essex conference of liberal churches will be held with the Unitarian church in Newburyport on Thursday, October 21. Many prominent preachers will participate and it is expected that the sessions will be of much interest. Dinner will be served at City Hall.

The shipments of leather from Peabody and Salem, for the week ending October 3, were 5931 rolls, 935 sides, 265 bundles, 23 barrels, 7 bales, 6 bags of leather, 32 bundles, 9 barrels, 2 rolls of skins.

Mr. Edward B. Lunt, formerly of this town, and for several years superintendent of the National Steam Laundry of Malden, has accepted a similar position at the Salem Laundry, at Salem.

Last Wednesday evening Miss Annie Lane, living on Harris street, was given a surprise party by about thirty of her friends, and during the evening was presented with a gold ring. Refreshments were served.

Miss Katie Dalton, who lives on Endicott street, was given a surprise party by a large number of her friends, last Wednesday, and during the evening was presented with a beautiful pair of gold bracelets.

Mr. Frank C. Ferguson has in his possession a Tower of London Old Flint Lock Musket, which will be carried in the parade to-morrow by Mr. Levi Preston, dressed in the old original uniform of the Cadets.

Mr. David T. Winter informs us that he has been sued for his subscription to the Peabody Reporter and his money has been attached. He further claims he sent a check through the Post Office previous to the suit being brought.

The County Commissioners will give a hearing in the Selectmen's room on Nov. 4, at 9 o'clock, on the petition of F. H. Appleton and others for a new road to be laid out near the residence of Mr. Appleton at West Peabody.

About twenty-five members of Jordan Lodge, F. & A. M., in company with a delegation from Salem and Marblehead, paid a fraternal visit to Amity Lodge, of Danvers, last Thursday evening. They chartered a car on the Danvers road.

The candidates of the National Greenback party are as follows:—Governor, James Sumner of Milton; Lieutenant Governor, James N. Buffum of Lynn; Secretary of the Commonwealth, H. W. Eastman of Lawrence; Treasurer and Receiver General, Walter Harmon of Boston; Auditor, A. H. Wood of Lunenburg; Attorney General, A. F. Hall of Hudson.

The wills of Abigail Meader and James H. Thomas were proven; the latter leaves $500 to each of his three children and $100 each to his father and mother and the balance to his wife.

O. B. Chadwick & Co., insurance agents for Peabody and Danvers, have offered to present a set of weather signal flags to the town of Danvers provided they would furnish a man to operate them. They will probably accept his generous offer.

A number of railroad experts have recently inspected the new car ventilator, in which several of our business and professional men are interested, and express themselves as much pleased with the invention. There is no stock of the company for sale.

There will be a meeting of the Essex Club (Republican) at Young's Hotel, on Saturday, October 10th, at 1.30 P. M. Hon. Albert E. Pillsbury, Hon. J. Q. A. Brackett and Hon. Henry Cabot Lodge will be present and address the Club.

Hal Newton Carlyle will give four recitals at Plummer Hall: Monday, Oct. 12, "An evening with Dickens;" Wednesday evening, Oct. 21, "Macbeth;" Wednesday evening, Oct. 28, "The Lady of Lyons" and Friday evening, Oct. 30, "Hamlet."

At a meeting of the Women's Suffrage Club last Monday, Mrs. Geo. B. Miller was elected secretary in place of Miss Bancroft resigned. A committee was appointed to revise the constitution and by-laws of the club and to attend to the bequest of the late Perley King.

The season is most here when the never ceasing tree agent is at hand He will appear with his beautiful picture book in hand and his charming specimens in glass cans and getting your ear will pour out his entrancing stories by the hour. Beware for he's deceiving thee."

The milliners tell their visitors that the fall bonnets will appear in medium and small sizes and have flat gothic crowns; the crown rising to a point in the center is also favorably regarded, but a modification of the turban, called "Lady Kildare," will probably prove the most acceptable. Hats are smaller and will be more becoming, Early in the season felts are to be much worn.

Poet's Corner.

Voices.

BY J. H. WALWORTH.

Voices! Voices! I kin hear 'em folks so plain!
I kin hear 'em in de mornin', en at night dey comes again.
Driftin' en a-shiftin', like de san's out on de bar;
Sighin' en a-whisp'rin', "Thar's a grave for you somewhar."

Voices! Voices! I kin tell 'em eve'y one,
Doa dey comes a mouty distance, from de lan' beyon' de sun,
Jes't' bring a solim' messidge to de mourner lef' behin',
Jes' to p'int de shinin' paffway to de one dey lef' so blin'.

Voices! Voices! It is Daddy's voice I hear,
We'n de cott'n's ripe fur pick'n an' de co'n is in de ear.
I used t' think de old man hard (he wur a little rough);
But ef I could, I'd have him back. I would dat, quick enough!

Voices! Voices! It is Mammy's comes to me,
Wid de smell uv apple blossoms, en de hummin' uv de bee;
Wid de lôwin' uv de cattle, en de bl'atin' uv de sheep;
For t'was de busy springtime w'en Mammy went to sleep.

Voices! Voices! Dat little sassy Jim!
He was a mouty peert un! I thought a heap en him!
W'en de pickon nuts is drappin', en de 'simmons growin' sweet,
I hear my baby's voice, en his little pat'rin feet.

Voices! Voices! It's his Mammy's now I hear!
(W'en we meet beyon' the river, kin it soun' a bit mo' clear?)
It comes to me uv evenin's w'en de quarter lot is still,
En I hears de owl a hootin' at de mo'ful w'ipperwill.

Voices! Voices! I hears 'em everywhere!
A flittin' through my dreams, a floatin' in de air,
Driftin' en a shiftin', like de san's out on de bar;
Sighin' en a whisp'rin,' "Thars a grave for you somewhar."

New York Independent.

◆

At the Grave of Barbara Heck.

Below the whispering pines she lies,
Safe from the busy world's loud roar;
Above her bend the North's pale skies,
The broad St. Lawrence sweeps before.

A humble woman, pure of heart,
She knew no dream of worldwide fame;
Yet in man's love she hath her part,
And countless thousands bless her name.

She sleeps the changeful years away;
Her couch its holy quiet keeps;
And many a pilgrim, day by day,
Turns thither from the world and weeps.

O plenteous tears of grateful love,
Keep green and fresh her lowly bed!
O minstrel birds that brood above,
Sing sweetly o'er the peaceful dead!

Amid the silent sleepers round
She sleeps, nor heeds Time's wintry gust;
Tread softly, this is hallowed ground,
And mouldering here lies sacred dust.

Roll on, O world, your noisy way!
Go by, O years, with wrong and wreck!
But till the dawn of God's great day
Shall live the name of Barbara Heck.

Christian Advocate.

◆

Fire Hunting.

WILL MEREDITH NICHOLSON.

With dip and glide a light canoe
Crept through the waters of the lake;
So softly. lightly creeping through
That it did not the silence break.

A lantern's penetrating glow
Burned in the dark a path of light,
And far off, on its margin, lo!
A pair of eyes gleamed strangely bright!

The paddling ceased; there fell a hush,
Then came a ringing rifle-shot—
A plunge into the underbrush—
Upon the beach a dark blood-clot!

With dip and glide a light canoe
Crept through the waters of the lake,
So softly, lightly creeping through
That it did not a ripple wake.

—Current.

◆

Two Who Mourn.

D. H. R. GOODALE.

Not with the crowd at early morning
They kneel together there,
The sod with violets adorning,
And storming heaven with prayer.

He sleeps, the early husband-lover,
The father, never known,
The long, sweet sleep of deathless honor,
Low underneath the stone.

Still pale, in her widow's mourning,
A tender woman yet,
Her faithful heart with love is yearning—
It never can forget.

And here she comes, from sorrow's prison,
Her one late joy to bring
His child—her second self arisen,
The very shape of spring!

From the New York Independent

Selected Story.

A Woman's Anger.

In her boudoir, Miss Emma Hoyt paced up and down like an enraged tigress.

She was going to a ball, and her escort was to be the catch of the season—Mr. Herbert Hammond.

Her jewels lay before her on her dressing-table. Her toilet was finished, save for the beautiful basque which was to complete it. This had been sent to a young embroideress to cover with a dainty pattern of leaves and blossoms, and it was not yet brought home.

One could have excused a good deal of temper on such an occasion, but Miss Emma was in a rage of the most tremendous description.

She threatened to commit suicide, to slap anyone who spoke to her, to break the windows.

But for the fact of the close proximity of neighbors, Miss Emma would have vented her feelings in a series of shrieks.

I don't believe it will ever come! she wailed. I never was so disappointed—never! And there's that horrid Miss Green going in a Paris dress, and she'll dance with Herbert. If she can catch him, she will do it to-night. And poor me left to die an old maid, and go and live in the country with Aunt Billings, perhaps! For, you know, we are living up to our income, and pa is sure to fail, or something. Oh, that jacket! My whole future depends on it!

Couldn't you wear your pale-blue? It's pretty, said her mother. After all, you've only had it on once.

I'd die first! cried Miss Emma.

But at this moment the girl who opened the door ran in with a parcel.

The basque, miss, she said.

And Emma seized the package eagerly, and, shaking out the exquisite mass of embroidery, slipped her arms into the sleeves and began to button it about her waist.

There! she said, all aglow with tickled vanity. Isn't it becoming? And, after all, Herbert isn't here yet. There's the carriage now.

Please, miss, said the girl Jessie, the young woman said that she would like a little money to-night. She said excuse her, but she really is in need. She looks so poor, and coughs dreadfully, said the girl, looking at Mrs. Hoyt.

Well, Emma dear, you've got the money, I know, said Mrs. Hoyt.

Yes, I have, said the young lady, and I'd have paid her if she hadn't served me so; but I shan't now, just to punish her. I shall keep it, and pay her just when I like. Tell her so.

Oh, miss, cried the girl, excuse me for speaking, but she said she hadn't had anything to eat to-day. She couldn't work fast because she fainted twice, and she couldn't get here for weakness. Oh, miss.

Leave the room! said Emma; and mother, hold your tongue! Just give the girl my message.

Jessie, who had a temper, too, ran down stairs, and told the shivering woman at the door exactly what had been said in a loud tone of voice, and in Mr. Herbert Hammond's presence.

The poor seamstress trembled, and tried to keep her tears.

Can she not let me have a little? she pleaded. I need it for food.

I told her so, said the girl; but she didn't care. You'd better come back after a while when missis is alone. The old lady is a deal kinder than miss, but she's afraid of her. She'll pay you something, anyway, if miss isn't there to overrule her. She wanted miss to pay you now, but she's angry at having waited.

Herbert Hammond, waiting near the parlor door, heard every word. He saw the fair face grow paler, and was moved with indignation.

As the door closed and the servant retreated, he stepped out into the hall. It was his intention to offer the girl some little gift of money. Her want was so apparent that he felt it his duty; but before he had contrived to discover the secret of the lock—which was one of those patent affairs apparently invented to keep people from getting out of a house—the girl had vanished.

He looked up and down the street, and even stepped out into the snow, but could see no one; and a voice, modulated to the most amiable society tone, sounded behind him.

Ah, Mr. Hammond, I am keeping you very late. You will forgive me. It was a workwoman's fault.

Benignant, smiling, graceful, no contemptuous curl on his lip, no trace of a frown upon the pencilled brow.

The carriage was at the door; he handed her into it; but the white tear-stained face of the poor seamstress haunted him all the evening, even while he waltzed with the beautiful Emma, or sat by her side at the flower-decked table, envied by many of the men for being the favored escort of the most beautiful woman present.

Long before, a little girl, a child in a white slip, used to look at him with just such eyes when childish troubles made them overflow. Rosetta, he said to himself, over and over again. Why should that poor girl remind me of little Rosetta?

At an early hour they drove home. Emma valued that drive more than she did the ball. It gave Herbert the most favorable opportunity for a proposition.

However he did not make it. He certainly paid the conventional compliments, but there was only lip service in them, had Emma but known it.

Her maid's vivid description of her mistress haunted him. Certainly it might have been an unfair one. The girl might be dismissed for some fault, and Miss Emma might simply be ignorant of the need of the embroideress, and provoked, as he had been by his tailor's neglect at times. It might be merely carelessness.

Still he was not in the mood to put his life's happiness into this girl's hand.

When the carriage drew up before her home, he stepped out and took her gloved hand with no flutter of the heart; but in a minute more he felt it throb violently beneath his vest.

An awful pity—a great horror thrilled him through and through.

Upon the steps—a black object, scarcely discernible in the faint moonlight save for the pallid face and hands—lay the figure of a woman.

He knew before he bent over her that she was the seamstress who had been turned from the door.

She had returned, as Jessie advised, and fainted or fallen there.

Emma, with a scream, had flown up the steps and rung the door-bell violently.

The door was opened; the light from the hall flashed over Herbert's troubled face as he lifted the little figure in his arms, and without a word of explanation or apology, bore it into the house, and laid it softly on a cushioned sofa near the glowing fire.

Call a messenger boy, he said to the servant.

He was obeyed at once. The boy came. Herbert wrote a word or two on his card and gave it to him.

I have sent him for a physician, he said. I shall wait here till he comes. Meanwhile a little wine and a biscuit. I think this is a case of starvation.

Oh, dear, dear! cried the girl who had brought what he had asked for on a little tray. Why, it is the young woman that did the embroidery. My heart bleeds now I didn't ask her to come into the kitchen and have a bite. It's what I ought to have done when she was sent off without being paid. It's a shame the way the rich serve the poor.

Miss Emma heard and winced. She made some soft remark about being in ignorance of the young person's situation, but it is doubtful if Herbert heard her.

He was trying to make the poor girl swallow a little wine, while the maid rubbed her cold hands and shed tears of real pity over her.

At last the effort was successful. A little life had already returned to the poor creature, when the doctor arrived.

By this time Mrs. Hoyt had descended, and after looking at the girl, he addressed her.

Madame, he said, I can send for an ambulance; but if you are charitable enough to give shelter to this poor girl for the night, I can feel more certain of saving her life. She should be put to bed at once.

And there's my bed, and I'll sit up with her, cried Jessie; poor dear, I am glad to do it!

I'm quite sure, said Mrs. Hoyt, that I shall be quite willing to do all that I can.

You see it is on our conscience, said Miss Emma, making the best of a bad situation. She was evidently coming to our house for a small amount of money we owe her. She embroiders.

Embroidery is the most poorly paid work that sewing women do, said the doctor. I wonder if this poor girl has any friends who are anxious about her. Does any one know that, or her name?

I do, said Jessie. She hasn't a soul. She hires a bedroom with no fireplace in it, and it's quite across town, and her name is Miss Rosetta Hall, and she's a lady born and bred. That's all the worse for her now.

Rosetta Hall! cried Herbert. Doctor, I thought I knew the face; Mr. Hall was my best friend in youth. To him I owe much. I used to know this lady well when she was a little child and I a young collegian. Poor girl! how has she come to this?

Ah, said the doctor, were you in my position you would know the poverty which parades itself in beggary is light compared to that suffered by people who would rather die than beg; merchants who have failed; professional men who have broken down; people once prosperous and surrounded by friends, who lurk in garrets and cellars, and sometimes starve there.

That night the poor girl lay half unconscious in Jessie's bed. The next day a room was put at her disposal.

Emma was not displeased. It gave her an opportunity of posing in the presence of Herbert, who called every day, as a tender, sympathetic soul, full of benevolence and charity, a very handsome Florence Nightingale, in blue cashmere morning robe, with flowers in her hands for the sick room.

It is an excuse to call on me, she thought. That little pinched creature can't attract him, though his talk about his gratitude to her father is so constant, I wonder what he will do when she gets well, and proves to be that troublesome person, a young lady who needs employment.

Oh, if Emma could have but known, there would have been no more posing at the bedside, no more flowers, no more cooling drinks, offered with winning grace—certainly no more smiles for Herbert Hammond.

But some suspicion of the truth entered her mind when she saw the convalescent, a pale brunette, with great melting dark eyes, give her hand to the warm clasp of the big blonde-haired florid Herbert Hammond.

* * * * *

A wedding in the church! And who is it to be married? asks old Mrs. Mill, who takes a great interest in weddings.

It's quite romantic, Mrs. Mill, replies the minister,s wife. It is a Miss Rosetta Hall who is the bride, and Mr. Herbert Hammond who is the bridegroom. We all thought he was going to marry that handsome Miss Hoyt, but it seems that Miss Hall was a little sweetheart of his as a child, and her father's death had left her penniless.

Mr. Hammond had searched for her for years, for her father started him in business and was the cause of his making a fortune; and he always loved little Rosetta, but he never would have found her if she had not fainted on the Hoyt steps one night. Jessie says she had told Miss Emma she needed food, but she had been sent away without pay. Jessie has lived with me, and talks a good deal about the Hoyts, if I will let her; but at all events, there Rosetta lay, and Mr. Hammond saved her life; and this is the pretty end of the story.

◆

A HEN CONVENTION.—Mr. J. M. McCann, of Bridgeport, W. Va., a contributor to poultry journals of the United States and Canada, and a large chicken raiser, says from experience that if St. Jacobs Oil is mixed with dough and fed to poultry suffering from chicken cholera, all that are able to swallow will be restored to health, and if saturated pills are forced down the throats of those that cannot swallow they will flap their wings and crow in your face.

THE MONITOR.

The account given below of the result that attended the adoption of a hint conveyed to the Secretary of the Navy, Wells, by a gentleman who had carefully perused the descriptions and plans followed in building the first Monitor gunboat, published at the time in the Boston Journal, deserves to be preserved. Mr. W. P. B. Brooks, the gentleman alluded to, thus gives his account of it:

"I was a very attentive reader of the newspapers in those days, particularly of matters relating to our forces on land and sea. While the monitor was being built, descriptions in detail were published in the papers of the peculiar model of the craft, of the machinery, the ordnance she was to carry, and the position and thickness of her armor. It struck me that the plating, downward from a point about four and a-half feet below her water line, was insufficient; for I reasoned that, although the guns on board the enemy's ship could not be depressed so as to hurl a missile against the lightly plated part of the monitor's hull, still it was in his power to attach to the prow of the Merrimack, at a point low enough down, something in the nature of a battering-ram, and thus, swordfish-like, be able to pierce the bottom of the Yankee cheese-box."

"I, through the promptings of patriotism, wrote to the Secretary of the Navy, stating my views and opinions, and, in a few days afterwards, the monitor was ordered around to the Washington navy yard, and there altered to conform with my suggestions."

"Subsequently I learned from a naval officer, visiting at the house of my son-in-law, Rev. Mr. Allen, in Neponset, that the Richmond authorities had ordered the Merrimack to be put into the condition I had foreseen, and that the alterations were begun and were only abandoned when it was discovered that the monitor was being put into shape to successfully resist the battering-ram mode of assault."

"It is only fair for me to say that I might not have moved at all in the matter, on account of the reluctance I naturally had as a landsman to interfering in naval matters, had not an acquaintance of mine, who worked upon the vessel when she was building in East Boston, coincided in my views and urged me to take the course I did."

◆

TELEGRAM AND LETTER.—A telegram should be followed with a letter, unless communication has been well established by wire. Letters are distributed by grown men, expert in their business to a degree that astonishes any one who contemplates the triumph of their art. But telegrams are delivered by sleepy and stupid little boys, who dream mostly of little boys in books who went in swimming and never carried telegrams. One of these little boys, in a great city, will be given a dozen dispatches involving a half day's travel. The first party is not at the place addressed. The boy so marks the envelope and proceeds on his way.

At the end of many hours return she to the main office and reports that he failed to find his man. No one ever heard of any further action by the telegraph company, other than in rare cases a dispatch to the sender, some time the next day, to the effect that "Yr msg to J. Smithfield not did.' A letter to any fairly-known resident of any city will reach him if no malicious person intervene to divert it to the dead letter office. But a telegram to any private citizen, addressed at his place of business, is by no means a trustworthy method of transmission, and the percentage of such communications which "go astray" is enormous.—The Current.

◆

The most striking feature of the Magazine of American History for October is General Grant's autograph letter in facsimile, covering six pages. It was written in 1883, on the death of Alexander H. Stephens, and is now published for the first time. General Egbert L. Viele writes the opening article of this number of the magazine—a brilliant and forcible description of the famous "Port Royal Expedition, 1861—the First Union Victory of the Civil War," in which he was an active participant. Theo. R. Davis furnishes full-page illustrations. "The Fallacy of 1787" is a clever and suggestive paper on certain features of the Constitution, by A. W. Clason. "The Homes of the Oneidas," by Rev. W. M. Beauchamp; and "A Glastonbury Medal," by H. W. Richardson, are both papers of exceptional interest to the antiquarian. The shorter articles: "An Adventurous Escape from Prison Life," by Gen. J. Madison Drake; "A Revolutionary Relic," by Clark Jillson; and "A Critical Notice," by Henry H. Hurlburt. Subscription price, $5.00 a year in advance. Published at 30 Lafayette Place, New York City.

◆

Hall's Hair Renewer turns gray hair dark, removes dandruff, cures scalp humors; an elegant toilet article.

The rear guard of watermelons is retiring slowly, and soon will be all gone.

Pure blood is absolutely necessary in order to enjoy perfect health. Hood's Sarsaparilla purifies the blood and strengthens the system.

A., B. & W.

AUTUMN, 1885.

FALL OPENING.

CUSTOM MILLINERY
DEPARTMENT.
On Second Floor,
TUESDAY AND WEDNESDAY,
OCTOBER 6 & 7.

Trimmed Bonnets,
Round Hats,
— AND —
NOVELTIES.
— ALSO —
MILLINERY
GOODS
Of Every Description.

Take the Elevator, or our Elegant New Stairway.

ALMY, BIGELOW
& WASHBURN.

THE Mason & Hamlin Co.
Now have ready a new style
Upright Pianoforte,
No. 5,
Which is offered at the very moderate price, $300.

IMPROVEMENTS IN UPRIGHT PIANOS.

Improvements in the construction of upright pianos have been invented and introduced by the Mason & Hamlin Co., of Boston, New York, and Chicago, which add materially to the value of these instruments, rendering them capable of tones of extraordinary purity and beauty, and much increasing their durability; overcoming in large degree the tendency to fall from the pitch and get out of tune, which has been the most serious practical difficulty in the pianoforte.—Scientific American.

100 STYLES ORGANS, $22. to $900, for Cash, Easy Payments, or Rented.

THE MASON & HAMLIN CO.,
154 Tremont Street, Boston.
sept 23--6t

COMER'S
COMMERCIAL
COLLEGE,
666 Washington Street, BOSTON.
Thorough and Comprehensive Instruction in all Studies Essential to Success in Business.
Students may commence at any time, Receive Individual Instruction and progress according to ability and application. Separate department for Ladies. ☞Graduates Aided to Employment. Young people receive instruction here that will insure a successful start in business, and that will benefit them throughout their business career. For 45th Annual Catalogue, Address C. E. COMER.
jy 15—13t

POLO.

This popular game adapted for home amusement to play on the table.
PRICE $1.00.
For sale by all dealers. Manufactured by
HORACE A. BROOKS,
BOOK BINDER AND BLANK BOOK MANUFACTURER.
226 Essex Street, Salem, Mass.

AMERICAN RUDGE.
The only first-class wheel listed at a low price, fitted with all the latest improvements.
Price, 50 in., Enamel and Nickel, $107.50.
Call and Examine or send for Catalogue.
STODDARD, LOVERING & CO.,
152 Congress St., Boston.

Almy, Bigelow
& Washburn.

FALL OPENING.

SUIT & GARMENT DEPARTMENT.

We take this opportunity to inform our patrons and friends in Salem and Essex County, that we are prepared to show on TUESDAY AND WEDNESDAY,
Oct. 6 & 7,
Our full line of Ladies' and Misses'
Suits and Carments
contisting of
LADIES' NEWMARKETS,
In Boucle, Beaver and Twill
Trimmed and Untrimmed
SHORT WRAPS,
All Grades.
WALKING JACKETS,
In Cloth and Jerseys.
PLUSH SACQUES.

We would call particular attention to our Misses' and Children's Department, which far surpasses anything we have ever offered heretofore.

Our stock of Outside Carments
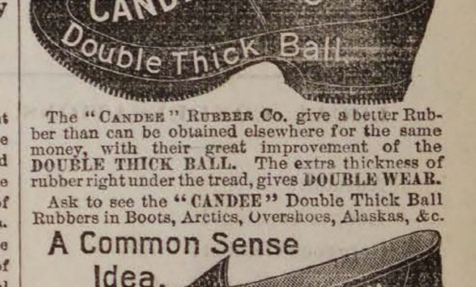
Is more extensive than ever. We have taken great pains to select garments of good material, excellent workmanship, and Custom Tailor fits. All of our best things are private to us in Salem.

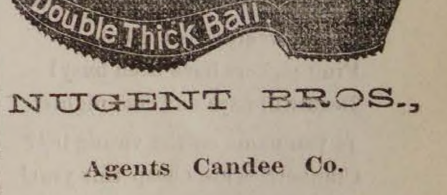
ALMY, BICELOW
& WASHBURN.

"CANDEE" ARCTICS
—WITH—
DOUBLE THICK BALL.



Two Years TEST.
"CANDEE"
Double Wear on the Sole.
Double Thick Ball

The "CANDEE" RUBBER Co. give a better Rubber than can be obtained elsewhere for the same money, with their great improvement of the DOUBLE THICK BALL. The extra thickness of rubber right under the tread, gives DOUBLE WEAR.
Ask to see the "CANDEE" Double Thick Ball Rubbers in Boots, Arctics, Overshoes, Alaskas, &c.



NUGENT BROS.,
Agents Candee Co.
PEABODY, MASS.

ALLAN LINE
ROYAL MAIL STEAMSHIPS
Sailing from Quebec every Saturday for Liverpool.
SHORTEST OCEAN VOYAGE
Only five days from land to land.
Extra services from GLASGOW, GALWAY, QUEENSTOWN and LONDONDERRY to Boston direct for the convenience of Steerage passengers, to whom kind treatment is made a Specialty. Cabin, $70 and $80. Intermediate, $40. Steerage at Low Rates.
LEVE & ALDEN, Gen'l Pass. Agts.
15 State Street, Boston.
JOHN LINEHAN, Agt. for Peabody.

HOOSAC TUNNEL
EXCURSIONS.
Wednesday and Saturday, Oct. 7th and 10th, 1885.
Fare for the round trip $2.00. For full particulars enquire of Fitchburg Railroad, Causeway Street, or 250 Washington Street, Boston.

TWICE A DAY

HATHAWAY'S ORIGINAL

—CREAM HOME MADE BREAD—

Hot Morning and Afternoon. Best of goods in our line comprising

Crackers, Bread, Cake and Pastry,

Also rich Bride, Angel and Wedding Cake to order. Fine ornamental work for Wedding, Birthday and Party Cake a specialty.

C. F. Hathaway,

50 LOWELL ST., PEABODY.

GRAND ARRIVAL.

2 CAR LOADS OF

NEW HUB &

Glenwood Ranges.

1 CAR LOAD OF

PARLOR STOVES

To be sold on our Instalment Plan.

$1 Down and $1 a Week.

We make our own Parlor Stoves and use nothing but the best of Russia iron. We know what we are selling and can show you what you are buying, We have all the leading Ranges and Parlor Stoves in the market from the lowest to the highest prices.

Send for Catalogue and Price List.

Old Stoves taken in exchange.

We have the largest stock of

FURNITURE, CARPETS, CROCKERY, BEDDING, SILVER AND WOODEN WARE

To be found in Essex County, in fact everything needed to furnish a house either on a small or large scale. All goods delivered free. Discounts to any wishing to pay cash.

We should be pleased to see you or refer you to responsible parties in your town with whom we have and are still doing business; shall be pleased to send our agent and collector to explain our system of doing our business on the credit system. It will cost you nothing to examine our stock and you will always find one of the firm in attendance, from whom you can get prices and terms on any amount of goods you may wish to buy. We know we can save you money and can refer you to parties who after looking at goods and getting prices in Salem, Lynn, Boston and other places, have returned to us and selected their goods.

D. B. H. POWER & CO.,

123 & 125 PLEASANT ST. 24 SCHOOL ST.,

MARBLEHEAD

Our Competitors Keep Their Backs Up.

Because Our Prices are so Low,

Our Stock is so Large and

Our Patronage So Great.

WE ARE NOT TO BLAME

If an undeviating adherence to Low Prices, Fine Goods and Polite Treatment have won for us the largest trade of any retail boot and shoe store in Essex county, we shall continue to offer the same genuine inducements that have won for us the victory.

TRY THE MATCHLESS BOOT.

PRE-EMINENTLY THE BEST $2 BOOT IN THE MARKET.

Superb in style, elegant in fit and exquistte in design, they are marvels of grace and beauty and it is now within the means of every lady in Peabody to wear a most attractive boot at the

MARVELOUSLY LOW PRICE OF $2.

All horse cars from Peabody pass our Market street store and by transfer our West Lynn store, and any lady can, by trading with us, save on one pair of boots more than enough to pay for one of the most delightful rides imaginable.

WELLMAN OSBORN,

84 MARKET ST., 23 MARKET SQUARE,

LYNN, MASS.

STREET
GOSSIP
GLEANED
NOTES
Mulcahy

I heard the other day that one of our prominent business men who has had one year in the Legislature, received a letter from a certain party, who has been snubbed in politics by all parties, offering to secure for him the united support of certain labor organizations for a consideration. By what authority he pretends to represent the working men of this town is not known, but one thing is certain that whoever takes stock in his pretentions will find they are sadly left when the vote is counted.

Some people have their neighbors' business down to an extremely fine point. I am led to this facetious comment because a certain party takes everything bad that is said of any one in this column to himself, and says "that means me" and straightway goes to prattling about it. A guilty conscience needs no accuser.

I always knew that the Peabody youth was noted for his enterprise and I might say—cheek, but I was hardly prepared for the "gall" displayed by one of them and told me by a leading merchant of Salem the other day. The house in question advertised a special line of nobby gent's suits at a figure among the twenties. A few days after the proprietor received a letter from this fresh youth offering to accept a suit of those clothes if they would be given him. On his part he would agree to wear them and when asked would say that he bought them of such and such a house and advise his friends to patronize them. It is needless to say that he didn't get them.

There is a man in the vicinity of Main street who keeps a store, but as he was not brought up to the business, the boys thought they would teach him a few points by giving him a little experience and at the same time have a little fun. No. 1 went in and looking over his stock and not seeing one called for a revolving fly trap; he was politely informed that there was no demand and none were kept. A short time after No. 2 walked in and wanted a revolving fly trap. The storekeeper was very sorry but he would lay in a stock. An hour later No. 3 rushed in and said he wanted a revolving fly trap. The store keeper was astonished at the demand for an article he didn't keep, and informed No. 3 that he had had several calls for them that day and if he would leave his address he would deliver him one. No. 4 and 5 went in and asked for a revolving fly trap, and by this time the store keeper was all worked up on the subject of fly traps, and calling in a friend to tend store for him, he rushed to Salem determined to secure the agency right off. He was informed that the season was pretty well advanced and most of the stock had been put away for next season, but there was one or two left out which he could have. Securing his prize he started for home, and for several days a revolving fly trap has been seen in the show window, but the storekeeper says the supply is larger than the demand.

A police officer has a queer experience and meets all kinds of people, as will be shown by a little experience I heard the chief relating the other day. In the course of his perambulations in search of unlicensed canines, he came across one that was six or seven months old. Calling at the house he asked how old that dog was and the woman said "only three months." The officer continued to question her and found that she got the dog from her daughter, and visiting that worthy person he asked how old the dog was and was again informed that it was "only three months." After a little more questioning she said the dog was only six weeks old when they came around to see if they had a dog. "That was last May," said the Chief, "didn't you know that would make the dog six months old?" "I didn't mean that dog—I meant my dog, the mother of that one," came the quick response. That must have been a very prolific dog that was only three months older than her pup.

At a Sunday School concert the other evening one of the little ones who recited a verse for the first time, got up and said, And God gave his only "forgotten" son, etc. She had never learned the word "begotten."

◆

For Colds, Croup, Asthma, Bronchitis and Sore Throat, use Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, and get the genuine.

The fall flowers flourish!

Ayer's Sarsaparilla, sending pure blood to the brain, gives a sound mind in a sound body.

THE DRAMA.

"Shadows of a Great City," one of the most successful melo-dramas presented here last season, will be seen at the Boston Theatre this week. It is an interesting play, exciting and humorous by turns, and is magnificently staged. The moving scene representing the escape from Sing Sing of the two prisoners with the little child, and the scene at Hell Gate where the whole party goes overboard, is one of the best things of the kind ever seen here. The double set in which the last scenes of the play are acted is wonderfully exciting and ingenious. Miss Annie Ward Tiffany will repeat her capital portrayal of the good hearted Irish woman, Biddy Ronan.

The historical extravaganza "The Field of the Cloth of Gold," a burlesque founded on the famous mating of King Henry VIII. of England and Francis I. of France, will fill the bill at the Bijou this week. This piece achieved considerable popularity fifteen years or more ago, when Kittie Blanchard and Stuart Robson were in the stock company at Selwyn's. It was then played as an after piece, and has of course been revamped to suit the spirit of the times.

"May Blossom," one of the most pronounced of the Madison Square successes, will be given this week at the Park, at which house it enjoyed a highly prosperous two week's engagement last season. The company is this season under the sole management of Mr. Daniel Frohman, who for five years managed the Madison Square Theatre, and was responsible for all the principal triumphs of that house. Entire new scenery from the original models has been prepared, and the drama given with all the elaborate detail, in regard to stage setting and acting, which was noticeable on its initial production in Boston. The principal parts are assumed by Miss Georgia Cayvan, Ben Maginley, and Forrest Robinson, who replaces Joe Wheelock, this being the only important change in the cast. Ben Maginley begins this season his thirtieth year upon the stage.

This is the first of two weeks of Standard Comedy at the Boston Museum with Mr John Gilbert. "Old Heads and Young Hearts," with Gilbert as Jesse Rural, is announced for Wednesday and Thursday evenings, "Wives as They Were and Maids as They Are," which has not been seen here for eleven seasons, is the play Friday night, as well as Saturday afternoon and evening.

The Hollis Street Theatre will be ready October 26, when it will open with "The Mikado," arrangements to that effect having been completed by Mr. Rich with John Stetson. The chorus to appear in the Boston performance is now being rehearsed at the Fifth Avenue, New York, by Sir Arthur Sullivan himself, and costumes have been ordered from London. The names of the principals are not yet announced. Possibly several now in the New York cast may come over to Boston, and several have been cabled from the Savoy Theatre, London. The theatre is rapidly approaching completion, and its opening will be a very brilliant affair.

The second and last week of John Gilbert's engagement at the Boston Museum will be marked by the production of "The Road to Ruin," "Grandfather Whitehead" and "Simpson & Co."

Maggie Mitchell comes to the Park stage next week with an unusually attractive repertory. She plays the present week in Bridgeport, Meriden, Worcester (two nights), Holyoke and Springfield.

William Redmund and Mrs. Thomas Barry, in "Ruy Blas," on Thursday night, at the Providence Opera House, made the hit of the week.

◆

The telephone monopoly is meeting with a set-back in Indiana where the people are determined to enforce a recent act of the legislature forbidding any telephone company to charge more than $36 per year for the use of a telephone. A number of suits have been brought in Evansville against the local company, and it is thought that the result will be a strong pressure upon the American Bell Co., for a reduction in the rental of instruments.—Milford Gazette.

◆

THE VOICE OF THE PEOPLE.—The people, as a whole, seldom make mistakes, and the unanimous voice of praise which comes from those who have used Hood's Sarsaparilla fully justifies the claims of the proprietors of this great medicine. Indeed, these very claims are based entirely on what the people say Hood's Sarsaparilla has done for them. Read the abundant evidence of its curative powers and give it a fair, honest trial. (c.)

◆

We have received from the Post Office Department a list of post offices at which letters may be specially delivered under the immediate delivery system. A similar list has been posted in the post office.

The Water Lily.

ALICE FREEZE DURGIN.

Fairest of the fair,
  Floating light as air,
  Dancing on each wave,
  As sportingly they lave,
  With the limpid waters cold,
Thy robes of snow and gold.

Sweetest of the sweet,
Breathing perfumes meet
  For the mermaids of the deep;
Who with airy fingers grasping
All thy rootlets closely clasping,
  Quaff thy nectar and, dreamless, sleep.

Purest of the pure,
  With face and fragrant whiteness
In close white petals held secure;
  When night with downy lightness
Kisses the waves, and silence creeps
Over thy head in the river deeps!

◆

The name of Oliver Warner will always recall pleasant memories of youthful days and Thanksgiving joys to thousands of Massachusetts men and women now in their prime. To the youthful mind he always seemed a part of the day, its inspirer and patron saint. Governors might come and go; but the words, "Oliver Warner, secretary, God save the Commonwealth of Massachusetts," were an inseparable part of the joyfully anticipated proclamation as it was read from the pulpit the Sunday before the eventful day; and even now the formidable looking document must lack something to the father and mother who listen to its cheery invitation. Mr. Warner was, moreover, a good man; he was not great, but he was kind, and gentle and lovable; and he lived a genuinely useful life.—Providence Journal.

◆

The County Treasurer's report for the year from Oct. 1, 1884, to Sept. 30, 1885, shows that the balance at the beginning of the year was $74,885.68; the receipts for the year, $483,436.71, the gross receipts being $558,322.39. The total payments for the year amounted to $508,124.73 and the cash balance is $50,197.66. Of the existing county debt it is hoped to pay $136,000 by the close of the year. Of this, $100,000 is for temporary loan and $36,000 is in some thirty-five notes of $500 and upward. Some of them have been running for years.

◆

We learn that the Law and Order League throughout the State is circulating petitions to the next legislature asking for a law authorizing the Governor and Council to appoint a solicitor-general for the State as provided for in the constitution, and one or more assistant solicitor-generals for each judicial district, as may be required, to hold office during good behavior, and to transfer to such solicitors all the powers and duties in respect to criminal prosecutions now exercised by the attorney-general, and the several district attorneys of the State.

◆

Peck's Sun, published at Milwaukee, Wisconsin, is the most humorous paper in America to-day. Geo. W. Peck, its editor and proprietor, stands without an equal as a humorist. He believes in making people happy, and no one can be otherwise who reads his most excellent paper. Our readers are invited to read the prospectus of Peck's Sun in another column. Sample copies mailed free to any address.

◆

Considering the innumerable caravan of murderers that is constantly passing on to heaven from the gallows, one should not hope for a very select assembly in the land of the blest. It sounds odd, but it does seem just possible that one may never get into bad company until he gets to heaven.—Boston Transcript.

It is prepared from Sarsaparilla, Yellow Dock, Cherry Bark, Pipsissewa, Mandrake, Dandelion, and other well-known vegetable remedies. The combination, proportion, and preparation are peculiar to Hood's Sarsaparilla, and effect the most remarkable cures where other medicines fail.

It cures Scrofula, Salt Rheum, Boils, Pimples, Humors, Dyspepsia, Biliousness, Sick Headache, Indigestion, General Debility, Catarrh, Rheumatism, Kidney and Liver Complaints, dispels that tired feeling, creates an appetite, and builds up the whole system. The won by Hood's Sarsaparilla is unequalled in the history of medicines. Such is its popularity in Lowell, Mass., where it is made, that whole neighborhoods are taking it at the same time. This success is extending all over the country.

"GOOD NAME AT HOME"

Hood's Sarsaparilla is the only medicine of which can truly be said, "100 Doses One Dollar," which is an unanswerable argument as to strength and economy. Other preparations will average to last not over a week, while a bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla contains 100 doses and will last a month. Hence, for economy as well as for health and strength, buy Hood's Sarsaparilla. Send for a book containing statements of many remarkable cures.

Hood's Sarsaparilla is sold by all druggists. Prepared by C. I. HOOD & CO., Apothecaries, Lowell, Mass. Price $1; six for $5.

ROYAL

FULL WEIGHT
ROYAL BAKING POWDER
ABSOLUTELY PURE
TRADE MARK
ROYAL
BAKING POWDER

BAKING POWDER

Absolutely Pure.

This powder never varies. A marvel of purity, strength and wholesomeness. More economical than the ordinary kinds, and cannot be sold in competition with the multitude of low test, short weight, alum or phosphate powders. Sold only in cans. ROYAL BAKING POWDER Co., 106 Wall street, N. Y.

2ds

AVOID

The Cholera by using Carbolate of Lime.

For cleansing out-houses, cesspools, sink-drains, stables, etc For sale in 10, 25 and 50 lbs. bags, and by the barrel.

E. S. THAYER.

165 Derby Street.

C. H. ESTES, Agent for Peabody.

SMOKERS.

Having secured a large lot of the very Best Tobacco in the market we feel justified in saying the

MON AMI AND PLANTER

are the Best Havana Cigars in the town of Peabody. We have also the Electric, Harvard and El Sol de Cuba Brands.

FOR A 5C. SMOKE

Try the Brunette, it is a good one. The Heart's Ease, Sociable, Purity, Gun Club and E. H. S., are fine goods.

Collins' Cigar Store.

4 Allen's Block.

TOBACCO WHOLESALE & RETAIL.

WM. M. HILL.

AUCTIONEER, REAL ESTATE

BROKER & APPRAISER.

HALE'S BLOCK.

223 ESSEX STREET, SALEM.

Mortgagees negotiated. Personal attention to all Real Estate matters.

W. C. ROBINSON

(Successor to Smith & Robinson.)

Dealer in all kinds of

STATIONERY AND

ARTISTS' MATERIALS.

Pictures and Picture Frames.

Everything to be found in a first class establishment.

—— Everything in our line at Bottom Prices. ——

The people of Peabody are cordially invited to look at our stock, and see our display of paintings and art work.

We are agents for the celebrated

ROGERS' GROUPS.

☞ Horse cars pass the door.

W. C. Robinson,

42 MARKET STREET, LYNN, MASS.

W. B. GIFFORD & CO.,

77 & 79 MARKET ST., LYNN.

We now beg leave to announce our

FALL DRESS GOODS,

which have now arrived, consisting of Home Spuns, Combination Suitings, Plaids, Plain and Plaid, Ladies Cloths

Also, we are constantly receiving

VELVETS, SILKS, ETC.

SPECIAL MENTION Grand Mark Down sale of Lawn Dresses, Dressing Sacques, Wrappers, etc., to make room for our New Fall and Winter Garments, Shawls, etc.

New Buttons, Clasps, Feather and Marabout Trimmings arriving every day.

Special attractions in our Corset, Glove, Toilet and Hosiery Departments.

W. B. Gifford & Co.

SHOE SONG.

Air, "Ben Bolt."

Many have tried in vain, kind friends!!
But their efforts can never compare
To the crowds that throng into Nugent's store,
To secure the great bargains there.
There's a change in the times I know, kind friends!
They have changed from the old to the new.
And I feel in the depth of my pocket the truth
That prices have changed with them too.
Many years have passed and gone, kind friends!
Since Nugent's store first was hailed
As a popular place for elegant styles,
And fits that never have failed.

The Largest and Best selected stock of

Boots, Shoes, Rubbers, etc.,

at Lowest Prices, at

NUGENT BROS.

PEABODY SQUARE.

The Peabody Press.

JOHN P. FERNALD ALBERT VITTUM,
Editors and Publishers.

THE MOST important declaration, to our mind, made by the Republican Convention, just assembled, is the resolution with reference to the labor question. It is important in that it recognizes an element in our State, and more particularly in Essex County, which has been in other respects more in sympathy with us than with the democrats, and it is also important in that it indicates a new departure and a triumph of the younger and more progressive element in the Republican party.

The first inkling of such resolutions was brought out at the caucuses held previous to the convention, in the city of Lynn. The Lynn delegates were urgent for their introduction into the platform. They besieged the doors of the Committee on Resolutions. They were also aided by a committee appointed by the labor organizations of the city of Springfield. The chairman of this committee, in presenting the claims of his organization, stated that the young men whom he represented had previously voted with the democratic party; that they had decided to vote this year with the Republican party, if they were prepared to recognize the rights of the labor organizations.

For some days after the adjournment of the convention, the democratic organs kept studiously quiet on this matter. No one would have known, by their editorial columns, that any such resolutions had been adopted. But they have at last awakened to the fact, and of course characterize them now as meaningless. Had they themselves, in the democratic party, put forth doctrines half as strongly asserted, it would take headlines of half a column, to announce the fact.

We consider the resolutions important, because we believe the Republican party does mean what the platform in this matter asserts. Particularly is this the case here in Essex County.

We have no need to tell the adherents of the so-called National party that in their last campaign, waged under Gen. Butler, in the interest of the very measures introduced into the Republican platform, their orators and leaders vehemently opposed the democratic party and on this very question of labor and monopoly. They showed that Cleveland and his party in New York state were in favor of the very measures which did not benefit the laboring man; and, what, in our own state, has the democratic party done for labor? For over thirty years the Republican party has controlled Massachusetts, and under its control the laboring man has achieved a record with which no other State can compare. In the words of Senator Hoar, "I do not think her own people themselves know what a marvellous record of legislation for the laborer, for the poor and humble, that 30 years exhibits. No other State in the Union, no other country on the face of the earth, can for a moment be compared with her in this repect. The detail of her beneficent legislation would fill a volume. She stands at the head not only of all American States, but of all the nations of the earth in the small proportion of illiteracy in her native population. The whole State indebtedness above the sinking fund to-day is less by several millions of dollars than the sum, without interest, she has paid to her disabled soldiers and their families since the last American State, save one, discontinued all payments for that object. She is recorded in the Encyclopædia Britannica as the only State in the east manufacturing textile fabrics where 10 hours is the operative's day."

Already we hear the assertion that the resolution is only clap-trap. It was only put in to catch the votes of the laboring men. Stop a little, and think, gentlemen. Has the experience of the past shown that it would mean any less there than in the democratic platform? Has not the democratic party made promises without number to the labor vote, only to be repudiated when the votes of these men had elevated it to power? The Republican party has thus far, until this year, stood aloof in their platform from the so-called labor question. Yet they have all the time been the friend of the laboring man. To-day the party, unde the lead of a new and progressive element, makes a new departure. We are entirely in sympathy with this departure. As far as the influence of this paper is concerned, as far as our influence outside of these columns is concerned, it shall be in advocacy of this latter-day plank in the Republican platform. Call it shaking hands with the National party, if you like. These issues are of vital importance to the entire state; we believe they must be met, and we also believe that in the instances mentioned in the Republican platform the labor party is right. We do not agree with all the points adopted by the Knights of Labor. Far from it. At the same time there is more of an agreement between that party and the Republicans to-day than with the democratic party. Its leaders are with the Republicans on the tariff question. They can easily see that the protection of American Manufactures ensures good wages and prevents the laboring man from being what he is in the countries of the old world. They are with the Republicans in the matter of fair elections. One of their own men was counted out of a high position in the South by the fraudulent system of the Bourbon democrats.

Locally, and in Essex County, the leaders of the so-called labor party belong with the Republicans. The rank and file as they become interested and think for themselves on these questions, are not ready to vote on every measure, in solid dragons, with the democratic party. In the words of Gen. Hawley, referring to the mugwumps, but just as applicable to the labor party: "Come with us again; and if we have not done right in all things, help us to do it, for our purpose is to do it as well as we know how. Come and stay with us."

We commend the entire platform to the laboring man. It is clear, convincing and easy to be understood. And to emphasize again the labor resolution of the Republican Convention we quote it entire: Massachusetts under republican rule has done much for labor. No other State approaches our record in this respect. We urge a close and continued attention to all questions affecting this great interest, and we commend to the legislature a careful consideration of the plan of a state board of arbitration, of the principle of employers' liability, of the regulation of convict labor so that it shall not compete with the honest labor of the Commonwealth, and of more frequent payment of wages by corporations.

THE SALEM Telegram takes us to task in reference to our statement that the people of this end of the County do not want the Truant School established here, and quotes the action of the Salem School Board. We admit that we were not aware of this vote of the School Board of Salem; we think on further enquiry, that the Telegram is probably correct, and that the School Board of Salem, perhaps also Lynn and Marblehead, desire the Truant School in this end of the county.

This was not, however, the drift of our article. It is possible that the School Boards of Salem and other places, even though they do pass unanimous votes, do not represent the wishes of the people. At all events we do not recede from our position that it is better for the schools and for the truant children to have the Truant School at a distance from their homes. If the majority of the truant children were from Salem, or from Lynn, it were better that the School should not be in these cities, and this despite the votes of the School Boards.

Mr. Bishop, the County Commissioner whose term of office expires this year, is not in favor of the establishment of the school at the other end of the county. The people there don't want it—they are not particular about the school at all. Therefore if the people here desire it, and it seems for the best interest of the county, Mr. Bishop will not oppose, but favor it. He is the last man, of all the Commissioners, who should be displaced on account of the Truant School. With regard to the non-establishment of the School, thus far, about which so much complaint is made, we shall have something to say later.

THE WEAKEST thing done by the Republicans at Springfield was the nomination of A. W. Beard for State Treasurer. Mr. Beard is not in sympathy with the progressive and liberal element in the party. He is a monopolist and a self constituted "boss" of the party. Under his lead everything introduced at the last Legislature, favorable to the interests of labor, was squelched. If he could have had his way no such resolutions would have been read to the Convention as were introduced by Henry Cabot Lodge, and adopted by the Convention. Under his lead the bill, which had nearly passed, in favor of restricting the rates to be charged by the telephone company, in this state, was killed. He is a bitter opponent of bi-ennial elections, and in that we believe he is not in sympathy with either his party or the people of the state. Considering his attitude on these two questions, on both of which the platform is at variance with him, the inconsistency, to say the least, of his nomination is obvious. It is made the most of by his political opponents, and we cannot blame them. If the entire Republican ticket should be elected in Massachusetts, save the Treasurer, it would be no great surprise to us.

THOMAS TALBOT, ex-Governor of Massachusetts, died yesterday afternoon. He was one of the best known of all the past governors of the State—on account of his great integrity, his firm adherence to principle, and his positive position on the liquor law. He was elected lieutenant governor on the ticket with Governor Washburn in 1872 and 1873. On the election of Washburn to the Senate, Mr. Talbot became acting Governor, in 1874. During this time many important measures were submitted for his approval. He did not agree with the Legislature in regard to the liquor law then on the Statute book, and he was not in favor of the building of a new prison at Concord. During this year the ten hour law was passed and it was signed by Governor Talbot. The following year he was defeated by William Gaston. In 1878 he was again nominated by the Republicans and defeated Gen. Butler. Since his retirement he had been chairman of the State Board of Health, Lunacy and Charity.

THE TEMPERANCE plank of the Springfield Convention must be highly satisfactory to the Law and Order League. And for this we are glad. The League has taken the most sensible view of the temperance question in this State. It has said "The Law as it stands is good enough for us; enforce it and we are content."

Wherever, under conditions of prohibition or license, a good efficient League exists, there is a remarkable gain in the cause of temperance itself. Its work is with the enforcement—not the formation of law. Previously and now, other temperance organizations have paid more attention to the framing of the laws than to their enforcement. Consequently we had a good deal of law and very little order. Under the work of the League we have both. Let the law as it stands be enforced, and the temperance people of the State will be satisfied.

THE BOSTON Police raided an opium den at 39 Howard street, Sunday afternoon and arrested the proprietor and twenty other Chinamen, charged with smoking the opium and being present. We commend this raid of the police to the attention of the Boston Globe, which stated that the people of Boston were powerless against these dens.

General Carr was not good enough for the New York Republican gubernatorial candidate, you know, because he was an Irishman and a Catholic. But he was good enough to be put in second place, to catch votes. How the Republican party does love the Irish.—Globe.

Here we are again. At the first shot of the campaign, the Globe appeals to the prejudice of Catholics. We would like to ask our neighbor how much more consideration has there been shown to Catholics by Democrats, with whom the great body of Irish-American Catholics have always voted, than by Republicans whom they have always opposed? Irish-American Catholics have never until last year made any appreciable attempt to make any advance towards Republican principles, and at once we see it recognized by that party in placing General Carr in the second place on the ticket. We don't want to retort on the Democrats of Massachusetts, but we could. We don't want to see the word Catholic or Protestant brought into politics to be used as an argument by anybody. Whoever introduces it is a political demagogue, whether his name is Burchard or the editor of the Globe, and we trust all men of sense will forever frown on him.—Boston Sentinel. (Irish American.)

A boy was born without arms in Salem last week.—Exchange.

If the Peabody Press had said this we should not have been surprised, for we are sure the Press's collection of natural curiosities is not yet exhausted.—Wakefield Citizen

Not quite all yet; but unless you take that space we are reserving for you, you won't be counted.

At the Methodist Church preaching next Sunday by pastor. Subject by request,—"Christ's second personal appearing."

Editorial Convention Notes.

It was a cold day for the monopolists!

The labor organizations of the city of Springfield were given a respectful hearing by the Committee on Resolutions, and they were ably seconded by delegates from Lynn and other parts of Essex County.

A canvasser for the "State," the new Republican paper, hovered around the corridors and ante-rooms in the Massasoit House, and bored everybody to death soliciting subscriptions. He should have been suppressed by the State Committee.

The democratic members in the legislature have always been the best friends of labor and the most active and earnest advocates of its rights. Had it not been for their efforts it would have had a poor chance in Massachusetts.—Boston Post.

Perhaps the new editor of the Post will rise and explain to us a single measure looking towards the relief of labor, or the benefit of the laboring man, brought about or adopted in Massachusetts by the democrats. We don't recall any.

Senator Hoar, at Springfield, referred to the fact that Massachusetts was the only State in the East manufacturing textile fabrics, where ten hours is the operative's day. Yet it is said that the Republican party, who have been in a large majority in the Legislature for over thirty years, is not a friend of labor! The men who make such assertions have not read the history of their own State.

If the new management of the Boston Post does not confine itself nearer to facts than it did the morning after the Springfield Convention, its reputation for reliability will not amount to much. Hear this:

Yesterday no one would have believed that the republicans of Massachusetts would become silver and paper money fanatics; and yet here they are striking hands with the national party which assembled in Boston on Tuesday. Governor Robinson is planted on a silver and greenback plank, and Moody Boynton is his prophet.

This is the plank: "We demand the immediate and unconditional suspension of the coinage of the overvalued silver dollar." Looks like a silver and greenback plank, don't it? We did not expect the Post to agree with the Republican party or its platform; but misrepresentation of an established occurrence don't do any party or any paper any good.

"Moody Boynton got just what he asked for at the Springfield Convention."—Boston Post.

Really! If being "set down upon" in good shape is what he wanted he certainly did "get what he asked for." We don't know of anything else.

The silence with which the Convention received Mr. Beard's protest against the resolution in favor of biennial elections must have been saddening to the veteran war horse. Even the mention of ex-Gov. Long's name, which under any other circumstances would have been greeted with cheers, fell flat on the convention. He did not dare to make a motion. He would have been crushed instanter.

Beard considers the adoption of the biennial resolution, by the committee, against his wishes, as intended for a matter of discipline for him. It was intended to intimate to him that he don't own the Republican party.

The most important resolution is that written at the dictation of Mr. Henry Faxon as the price of his return to the Republican fold. By this plank the Republican party is once more, after an interval of many years, committed to prohibition.—Boston Globe.

This is rich! If the resolution on temperance, at the Springfield convention, was written by Faxon and intended to commit the Republican party to prohibition, Faxon is more of a fool than we took him for. The Globe knows better. It only fears that the attitude of the convention on this question is sufficiently satisfactory to the large majority of temperance people.

We like the temperance resolution of the Springfield convention. It says in substance that better than the continual tinkering of the liquor law is the enforcement of what law we already have. That is just the idea we have constantly advocated in these columns. There is law enough—the trouble is it is not enforced.

The resolutions of Cabot Lodge are plainly and clearly expressed—and need not be misunderstood. It is the best platform adopted by the Republicans of Massachusetts for many a year. It was a triumph for the younger and more progressive men of the party. The blue bloods of the party were conspicuous by their absence.

To-day W. G. Webber & Co., open their millinery at the Washington street entrance. Daily the work of completion at this store goes on and the end draweth nigh. Meantime they are offering some blankets at an extremely low price.

The new advertisement of Edward C. Almy & Co., in another column, should receive the attention of all who have purchases of clothing to make. This firm carry a rich and elegant line of goods besides the usual stock of cheaper ones.

PEABODY.

Webster & Co. have had the large steam chimney in their tannery topped out about ten feet.

John Linehan is unloading a cargo of coal, for Thomas E. Proctor, at the Central street freight yard.

Dr. John Shanahan is spending his vacation at Halifax, Nova Scotia. Dr. Gaffney will attend his patients.

Elmer H. Tasker, formerly of this town, was married last week to Miss Nellie A. Leavitt, of Middleton, Mass.

Mr. Andrew Gray is confined to the house with an abscess on his hand from which he is suffering a good deal of pain.

James Connell, a youth residing on Midway street, fell from a tree on the Leavitt farm, Monday morning, and received severe bruises about the head and back.

Mr. B. H. Taylor has on exhibition in a window in Salem, a potato, or a number of potatoes that resemble a large animal, which has been mounted on wooden legs and marked "Jumbo."

At the annual meeting of the South Danvers Mutual Fire Insurance Co., Monday evening, the following officers were elected:—William P. Clark, president; Aaron F. Clark, vice president; George M. Foster, secretary.

Last Wednesday night the shifter ran over a dog belonging to William Findley, who lives on Union street, and badly crushed one leg. The dog was allowed to live till Thursday noon when officer Sweeney ended his suffering by shooting him.

Money at interest six per cent. will double itself in 12 years, at five per cent. in 14 years, at four-and-a-half per cent. in 16 years and at four per cent. in 18 years. The main difficulties lie in getting the money and finding safe investment for it while the doubling-up act is in progress.

The Exchange News Room has reorganized with a choice of the following officers: President, O. W. Upham; Vice Presidents, Albert F. Poor and N. W. Torrey; Secretary and Treasurer, A. M. Wilkinson; Executive Committee, Walter C. Merrill, Daniel Woodbury and George K. Nelson.

The following is Engineer Pettey's report for the month of September:—Whole number of gallons pumped, 17,596,080; average per day, 586,536; pounds of coal consumed for the month, 42,585; average per day, 1,419; 413 gallons pumped to a pound of coal; running time, 7 hours 24 minutes per day.

Remember that next Monday evening the St. John's C. T. A. Society will give their first skating party at the rink, to be followed by dancing. From nine o'clock till half past there will be a game of polo between the St. John's and a Danvers team. As they are pretty evenly matched there will be lots of fun.

The report of Chief of Police Peasley for September shows that 38 arrests were made, of whom 16 were for drunkeness; assault, 8; breaking and entering, 4; stealing a ride, 3; trespass, 2; malicious mischief, 1; keeping liquor with intent to sell, 1; keeping unlicensed dog, 1; disturbance of the peace, 1; tramps, 1; lodgers, 27.

A Mrs. Bronson had a narrow escape from death at the Jacobs street crossing last Friday. She was carrying her husband's dinner and did not notice the approaching train until she was on the track, and she had just time to step back when the train rushed by. She was so overcome by fright it was several minutes before she recovered herself.

It was suggested to us the other day that it would be a good plan for the school committee to place boxes in the different school buildings for the receipt of the report which the teachers are obliged to make to the truant officer, so that he will not find it necesary to go to the recitation rooms. This is a good suggestion and would save lots of time.

In general order No. 10, John W. Hersey, department commander of the Grand Army of the Republic of this state, says:

"Comrades are warned against John Casey, a suspended member of Post 42, of Lowell. He is reported to these headquarters by the commander of Post 42 as a first-class beat and not deserving of aid. Comrades are also warned to look out for one Charles S. Kingsley, claiming to belong to James A. Garfield Post 7, Department of the Potomac, Washington, D. C., who has victimized several posts in Massachusetts; said Kingsley can have a fit or broken arm whenever it is for his interest to do so. He is not only a beat but a scoundrel, and has been dishonorably discharged from the order.

Miss Wilson, 262 Essex street, has a fine assortment of fall and winter millinery of the latest styles. She has just returned from a purchasing trip to New York, where she secured bargains, and she is ready to share her good fortune with her patrons. She has the agency of the famous Tucker bustle.

C. H. & J. Price, the well known drugigsts of Salem, will remodel their block on Essex street, putting in an entirely new plate glass front, and making other improvements.

The school committee have purchased books in accordance with the law passed by the last Legislature which reads as follows:

Physiology and hygiene, which, in both divisions of the subject shall include special instruction as to the effects of alcoholic drinks, stimulants and narcotics on the human system, shall be taught as a regular branch of study to all pupils in all schools supported wholly or in part by public money, except special schools maintained solely for instruction in particular branches, such as drawing, mechanics, art and like studies.

This applies to all grades from the primary to the high school. No provision is made as to the manner of teaching, leaving it to the school committee to say whether it should be taught orally or by means of text books. As a matter of economy it would have been better to have had the principles taught orally, but older scholars would probably derive more benefit from text books. What effect it will have on some of the pupils as they read of narcotics and stimulants and other things that an set forth in terrible language as having a baneful effect on the system it is hard to tell. For instance, there is the boy who has been hunting for a cigar stub on his way to school and has it hid away in his pocket; what effect is it going to have on him to get up and recite "Nicotine or the oil of tobacco is a deadly poison. Experiments show that one drop on the tongue of a dog has been sufficient to cause death and five drops has caused death in as many minutes." Does he believe it after he gets outside?

The Saturday Evening Gazette in its Salem Correspondence has this to say regarding Messrs. Merrill & Mackintire: "This famous plaything for grown-ups (the Puritan), reminds me of the new toy store in our midst. Merrill & Mackintire have filled one of their stores with fine toys, a delight to children and indulgent parents. Had I been asked to name a "long felt want" in Salem, I should have named, not a clothing store, but a store filled with just such wares as Merrill & Mackintire display; for we have not had a Schwartz of our own heretofore, and our friend in Boston, so dear to the hearts of the little people, is dear also to the parental purse. We understand that while the dolls and carts are to be of good quality, the prices are to be good for the purchaser. We trust that they may also be good for the enterprising young merchants with abundant patronage. If a first-class toy-store cannot be supported here, it must be because young America does not predominate over its elders in this region as thoroughly as cynics maintain they do in this generation."

A correspondent writes that if any one denies that prohibition prohibits, he can find "in the Iowa state prison eighty-one saloon-keepers who are so positive that the law prohibits that they are going to stay in jail from six to twenty-four months to prove it."—Presbyterian Journal.

At this season of the year it will profit you to use Ferrated Hygienic Wine, to cleanse your blood of all poisonous humor. tf

Health is of more consequence than wealth Many sick ones might be cured by using Ferrated Hygienic Wine, tf

New Advertisements.

LADIES' CUSTOM TAILORING DEPARTMENT.

Ladies' Tailor Fitted Suits, Dresses and Outside Garments,

Made to Order from Measure.

Our prices are Extremely Low for the class of work.

Perfect fit and perfect work guaranteed.

W. C. MORSE, Cutter.
MISS STELLA ALDEN, Fitter and Draper.

ALMY, BIGELOW & WASHBURN.
oct 7—1m

SALEM ORATORIO SOCIETY.

The first rehearsal will be held at

LYCEUM HALL,

THURSDAY EVENING, OCT. 15, 1885,

at 7.30 o'clock.

MENDELSSOHN'S ST. PAUL will be the first work and SPOHR'S LAST JUDGMENT, which met with such great favor last season, the second work.

Books and tickets can be obtained at the store of Merrill & Mackintire, excepting on rehearsal evenings, when they will be found at the hall.

Applicants for membership will please leave their names at store of Merrill & Mackintire, 220 Essex street.

GEO. A. SHEPARD, Sec.

ST. PAUL

(Novello Edition)

BOOKS,

— AT —

E. V. EMILIO'S.

50c, 75c, $1.13.

oct 7—3t

PROBATE NOTICE.

Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

ESSEX, SS. PROBATE COURT,

To the Heirs-at-Law, next of Kin, and all other persons interested in the Estate of CATHERINE FOLEY, late of Peabody, in said county, widow, deceased,

GREETING:

WHEREAS, a certain instrument purporting to be the last will and testament of said deceased has been presented to said Court, for Probate, by John Linehan, who prays that letters testamentary may be issued to him the executor therein named. You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court, to be held at Salem, in said county of Essex, on the first Monday of November, next, at nine o'clock before noon, to show cause, if any you have, against the same.

And said John Linehan is hereby directed to give public notice thereof, by publishing this citation once a week, for three successive weeks, in the newspaper called the Peabody Press, printed at Peabody, the last publication to be two days at least before said Court.

Witness, George F. Choate, Esquire, Judge of said Court, this third day of October, in the year one thousand eight hundred and eighty-five.

J. T. MAHONEY, Register.

oct 7—3t

PROBATE NOTICE.

Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

ESSEX, SS. PROBATE COURT.

To the Heirs-at-law, Next of Kin, and all other Persons interested in the Estate of ALBERT BREED, late of Peabody, in said county, carpenter, deceased,

GREETING:

WHEREAS, a certain instrument purporting to be the last will and testament of said deceased has been presented to said Court for Probate, by Jane M. Breed and Lindley H. Farr, who pray that letters testamentary may be issued to them the executors therein named, and that they may be exempt from giving a surety or sureties on their bond, for the reasons alleged in said petition. You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court to be held at Salem, in said county of Essex, on the first Monday of November, next, at nine o'clock, before noon, to show cause, if any you have, against the same.

And said petitioners are hereby directed to give public notice thereof, by publishing this citation once a week, for three successive weeks, in the newspaper called the Peabody Press, printed at Peabody, the last publication to be two days at least before said Court.

Witness, George F. Choate, Esquire, Judge of said Court, this fifth day of November, in the year one thousand eighty hundred and eighty-five.

J. T. MAHONEY, Register,

oct 7—3t

REPORT

Of the condition of THE WARREN NATIONAL BANK, at Peabody, in the State of Massachusetts, at the close of business, Oct. 1, 1885.

RESOURCES.
Loans and Discounts,	$330,471.04
U. S. Bonds to secure circulation	253,000.00
U. S. Bonds on hand,	900.00
Other Stocks, Bonds and Mortgages,	87,913.75
Due from Approved Reserve Agents	40,243.26
Due from other National Banks,	1,927.69
Real Estate, furniture and fixtures,	20,000.00
Current expenses and taxes paid	3.00
Premiums paid,	1,137.50
Checks and other cash items,	9,569.65
Bills of other Banks,	12 240.00
Fractional paper currency, nickels, and pennies,	81.39
Specie,	18,600.00
Redemption fund with U. S. Treasurer, 5 per ct. of circulation,	11,250 00
Total	$787,337.28
LIABILITIES.
Capital Stock paid in	$250,000.00
Surplus Fund,	85,000.00
Undivided profits,	1,605.93
National Bank notes outstanding,	223,500.00
Dividends unpaid,	7,292.50
Individual Deposits subject to check,	212,871.75
Due to other National Banks,	1,997.10
State, County and Town Taxes,	$5070.00
Total	$787,337.28

STATE OF MASSACHUSETTS, COUNTY OF ESSEX, } SS.

I, FRANK C. MERRILL, Cashier of the above-named Bank, do solemnly swear that the above statement is true to the best of my knowledge and belief.

FRANK C. MERRILL, Cashier.

Subscribed and sworn to before me, this 6th day of Oct., 1885.

GEORGE HOLMAN, Notary Public.

Correct—Attest:
C. W. OSBORN,
ALEX. B. MERRILL,
JOHN PINDER, } Directors

Peabody Oct. 7, 1885.

REPORT

Of the condition of the SOUTH DANVERS NATIONAL BANK, at Peabody, in the State of Massachusetts, at the close of business, Oct. 1, 1885:

RESOURCES.
Loans and Discounts,	$261,371.30
Overdrafts,	1.73
U. S. Bonds to secure Circulation,	150,000.00
Due from approved reserve agents,	2,628.53
Due from other National Banks,	1.290 00
Real estate, furniture and fixtures	3,000.00
Premiums paid,	7,312.50
Checks and other cash items,	4,435.41
Bills of other Banks,	4,783.00
Fractional paper currency, nickels and pennies,	149.00
Specie,	6,379.95
Legal-tender notes,	2,500.00
Redemption Fund with U. S. Treasurer, (5 per cent of circulation,)	6,750.00
Total,	$450,601.42
LIABILITIES.
Capital stock paid in,	$150,000.00
Surplus fund,	75,000.00
Undivided profits,	4,225.74
National Bank notes outstanding,	130,200.00
Dividends unpaid,	4,029.00
Individual deposits subject to check,	86,253.18
Due to other National Banks,	893.50
Total,	$450,601.42

STATE OF MASSACHUSETTS, COUNTY OF ESSEX, } SS.

I, G. M. FOSTER, Cashier of the above-named bank, do solemnly swear that the above statement is true, to the best of my knowledge and belief.

G. M. FOSTER Cashier.

Subscribed and sworn to before me, this 6th day of Oct., 1885.

GEORGE HOLMAN.
Notary Public.

Correct—Attest:
W. P. CLARK,
WARREN SHAW.
HORACE BUSHBY. } Directors.

Peabody, Oct. 7. 1885.

First Class Agent

WANTED IN THIS COUNTY

To represent our beautifully illustrated family magazine. Special terms and permanent engagement given to the right party. Any smart man or woman who is willing to work and has the ability to push the magazine can secure a splendid position. Write us at once giving age, particulars of past work and territory desired. Address,

COTTAGE HEARTH CO.,
Boston, Mass.

DISSOLUTION OF CO-PARTNERSHIP.

The Copartnership heretofore existing between Edward D. Trask and Albert Trask, under the firm name of E. D. Trask & Son, is this day dissolved by mutual consent. The business will be continued by Albert Trask who assumes the liabilities and collects the debts due said firm.

Peabody, Oct. 7, 1885. 3t

The Peabody Press.

Wednesday Evening, Oct, 7, 1885

HOME HAPPENINGS.

The Georgetown Advocate contained an obituary of Mrs. Sarah Ferguson, who formerly resided in this town. It says: Mrs. Sarah Ferguson, mother of Mrs. O. S. Butler of this town, died at the residence of her daughter last Monday night at the remarkable age of 87 years and six months. Her maiden name was Plummer, daughter of an old and respected family of Friends of Sandwich, N. H. Notwithstanding her nearly fourscore and ten years, an older sister survives her and also a younger. The deceased has resided with Mr. and Mrs. Butler nearly all the time for about thirty years, making frequent extended visits to another daughter at Peabody. Mr. Butler carried her there no longer ago than Sept. 17th. She came back over the road the 20th. She was up about the house every day, and down to the very day of her death dined with the family and walked in the yard about the house. At six o'clock, however, she was quite feeble and was assisted to bed, and failed rapidly until midnight when she quietly sank to sleep, retaining her senses to the last and anxious to make her attendants no more trouble than possible. She possessed a strong, well-balanced mind, with extraordinary will power but not obstinate or overbearing, having quiet methods of accomplishing her ends that gave no occasion for argument or antagonism. She lived and died in the faith as accepted by the society of Friends, and was a living example of the purity of life and conduct, the steadfastness of faith, the charity of kindly deeds and the simplicity of speech and dress of that honored sect.

Three tramps, who were beating their way to Lowell, as they thought, got on the gravel train a short time ago and brought up at West Peabody. They hung around there for several hours when one of their number was taken suddenly ill and he sat on a stone wall with both hands grasping the region of his stomach. His companions helped him to one of the cars standing on the side track, and as they had no pills nor potions to quiet him, they as quietly skipped out and left him to wrestle with his own complaint while they counted the railroad sleepers in the direction of Lowell. The news soon spread among the workmen at the gravel pit that a man was in the car nearly dead with yellow jack cholera, (they forgot to say morbus), or something else. The men were all afraid to go near him and they were about to send for a doctor when one of their number, an old sailor, volunteered to investigate. Arming himself with a bottle of Jamaica ginger he entered the car and in less than an hour the man was all right again. He claimed that he had no money and had not had his meals very regularly. He said that the last one consisted of several ears of green corn and a few apples for a "change." It is probable that this hearty meal was what clogged the machinery, and came near " doing him up." He was given a solid meal before starting in the direction taken by his companions.

The census of this town after a long delay has at last been received from Hon. Carroll D. Wright, and is as follows: Males 4737, Females 4793, making a total of 9530. The population in 1880 was 9,028, making our gain 502 in five years. Peabody holds her own as the largest town in the county leading Beverly, the next largest by 344. The census was taken in May and at the time our leading industry was very quiet, and many families were obliged to leave town. Could the census be taken now it would add several hundred to the above. It may be of interest in this connection if we give the growth of this town since its separation from Salem. The population of the old town of Danvers at that time, 1752, was about 1400. In 1783, 1921; 1800, 2643; 1810, 3127; 1820, 3646; 1830, 4228; 1840, 5020; 1850, 8110; 1852, 8400. In 1855 the year that the towns were divided the population was 9348, and our part numbered 5348. In 1860 it was 6549; 1865, 6051; 1870, 7343; 1875, 8066; 1880, 9028 and 1885, 9530. The population of Danvers, is 7048, of Beverly, 9186, Marblehead, 7518, Salem, 28,084 and Lynn 45,861.

The officers of the newly formed society at the South Church, called the Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor, are as follows: President, Arthur F. Poole: Vice President, Hattie S. Thatcher, Secretary, Nellie M. Messer; Treasurer, Mary H. Poole. The following committees were appointed. Prayer meeting, J. K. Cole, Nellie T. Allen, Rena E. Raymond, Annie R. Thatcher and Louise Osborn. Lookout committee, Annie S. Thorndike, Mary E. Poole, Augusta S. Wilson, Mabel M. Brown and Nathan Poor. Social Committee, Annie W. Poole, Fannie W. Osborn, Grace M. Stevens and Helen Osborne.

The rainfall in this town last Saturday was unprecedented and aggregated about two inches in less than half an hour. The rain poured in torrents and in places the streets were badly washed. On Midway street several loads of gravel were required to fill up the washouts. Oak street near J. B. Thomas' place and Grove street were badly gullied, the paving beside the horse car track at Poole's Hollow, where work has been going on, caved in and quantities of gravel were washed into the excavation. The cellar of Mr. Keefe's house on Winter street was flooded and more or less damage was done in other parts of the town. In such quantities did the water fall that the horsecars lost the track several times between here and Salem. It was impossible for the drains to carry off the water and they were quickly choked up with leaves and rubbish, while quantities of sand were carried into the drains, particularly the one across the square through which the water pipe passes and it is feared it will have to be opened and cleaned out before winter sets in.

The Seventy-fifth Anniversary of the American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions, will be held at Boston, in Tremont Temple, beginning Tuesday, Oct. 13, at 3 P. M., and closing Friday morning Oct. 16, The Annual Sermon will be preached by Rev. George Walker, D. D. of Hartford, Conn., Tuesday evening. As the evening meetings will be of great interest, arrangements have been made by which Peabody people can enjoy them. The Danvers horse car will leave Salem, for Peabody and Danvers, at 11 o'clock, or on the arrival of the train which leaves Boston at 10.15.

At Lynn, according to the Item, Light street is one of the darkest in the city and Flint street after a rain is one of the softest. At Newburyport, according to the Herald, Prospect street is where there is little to see and Greenleaf street is about the only street in town with no shade trees. At Marblehead, according to the Messenger, School street has no schools, Walnut street has no walnuts and Commercial very little commerce. Our own Willow street has no willows; there is no mill on Mill street, no granite on Granite street, no water on Lake street and Lowe street is a hill.

The Naumkeag Street Railway Co. will run a theatre car from Salem to Peabody every night, commencing this evening, to connect with the train leaving Boston at 11.20 P. M. This is what has long been needed here. Our people can now more frequently visit Boston and can be sure of transportation from Salem every night. They will be likely to give the shows at Mechanic Hall, Salem, a wide berth, with its old scenery and uncomfortable seats, and enjoy a good play in the first class theatres of Boston, of which notices are given by us each week in our dramatic column.

The postal delivery system does not start off with a boom here. The first letter arrived on the 5 o'clock mail Thursday and was promptly delivered, the person to whom it was addressed was waiting in the office for the mail to be distributed. Quite a number have been sent from here. The special stamps require the address on each letter, with the date and hour of its receipt, the name of the messenger and the person to whom he delivers the letter, with the time of the delivery and the distance from the office, beside such explanatory remarks as will be necessary.

The will of the late Daniel Buxton was admitted to Probate Court on Monday. It was executed Nov. 21, 1884. He leaves his wife, Ellen Buxton, the lot of land on Andover street, with buildings occupied by her sister, $10,000 and all the household furniture in the homestead in lieu of right of dower or distribution. The balance of the estate is left to his son and daughter, after the payment of legacies, $500 to Annie M. Bailey, $500 to Charles W. Buxton and $500 to Susan Ropes.

In Essex county we will have this fall to vote for a clerk of courts, a register of deeds, a county treasurer, one county commissioner and two special commissioners. These offices are now held respectively by Dean Peabody of Lynn, Chas. S. Osgood of Salem for the southern district, and John R. Poor of Lawrence for the northen, E. Kendall Jenkins of Andover, Edward B. Bishop of Haverhill, Daniel B. Lord of Salem and Orlando B. Tenney of Georgetown.

Two of the four Delegates to the Republican State Convention from this town were in attendance last Wednesday at Springfield. The following nominations were made: Governor, George D. Robinson of Chicopee; Lieutenant Governor, Oliver Ames of Easton; Secretary, Henry B. Pierce of Abington; Treasurer, Alanson W. Beard of Boston; Auditor, Charles R. Ladd of Springfield: Attorney General, Edgar J. Sherman of Lawrence.

The following resolutions have been passed by the Washington street Methodist church of this town:

Whereas, Rev. W. G. Sperry, for seven years the able and successful pastor of the South Congregationalist Church in this town, is about to close his pastoral relation to that church to accept a call to another church offering a larger field for usefulness.

And, whereas, by his genial fraternal spirit, his brotherly christian sympathy and counsel and his kindly and helpful interest manifested in many ways to this church and to its pastors, has served greatly to endear him to our people. Therefore,

RESOLVED, That we deeply regret the loss, which not only the South Church and the community, but especially our own church must sustain in the removal of Rev. W. G. Sperry from this town.

RESOLVED, That we are happy to recognize the deep interest, efficient labor and wise leadership of Rev. W. G. Sperry, not only in his own church but in promoting the general reformatory movements of the town, especially the temperance reform, and we trust that though God may remove His workman He may carry on his work.

RESOLVED, That we assure our dear brother, the Rev. W. G. Sperry, of our best wishes for his future health and prosperity. And of our prayers that God's blessing may go with him, and that He may vouchsafe to him largest success in his new field of labor.

RESOLVED, That these resolutions with the preamble be entered upon the official records of the church, and a copy be sent by the Secretary to Rev. W. G. Sperry.

Rev. W. G. Sperry of Peabody, Mass., was last night installed as pastor of the Manchester Church. The exercises consisted of reading of Scriptures, by Rev. F. P. Sargent of Brookline; sermon, by E. S. Atwood, D. D., of Salem, Mass.; installing prayer, by Rev. C. W. Wallace, D. D., of Manchester; charge to pastor, by Rev. DeWitt S. Clark of Salem, Mass.; right hand of fellowship, by Rev. C. F. Carter of Manchester; address to people by Rev. E. G. Selden of Springfield, Mass., the previous pastor of the church.

The school committee, at a meeting last night, accepted the resignation of Miss Esty, and changed the boundary line of the Wallis district so it will pass through the middle of Sherman street, instead of Swampscott Avenue. This puts classes 9, 10 and 11 back in the Center school. The teachers of the several schools are to see if their pupils are vaccinated. The committee will enforce the existing state law in regard to vaccination. Meeting adjourned till next Tuesday evening.

Mr. Ira P. Nador, formerly of this town, was given a surprise last night at his home in Lynn by the Uniformed K. of P. to which Mr. Nador belongs. While he was in the house they took possession of his store, and arranged the tables for a fine collation, after which they adjourned to a neighboring hall, where dancing was enjoyed till a late hour. During the evening Mr. Nador was presented with an elegant roll top desk, office chair, and all the fixin's.

The case of Thomas H. Jackman, as assignee of the bankrupt estate of C. Leonard Peirce, who brought a suit against the South Danvers Bank, was decided in the Superior Court yesterday and damages were awarded to the amount of $512.48. This was a case where Peirce deposited collateral to secure a note not then due and took up the note and had the collateral assigned to another party on the day that other notes went to protest. The verdict caused considerable surprise.

Mr. Albert Breed, a well known resident of Central street, died last Wednesday evening, after a long illness, with a cancer. He was born in Henniker, N. H., and was 62 years of age. He was a quiet man and made few acquaintances. He belonged to the society of Friends. For a number of years he worked with the late William Berry as a wheelwright, but for several years has been janator at the Bowditch school.

A boy named Michael Buckley fell from the top of a ladder while picking pears at George White's, on Tremont street, last Thursday afternoon. He struck on his head and knees and was unconscious when he was removed to his home on Park street and Dr. Foster called but found no bones broken. He was working for Sumner Southwick at the time.

The Murray Association held their first meeting this season, last Monday evening, and the following officers were elected for the ensuing year:—Pres., Mr. A. H. Merrill; Vice Pres., Miss Mabel F. Pierce; Secretary, Mr. Harry F. Spofford; Treas., Mr. Elmer C. Drown; Directors, Mrs. A. H. Merrill, Mr. Chas. S. Goldthwait and Mr. F. W. Sprague.

Mr. A. L. Ames comes to the front with the crop of hay he has taken at two cuttings from his field of two and one-half acres. Six tons at the first cutting and three and one-half at the second, making nine and one-half tons in all. Who says that Ames' "Bone Fertilizer" is not good for grass? Let us hear from those who have used other fertilizers.

Wm G. Webber & Co.

OUR

Millinery Goods

Will be shown in our Washington Street Store on WEDNESDAY, OCT. 7.

WAIT FOR OUR

GRAND OPENING

— OF —

Trimmed Bonnets and Round Hats,

THURSDAY, OCT. 15.

W. G. WEBBER & CO.

NEW ENDICOTT BUILDINGS,

238 & 240 ESSEX STREET,

94 & 96 WASHINGTON ST.,

SALEM.

PECK'S SUN,

MILWAUKEE, WIS-

GEO. W. PECK,

Editor and Proprietor.

THE FUNNIEST PAPER IN AMERICA.

What Vaccination is to Small-pox, PECK'S SUN is to the blues.

Peck's Sun

Is one of the most widely read and popular papers in the country to-day, and stands without a peer in its speciality.

The Originator of the celebrated

BAD BOY PAPERS.

SPECIMEN COPIES FREE

to any Address.

Bear in mind that by sending a Postal Card to this office, a

SAMPLE COPY OF PECK'S SUN

Will be mailed you Free.

Don't neglect to send at once, and tell your neighbor to.

$1 Worth of Fun for 1c.

ADDRESS

GEORGE L. LORD,

Business Manager,

Milwaukee, Wis.

oct 7—3t

PROBATE NOTICE.

Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

ESSEX, SS. PROBATE COURT.

To the Heirs-at-law, Next of Kin, and all other Persons interested in the Estate of SUSAN JABOBS, late of Peabody, in said county, (wife of Joseph Jacobs) deceased, GREETING.

WHEREAS, a certain instrument purporting to be the last will and testament of said deceased has been presented to said Court for Probate, by Joseph Jacobs, who prays that letters testamentary may be issued to him the executor therein named, and that he may be exempt from giving a surety or sureties on his bond, for the reasons alleged in said petition. You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court to be held at Salem, in said county of Essex, on the third Monday of October, next, at nine o'clock, before noon, to show cause, if any you have, against the same.

And said Joseph Jacobs is hereby directed to give public notice thereof, by publishing this citation once a week, for three successive weeks, in the newspaper called the Peabody Press, printed at Peabody, the last publication to be two days at least before said Court.

Witness, George F. Choate, Esquire, Judge of said Court, this twenty-ninth day of September, in the year one thousand eight hundred and eighty-five.

J. T. MAHONEY, Register.

sept 30—3t

TO LET.

From Oct. 1st, House No. 6 Holten street, Peabody, containing 13 rooms. Apply to
T. M. OSBORNE.
6 Carpenter St., Salem.

sept 23

Oat Meal.

FRESH Ground and Out Oat Meal.
CHAS. A. ROPES & SON.

HATS.

Children's Hats, Walking Hats, Dress Hats, etc., in the latest and best styles, just opened, at Peabody's Millinery dept,

VELVETS.

Black Velvets, nice ones $1, 1.25 and 1.50 per yard, also a line of colors, Brown, Old Gold, Garnt Wine, Purple, etc.

RIBBONS.

All colors and widths, good goods at low prices, at Peabody's.

New Hamb's.

Choice new patterns of Hamburg Edging, at prices that will suit the smartest bargain hunters.

New Laces.

Trimming Laces in white, cream' and black, in all the best and choicest patterns, styles and widths.

YARNS.

A bargain in Knitting Yarn. All Wool and good quality, 8c per Skein. Ball Yarns are being put up, that weigh all the way from half an ounce up, so that it is not safe to buy unless you see the balls weighed. In skeins you can see it all, and know what you are paying for.

WALLETS.

We have this week a great drive in Leather Wallets, a dozen styles, at 25 cents each, sold on Essex street for 38 and 50 cents. Examine them, and you will say they are a decided bargain.

Our Prices.

Nickel Plated Safety Pins, per doz.	2 cts
Cabinet Hair Pins, per box,	3 cts
Pins, paper 2c, 3 papers for	5 cts
Nice Mourning Pins, per box,	2 cts
Good Button Hooks,	3 cts
Needles—Clark's Royal, paper	2 cts
Best Black Linen Thread spools	7 cts
500 yard Spool Cotton	5 cts
Good Lisle Gloves, Ladies,	5 cts
Good yard wide Brown Cottons,	5 cts

— and so on —

— AT —

PEABODY'S,

SALEM.

MORTGAGEE'S SALE.

By virtue of the power of sale contained in a deed of mortgage given by Charles G. Folsom to the Warren Five Cents Savings Bank in Peabody dated the twenty-fifth day of February, A. D. 1880, and recorded at Essex South District Registry of Deeds in Book 1031, leaf 265, said mortgagee will sell by public auction at the premises on THURSDAY, the fifteenth day of October, A. D. 1885, at three o'clock in the afternoon, all and singular the premises conveyed by said mortgage deed, to wit:—

A lot of land situated in said Peabody, with the dwelling house thereon, bounded thus, viz: Easterly by Central street eighty-eight feet and three inches; Southerly by Warren street three hundred and fifty-one feet and two inches; Westerly by land formerly of Joshua Buxton, seventy-nine feet and four inches; and Northerly by other land of said Folsom three hundred and forty-six feet and one inch.

Terms made known at sale.

ALBERT H. MERRILL, Treas.
Of the Warren Five Cents Savings Bank.
Peabody, Sept. 23, '85.

NOTICE TO VOTERS.

Notice is hereby given that meetings of the Board of Registrars, for the purpose of receiving evidence of the qualifications of persons claiming a right to vote at the State election, to be held on Tuesday, the third day of November, 1885, and for correcting and revising the lists of voters, will be held in the Selectmen's Room, Town House, as follows:—

On TUESDAYS, Sept. 22 and 29, and Oct. 27. from 7 to 9 p. m.

On THURSDAYS, Oct. 8, 15 and 22d, from 1 to 5 p. m.

On SATURDAYS, Oct. 10, 17 and 24th, from 8 to 9 p. m.

On WEDNESDAY, Oct. 28, from 1 to 5 and from 7 to 10 p. m.

Registration will cease on Wednesday, October 28th, 1885, at 10 o'clock p. m.

The lists of voters will be posted Oct. 1st, after which time no name can be added thereto, unless the applicant for registration appears in person before the registrars and proves his claim to be registered.

All persons whose names were on the lists of voters of last year, and who fail to pay a tax of 1884 or 1885, prior to Oct 1st, will thus be required to register in person.

All persons appearing for registration must exhibit a paid tax bill for 1884 or 1885, and if of foreign birth, a certificate of naturalization.

AARON F. CLARK,
LYMAN OSBORN,
RICHARD LYONS,
NATHAN H. POOR,
} Board of Registrars.

PROBATE NOTICE.

Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

ESSEX, SS. PROBATE COURT.

To the Heirs-at-law, Next of Kin, and all other Persons interested in the Estate of RUDOLPH MEYER late of Peabody, in said county, overseer, deceased, GREETING:

WHEREAS, certain instruments purporting to be the last will and testament and a codicil of said deceased have been presented to said Court for Probate, by Richard J. Cullen, who prays that letters testamentary may be issued to him the executor therein named, and that he may be exempt from giving a surety or sureties on his bond, for the reasons alleged in said petition. You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court to be held at Salem, in said county of Essex, on the third Monday of October, next, at nine o'clock, before noon, to show cause, if any you have, against the same.

And said Richard J. Cullen is hereby directed to give public notice thereof, by publishing this citation once a week, for three successive weeks, in the newspaper called the Peabody Press, printed at Peabody, the last publication to be two days at least before said Court.

Witness, George F. Choate, Esquire, Judge of said Court, this twenty-fourth day of September, in the year one thousand eight hundred and eighty-five.

J. T. MAHONEY, Register.

sept 30—3t

DRIVING RIGHT ALONG!

MORE NEW STYLES.

SUITS.

New patterns in all wool Suits at Ten Dollars.
New Styles in Nobby Plaid Suits at Twelve Dollars.
New shades in Whipcord Sack and 4 Button Cutaway Frock Suits at $15.
New designs in those Elegant Fancy and Dress Suits, imported fabrics, at $18, 20, 22.00, 25.00, 28.00.

OVERCOATS!

New Invoice of Fall Overcoats at $5 and 8.00.
New and handsome styles of Fall Overcoats at $10, 12 and 15.
New assortment of Light Weight Imported Kersey, Whipcord and Melton Overcoats, at $18, 20, 22 and 25.
A brand new stock of Winter Overcoats—Beavers, Chinchillas, Meltons, Cassimeres, etc., from $5 to 30.

BOYS' DEPARTMENT.

Novelties in Boys' Suits.
Novelties in Boys' Overcoats.

MEN'S FURNISHING GOODS.

New Styles in Neckwear.
New Styles in Hosiery and Gloves.
Bargains in Underwear.

In fact, we have an immense stock of the most desirable Styles in Men's and Boys' Clothing, which we shall sell at

THE LOWEST PRICES.

EDW. C. ALMY & CO.

163, 165 & 167 ESSEX ST., SALEM.

162 Westminster St., Providence.

Washington, cor. Essex Street, Boston.

Artists' Materials of every Description.

DECORATIVE ART GOODS OF ALL KINDS.

ART POTTERY.

Supplies for Oil Color, Water Color, China and Lustra Painting.

PICTURE FRAMING

OF EVERY DESCRIPTION

PLUSH WORK a specialty. Plush Frames and Plush Plaques made to order.

Charles J. Edmands.

12 BROMFIELD ST., BOSTON.

BEE-HIVE

BARGAINS!

LADIES' COLORED SILK HDKF'S.

34 cts., 39 cts., and 48 cts.,

— AT

Frank Cousins'

BEE-HIVE,

SALEM.

E. V. EMILIO,

PIANO FORTE TUNER,

287 ESSEX ST.,

SALEM.

THEODORE M. OSBORNE,

Attorney and Counsellor at Law,

Has resumed practice at

81 Washington St., Salem.

Boston Office, 54 Devonshire St., Room 27.

sept 9—2m

FOR THE NEXT

30 DAYS

we will offer

DISSTON'S BEST WOOD SAWS

For 75 cents, former price $1.00.

Mrs. Pott's Cold Handle

SAD IRONS

Polished and Plain at a reduced price.

Bird Seed,	8 cents a Pckg.
Frazer's Axle Grease,	10 " " Box.
1 Hoyt's Lifting Tacks,	65 cents

Buy the

Beacon Sifters,

they are the best.

New stock of 5 and 10 cent goods.

— AT —

SAMUEL TRASK'S

WALNUT ST.,

PEABODY.

ROSE BUDS

AND PINKS.

— AT —

WARD'S GREENHOUSES,

Cor. Endicott and Warren Sts., Peabody.

BUSHBY & MACURDY'S

CABINET PHOTOGRAPHS

At $3.00 per dozen are 100 per cent. better than any club-check photographs; and are guaranteed fully equal in

Posing, Lighting, Finish and Permanency

to any [illegible] cabinets made in Boston or New York.

The largest and best constructed operating studio in New England. 40,000 negatives preserved.

521 Washington St.,

BOSTON.

Elevator from the ground. feb 11—3m

MERRIAM & CO.,

DEALERS IN

WOOD AND COAL

Danversport, Mass.

Kohinoor Coal, Bear Ridge Coal, Sheaskin Coal, Genuine Franklin Coal, Cumberland Coal.

All the best quality. Try them.

For Cash lower than can be bought elsewhere

Orders can be left with B. F. Stevens, Peabody, or by telephone to N. P. Merriam, Tapleyville, and will be promptly attended to.
em—

BATCHELDER & CO.,

DEALER IN

WOOD COAL HAY & STRAW.

Danversport and Peabody.

Cyrus C. Batchelder   Chauncy S. Richards

OFFICE IN PEABODY:

7 ALLEN'S BLOCK, SQUARE.

GREAT

REDUCTION IN PRICE OF

COAL

:—AT—

PICKERINGS

17 Peabody St., Salem, Mass

WHERE ALL FIRST-CLASS COALS CAN BE FOUND.

Specialty made in Steam Coals.

Orders can be left at Office, 12 Front St., or at B. P. Pickering's Store, Salem.

SPECIAL RATES MADE FOR LARGE ORDERS

WHARF, 17 PEABODY STREET

WM. PICKERING, JR & CO.,

17 Peabody Street.

PATENTS.

R. H. EDDY,

No. 76 State St., opposite Kilby Boston

Secures patents in the United States; also in Great Britain, France and other foreign countries. Copies of the claims of any patents furnished by remitting one dollar. Assignments recorded at Washington. No Agency in the United States possesses superior facilities for obtaining Patents or ascertaining the patentability of inventions. R. H. EDDY, Solicitor of patents.

TESTIMONIALS.

"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse."
CHAS. MASON, Commissioner of Patents.

"Inventors cannot employ a person more trustworthy or more capable of securing for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office."
EDMUND BURKE, late Com. of Patents.

BOSTON, Oct. 19, 1870.

R. H. EDDY, Esq.—Dear Sir: you procured for me, in 1870, my first patent. Since then you have acted for and advised me in hundreds of cases, and procured many patents, re-issues and extensions. I have occasionally employed the best agencies in New York, Philadelphia and Washington, but I still give you almost the wole of my business, in your line, and advise othebr o employ you.
Yours truly, GEORGE DRAPER.
Boston, January 1, 1885.—1 y

FOR SALE.

House and land on Aborn street belonging to the estate of the late P. L. WINCHESTER. The house is two and one-half stories, and contains fourteen rooms, and is in good condition. The land measures about 10,000 feet, and there is connected with the premises a good stable. For terms or further particulars apply to
GEORGE J. WINCHESTER,
Administrator
dec 19

CATARRH.

BY A. P. LIGHTHILL, M. D.

The earliest symptoms of Catarrh is a discharge from the head, consisting sometimes of a clear acid fluid, but oftener of a thick, fœtid, purulent yellow or greenish matter which is usually secreted in excessive abundance, and discharged through the nostrils for throat, and frequently by both channel.

The nature of this discharge varies in different cases, and even in the same individual at different times. In some it is copious, and of a loose or fluid character, while in others it is very viscid or gummy, adhering to the diseased membrane with glue-like tenacity; often this offensive matter concretes in dry, hard masses of crusts, which obstruct breathing and are very difficult to detach, their dislodgment requiring most violent efforts. Sometimes these incrustations come away in lumps of a deep green tint, but occasionally in broad and flat casts of a notable size, on which traces of blood may at times be observed. This condition is very liable to run to serious ulceration, involving a loss of the bony structure of the nose and a subsequent flattening of that organ, and is invariably accompanied by a breath of exceedingly fœtid and sickening odor. In some cases it becomes so revoltingly offensive as to render the sufferer an object of disgust to himself as well as to others.

The nasal membrane is thickened and congested, causing the nose to be stopped up, sometimes on one side, sometimes on the other, and often on both, giving rise to a disagreeable, stuffy sensation in the head, and occasionally to violent paroxysms of sneezing.

A feeling of fullness, heat, irritation, soreness or pain is generally experienced in the nostrils, near the root of the nose, as well as in the upper part of the throat, above and below the soft palate. A distressing sensation of heavy weight or compression is usually complained of over the forehead, especially in the region immediately above and between the eyes. Sometimes the pain is obstinately fixed in one particular part, as in the temples, on top of the head, at the back of the neck, or behind the orbits; and occasionally it manifests itself in the face, of so severe a character that it is frequently mistaken for neuralgia.

The voice is generally affected, and becomes hoarse, weak and uneven, assuming a nasal character, or an unpleasant snuffling quality. Cough of variable severity is not unfrequently one of the symptoms and results of Catarrh.

The sense of smell is generally blunted or entirely lost, and a similar effect on taste may be occasionally observed. The eyes are apt to become irritable, and disposed to water excessively on exposure to the cold or wind, and a sense of weariness of sight is usually experienced after slight exertions. Hearing becomes frequently more or less impaired, and noises in the head very often add materially to the existing distress.

The stomach generally suffers more or less, and becomes weak and irritable; the appetite is capricious, and nearly always bad in the morning.

The patient often complains of lassitude and fatigue, an incapacity for either physical for mental exertions, and a constant disposition to drowsiness and sleep. The mental faculties are also sometimes slightly affected, loss of memory being not unfrequently experienced.

Catarrh may prove fatal, either by debilitating the system and wearing out the patient, or by travelling downward and producing consumption. This fact has been so repeatedly noticed that all experienced practitioners now look upon Catarrh as one of the earliest manifestations of this dreaded complaint. Among educated physicians in this or any other country, Dr. Lighthill was the first to devote his study and investigation to the cure of Catarrh and kindred diseases, and the happy results which attended his labor have been attested to by many of the most prominent citizens of Boston and vicinity. Cases abandoned as hopeless by other physicians have promptly yielded to his painless and effective treatment.

ASTHMA

For years Dr. Lighthill has made this distressing disease his special study, investigating carefully the causes that produce it; his labor was fully rewarded, for he not only established its true pathological condition, but also discovered a new and correct system of treatment for its cure. Hundreds of cases who have been under his care have found permanent relief from this wonderful discovery, from the beginning of this treatment prompt benefit is experienced which is ultimately followed by a complete and radical cure.

An experience of 30 years of constant practice enables Dr. Lighthill to decide on the first examination as to the cureability of any disease within specialty, and no case will be accepted for treatment unless the chances are for favorable results. His specialty comprises the cure of and affections of the Nervous system from whatever cause.

CATARRH, THROAT AFFECTIONS ASTHMA, CONSUMPTION, DEAFNESS DISCHARGE FROM THE EAR, DISEASES OF THE EYE, BLOOD, SKIN, LIVER AND KIDNEY

DR. LIGHTHILL,

Can be consulted

Every Thursday afternoon and evening,

From 2 until 8.30 P. M.

—AT THE—

Essex House, Salem,

And every forenoon from 8 until 12, at his office.

OF 115 BOYLSTON ST., BOSTON.

CONSULTATION FREE.

Sunbeams.

It is ungrammatical to say of a dun that he is a dude.

A one-legged man will never be troubled with wet feet.

A shoemaker may die, but he can never breathe his last.

Strange to say, lacquer work keeps many people busy in Japan.

A most unsatisfactory piece of sculpture is the "bust" of a boiler.

A Detroit ecclesiastical dude is known as the tony pastor of that city.

To the pure all things are pure—except city milk and cheap groceries.

A painting is called a rare work sometimes because it isn't well done.

"Are you warm?" "Yes." "You lukewarm. Yes, I might have known."

A financially weak citizen said, the other day, that he was overlooked by the public. Nobody took any note of him.

A reporter overheard the following remark one gossip made to another yesterday: "I live down by the canal. Won't you come down and drop in?"

It takes eight hundred full-blown roses to make a taplespoonful of perfume, whilst a shilling's worth of cooked onions will scent a neighborhood.

A curios negro superstition is that a man who has been struck by lightning cannot swim. He probably can't swim, but he ought to be able to float.

A man should never doubt the possibility of getting a quart of whisky into a pint flask when he has seen how his wife can get a No. 6 foot into a No. 4 shoe.

What in the old verson was called called "leasing" in the new version is termed "lying, or falsehood." The real estate agents have brought this on themselves.

A wise exchange says: "Only one woman in a thousand can whistle." This probably results from the fact that so long as a woman can talk she doesn't care to whistle.

The first essay at a female high school commencement on Friday last was entitled: "Wanted, a Man." The sweet girl graduate has begun her husband hunting early.

"My dear," said a husband in startling tones, after awaking his wife in the night, "I have swallowed a dose of strychnine!" "Well, then, for goodness' sake lie still, or it may come up."

"I got up at four o'clock this morning," remarked the bookkeeper to the boss. "Indeed? You must have been very dry," quietly responded the boss, and the conversation came to an end.

Somehow or other everybody some time or other wants to sing "Auld Lang Syne," and only one man in a million knows the words, and he only knows the first verse and he doesn't sing it right.

A young Brooklynite, after listening some time to the music of an organ, said to the young lady who manipulated the keys: "Can you play—let me see—'Sweet—Sweet Spirits of Niter!'"

The person who wants to know why the boy stood on the burning deck is informed that it was probably due to a fear that he would not improve his hand by drowning, or perhaps he was trying to bluff his father.

The mind cure is the racket most vigorously worked. Any person who happens to come down with smallpox can get rid of it in two minutes by making his mind believe it is simply a case of buckwheat pimples.

"How beautifully that woman sings!" said one lady to another who was in gorgeous attire and blazing with diamonds. "Is she a mezzo soprano?" "No, I guess not. I think she is a Swede," replied the other.

Miss Cleveland's book is all right, no doubt, but when it makes the Voice of Destiny address Joan of Arc, saying, "Thou art the man," we feel bound to protest. We don't believe Destiny makes any breaks of that sort.

Junior Partner—"Our traveling man ought to be punished. He told one of our customers in Albany that I am an ignorant fool." Senior Partner—"I shall speak to him without fail and insist that no more of our office secrets be divulged."

In some parts of Africa girls must be six feet high before they are allowed to marry. It is not stated how high the young men must be, but we should think that in a country where female full-dress consists of a mole on the back and a bone ring in the nose. They would never be "short" after marriage.

"Why is your hair so gray, mamma?" —Mamma: "Well, because your are such a naughty child sometimes." Infant prodigy: "What a naughty child you must have been! Poor grandma's hair is quite white!"

"What do you want to set such a tough chicken before me?" indignantly exclaimed a fair damsel in a restaurant the other day.—"'Age before beauty,' always, you know, ma'am," replied the polite attendant, who well knew how to serve his employer and a tough chicken at the same time.

School inspector (examining apt scholar): "Where is the north pole?"—"I don't know, sir."—"Don't know! Are you not ashamed that you don't know where the north pole is?"—"Why, sir, if Sir John Franklin and Sir George Nares couldn't find it, how should I know where it is?"

A certain young prince is just like other little boys. His governess impressed upon him recently the necessity of being polite and pretty to those who approached him. The next day one of his wishes was refused. "If you don't give me what I want," said the little prince, I'll make faces at the people."

The proprietor of a cotton factory put this notice on the gate:—"No cigars or good-looking men admitted." In explanation he said, "The one will set a flame agoing among my cotton, and the other among my girls. I won't admit such dangerous things into my establishment. The risk is too great."

"Gray hairs are honorable and becoming to people who have passed the meridian of life. I sincerely wish my head was covered with gray hairs," exclaimed Major Tompkins. The ladies of the company screamed out with one voice, "Why, Major, what an awful wish!" Tompkins made no reply, but took off his bright brown wig, and exposed a finely-polished bald plate.

The belated dog days of last week have left us.

THE BEST

boon ever bestowed upon man is perfect health, and the true way to insure health is to purify your blood with Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Mrs. Eliza A. Clough, 34 Arlington st., Lowell, Mass., writes: "Every winter and spring my family, including myself, use several bottles of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Experience has convinced me that, as a powerful purifier, it is very much superior to any other preparation of Sarsaparilla. All persons of scrofulous or consumptive tendencies, and especially delicate children, are sure to be greatly benefited by its use." J. W. Starr, Laconia, Iowa, writes: "For years I was troubled with Scrofulous complaints. I tried several different preparations, which did me little, if any, good. Two bottles of Ayer's Sarsaparilla effected a complete cure. It is my opinion that this medicine is the best blood of the day." C. E. Upton, Nashua, N. H., writes: "For a number of years I was troubled with a humor in my eyes, and unable to obtain relief until I commenced using Ayer's Sarsaparilla. I have taken several bottles, am greatly benefited, and believe it to be the best of blood purifiers." R. Harris, Creel City, Ramsey Co., Dakota, writes: "I have been an intense sufferer, with Dyspepsia, for the past three years. Six months ago I began to use

Blood

Purifier

AYER'S Sarsaparilla

It has effected an entire cure, and I am now as well as ever."

Sold by all Druggists.

Price $1; Six bottles, $5.

Prepared by Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass., U. S. A.

WELCOME

TRADE MARK.

SOAP

PAYS NO FANCY PROFIT

But is an original compound, made from the PUREST STOCK, and is sold by the makers and dealers nearer the cost of production than any other Laundry Soap in the market. See that you get this Soap, and not accept any of the numerous imitations that pay the grocer more money to recommend. The word WELCOME and the Clasped Hands are on every bar.

oct 7—3m

SALEM & DANVERS STREET RAILWAY CO.

TIME TABLE.

NEW SUMMER ARRANGEMENT.

Leave Putnamville for Peabody and Salem 6.45, 7.45, 8.45, 9 45, 10.45, 11.45 A. M., 12.45, 1.15, 1.45, 2.15, 2.45, 3 15, 3 45, 4.15, 4 45, 5.15, 5.45, 6.15, 6.45, 7.15, 7.45, 8.15, 8 45, 9,15 P. M.

Leave Peabody for Salem, 7.25, 8.25, 9.25, 10.25, 11.25 A. M., 12.25, 1.25, 1.55, 2.25, 2.55, 3.25, 3.55, 4 25, 4,55, 5.25, 5 55, 6.25, 6.55, 7.25, 7,55, 8.25, 8.55, 9.25, 9.55 P. M.

Leave Salem for Danvers, Danversport, Putnamville, Tapleyville and Danvers Centre, 7.45, 8.45, 9.45, 10 45, 11.45 A. M., 12 45, 1.45, 2 15, 2.45, 3,15, 3.45, 4.15, 4.45, 5.15, 5.45, 6.15, 6.45, 7.15, 7.45, 8 15, 8.45, 9.15, 9.45, 10.15 P. M.

Leave Tapleyville for Salem via Danversport, 6.45, 7.45, 8 45, 9.45, 10 45, 11.45 A. M., 12.45, 1.15, 1.45, 2.15, 2.45, 3.15, 3.45, 4.15, 4.45, 5.15, 5.45, 6.15, 6.45, 7.15, 7.45, 8.15, 8.45, 9,15 P. M.

Leave Danvers Square for Salem via Peabody and Salem via Danversport, 9.55, 7.55, 8.55, 9.55, 10.55, 11.55 A. M., 12.55, 1.25, 1.55, 2.25, 2 55, 3.25, 3.55, 4,25, 4.55, 5 25, 5 55, 6.25, 6.55, 7.25, 7.55, 8.25, 8.55, 9.25, P. M.

Leave Salem for Peabody and Danvers, 7.45, 8.45, 9 45, 10,45, 11.45 A. M, 12.45, 1.45, 2.15, 2.45, 3.15, 3.45, 4.15, 4.45, 5 15, 5 45, 9.15, 6.45, 7.15, 7.45, 8.15, 8.45, 9.15, 9.45, 10.15 P. M.

Leave Peabody for Danvers, Danvers Centre and Putnamville, 8.05, 9.05, 10.05, 11.05, A. M., 12.05, 1 05, 2.05, 2.35, 3.05, 3.35, 4.05, 4.35, 5.05, 5.35, 6.05, 6.35, 7.05, 7.35, 8.05, 8.35 9.05, 9.35, 10.05, 10.35 P. M.

Putnamville and Tapleyville cars meet in the Square and transfer passengers going either to Salem or Peabody,

All cars make connections for Tapleyville Danvers Centre and Putnamville.

SUNDAY TIME.

Sunday time same as above, with this exception—the first trip from each point is omitted.

DAVID N. COOK Supt.

A PRIZE Send six cents for postage, and receive free, a costly box of goods which will help you to more money right away than anything else in this world. All, of either sex, succeed from first hour. The broad road to fortune opens before the workers, absolutely sure, At once address, TRUE & Co., Augusta, Me

---

Family Flour.

A Full stock of Spring Wheat patent process and Winter Wheat Family Flour, fresh ground from old wheat, and warranted.
CHAS. A. ROPES & SON.

Saving Institutions.

WARREN

FIVE CENTS SAVINGS BANK.

PEABODY

PRESIDENT.

Rufus H. Brown

Vice Presidents,

Stephen Blaney,	Geo. F. Osborne,
Lewis Allen,	Amos Merrill,
Chas. B. Farley,	John A. Lord.

Trustees,

Rufus H. Brown,	Alex. B. Merrill,
Stephen Blaney,	C. Warren Osborne,
Lewis Allen,	Geo. S. Osborne,
Chas. B. Farley,	Nathl. Symonds.
Geo. F. Osborne,	Aaron F. Clark,
Amos Merrill,	Albert A. Messer,
John A. Lord,	John Pinder.
Benj. S. Wheeler,	Wm P. Clark.
Wm. H. Little,	Reuben G. Nelson,
Aaron W. Warren,	Albert H. Merrill.

Clerk,

Albert H. Merrill.

Committee of Investment.

Rufus H. Brown,

Lewis Allen,	Alex. B. Merrill
C. Warren Osborne.	Nathl. Symonds.

Dividends are credited to the depositor as soon as declared, and immediately put upon interest.

New deposits commence drawing interest on the third Wednesday of February, May, August and November.

Peabody, March 6, 1878.

SALEM

FIVE CENTS SAVINGS BANK.

Cor. Washington & Essex Sts.,

WILLIAM H. JELLY, President.

CHARLES H. HENDERSON, Treas.

REMOVAL.

F. A. WRUCK

Watchmaker and Jeweller,

Would inform his friends and the public generally that he has removed from 165 to

276 ESSEX STREET,

(Wheeler & Wilson's Sewing Machine Office)

Where he will be pleased to see his former customers and as many new ones as will favor him with their patronage.

FINE WATCH AND CLOCK REPAIRING AT REDUCED PRICES PERSONALLY ATTENDED TO

HAZEN A. SPAULDING,

DRUGGIST.

9 Allen's Block, Peabody, Mass.

Where can be found a first class assortment of Pure Drugs and Medicines; also a large assortment of Toilet Articles and Fancy Goods at moderate prices.

A large assortment of Imported and Domestic Cigars.

Physicians' Prescriptions a Specialty.

HAZEN A. SPAULDING

Store Connected by Telephone.

CENTRAL FISH MARKET

(Formerly Southwick's.

RALPH F. DODGE, Prop.

OYSTERS OYSTERS OYSTERS

In the shell or opened.

IPSWICH CLAMS FRESH EVERY DAY

A good selection of Norfolk, Providence River oysters a specialty. The famous Lynn Haven Bay Oysters.

A good assortment of Fresh, Salt, Smoked and Pickled Fish. Orders received and delivered promptly. Connected by telephone.

At the old stand on the Square, opposite the monument.

WIN more money than at anything else by taking an agency for the best selling book out. Beginners succeed grandly. None fail. Terms free. HALLETT BOOK Co., Portland, Me.

HELP for working people. Send 10 cents postage, and we will mail you free, a royal, valuable sample box of goods that will put you in the way of making more money in a few days than you ever thought possible at any business. Capital not required. You can live at home and work in spare time only, or all the time. All of both sexes, of all ages, grandly successful. 50 cents to $5 easily earned every evening. That all who want work may test the business, we make this unparalleled offer: To all who are not well satisfied we will send $1 to pay for the trouble of writing us. Full particulars, directions, etc., sent free. Immense pay absolutely sure for all who start at once. Don't delay. Address STINSON & Co., Portland, Me.

MUNROE & ARNOLD'S

PEABODY AND BOSTON

RAILROAD EXPRESS.

Express leaves Peabody at			9 47 A. M
Freight "	"	at	5 00 P. M
Express "	Boston	at	3 30 P. M
Freight "	"	at	4 00 P. M

OFFICE AT FREIGHT DEPOT, Peabody

Express Offices in Boston, 174 Washington and 15 New Devonshire Street.

Freight Office in Boston, 128 State Street

☞ Particular attention paid to removing Furniture, collecting Bills, Notes, Drafts &c., Smallest favors thankfully received.

B. M. HILLS'

PEABODY and SALEM EXPRESS.

CHANGE OF TIME.

Connects with Eastern and No. Conway Trains Leaves Peabody at 7.30 A. M., and 1.30 P. M. Salem, at 10 A. M., and 4.45 P. M.

Order Boxes.—PEABODY, at Holman's, Pickering's, Bushby & Johnson's, Frost s Drug Store and Sutton's Wool Store.

SALEM, at Savory's Express Office, Roberts' Store, corner Washington and Front Sts., and 15 Central Street.

B. M. HILLS' Express connects with the Eastern and Western Expresses

---

ESTES'

SALEM AND PEABODY EXPRESS.

Leaves Peabody at 7.30 A. M., 1.30 P. M.
Leaves Salem at 10.30 A. M., 4.30 P. M.

Order Slates in Peabody, at G. Stevens', G. H. Jacobs', L. Pratt's, B. B. Humphrey's, W. JO. Batchelder's.

In Salem at J. V. & J. Hanson & Co's, Roberts Fruit Store, Henry Hale's, E. Heffernan's, J. J. Mullin, F. C. Radford's, C. A. Ropes & Son, Geo A. Wells & Co's., C. M. Buffum's.

Connects with Eastern Express. Also connects with No. Conway, and the Beverly, Ipswich and Marblehead Expresses.

All orders promptly attended to and satisfaction guaranteed.

CHAS. H. ESTES,

TOWNSEND'S

PEABODY & BOSTON EXPRESS.

Leaves Peabody at 10 A. M. over the Wakefield Branch R. R.

Leaves the Boston Office, 32 Court Square, at 2 P. M.

All business entrusted to my care will be safely and carefully attended to. Daily and weekly papers supplied.

Order Slates:—At B. F. Stevens', Bushby's, Batchelder's, B. B. Humphrey's, E. S. Howard's, and Nugent Bros. stores.

JAMES F. FOYE.

THOMAS H. O'KEEFE.

JOBBING AND EXPRESSING

of all kinds promptly attended to.

Persons desiring the removal of furnitue or ashes, rubbish, you can have such work satisfactorily done by leaving orders at G., Stevens', Batchelder's, or addressing Box 545, Peabody.

NEW COUPE.

Henry C. Wilson would inform the public that he will run a

PUBLIC CARRIAGE

to and from each train, and will also attend to calls around town, and to late trains and entertainments in Salem. Will also attend to Baggage Expressing and Jobbing of all kinds. Terms Reasonable. Order slate at Depot.

HENRY C. WILSON,
Peabody Mass.

CROSS, PHOTOGRAPHER.

☞ There having been demand or more Clubs, I have concluded to issue a limited number.

INDUCEMENTS:

Two dozen Cards and two Cabinets given to any one getting up a Club of ten persons. Price of Club, $20. Each person to have one dozen Cards and one Cabinet finished in any of the different styles desired.

IRA P. NADOR,

DEALER IN

CHOICE CONFECTIONERY

46 MARKET STREET LYNN

CHARLES SIMONDS,

LIVERY STABLE,

(HOTEL STABLE).

SAFE and Reliable Horses, and Easy Carriages of the best style, furnished at short notice, for Funerals, Weddings, Business or Pleasure Riding.

$200,000 in presents given away. Send us 5 cents postage, and by mail you will get free a package of goods of large value, that will start you in work that will at once bring you in money faster than anything else in America. All about the $200,000 in presents with each box. Agents wanted everywhere, of either sex, of all ages, for all the time, or spare time only, to work for us at their own home. Fortunes for all workers absolutely assured. Don't delay. H. HALLETT & Co., Portland, Maine.

Professional Cards.

THOMAS M. STIMPSON

Attorney and Counselor-at-Law.

194 ESSEX STREET SALEM

Residence Lowell Street, Peabody.

HENRY WARDWELL,

Attorney and Counselor-at-Law.

PEABODY,

And 35 Court St., Boston

FRANK E. FARNHAM,

Attorney and Counselor-at-Law.

REAL ESTATE, INSURANCE AND INVESTMENT AGENT,

ALLEN'S BLOCK   Peabody Square,

REMOVAL.

B. C. PERKINS,

Counselor at Law,

Has removed to Kinsman's Block,

81 WASHINGTON STREET, SALEM.

Evening consultations at residence, Peabody.

EUGENE T. McCARTHY,

Attorney and Counsellor at Law.

NO. 8 ALLEN'S BLOCK,

PEABODY.

oct 29—1y

FREDERIC G. PRESTON,

Attorney and Counsellor at Law.

ALLEN'S BLOCK.

RESIDENCE, 171 BOSTON ST., SALEM.

CHARLES A. WEARE,

Attorney and Counsellor at Law.

ALLEN'S BUILDING,

PEABODY, MASS.

MISS MARY E. LYNCH

TEACHER OF

Piano and Organ.

South Peabody, Mass.

Terms of tuition 8 and 10 dollars. Pupils visited at their homes if desired.

MISS ANNIE L. ORR,

TEACHER OF

VOCAL & INSTRUMENTAL MUSIC

Would solicit pupils. For terms apply to W P. Clark, or Miss Orr, No. 7 Palfry Place. Lynn, Mass. apr 29

Business Cards.

HENRY L. WHIDDEN,

PAINTER.

Orders left at A. H. Whidden's Store will be attended to.

J. H. ALLEN,

UNDERTAKER,

Removed to 36 St. Peter street, Salem

jan 11

W. S. OSBORNE,

TOWN UNDERTAKER & FURNISHER

Home, 96 Central St., Peabody. Office Second Door west of Hay Scales.

EDWIN B. BALCOM,

Architect and Builder.

Plans, Specifications and Estimates furnished at Short Notice. Contracts Made and Faithfully executed.

Shop on Walnut St. Residence, 78 Washington St.

PEABODY, MASS.

$1

13 WEEKS.

The POLICE GAZETTE will be mailed, securely wrapped, to any address in the United States for three months on receipt of

ONE DOLLAR.

Liberal discount allowed to postmasters, agents and clubs. Sample copies mailed free. Address all orders to

RICHARD K. FOX,

FRANKLIN SQUARE, N Y.

TRY LYONS'

Hair Tonic.

It cleanses the scalp, removes dandruff, and promotes the growth of the hair.

Price 50 Cents per Bottle.

Put up and for sale only by

P. J. LYONS,

on the square.

Hale's Honey the great Cough cure, 25c., 50c. & $1
Glenn's Sulphur Soap heals & beautifies, 25c.
German Corn Remover kills Corns & Bunions
Hill's Hair and Whisker Dye—Black and Brown, 50c.
Pike's Toothache Drops cure in 1 Minute, 25c
Dean's Rheumatic Pills are a sure cure, 50c.
feb 18—1y

HEADQUARTERS !

FOR

CIGARS.

THE BEST

to be found in the world? To prove it just call at the HORSE RAILROAD STATION on the Square, and see them

GEO. STEVENS,

PEABODY SQUARE,

Agent for the Naumkeag Laundry.

MAYO'S

Compound Vegetable Anæsthetic.

A safe and pleasant substitute for gas and ether.

Discovered by Dr. N. K. Mayo of Boston, April 1883, subsequently administered by him in nearly two thousand cases, producing perfect slumber, being applicable to the child, the delicate sensitive woman as well as the hardy man. No ill effects have followed its use in any case, it acting rather as a vegetable tonic.

It controls the patient one-fourth longer than gas giving us time to remove from three to twenty teeth. It is with great confidence we have introduced it into our practice, giving very successful results.

DRS. FRIZZELL & WILLIAMS

DENTISTS.

LEE HALL

Opposite City Hall, Lynn, Mass.

Administered also at our branch office, Marblehead.

Dr. Williams' Toothache Drops at Druggists.

O. B. CHADWICK & CO.,

(SUCCESSORS TO CHAS. TAPLEY)

FIRE INSURANCE AGENTS

NO. 8 ALLEN'S BLOCK, PEABODY

Over $12,000,000 Cash Capital represented

Also Agents for Holyoke, Merrimac, Quincy, and Dorchester Mutual Fire Ins. Cos.

Particular attention given to insuring Household Furniture, Family Wearing Apparel, Musical Instruments, Libraries, and Merchandise of all kinds in sums of $100 and upward, for one, three or five years, at the owest rates.

D. P. GROSVENOR.

PHARMACIST AND DRUGGIST.

Compounder of

Physicians Prescriptions

and dealer in

RELIABLE DRUGS.

35 MAIN STREET.

PEABODY, MASS.

PEABODY

LAUNDRY.

Goods called for and delivered free of charge.

C. A. SANGER

7 LOWELL STREET,

UP STAIRS.

SWEETSER'S

DRUG STORE

NO, 37 MAIN STREET,

PEABODY

Drugs and Medicines of all kinds; Toilet Articles, Sponges, Brushes, Perfumery, &c., constantly on hand.

Prescriptions carefully and promptly prepared.

REMOVED TO

No. 241 Essex St..

PRICE BLOCK,

DANIEL T. SMITH,

Watchmaker.

CRAIG'S

KIDNEY CURE

The Genuine.

WILLIAM T. LEE

AGENT

ST. JACOBS OIL
TRADE MARK

THE GREAT

GERMAN REMEDY

FOR PAIN.

CURES

Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Sciatica,

Lumbago, Backache, Headache, Toothache,

Sore Throat, Swellings, Sprains, Bruises,

Burns, Scalds, Frost Bites,

AND ALL OTHER BODILY PAINS AND ACHES.

Sold by Druggists and Dealers everywhere. Fifty Cents a bottle.

Directions in 11 Languages.

THE CHARLES A. VOGELER CO.

(Successors to A. VOGELER & CO.) Baltimore, Md., U. S. A.

For Instant Use

As a reliable remedy, in cases of Croup, Whooping Cough, or sudden Colds, and for the prompt relief and cure of throat and lung diseases, Ayer's Cherry Pectoral is invaluable. Mrs. E. G. Edgerly, Council Bluffs, Iowa, writes: "I consider Ayer's Cherry Pectoral a most important remedy for home use. I have tested its curative power, in my family, many times during the past thirty years, and have never known it to fail. It will relieve the most serious affections of the throat and lungs, whether in children or adults." John H. Stoddard, Petersburg, Va., writes: "I have never found a medicine equal to

AYER'S

Cherry Pectoral

for the prompt relief of throat and lung diseases peculiar to children. I consider it an absolute cure for all such affections, and am never without it in the house." Mrs. L. E. Herman, 187 Mercer st., Jersey City, writes: "I have always found Ayer's Cherry Pectoral useful in my family." B. T. Johnson, Mt. Savage, Md., writes: "For the speedy cure of sudden Colds, and for the relief of children afflicted with Croup, I have never found anything equal to Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. It is the most potent of all the remedies I have ever used." W. H. Stickler, Terre Haute, Ind., writes: "Ayer's Cherry Pectoral cured my wife of a severe lung affection, supposed to be Quick Consumption. We now regard the Pectoral as a household necessity." E. M. Breckenridge, Brainerd, Minn., writes: "I am subject to Bronchitis, and, wherever I go, am always sure to have a bottle of with me. It is without a rival for the cure of bronchial affections."

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral

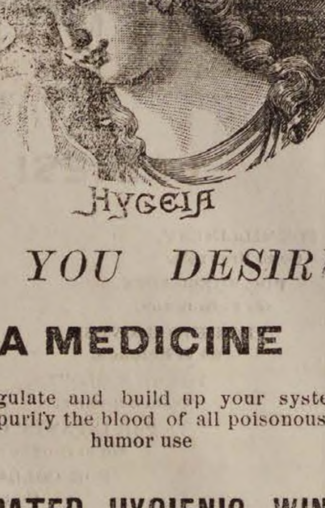
PREPARED BY

Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass.

For sale by all Druggists.



IF YOU DESIRE

A MEDICINE

To regulate and build up your system and purify the blood of all poisonous humor use

FERRATED HYGIENIC WINE

FOR SALE BY DRUGGISTS.

BOSTON & LOWELL R. R.
OCTOBER 5, 1885.

PASSENGER SERVICE FROM SALEM:

Leave Salem for Lowell, and Lawrence at 7 10 10 55 A. M., 4 40 P. M.
Leave Lowell for Salem, at 7 35 A. M., 1 10, 6 P. M
Leave Lawrence for Salem, at 7 45 A. M., 1 15, 6 P. M.
Leave Wilmington Junction for Salem, at 8 09 A. M., 1 38, 6 24 P. M.
Leave North Reading for Salem, at 8 20 A. M., 1 48, 6 34 P. M.
Leave West Peabody for Salem, at 8 34 A. M., 2, 6 45 P. M.

The 7 10 A. M. and 4 40 P. M. trains from Salem connect at Wilmington Junction for Boston via B. & L. R. R.

Leave Boston (Boston & Lowell Depot) for Wilmington Junction and North Reading, at 1, 5 30 P. M.

All trains from Salem connect at Lowell for Nashua, Manchester and Concord, N. H.

The 7 10 A. M. train connects at Lowell for Peterboro, Keene and intermediate stations.

The 10 55 A. M. train connects at Ayer Junction for stations on W. & N. R. R., Springfield, Hartford, New Haven and New York; also for Troy, Albany and the West via Hoosac Tunnel Line.

C. S MELLEN, Gen'l Supt. LUCIUS TUTTLE, Gen'l Pass. Agent.

ESTIMATES CHEERFULLY GIVEN ON ALL KINDS OF PRINTING.

Now is the time to rid the system of humors and all Blood Impurities. Ferrated Hygienic Wine is a most effective remedy. tf

A SECRET OF LIVING.

Light and life are inseparable, that is, such was the generally received opinion many years ago, and in accordance with it, houses were built, liberally supplied with windows, and as liberally now—but go along any one of the fashionable streets of New York, and you will find not less than three, and often six contrivances to keep out the sunshine and gladness. First, the venetian shutter on the outside; second, the close shutter on the inside; third, the blind which is moved by rollers; then, fourthly, there are the lace curtains; fifth, the damask or other material.

In the same train come the exclusion of external air by means of double sash, and a variety of patent contrivances to keep any little stray whiff of air from entering at the bottom, sides and tops of windows. At this rate, we will, in due time, dwindle into Lilliputs, if indeed we do not die off sooner, with all science and art, and leave the world to begin anew, from the few sons of the forest, who persisted in eschewing civilization. We lay it down as a health axiom—the more out-door air and cheery sunshine a man can use, the longer he will live.

But the preserved sunshine! What about it? That very same sunshine which so lavishly beamed upon our continent with all its tropical fervor in the earlier ages of creation, what has become of it? A casual reader of the Journal will exclaim: "What a fool of a question that is!" Let us leisurely inquire into it; but in doing so we must take it for granted that the reader knows something. In Central America, where the sun shines with all its brilliancy and fierceness, vegetation is of fabulous growth, of a luxuriance almost incredible. But how does a tree grow? Without light no wood is made in any vegetable growth; the woody fibre is from carbonic acid gas being absorbed by the leaves and through the bark of any growth. But light separates the two constituents which compose this carbonic acid gas, carbon and oxygen, and two different usages are made of it; the oxygen is liberated, thrown out and breathed by animals and men, while the carbon or "coal" goes to form the woody fibre of the plant, which presents a kind of ring, plainly seen in sawing through any tree, the number of rings indicating the age of the tree in years; some of these rings are broader, some narrower, indicating most probably the more or less sunshine of that year, for a plant will not grow as much in a cold summer as in a warm one.

In a section of a California tree, a part of which we have seen, more than two thousand such rings were counted, showing that these trees must have lived in the times of David, and perhaps of Abraham. In the earlier ages of the world, some great flood of floods swept over the immense growths of the warmer climes, which then, no doubt, included what is now called Ohio and Pennsylvania. In process of time this growth was covered with earth and stones, and eventually became coal, the anthracite and bituminous, with which we are so familiar; and the very identical carbon which the sunlight of ages ago separated for the purpose of vegetation is now, by its combination with its old associate, oxygen, returning to its original condition of carbonic acid gas, and in making that change of what we call "burning," warms our houses, lights up our streets, and in preparing to grease our rail cars, by the oil which it is capable of yielding.

THE DEAD SEA OF THE WEST.

The famous Dead Sea of the West, Mono Lake, situated in Mono County, California, is thus described by a writer in The San Francisco Chronicle. Its water is so strongly impregnated with alkalies that the hand held for a few minutes in it will crack open and the skin be eaten off. No living thing exists in it, though it is said that often, after strong winds have blown across its surface, there is a layer of worms several feet wide on its leeward shore. It cleanses cloth dipped in it almost instantly, and if they are not as speedily removed does worse. Its shores are barren, bleak and lonely in the extreme, bordered by a soil that will grow nothing but the scrubbiest of sage brush. In the prosperous times of Bodie a steamer plied on the lake, but it is now laid up in ordinary. The length of the lake is about thirty miles and its greatest width about eighteen miles. Seen from this magnificient point, surrounded by the great walks of Bloody Canyon, it is one of the noblest views on earth, but at the same time it only proves to one who has been about its shores and toiled across the deserted and sandy interval to the welcome foot of the Sierra, with even no better way across than the Bloody Canyon, that truly "distance lends enchantment to the view."

* * *

The use of fire in the preparation of food is peculiar to man, who has been called the "cooking animal." A few of the strictly herbivorous and carnivorous animals have shown a capacity for changing their diet. Thus, the horse and cow may be brought to eat fish and flesh; the sea birds can be habituated to grain; cats are fond of alligator pears, and dogs take naturally to plantain. Certain animals, in passing from the young to the mature state, make a remarkable change of food; thus the tadpole feeds upon vegetable matter, but when it becomes a frog it lives on insects.

* * *

A woman that eats onions can keep a secret.

HORRORS OF PERSIAN SER[illegible]

Crimes of the foulest character are perpetrated within the recesses of these harems. Revenge, cruelty, intrigue, and infanticide, do not exhaust the list of evil deeds to which these prison houses are witnesses. The horrors lessen as the rank of the possessor of the harem decreases in greatness, until in houses of the ordinary merchants and mechanics the number of wives is few, and something like domestic life is seen. In the cases of the women of the villagers and laborers the veil is entirely dispensed with, and they may be seen following their occupations like women of their class in Europe or other parts of the world where the Mohammedan faith has not instilled the idea that the females of the nation are to be carefully watched and excluded from the gaze of all but their lords. Most of the harem women are of Circassian, Georgian, or Armenian blood, and are often fair in complexion, well-formed and handsome, with large, black, languishing eyes, rich red lips and pearly teeth. Their natural charms are, however, often destroyed by the custom they have of painting their cheeks with various colors, by constantly smoking, which spoils their teeth, and by the habit of tattooing on their persons various fanciful figures. A fine head of hair is looked upon as indispensable to a harem beauty. If nature denies this ornament it is supplied, wholly or in part, by artificial means—a custom which I am told is not unknown in a certain "kingdom by the sea," of which Teheran is not the capital. A shift and trousers of silk or cotton constitute the dress worn within doors, supplemented, if the weather be cold, by a jacket, shawl, cloak or furs. The head is enveloped in a silk handkerchief, so arranged as to form a kind of turban. When the women go outside they fold themselves in a wrapper of blue-checked stuff, which covers them from head to foot, only leaving a small laced opening for their eyes, but through which it is impossible for any one, even the lady's own husband, to detect the personality of the wearer. It is of something of the same nature as the saga of Spanish South America, and like the Peruvian ladies, the Persians cling to their incognita with the keenest relish, as one of the few fragments of personal liberty they possess. Frankish civilization is slowly penetrating Iran. But it has not yet progressed so far as to induce the women to wear gowns. These they call "trousers with one leg," and prefer to possess this garment with the normal number of subdivisions.

THE VERNACULAR OF THE TAR.

There is a technical name for everything on board ship, but the sailor has succeeded in inventing corruptions for many of these terms. Instead of saying "abaft," he prefers to say "beaft," and "fornst" does duty for "forward of." The proper term for an implement used in cleaning the decks is "squegee," but this is usually known to the sailor either as a "screegee" or "scootagee." The carpenter is known as "Chips," while the lord of the galley has his title added to his Christian name. If his name happens to be Joseph, he is known as "Joe, the cook." No other functionary on board ship has his title used in connection with his name on ordinary occassions. The captain is invariably known as the "Old Man." To each sailor's Christian name is prefixed either the name of the port from which he hails or an adjective expressive of some peculairity of his. If a sailor coming from Liverpool is named James his shipmates are apt to speak of him as "Liverpool Jim." Jack often speaks of his bunk as his "pew," and when about to retire expresses his determination to "turn into his pew." The officers frequently speak of an old sailor as a "whale." A drunken man is described as being about "three sheets in the wind," because his motion then somewhat resembles the staggering movement of a ship which has been forced by a gale to shorten her sail to three sheets of canvas. Many of the expressions, however, which the ideal sailor is popularly supposed to use are obsolete. The stage sailor calls his wife his "figure-head," and speaks contemptuously of landsmen as "land lubbers" and "swabs." The real sailor never uses these expressions in the senses referred to. He speaks of getting married as "getting spliced" or "getting switched," and women he regards affectionately as "the Judies." When he wishes any one to move he requests them to "slew round."

SALTPETRE BEDS OF NEVADA.

The saltpetre beds of Nevada are far better situated for the development of their deposits than the nitre region of South America, which is a desert devoid of water and all vegetable life. Water for all purposes is condensed from the ocean water, and carried to the nitre fields, while fuel has to be procured from the mountains in the south of Chili. In Nevada the saltpetre deposits are in the vicinity of a rich farming country, with an abundant supply of water and wood close at hand.

* * *

The German proverb, "If I rest I rust," applies to many things besides the key. If water rests it stagnates. If the tree rests, it dies, for its winter state is only half-rest. If the lungs rest we cease to breathe. If the heart rests, we die.

* * *

The sound of dropping nuts can now be heard.

W. P. B. Brooks & Co.,

151 Hanover St., Boston.

Furniture, Carpets,

STOVES, CROCKERY,
SILVER WARE.

And Everything in the Line, on Easy Terms.

☞ Always the Best Place to Trade

W. P. B. BROOKS, A. D. DAMON,
F. D. SPERRY.

E. R. MORSE SAFE CO.

MANUFACTURER OF

FIRE & BURGLAR PROOF SAFES, VAULT DOORS, STEEL CHESTS, SILVER SAFES, EXPRESS SAFES, FIRE AND THIEF PROOF JEWEL BOXES.

76 & 78 SUDBURY STREET, BOSTON.

Second hand SAFES.

SAFES bought and sold.

SAFES opened and repaired.

SAFES exchanged.

SAFES moved.

Combination LOCKS put on to Old Safes.

E. R. MORSE SAFE CO.
BOSTON

Our Safes have on a PATENT CONCEALED DIAL LOCK which is used as a day door and is a great protection in case of fire, as the dial cannot be melted or broken off.

E. R. MORSE.

Was established in business October 10th, 1844.

Store and

Window Awnings,

Hammocks,

Boatsails and

Wagon Covers

Anton M. Liebsch

7 DERBY WHARF

SALEM.

BURDETT

Business

COLLEGE

167 TREMONT ST., BOSTON.

Day and Evening Sessions.

Book-keeping, Business Arithmetic, Penmanship, Commercial Law, Business Correspondence, etc.

For complete information call at the College Office, or send for Journal.

y15—2m

BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS.

WHAT IS IT?

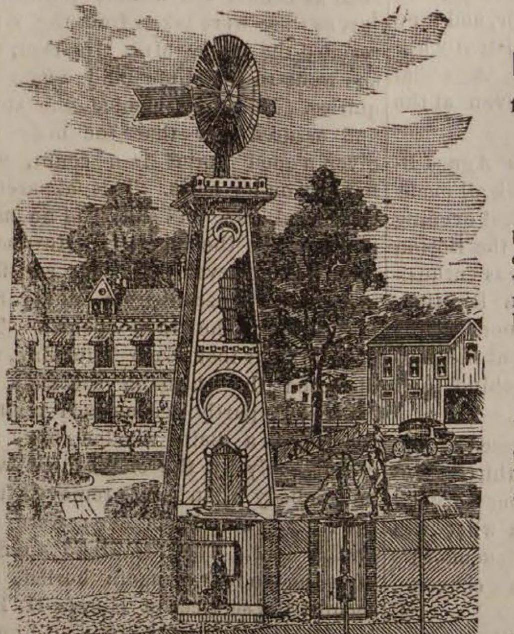
A strictly vegetable preparation, composed of a choice and skillful combination of Nature's best remedies. The discoverer does not claim it a cure for all the ills, but boldly warrants it cures every form of disease arising from a torpid liver, impure blood, disordered kidneys, and where there is a broken down condition of the System, requiring a prompt and permanent tonic, it never fails to restore the sufferer. Such is BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS. Sold by all druggists, who are authorized by the manufacturers to refund the price to any purchaser who is not benefited by their use.

PRICE, $1.00.

FOSTER, MILBURN & CO., Props.,

BUFFALO, NEW YORK.

ARTESIAN AND DRIVEN WELLS.



All of our

DRIVEN WELLS

for Domestic, Farm, or any other purpose well, receive prompt attention.

Thousands of these wells are being used in Tanneries, Breweries and other manufactories, where cool and better water is needed and also save water bills.

We are also prepared to

DRILL WELLS

six or eight inches in diameter through earth or rock, by steam power.

B. F. SMITH,

OFFICE,

266 WASHINGTON STREET,

Room 3, Boston

Cut showing the Driven Well flowing, pumped by Hand and Wind Power. Arranged with Set-Length, (anti-freezing), for Domestic, Farm and Irrigating purposes; where large amount of water is needed Steam Pumps are.

Conveyances.

BOSTON & MAINE RAILROAD
On and after Monday, Je. 25, 1885 trains will run as follows,—

EASTERN DIVISION

TRAINS LEAVE PEABODY FOR BOSTON AT 6 44, 7 25, 8 02, 8 31, 10 33, 11 07 A. M., 2 01, 3 37, 5 08, 6 46 P. M.
BOSTON FOR PEABODY, 8, 10 55 A. M., 1 M., 3, 4, 4 40, 5 15, 6 P. M.

LEAVE SALEM FOR

Lynn and Boston at 5 37, 6, 6,30, 7, 7 14, 7 35, 7 48 7 51, 8 13, 8 34 (does not stop at Lynn), 8 40 8 58, 9 20, 9 55, 10.48 A.M., 12 M., 12 30, 12 52 2 15, 3 12, 3 45, 4 10, 4 25, 5 17, 5 48, 6 33, 6.58 7 20, 7 57, 8 55, 9, 9 55 P. M. Sundays, 5.37 8 40, 11 35 A. M., 1 05, 3 05, 5 40, 8 15, P. M.
Swampscott, 6, 6 30, 7 14, 7.48 7 51, 8 40, 8 58, 10 48, A. M.. 12 M., 12 52, 2 15, 3 45, 4 25, 5 17, 5 48, 6 33, 6 58, 7 20, 7 57, 9, 9 55, P. M. Sundays, 8 40 11 35 A. M., 1 05, 3 05, 5 40, 8 15 P. M.
Beverly, 6 53, 8 11, 8 40, 10 42, 11 20 A. M., 12 02, 1 05, 2 27, 2 47, 3 56, 4 05, 5 12, 5 57 6 37, 7 05, 7 15, 7 45, 10 10, 11, P. M. Sundays 8 45 A. M.
Beverly Farms, Manchester and Gloucester—6 53, 8 40, 11 20 A. M., 2 47, 4 07, 5 35, 7 05, 7 45, 10 10 P M
Essex, 8 11 A. M., 3 56, 6 37 P. M.
Ipswich, 8 11, 9 35, 10 42 A. M., 1 05, 2 27, 3 56, 5 12, 6 37, 7 15 P. M, Sundays 8 45 A. M., 7 30 P. M.
Newburyport, 8 11, 9 35, 10, 10 42 A. M., 1 05, 2 02, 2 27, 3 56, 5 12, 6 37, 7 15 P. M. Sundays 8 45 A. M., 7 30 P. M.
Amesbury, 8 11, 10 42 A. M.. 1 05, 3 56, 5.12 P. M.
Portsmouth—8 11, 9 35, 10, 10 42 A. M.. 1 05 2 2:, 3 56, 5 12, ‡7 15 P. M. Sundays 8 45 A. M, 7 30 P. M.
Dover, 8 11, A. M., 2 02, 5 12 P. M.
Great Falls and Rochester, 8 11, 10 A. M., 2 02, 3 56 P. M.
Wolfboro—8 11, 10 A, M., 2 02, 3 56 P. M.
North Conway—8 11, 10 A M., 2 02 P. M.
Portland—8 11, 9 35 A M, 1 05, ‡7 15 P M. Sundays 7 30 P. M.
Augusta—9 35 A. M., 1 05, †‡7 15 P. M. Sundays 7 30 P. M.
Bangor—9 35 A. M., 1 05, †7 15 P. M. Sundays 7 30 P. M.
St. John and Halifax, 9 35 A. M. †7 15 P. M. Sundays, 7 30 P. M.
Montreal, 9 35 P. M.

And FOR SALEM—from

Montreal—10 15 P. M.
St. John—8 P. M. (daily oxcept Saturday).
Bangor, 8 A. M., 1 30, 8 P. M. Sundays 8 P. M.
Augusta, 6, 10 A. M., 2 45, 10 55 P. M. Sundays 10 55 P. M.
Portland—2, 9 A M, 1, 6 P M. Sundays, 2 A. M
North Conway—7 20, 11 A M, 3 30 P. M.
Wolfboro—6 05 (Mondays only), 8 15, 11 20 A M, 4 05 P M.
Rochester—7 22, 9 42 A. M., 1 05, 5 37 P. M.
Great Falls—7 38, 9 57 A. M, 1 18, 5 50 P. M.
Dover—7, 10 25 A. M., 4 30 P. M.
Portsmouth—4 05, 7 30, 7 35, 8 20, 10 50 A M, 1 55, 2 55, 5, 6 40, 7 40 P M, Sundays, 4 05 A. M, 4 P. M.
Amesbury—6 40, 8 40, 11 15 A. M., 1 30, 3 05, 5 20 P. M.
Newburyport—4 45, 6 30, 7, 8, 8 13, 9 05, 11 35 A. M. 2 35, 3 30, 3 38, 5 43, 7 20, 8 15 P. M. Sundays, 4 45 A. M., 4 45 P. M.
Ipswich—5 07, 6 48, 7 17, 8 15, 8 31, 9 25, 11 59 A. M., 2 49, 3 55, 6 06, 7 36 P. M. Sundays 5 07 A. M., 5 06 P. M.
Essex—7, 11 45 A. M, 5 45 P. M.
Rockport—6 05, 7 20, 8 30, 10 A. M, 1 20, 5, 6 10, 9 P. M. Sundays—7 45 A. M.
Gloucester—6 15, 7 29, 8 39, 10 08 A M, 1 30, 5 08* 6 20, 9 09 P M. Sundays—7 55 A. M.
Manchester—6 30, 7 42, 8 51, 10 21 A. M., 1 45, 5 22, 6 32, 9 23 P. M. Sundays, 8 09 A. M.
Beverly—6 50, 7 05, 7 40, 8 05, 8 50, 9 11, 9 45, 10 49 A. M., 12 20, 12 45, 2 05, 4 16, 5 40, 6 23, 6 50, 7 08, 7 50, 9 43, 11 19 P. M. Sundays 8 30 A. M. 5 30 P M.
Swampscott,—6 44, 8 50, 10 34, 11 26, 11 54 A. M., 12 36, 2 19, 3 28, 4 31, 6 20, 6 28, 6 56, 8 29, 10, 10 49, 11 49 P. M. Sundays 8 36, 11 17 A. M., 1 57, 5 51, 10 11 P. M.
Lynn—6 40, 7 59, 8 30, 8 46, 9 25, 9 51, 10 30, 11 10, 11 23, 11 51 A. M., 12 33, 12 55, 1 52, 2 15, 3 25, 3 45, 3 55, 4 28, 5 03, 5 24, 5 45, 6 16, 6 25, 6 52, 7 05, 7 35, 8 25, 9 55, 10 45, 11 45 P. M. Sundays 8 32, 11 14 A. M., 1 03, 5 47, 7 22, 10 06, P. M.
Boston—6 10, 7 30*, 8, 8 05, 9, 9 30, 10, 10 45, 10 55 11 15 A. M. 12 M, 12 30, 1 30, 1 40, 2 15, 3, 3 20, 3 30, 4, 4 40, 5, 5 15, 5 40, 6, 6 20, 6 40, 7 10, 7 50, 9 20, 10 15, 11 15 P M. Sundays, 8, 10 40 A. M, 1 20, 5 10, 7, 9 39 P. M.

*Via Saugus Branch.
†Change at Newburyport.

MARBLEHEAD BRANCH.

Salem for Marblehead—6 50, 7 55, 8 40, 9 30 A M, 1, 2 30, 4 20, 5 15, 6 05, 7 20 P M.
Marblehead for Salem—6 30, 7 30, 8 15, 9 10, 10 15 A M, 2 3 20, 4 55, 5 40, 6 25 P M.

SOUTH READING BRANCH.

Trains leave the South Reading Depot in Salem for Boston, 7 25, 9 05 A. M., 1 40, 4 35 P. M.
Boston for Salem—7 40, 11 30 A M, 3 10, 5 15 P. M.
Wakefield for Salem—8 13 A M, 12 06, 3 43, 5 48 P M.
Lynnfield for Salem—8 24 A M, 12 16, 3 52, 5 59 P M.
Peabody for Salem—8 35 A M, 12 27, 4 02, 6 07 P M.

LAWRENCE BRANCH.

Salem for Lowell—7 A. M., 6 P. M.
Salem for Lawrence—7 00, 11 32 A M, 4 43, 6 P M.
Salem for Middleton—6 15, 7, 8 58, 11 35 A M, 3 36, 4 43, 6 P M.
Salem for Danvers—6 15, 7, 7 28, 8 58, 11 32 A M, 12 47, 3 36, 4 43, 5 20, 6, 6 42 P M.
Lowell for Salem—7 10, 9 45 A. M., 12 15, 5 15 P M
Lawrence for Salem—7 40, 10 5 A M, 1, 5 50 P M.
Middleton for Salem—7, 8 07, 10 10, 10 45 A M, 1 35, 4 45, 6 27, P M.
Danvers for Salem—6 37, 7 15, 7 50, 8 31, 10 25, 11 A. M. 1 50, 3 30, 5, 5 50, 6 39, P M.
Peabody for Salem—6 44, 7 25, 8 02, 8 31, 10 33, 11 07 A M. 2 01, 3 37, 5 08, 5 58, 6 46 P M.

JAMES T. FURBER, General Manager.
Boston Je. 28, 1885.

NEW YORK & NEW ENGLAND RAILROAD.

Shorter by twenty miles than any other Line between Boston and New York.

Now a Double Track Road to a Connection with the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad, West of Willimantic.

LEAVE BOSTON.

8.30 A. M. *DAY EXPRESS TRAIN for New York (via Middletown and New Haven); Pullman Cars Boston to New York. A part of this train runs through to Hartford, New Britain Waterbury, Danbury and Fishkill.

3.00 P. M. †NEW ENGLAND LIMITED for New York (via Air Line Route) running 86 miles without a stop. Due Grand Central Depot, New York, at 9.00 P. M. Connects week days at Willimantic with train for Hartford, New Britain and Waterbury.

3.30 P. M. *AFTERNOON MAIL for New York, (via Middletown and New Haven), due New York 11.25 P. M. A part of this train runs through to Hartford, New Britain and Bristol.

6.30 P. M. †PHILADELPHIA EXPRESS for Hartford, New Haven, Jersey City, Trenton, Philadelphia, Baltimore and Washington, connecting for Richmond and points South. Through Pullman cars to Washington.

6.30 P. M. *NORWICH LINE EXPRESS for New York, New London, Norwich, Danielsonville and Putnam. Train connects at New London with Steamer City of Worcester, or City of Boston.

Seats in Parlor Cars, Berths in Pullman Cars, State-rooms on Steamers, Tickets and information obtained at Office, 322 Washington St, or Depot, foot of Summer St.

BOSTON.
A. C. KENDALL, Gen'l Pass. Agt.,

BOSTON, REVERE BEACH & LYNN R.R. FALL & WINTER TIME-TABLE.

June, 15, 1885.

Leave Boston at 6.50, 7.30, 8, 8.30, 9, 10, 11 A.M. 12 M.; 1, 2, 3, 3.30, 4, 4.30, 5, 5.30, 6, §6.30, 7.30, 9.30, 11.15 P. M.
Leave Lynn at §6.10, 6.50, 7, 7.30, 8, 8.30, 9, 10, 11, A.M. 12 M.; 1, 2, 2.45, 3.15, 3.45, 4.15, 4.45, 5, 15, 5.45, 6.30 8.45, 10.15, P. M.

SUNDAY TRAINS.

Leave Boston at 10, 11 A. M.; 12 M.; 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, §6, 7, 8, 9, 10, P. M.
Leave Lynn at 9, 10, 11 A. M.; 12 M.; 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9.15 P. M.

§Workingmen's train.

JOHN A. FENNO, G. T. A. C. A. HAMMOND, Supt

CALL AT THIS OFFICE FOR FINE JOB PRINTING. Specimens given

Fall Room Papers.

We have just received a fine assortment of new

FALL WALL PAPERS AND FRIEZES,

which we shall sell at very low prices.

An inspection is asked.

Goods delivered free.

MERRILL & MACKINTIRE,

216 & 220 ESSEX STREET

SALEM.

New Toy Store,

—IN SALEM.—

We have opened a new

TOY DEPARTMENT

in the store, 216 Essex Street, next to our main store, where we shall keep a first class line of the best toys at our usual low prices.

☞ Call and see us.

MERRILL & MACKINTIRE

216 & 220 ESSEX ST.,

SALEM.

SPARKS.

The month of September closed Wednesday night with a fire record of six alarms, the sixth and last being given at 7.35 o'clock Wednesday evening, and was caused by the burning of a pile of rubbish in the yard of James Buxton on Franklin street extension. Members of Hose 3 saw the light of the fire when it was first lighted and thought it was burning up on the side of a building. They gave an alarm from their bell which was immediately taken up by the bell on the brick house, and a general alarm sounded. Hose 3 went straight to the fire, but the "glim was doused" before they arrived on the spot. The apparatus from the brick house started toward Central street, thinking the fire was in that direction. Hose 1 got out first with the H & L only about one hundred feet behind. The new swing harnesses had just been put up for the truck and they worked first rate, good time being made. One of the whiffletrees of Steamer 1 was broken just as the engine was going out and a delay of two or three minutes was caused. Hose 2 4 and 5 also responded.

The fire loss in town for the past month is as follows: George Macintosh, house, barns and outbuildings with contents, $2770; A. B. Clark's barn, $600; Phillip Nelson's tannery building, $155; Total $3525. Besides the above the Peabody department did service at the Washington House fire in Salem, where the loss was $3975, and at the burning of the Eben Poor barn, loss $2980, making the total fire loss for the five fires $10,480.

The insurance on the barn of A. B. Clark was adjusted last Thursday for $600. The building and contents was insured in the Commerce and Oriental companies through the agency of H. A. Brown of Salem.

The loss on the Eben Poor barn has been adjusted for $680. This is simply on the building.

The loss on Phillip Nelson's tannery has been adjusted for $155, through the agency of A. H. Merrill.

Charles E. Berry, of Cambridge, the inventor of the swing harness and arrangement for hanging the same, and Superintendent of Fire Alarms Hillier, of Lynn, were in the Central Station last Wednesday putting up the springs for the harnesses.

Editor John L. Parker, of the Lynn Item, was formerly Chief Engineer of the Woburn fire department.

Benjamin Bishop, formerly a member of the Old Volunteer 4, and Richard Zeigler, a former member of Abel Proctor H & L, are both members of Steamer 4 of Lynn. Driver Duntley of that steamer had his first run last Wednesday evening, and got hitched up and out before any of the other machines. Joe can do it again, too.

Assistant Engineer Southwick, Foreman Miller of the H & L, Driver Price of Hose 1, Foreman Hooper, Assistant Berry and hoseman Goodwin of Hose 3, attended the parade of the Haverhill fire department last Thursday and thoroughly enjoyed themselves. They speak in the highest terms of their treatment by the Haverhill firemen.

At the meeting of H. & L. 1, Charles Southwick was elected a member in place of Robert Tanch, appointed driver.

George N. Miller has resumed his work at Proctors, after being laid up for just one month.

Driver Robert Tanch has moved into the Gould house on Lowell street.

The regular meeting of the Board of Engineers will be held this evening.

z

MUSICAL NOTES.

"We all like sheep," the tenors shrill
Begin, and then the church is still,
While back and forth across the aisle
Is seen to pass the "catching" smile.

"We all like sheep," the altos moan
In low and rich and mellow tone,
While broader grows the merry grin
And nose gets further off from chin.

"We all like sheep," the sopranos sing
Till all the echoes wake and ring;
The young folks titter, and the rest
Suppress the laugh in bursting chest.

"We all like sheep," the bassos growl—
The titter grows into a howl,
And e'en the Deacon's face is graced
With wonder at the singers' taste.

"We all like sheep," runs the refrain,
And then to make the meaning plain,
The singers all together say:
"We all, like sheep, have gone astray."
—Columbus Dispatch.

A complimentary benefit concert is to be tendered Mr. E. S. Macgregor, the well known tenor singer in the choir of the Unitarian church, at the Peabody Institute, Thursday evening, Oct. 29. Mr. Macgregor will have several well known artists to assist him and the concert will be worthy of the patronage of our musical people. Miss Grace F. Dalton is always heard in this vicinity with pleasure. Miss Sopha Hall will make her first appearance in Peabody. She sang last season in several concerts with good results; she recently scored a success at the Worcester Festival, and gives promise of attaining a high position among the contraltos of the country. Mr. Record needs no introduction to our people. He is always enthusiastically received, and of course will use his celebrated violin, one of the finest in the world. Mr. Newcomb as pianist and accompanist is one of the best, and Mr. Aborn comes with good testimonials as a reader. Last but not least, is the beneficiary himself, and we hope to see the Institue filled. There is no reason why it should not be. The programme will be a choice one; the talent is all of recognized ability, and the price of tickets is reasonable. They will be sold for thirty-five cents, and can be obtained at the stores of H. A. Spaulding, D. P. Grosvenor and Nathaniel Symonds in this town. They will also be for sale in Salem. This is the first concert in Peabody for the season, and we hope it will be a success.

Warren Wilson, Jr., sang for the first time last Sabbath in his new position with the choir of Grace Church, Salem.

Lewis A. Fisher, of Salem, the well known baritone, has returned from California. He will sing in Cambridge Dec. 14.

The Salem Cadet Band went to the "City of Elms" Monday with the Boston Ancient and Honorable Artillery.

Edward K. Hood's opening concert at Odd Fellows' Hall, Lynn, was a decided success. Every seat was taken and what more can we say? The popular Orchestra was well received. Walter Emerson was at his best, and the new soprano, Mlle. de Lussan, was encored at every appearance. She is soon to sing with the Boston Ideals and cannot fail to be popular. She has a fine presence, wonderful execution and a clear, pure, soprano voice. The next concert will be Thursday, Oct. 15.

Miss Minnie Hayden, of Boston, has been engaged as the contralto of Barton Square church choir, Salem.

The rehearsals of the Salem Oratorio Society will begin Oct. 15th, as will be seen by notice in another column. St. Paul will be the first work taken up, and it will be given by the Society after Christmas, with first class soloists. The Utrecht Jubilate will also be repeated later in the season with the addition, probably, of a new work. It is hoped that there will be a good attendance from this town at the first rehearsal, and that there will be all the old members and some new ones.

The Oratorio Society have in contemplation a Fair to replenish their treasury, to be given Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, Nov. 3d, 4th and 5th in Hamilton Hall. The lady members of the Society, of course, have the matter in charge, and it deserves patronage. It it is many years since the Society had a Fair, and they feel that they can now consistently ask the public to help them. A social party will probably be given at the close—the last evening.

M'lle. De Lussan, Miss Agnes B. Huntington and W. H. Clark all made their debut in New Haven last evening in the Bohemian Girl, with the Boston Ideals. M'lle De Lussan was enthusiastically received and Miss Huntington fairly shared the honors of the evening. It is evident that the Boston Ideals are in no whit behind their previous reputation.

Manager Neuendorff has leased Boston Music Hall for a series of thirty Sunday nights, beginning October 25, and will give during the season what will be called the Adolph Neuendorff's Sunday popular orchestra concerts, under his own direction.

Mme. Helen Hopekirk will give four pianoforte recitals in the Meionaon on the following dates: October 29, November 10, 17 and 24, the performances beginning at three o'clock in the afternoon.

SOUTH PEABODY.

Conductor Charles Basford is quite sick at his home in Wyoma with typhoid fever. Dr. Frost is attending him.

Conductor Lewis has gone to Center Harbor for a two weeks vacation.

Chas. A. Wiggin is spending his vacation at Great Falls N. H., gunning and fishing.

Two suicides were in the receiving tomb at Cedar Grove Cemetery last week, something which probably does not happen very often in a small town like Peabody.

Rev. J. W. Colwell and wife were given a very enjoyable reception at the vestry of the church, last Wednesday evening, the occasion being the tenth anniversary of their marriage and near the tenth anniversary of his ordination as a pastor. About three hundred were present to give them a hearty welcome. After the audience were seated Mr. John Newhall escorted Mr. and Mrs. Colwell and family from their home to the church, and as they stopped at the end of the aisle, Mr. Orlando F. Newhall stepped forward and in behalf of the members of the church and the people in this vicinity presented Mr. Colwell with an elegant gold watch, and to Mrs. Colwell was given a beautiful set of Limoges China and a silver cake basket. Besides these gifts there were others from friends, including a handsome duplex lamp, glass fruit dishes, bed blankets, linen table cloth, napkins, towels and a few tin utensils, besides two large loaves of fruit cake and quantities of fruit. After the presentation they received the hearty congratulations and good wishes of all present, when supper was served followed by musical and literary exercises. Mr. and Mrs. Colwell highly appreciate the kind and hearty expressions of good will and they tend to strengthen the social relation between pastor and people.

Rev. P. W. Packard, pastor of the Salem Society of Deaf Mutes, will hold one of his interesting services in the Church next Sabbath evening at 7.30.

Last Sunday Rev. J W. Colwell announced to the church and congregation at West Peabody, the fact that the Congregational Union had voted them a grant of $250. This will enable them to complete the chapel and furnish it and be without debt. The announcement was received with great satisfaction. The chapel is nearly completed outside, and has inside its first coat of paint. It is expected that the work will be completed by November 15th, and that the chapel will be dedicated sometime during that month.

The estate of Mrs. Betsey Bowers was sold by Tax collector's sale this morning, to Mr. U. Eugene Reed for $15.00. The town's claim was $11.50.

◆

The following sensational article concerning a former resident of this town, is from the Boston Globe of last Thursday: "On the afternoon of June 9 last, Nahum Morrison, an operative in one of the mills at Biddeford, Me., went out sailing on the Saco River. A gust of wind struck the boat and capsized it, and Morrison was drowned. The body was delivered to Undertaker Dennis O'Connor, who buried it the following day in City Cemetery, the only witnesses of the interment being Stephen Worth, who dug the grave, and Michael O'Connor, a brother of the undertaker. Morrison's wife did not go to the grave for the reason that Undertaker O'Connor told her it would cost her $3 for a carriage, and being in destitute circumstances she preferred, she said, to spend the money for a new dress. Morrison held a policy in the Metropolitan Insurance Company, and on the Wednesday following the drowning his widow was paid a claim of $38, $27 of which she paid O'Connor. The rumor that her husband's remains had been thrust into a plain wooden box, such as coffins are usually placed in, just as they were taken from the river, reached the ears of Mrs. Morrison, and she went to O'Connor and made inquiries. He stoutly denied the story, and assured her that the body was given a good burial in a coffin, with handles on its sides. This apparently convinced her, and she paid no more attention to the matter. Morrison's relatives, however, were not satisfied, and getting a permit from Mayor Staples they had the grave opened. The disinterment took place Thursday, and disclosed the shocking spectacle of Morrison's partly decomposed remains reposing in a plain wooden box, and covered only by the clothes that were on the body when it was removed from the river. The boots even were still on the feet. They returned to Saco after the body was again buried, and secured the services of Horace H. Burbank, attorney, and instructed him to begin legal proceedings against O'Connor at once. Morrison's relatives say they shall bring O'Connor to task. The affair has created a sensation in Biddeford.

WEST PEABODY.

The West Peabody Farmers Club showed by their Fair that they could carry a thing through in good shape when they made the attempt. The display was made in the hall of the school house, and the tables were arranged in a tasteful manner. There were on exhibition all kinds of vegetables, butter, poultry, bread, cake and pastry. The hall was decorated in a pleasing manner, and from the chandelier was suspended two large hornets nests. At the conclusion of the exhibit the articles were sold at auction and a neat sum was netted. The following were the committee on prizes: W. P. Upham, G. W. Taylor, D. A. Small, Willard Spaulding, F. H. Appleton, J. Fred Ingraham and J. L. Colcord, and the following was the result of their deliberations:—Blush potatoes, J. L. Colcord; pearl pop corn, concord grapes, and Rogers grapes No. 15, B. H. Taylor; Rogers grapes No. 44, W. J. French; garden royal, hot head and sweet baldwin apples, S. S. Needham; white elephant potatoes, D. B. Southwick; Danvers carrots and pears, Oliver Roberts; pearl of savoy potatoes and bastin beets, D. Wallace; red onions, pumpkins, kale and sage, H. N. Skinner; Clarks No. 1 potatoes, Livingston tomatoes and corn, J. E. Herrick; cranberries, James Foster; watermelons, baldwin, sweet greening, bin and russet apples, Joel Southwick; white star, Vick's prize, early sunrise, early Maine and peach blow potatoes, George H. Legro; Dakota red potatoes, purple top turnips, Danvers onions, cauliflowers, eggs, grapes and corn, J. O. Goodale; corn and shelled beans, George Tenney; Pocklington grapes, John Horner; mammoth cabbage. watermelons, white star, early rose and Mayflower potatoes, W .E. Sheen; mammoth sunflower, D. A. Small; mammoth squash, musk melon, hubbard squash, Essex hybried squash, hubbardstone apples, white spine parsnips, American savoy cabbage, Brunswick cabbage, Marblehead sweet corn, Rhode Island greenings, red dutch cabbage, hurlburt apples, Belle potatoes and Brahma chickens, T. C. Durkee; brown red game, early derby fowls and red leghorns, David Wallace; fowls, E. Durkee: fowls, Perley Small; best collection of fowls, David Wallace; cake, Mrs. J. P. Goodale, Mrs. Hannah Donald and Miss Emma Goodale; butter, Mrs. O. D. Whittier and Mrs William P. Upham; pies, Miss Emma Goodale. There was a glass ball shoot that was won by J. L. Colcord. The fair closed with a dance and Alden's Orchestra of Lynn furnished the music.

◆

Republican Platform.

We, the Republicans of Massachusetts, in convention assembled, reaffirm once more our adherence to those principles of freedom, equality and national supremacy and liberal institutional construction upon which our party was founded and by which it has prospered and been enabled to advance the welfare of the country.

We renew our pledges to the soldiers and sailors of the war that all shall be done for them and theirs, both in State and nation, that justice and gratitude alike demand.

We demand the prompt enactment by Congress of a general bankrupt law substantially as passed by the Senate.

We demand the immediate and unconditional suspension of coinage of the over-valued silver dollar.

We urge the vigorous enforcement of the Edmunds law in Utah, with the passage of such amendments as will give it increased efficiency, and the encouragement of the "Kansas plan" of settling the Mormon Territory with law-abiding citizens.

We give to the civil service act passed by a Republican Congress our hearty and continued approval, and in accordance with our last national platform we demand the extension of the principles of that act to all the business offices of the government, and the repeal of the four years' tenure law.

We favor any reforms, revisions or reductions in the customs duties which will benefit our labor or our industries, but we pledge ourselves again to the firm maintenance of the protective principle which prevents the displacement in our home markets of American by foreign products, with a consequent diminution of employment, and which also guards us from a competition that would result in the wages of the American workingman being regulated by the standard which foreign manufacturers would dictate.

The Republican party has always been an essentially national and Union party. It is opposed to sectionalism and to geographical divisions in any and every form. It has heartily and deeply rejoiced in the manifestations of sympathy and good feeling at the South. As patriots, as Republicans, we wish for complete and perfect reconciliation between the sections. To have such reconciliation, the results of the war must be accepted everywhere in good faith. One result has not been accepted. The negro, enfranchised by the war, is largely deprived of his privileges as a voter. In certain States elections are a mockery, returns are fraudulent and voting a farce. If we were to be silent concerning this crying evil we should be false to all the traditions and principles of our party, as well as to those of American government and American freedom. Against this great wrong, so dangerous and so un-American, yet vindicated and maintained by successive Democratic majorities in the House of Representatives, we propose to agitate and to protest. We appeal against it to public opinion both North and South. We shall seek redress in an aroused public conscience and in proper legislation. We shall not be content until the wrong is crushed out and justice done. As one specific measure tending to remedy this evil, we urge upon Congress the policy of making liberal grants in aid of primary education in the recent slave States.

As we protest against the suppression of the negro vote, so do we also in the same spirit protest against the election frauds countenanced and fostered by the Democratic party in certain cities of the North, and we denounce the action of President Cleveland in pardoning a criminal like Lieutenant Mullen, because by so doing he directly encourages and condones these dangerous crimes against the ballot.

To the able, honest and dignified administration of Governor Robinson we give our hearty approval, and we promise him again our earnest and unswerving support.

We urge upon our State Legislature the wisdom of submitting to the decision of the people the question of biennial elections.

We commend the action of the Legislature in behalf of stricter and more direct responsibility in municipal government.

We feel keenly the evils of intemperance. We are prepared to support the most stringent legislation for their suppression that can be made effective, and we believe that the first step toward checking them is the rigid enforcement of existing laws.

Massachusetts, under Republican rule, has done much for labor. No other State approaches our record in this respect. We urge a close and continued attention to all questions affecting this great interest, and we commend to the Legislature a careful consideration of the plan of a State board of arbitration, of the principle of employers' liability, of the regulation of convict labor so that it shall not compete with the honest labor of the Commonwealth; and of more frequent payment of wages by corporations.

In presenting our candidates and our principles to the people of Massachusetts we ask only for fair discussion and candid consideration. We welcome again those who last year severed their party connections and united with us for the first time, and we gladly open our doors to all who will join us in sustaining our candidates and principles.

◆

We have received from the publisher, Mr. John S. Webber, Jr., of Gloucester, a neatly printed little volume entitled "In and Around Cape Ann." It is illustrated by a hundred finely printed engravings, representing familiar places on that rock bound Cape. A hasty glance shows us that unlike most publications of a similar nature its space is not taken with long winded "puffs" for the hotels who advertise, but is just the book all like to read, as the descriptive part shows a deal of care, and presents things just as they are. Particularly desirable is this book to wheelmen, and a special department is devoted to information for them. Any one who is in the habit of visiting Cape Ann or contemplating such a visit should get a copy. It is for sale by B. F. Stevens at his store.

◆

Department Commander Hersey has issued an order urging all the Grand Army posts to recruit their ranks from the veterans who have not yet joined them, until no worthy soldier is left outside the organization. The organization of the Grand Army is one that every man who went to war should feel proud to be a member of. Its ranks are already thinned out by death, and in a few years there will be no more from which to recruit its ranks.

◆

The case of Lynch vs. Town of Peabody was tried to-day in the Superior Court holden at Salem. The jury went out on the case at 12.15 and at the time of our going to press had not returned a verdict.

Marriages.

In Danvers, Oct. 1, by Rev. W. M. Ayres, Mr. Robert E. Bolton of Poughkeepsie, N. Y., to Miss Nellie M. Varney.

In Salem, Sept. 30, by Rev. W. P. Odell, Mr. Geo. Rowley to Miss Alice Pervier, both of Salem; 22d, Mr. Hugh O'Connell of Peabody to Miss Bridget McVann of Salem.

Deaths.

In Danvers, Sept. 30, Miss Georgianna, daughter of John S. and Georgianna Scott, 22 yrs. 2 mos.; Oct. 2, Mr. Wyatt B. Woodman, 67 yrs. 8 mos.

In Salem, Sept. 30, Mrs. Catharine, widow of Mr. John Donovan, 72 yrs. 2 mos.; Oct. 2, Elizabeth, daughter of the late George P. and Caroline D. Farrington, 46 yrs. 1 mo. 16 days.

CUSTOM TAILORING.

The undersigned have this day placed on their counters, a fine line of

FOREIGN & DOMESTIC WOOLENS

—OF—

OUR OWN IMPORTATION,

which enables us to offer them to the public at

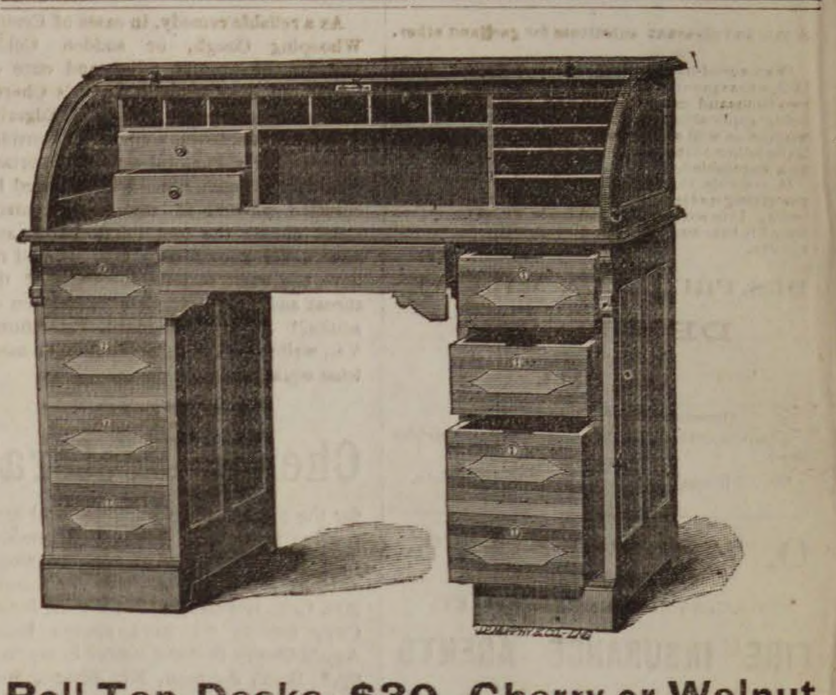
REMARKABLY LOW PRICES.

Employing none but first class journeymen tailors, a perfect fit is guaranteed. Call and examine the goods.

Howley & Brennan,

MAIN STREET.

OVER WARREN TRASK'S STORE.



Roll Top Desks, $30, Cherry or Walnut.

10 New Styles of Chamber Sets.

New Styles in Parlor Suits, Cherry and Mahogany.

W. C. Packard & Co.

281 ESSEX STREET SALEM.

GO TO

B. F. STEVENS

—FOR—

BANJOS,
ACCORDEONS,
HARMONICAS,

And all kinds of musical goods,

The best Violin and Banjo Strings.

AGENT FOR

E. V. EMILIO.

LADIES!

FOR MILLINERY,
Go to Browne's.
FOR SUNSHADES,
Go to Browne's.
FOR KID GLOVES,
Go to Browne's.
FOR SILK GLOVES,
Go to Browne's.
FOR INFANTS' CAPS,
Go to Browne's.
FOR COLLARS,
Go to Browne's.

153 and 155 Essex St., Salem.

FOR LACE-GOODS,
Go to Browne's.
FOR CORSETS,
Go to Browne's.
FOR RUCHINGS,
Go to Browne's.
FOR TOILET ARTICLES,
Go to Browne's.
FOR PERFUMERY,
Go to Browne's.
FOR HAIR GOODS,
Go to Browne's.

For all the Novelties of the season be sure and go to

Mrs. J. H. Browne

153 & 155 ESSEX ST.,

SALEM.

TO LET.

An upper and lower tenement in a house on Oak street. Seven rooms each with modern conveniences. Inquire of
R. H. BROWN.

Bedding Straw.

PRIME New York Rye Straw, by the Ton, or single bale.
CHAS. A. ROPES & SON.

NOW FOR

Base Ball,

and the place to get

BASE BALLS
AND BATS

at the lowest prices is of

DANIEL J. SWEENEY

Next to the Old Hotel on the Square.

Here can also be found a good assortment of

Fruit,
Confectionery,
Cigars and
Tobacco.

Principee, Electric,
Serenader, Leader,
5 CENTS.

Harvard and Boat Club,
10 CENTS.

DANIEL J. SWEENEY.

HALLOWELL & SMILEY,

Canned Corn Beef

AND TONGUE

For Picnics and Family Use.

MEATS AND PROVISIONS,

will always be found the best in the market at the LOWEST CASH PRICES.

Flour, Teas, Groceries, etc., at bottom prices.

Hallowell & Smiley

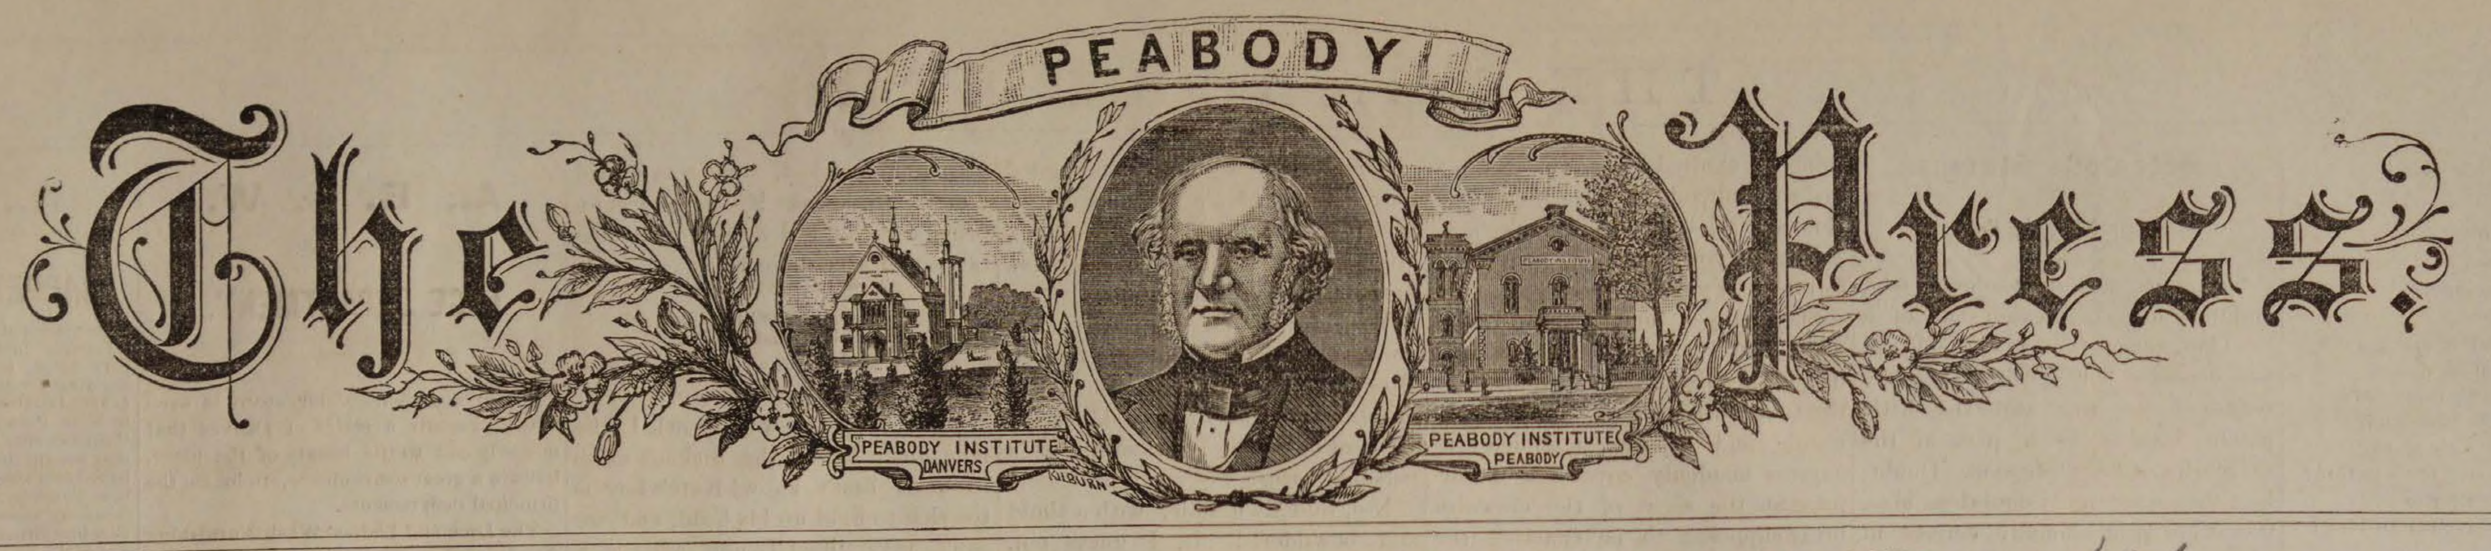
16 CALLER ST., PEABODY.

On Track—Old Eastern Hay,

ONE Car prime Old Eastern Hay.
CHAS. A. ROPES & SON.
41 to 47 Central street.

Paste Flour.

50 Bbls. Strong Working Paste Flour.
CHAS. A. ROPES & SON.



The Peabody Press.

VOL. 26. PEABODY, MASS. WEDNESDAY EVENING OCTOBER 14, 1885. 41 NO. 41

The Big SIX Departments

— AT —

WILMOT'S.

The most extraordinary bargains in each of our several departments.

SPECIAL SALES. SPECIAL BARGAINS.

DEPARTMENT 1.

Men's Overcoats, Suits and Pantaloons.

Men's Winter Overcoats,	$2, 2.50, 4.50, 5, 6, 7.50, 8, 9, 10.
Men's Winter Suits	$4.75, 6, 8, 10, 12, 14, 15.
Men's Winter Pantaloons,	99c, $1.50, 2, 2.50, 2.75, 3.

☞The above are in most cases garments carried over from last season, but as we need all the room possible for our new Fall and Winter stock, we have put special prices on the above.

☞Come and see our new Fall and Winter Styles in Overcoats, Suits and Pantaloons. THEY WILL PLEASE YOU.

DEPARTMENTS 2 AND 3.

Boys' & Children's Overcoats, Suits & Pantaloons

Boys' Long Pant Suits,	$2.87 1-2, 3.34, 4.50, 5, 6, 8.
Children's Short Pant Suits,	$2, 2.50, 3, 3.50, 4, 4.50, 5.
Children's Short Pants,	50c, 60c, 65c, 75c, $1.

☞ Every garment a great bargain and styles that will please you.

DEPARTMENT 4.

Gents' Furnishing Goods.

——Special Sale of Winter Underwear.——

our underwear is bought direct from the MANUFACTURERS and we guarantee to undersell all competitors.

Examine the goods and they will speak for themselves.

Men's All Wool Blue Rib Shirts and Drawers, 50c, 75c, $1, 1.25, 1.45.
Men's Merino Shirts and Drawers, (white or colored) 25c, 50, 75c, $1.
Men's Genuine Camels Hair Shirts and Drawers, 95c., regular Price $1.25. All grades at the lowest prices.

DEPARTMENT 5.

HATS AND CAPS.

Men's and Boys' Hats, all the New Styles in prices ranging from 50 Cts. to $2.50.

DEPARTMENT 6.

Ladies' and Gentlemen's Boots and Shoes.

Special inducement in this department.

Ladies' Elegant American Kid, Button Boot, $1.00
A great variety of other grades and styles at $1, 1.25, 1.50, 1.75, 2 to 4.
Men's Imitation Hand Sewed Shoe, Button, Lace or Congress, $1.75
Hundreds of others at 87 1-2, 99c, $1.20, 1.45, 1.75, 2.00, 2.45 to 5.
Children's School Shoes, 65c
A big assortment of Misses', Boys' and Children's Shoes for 50, 65, 75, 95c., $1, 1.25, 1.50 to 2.50.

WILMOT'S CLOTHING STORE,
252 & 254 ESSEX STREET, SALEM, MASS

J. FRANK BOYNTON, Manager.

Artists' Materials of every Description.

DECORATIVE ART GOODS OF ALL KINDS.

ART POTTERY.

Supplies for Oil Color, Water Color, China and Lustra Painting.

PICTURE FRAMING

OF EVERY DESCRIPTION

PLUSH WORK a specialty. Plush Frames and Plush Plaques made to order.

Charles J. Edmands.
12 BROMFIELD ST., BOSTON.

CUSTOM TAILORING.

The undersigned have this day placed on their counters, a fine line of

FOREIGN & DOMESTIC WOOLENS

— OF —

OUR OWN IMPORTATION,

which enables us to offer them to the public at

REMARKABLY LOW PRICES.

Employing none but first class journeymen tailors, a perfect fit is guaranteed. Call and examine the goods.

Howley & Brennan,
MAIN STREET.
OVER WARREN TRASK'S STORE.

LOCAL CONDENSATIONS.

Has your cold got better?
Quinces are in the market!
A little fire feels good, eh?
Politics don't even simmer!
Republican caucus to-night!
Thunder showers in October!
Hot soda will now be in order!
The flies are stiff upon the wall!
Barberry picking is at its height!
Where are all the traveling shows?
New time-table in another column!

Are we to have a polo team this winter?

Have you wrestled with the stove pipe.

Fatten your turkeys for Thanksgiving.

Interest is being charged on your tax bill.

Our young ladies are learning to whistle.

We continue to have pleasant red sunsets.

The early cold wave catches the blanket.

Try Hallowell & Smiley on your groceries.

Stoves have been put in the new Danvers cars.

Another Sunday of delightful weather last Sunday.

If they predict an early winter don't worry about it.

Mother earth is now richly carpeted with leaves.

Pepper-pod red is the latest fantastic shade of that color.

No one need go without fruit on account of the price this year.

Are our divisionists doing anything toward dividing the town?

There is a good deal of "kicking" against the tax bills this year.

Jack frost should have a credit mark this fall for behaving so well.

The town committees will soon begin to diligently study the voting lists.

The new moon like the boy with barberries is spending its first quarter.

Mr. John O'Conneil, on Shillaber street, lost a cow from milk fever.

Mrs. Robert W. Taber, of New Bedford, is spending the week in town.

Samuel Trask offers Flower Pot Stands at cost for the next ten days.

We have been having some weather that should have reached us last August.

You can buy the best Universal Wringers for $2.75 at Samuel Trask's.

Miss Libby Smith, daughter of Rev. S. N. Smith, spent last week in Ipswich.

Hallowell & Smiley are boycotting the Royal Baking Powder. See another column.

Dr. C. G. Weston, of the Board of Health, will vaccinate the school children.

Miss Mary Rundlett, of this town, has been visiting in Rowley at her father's.

Mr. Levi Quint from Iowa, a brother of N. M. Quint, has been making him a visit.

Brianza Cigars—the best ten cent cigars in the world,—ten cents straight at George Stevens'. *

Mr. S. P. Chase is wearing a fatherly smile again. It is a son and arrived Sunday.

Horse car travel to Salem was big last Friday during the Cadet celebration.

Try the $1.00 Kid Glove at F. D. Tarlton's, 42 Main street. Every pair warranted.

Mr. John M. Berry sold an estate on Endicott street last week to John Dalton for $1600.

Mr. C. A. Thomas had the floor of the skating rink scoured and rubbed down last week.

Now is the time to examine your flues and see that your insurance policy has not expired.

The tannery of Charles Harrington & Co., on Walnut street, is undergoing extensive repairs.

The "Yankee" accent and inflection are coming into fashion in aristocratic English circles.

Best line of Five Cent Cigars in town—Nothing like it, Principee. Clark's Best Five, and a dozen others at Geo. Stevens'. *

A large assortment of Ladies and Misses' Woolen hose at F.D. Tarlton's, 42 Main street.

Mr. Elbridge Loud, after an absence of nearly a quarter of a century, has returned to town.

Deposits in the old Salem Savings Bank, begin to draw interest on Wednesday Oct. 21st. *

The Republican County and Councillor Convention will meet at Lyceum Hall, Salem, Oct. 16.

Mr. Chas. O. Stone has been holding the ribbons over some of the trotters at the Haverhill fair.

Pike & Whipple are receiving orders from Australia. Dole & Osgood have heavy orders ahead.

The Grand jury found a bill against Cornelius Sheehan and John Shea of this town for larceny.

Ask for the Tricora relief corsets, $1.00 at F. D. Tarlton's 42 Main street. Every pair warranted.

In less than three months you can again go through the annual farce of making good resolutions.

If you didn't pay a tax last year you had better walk up to the Collector and settle or you can't vote.

Rev. Moses Smith of Detroit, Mich., preached a powerful sermon at the South Church last Sunday.

A gentleman informs us that he lost his squashes last Sunday night because the storm signals were not up.

Mr. John L. Shorey has a silo which he is now filling, which holds ensilage enough to winter twelve cows.

Essex Agricultural Society premiums are payable at the First National Bank, at Salem, the middle of the month.

Allie Moore, book keeper at Munroe & Arnold's, sprained his ankle by a fall, last Saturday, at the office.

Henry C. Hills, a clerk at the post office, has resigned. He will be employed by O. B. Chadwick & Co.

Mr. Newman Perkins has added a new safe to the furniture of his well appointed curriers shop on Grove street.

Mr. Stephen Blaney is putting his property at Ballardvale in first class condition, by painting and repairing it.

The Sunday horse car on the Danvers road, leaving the Square at Danvers for Peabody at 9.15, is discontinued.

Rev. C. N. Smith of the Methodist church, will preach next Sunday afternoon upon the "Resurrection of the dead."

There don't seem to be much speculation going on in potatoes, in fact the dealers seem to be afraid to handle the tubers.

Everything was frozen on Wednesday night; the cold blast cut down everything in the shape of vegetables and flowers.

The milkmen will probably not increase the price of the lacteal fluid before next month. The price is six cents now.

Mr. P. D. Perkins has had some edgestones set in front of his residence on Franklin street. He will have a concrete walk.

Florence J. Crowley has been given three months in the House of Correction for assault. Florence has been a bad boy of late.

By order of the water board, the unsightly sheds used in cementing pipes on Berry street have been demolished.

Mr. David T. Winter sold two of the Winter Leather Measuring Machines for the new company last week to be sent to California.

A large amount of the appropriation for the street department has been spent this year in grading after the horse railroad tracks.

About time for the annual visitation of fires in the woods set by malicious persons. It's a vile trick, and merits condign punishment.

The Standard Thermometer Works have shut down for a few weeks, as they have a large supply in excess of the demand on hand.

All the best brands of B. P. Clark & Co's. cigars are for sale by Geo. Stevens. He is sole agent for this vicinity. Buy them and you will smoke no others. *

Forty-six per cent of the population of Massachusetts dwell in cities, and thirty-two per cent within half an hour's journey of Boston.

EXTRAORDINARY SALE

— OF —

Winter Overcoats.

565 WINTER OVERCOATS

COMPRISING

MEN'S, YOUTHS', BOYS' AND CHILDREN'S.

Carried over from last season, which we shall sell at

A GREAT SACRIFICE!

We guarantee each and every garment to be clean, perfect goods, just as stylish in cut, make and trimmings as any garments made this season. Our object in offering this great bargain sale of Overcoats so arly in the season is that we need the counter room for our new goods which are now ready to be shipped from our Manufactory.

REMEMBER.

We mean just what we say: 565 Overcoats carried over from last season; all clean, perfect goods to be closed out in the next 15 days at a great Sacrifice. Buyers of Clothing now is your time to secure a Bargain.

We are selling Men's Fine, Heavy Overcoats for $10, 12 and 13.50. Men's Elegant Overcoats for $15, 16 and 18. Men's Heavy, all-wool Overcoats for $5, 6 and 8. Laboring Men's Heavy Overcoats for $2, 3 and 4. Men's Heavy Reefing Jackets, $3, 4, 5, 6 and 8. Boys' Fine, Heavy Overcoats for $6, 7 and 8, ages 12 to 17 years. Boys' Heavy, all-wool Overcoats, ages 12 to 17, for $4.50 and 5.00. B'soy Heavy Overcoats for $2, 3 and 4.00, ages 12 to 17 years. Children's Fine, Heavy Overcoats for $5, 6 and 7, ages 5 to 12 years. Children's all-wool, Heavy Overcoats for $3 and 4, ages 5 to 12 years Children's Heavy Overcoats for $1, 1.50, 2 and 2.50, ages 4 to 12 years.

This is Bargain Sale.—If you think of Buying an Overcoat this Winter, Buy it now, and save 30 to 40 per cent.

Naumkeag Clothing Company,

177 & 179 ESSEX STREET, SALEM.

Z. A. GALLUP, Manager.

The Boston & Maine will run a special train to Peabody and Danvers this evening and to-morrow evening, leaving Boston at 10.15.

A correspondent asks if a woman who works hard to support a dirty, drunken husband can be indicted for maintaining a nuisance.

The water was drawn from Crowninshield pond last Saturday night to allow of improvements being made at L. & G. H. Poor's tannery.

A large number of the members of the Catholic temperance societies of this town, attended a mass meeting at Lynn last Saturday night.

'Tis the gay autumnal season
  That fills the farmers mind with cares;
For while he's getting in his harvest,
  The boys are hooking his best pears.

The once despised marigold has now become a fashionable flower. It figures at fall weddings, and is extensively worn by ladies as an adornment.

Patrick Murphy, a farm hand employed by Mr. E. P. Barrett, broke a ligament of his right ankle last Saturday while about his work.

Last Wednesday afternoon, while a boy named Eddie Sweeney was at play around the bark cars on Central street, he fell and broke his arm.

Mr. William A. Prescott, who is employed in a stiffening shop, at Lynn, had the end of one of his middle fingers cut off in a machine last Monday.

Mr. Harrison Flint has given us to sample a Roxbury Russet apple, that was picked a year ago this fall. It was perfectly sound and had a good flavor.

Our tax collector took in $15,000 last Monday forenoon and over $20,000 in the afternoon. People don't like to part with their money till they have to.

A man was through this section last week buying cows for the Brighton market. He had fourteen which he said cost him on an average $42.50 a head.

Mr. E. H. Davis, who has been sick with typhoid fever, has been able to be out during the week. He will make a visit to Leominster, before resuming work.

Mr. Albert H. Merrill has had a large apple raised on his farm on exhibition at the Warren Bank. We suspect Albert could give Greeley points on farming.

We are pleased to learn that Mr. B. F. Woodbury is so far recovered as to be able to be out again. It will be many weeks yet before he is himself again.

Nugent Bros. have a fine line of Children's Kid and Goat Spring Heel Button Boots, which they are selling at 50, 75c., $1.00, $1 25 and $1.50 per pair. *

There has been a lively call for weather signal cards all the week. The value of the service is being more and more appreciated. Chadwick has a few more left.

Mrs. James H. Donovan who lives off Prospect street, was given an old fashioned surprise party last Friday evening. During the evening she was presented with a gold ring.

We regret to learn that Miss Lizzie Southwick, teacher of sewing in the Wallis school, is confined to the house by sickness. Her place is being filled by Miss Kate Hodgkins.

Public Statutes, Chap. 80, sec. 51 and 52, make instructive reading for parents inclined to resist vaccination by town or other authorities. A fine of $5 for each resist is the moral.

By the falling of a broad axe, which was left sticking in a log, Frank Verry had a cut nearly a half an inch long made in his foot while at work near the Sutton farm last Saturday.

To-morrow evening there will be a private skating party at the rink. Our item last week gave the impression that it was for the benefit of the Edgewood Club, but we were misinformed.

Before you have your fall suit made, call on Howley & Brennan over Warren Trask's store. They have had a large experience and can suit you in every particle of the work.

Last Sunday, Rev. Mr. Shipman of the Baptist Church, gave his people his opinion of fairs and festivals as a means of raising money for church purposes. He does not approve of them.

The Treasury Department is receiving an increased demand for small currency, which is regarded by the officials of that department as a sign of revival in the business of the country.

The friends of Charles O. Stone, the veteran trackman, have tendered him a benefit, to take place at the Danvers Riding Park on Friday afternoon, when there will be races in two classes.

There will be a harvest concert at the Methodist Church next Sunday evening. The church will be appropriately decorated and the Sunday School will furnish a pleasing programme.

Patrons of the telephone who feel that the recent advance in rates is unjust are invited to join the New England telephone league in opposition. The headquarters of the league are at Boston.

We are pleased to see our young friend Arthur Pettey, who met with an accident while coming from Nahant, around again, and trust he will soon be able to lay by the crutches he is now using.

The Lowell & B. & M. roads have adopted a new system of whistles when approaching a crossing consisting of two long and two short blasts. This system was originated by the Pennsylvania roads in 1876.

We have one subscriber at least, who believes the PRESS will remain a short time longer in the field. In paying for his paper for last year he enclosed a sum sufficient to pay for three years more.

Instead of accepting the offer of O. B. Chadwick & Co., to give the town of Danvers a set of storm signals, the Selectmen of that town have accepted a set from Weston & Pope. Pope is a son of one of the Selectmen.

Look out for the ragman who, affer haggling over the price of rags, consents to take them with the promise that he will pay for them "when he comes back." He never comes back. For cheek he takes the rag.

The Boston Daily Post has reduced its price from three to two cents, commencing last Thursday morning, when a supplement was issued and the paper given away. It is a good clean looking paper.

Old Probabilities will have an arduous task to keep up with the changes of the barometer this winter if the weather we have had for several months back gives us any reason to base an inference.

Miss Ella Perkins met with a painful accident last Monday. She was crossing the railroad track near the square when she had a fainting turn, and fell striking on her face which was severely cut and bruised.

Poet's Corner.

Returning.

MARY E. BRADLEY.

Lord, where Thy mansions be
Hast thou a little room for me,
Whose restless feet these many days
By and forbidden paths have trod,
And wandering in uncertain ways
Have missed the way that leads to God?
Lord, is there any room for me,
Who, sorrowing, would return to Thee?

For have I strayed, till tossed about
On fears that would not be cast out
For all the subtle theories
That men have framed, wherein to find
For troubled hearts a doubtful ease,
And freedom for a wilful mind;
Thy word, once hidden in my breast,
Forever robbed the night of rest.

I heard a still, small voice above
All other voices—not in love,
As in the old, sweet days of peace,
But in a tone of sad complaint;
"Why art thou swift to seek release
From easy yoke and safe restraint!
Why hast thou taken for thy guide
False lights that lure thee from my side?"

Lord, if I heard and in despite
Of warning chose the fair, false light,
If heedless, I Thy spirit grieved,
And slighted as an idle tale
Love such as no man hath conceived,
What late repentance can avail?
How shall I dare to lift my face
Once more within Thy holy place?

I know not, verily; and yet
With doubts perplexed and fears beset,
And the sad heart unsatisfied,
Lord, I remember what sweet rest
I did discover at Thy side:
With yearnings not to be expressed
I long to walk once more with Thee;
Lord, hast Thou any room for me?

Have Charity.

If we knew the cares and crosses,
  Crowded round our neighbors' way;
If we knew the little losses,
  Sorely grievous day by day,
Would we then so often chide him
  For the lack of thrift and gain,
Leaving on his heart a shadow,
  Leaving on our lives a stain?

If we knew the clouds above us
  Held by gentle blessing there,
Would we turn away, all trembling,
  In our blind and weak despair?
Would we shrink from little shadows,
  Lying on the dewy grass,
While 'tis only birds of Eden
  Just in mercy flitting past?

If we knew the silent story
  Quivering through the heart of pain,
Would our manhood dare to doom it
  Back to haunts of vice and shame?
Life is many a tangled crossing,
  Joy has many a break of woe,
And the cheeks tear-washed are whitest,
  And the blessed angels know.

Let us reach within our bosoms
  For the key to other lives,
And with love to erring nature,
  Cherish good that still survives;
So that when our disrobed spirits
  Soar to realms of light again,
We may say "Dear Father, judge us
  As we judged our fellow-men."

Songs of the East.

BY RICHARD HENRY STODDARD.

A PERSIAN SONG.

Come, fill the goblet up,
  And pass the rosy wine;
I will not take the cup
  From any hand but thine.

It is not merely wine
  That thou dost pour for me;
But something more divine
  That is bestowed by thee.

Though water fill the skin,
  The draught should still be mine;
For thou wouldst look therein,
  And make the water—wine!

A CHINESE SONG.

Tell me what is sweeter
  Than a walk at night,
With one we love beside us
  And the moon in sight?

Who would have thought the springtime
  So prodigal could be?
Behold the blossoms burning,
  Like lamps on every tree!

What tree is this? An almond?
  A peach it seems to me;
And the fruit there—pluck it, darling!—
  The heart I offer thee!

—New York Independent.

Fair is my love, so fair,
  I shudder with the sense
Of what a light the world would lose
  Could she go hence.

Sweet is my love, so sweet,
  The leaves that, fold on fold,
Swathe up the odors of the rose,
  Less sweetness hold.

True is my love, so true,
  Her heart is mine alone,
The music of its rythmic beat
  Throbs through my own.

Dear is my love, so dear,
  If I but hear her name,
My eyes with tears of rapture swim,
  My cheek is flame.

Spare her, Immortals, spare,
  Till all our days are done,
Your heaven is full of angel forms,
  Mine holds but one.

—Anon.

Selected Story.

Poor Ma'm'selle.

She wore a butter-colored wig, and took her complexion out of a box; but, for all that, her friends did not consider her deceitful. They regarded the wig and the little patent blushes as a part of the exigencies of her profession. Doubtless, they were right; doubtless, also, they were professionally correct in addressing the piteous little being as Ma'm'selle, although she was the honest wife of a male creature of no possible value to this terrestrial ball, and seemingly neither good enough nor bad enough to be wanted in celestial or infernal regions.

Eliza, Mrs. Tommy O'Grady, or, as the bills on every barn and fence in Buchanan County had it, "Mademoiselle Desiree Elise Delafontaine, the noted soubrette and prima donna, lately from the capitals of Europe," was as full of unhappiness as her poor dwarfish little body and soul could hold. Her baby was dead. How many dreadful, dreary months ago she lost him, God only knows; her remembrance seemed to grope back through an eternity of deprivation. How she had worked and denied herself and aspired for him! The fruition denied her stunted life she dreamed and hoped to find for him, and the little bud, alas! had been too tender even to blossom this side the fields of light. She was thinking it all over for the ten-thousandth time one gusty Saturday night, as she sat in the screened-off corner of the wretched little improvised theatre, waiting for her cue.

The wind flared the flames of the smoky lamps, and made them smokier still. The dialogue between the facetious lover and the heavy father was evidently throwing the not over-critical audience into ecstasies of delight. She wondered, in a kind of sluggish undercurrent to her retrospection, how people could laugh so! Poor little Ma'm'selle Desiree Elise Delafontaine, painted little doll of a soubrette, heart-famished little mother; woful parody on youth and light-heartedness; the angels must have wept the tears she dared not shed lest furrows be plowed in the stage roses, and the little world waiting to be amused be disappointed by glimpses of the care-blanched cheek beneath! Pitiful, pitiful contrast between what she was and what she sought to appear! She had the part of a farmer's daughter, and was dressed in accordance with the stage traditions of that insipid character. Her short white skirts were gay with red ribbons, her azure jacket was resplendent with tarnished tinsel, her pink stockings were very pink, her low cut slippers exceedingly low cut; from one arm swung a beehive-hat wreathed with buttercups and poppies; from the other a shining tin pail depended; in her meagre little hands was a huge bouquet of paper roses. Her life bore almost as slight a resemblance to that of a home-environed, cherished woman as the paper monstrosities in her hands did to the dewy splendors of the queen of flowers.

Like Topsy, she never had any parents, she was allowed to grow by a stepfather—a questionable ornament to the negro minstrel profession. He taught her to stand on one foot and sing one couplet, while the other foot was drawn back and turned down, with the toes touching the floor; to reverse the position and sing another couplet, to walk around in a circle and throw kisses while perpetrating a chorus. That was all. Naturally, she drifted on to the stage; just as naturally, her foster-parent pocketed her salary, and eventually drank it. By-and-by she fell in love with an apple-cheeked Irishman, who was doing Romeo for provincial audiences. They married; Romeo collected the salary and drank it, and the world moved on pretty much the same to every one but the stepfather. In time, the demoralizing effect of the salary-grab made itself visible on Romeo's nose, and lost him forever the glory of causing tears to flow from the eyes of bucolic damsels. As a sequence, Ma'm'selle, already faded and worn, must needs work the harder; but, no matter, little Robin Adair, namesake of many encores, came to turn the problems of life in his dimpled hands, to smile away her cares, to be loved, worshipped, exulted over, to arouse a little manhood in the breast of Romeo. And now—and now—

Phyllis, you are called, snapped a ferret-faced youth.

She tripped out, singing "Oh, whistle an' I'll come to ye, my lad!" in a high falsetto, and stopped at the footlights with the conventional giggle and simper intended to express maidenly coyness and surprise at the sight of the clownish brute supposed to be enacting the role of gentleman. Her dry, vermilion-tinted lips parted in a smile, the actress forgot the woman, and, for two or three hours at least, like Tennyson's Prince, accepted the shadow for the substance.

If a blessed unreality might always prevail for some of us! If we might always wrap ourselves in the stuff that dreams are made of! But, ay de mi! how soon we wake and remember, how willfully we bend our shoulders for the old burdens, crown ourselves in all haste with the thorns that pierced us yesterday! Perverse, perverse children of men! dearer to our sick spirits are our own anguishes, pointing us heavenward, or scourging us earthward, than another man's joy!

* * * * *

I'm going to church, announced Ma'm'selle to the only other member of her company not engaged in sleeping off last night's fatigues.

Don't, counseled the tragedienne, in her most thrilling tones. Church is only for nabobs and beggars—well, only for the nabobs really. Beggars are trailed in to give the nobobs a chance to show off and feel good.

What makes you think so? inquired Ma'm'selle.

I don't think, I know, child! I was one of the pets of a mission school when I was a ragged little tad peddling matches. When I was older and had a place in the pantomime, my old friend forgot me. It hurt, I tell you, and made me mad, too!

A mission isn't church.

'Tain't eggsackly the dog, but it's the dog's tail. I went to church, too, several times, when I'd a better new suit than common, but there didn't seem to be any room for me. You've been a good friend to me and my kid, Ma'm selle, and I mean well by you, so take my advice and stay where you're well thought of, and cut the churches where they'll all despise you.

I've made up my mind to go, said Ma'm'selle slowly and stubbornly. City churches must be different from those. There can't be any nabobs in a tumble-down place like this.

All right! If you must, you must, I reckon. Go ahead, and don't forget what all the teachers and prompters dinged into us—roll up your eyes whenever the preacher says Gawd or Heaben, and—hi! hear my young one squall! Guess he has rolled out of bed. See you later—ta! ta!

Ma'm'selle went loitering along the narrow, unpaved walks towards the little white church. She was not so pitiful an object in her rusty black cashmere as she was in her stage finery; she even caught a gleam of brightness from her surroundings. The air was crisp and clear; the sunlight glinted down through the thinning leaves of elm and maple, throwing a shadowy lace pattern over all the ugly, irregular rows of white, wooden houses; a few late flowers still bloomed in the scrappy front yards.

Want a 'zantum? cooed a baby voice. A tiny tot, in all its Sunday bravery, was standing in an open gateway, and holding out a yellow chrysanthemum, snapped off close to the stem.

She took the proffered flower, and—she could not help it, the blue eyes were so like Robin's—stooped and kissed the donor. Blushing, she drew back when she looked up and caught the eye of the baby's mother.

You have children! said the fresh complexioned young woman, not as a question, but as a conviction. By a divine instinct she knew the mother look.

I had one, said poor Ma'm'selle, putting up her hand, not over her eyes, but on her trembling lips.

In a sudden impulse of terror, the unbereaved mother drew her child close to her side, as if Azrael had suddenly passed by.

Some people were born for good luck, sighed Ma'm'selle, with a wistful look at the little one; adding, after a pause, I'm not one of them. Is this the way to the church?

Yes, don't you see the steeple yonder? the other made answer. Womanly curiosity got the better of discretion, and she asked, with a view of obtaining information of a personal nature, are you a professor?

N-o, said Ma'm'selle, with a timid and bewildered air, I guess not. Teachers of music, elocution and ventriloquism were the only professors with whom she was familiar, and she had a dim idea that her new acquaintance meant none of these. A bright thought struck her. I'm not a professor, I'm a soubrette, she said with a certain pride; Ma'm'selle Desiree Elise Delafontaine. Maybe you've seen my name on the bills?

A chill wind seemed to blow over the little group.

I guess I must hurry, said the fresh-complexioned young woman, leading her child away. Good-morning.

Ma'm'selle was terribly hurt. Her heart had so warmed to the stranger and her child, that she had contemplated offering them complimentary tickets to the Monday's performance. As she stood twisting her fingers together and looking the picture of irresolution and distress, not knowing whether to return to the hotel or go on to the church, the fresh-complexioned young woman looked back, and was moved with compassion for the dejected little waif. A pang went through the good, wholesome creatures's solid tissues, as she thought of the man wounded on the way to Jericho. I am no better than a priest and Levite, she thought, as she went quickly back to Ma'm'selle, and held out her hands as one would to a wayfaring child. I don't care what your business is, she said stoutly; you're a good woman, I'll be bound. Come along with me!

You wouldn't mind? queried Ma'm'selle, pleased but doubtful.

Law! no, said the young woman, blushing, but protesting with unnecessary vehemence. Here, Addy, take hold of the lady's hand.

Ma'm'selle's eyes shone as the little velvet palm was confidingly clasped in hers.

The sermon was long, the benches hard, high and narrow, but, all drawbacks considered, Ma'm'selle was less unhappy than she would have been had she taken the tragedienne's advice. The text was something about green pastures and still waters, and what followed depicted such a fair land peopled with a host that had suffered and sorrowed and striven this side the swelling flood! such meetings with the loved, not lost, when those that had sown in sadness and tears came one by one to the Land of the Reaping, as swelled Ma'm'selle's heavy heart almost to bursting. It was a commonplace discourse enough to the majority of the audience, but it was new and glad tidings to one that had thought herself forgotten of Heaven The minister closed with an exhortation to keep close to the Shepherd of the green pastures, the Good Shepherd, that gave up His life for the sheep, and warned his hearers savagely against a certain historical lady geographically referred to as Babylon.

Ma'm'selle, in blissful ignorance of what those last high-sounding phrases meant, sat serenely till the close, but the fresh-complexioned young woman flushed hotly, partly from shame, partly from pity for the unconscious actress. More accustomed to the metaphors of pulpit oratory, she understood that the naughty old Chaldean female was supposed to have Ma'm'selle's troupe in charge, and she writhed vicariously under the imputation.

Fortunate Ma'm'selle! she retired not only unscathed, but comforted by the doctrinal fashioner of motes and beams.

Sometimes a merciful God lets us build better than we know.

Come again, whispered the fresh-complexioned young woman, hospitably, as Ma'm'selle was slipping away after the Benediction.

The little creature thanked her with a look, touched Addy's yellow curls with her lips, and slipped away through the crowding, staring villagers. In her own sphere she had assurance enough, outside of it she was timid and lost, She was afraid almost to speak if there was no prompter hard by to correct mistakes and give the cues.

* * * * *

"It is not all of life to live,
Nor all of death to die," hummed Ma'm'selle, thinking of yesterday's hymns and sermon.

No. I wish it was! growled the manager. What the dickens we're to do I don't know! Kate's boy is too sick to hold up his head, and we can't play 'East Lynne' without a child.

If you could leave out the talk—began Ma'm'selle, eagerly.

Well! cried the manager impatiently, what then?

I know of a daisy little girl, said Ma'm'selle slowly; but, maybe, her mother—

Oh, hang her mother! exclaimed the manager, catching at the straw. Produce the infant.

She lives up the street a piece; I will show you, said Ma'm'selle, glad of a pretext to be near Addy again.

She knew, poor queen of shreds and patches, that her presence at church had not been an honor in the eyes of the villagers. She was afraid to call as a visitor—as an emissary she had a valid excuse.

Come along, then, there's no time to be lost in securing the guerdon of our hopes, the daystar of our—oh pshaw! come on.

The fresh-complexioned young woman at first refused to entertain the thought of making a play-actor of her little one, but the manager's tongue ran glibly on the high moral tone of his entertainments; his bait was golden; he skillfully elicited a story of her poverty, and the 'bad luck' of her crippled husband.

Such an opportunity to earn something for the poor invalid, he said, persuasively, and no hardship, no hard work, nothing for the little girl to do but walk around in the beautifulest scenery and be admired.

Ask him! she exclaimed at last throwing open a door and revealing a young mechanic, with his arm in bandages and his foot on a cushion.

It was finally agreed that Addy should interpose her tiny self between her natural protectors and the wolf at the door; her mother should take her to and from the theatre, and have the privilege of standing behind the scenes as guard over her.

I wouldn't allow it, protested the fresh-complexioned young woman with an anxious half-smile, if Jim hadn't been laid up so long. He fell off a roof in the early Summer, and hasn't done a lick since. I guess it can't be wrong to let her walk around there a few minutes, eh? And ten dollars is a great help.

No, said Ma'm'selle, answering the questions. Little Robin used to do the part, and he was an angel if ever a child was. So smart, too—he could sing 'All Round my Hat,' and 'Twas but a Little Faded Flower,' as well as I could.

Tears choked her voice. She walked away with her handkerchief to her eyes, leaving the manager volubly eulogizing histrionic art.

* * * * *

Well, ain't she a picture? exclaimed Addie's mother, as the little one stood shyly at the back of the stage, watching the jealous Isabel and Captain Levison raving and protesting, at the footlights.

Ma'm'selle, the Barbara Hare, supposed to be out on that fatal evening promenade with Archibald, heard the rapturous exclamation, but did not answer this side of heaven. Her quick ears heard a snapping overhead; she looked up, and with a sudden and terrible cry, bounded to the child and hurled her as far into the wings as such mad and desperate force could impel so light a weight. There was no time to save herself—a crash, a groan, and the stage was enveloped in a thick white cloud of dust. Before it settled, tender hands raised from the heap of plaster a broken and bleeding thing that but slightly resembled humanity created in God's own image.

It's no use, said the doctor, in reply to do something—it's no use; that much lime would crush the life out of an ox. She will never speak again.

An instant refutation of the doctor's statment, the ghastly lips unclosed and murmured Addy!

Here, safe and sound, said the

(Continued on 3d page.)

A., B. & W.

LACE DEPARTMENT.

The arrangement of our store is such that it presents a series of alcoves that not only add to the beauty of the place, but are a great convenience, to locate the principal departments.

The Lace and Ladies' Wash Furnishing Goods are on the right of the circular counter, opposite the eastern entrance; and this dep't ends with the alcove at Button and Sewing Silk Dep't.

We desire to call attention to the Laces, etc., but find it very difficult because of the great variety in kind and quality.

LACES. LACES. LACES. LACES.

Spanish, Fedora, Egyptian, Oriental, Newport Point, German, Torchon and Medici Laces; a line extending from the heaviest to the finest grades in Edges and Allovers, as the custom is. Ladies will find by comparison that our prices are satisfactory. We have also special bargains.

Worsted Laces, Flouncings and Allovers, to match the new Dress Goods.

Black Spanish Lace Fichus, Scarfs, and Ties, both Handrun and Escurial. Also, a full line of Ladies' Lace Neck wear.

In the same department a fine stock of Lace Toilet Sets and Tidies, in all the popular qualities.

Veilings in superb variety; Invisible, Sewing Silk, Parisienne, Bareges, etc. We keep everything that is used for veilings.

Also in this department, a great variety of Silk Ties for boys.

Crepe Lisse Ruchings are always desirable.

"Folds" in one, two, and three rows of Canvas or Silk Mull, are very stylish and much worn at present.

Tourist Ruching is now generally worn.

Linen Bandeau in white and colors, with Plain Hemstitch and Feather Stitch finish.

Notice a bargain in Children's Lace Collars—5, 10, 12 1-2, 15, 17, 20, 25, 30, 33, 38, 42, 50c.

We carry a very fine stock of Ladies', Misses' and Children's Collars and Cuffs, of many shapes. We make a special point of the finish of these goods—there are no bungling seams—we also claim excellence in the Laundry Finish.

ALMY, BIGELOW & WASHBURN.

THE
Mason & Hamlin Co.
Now have ready a new style
Upright Pianoforte,
No. 5,
Which is offered at the very moderate price, $300.

IMPROVEMENTS IN UPRIGHT PIANOS.

Improvements in the construction of upright pianos have been invented and introduced by the Mason & Hamlin Co., of Boston, New York, and Chicago, which add materially to the value of these instruments, rendering them capable of tones of extraordinary purity and beauty, and much increasing their durability; overcoming in large degree the tendency to fall from the pitch and get out of tune, which has been the most serious practical difficulty in the pianoforte.—Scientific American.

100 STYLES ORGANS, $22. to $900, for Cash, Easy Payments, or Rented.

THE MASON & HAMLIN CO.,
154 Tremont Street, Boston.
Sept 23--6t

SICK HEADACHE

CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS. TRADE MARK

Positively Cured by these Little Pills.

They also relieve Distress from Dyspepsia, Indigestion and Too Hearty Eating. A perfect remedy for Dizziness, Nausea, Drowsiness, Bad Taste in the Mouth, Coated Tongue, Pain in the Side, &c. They regulate the Bowels and prevent Constipation and Piles. The smallest and easiest to take. Only one pill a dose. 40 in a vial. Purely Vegetable. Price 25 cents. 5 vials by mail for $1.00.
CARTER MEDICINE CO., Prop'rs, New York.
Sold by all Druggists.

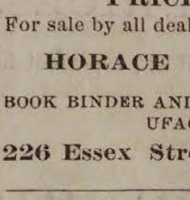
POLO.

This popular game adapted for home amusement to play on the table.

PRICE $1.00.

For sale by all dealers. Manufactured by

HORACE A. BROOKS,
BOOK BINDER AND BLANK BOOK MANUFACTURER.
226 Essex Street, Salem, Mass.



AMERICAN RUDGE.

The only first-class wheel listed at a low price, fitted with all the latest improvements.

Price, 50 in., Enamel and Nickel, $107.50.

Call and Examine or send for Catalogue.

THE RUDGE. STODDARD, LOVERING & CO.,
152 Congress St., Boston.

A., B. & W.

CARPET DEPARTMENT.

Our stock of Fine Carpetings is this season relatively new. Our purchases have been very large, and we are operating through Syndicate connections, especially in BIGELOW BRUSSELS CARPETS. We show 30 New Patterns of these famous Brussels Carpets, with Borders to match. We believe that we are the only firm in this section that have been able to obtain a full line of Bigelow Brussels Carpets—selected from the company's own samples. Everything new in Bigelow Brussels that is desirable is at our disposal.

Our selections from the Lowell Company's Brussels are ample, and with Lowell Extra Supers, we show nearly 100 styles—enough, many would say, but in addition we offer:

20 New Styles Hartford Brussels,
25 New Styles Medium Brussels.

Our stock of Brussels Carpets is not excelled anywhere.

General Stock.

26 New Styles Roxbury Tapestry Carpets.
40 Patterns Medium Tapestry.
15 Art Kidderminster.
75 Extra Superfine Carpets.

Also Medium Grades Wool Carpets in extenso.

40 Patterns Linoleum, with Oil Cloths in sheets and widths. We are glad to know that Linoleum is fast gaining friends, because of its excellent qualities of comfort, and service.

Canton Straw Mattings we now sell all the year round. A discount by the roll and to the trade.

RUG DEPARTMENT.

Everything choice in American Rugs and Mats; also, a fine stock of Imported Rugs. See also NOVELTIES in our Rug Room.

UPHOLSTERY.

A beautiful New Room 26x26 has been added to meet the wants of this rapidly growing branch of our business. This room is devoted to fine Window Furnishings. Notice our display of Irish Points, Swiss, Madras, Nottingham, and Antique Curtains. Comprising the choicest patterns in the market, including some handsome effects in Single Borders. We have some special drives in NOTTINGHAM CURTAINS, that we are offering for 75 cts., $1.00, 1.25, 1.50, 1.75, 2.00, 2.25.

In addition to the Lace Goods mentioned above, we shall offer a full line of INDIA and CREPE CURTAINS, in all the latest designs and colorings. These goods are our own importation, and being bought direct from manufacturers at first cost we can afford to sell them at prices that will enable us to furnish our customers with these goods at less prices than they can possibly buy them

CURTAIN POLES at 28 cts.

Brass Trimmed Poles, in Ash, Walnut, Cherry and Ebony, at 31 cents.

Brass Chains from 17 cents to $3.00 per pair.

We shall begin Thursday, Oct. 15, a Sale of 1500 American Holland Window Shades, furnished with best Balance Roller, complete and ready for putting up at the window, for 37 1-2 cts.

Purchasers are warned that the lot will last but a few days.

ALMY, BIGELOW & WASHBURN.

CANDEE.

Rubber BOOTS
— WITH —
DOUBLE THICK BALL.

Ordinary Rubber Boots always wear out first on the ball. The CANDEE Boots are double thick on the ball, and give

DOUBLE WEAR.

Most economical rubber Boot in the market. Lasts longer than any other boot, and the

PRICE NO HIGHER.

Call and examine the goods.

"CANDEE"
RUBBER BOOTS
GIVE DOUBLE WEAR ON THE BOTTOM GREATEST IMPROVEMENT EVER MADE IN RUBBER BOOTS.
TWO YEARS
TEST.
A COMMON SENSE IDEA
DOUBLE THICK BALL.

FOR SALE BY
NUGENT BROS.,
Agents Candee Co.
PEABODY, MASS.

ALLAN LINE

ROYAL MAIL STEAMSHIPS

Sailing from Quebec every Saturday for Liverpool.

SHORTEST OCEAN VOYAGE

Only five days from land to land.

Extra services from GLASCOW, GALWAY, QUEENSTOWN and LONDONDERRY to Boston direct for the convenience of Steerage passengers, to whom kind treatment is made a Specialty. Cabin, $70 and $80. Intermediate, $40. Steerage at Low Rates.

LEVE & ALDEN, Gen'l Pass. Agts,
15 State Street, Boston.
JOHN LINEHAN, Agt. for Peabody.

HOOSAC TUNNEL
EXCURSIONS.

Wednesday and Saturday, Oct. 7th and 10th, 1885.

Fare for the round trip $2.00. For full particulars enquire of Fitchburg Railroad, Causeway Street, or 250 Washington Street, Boston.

PECK'S SUN,

MILWAUKEE, WIS-

GEO. W. PECK,

Editor and Proprietor.

THE FUNNIEST PAPER IN AMERICA.

What Vaccination is to Small-pox, PECK'S SUN is to the blues.

Peck's Sun

Is one of the most widely read and popular papers in the country to-day, and stands without a peer in its speciality.

The Originator of the celebrated

BAD BOY PAPERS.

SPECIMEN COPIES FREE

to any Address.

Bear in mind that by sending a Postal Card to this office, a

SAMPLE COPY OF PECK'S SUN

Will be mailed you Free.

Don't neglect to send at once, and tell your neighbor to.

$1 Worth of Fun for 1c.

ADDRESS

GEORGE L. LORD,
Business Manager,
Milwaukee, Wis.
oct 7—3t

COMER'S COMMERCIAL COLLEGE,

666 Washington Street, BOSTON.

Thorough and Comprehensive Instruction in all Studies Essential to Success in Business.

Students may commence at any time, Receive Individual Instruction and progress according to ability and application. Separate department for Ladies. Graduates Aided to Employment. Young people receive instruction here that will insure a successful start in business, and that will benefit them throughout their business career. For 45th Annual Catalogue, Address C. E. COMER.

jy 1—10t

Rheumatism

It is an established fact that Hood's Sarsaparilla has proven an invaluable remedy in many severe cases of rheumatism, effecting remarkable cures by its powerful action in correcting the acidity of the blood, which is the cause of the disease, and purifying and enriching the vital fluid.

It is certainly fair to assume that what Hood's Sarsaparilla has done for others it will do for you. Therefore, if you suffer the pains and aches of rheumatism, give this potent remedy a fair trial.

A Positive Cure.

"I was troubled very much with rheumatism in my hips, ankles, and wrists. I could hardly walk, and was confined to my bed a good deal of the time. Being recommended to try Hood's Sarsaparilla, I took four bottles and am perfectly well. I cheerfully recommend Hood's Sarsaparilla as one of the best blood purifiers in the world." W. F. WOOD, Bloomington, Ill.

For Twenty Years

I have been afflicted with rheumatism. Before 1883 I found no relief, but grew worse. I then began taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, and it did me more good than all the other medicine I ever had." H. T. BALCOM, Shirley, Mass.

"I suffered from what the doctors called muscular rheumatism. I took Hood's Sarsaparilla and am entirely cured." J. V. A. PROUDFOOT, letter carrier, Chicago, Ill.

We shall be glad to send, free of charge, to all who may desire, a book containing many additional statements of cures by

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Sold by all druggists. $1; six for $5. Made only by C. I. HOOD & CO., Lowell, Mass.

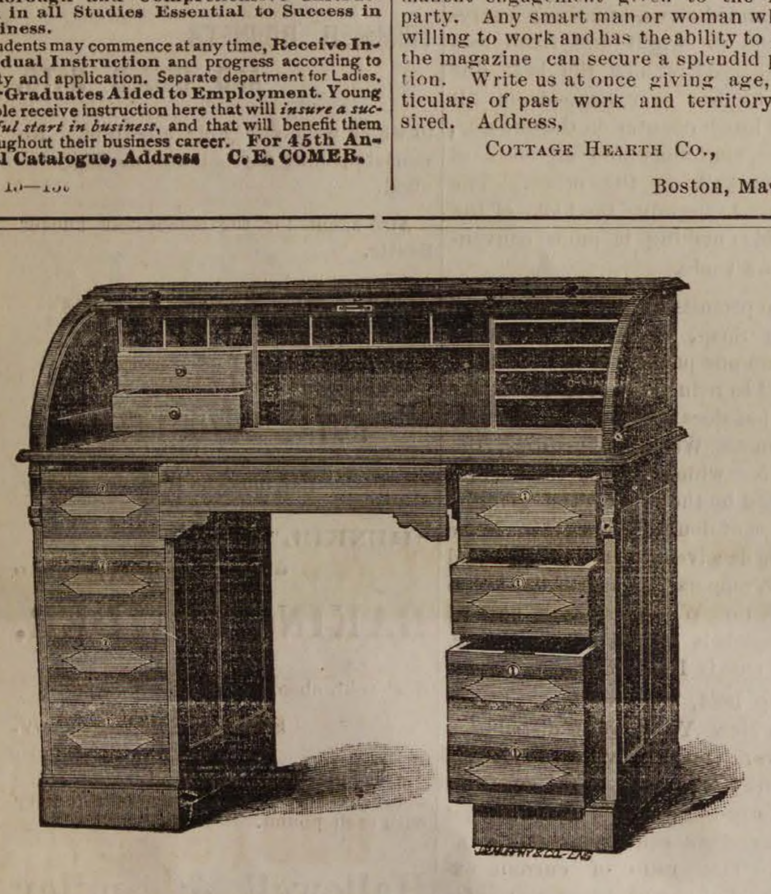
100 Doses One Dollar.

First Class Agent WANTED IN THIS COUNTY

To represent our beautifully illustrated family magazine. Special terms and permanent engagement given to the right party. Any smart man or woman who is willing to work and has the ability to push the magazine can secure a splendid position. Write us at once giving age, particulars of past work and territory desired. Address,

COTTAGE HEARTH CO.,

Boston, Mass.



Roll Top Desks, $30, Cherry or Walnut.

10 New Styles of Chamber Sets.

New Styles in Parlor Suits, Cherry and Mahogony.

W. C. Packard & Co.

281 ESSEX STREET. SALEM.

GRAND ARRIVAL.

2 CAR LOADS OF

NEW HUB &

Glenwood Ranges.

1 CAR LOAD OF

PARLOR STOVES

To be sold on our Instalment Plan.

$1 Down and $1 a Week.

We make our own Parlor Stoves and use nothing but the best of Russia iron. We know what we are selling and can show you what you are buying. We have all the leading Ranges and Parlor Stoves in the market from the lowest to the highest prices.

Send for Catalogue and Price List.

Old Stoves taken in exchange.

We have the largest stock of

FURNITURE, CARPETS, CROCKERY, BEDDING, SILVER AND WOODEN WLRE

To be found in Essex County, in fact everything needed to furnish a house either on a small or large scale. All goods delivered free. Discounts to any wishing to pay cash.

We should be pleased to see you or refer you to responsible parties in your town with whom we have and are still doing business; shall be pleased to send our agent and collector to explain our system of doing our business on the credit system. It will cost you nothing to examine our stock and you will always find one of the firm in attendance, from whom you can get prices and terms on any amount of goods you may wish to buy. We know we can save you money and can refer you to parties who after looking at goods and getting prices in Salem, Lynn, Boston and other places, have returned to us and selected their goods.

D. B. H. POWER & CO.,

123 & 125 PLEASANT ST. 24 SCHOOL ST.,

MARBLEHEAD.

(Continued from 2d page.)

weeping mother, laying her little one's warm cheek against Ma'm'selle's, so wan and cold under the stain of paint.

She smiled and tried to lift her hand—the poor, broken hand that would never wipe away tears, nor be lifted in kindly deeds again.

Romeo, miserable creature, broke into a tempest of sobs, and cried aloud for forgiveness.

Be still, commanded the doctor, sternly. Move back! Open her dress, somebody!

The fresh-complexioned young woman—fresh-complexioned no longer—opened the blood-soaked jacket. A long curl, once fair, but now drenched through and through with a horrible crimson stain, and a withered chysanthemum, snapped off close to the stem, fell out.

Put—them—back, gasped Ma'm'selle, and they were laid again on the broken, dreadfully heaving bosom.

Somebody, anxious to be kind, ran for the minister. The rest, in breathless silence, waited for the change.

The minister, well-meaning man, came in all haste and prayed for the parting soul, and went his way again, grieving over a lost opportunity. The ears he fain would have reached seemed closed to all earthly sounds. Ma'm'selle lay in a stupor from which she could not be roused. Only that slow and dreadful lifting and falling of her breast told that she was not yet summoned.

At the turn of the night her sightless eyes unclosed, and she cried out: Say it! oh, say it!—the—the Good Shepherd—the Good Shepherd that gives his life—his life, and —and green pastures.—Her voice wavered and sank away almost to a whisper, then into an appealing cry, Oh, say it.

Addy's mother, clasping her unharmed, sleeping child to her heart, faltered out the text. As she finished, with a sudden, glad exclamation, 'Robin!' Ma'm'selle went out from the shams that had been her life, and took her appointed place among the eternal verities.

* * * * *

Yes, said the minister, in reply to a remark of one of his deacons, and the tears stood in his eyes as he spoke, she was a great sinner, doubtless, but I have a hope that her soul is saved. The thief on the cross was received. I hope she will be also.

I hope so; said the deacon dubiously.

If ever there was a saint on earth, sobbed the walking lady, as she scattered a few stage properties, in the shape of coarse muslin flowers, on the newly made grave—if ever there was a saint on earth, Ma'm'selle was one, and I'll bet she is in glory this minute.

God bless papa, God bless mamma, God bless Ma'm'selle, was the prayer that went up from a tiny cottage with chrysanthemums growing before the door.

Who shall say the blessing has not fallen?

> "It is not all of life to live.
> Nor all of death to die."

—Frank Leslie's Illustrated.

THE DRAMA.

[Horse cars from Salem connect every night with train leaving Boston at 11.15 P. M]

It is not praising Mr. L. R. Shewell's melodrama too highly to say that it is much the best American play of its kind that the stage has seen. The remaining representations of the play, "Shadows of a Great City" should be witnessed by audiences that will tax even the seating capacity of the spacious Boston Theatre. The cast, including Miss Edna Carey, Miss Annie Ward Tiffany, Mr. Nelson Wheatcroft and other excellent actors, is thoroughly efficient and the setting is in every respect excellent.

This is to be the last week of the prosperous engagement of John Gilbert at the Boston Museum. He will appear this afternoon and evening as old Dornton in "Road to Ruin." For his farewell appearances Mr. Gilbert will be seen in two plays, neither of which, we believe, have been included in any of his appearances in Boston. He is to take the title role in Mark Lemon's "Grandfather Whitehead," as well as playing Mr. Simpson in the amusing comedy "Simpson & Co." Miss Clarke, Mr. Barron and many favorites will be in the cast of this double bill to be offered Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

Perennially popular is Maggie Mitchell. To all appearances she is as young, as graceful, and as winsome as a score of years ago, and her forthcoming engagement at the Park Theatre this week, in "Maggie the Midget," will prove no doubt prosperous as well as pleasant. Mr. Fred Williams, the author, has made several changes in the piece since its first production last spring. In the second act a picnic scene, with an augmented chorus, has been introduced; and in the third act Miss Mitchell will accompany herself on the guitar to the melody of a plaintive Spanish air. The star will be supported by the same company almost exactly as on the occasion of her last visit to Boston.

"Storm Beaten," one of the special productions of Shook & Collier at the Union Square Theatre, New York, will hold the boards this week at the Howard Athenæum. That favorite actor, Edmund Collier, is to appear as Christain; Miss Charlotte Wayland will play the sister Kate; and Miss Octavia Allen is to portray the Dame, while the roles of Squire Orchardson and Richard are to be assumed by Messrs Joseph P. Winter and Archie Cowper respectively. All the grand scenes particularly that of the icebergs and the Island of Desolation—will be staged with great care. "Storm Beaten" is be given this week only.

The rank of Miss Katherine Rogers among American actresses was assured seasons ago. She has a great many admirers in Boston, and many of them recall with pleasure the series of portrayals, varied and effective, which she gave during her engagement as leading lady of Mr. Arthur Cheney's stock company at the old Globe Theatre. Miss Rogers comes this week as a star at the Windsor Theatre. She is to appear as Claire in Mrs. Ettie Henderson's excellent drama, "Claire, and the Forge Master," which has the prestige of deserved success, not only in this city but in many other places. Performances every afternoon and evening.

"The Magistrate," as readers of Howard's letters know, is a very great success at Daly's Theatre. It is universally praised. The plot of Mr. Pinero's play has its origin in the attempt of Mrs. Æneas Poskett, who has just married her second husband, to conceal the age of her son, which is nineteen, and which is supposed by the family to be fourteen. In her endeavor to prevent exposure she visits a French hotel with her sister, and there go also her son and her husband. The whole party is arrested by the police and taken before the magistrate, who is, of course, the husband. The various misconceptions, mistakes and errors make up a most amusing character comedy. "The Magistrate" is to be the event of next week at the Boston Museum, where it will have the advantage of a remarkably strong cast.

Madame Judic's New York engagement has been a great success at Wallack's Theatre. The artistes repertory includes "Mlle. Nitouche," "Niniche," "Lili," "La Femme a Papa," "La Roussette," "La Cosaque," "Les Charbonniers," "Divorcons," "Le Grand Casimer" and La Grande Duchesse". The Boston season of the illustrious comedienne begins at the Boston Theatre Monday Oct. 26 for twelve nights and two matinees. The subscription sale for these fourteen performances will begin Oct. 19, continuing Tuesday Oct. 20. Single seats will be on sale Wednesday Oct. 21.

Rhea, the favorite French actress, is to be the star at the Boston Theatre next week. The lady's own version of the noted society drama, "Frou Frou," is to be the opening event of the engagement, Monday evening, the 19th, "A Dangerous Game," with Rhea as Helene, will be offered the evening following, with "The Power of Love" on Wednesday night, the star appearing for the first time here, in a boy role. On Thursday, "Lady Ashley," the new drama, by the authors of "A Moral Crime," Messrs. Barron and Bates of Chicago. Friday is to be marked by the productien of "Regina, the Ambassador's Wife," by Francois Mons. For her farewell, Saturday, Rhea is to appear, in addition to "The Power of Love," in a new comedy of her own, entitled "Comedy and Tragedy." This is certainly a brilliant and varied repertoire, and the comedienne with her new company, will certainly be seen to finer advantage than ever before in Boston.

In gathering wild flowers, autumn leaves, or picnicking in the woods, we are more or less exposed to danger from poisoning by ivy or other wild vines and shrubs. The poison is under certain circumstances readily absorbed by the blood, and painful swellings or eruptions are caused. Such affections Hood's Sarsaparilla readily cures, as it expels all impurities from the blood. Even in cases of poisoning by Paris green, Hood's Sarsaparilla has been remarkably successful. It should be kept constantly in the house for all blood disorders. Hood's Sarsaparilla is made by C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass., and is sold by all druggists. 100 Doses $1.

Frosty and cool mornings!

The well known strengthening properties of Iron combined with other tonics and a most perfect nervine, are found in Carter's Iron Pills, which strengthen the nerves and body, and improve the blood and complexion.

STREET
GOSSIP,
AS GLEANED
BY Mulcahy
NOTES

Five Hundred Years Hence.

"Who was the greatest liar, Pa, that ever trod the sod?"
"My son, it was a shyster who used to carry the hod."
"How big was Mr. Shyster, Pa, that he thought himself so great?
Could he stand upon the town house and spit all o'er the state?"
"He was a mighty liar, son, who stood three cubits high,
And could stretch himself three cubits more whenever he did try."
"What deeds did he perform, dear Pa, that won him all his fame
And gave him a brass gravestone to perpetuate his name?"
"He was a wonderous slanderer, son, who was found in many a fray,
And five hundred years ago, my boy, was the swindler of his day.
His history was forgotten—his name swept from the land,
Until they searched the ruins where Peabody used to stand.
'Twas when they found the Records—the volumes old and soiled—
That relic hunters found the prize for which they long had toiled.
'Twas told in song and story that man of wondrous power
Once reigned within a few feet of a massive red brick tower.
Part we know of this great shyster found we in those yellow pages,
Dim with the dismal years of darkness and the musty mold of ages.
Safe within his nasty castle laid he plans his friends to beat,
And at sunrise and at evening did he pluck them as his meat.
With the public statutes round him and a scandal around his head,
He would gloat above his victims and gather in his dead.
With a dagger in his pocket and a smile upon the street,
He would sally forth to greet them and give "taffy" when they'd meet.
He killed the great king doctor, drove poor children from their home,
And defrauded a poor widow single handed and alone.
In the caverns of his castle, there did he connive and frown,
And there was he aided and abetted by a chieftain of the town.
Like a rod that's gnarled and twisted in the grasp of many fires,
Sat he there in his castle calmly scheming—Prince of liars.
Saw he all his business leaving, leaving swiftly year by year;
Then he marked a man for his victim whom he knew would stand in fear.
Now he stands in full possession of what he got by "points of law,"
And now dispens' his wondrous wisdom and never makes a flaw.
But alas! the shyster had to take unto his bed,
With that terrible affliction,—too much brains within one head.
When he died the crash was awful—down the mighty town house sunk,
And his suckers sobbed in sorrow from the vermin to the skunk.
So we built unto his memory this monument of brass,
To perpetuate the history of this champion shyster ass.

Mulcahy acknowledges this week the receipt of part of the anatomy of Mr. C. C. Hills, of the News, who is on a trip through the West. By what accident he lost his ears I have yet to learn. I have shown them to several of his friends and they were readily recognized. Perhaps he caught them in a portable saw mill and had them planed off and has enough left to answer every purpose. If I had received a part of his cheek I should not have been surprised, because there is no limit to that. Try again, Churley.

The recent arrest of the swindlers in Boston, who had been disposing of cheap horses at outrageous prices by a neat confidence game, brought to light the fact that they found a victim in this town. A well known man while in Boston was invited to look at a horse that was heavily blanketed, and the price asked was $200. He had no particular use for a horse, but just then a fellow resembling a horse jockey stepped up and offered $250 for the animal. The old yarn about wanting the horse to fall into the hands of one who would take good care of it, etc., was repeated, and the result was that our citizen, who by the way had a couple hundred dollars belonging to the estate of his brother, which he was settling, bought the horse as a speculation for $200 and the jockey was to take it off his hands the next day for $250. The horse was taken to one of our livery stables with orders that the purchaser be notified when the jockey came for him. One, two and three days lengthened into as many weeks and more and no one came for the animal, and after paying board for five weeks at $5 a week, the citizen realized that he had been "taken in" and sold his horse for $50.

"My physician said I could not live. My liver out of order, frequently vomited greenish mucous, skin yellow, small dry humors on face, stomach would not retain food. Burdock Blood Bitters cured me." Mrs. Adelaide O'Brein, 372 Exchange St., Buffalo, N. Y.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER

Absolutely Pure.

This powder never varies. A marvel of purity, strength and wholesomeness. More economical than the ordinary kinds, and cannot be sold in competition with the multitude of low test, short weight, alum or phosphate powders. Sold only in cans. ROYAL BAKING POWDER Co., 106 Wall street, N. Y.
2dw

AVOID

The Cholera by Using Carbolate of Lime.

For cleansing out-houses, cesspools, sink-drains, stables, etc For sale in 10, 25 and 50 lbs. bags, and by the barrel.

E. S. THAYER.

165 Derby Street.

C. H. ESTES, Agent for Peabody.

SMOKERS.

Having secured a large lot of the very Best Tobacco in the market we feel justified in saying the

MON AMI AND PLANTER

are the Best Havana Cigars in the town of Peabody. We have also the Electric, Harvard and El Sol de Cuba Brands.

FOR A 5C. SMOKE

Try the Brunette, it is a good one. The Heart's Ease, Sociable, Purity, Gun Club and E. H. S., are fine goods.

Collins' Cigar Store.

4 Allen's Block.

TOBACCO WHOLESALE & RETAIL.

WM. M. HILL.

AUCTIONEER, REAL ESTATE BROKER & APPRAISER.

HALE'S BLOCK.

223 ESSEX STREET, SALEM.

Mortgagees negotiated. Personal attention to all Real Estate matters.

MARKED DOWN.

$1.85

THE MATCHLESS BOOTS.

IN FINE CURACOA KID OVERLAPS.

Determined to maintain unabated the furore caused by the introduction of OSBORNE'S MATCHLESS BOOTS, we shall for the next Thirty Days sell this elegant line of Ladies' Fine Dress Boots, in Fine Curacoa Kid Overlaps, at the fabulously low price of $1,85 per pair. In the construction of these boots, MATCHLESS FOR SYMMETRY, GRACE & BEAUTY.

Shoemaking develops into a fine art, and by their marvellous cheapness every lady is enabled to wear a boot which for fit, style and warkmanship is equal to anything offered by our competitors for $3. These boots were wonderfully cheap at their former price, and a

$1.85

THEY STAND UNAPPROACHED AND UNAPPROACHABLE.

ALL THE WORLD COMES POURING IN TO SEIZE THE GLORIOUS OPPORTUNITY.

From North and South, from East and West,
Come throngs of buyers eager,
Because our prices are the best
To suit the means when meagre.

Here comes the toiling artizan,
To save an honest penny,
The horny-handed farmer, too,
To seek the bargains many.

The rich and poor they throng our doors:
Each one the chance embraces;
They buy their shoes and from our stores
Go home with happy faces.

We wage a war on prices high,
Our banner's now unfurled!
With mammoth stock, and prices low,
We sure can beat the world.

WELLMAN OSBORNE,

84 MARKET ST., 23 MARKET SQUARE,

LYNN, MASS.

TWICE A DAY

HATHAWAY'S ORIGINAL

—CREAM HOME MADE BREAD—

Hot Morning and Afternoon. Best of goods in our line comprising

Crackers, Bread, Cake and Pastry,

Also rich Bride, Angel and Wedding Cake to order. Fine ornamental work for Wedding, Birthday and Party Cake a specialty.

C. F. Hathaway,

50 LOWELL ST., PEABODY.

BARGAIN BULLETIN.

Read what Nugent Brothers are doing for their customers.

Ladies' Hand Sewed Congress,	65c
" Tip Congress,	75c
" Beaver Buskins, wool lined,	50c
" " Congress, "	$1.00
" Kid or Grain Slippers,	50c
" Common Sense Button,	$1.25
" Common Sense Goat Button (Phelan's)	2.00
" Common Sense Kid Button, (A. F. Smith's)	2.50
" Glove Polish, hand sewed,	1.00
Misses' Grain Button,	1.00
" Kid Button,	1.25
" Spring Heel Button, kid or goat,	1.50
Children's Grain Button, 6 to 10 1-2,	75c
" School Boots, 7 to 11,	50c
" Button Boots,	25c
" Kid Button, 7 to 10 1-2,	$1.00
Youths' Bals., Tap Soles,	90c
Boys' Bals., Tap Sole,	$1.00
Men's Bals., Tap Sole,	1.25
" Sewed Button Boots, nobby, 4 and 5 widths,	1.50
" Carpet Slippers, heel stay,	40c
" Boots Tapped and Heeled,	75c
Women's Boots Tapped and Heeled,	55c
Misses' Boots Tapped and Heeled,	45c

Repairing neatly and promptly done. Best stock and workmanship guaranteed.

The best Rubber Goods at Lowest Prices.

Leave your Trade and Repairing at Nugent's Bargain Shoe Store,

PEABODY SQUARE.

The Peabody Press.

JOHN P. FERNALD ALBERT VITTUM,

Editors and Publishers.

THE PLATFORMS at Springfield and Worcester place the two parties in Massachusetts on record in opposition to each other, with reference to biennial elections. We are perfectly content to meet and abide by the issue. Massachusetts is now nearly the last State of the Union to fall into line and abolish the annual election of officers and annual sessions of the Legislature.

The labor party, or its leaders, we regret to say, has been in the past opposed to biennial elections. This is undoubtedly the secret of the plank in the democratic platform. We think the opponents of biennials are very much misled. The only argument, of any weight, used by the anti-biennial advocates, is the necessity of having the power entrusted to the rulers of the State returned to the people as often as possible. This was the great point of the chairman of our town citizens' caucus, two years ago, who was one of the leaders, in Massachusetts, of this opposition to biennials. The drift of the argument, with such as he, is easily discerned. They are in the minority at elections. They wanted an opportunity, as often as possible, to attempt a displacement of the party in power.

Such, in a measure, is the secret of the leaders of the movement now. All the labor some of these men perform is at elections. Politics is their business. Abolish annual elections, and half their occupation is gone. Cannot the laboring man see that in favoring annual elections he is supporting these very men, who never do or will do a day's labor, so long as they are not compelled to?

The bustle and stir of an annual election is disastrous to business, and therefore not of benefit to the laboring man. Every one knows the injury to general business, throughout the entire country, of the presidential election. State elections are not as injurious, at all times, but there is more or less distraction from business, besides affording an opportunity for employment of certain individuals who ought to be engaged in some legitimate labor.

Biennial elections would lead to the choice of better men at the polls. It is often said now, "Well, it is only for one year." Such an excuse for a hesitating vote should never be given—and it would not be so likely to be given under biennial elections. If the power is returned to the people only once in two years, they will choose men who will not abuse that power.

Elections are an expense to the State, not only in its corporate capacity but to individuals themselves. Everything tending to lessen the expense, is for the good of the people. More prominence is given to legitimate employment—to the lasting good of the community. It is not for the good of any State that labor, when in demand, should be unemployed.

We can see no disadvantage to the laboring man, by biennial elections in the state. On the contrary we can see inestimable benefit therefrom. Except to politicians, having no other employment, we see no reason for opposition to the measure, and we believe the opposition comes largely from the leaders, and that, if submitted to the people today, the vote would be strongly in favor of biennial elections.

The Republicans are in favor of biennials, but are content to submit it to the people. Their opponents dread such submission and have fought it at every step. They realize that their opportunity is with the Legislature. At the same time we agree that in the Legislature is the best place to settle it. Let the people make it an issue in the choice of legislators. We have no fear of the decision.

THE LYNN Item calls attention very forcibly and truthfully to a matter that we think the press can readily bear witness to. This is the delay of the Post Office department in the transportation and delivery of newspapers. The Item says:

"Let our brethren of the press take up this matter, and create a sentiment against the well-known custom of the Post Office Department of neglecting newspapers. A man wants his newspaper as much as he wants a letter, and sometimes more, and it should be carried to him with conscientious regularity. The press has said too little on this subject. We have ground the axes for other folks, now let us grind our own."

This is to the point. The postal facilities of this Government, with reference to letters, is excellent. But while letters are of the first importance, newspapers should not be so neglected as at the present time. Put a letter and paper in the office together and it is an unusual occurrence to have them received together, oftentimes it is worse than this. We are often requested by our subscribers to send the PRESS to them on their vacation, in the summer. We do not overstate it when we say that they seldom receive it the first week, and sometimes when it is sent several weeks, it is not received. We don't know where to place the responsibility; as the Lynn Item says, we wish we did.

There is another thing. Postmasters in some places will allow a paper to come to their office week after week, when the party to whom it is addressed has removed from town, without notifying the publisher of the fact. They are required to so notify the publisher. But suppose they do not? We never heard of anything being done in such a case. We once got a notification of this kind after the party had left the place nearly a year. Upon venturing to suggest that an earlier notification would have been appreciated, we were told that such had been done. There was no proof of it; the clerk remembered, or thought he did, of notifying us. There his responsibility ended. It made no difference whether we received the notification. As long as he had sent it, no more was required. No record was kept. He could not tell the time. His word was sufficient.

It is a small matter, and there are undoubtedly a hundred little things like this to vex the postmaster of these country towns. Particularly if he be an "offensive partisan," and has the politics of the town to attend to. But it would seem that instructions should be given that more care be given to the delivery of newspapers. They are often sent instead of a letter. They are of more value, oftentimes. The man of business, in his retirement at summer, needs his paper more than a letter. The brethren of the press should heed the suggestion of brother Parker of the Item, and stir things.

◆

IT WAS to be expected that the democratic party in Massachusetts, in its platform, would adopt labor resolutions. After what had been done at Springfield by the republicans, they dared not do otherwise. So that both parties have recognized the claims of the labor interest. This being the case, the labor men will see to it that they vote with the party likely to do the best for them.

There are other things necessary for the prosperity of the laboring man besides platform resolutions. The business of the country must be improved; our mills and factories must be in operation, and encouragement given to capitalists to enlarge their fields of operation. This can only be done by a continued protection to American manufactures—a benefit to labor and capital alike. To such protection the Republican party is pledged—on it the Democrats are divided. It is not mentioned in their platform.

Another necessity is the passage of a National bankrupt law. The business of a country cannot be successfully conducted without credit. The secret of a large trade in commercial centres is confidence. There can be no credit without confidence, and without credit, to some extent, business must suffer. But at present, every state has a different bankrupt law; some have none, or worse than none. A merchant is unwilling to sell goods, and reasonably so, where he feels sure of no protection. A national bankrupt law, which would be a benefit to business, and therefore a benefit to the laboring man as well, was passed by the Republican Senate, demanded at Springfield in convention, but was killed by a democratic House of Representatives.

Without business, without prosperity to the merchant, there can be none to the laboring man. It is of little avail to him that he may receive his pay every Saturday night, when he cannot obtain employment. Labor is as dependent upon capital for prosperity, as capital needs labor to bring forth successful results. On the great questions of the tariff, the currency, the business prosperity of the Nation, the democratic party has no settled policy. It is divided against itself. Is this the party to whom the laborer should go for political alliance?

The Republican party stands for the protection of American industry, which means more business for the capitalist and higher wages for the working man. It is pledged to an honest, clean currency, and a national bankrupt law, which shall restore confidence to the business community. It demands honest elections and a fair count of votes—whether in the North or South, and insists that such a vote shall be an intelligent vote. In all these things is not the laboring man benefited?

◆

THE WEAKEST spot in the democratic platform is the condemnation of the action of the Legislature in regard to the Metropolitan police bill. Since the new Commissioners have been appointed, such a change in the efficiency of the police force of Boston has been noticeable, that a condemnation of this action is a direct apology for the violation of law. Even the Boston Herald, once an opponent of the law, cannot deny the wisdom of the change, and is outspoken in its favor. It has worked so well that other cities, where the police force are too much responsible to local political influence, are seriously considering the advantage of having such a change brought about in their own case.

In Boston, the effect of the police bill has been to make the law breaker less defiant—and the enforcement of the law easier and more certain. Gambling saloons are not as frequent—some of the most notorious have stopped business altogether. The liquor law is better enforced, and especially the Sunday part of it. The saloon keepers do not like it; the sporting men and gamblers do not like it; the keepers of disreputable houses do not like it; the democratic party at Worcester does not like it. The latter allies itself with all the roughs and law breakers in Boston in opposition to the action of the Legislature in ensuring an enforcement of the law of the State in that city. Is such a party worthy the suffrages of the law abiding citizens of the State? If so, God save the Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

◆

IS IS stated that the Knights of Labor will "boycott" Hon. A. W. Beard, the republican candidate for treasurer. We can't blame them. He did not show himself a friend of the laboring man last year in the Legislature, although he has been trying to curry favor with them this year by opposing biennial elections. He ought not to have been nominated. With resolutions leaning towards the reforms demanded by the Knights of Labor, and a candidate in opposition to them, who can wonder that they hesitate? It would be no more of a rebuke than the Republicans deserve if Mr. Cross of Newburyport should be elected.

◆

THE NEWS which comes from Ohio this morning is encouraging. Foraker, the republican candidate for governor, is elected by a plurality variously estimated at from 8000 to 20,000. The legislature, both branches, is undoubtedly republican. And this, too, despite the polling of a heavy prohibitory vote. The confidence of the country in the Republican party is not yet destroyed. Its position is not vacillating on all the great questions of the day. New York will follow Ohio, and prepare the way for the election of a Republican House of Representatives in Congress. It is many years since Ohio gave such an old time Republican majority.

◆

We have often called attention to the window of W.C. Robinson, Lynn and it has always justified attention and deserved compliment. But all the artistic works cannot find space at the front, and just now we would advise all lovers of the beautiful in art to step into his store and enjoy the display now to be seen there. In the centre are several tables handsomely set with a rare variety of Oriental porcelain and bisque ware; also a number of panel photographs, mounted on bronze. Those who are looking for gifts appropriate for wedding or birthday presents, would do well to bear this in mind.

◆

A paper in circulation at Lawrence, Mass., since the announcement of the proposed raise in the rates of the New England Telephone Company to-day, contains 150 names, including nearly all the prominent business houses and physicians, who agree to take out the instruments. Only about 325 were in use before the raise. It is thought that more than one half will be taken out before Oct. 15, the time announced for the increase in the rate.—Boston Traveller.

◆

ONE OF the best campaign jokes, thus far, was perpetrated by the Boston Globe the morning after the Democratic Convention at Worcester. It had a cut of a bar at that city, with two bartenders behind it, and no customers. Under the picture was the inscription, "Democrats don't drink."

◆

The Naumkeag Clothing Company have a rich line of goods for your inspection. Low prices for the best goods seems to be their motto.

SPARKS.

The event of the week in fire circles has been the reception, by the Wm. Penn Hose Company, of Salem, of the famous Phœnix Hose 1, of Poughkeepsie, N. Y., and their $3800 parade carriage. Monday evening at 7 o'clock, the members of the different companies of the Salem department, under the charge of Assistant Engineer Hadley and headed by the Salem Brass Band, marched to the B. & M. depot to receive their guests who were to arrive by a special train. At 7.25 the train rolled into the depot and a rush was made by the large crowd to get a first sight of the much talked about carriage. It was carefully taken from the cars and the various figures and statues put in position and the line formed in front of the Mechanics Light Infantry Armory which was kept ablaze with fire works and red fire. The guests had been met in Boston by Chief Osborn and the foreman of each company in the Salem department. This committee formed in line followed by the Tenth Regiment Band of New York, Chief Engineer William Kaess, of Poughkeepsie, Foreman A. Van Vleeck, Mayor White and other invited guests and the Phœnix Hose Company, thirty-six men dragging their carriage. They passed the Salem department which was drawn up on Washington street, and were then taken under escort to the City Hall, where they were welcomed to the city by Mayor Huntington, after which the line of march was taken up for Beckford street where the carriage was housed in Hose 3's house. The reception at this place was very brilliant, fireworks being displayed from every quarter. After leaving their machine the procession proceeded to the house of Charles A. Kezar, who kept open house, and then to the Essex House where the guests were to be quartered. A complimentary dance was held in Hamilton Hall in the evening. The carriage was on exhibition at the Beckford street house Monday evening and Tuesday forenoon. Following is a description of it:

It is set on very high wheels, which are painted a dark brown color and are striped in gilt. The framework is entirely of metal, nickel plated and highly polished. The drum or reel is made of nickelled metal, ornamented with gold plated bands. The reel turns in hydrant posts, one on each side, which are gilded, and on the bottom bears the name "Phœnix." The sides of the reel are constructed of finely cut mirror glass, into which ground glass plates, bearing allegorical figures, one set. There are eight ornamented lanterns on the carriage—three in front, three behind and one each side, in which are colored glass sides bearing the words, "Phœnix Hose Company." The spanner boxes in front and back are nickelled and gilt banded. The one in front of the carriage bears the inscription "Organized 1844," that behind, "Phœnix, Poughkeepsie." On and over the reel are three statuettes. On each side is a gilded figure holding a torch in the right hand. The left arm bears a buckler, and in the hand is a sword. The centre figure is a very large statuette of "Mercury," which is silver plated. On the back part of the frame is a figure of "Neptune," and on the spanner boxes before and behind sits a miniature "Crusader," moulded in brass, on a horse of bronze. The pole of the carriage is painted like the wheels, gilded and ornamented by nickelled handles. The carriage was drawn by a long rope, which is as white as pure linen. The colored lanterns were lighted, and, as can be imagined, produced a beautiful effect in the darkness.

The parade of the Salem fire department took place yesterday afternoon. In the forenoon the Phœnix Hose Company and guests were taken in barges and carriages to inspect the Water works at Wenham and the Beverly fire department, houses and apparatus, returning to Salem about noon. At about 1.30 the line was formed in front of the City Hall and the Salem department reviewed. At 2.30 the line of march was taken up, and about one-half the advertised route marched over, but the rain came down so heavily that it was given up. By some oversight on the part of some one the procession started before the Phœnix company with their carriage arrived, and as the rear of the column passed out of Washington street going up Essex, the visitors marched from Federal street into Washington, and followed along behind until near North street, the third division was drawn up in line and the Phœnix company took their place, but the first division, made up of the horse apparatus was nearly a quarter of a mile ahead, still marching. When the procession reached Washington street upon their return, the Poughkeepsie company drew out of the line and marched direct to the depot, where their carriage was loaded upon the cars, to the great surprise of all. The guests were entertained by Chas. H. Kezar, after the parade, leaving for Boston at 5.45 o'clock, not stopping for the banquet in the rink in the evening, although it had been arranged that they should stop. It is very evident that something went wrong or they would not have left in such a hurried manner. Chief Osborne in his remarks at the banquet expressed regret at the departure of the visitors.

Word was received in Peabody last week that the Poughkeepsie firemen would be brought to this town by the Salem firemen, and the men connected with the Central Station immediately took steps to entertain them, but afterwards found out that there would not be time for the visit. Not to be wholly outdone, a party of fifteen firemen from Haverhill, Bradford, Cambridge and Somerville, were captured in Salem by firemen from this town, and brought to the Central Station, where an oyster supper was got up which was partaken of with a great relish. The visitors were shown around the house, returning to their respective homes on the 6.10 and 6.46 trains for Haverhill and Boston. For an impromptu affair the supper was a success.

The Board of Engineers held a meeting last Wednesday evening, and approbated Charles A. Southwick as a member of H. & L. 1 in place of Robert Tanch. It was voted to put trusses under the H. & L. truck to strengthen the body. The matter of dropping the hose jumpers from the steamers was talked over, and it was left with Chief Tibbetts to do what he thought best about it.

The Sixth Annual Convention of the State Firemen's Association is in session to-day in New Era Hall in Boston.

Z.

◆

Several cases of scarlet fever are reported in town.

The Peabody bicycle club go to Lynn next Friday night.

The Peabody Orchestra will occupy the room over the PRESS office.

The police made a raid on John C. Mahoney last night but secured nothing.

John Keefe this morning was fined three dollars and costs for assault on Mike Lucy.

There has been only one death reported to the town clerk for the past two weeks.

Mr. H. A Chesley, wife and daughter and her husband, all of Brooklyn, N. Y., are stopping in town.

"Welcome heroes" was a conspicuous sign displayed during the Cadet parade last Thursday.

Mr. Patrick Murphy, on Washington street, is making extensive improvements around his house.

Mr. George Hayes of Peabody and Miss Lizzie Getchell of Salem, were united in marriage last week.

A handsome Italian marble shaft has been erected to the memory of Isaac Hardy in Monumental Cemetery.

Geo. Stevens shows a bunch of Southern grapes which weighs two pounds ten ounces.

Pinder & Winchester, after a very successful business career, give notice of a dissolution of the co-partnership.

The Senatorial Convention (Republican) of this district, will be held next Monday Oct. 21, at Town Hall, Salem.

Mr. H. Vesehoff, formerly of Great Falls, has opened a shop in Wakefield. He used to do quite a business in this town.

"Curly" Buxton reports a flock of geese as flying southward the other night so low that one could hear the flop of their wings.

Mr. B. D. Hill, of the Boston Globe, went to New York Friday night, to witness the explosion at Hell Gate last Saturday.

Arthur Abbott comes to the front with a common white turnip which weighed ten pounds and measured 27 inches in circumference.

The Danvers horse railroad have been looking at the Teel estate on Central street to be used as a stable and car house. They will probably purchase.

Mr. Joseph Boyle after an absence since 1861, turned up in the police court this morning while drunk, and was fined $5.83. He should have kept away a few days longer.

The shipments of leather from Peabody and Salem for the week ending Oct. 10 were 5535 rolls, 263 sides, 111 bundles, 93 bags, 25 barrels of leather, 41 bundles, 25 rolls, 5 casks and 3 barrels of skins.

The Wilmot Clothing Co., sends us too late for this issue a change of adv., which very plainly tells of the many choice bargains offered at this store

The Republican town committee met last Saturday evening and organized by the choice of J. Fred Ingraham chairman and Joseph Wiggin Secretary. It is understood that all the gentlemen elected will stand.

The school committee appointed last evening Mrs. E. A. Sanborn, of Concord, N. H., as principal of the Endicott school. They did not come to a conclusion on the subject of less years of schooling.

We desire to call the attention of our readers to the new advertisement of F. D. Tarleton, 42 Main street, and to his neatly arranged store and well selected stock of goods. Mr. Tarleton is a hard worker—attends personally to his business—and knows how to buy goods as well as sell them. We commend his store to our readers. They will find Mr. Tarleton a gentleman at all times—they will be treated handsomely if they do not purchase, and they will find the prices right on the goods which he carries. This our people are fast finding out, and we know that his business is on the increase. Read his advertisement. He advertises a corset which is giving great satisfaction.

To-morrow will be a red letter day with William G. Webber & Co., of Salem. Their advertisement, in this issue, announces a grand opening of all goods in every department. It will be an interesting occasion and cannot fail to commend itself to the lady readers of the PRESS. The store, now that it is finished, is one of the lightest in Salem. The goods are fresh and the best selections in the market can always be found at this store. Mr. Webber's long experience in catering to the wants of the ladies of Essex County enables him to please the people, and he is doing it, if we can judge by the crowds in his store at all times.

The store of George Stevens now presents a very inviting aspect. A large window has been put in on the Foster street corner of his store, the counter turned around so as to run directly in connection with the others, new paper and paint has been put on the walls and shelves,—in short everything looks as bright and fresh as a daisy. George has now the best line of goods he has ever kept—from his cigar and lunch counter on the one side, to his toys, stationery and all sorts of "knick-knacks" on the other. The changes made improve the looks of the store besides making it more convenient for the trade.

Not the promissory, but facts about Welcome Soap, an article that does not contain one particle of the adulterations used to reduce the cost of "Pure Goods," but does possess the full value of legitimate Washing Qualities, the demand for which proves the advantage gained by the use of the genuine over Soaps of doubtful character. None should be deceived even by Red and Yellow Wrappers, or any of the imitations of the Welcome, as a pair of clasped hands is stamped on every bar. Made by Curtis Davis & Co.

During 1884, the receipts of the lodges in New York were distributed as follows: Out of every dollar received, fifty-one cents were spent in relief; forty-three cents for current expenses and six cents remained in the treasury. The ratio of current expenses to relief was about seventy cents expenses to a dollar for relief. It would look as if Odd Fellowship was far, very far, from being a mere show.

The next Legislature will be petitioned to enact a law prohibiting the sale of tobacco to minors. The annual state convention of the Women's Christian Temperance Union at Clinton Thursday, voted to do this thing.

At this season of the year it will profit you to use Ferrated Hygienic Wine, to cleanse your blood of all poisonous humor. tf

Health is of more consequence than wealth Many sick ones might be cured by using Ferrated Hygienic Wine, tf

New Advertisements.

PEABODY INSTITUTE,

PEABODY,

THURSDAY EVENING, OCT. 22D.

OXFORD MALE QUARTETTE, consisting of

A. D. SAXON, formerly of Lotus Glee Club.
W. J. McLAUGHLIN, formerly of Lotus Glee Club.
T. H. MORRIS, formerly of Harmony Quartette.
J. H. RICKETSON, of New Hollis Street Church.

WITH

Prof. E. K. Hood, Elocutionist, and the Talented young Cornetist

MISS NETTIE C. COBURN, and Accompanist,

MISS HATTIE WILEY.

Admission, 35 and 25 Cents

Door opens at 7.15. Commences at 7.45.

Tickets for Sale at H. A. Spaulding's on and after Oct. 19.

DISSOLUTION OF CO-PARTNERSHIP.

The Co-partnership heretofore existing under the firm name of Pinder & Winchester, is this day dissolved by mutual consent.

JOHN PINDER,
GEORGE J. WINCHESTER.

Peabody, Oct. 14, '85. 3t

REPUBLICAN SENATORIAL CONVENTION.

The Republicans of the Second Essex Senatorial District are requested to send delegates to a Convention to be held at TOWN HALL, Salem, October 21st, at 3 P. M., for the purpose of nominating a candidate for Senator, and also to choose a member of the State Central Committee for the ensuing year.

HUBBARD BREED,
Member State Central Committee.

Benefit Concert!

A Complimentary Benefit Concert will be tendered to Mr. E. S. Macgregor, of Salem, at Peabody Institute,

PEABODY,

THURSDAY EVENING, OCT. 29.

On which occasion he will have the assistance of the following well known talent:

MISS GRACE F. DALTON, Soprano, of Salem.
MISS SOPHA HALL, Contralto, of Boston.
F. CLAYTON RECORD, Violinist, of Salem.
A. W. NEWCOMB, Pianist, of Salem.
S. C. T. ABORN, Reader, of Lynn.

TICKETS, 35C.

For sale at the stores of H. A. Spaulding, D. P. Grosvenor and Nathaniel Symonds.

M. B. WILSON,

262 ESSEX ST., SALEM.

Now Opening Fall and Winter Millinery in all the latest Designs. A large assortment of

TRIMMED BONNETS AND ROUND HATS,

to which we invite your attention. No special opening day, all are cordially invited.

Also agent for the celebrated Tucker Bustle.

M. B. WILSON.

oct 14—3m

ROYAL BOYCOTTED.

Use only the Best.

"HENKEL" and "GOLDEN SHEAF"

BAKING POWDER.

Best sold, absolutely pure.

Exclusive Sale in Peabody.

A Handsome Castor and some other silver present, or a fine piece of crockery with each pound.

Hallowell & Smiley

16 CALLER ST., PEABODY.

LADIES' CUSTOM TAILORING DEPARTMENT.

Ladies' Tailor Fitted Suits, Dresses and Outside Garments,

Made to Order from Measure.

Our prices are Extremely Low for the class of work.

Perfect fit and perfect work guaranteed.

W. C. MORSE, Cutter.
MISS STELLA ALDEN, Fitter and Draper.

ALMY, BIGELOW & WASHBURN.

oct 7—1m

SALEM ORATORIO SOCIETY.

The first rehearsal will be held at

LYCEUM HALL,

THURSDAY EVENING, OCT. 15, 1885,

at 7.30 o'clock.

MENDELSSOHN'S ST. PAUL will be the first work and SPOHR'S LAST JUDGMENT, which met with such great favor last season, the second work.

Books and tickets can be obtained at the store of Merrill & Mackintire, excepting on rehearsal evenings, when they will be found at the hall.

Applicants for membership will please leave their names at store of Merrill & Mackintire, 220 Essex street.

GEO. A. SHEPARD, Sec.

ST. PAUL

(Novello Edition)

BOOKS,

—AT—

E. V. EMILIO'S.

50c, 75c, $1.13.

oct 7—3t

DISSOLUTION OF CO-PARTNERSHIP.

The Copartnership heretofore existing between Edward D. Trask and Albert Trask, under the firm name of E. D. Trask & Son, is this day dissolved by mutual consent. The business will be continued by Albert Trask who assumes the liabilities and collects the debts due said firm.

Peabody, Oct. 7, 1885.

The Peabody Press.

Wednesday Evening, Oct, 7, 1885

HOME HAPPENINGS.

At the close of his sermon on the "second coming of Christ" last Sunday, the Rev. C. N. Smith of the Methodist church related the following singular experience. During his second year in the ministry, and when he was quite a young man, there was considerable excitement concerning the "Second coming of Christ" and the gospel as preached by Dr. Miller was gaining ground, and caused him to give the consideration of his own feelings concerning that event a large amount of thought, and while he had the matter under consideration he had a dream. It seemed to him that he was in his father's house when suddenly the whole place was illuminated with a soft supernatural light and he rushed to the window and the heavens were opened and he saw Christ with open arms descending to earth while the halo and light about him filled him with an indescribable feeling of joy, and he shouted "Glory! Glory! Christ is coming." Having been awakened by his wife he told her how real seemed his vision, and then went to sleep, only to again see the same vision and to be again awakened by his wife while the exclamations were on his lips. And more singular still the vision was disclosed to him the third time, and a third time was he awakened by his wife.

There was a small crowd standing in George Stevens' store the other day, when a man came in selling an illuminated photograph of the Lord's prayer. When it was offered to the correspondent of one of the daily papers, he remarked that he didn't need it as he knew it all by heart. At this the man offered to give him one free if he would repeat it correctly. The pencil pusher blushed and commenced "Now I lay me", stopped a second, began again with "The Lord is my Shepherd" stopped again, hesitated, made a third attempt and then gave it up. It is not necessary to send missionaries to China.

The Essex Conference of Liberal Christian Churches will hold its autumnal gathering at Newburyport on Wednesday, Oct. 21, at 9.30 o'clock. Devotional exercises will be led by Miss H. E. Lunt of Newburyport. Officers will be chosen for the year. Rev. J. B. Green of Gloucester will speak on "Helps to Spiritual Manhood" and Rev. S. B. Stewart of Lynn briefly reviews his essay, "Some Suggestions about Worship." In the afternoon, Rev. Francis Tiffany of West Newton opens the discussion. Round trip tickets at reduced rates over the Boston & Maine road.

There is an ancient prophecy in Germany which says: "When Mark shall bring us Easter and Anthony shall sing praises at Pentecost, and John swing the censer at the feast of Corpus Domini, then shall the whole earth resound with weepings and wailings." Now all this will happen next year, for Easter falls on St. Mark's day, April 25; Pentecost on that of St Anthony of Padua, June 13; and Corpus Christi on St. John Baptist's day, June 24. Do you think the prophecy will be fulfilled?

At the request of district assembly No. 96, Knights of Labor, 20 finishers employed by Clerk & Lennox, morocco manufacturers, who recently moved part of their business to Wilmington, Del., from Haverhill, Mass., stopped work Saturday. The strike was ordered because the firm continues to employ as foreman of the Haverhill shops, in opposition to the wishes of the Knights of Labor, a man named Collins, who, the men allege, revealed secrets of the Knights.—Gazette.

One of the best appointed grocery and provision stores in town is that of B. B. Humphrey on Washington street, and his large and constantly increasing trade attest to that fact. All vegetables, fruits etc., are offered in their season, and as soon as they appear in the Boston markets. The cutting of the meat is done by Mr. William R. Fifield who has had years of experience. He requires several delivery teams and drivers in filling and taking orders.

The State Democratic Convention at Worcester on Wednesday nominated Hon. F. O. Prince for Governor, H. H. Gilmore of Cambridge for Lieutenant Governor, Jeremiah Crowley of Lowell for Secretary of State, Henry K. Braley of Fall River for Attorney General; for Treasurer and Receiver General, Henry M. Cross of Newburyport; for Auditor, James E. Delaney of Holyoke.

To see the glories of the October landscape in their perfection a water view along side a stretch of woodland is a necessary adjunct because of the brilliant reflection which lingers on the surface when the day is bright. There are many pretty drives in this vicinity where this effect is very strikingly seen.

The Danvers Bleachery, Messrs. Walker & Bro., have just completed a large and substantial storehouse of brick and stone opposite the large stone building so familiar to observers. The design of the building was the work of Mr. J. Howard Fallon, the agent. The erection of the storehouse was begun in July and it is 241 feet long and 62 1-2 feet wide. It is built fire proof, being also separated into sections by two fire walls extending from the ground through the entire building to the roof and above it. It has long been needed for the reception of goods which come to the Bleachery by cart and by car, and is built in such a thorough manner that it must last for years. The timbers are of Georgia hard pine, 15x6, two bolted together, and it required three quarters of a million of bricks to complete the building. The studs are ten feet, sufficient for storage, and the building is two stories high with the best gravel roof that could be made, the surface being covered with six thicknesses of paper. The storage room for gray goods alone will hold 2500 bales of goods piled one high; and they can be put three high if necessary. The doors on the sides towards the railway track, which runs between it and the bleachery proper, are just of the right height, to facilitate the loading and unloading of goods from the cars, and in the end of the storehouse is an arrangement whereby the large teams of Merritt & Co. and others can back directly into the house under cover, protecting both horses and team, if necessary, in case of a storm.

In the end of the building towards the old office, a space will be fitted up in the Spring for a new office. Over this entrance door is a large glass front with the word "Office," and over that a stone, which is made a part of the building itself, on which is inscribed "Danvers Bleachery." This stone is 8 feet by 5, came from Pittsfield, N H., and was made in Lawrence. It can only be effaced by the entire destruction of the building. The office proper will be roomy and convenient; the front separated by a partition across the entire width, through which all the employes will pass to and from the mill. Back of this will be a room for the clerks, from the desk in which they can see readily all the employes as they enter, and still further in the rear will be the private office of J. Howard Fallon, the agent, and a room for Mr. Whitney, with his desk so arranged that he can see through the room of the clerks directly to the front of the office. It is proposed to make some changes in the fencing in the Spring, by running a line of fence directly from the corner of the new office to Foster street and by also fencing, next frontage up to Washington street. They can then have the grounds graded and leveled and other improvements to the looks of the property made. A building is also now being erected for the manufacture of gas, which will be made by the Bleachery.

◆

It is a pleasure to note the prosperity of a firm like Nugent Bros. They opened a store in a small way on the Square many years ago; they have attended carefully to their business, have used their customers squarely and well, with the usual result. They now have a successful and rapidly growing business, achieved through strict integrity and a liberal display of printers ink. They keep at present as good a line of boots and shoes as can be found anywhere; it requires additional clerks to attend to the trade, and in every way their store is becoming the popular place to trade. They are agents for the goods of the Candee Rubber Co.,—the best goods in the market, besides other well known and popular goods.

There will be a special town meeting at the town hall on Tuesday, the 20th of October, to act on the following business, viz:

1st. To choose a Moderator.

2d. To see what action the town will take on the order of notice from the County Commissioners, on the petition of Francis H. Appleton and others, for the laying out of a highway in West Peabody; the same to be a continuation of West street, and running southerly through land of E. Southwick, E. N. Moulton, H. D. Twiss and Francis H. Appleton, to a point on Lake street.

The marriage of Miss Rosie Kemp to Mr. Simon P. Buxton took place Wednesday evening, at the residence of the bride, 291 Shawmut avenue, Boston. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Mr. Perrin. The bridal couple were attended by two youthful groomsmen, Masters Thomas Kemp and Frank Hollis, and two little bridesmaids, Misses Annie and Josie Buxton. Messrs. W. R. Trott, Thomas Wright and A. H. Kemp officiated as ushers.

The PRESS force from imp to editor return thanks to Abraham C. Osborn for a generous supply of delicious grapes, raised on his place on Central street. Mr. Osborne has raised bushels of them this season, and the best grapes in the local market came from his garden.

There is a feeling of melancholy in the present days. Nature, as is her wont, is changing her summer apparel for the more sombre and substantial garb of Fall. The eye and ear note the change. The trees are losing a few leaves, while their dense foliage is deepening from a deep green to that of variegated hues. The dead struggle of the vegetable kingdom bespeaks the change. The bee is certainly less active; the cricket chirps less shrilly; the stars glimmer more brightly, and summer birds are surely immigrating to more congenial climes. If ever in life comes a feeling of sadness, of soberness—a time when you feel as though you would rather be alone to your thoughts and day-dreams—this must be that period.

Don't forget to put on the 2 cent stamp in addition to the ten when you want to send a letter by the special delivery. One of our business men sent a letter to his son from Boston recently, and neglected to pay the regular postage besides the delivery stamp, and the following day the young man received notice that there was a letter for him held in Boston "for postage."

At this season the farmers are gathering their roots for cattle feeding. Mr. Warren Trask exhibited at his store two large Mangol Wurzels raised on the farm of Stephen Blaney that were regular Jumbo's. One of them measured over two feet in length and weighed sixteen and one-half pounds. These are only a fair sample of about an acre and a quarter of the roots.

Last Sunday Rev. C. N. Smith, of the Methodist Church, preached a very interesting and able sermon on the Second Coming of Christ, taking for his text Acts I:11—"Ye men of Galilee, why stand ye gazing up into heaven? This same Jesus which is taken up from you into heaven shall so come in like manner as ye have seen him go into heaven."

Miss Annie Cann held a pleasant birthday party at the residence of her father on Tremont street last Saturday. The party was made up of many pretty misses and they passed the afternoon handsomely. The birthday dinner was just the thing that Annie wanted The candies, nuts, fruit, cake and other good things went off with a flurry.

Last Thursday morning while a light wagon, belonging to Geo. C. Peirce, was being driven along Lowell street, a nut dropped off letting down the wagon. The horse ran away and collided with a tree, breaking the shafts and then stopped still till she was caught. The driver was slightly bruised.

The Byam & Carlton match factory at Boxford, is to be removed to Maine. This is the only manufacturing industry in the town, and its removal is much regretted. The company think they can manufacture matches cheaper in some other locality. The factory gives employment to from 60 to 75 persons.

The West Peabody Farmers' Club held their first meeting last Friday. The most of the evening was spent in listening to J. Fred Ingraham and Rev. Willard Spaulding. At the next meeting the subject for discussion will be "Value of Farmers' Clubs" to be opened by J. H. J. Colcord.

The necessity for a double track between the big tree and Essex street was shown last Thursday, when the Danvers and Naumkeag horse railroads were running extra cars. At one time both cars met on this single track, and as neither would give in, a blockade was the result.

Mrs. Sarah E., wife of Mr. C. B. Low, died at her home on Aborn street last Thursday, after an illness of several months, of consumption. She was a patient sufferer and a kind neighbor and friend. Her age was 37 years, 3 months and 29 days. Her funeral took place on Saturday.

The monument of the Second Company of Andrews Sharpshooters was dedicated at Gettysburg last Thursday. A description of the monument has already been given. Post master W. M. Ward was one of the committee but was unable to be present at the dedication.

Mr. Walter Severance, formerly of this town, who returned to Nova Scotia last year, was married last week to Miss Addie Morrison, of Yarmouth, N. S. May life to them be freighted with joy and peace and may their cares and troubles be little ones, few and far between.

A young man living about two miles from the square came to town the other evening, and borrowing a shirt and necktie went to a party and "mashed" one of our prettiest lasses. For the girl's sake, we keep his name sacred; but, George, look out next time.

As the windy fall weather comes on, people who put up stoves and start fires in their rooms, should carefully examine the flues that none are defective. In the season of fires one cannot be too careful. Also insure with O. B. Chadwick & Co.

GREAT

BLANKET SALE.

2 cases Heavy 12-4 White Blankets,

$3.00 A PAIR.

Would be a bargain at $4.50.

— ON SALE AT —

Frank Cousins'

BEE-HIVE,

SALEM.

FOR THE NEXT

10 DAYS

I will offer

WIRE FLOWER POT STANDS at cost.

Universal Wringers,	$2.75
Waltham Clamp Skates,	4.50

Lanterns and Lamps at the Lowest Cash price, at

SAMUEL TRASK'S

WALNUT ST.,

PEABODY.

NOW FOR

Base Ball,

and the place to get

BASE BALLS AND BATS

at the lowest prices is of

DANIEL J. SWEENEY

Next to the Old Hotel on the Square.

Here can also be found a good assortment of

Fruit,
Confectionery,
Cigars and
Tobacco.

Principee, Electric,
Serenader, Leader,

5 CENTS.!

Harvard and Boat Club,

10 CENTS.!

DANIEL J. SWEENEY.

ROSE BUDS AND PINKS.

— AT —

WARD'S GREENHOUSES,

Cor. Endicott and Warren Sts., Peabody.

E. V. EMILIO,

PIANO FORTE TUNER,

287 ESSEX ST.,

SALEM.

TO LET.

From Oct. 1st, House No. 6 Holten street, Peabody, containing 13 rooms. Apply to
T. M. OSBORNE,
6 Carpenter St., Salem.

sept 23

Oat Meal.

FRESH Ground and Cut Oat Meal.
CHAS. A. ROPES & SON.

NOTICE TO VOTERS.

Notice is hereby given that meetings of the Board of Registrars, for the purpose of receiving evidence of the qualifications of persons claiming a right to vote at the State election, to be held on Tuesday, the third day of November, 1885, and for correcting and revising the lists of voters, will be held in the Selectmen's Room, Town House, as follows:—

On TUESDAYS, Sept. 22 and 29, and Oct. 27 from 7 to 9 p. m.

On THURSDAYS, Oct. 8, 15 and 22d, from 1 to 5 p. m.

On SATURDAYS, Oct. 10, 17 and 24th, from 8 to 9 p. m.

On WEDNESDAY, Oct. 28, from 1 to 5 and from 7 to 10 p. m.

Registration will cease on Wednesday, October 28th, 1885, at 10 o'clock p. m.

The lists of voters will be posted Oct. 1st. after which time no name can be added thereto, unless the applicant for registration appears in person before the registrars and proves his claim to be registered.

All persons whose names were on the lists of voters of last year, and who fail to pay a tax of 1884 or 1885, prior to Oct 1st, will thus be required to register in person.

All persons appearing for registration must exhibit a paid tax bill for 1884 or 1885, and if of foreign birth, a certificate of naturalization.

AARON F. CLARK,
LYMAN OSBORN,
RICHARD LYONS,
NATHAN H. POOR,
Board of Registrars.

PROBATE NOTICE,

Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

ESSEX, SS. PROBATE COURT.

To the Heirs-at-law, Next of Kin, and all other Persons interested in the Estate of RUDOLPH MEYER late of Peabody, in said county, overseer, deceased,

GREETING:

WHEREAS, certain instruments purporting to be the last will and testament and a codicil of said deceased have been presented to said Court for Probate, by Richard J. Cullen, who prays that letters testamentary may be issued to him the executor therein named, and that he may be exempt from giving a surety or sureties on his bond, for the reasons alleged in said petition. You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court to be held at Salem, in said county of Essex, on the third Monday of October, next, at nine o'clock, before noon, to show cause, if any you have, against the same.

And said Richard J. Cullen is hereby directed to give public notice thereof, by publishing this citation once a week, for three successive weeks, in the newspaper called the Peabody Press, printed at Peabody, the last publication to be two days at least before said Court.

Witness, George F. Choate, Esquire, Judge of said Court, this twenty-fourth day of September, in the year one thousand eight hundred and eighty-five.

J. T. MAHONEY, Register.

sept 30—3t

PROBATE NOTICE.

Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

ESSEX, SS. PROBATE COURT

To the Heirs-at-law, Next of Kin, and all other Persons interested in the Estate of SUSAN JABOBS, late of Peabody, in said county, (wife of Joseph Jacobs) deceased,

GREETING.

WHEREAS, a certain instrument purporting to be the last will and testament of said deceased has been presented to said Court for Probate, by Joseph Jacobs, who prays that letters testamentary may be issued to him the executor therein named, and that he may be exempt from giving a surety or sureties on his bond, for the reasons alleged in said petition. You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court to be held at Salem, in said county of Essex, on the third Monday of October, next, at nine o'clock, before noon, to show cause, if any you have, against the same

And said Joseph Jacobs is hereby directed to give public notice thereof, by publishing this citation once a week, for three successive weeks, in the newspaper called the Peabody Press, printed at Peabody, the last publication to be two days at least before said Court.

Witness, George F. Choate, Esquire, Judge of said Court, this twenty-ninth day of September, in the year one thousand eight hundred and eighty-five.

J. T. MAHONEY, Register.

sept 30—3t

PROBATE NOTICE.

Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

ESSEX, SS. PROBATE COURT.

To the Heirs-at-law, Next of Kin, and all other Persons interested in the Estate of ALBERT BREED, late of Peabody, in said county, carpenter, deceased.

GREETING:

WHEREAS, a certain instrument purporting to be the last will and testament of said deceased has been presented to said Court for Probate, by Jane M. Breed and Lindley H. Farr, who pray that letters testamentary may be issued to them the executors therein named, and that they may be exempt from giving a surety or sureties on their bond, for the reasons alleged in said petition You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court to be held at Salem, in said county of Essex, on the first Monday of November, next, at nine o'clock, before noon. to show cause, if any you have, against the same.

And said petitioners are hereby directed to give public notice thereof, by publishing this citation once a week, for three successive weeks, in the newspaper called the Peabody Press, printed at Peabody, the last publication to be two days at least before said Court.

Witness, George F. Choate, Esquire, Judge of said Court, this fifth day of November, in the year one thousand eighty hundred and eighty-five.

J. T. MAHONEY, Register,

oct 7—3t

PROBATE NOTICE.

Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

ESSEX, SS. PROBATE COURT,

To the Heirs-at-Law, next of Kin, and all other persons interested in the Estate of CATHERINE FOLEY, late of Peabody, in said county, widow, deceased,

GREETING:

WHEREAS, a certain instrument purporting to be the last will and testament of said deceased has been presented to said Court, for Probate, by John Linehan, who prays that letters testamentary may be issued to him the executor therein named. You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court, to be held at Salem, in said county of Essex, on the first Monday of November, next, at nine o'clock before noon, to show cause, if any you have, against the same.

And said John Linehan is hereby directed to give public notice thereof, by publishing this citation once a week, for three successive weeks, in the newspaper called the Peabody Press, printed at Peabody, the last publication to be two days at least before said Court.

Witness, George F. Choate, Esquire, Judge of said Court, this third day of October, in the year one thousand eight hundred and eighty-five.

J. T. MAHONEY, Register.

oct 7—3t

THEODORE M. OSBORNE,

Attorney and Counsellor at Law,

Has resumed practice at

81 Washington St., Salem.

Boston Office, 54 Devonshire St., Room 27.

sept 9—2m

Wm. G. Webber & Co.,

GRAND FORMAL OPENING

— OF THEIR —

NEW DRY GOODS STORES,

In each and Every Department,

THURSDAY, OCTOBER 15.

DAY AND EVENING.

We have now the good fortune to be able to announce the substantial completion of the Endicott Building, erected especially for our business, by S. Endicott Peabody, Esq., being the best lighted and best appointed stores it has ever been our privilege to view either in this country or in Europe, with more glass, more air and more space in our well lighted basements and three floors, each accessible by a large first-class elevator, than has ever before been devoted to our business east of Boston. On the above date every department will be in full running order, and our Grand Exhibition of Fall Novelties in imported Hats, Costumes, Cloaks and Furs, Millinery of all kinds, Misses' Suits, Silks, and other Dress Fabrics, Hosiery, Gloves, Corsets, Underwear, Trimmings, Laces, etc., etc., etc., will take place on Thursday, Oct. 15, (day and evening.) The ladies of eastern Massachusetts are respectfully invited to attend.

The display of Autumn Novelties will be absolutely the most complete ever attempted in Salem, and everything new.

BONNETS AND HATS.

We invite attention to the lines of Trimmed Bonnets and Hats, imported and of our own manufacture, under the supervision of Miss E. T. Oliver, who has heretofore catered to the tastes of our customers so successfully, which will be found specially well worth looking at.

EMBROIDERIES.

ART EMBROIDERIES.—In our new stores, on second floor, we have that of which we, for long, have felt the need—Greatly increased space. Not alone will our stock far surpass any ever shown in this city, but quotations will be even lower. Reality will exceed the expectations hereby raised.

OUR COUNTERS.

All the choicest manufactures of Paris, Vienna, London, and other European centres will be represented on our counters, while every novelty of Domestic origin is assigned its fitting place. To catalogue the entire array, would be simply impossible, but the quotations subjoined will convey some faint idea of the remarkably low prices at which goods are marked throughout our entire establishment.

SILKS AND VELVETS.

One of the most desirable offerings will be 50 pieces fine Gros Grain Silk, full width and all desirable shades, at 75c per yard—the identical quality that cost last season $1.02 1-2 to import. Also a lot of Evening Shades, 24 inches wide, $1.15; worth $1.50. 30 pcs. Colored Velvets, in all desirable shades, at 79 cents per yd.: quality usually sold at $1.25.

In American Black Silks we have made prices fully 25 per cent. less than the goods were ever before offered.

DRESS GOOD

In Wool Dress Goods, owing [illegible] delay in completion of our store, s[illegible]ver[illegible] superb lots will be offered at pri[illegible] which will surely move them without delay.

FANCY FLANNELS

We offer an immense combination lot of Fancy Flannels, especially adapted for breakfast wrappers and sacques. There is not a piece in the lot worth less than 50c. We mark them all at the uniform price of twenty-five cents per yd.

GINGHAMS, ETC.

In our Basement we offer 500 pcs. Fine Ginghams and 4-4 Printed Wash Dress Fabrics, at 6 cents per yd.; 3 cases Fruit of the Loom, yard wide, Bleached Cotton, in short lengths, at 7 cents per yard.

GENTS' UNDERWEAR AND HOSIERY

In our Gents' Underwear and Hosiery Department, we offer 100 doz. Gents' Lisle Thread 1-2 Hose, at 25 cents a pair. This is owing to the delay in the completion of our store. These goods should have been marketed earlier, and cost from $3.50 to $7 per doz. to import. It will pay the consumer to purchase for future needs, and will advertise our department.

KID GLOVES

In our Kid Glove department we have everything desirable in Gloves, and for our opening week offer the following superb values:—

50 dozen Ladies' French Dogskin Embroidered back P. K. Stitched Gloves, at 58 cts. a pair, worth $1.50. 25 dozen Gents' French Dogskin Embroidered back P. K. Stitched Gloves at 58 cts., value $1.50. 50 dozen Ladies' 5 button Paris Kid Gloves at 50c. a pair, this being the exact amount of the duties paid upon these goods to say nothing of the cost of manufacture. All Gloves sold by us above one dollar will be fitted to the hand if desired.

BLANKETS

We offer 50 pairs only, all wool Scarlet Blankets, at $5.00 a pair, large size.

All Blankets in the least soiled during our sale last week will be offered in our well lighted airy basement this week at a considerable reduction.

OUTSIDE GARMENTS

On our second floor may be found Ladies, Misses and Children's Outside Garments; Shawls, Suits, Corsets, Skirts, Ladies' Cotton Underwear, Infants' wear, Worsted Goods, etc.

A special lot of Infants' Knitted Wool Shirts, slightly soiled, will be sold at the uniform price of twenty-five cents each; worth 50c to $1 each. All new First Class Goods, and made for this season's trade.

There will be no restrictions as to quantity, of any of the above goods.

To quote the many additional inducements to be found in Hosiery, Lace, and our many other departments, seems unnecestary, since we give our candid assurance that prices throughout the House are low, and that a visit to our Establishment will not disappoint the shrewdest buyer, and will make even a long journey profitable.

GRAND FORMAL OPENING,

THURSDAY, OCT. 15,

DAY AND EVENING.

Wm. G. Webber & Co.,

NEW STORES. NEW GOODS.

ESSEX, NEAR WASHINGTON STREET, SALEM.

BUSHBY & MACURDY'S

CABINET PHOTOGRAPHS

At $3.00 per dozen are 100 per cent. better than any club-check photographs; and are guaranteed fully equal in

Posing, Lighting, Finish and Permanency

to any cabinets made in Boston or New York.

The largest and best constructed operating studio in New England. 40,000 negatives preserved.

521 Washington St.,

BOSTON.

Elevator from the ground. feb 11—3m

MERRIAM & CO.,

DEALERS IN

WOOD AND COAL

Danversport, Mass.

Kohinoor Coal, Bear Ridge Coal, Sheao kin Coal, Genuine Franklin Coal, Cumberland Coal.

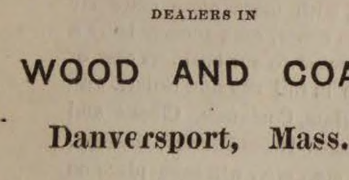
All the best quaiitv. Trv them.

For Cash lower than can be bought elsewhere

Orders can be left with B. F. Stevens, Peabody, or by telphone to N. P. Merriam, Tapleyville, and will be promptly attended to.
em—

BATCHELDER & CO.,

DEALER IN



WOOD COAL HAY & STRAW.

Danversport and Peabody.

Cyrus P. Batchelder Chauncy S. Richards

OFFICE IN PEABODY:

7 ALLEN'S BLOCK, SQUARE.

GREAT

REDUCTION IN PRICE OF

COAL

—AT—

PICKERINGS

17 Peabody St., Salem, Mass

WHERE ALL FIRST-CLASS COALS CAN BE FOUND,

Specialty made in Steam Coals.

Orders can be left at Office, 12 Front St., or at B. P. Pickering's Store, Salem.

SPECIAL RATES MADE FOR LARGE ORDERS

WHARF, 17 PEABODY STREET

WM. PICKERING, JR & CO.,

17 Peabody Street.

PATENTS.

R. H. EDDY,

No. 76 State St., opposite Kilby Boston

Secures patents in the United States; also in Great Britain, France and other foreign countries. Copies of the claims of any patents furnished by remitting one dollar. Assignments recorded at Washington. No Agency in the United States possesses superior facilities for obtaining Patents or ascertaining the patentability of inventions. R. H. EDDY, Solicitor of patents.

TESTIMONIALS.

"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse."
CHAS. MASON, Commissioner of Patents.

"Inventors cannot employ a person more trustworthy or more capable of securing for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office."
EDMUND BURKE, late Com. of Patents.

BOSTON, Oct. 19, 1870.

R. H. EDDY, Esq.—Dear Sir: you procured for me, in 1870, my first patent. Since then you have acted for and advised me in hundreds of cases, and procured many patents, re-issues and extensions. I have occasionally employed the best agencies in New York, Philadelphia and Washington, but I still give you almost the whole of my business, in your line, and advise others to employ you.

Yours truly, GEORGE DRAPER
Boston, January 1, 1885.—1 y

FOR SALE.

House and land on Aborn street belonging to the estate of the late P. L. WINCHESTER. The house is two and one-half stories, and contains fourteen rooms, and is in good condition. The land measures about 10,000 feet, and there is connected with the premises a good stable. For terms or further particulars apply to
GEORGE J. WINCHESTER, dec 19 Administrator

CATARRH.

BY A. P. LIGHTHILL, M. D.

The earliest symptoms of Catarrh is a discharge from the head, consisting sometimes of a clear acid fluid, but oftener of a thick, fœtid, purulent yellow or greenish matter—which is usually secreted in excessive abundance, and discharged through the nostrils for throat, and frequently by both channel. The nature of this discharge varies in different cases, and even in the same individual at different times. In some it is copious, and of a loose or fluid character, while in others it is very viscid or gummy, adhering to the diseased membrane with glue-like tenacity; often this offensive matter concretes in dry, hard masses of crusts, which obstruct breathing and are very difficult to detach, their dislodgment requiring most violent efforts. Sometimes these incrustations come away in lumps of a deep green tint, but occasionally in broad and flat casts of a notable size, on which traces of blood may at times be observed. This condition is very liable to run to serious ulceration, involving a loss of the bony structure of the nose and a subsequent flattening of that organ, and is invariably accompanied by a breath of exceedingly fœtid and sickening odor. In some cases it becomes so revoltingly offensive as to render the sufferer an object of disgust to himself as well as to others.

The nasal membrane is thickened and congested, causing the nose to be stopped up, sometimes on one side, sometimes on the other, and often on both, giving rise to a disagreeable, stuffy sensation in the head, and occasionally to violent paroxysms of sneezing.

A feeling of fullness, heat, irritation, soreness or pain is generally experienced in the nostrils, near the root of the nose, as well as in the upper part of the throat, above and below the soft palate. A distressing sensation of heavy weight or compression is usually complained of over the forehead, especially in the region immediately above and between the eyes. Sometimes the pain is obstinately fixed in one particular part, as in the temples, on top of the head, at the back of the neck, or behind the orbits; and occasionally it manifests itself in the face, of so severe a character that it is frequently mistaken for neuralgia.

The voice is generally affected, and becomes hoarse, weak and uneven, assuming a nasal character, or an unpleasant snuffling quality. Cough of variable severity is not unfrequently one of the symptoms and results of Catarrh.

The sense of smell is generally blunted or entirely lost, and a similar effect on taste may be occasionally observed. The eyes are apt to become irritable, and disposed to water excessively on exposure to the cold or wind, and a sense of weariness of sight is usually experienced after slight exertions. Hearing becomes frequently more or less impaired, and noises in the head very often add materially to the existing distress.

The stomach generally suffers more or less, and becomes weak and irritable; the appetite is capricious, and nearly always bad in the morning.

The patient often complains of lassitude and fatigue, an incapacity for either physical for mental exertions, and a constant disposition to drowsiness and sleep. The mental faculties are also sometimes slightly affected, toss of memory being not unfrequently experienced.

Catarrh may prove fatal, either by debilitating the system and wearing out the patient, or by travelling downward and producing consumption. This fact has been so repeatedly noticed that all experienced practitioners now look upon Catarrh as one of the earliest manifestations of this dreaded complaint. Among educated physicians in this or any other country, Dr. Lighthill was the first to devote his study and investigation to the cure of Catarrh and kindred diseases, and the happy results which attended his labor have been attested to by many of the most prominent citizens of Boston and vicinity. Cases abandoned as hopeless by other physicians have promptly yielded to his painless and effective treatment.

ASTHMA

For years Dr. Lighthill has made this distressing disease his special study, investigating carefully the causes that produce it; his labor was fully rewarded, for he not only established its true pathological condition, but also discovered a new and correct system of treatment for its cure. Hundreds of cases who have been under his care have found permanent relief from this wonderful discovery, from the beginning of this treatment prompt benefit is experienced which is ultimately followed by a complete and radical cure.

An experience of 30 years of constant practice enables Dr. Lighthill to decide on the first examination as to the cureability of any disease within specialty, and no case will be accepted for treatment unless the chances are for favorable results. His specialty comprises the cure of and affections of the Nervous system from whatever cause.

CATARRH, THROAT AFFECTIONS ASTHMA, CONSUMPTION, DEAFNESS DISCHARGE FROM THE EAR, DISEASES OF THE EYE, BLOOD, SKIN, LIVER AND KIDNEY

DR. LIGHTHILL,

Can be consulted

Every Thursday afternoon and evening,

From 2 until 8.30 P. M.

—AT THE—

Essex House, Salem,

And every forenoon from 8 until 12, at his office.

OF 115 BOYLSTON ST., BOSTON.

CONSULTATION FREE.

Scientific.

Dr. Laborde reports some recent observations upon the heads of decapitated persons. He found the reflex action of the pupil to exist for twenty-eight minutes after the neck was fully severed, and even after this time had elapsed a slight excitation of the membranous lining of the skull produced contractions of the eyelids and some of the muscles of the jaw.

The Journal of Inebriety thinks that the cumulative action of alcohol on the brain centres exists to a greater extent than is generally supposed. Many men who drink regularly through the day and seem no worse for it, become intoxicated late at night, although they have not used spirits during the evening. "It appears," says the editor, "that alcohol, like bromide, may remain in the system to some extent without producing any marked action, and then suddenly, from some unknown cause, burst into great activity, producing profound intoxication." The reasons for this do not seem to be definitely understood, though they are thought to be of a combined physiological and psychological nature, and partly due to climatic conditions.

According to the Gaceta Medica Catalana, Dr. Jaime Ferran of Cuba, whose experiments in cholerization have made his name famous, is a very young man, having been born in Corbera (Tarragone), Spain, in 1852. He studied medicine in Tortosa and took his degree at Barcelona. He has been for some years an enthusiastic micro-biologist, and received from the Madrid Academy an award for a work in which he recorded his investigations. The gist of his discovery lies in the fact that he followed the cholera microbe of Koch through its various stages of development and transformation until he detected a spore (the peronospora ferrani), which, in his belief, contains the real virus of cholera. It was with specimens of this organism that he made his inoculative substance.

One of the most convenient among the various electrical contrivances which have been brought forward as auxiliaries is the following English device, enabling a person ringing an electric bell to know whether, on making contact, the bell actually rings. Beside the press button, and let into the wall, is a simple telephone receiver, consisting of an electromagnet with a soft iron armature free to vibrate over one of its poles. The sounding or "clicking" core of Page may also be employed instead of the diaphragm armature. The electro-magnet is formed up in circuit with the bell and battery, so that when the bell is in action, with its contact interrupting the current, the telephone or electro-magnet will emit a musical note or hum, which, being heard by the person ringing the bell, informs him that the bell is ringing—always supposing, of course, that the current is strong enough.

The invention of lithography is ascribed to a German named Senefelder, who lived in Munich. The invention was made between the years 1796 and 1798. Like some other inventions, it was partly the result of chance. Senefelder was a very poor man, and was trying to discover some method of improving plate printing. Not being able to purchase plates of copper, he used smooth slabs of stone. Being ignorant of the composition of the varnish used by engravers for their etching ground, he invented a kind of crayon composed of wax and tallow. One day his mother wished him to write out a list of clothes to be sent to the laundress. Paper and ink not being at hand, he wrote the list upon a stone with his crayon. When he was about to clean off the stone, it occurred to him that the body of the stone could be eaten down by acquafortis, leaving the written lines in relief, so that printed impressions could be taken from them. His experiments in this line were partially successful, and subsequent discoveries enabled him to bring printing on stone to such a degree of success as established the art lithography.

It is well known that the vapors of mercury are very diffusive in their nature, and some quite singular experiments have been devised based upon this, and upon the fact that the salts of silver and the chlorides of gold, platinum, iridium, and palladium are affected by these mercurial vapors. If any one, for instance, says La Science, should write upon a sheet of white paper with chloride of platinum, no mark would be visible, as the liquid is quite colorless. If, however, the same sheet of paper be held over a little mercury the metal will be brought out on the paper in dark tints. This magical apparition of a figure or drawing on a sheet of paper which appears to be perfectly white is very astonishing to the spectator. On the other hand, reversing the experiment, a no less marvellous result is obtained. At first expose the drawing or writing to the gases of mercury the lines will become charged with mercury, and then by simply bringing the drawing in contact with a sheet of paper previously sensitized with a solution of platinum the drawing will be reproduced line for line, on the white paper. Drawings made in this way give a charming effect, the tones being very soft and the lines distinct and clear.

Take Ayer's Pills for constipation, and for all the purposes of a purgative medicine. Safe and effectual.

USE

HALL'S Vegetable Sicilian HAIR RENEWER.

It is a medicinal preparation, and, at the same time, an elegant and cleanly toilet article. Its action upon the scalp is healthful. It nourishes the glands which support the hair, and causes thin, dry hair to become thick, soft, and vigorous. It restores the color of youth to locks which have become faded with age or disease; and relieves and cures itching, caused by humors of the scalp. Dr. George Gray, Nashua, N. H., writes: "It gives me pleasure to testify to the wonderful effects produced by Hall's Vegetable Sicilian Hair Renewer, as observed by me in very many cases. IT WILL CERTAINLY RESTORE THE HAIR TO ITS ORIGINAL COLOR. It cleanses the head of dandruff, and leaves the hair soft, glossy, and beautiful." F. T. Sandhein, 1010 Spruce st., Philadelphia, Pa., writes: "After unavailingly trying a number of preparations to prevent my hair from falling out, and, realizing that I was fast becoming bald, I tried, as a last resort, Hall's Hair Renewer. I have used only four bottles of the Renewer, and am perfectly satisfied that it is the best preparation in the market for checking the falling out of hair, invigorating the hair roots, and promoting a new growth."

Buckingham's Dye

FOR THE

WHISKERS

commends itself to all who have occasion to use a dye for the beard or mustache. It will change gray, faded, or sandy whiskers, to a beautiful brown or black, as desired. The colors produced are natural and lasting. It cannot be washed off, contains no destructive ingredients, is cheap, safe, convenient to use, and effectual.

PREPARED BY

R. P. HALL & CO., Nashua, N. H., U. S. A.
Sold by all dealers in medicines.

WELCOME

TRADE MARK.

SOAP

PAYS NO FANCY PROFIT

But is an original compound, made from the PUREST STOCK, and is sold by the makers and dealers nearer the cost of production than any other Laundry Soap in the market. See that you get this Soap, and not accept any of the numerous imitations that pay the grocer more money to recommend. The word WELCOME and the Clasped Hands are on every bar.

oct 7—3m

SALEM & DANVERS STREET RAILWAY CO.

TIME TABLE.

NEW SUMMER ARRANGEMENT.

Leave Putnamville for Peabody and Salem 6.45, 7.45, 8.45, 9 45, 10.45, 11.45 A. M., 12.45, 1.15, 1.45, 2.15, 2.45, 3 15, 3 45, 4.15, 4.45, 5.15, 5.45, 6.15, 6.45, 7.15, 7.45, 8.15, 8 45, 9.15 P. M.

Leave Peabody for Salem, 7.25, 8.25, 9.25, 10.25, 11.25 A. M., 12.25, 1.25, 1.55, 2.25, 2.55, 3.25, 3.55, 4.25, 4.55, 5.25, 5 55, 6.25, 6.55, 7.25, 7.55, 8.25, 8.55, 9.25, 9.55 P. M.

Leave Salem for Danvers, Danversport, Putnamville, Tapleyville and Danvers Centre, 7.45, 8.45, 9.45, 10 45, 11.45 A. M., 12 45, 1.45, 2 15, 2 45, 3.15, 3.45, 4.15, 4.45, 5.15, 5.45, 6.15, 6.45, 7.15, 7.45, 8 15, 8.45, 9.15, 9.45, 10 15 P. M.

Leave Tapleyville for Salem via Danversport, 6.45, 7.45, 8 45, 9.45, 10 45, 11.45 A. M., 12.45, 1.15, 1.45, 2.15, 2.45, 3.15, 3.45, 4.15, 4.45, 5.15, 5.45, 6.15, 6.45, 7.15, 7.45, 8.15, 8.45, 9.15 P. M.

Leave Danvers Square for Salem via Peabody and Salem via Danversport, 9.55, 7.55, 8.55, 9.55, 10.55, 11.55 A. M., 12.55, 1.25, 1.55, 2.25, 2 55, 3.25, 3.55, 4.25, 4.55, 5 25, 5.55, 6.25, 6.55, 7.25, 7.55, 8.25, 8.55, 9.25, P. M.

Leave Salem for Peabody and Danvers, 7.45, 8.45, 9.45, 10.45, 11.45 A. M., 12.45, 1.45, 2.15, 2.45, 3.15, 3.45, 4.15, 4.45, 5 15, 5 45, 9.15, 6.45, 7.15; 7.45, 8.15, 8.45, 9.15, 9.45, 10.15 P. M.

Leave Peabody for Danvers, Danvers Centre and Putnamville, 8.05, 9.05, 10.05, 11.05, A. M., 12.05, 1 05, 2.05, 2.35, 3.05, 3.35, 4.05, 4.35, 5.05, 5.35, 6.05, 6.35, 7.05, 7.35, 8.05, 8.35, 9.05, 9.35, 10.05, 10 35 P. M.

Putnamville and Tapleyville cars meet in the Square and transfer passengers going either to Salem or Peabody,

All cars make connections for Tapleyville Danvers Centre and Putnamville.

SUNDAY TIME.

Sunday time same as above, with this exception—the first trip from each point is omitted.

DAVID N. COOK Supt.

A PRIZE Send six cents for postage, and receive free, a costly box of goods which will help you to more money right away than anything else in this world. All, of either sex, succeed from first hour. The broad road to fortune opens before the workers, absolutely sure, At once address, TRUE & Co., Augusta, Me

---

Family Flour.

A Full stock of Spring Wheat patent process and Winter Wheat Family Flour, fresh ground from old wheat, and warranted.
CHAS. A. ROPES & SON.

Saving Institutions.

WARREN

FIVE CENTS SAVINGS BANK.

PEABODY

PRESIDENT,
Rufus H. Brown

Vice Presidents,

Stephen Blaney,	Geo. F. Osborne,
Lewis Allen,	Amos Merrill,
Chas. B. Farley,	John A. Lord.

Trustees,

Rufus H. Brown,	Alex. B. Merrill,
Stephen Blaney,	C. Warren Osborne,
Lewis Allen,	Geo. S. Osborne,
Chas. B. Farley,	Nathl. Symonds.
Geo. F. Osborne,	Aaron F. Clark,
Amos Merrill,	Albert A. Messer,
John A. Lord,	John Pinder,
Benj. S. Wheeler,	Wm P. Clark,
Wm. H. Little,	Reuben G. Nelson,
Aaron W. Warren,	Albert H. Merrill.

Clerk,
Albert H. Merrill.

Committee of Investment.

Rufus H. Brown,

Lewis Allen,	Alex. B. Merrill
C. Warren Osborne.	Nathl. Symonds.

Dividends are credited to the depositor as soon as declared, and immediately put upon interest.

New deposits commence drawing interest on the third Wednesday of February, May, August and November.

Peabody, March 6, 1878.

SALEM

FIVE CENTS

SAVINGS

BANK.

Cor. Washington & Essex Sts.,

WILLIAM H. JELLY, President.
CHARLES H. HENDERSON, Treas.

REMOVAL.

F. A. WRUCK

Watchmaker and Jeweller,

Would inform his friends and the public generally that he has removed from 165 to

276 ESSEX STREET,

(Wheeler & Wilson's Sewing Machine Office)

Where he will be pleased to see his former customers and as many new ones as will favor him with their patronage.

FINE WATCH AND CLOCK REPAIRING AT REDUCED PRICES PERSONALLY ATTENDED TO

HAZEN A. SPAULDING,

DRUGGIST.

9 Allen's Block, Peabody, Mass.

Where can be found a first class assortment of Pure Drugs and Medicines; also a large assortment of Toilet Articles and Fancy Goods at moderate prices.

A large assortment of Imported and Domestic Cigars.

Physicians' Prescriptions a Specialty.

HAZEN A. SPAULDING

Store Connected by Telephone.

CENTRAL FISH MARKET

(Formerly Southwick's.

RALPH F. DODGE, Prop.

OYSTERS OYSTERS OYSTERS

In the shell or opened.

IPSWICH CLAMS FRESH EVERY DAY

A good selection of Norfolk, Providence River oysters a specialty. The famous Lynn Haven Bay Oysters.

A good assortment of Fresh, Salt, Smoked and Pickled Fish. Orders received and delivered promptly. Connected by telephone.

At the old stand on the Square, opposite the monument.

WIN more money than at anything else by taking an agency for the best selling book out. Beginners succeed grandly. None fail. Terms free. HALLETT BOOK CO., Portland, Me.

HELP for working people. Send 10 cents postage, and we will mail you free, a royal, valuable sample box of goods that will put you in the way of making more money in a few days than you ever thought possible at any business. Capital not required. You can live at home and work in spare time only, or all the time. All of both sexes, of all ages, grandly successful, 50 cents to $5 easily earned every evening. That all who want work may test the business, we make this unparalleled offer: To all who are not well satisfied we will send $1 to pay for the trouble of writing us. Full particulars, directions, etc., sent free. Immense pay absolutely sure for all who start at once. Don't delay. Address STINSON & Co., Portland, Me.

MUNROE & ARNOLD'S

PEABODY AND BOSTON

RAILROAD EXPRESS.

Express leaves Peabody at			9 47 A. M
Freight "	"	at	5 00 P. M
Express "	Boston	at	3 30 P. M
Freight "	"	at	4 00 P. M

OFFICE AT FREIGHT DEPOT, Peabody

Express Offices in Boston, 174 Washington and 15 New Devonshire Street.

Freight Office in Boston, 128 State Street

☞ Particular attention paid to removing Furniture, collecting Bills, Notes, Drafts &c., Smallest favors thankfully received.

B. M. HILLS'

PEABODY and SALEM

EXPRESS.

CHANGE OF TIME.

Connects with Eastern and No. Conway Trains Leaves Peabody at 7.30 A. M., and 1.30 P. M. Salem, at 10 A. M., and 4.45 P. M.

Order Boxes.—PEABODY, at Holman's, Pickering's, Bushby & Johnson's, Frost s Drug Store and Sutton's Wool Store.

SALEM, at Savory's Express Office, Roberts' Store, corner Washington and Front Sts., and 15 Central Street.

B. M. HILLS' Express connects with the Eastern and Western Expresses

---

ESTES'

SALEM AND PEABODY EXPRESS.

Leaves Peabody at 7.30 A. M., 1.30 P. M.
Leaves Salem at 10.30 A. M., 4.30 P. M.

Order Slates in Peabody, at G. Stevens', G. H. Jacobs', L. Pratt's, B. B. Humphrey's, W. O. Batchelder's.

In Salem at J. V. & J. Hanson & Co's, Roberts Fruit Store, Henry Hale's, E. Heffernan's, J. J. Mullin, F. C. Radford's, C. A. Ropes & Son, Geo A. Wells & Co's., C. M. Buffum's.

Connects with Eastern Express. Also connects with No. Conway, and the Beverly, Ipswich and Marblehead Expresses.

All orders promptly attended to and satisfaction guaranteed.

CHAS. H. ESTES,

TOWNSEND'S

PEABODY & BOSTON

EXPRESS.

Leaves Peabody at 10 A. M. over the Wakefield Branch R. R.

Leaves the Boston Office, 32 Court Square, at 2 P. M.

All business entrusted to my care will be safely and carefully attended to. Daily and weekly papers supplied,

Order Slates:—At B. F. Stevens', Bushby's, Batchelder's, B. B. Humphrey's, E. S. Howard's, and Nugent Bros. stores.

JAMES F. FOYE.

THOMAS H. O'KEEFE.

JOBBING AND EXPRESSING

of all kinds promptly attended to.

Persons desiring the removal of furnitue or ashes, rubbish, you can have such work satisfactorily done by leaving orders at G., Stevens', Batchelder's, or addressing Box 545, Peabody.

NEW COUPE.

Henry C. Wilson would inform the public that he will run a

PUBLIC CARRIAGE

to and from each train, and will also attend to calls around town, and to late trains and entertainments in Salem. Will also attend to Baggage Expressing and Jobbing of all kinds. Terms Reasonable. Order slate at Depot.

HENRY C. WILSON
Peabody Mass.

CROSS,

PHOTOGRAPHER.

☞ There having been demand or more Clubs, I have concluded to issue a limited number.

INDUCEMENTS:

Two dozen Cards and two Cabinets given to any one getting up a Club of ten persons. Price of Club, $20. Each person to have one dozen Cards and one Cabinet finished in any of the different styles desired.

IRA P. NADOR,

DEALER IN

CHOICE CONFECTIONERY

46 MARKET STREET LYNN

CHARLES SIMONDS,

LIVERY STABLE,

(HOTEL STABLE).

SAFE and Reliable Horses, and Easy Carriages of the best style, furnished at short notice, for Funerals, Weddings, Business or Pleasure Riding.

$200,000 in presents given away. Send us 5 cents postage, and by mail you will get free a package of goods of large value, that will start you in work that will at once bring you in money faster than anything else in America. All about the $200,000 in presents with each box. Agents wanted everywhere, of either sex, of all ages, for all the time, or spare time only, to work for us at their own home. Fortunes for all workers absolutely assured. Don't delay. H. HALLETT & Co., Portland, Maine.

Professional Cards.

THOMAS M. STIMPSON

Attorney and Counselor-at-Law,
194 ESSEX STREET SALEM
Residence Lowell Street, Peabody.

HENRY WARDWELL,

Attorney and Counselor-at-Law,
PEABODY,
And 35 Court St., Boston

FRANK E. FARNHAM,

Attorney and Counselor-at-Law,
REAL ESTATE, INSURANCE AND INVESTMENT AGENT,
ALLEN'S BLOCK Peabody Square,

REMOVAL.

B. C. PERKINS,
Counselor at Law,
Has removed to Kinsman's Block,
81 WASHINGTON STREET, SALEM
Evening consultations at residence, Peabody.

EUGENE T. McCARTHY,

Attorney and Counsellor at Law,
NO. 8 ALLEN'S BLOCK,
PEABODY.
oct 29—1y

FREDERIC G. PRESTON,

Attorney and Counsellor at Law,
ALLEN'S BLOCK.
RESIDENCE, 171 BOSTON ST., SALEM.

CHARLES A. WEARE,

Attorney and Counsellor at Law,
ALLEN'S BUILDING,
PEABODY, MASS.

MISS MARY E. LYNCH

TEACHER OF
Piano and Organ.
South Peabody, Mass.

Terms of tuition 8 and 10 dollars Pupils visited at their homes if desired.

MISS ANNIE L. ORR,

TEACHER OF
VOCAL & INSTRUMENTAL MUSIC

Would solicit pupils. For terms apply to W P. Clark, or Miss Orr. No. 7 Paltry Place. Lynn, Mass. apr 29

Business Cards.

HENRY L. WHIDDEN,

PAINTER.

Orders left at A. H. Whidden's Store will be attended to.

J. H. ALLEN,

UNDERTAKER,

Removed to 36 St. Peter street, Salem
Jan 11

W. S. OSBORNE,

TOWN UNDERTAKER & FURNISHER

Home, 96 Central St., Peabody. Office Second Door west of Hay Scales.

EDWIN B. BALCOM,

Architect and Builder.

Plans, Specifications and Estimates furnished at Short Notice. Contracts Made and Faithfully executed.

Shop on Walnut St. Residence, 78 Washington St.

PEABODY. MASS.

$1

13 WEEKS.

The POLICE GAZETTE will be mailed, securely wrapped, to any address in the United States for three months on receipt of

ONE DOLLAR.

Liberal discount allowed to postmasters, agents and clubs. Sample copies mailed free. Address all orders to

RICHARD K. FOX,
FRANKLIN SQUARE, N Y.

TRY LYONS',

Hair Tonic.

It cleanses the scalp, removes dandruff, and promotes the growth of the hair.

Price 50 Cents per Bottle.

Put up and for sale only by

P. J. LYONS,
on the square.

Hale's Honey the great Cough cure, 25c., 50c. & $1
Glenn's Sulphur Soap heals & beautifies, 25c.
German Corn Remover kills Corns & Bunions
Hill's Hair and Whisker Dye—Black and Brown, 50c.
Pike's Toothache Drops cure in 1 Minute, 25c
Dean's Rheumatic Pills are a sure cure, 50c.
feb 18—1y

HEADQUARTERS !

FOR CIGARS.

THE BEST

to be found in the world? To prove it just call at the HORSE RAILROAD STATION on the Square, and see them

GEO. STEVENS,

PEABODY SQUARE,

Agent for the Naumkeag Laundry.

MAYO'S

Compound Vegetable Anæsthetic.

A safe and pleasant substitute for gas and ether.

Discovered by Dr. N. K. Mayo of Boston, April 1883, subsequently administered by him in nearly two thousand cases, producing perfect slumber, being applicable to the child, the delicate sentitive woman as well as the hardy man. No ill effects have followed its use in any case, it acting rather as a vegetable tonic.

It controls the patient one-fourth longer than gas giving us time to remove from three to twenty teeth. It is with great confidence we have introduced it into our practice, giving very successful results.

DRS. FRIZZELL & WILLIAMS

DENTISTS.

LEE HALL

Opposite City Hall, Lynn, Mass.

Administered also at our branch office, Marblehead.

Dr. Williams' Toothache Drops at Druggists.

O. B. CHADWICK & CO.,

(SUCCESSORS TO CHAS. TAPLEY)

FIRE INSURANCE AGENTS

NO. 8 ALLEN'S BLOCK, PEABODY

Over $12,000,000 Cash Capital represented

Also Agents for Holyoke, Merrimac, Quincy, and Dorchester Mutual Fire Ins. Cos.

Particular attention given to insuring Household Furniture, Family Wearing Apparel, Musical Instruments, Libraries, and Merchandise of all kinds in sums of $100and upward, for one, three or five years, at the owest rates

D. P. GROSVENOR.

PHARMACIST AND DRUGGIST.

Compounder of

Physicians Prescriptions

and dealer in

RELIABLE DRUGS.

35 MAIN STREET.

PEABODY, MASS.

PEABODY

LAUNDRY.

Goods called for and delivered free of charge.

C. A. SANGER

7 LOWELL STREET,

UP STAIRS.

SWEETSER'S

DRUG STORE

NO, 37 MAIN STREET,

PEABODY

Drugs and Medicines of all kinds; Toilet Articles,Sponges, Brushes, Perfumery, &c., constantly on hand.

Prescriptions carefully and promptly prepared.

REMOVED TO

No. 241 Essex St..

PRICE BLOCK,

DANIEL T. SMITH,

Watchmaker.

CRAIG'S

KIDNEY CURE

The Genuine.

WILLIAM T. LEE

AGENT

RED STAR

TRADE RED STAR MARK.

COUGH CURE

Absolutely Free from Opiates, Emetics and Poisons.

A PROMPT, SAFE, SURE CURE

For Coughs, Sore Throat, Hoarseness, Influenza, Colds, Bronchitis, Croup, Whooping Cough, Asthma, Quinsy, Pains in Chest, and other affections of the Throat and Lungs.

Price 50 cents a bottle. Sold by Druggists and Dealers. Parties unable to induce their dealer to promptly get it for them will receive two bottles, Express charges paid, by sending one dollar to

THE CHARLES A. VOGELER COMPANY,
Sole Owners and Manufacturers,
Baltimore, Maryland, U. S. A.

Happiness

results from that true contentment which indicates perfect health of body and mind. You may possess it, if you will purify and invigorate your blood with Ayer's Sarsaparilla. E. M. Howard, Newport, N. H., writes: "I suffered for years with Scrofulous humors. After using two bottles of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, I great relief. It has entirely restored me to health." James French, Atchison, Kans., writes: "To all persons suffering from Liver Complaint, I would strongly recommend Ayer's Sarsaparilla. I was afflicted with a disease of the liver for nearly two years, when a friend advised me to take this medicine. It gave prompt relief, and has cured me." Mrs. H. M. Kidder, 41 Dwight st., Boston, Mass., writes: "For several years I have used Ayer's Sarsaparilla in my family. I never feel safe, even without it. As a liver medicine and general purifier of the blood, it has no equal." Mrs. A. B. Allen, Winterpock, Va., writes: "My youngest child, two years of age, was taken with Bowel Complaint, which we could not cure. We tried many remedies, but he continued to grow worse, and finally became so reduced in flesh that we could only move him upon a pillow. It was suggested by one of the doctors that Scrofula might be the cause of the trouble. We procured a bottle of and commenced giving it to him. It surely worked wonders, for, in a short time, he was completely cured."

Found

At Home

AYER'S Sarsaparilla

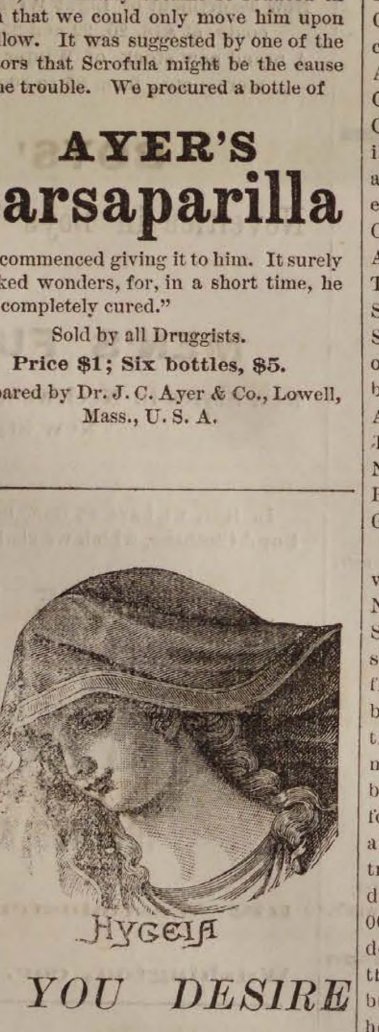
Sold by all Druggists.

Price $1; Six bottles, $5.

Prepared by Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass., U. S. A.



IF YOU DESIRE

A MEDICINE

To regulate and build up your system and purify the blood of all poisonous humor use

FERRATED HYGIENIC WINE

FOR SALE BY DRUGGISTS.

BOSTON & LOWELL R. R.
OCTOBER 5, 1885.

PASSENGER SERVICE FROM SALEM:

Leave Salem for Lowell, and Lawrence at 7 10, 10 55 A. M., 4 40 P. M.
Leave Lowell for Salem, at 7 35 A. M., 1 10, 6 P. M.
Leave Lawrence for Salem, at 7 45 A. M., 1 15, 6 P. M.
Leave Wilmington Junction for Salem, at 8 09 A. M., 1 38, 6 24 P. M.
Leave North Reading for Salem, at 8 20 A. M., 1 48, 6 34 P. M.
Leave West Peabody for Salem, at 8 34 A. M., 2, 6 45 P. M.

The 7 10 A. M. and 4 40 P. M. trains from Salem connect at Wilmington Junction for Boston via B. & L. R. R.

Leave Boston (Boston & Lowell Depot) for Wilmington Junction and North Reading, at 1, 5 30 P. M.

All trains from Salem connect at Lowell for Nashua, Manchester and Concord, N. H.

The 7 10 A. M. train connects at Lowell for Peterboro, Keene and intermediate stations.

The 10 55 A. M. train connects at Ayer Junction for stations on W. & N. R. R., Springfield, Hartford, New Haven and New York; also for Troy, Albany and the West via Hoosac Tunnel Line.

C. S MELLEN, Gen'l Supt.
LUCIUS TUTTLE, Gen'l Pass. Agent.

ESTIMATES CHEERFULLY GIVEN ON ALL KINDS OF PRINTING.

Now is the time to rid the system of humors and all Blood Impurities. Ferrated Hygienic Wine is a most effective remedy. tf

Book Notices.

In St. Nicholas for October we find some of the brightest and cleverest contributions that have appeared during the year—notably, the story, by Celia Thaxter, entitled Peggy's Garden. There is a characteristically impossible tale by Frank R. Stockton. The boys who have been hard at work playing ball all summer will enjoy the story by a base-ball expert of How Science Won the Game. E. S. Brooks tells about another Historic Girl, Pulcheria of Constantinople. Agatha Tunis writes about Mendelssohn, whose bright and happy boyhood stands in pleasant relief to the lives of many great musicians. But probably most readers, before turning to these and the other bright stories, poems, and pictures, will first look to see how Mr. Trowbridge finally extricates his hero from the difficulties in which he has been envolved by His One Fault, and how Mr. E. P. Roe disposes of the happy family that has been Driven Back to Eden—the two serial stories that, like all other good things must come to an end at last.

A Thorough Musical Education.—Parents paying out money to music teachers to have their children instructed in the art of music either as piano, organ or violin players, singers in church or professionally, should know whether the teacher receiving the money is competent to teach vocal or instrumental music, and is thoroughly reliable and honest in all respects. All parents who desire to be posted in this subject, should read each week the New York Musical Courier. It costs but four dollars per annum, and will save many times that amount if its advice is followed. Also remember that the Musical Courier posts you on the manner of selecting a piano, organ, or violin and tells you all about the dishonesty in that line of business. By subscribing to The Musical Courier, 25 East Fourteenth St., New York, you can save at least $100 in the purchase of a piano and nearly half as much in the purchase of an organ. After reading that paper for a while, no one can fool you on that subject.

In the October Century, space has been devoted to articles and illstrations relating to the life and services of General Grant. General Horace Porter contributes a paper on Lincoln and Grant. General James H. Wilson gives Reminiscences of General Grant, and General Adam Badeau writes The Last Days of General Grant. In Memoranda of the Civil War is an interesting article. Other illustrated articles of the October number are Lieutenant Schwatka's paper on his explorations in Alaska; Mrs. Lizzie W. Champney's description of The Haunts of American Artists, and Mr. Howell's Tuscan Cities. A portrait of the late Samuel Bowles, the famous editor of the Springfield Republican, is the frontispiece of the number. His career is described by George S. Merriam, in a paper entitled A Study in Independent Journalism. Two of the poems—Taps, by F. M. Newton, and The Dead Comrade, by Richard Watson Gilder—relate to General Grant.

An article that will gratify almost universal curiosity is promised in the November Harper's—"The New York Stock Exchange." It will present a sketch of the growth of the Exchange from its organization by twenty-four brokers, who met under a buttonwood-tree in Wall Street in 1792, to its present membership of eleven hundred, with a building worth $1,800,000, a salary list for employes of nearly $200,000 yearly, an initiation fee of $20,000, and yearly transactions of about $13,000,000,000, dividing a profit probably of over $30,000,000. The writer, Dr. R. Wheatley, describes at length the organization of the Exchange, explains its legitimate business function, and sets forth plainly how its facilities are sometimes made use of to fleece the dear public; tells the story of one of Jay Gould's great manipulations of the market, and gives the slang of the street—a portion which is in itself an interesting contribution to the curiosities of language. Views of the Exchange, portraits of its officers, and of Vanderbilt, Jay Gould, Cyrus W. Field, Russell Sage, and other operators, and other illustrations, make the paper still more interesting.

Johnston's Journal, an illustrated magazine for the People, is the comprehensive title by which the journal formerly called "The Operator" will hereafter be known. It is promised that in its contents the paper under its new name will aim to combine recreation and amusement with instruction and information—and that it will be a magazine for the Home and the Family—pure, clean, wholesome and elevating. It is issued from the same publishing house as are the well known and successful popular scientific journals, Industrial America and The Electrical World. October 3d is the first number under the new name. Published every other Saturday. $1 a year; 5 cents a copy. May be ordered of any newsdealer. W. J. Johnston, Publisher, 9 Murray St., New York; 48 Congress St., Boston; 23 Borden Block, Chicago.

* * *

Catarrh.—Is a very prevalent and exceedingly disagreeable disease, liable, if neglected, to develop into serious consumption. Being a constitutional disease, it requires a constitutional remedy like Hood's Sarsaparilla, which, acting through the blood, reaches every part of the system, effecting a radical and permanent cure of catarrh in even its most severe forms. Made only by C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass. (A)

"The Man who Knows it All."

BY G. F. B.

Yes, we all know him, sad to say,
That man of awful gall;
He lives next door to each of us,
The man who knows it all.

He always knows just what to do,
His pride will never fall,
He'll always tell you just what's what,
The man who knows it all.

When making an invention great,
Or building a stone wall,
He'll surely come and prove you wrong,
The man who knows it all.

You're sure to find him everywhere,
In house, street, shop or hall,
No matter where he is, he's still
The man who knows it all.

And sure of all the curses dire
We've borne since Adam's fall,
This burden is the heaviest far,
The man who knows it all.

In painting, drama, music, law,
All matters great or small,
He criticises and condemns,
The man who knows it all.

And when great Gabriel comes to blow
The last grand trumpet call,
He'll say "Your tone is rather flat,"
The man who knows it all.

* * *

The Royal Baker and Pastry Cook.—A Royal addition to the kitchen library. It contains over seven hundred receipts pertaining to every branch of the culinary department, including baking, roasting, preserving, soups, cakes, jellies, pastry, and all kinds of sweetmeats, with receipts for the most delicious candies, cordials, beverages, and all other necessary knowledge for the chef de cuisine of the most exacting epicure, as well as for the more modest housewife, who desires to prepare for her lord and master a repast that shall be both wholesome and economical. With each receipt is given full and explicit directions for putting together, manipulating, shaping, baking, and kind of utensil to be used, so that a novice can go through the operation with success; while a special and important feature is made of the mode of preparing all kinds of food and delicacies for the sick. The book has been prepared under the direction of Prof. Rudmani, late chef of the New York Cooking School, and is the most valuable of the recent editions upon the subject of cookery that has come to our notice. It is gotten up in the highest style of the printers art, on illuminated covers, etc. We are assured that every can of the "Royal Baking Powder" contains an order for one of these valuable books.

* * *

The October Babyhood gives its usual variety of topics interesting to parents, by its well known editors, Marion Harland and Dr. Leroy M. Yale, and a corps of able contributors. Among the principal subjects are "The Precocious Baby," "Nursery Cookery," "The Care of Baby's Eyes," "Contagion in Throat Troubles," "Art in the Nursery," "Thoughts on Home Training," "The Diet of Nursing Mothers," "Systematic Weaning," "Autumn Styles for Baby's Wardrobe," etc. A letter from Vienna on Austrian baby matters in general, and another from an American mother in Japan, will be read with interest. [15 cents a number; $1.50 a year. 18 Spruce Street, New York.]

* * *

Education in California.—Mrs. W. E. Chamberlain, wife of Professor W. E. Chamberlain, principal of the celebrated Pacific Business College, San Francisco, Cal., writes that from personal experience she can heartily recommend Red Star Cough Cure to any one troubled with cough, cold or sore throat. It gave her relief at once.

An elegant new dining car, to be run on the "New England Limited" train between Boston and Willimantic, has just been completed at the N. Y. & N. E. car shop at Norwood. It is fitted with every convenience for which it was built. The management of the road evidently intends to maintain its reputation for providing the best of accommodations, and the appreciation of the travelling public is shown in the rapidly increasing through travel over this road.

When your blood is impoverished or corrupted, the remedy is at hand. Take Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

Now is the season when the romantic maiden hies away to the woods and brings home an apron-full of autumn leaves and an armful of briar scratches.

Carter's Little Liver Pills will positively cure sick headache and prevent its return. This is not talk, but truth. One pill a dose. To be had of all Druggists. See advertisement.

One of our exchanges, under the management of a "rural rooster" that ought to know all about potato harvest, says: "Potatoes should be dug as soon as the tops have fairly ripened and died down. They make little growth after that, and what they do make is at the expense of their eating quality. If the cellar is dark and cool they may be stored for winter use and will keep in much better condition there than remain undug in the ground. If the cellar is unfit to keep them in during the fall months they may be kept in a pit in the ground, taking care that the pit is so located as to be cool, and that no water can enter into it either from above or from the springs below."

W. P. B. Brooks & Co.,

151 Hanover St., Boston.

Furniture, Carpets,

STOVES, CROCKERY, SILVER WARE.

And Everything in the Line, on Easy Terms.

☞ Always the Best Place to Trade

W. P. B. Brooks. A. D. Damon, F. D. Sperry.

E. R. MORSE SAFE CO.

MANUFACTURER OF

FIRE & BURGLAR PROOF SAFES, VAULT DOORS, STEEL CHESTS, SILVER SAFES, EXPRESS SAFES, FIRE AND THIEF PROOF JEWEL BOXES.

76 & 78 SUDBURY STREET, BOSTON.

Second hand SAFES.

SAFES bought and sold.

SAFES opened and repaired.

SAFES exchanged.

SAFES moved.

Combination LOCKS put on to Old Safes.

E. R. MORSE SAFE CO
BOSTON

Our Safes have only a PATENT CONCEALED DIAL LOCK which is used as a day door and is a great protection in case of fire, as the dial cannot be melted or broken off.

E. R. MORSE.

Was established in business October 10th, 1844.

Store and Window Awnings,
Hammocks,
Boatsails and
Wagon Covers

Anton M. Liebsch

7 DERBY WHARF

SALEM.

BURDETT Business COLLEGE

167 TREMONT ST., BOSTON.

Day and Evening Sessions.

☞ Book-keeping, Business Arithmetic, Penmanship, Commercial Law, Business Correspondence, etc.

For complete information call at the College Office, or send for Journal.

y15—2m

READ

ABOUT

"All the wonderful and miraculous cures." "The unrivalled and peerless medicines." And note the following:—

DR. THOMAS' ECLECTRIC OIL has made the following cures, proof of which the proprietors can furnish on application.

Toothache....	in	5 Minutes
Earache.........	"	2 "
Backache.....	"	2 Hours
Lameness......	"	2 Days
Coughs..........	"	20 Minutes
Hoarseness...	"	1 Hour
Colds....	"	24 Hours
Sore Throat..	"	12 "
Deafness	"	2 Days
Pain of Burn..	"	5 Minutes
Pain of Scald.	"	5 "

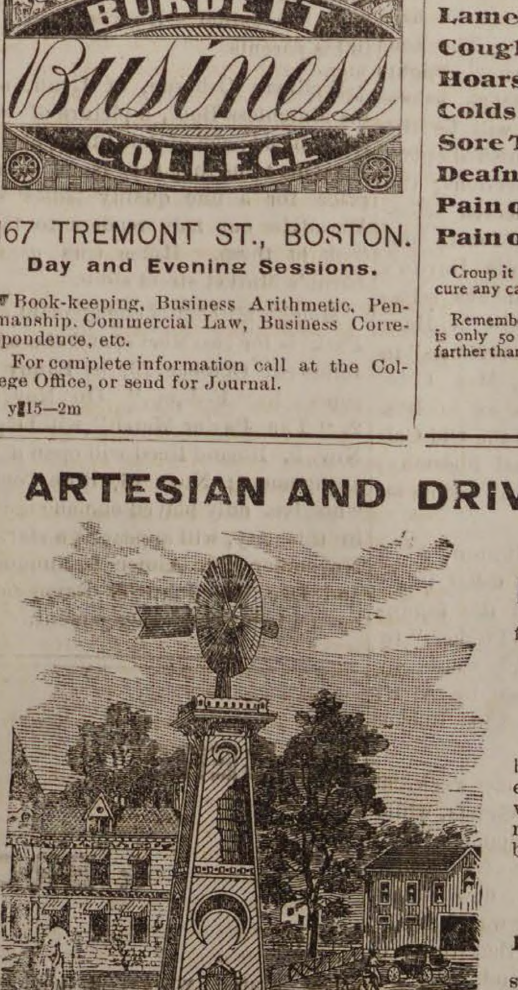
Croup it will ease in 5 minutes, and positively cure any case when used at the outset.

Remember that Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil is only 50 cents per bottle, and one bottle will go farther than half a dozen of an ordinary medicine.

ARTESIAN AND DRIVEN WELLS.



All of our

DRIVEN WELLS

for Domestic, Farm, or any other purpose well, receive prompt attention.

Thousands of these wells are being used in Tanneries, Breweries and other manufactories, where cool and better water is needed and also save water bills.

We are also prepared to

DRILL WELLS

six or eight inches in diameter through earth or rock, by steam power.

B. F. SMITH,

OFFICE,

266 WASHINGTON STREET,

Room 3, Boston

Cut showing the Driven Well flowing, pumped by Hand and Wind Power. Arranged with Set-Length, (anti-freezing), for Domestic, Farm and Irrigating purposes; where large amount of water is needed Steam Pumps are.

Conveyances.

BOSTON & MAINE RAILROAD On and after Monday, Oct. 11, 188 trains will run as follows,—

EASTERN DIVISION

Trains leave Peabody for Boston at 6 44, 7 25, 8 02, 8 31, 10 33, 11 07 A. M., 2 01, 3 37, 5 08, 6 46 P. M.
Boston for Peadody, 8, 10 55 A. M., 1 M., 3, 4, 4 40, 5 15, 6 P. M.

LEAVE SALEM FOR

Lynn and Boston at 5 37, 6, 6,30, 7, 7 14, 7 35, 7 48, 8 13, 8 30, 8 45, 8 55, 9 20, 9 55, 10 05, 10.48 A. M., 12 M., 12 30, 12 57, 1 30, 2 15, 3 35, 4 20, 4 33, 5 17, 5 48, 6 33, 6.50, 8. 8 55, 9, 9 55 P. M. Sundays, 5.37, 8 45, 11 40 A. M., 1 10, 3 05,5 40, 8 15, P. M.
Swampscott, 6, 6 30, 7 14, 7.48. 8 55, 10 05, 10 48 A. M. 12 M, 12 57, 2 15, 3 35, 4 33, 5 17, 5 48, 6 33, 6 50, 8, 9, 9 55, P. M. Sundays, 8 45, 11 40 A. M., 1 10, 3 05, 5 40, 8 15 P.M.
Beverly, 6 53, 7 56, 8 08, 10 42, 11 25 A. M., 12 M. 1 09, 2 20, 2 50, 3 52. 4 07, 5 15, 5 35 6 38, 7 05, 7 15, 10 05, P. M. Sundays 9 05 A. M.
Beverly Farms, Manchester and Gloucester—7 56, 11 25 A. M., 2 50, 4 07, 5 35, 7 05, 10 05 P. M
Essex, 8 08 A. M., 3 52, 6 38 P. M.
Ipswich, 6 53, 8 08 9 37, 10 42 A, M., 1 09, 2 20, 3 52, 5 15. 6 38. 7 15 P. M, Sundays 9 05 A. M., 7 30 P. M
Newburyport, 6 53, 8 08, 9 37, 10 42, A.M. 1 09, 2 20, 3 52. 5 15, 6 38, 7 15 P. M. Sundays 9 05 A. M., 7 30 P. M.
Amesbury, 8 08, 9 37, 10 42 A. M.. 1 09, 3 52, 5.15 7 15† P. M.
Portsmouth—8 08, 9 37, 10 42 A. M.. 1 09, 3 52, 5 15, 7 15† P. M. Sundays 9 05 A. M.. 7 30 P. M.
Dover, 8 08, A. M., 1 09, 3 52 P. M.
Great Falls and Rochester, 8 08, A. M., 3 52 P. M.
Wolfboro—8 08, A, M., 3 52 P. M.
North Conway—8 08, A M.,
Portland—8 08, 9 37 A M, 1 09, 7 15† P M. Sundays 7 30 P. M.
Augusta—9 37 A. M., 1 09, 7 15† P. M. Sundays 7 30 P. M.
Bangor—9 37 A. M., 7 15† P. M. Sundays 7 30 P.M.
St. John and Halifax, 9 37 A. M. 7 15† P. M. Sundays, 7 30 P. M.
Montreal, 9 37 A. M.

And FOR SALEM—from

Montreal—10 15 P. M.
St. John—8 30 P. M. (daily except Saturday).
Bangor, 7 15 A M., 7 45 P. M. Sundays 7 45 P. M.
Augusta, 6 15, 9 57 A. M., 2 58, 10 55 P. M. Sundays 10 55 P. M.
Portland—2, 9 A M, 1, 6 P M. Sundays, 2 A. M.
North Conway—7 05, A M,
Wolfboro— 8 15, A M, 2 45 P M.
Rochester—7 22, 9 42 A. M., 4 04, P. M.
Great Falls—7 38, 9 55 A. M, 4 18, P. M.
Dover—6 45, 10 25 A. M., 4 25 6 55 P. M.
Portsmouth—4 05, 7 15, 8 20, 10 50 A M, 3 05, 5, 7 40 P M. Sundays, 4 05 A. M, 4 P. M.
Amesbury—5 58, 6 40, 7 08, 8 38, 11 13 A. M, 3 10, 5 15, P. M.
Newburyport—4 45, 6 30, 7, 7 55, 8 10. 9 02, 11 36 A M. 3 40, 3 45, 5 40, 8 15 P. M. Sundays, 4 45 A. M., 4 45 P. M.
Ipswich—5 07, 6 48, 7 17, 8 10, 8 28, 9 23, 11 59 A. M., 4 03, 6 02, 8 32 P. M. Sundays 5 07 A. M., 5 06 P. M.
Essex—7, 11 45 A. M, 5 40 P. M.
Rockport 6 05, 7 20, 8 30, 10 A. M., 1 20, 5, 9 P. M. Sundays—7 50 A. M.
Gloucester—6 15, 7 28, 8 39, 10 08 A M, 1 30, 5 08, 9 09 P M. Sundays—8 A. M.
Manchester—6 30, 7 43, 8 53, 10 21 A. M., 1 45, 5 22, 9 23 P. M. Sundays, 8 14 A. M.
Beverly—6 50, 7 05, 7 40, 8 05, 8 48, 9 11, 9 45, 10 40 A. M., 12 20, 12 50, 2 05, 4 24, 5 40, 6 25, 9 43, P. M. Sundays 8 35 A. M. 5 30 P. M.
Swampscott,—6 44, 7 48, 8 50, 9 07, 10 34, 11 52, A. M., 12 36, 2 13, 3 31, 4 31, 4 56, 6 20, 6 56, 8 26, 9 56, 10 49, 11 49 P. M. Sundays 8 56, 11 17 A.M., 1 57, 5 47, 10 07 P. M.
Lynn—6 40. 7 45. 7 57. 8 46. 9 02, 9 25, 10 30, 11 13, 11 47, A. M., 12 33, 12 58. 2 10, 2 40, 3 26, 3 41, 3 57, 4 28, 4 52, 5 04, 5 24, 5 45. 6 16, 6 26. 6 52, 7 05, 7 35, 8 22, 9 52, 10 45, 11 45 P. M. Sundays 8 52, 11 12 A. M., 1 52, 5 42. 7 22, 10 02, P. M.
Boston—6 10, 7 15, 7 30, 8*, 8 30, 9, 10. 10 45, 11 15, A. M. 12 M, 12 30, 1 40, 2 15, 2 55, 3 15, 3 30, 4, 4 20, 4 40, 5, 5 15, 5 40, 6, 6 20, 6 40, 7 10, 7 50, 9 20, 10 15, 11 15 P M. Sundays, 8 20, 10 40 A. M, 1 20, 5 10, 7, 9 30 P. M.

*Via Saugus Branch.
†Change at Newburyport.

MARBLEHEAD BRANCH

Salem for Marblehead—6 50, 7 55, 8 40, 9 30 A M, 1 10, 2 30, 4 20, 5 15, 6, 7 20 P M.
Marblehead for Salem—6 30, 7 30, 8 15, 9 10, 10 15 A M, 2 3 30, 4 51, 5 40, 6 20 P M.

SOUTH READING BRANCH

Trains leave the South Reading Depot in Salem for Boston, 7 25, 9 05 A. M., 1 40, 4 35 P. M.
Boston for Salem—7 40, 11 30 A M, 3 10, 5 15 P. M.
Wakefield for Salem—8 13 A M, 12 05, 43, 5 48 P M.
Lynnfield for Salem—8 27 A M, 12 17, 3 53, 5 58 P M.
Peabody for Salem—8 38 A M, 12 27, 4 02, 6 07 P M.

LAWRENCE BRANCH.

Salem for Lowell 7 A M., 4 43, 6 02 P. M.
Salem for Lawrence—7 00, 11 32 A M, 4 43, 6 02 P M.
Salem for Middleton—6 15, 7, 8 58, 11 35 A M, 3 40, 4 43, 6 02 P M.
Salem for Danvers—6 15, 7, 7 28, 8 58, 11 32 A M, 12 47, 3 40, 4 43, 5 20, 6 02, 6 42 P M.
Lowell for Salem—7 10, 9 45 A. M., 12 15, 5 15 P. M
Lawrence for Salem—7 40, 9 45 A M, 1. 5 50 P M.
Middleton for Salem—7, 8 09, 10 10, 10 45 A M, 1 35, 4 45, 6 22, P M.
Danvers for Salem—6 37, 7 15, 7 50, 8 23, 10 25, 11 A. M. 1 50, 3 20, 5, 5 50, 6 35, P M.
Peabody for Salem—6 44, 7 25, 8 02, 8 33, 10 33, 11 07 A M, 2 01, 3 27, 5 08, 5 58, 6 42 P M.

JAMES T FURBER, General Manager.
Boston Je. 28, 1885.

NEW YORK & NEW ENGLAND RAILROAD.

Shorter by twenty miles than any other Line between Boston and New York.

Now a Double Track Road to a Connection with the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad, West of Willimantic.

LEAVE BOSTON.

8.30 A M. *DAY EXPRESS TRAIN for New York (via Middletown and New Haven); Pullman Cars Boston to New York. A part of this train runs through to Hartford, New Britain Waterbury, Danbury and Fishkill.

3.00 P. M. †NEW ENGLAND LIMITED for New York (via Air Line Route) running 86 miles without a stop. Due Grand Central Depot, New York, at 9.00 P. M. Connects week days at Willimantic with train for Hartford, New Britain and Waterbury.

3.30 P. M. *AFTERNOON MAIL for New York, (via Middletown and New Haven), due New York 11.25 P. M. A part of this train runs through to Hartford, New Britain and Bristol.

6.30 P. M. †PHILADELPHIA EXPRESS for Hartford, New Haven, Jersey City, Trenton, Philadelphia, Baltimore and Washington, connecting for Richmond and points South. Through Pullman cars to Washington.

6.30 P. M. *NORWICH LINE EXPRESS for New York, New London, Norwich, Danielsonville and Putnam. Train connects at New London with Steamer City of Worcester, or City of Boston.

Seats in Parlor Cars, Berths in Pullman Cars, State-rooms on Steamers, Tickets and information obtained at Office, 322 Washington St, or Depot, foot of Summer St.

BOSTON.
A. C. KENDALL, Gen'l Pass. Agt.

BOSTON, REVERE BEACH & LYNN R.R. Fall & Winter Time-Table.

June, 15, 1885.

Leave Boston at 6.50, 7.30, 8, 8.30, 9, 10, 11 A.M. 12 M.; 1, 2, 3, 3.30, 4, 4.30, 5, 5.30, 6, §6.30, 7.30, 9.30, 11.15 P. M.
Leave Lynn at §6.10, 6.50, 7, 7.30, 8. 8.30, 9, 10, 11, A.M. 12 M.; 1, 2, 2.45, 3.15, 3.45, 4.15, 4.45, 5,15, 5.45, 6.30 8.45, 10.15, P. M.

SUNDAY TRAINS.

Leave Boston at 10, 11 A. M.; 12 M.; 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8. 9, 10, P. M.
Leave Lynn at 9, 10, 11 A. M.; 12 M.; 1. 2, 3, 4, 5 6, 7, 8, 9.15 P. M.

§Workingmen's train.

JOHN A. FENNO, G. T. A.
C. A. HAMMOND, Supt

CALL AT THIS OFFICE FOR FINE JOB PRINTING. Specimens given

Fall Room Papers.

We have just received a fine assortment of new

FALL WALL PAPERS AND FRIEZES,

which we shall sell at very low prices.

An inspection is asked.

Goods delivered free.

MERRILL & MACKINTIRE,

216 & 220 ESSEX STREET

SALEM.

New Toy Store,

—IN SALEM.—

We have opened a new

TOY DEPARTMENT

in the store, 216 Essex Street, next to our main store, where we shall keep a first class line of the best toys at our usual low prices.

☞ Call and see us.

MERRILL & MACKINTIRE.

216 & 220 ESSEX ST.,

SALEM.

Conquer Thyself.

BY JOHN ASKHAM.

'Tis a good thing sometimes to be alone,
Sit calmly down and look Self in the face,
Ransack the heart, search every secret place,
Prayerful uproot the baneful seeds there sown,
Pluck out the weeds ere the full crop is sown,
Gird up the loins afresh to run the race,
Foster all noble thoughts, cast out the base,
Thrust forth the bad and make the good thine own
Who has the courage thus to look within,
Keep faithful watch and ward with inner eyes;
The foe may harass, but can ne'er surprise
Or over him ignoble conquest win.
O! doubt it not, if thou would'st wear a crown,
Self, baser self, must first be trampled down.

* * *

The case of Mary Lynch vs the town of Peabody, an action of tort to recover damages for alleged personal injuries received by falling over the stump of a tree on Midway street in May 1884, which was being considered by the jury when we went to press last week, resulted in awarding the plaintiff $100. She sued for $2000. Henry Wardwell Esq. for the town and H. P. Moulton Esq., for the plaintiff.

The reports in the Boston dailies concerning the construction of a new naval boat called the Mohican, brings to mind the experience of a number of our citizens on the old boat of that name at the time of the rebellion. In the opinion of many the old Mohican never sunk as reported, but was rebuilt at the cost of a new vessel, and that it is one of those jobs that are put up on the government.

The corrected time table of the Eastern Division of the Boston & Maine R. R. will be found in another column. The changes of importance to Peabody people are that the afternoon train to Salem and Boston leaves here at 3.27 instead of 3.37, and the down train from Lawrence at night should arrive here at 6.42 instead of 6.48. There is a difference of one or two minutes on some of the other trains, but in each case later, so that no one need miss the trains.

